and comfort our selves if we have found the like, as face answering to face in Water. For David was a grown Christian before; and yet this great and second work upon him (greater than his first) rose up but to such dispositions as these. For Gods second Works always exceeded the former, and in all he is made a pattern of a Man after Gods Heart. 2. This having been every way as a new Conversion to him, Look what was the most natural disposition and motion of Spirit in him, the same (in their proportion) is in others converted to God. Now in David you see the very first bud that puts forth in this fresh Spring (for he had been as a Tree in Winter) is seeking to Convert others. And he being further a Prophet, and endowed with abilities to teach (as also Solomon his Son after him) this gracious Disposition, the spring of which is common to him and all other Converts, the stream of it seeks vent, and most gladly and greedily runs out into this Channel of teaching others to convert them; whereunto he had the advantage by his Gifts and Calling. Chap. 7

The Text hath Three Parts:

1*st*, A Gracious Disposition and Resolution of Spirit, flowing from Conversion, to convert others to God.

2*d*, The most proper means to effect it, teaching Men Gods ways.

3*d*, The promise of Success, and they shall be converted.

From the First, The Observation is, That in every truly converted Soul to God, this is one of the most Natural and Genuine Dispositions and Desires (according to its ability and opportunity) to Convert and win others to God.

The second Observation is, That teaching Men, and teaching them the ways and dealings of God with Souls, in converting of them, or in recovering them fallen, is the most effectual way sanctified by God to effect conversion.

For the Third, And they shall be Converted unto thee. Observe, That God more especially useth and blesseth the Endeavours of such as himself hath already converted, to turn others to God.

Fourthly, That he useth such, notwithstanding their falls and and corruptions, David still promiseth to himself, that God would yet use him and succeed his Endeavours, and bless his Example, yea, and perhaps more than ever afore.

For the First, I shall handle it as it is a common Disposition in the Hearts of all Men converted, and even all having some Ability and Opportunity of doing good to some or other they converse with this way, though according to proportion of Tallents, Calling, Opportunities, in Men set apart to the Ministry of the Word this is chiefly incumbent upon them.

Now for the Proof of how great and strong a disposition in the Heart of a Saint this is, I give that Scripture, 1 Tim. 4. 16. For in doing this, thou shalt save thy self, and them that hear thee.

These Words have Two Parts. 1. A Summary of the Instructions given afore, Take heed to thy self, and thy personal Conversation. Aand 2. To thy Doctrine, or Preaching; for I take it by a Metonymy, that is it he intends. And this is the Epitome of all afore, v. 12, 13. &c. Together with an exhortation to persevere in doing both. 2. The Motives hereto, the greatest that can be. 1. Thou shalt save thy self 2. Those that hear thee. Now though the gift of Preaching was not common; yet these motions are but such as are common to all Saints, and upon these common motions doth Paul work upon Timothy's Heart, and no other, to diligence herein. Salvation of a Mans self, is Suprema Lex, in nature. The Salvation of others is the Supream Law in the New Creature. Therefore Two greater Motives cannot be spoken. First for saving a Man's self; If it were alone the privative part of Salvation, that is, to be saved and delivered from the Misery Sin deserves; all in Nature would put a Man to chuse it. If a Man were in danger of being drowned, and had a Crown thrown him, with a Title annexed to it, of being King of all the World,

Book 10 and at the ſame time throw him but a poor Rope or Cord, he will lay hold on the Rope, and let go the Crown; becauſe that it will (tho but) ſave him. So ſhalt thou ſave thy ſelf. And to ſave others, is the ſupreameſt Law in the New Creature. The Title of being a Saviour did toll and woo Chriſt down from Heaven to Earth. And the Name Jeſus, or Saviour, is the higheſt Name in Heaven or Earth: And this Title, by diſcharging thy Duty faithfully, ſhalt thou partake with him in; thou ſhalt have both the Name and Reward of being a Saviour to others inſtrumentally: And Chriſt himſelf could have no greater. Paul's Inſtance argues the deſire hereof one of the ſupreameſt Laws in the New Creature. Rom. 9. 1, 2, 3. I ſay the truth in Chriſt, I lie not, my Conſcience alſo bearing me witneſs in the Holy Ghoſt, That I have great Heavineſs and continual Sorrow in my Heart: For I could wiſh that my ſelf were accurſed from Chriſt for my Brethren, my Kinſmen, according to the Fleſh. For both Love to God, and Love to others, do, in the fulleſt Stream and Channel meet in this. It was the ſalvation of ſuch a Bulk of Mankind, in whom Gods Name was intereſted, as were the Jews; and the continuance of the Goſpel to them in future Ages, for their Salvation, that he here preferrs to his own Salvation. He wiſheth himſelf accurſed from Chriſt; and becauſe, to have the New Creature wound up to ſo high a Note, without cracking and breaking Nature it ſelf, that the Prerogative Law thereof ſhould ſo prevail and over-rule the ſupream Law of Nature it ſelf, would (as he knew) be a wonder, and incredible to the moſt of Chriſtians: He therefore makes the ſolemneſt proteſtation that this was real in his Heart, that ever was made by man. 1. I ſpeak the Truth. 2. I lie not. 3. My Conſcience bearing me witneſs. 4. And that That deceives him not, He calls in Chriſt and the Holy Ghoſt as Witneſſes of it. If ever Paul ſpake Truth, he ſpake Truth now; and what was it he utters? I could wiſh my ſelf accurſed from Chriſt. What, Paul! Think what thou ſayſt, accurſed from Chriſt! We will give thee leave to be in Sorrow and Heavineſs, for ſo are we, when we ſee men go to Hell: But to be accurſed from Chriſt, and that Paul ſhould ſay it! You find him in all his Epiſtles breathing more after Chriſt, than in the Acts you read he had ever breathed forth Threatnings againſt his Church. What from Chriſt! To me to live is Chriſt, to die is Gain, ſays he, Phil. 1. And again, Chap. 3. 8. Doubtleſs (there is no demur upon it) I account all things but Loſs, for the Excellency of the Knowledge of Chriſt Jeſus my Lord: For whom I have ſuffered the loſs of all things, and do count them but Dung, that I may win Chriſt. What and part with Chriſt! Yea, be accurſed from Chriſt! His meaning is not, I wiſh the Condition of the Damned, in reſpect of Deſpair, Revenge, Blaſphemy, &c. that had been a ſin to wiſh; but look what ſtate towards God, Chriſt himſelf was in, in ſeparation from God, and ſenſe of wrath, when he was made a Curſe to ſave me; that Condition ſaies he I could be content to be in, having thoſe exerciſes of ſuch Graces, Submiſſion to Gods Will, which Chriſt then alſo had. Well but Paul, think out, and think out again; why ſays Paul, I have, I ſpeak the Truth, I ſpeak the Truth again; He ſeconds it with, I lie not. Well but Paul, let that be granted, which yet perhaps ſome of us could do; to ſubmit to it, if God would ſay it were his Pleaſure, That if we would be accurſed, ſuch and ſuch ſhould be ſaved: No, ſays Paul, that is not all, I find I could heartily wiſh it; to chooſe it ſhould be my option. The higheſt Inſtance, that ever I have heard of any other, was on the contrary: A tender Mother, that had prayed long for her Son, once was brought to this, to think that ſhe ſhould rejoyce one day in his Damnation, and it converted him. But ſtill Paul's is higher, he ſaies I would follow Chriſt, and Chriſt was made a Curſe from God for me; and I would imitate him, and do the like for others. It was well he ſpake this in Chriſt, as a New Creature, created in Chriſt Jeſus. I am aſſured the firſt Creature, the Image of God in Adam, would not have been drawn up ſo high. The Spirit of Elixar would have crack'd his Earthen Veſſel: That Earthly man, as the Apoſtle calls him, 1 Cor. 15. 'Tis a Note beyond his Elah. And the truth is, take all the Maſs of other Chriſtians: God would but by this one Inſtance of Paul's ſhew what is in the Root, and may be extracted tracted out of the New Creature, which is in them all; but Paul alone herein followed Christ. The highest Note of the New Creature, but far below this, (as it was also of another kind) was that of a Godly tender Hearted Mother who having prayed long, as Monica for Austin, for a debauched Son, and seeing no fruit of her Prayers, but the contrary in the highest, at last was by God brought unto this, that if God for his own Glory would rather Damn him, than save him, her Heart was put into that disposition it should be in at the Day of Judgement: To think that she should one day rejoice to see him Damned, even him whom she loved so dearly, and had prayed so much for. And the Relating of this Speech to her Son, when he was in the height of his Rebellion, broke his Heart and turn'd him. But still Paul's here exceeds hers and all others else. Yea, here when he speaks of Timothy, then whom he found none other like minded in naturally taking care of the Souls of others, Phil. 2. 20. he winds not Timothy up so high as himself was wound up, and the New Creature would bear. He prefers this Motive of Self, and puts it first; So shalt thou save thy Self, only next unto it adds, And those that hear thee. So as this we may gain warrantably from it, as suiting the Spirit and disposition of every Man Regenerate, especially Ministers, that next to saving themselves, the Conversion and Salvation of others, is the greatest and Noblest Argument that can be used. Chap. 7.

I shall give you the Reasons of it: The common Foundation of which lies in this. That Grace which is a New Divine Nature, partakes of it (as the Nature of all things doth with those of a like Kind) in some Analogy with it.

Now 1. It is the natural Property of every good thing to diffuse and communicate it self, and as it excells in goodness, so it exceeds in that desire. God, who is Goodness and Blessedness it self, hath delighted himself from all Eternity, to think of his communicating his Blessedness to some of his Creatures, whom himself would set himself to Love. His Delights were with the Sons of Men, Prov. 8. and Exod. 33. 19. I will make all my Goodness pass before thee, and will be Gracious to whom I will be Gracious. He would not enjoy his Happiness alone, but have his Creatures the better for him. And the inferiour Creatures that partake of a Portion of Goodness from him, partake therewith of the like Property, Fire to diffuse its Heat; the Sun its Light. Now Grace in the Souls of Men is in that manner the image of Gods Goodness, Love, Grace, Mercy, &c. that the common goodness in the Creatures is not. And therefore answerably to the measure of its excelling them, it must needs excel in this, wherein a Man comes neerest unto God, which, as the Heathen Cicero said, is nothing more than in doing good to others. Yea, and we find in Scripture the New Creature compared unto all things that are diffusive of themselves, as partaking with them in this, which is the common property. Thus it is compared to Fire, one Coal that hath Fire in it, enkindles another. And every Man is either a Dead or Living Coal. Thy Word, says Jeremy, it was a Fire in my Bones, and I could not stay, Chap. 20. 9. It is also compared to Light in a Room, or set upon an Hill, to give light to all in it: To precious Oyntment, which as that of Mary's did, diffuseth its Odour to the whole Room.

2. It is the nature of every thing begotten by another, to beget and propagate another of the same. Tis the vehementest and strongest desire in Nature. Opus naturalissimum implanted as instinct by Vertue of that Law and Command given forth by God, Gen. 1. 22. Be fruitful and multiply, according to their kind. The Angels were not ordained to beget in their kind, for they give not in Marriage; but of all Creatures that are, to multiply in their kind, the more excellent the kind is, the stronger is the inclination. Now the Saints are a Royal Generation, 1 Pet. 2. The first fruits of Gods Creation, as being begotten of God; James 1. 18. Of his own Will begat he us with the Word of Truth, that we should be a kind of first fruits of his Creatures. Every one that is born of Book 10 God, hath the seed of God in him; that is a Divine Nature, Joh. 1 Ep. 3. Chap. v. 9. and the Holy Ghost is also in that New Nature to provoke him hereunto. Yea, and therefore it is in them from the first, which is not in other Creatures. As soon as Paul was Converted, he consulted not with Flesh and Blood, but went to preach the Gospel, Gal. 1. 16. and this is proper to Men truly Converted.

3. Grace hath besides these properties, common to it with other Creatures, a transcendant Elevation of it to the Glory of God. Hallowed be thy Name, is the first Petition the Heart is taught to fall upon in the Lords-Prayer; And thy Kingdom come, is the next. Now it is Christs coming into the Hearts of Men is the foundation of all his Kingdom, for it brings in willing Subjects, when many Men are Converted unto Christ, in so many Mens Hearts, is the Glory of God set up as their cheifest end, and they are Vessels and Instruments of his Glory to all Eternity. The Glory of a King consists in the multitude of his Subjects, Prov. 14. 28. Now Christ is King of Saints, Rev. 15. and in the Multitude of them lies his Honour.

4. In the Regenerate there is Love to Christ and pity to the Souls of others. I join them both together for God himself hath joyned them together in our Salvation. And 2 Cor. 5. 11, and 14. verses. Paul joineth them together as motives to him to perswade Men to turn to God, v. 11. Knowing therefore the Terrour of the Lord, that is, what an infinite Treasure of Wrath is laid up for Men that dye in their sins, we cannot but tell and perswade Men, as Lot did his Kindred, to come out of Sodom. We perswade Men, ver. 14. for the Love of Christ constrains us. And this was a motive over and above the necessity of his Office. And he farther instructs others, Col. 3. 12. Put on, as the Elect of God, Bowels of Mercy. Now to the Elect of God, wherein are the Bowels of Gods Mercy shewn? In Mercy, delivering them from the greatest Misery, and that is the saving Men from Sin, and Wrath, and Hell: Christs Love lay in this: Answerably, you that have received Mercy from God, wherein is your Mercy to be shewn most towards others? In endeavouring to pull them out of Hell, and save them from Wrath to come, Christ in Mat. 5. enumerates the most inward dispositions of Converted Souls, and perhaps in order as they are wrought. He reckons up these two near one another, v. 7. Blessed are the Merciful, and v. 9. Blessed are the Peace-makers, that is, who out of a sense of Mercy, or seeing their need of it, do seek it at Gods hands for themselves; and laying to Heart the danger and misery others are in, endeavour to make Peace between an offended God and them, or seeing the terrour of the Lord perswade Men, as you heard Paul speaking his own disposition of Spirit. In like manner speak's Jude 22, 23. of some have compassion, making a difference, and others save with fear pulling them out of the Fire. The allusion seems to be to ones seeing poor Children, or impotent Creatures falling into the Fire, out of which they have no Heart or Power to deliver themselves. And it is an out-cry in such a Case. If you have any Compassion in you. Oh save them, and with Fear, as knowing the Terrour of the Lord: For fear lest ere you could perswade them, the wrath of God should seize upon 'em. And it is such an Exclamation as would be in a Family or Room, wherein one in a Lethargy or falling sickness is cast into the Fire; in which Case Men leave all Business, as of lesser moment, and run speedily to pull out such, and this Word pull them out of the Fire, imports Violence, as Christ said, Compel them to come in, so snatch them out by strong hands. Alas, they, poor Creatures are asleep and feel nothing; yea, they struggle against it, therefore pluck them out. My Brethren, the Terror of God is such as even those that are in Hell (as Luk. 16.) have so much compassion in them as to desire their Friends may not come thither: How much more should this work in your Hearts (that have tasted of the Mercies of God your selves, that are escaped through that Mercy) a compassion to the Souls of others.

I might add 5*thly*, out of Jude what follows in these words, hating the Garment spotted with the Flesh, that is, if no more should move you, let this, viz. the destruction of what you hate. You that love the Lord hate Evil, and if you do, seek to destroy it in those you love.

Uſe 1. Obſerve whether out of ſuch Principles as theſe in thy Soul, thou haſt found this ſo truly Noble, Genenerous, and natural Diſpoſition in thee. Is this thy aim, thy ſet deſire and endeavour? Haſt thou not only a Spirit enclining, but alſo provoking thee unto it, out of a Bleeding Heart, over other mens Conditions? Is it the very delight of thy Soul to have any opportunity of doing good this way, when thou ſeeſt any hopefulneſs or comingneſs in any? Doſt thou feel thy Soul rejoice as much, or more than in the addition of perſonal Comforts to thee? This was meat and drink to Chriſt, John the 4*th*. When he found a poor woman at Samaria, who began to liſten to his Doctrine, He ſays, it was meat and drink to him to do this Will of his Father in this particular, John 4. 32, 34. 'Tis ſpoken upon that occaſion, for this he afterwards owns to be the eminent will and command of his Father, to bring in thoſe he had given him; ſo John 6. 37, 38, 39. And Paul, who followed Chriſt, became all to all; he would ſtoop to any thing, and that to win but ſome. You ſee, Acts 26. When he was at the Bar, and his particular Intereſt was to plead for his Life; he minds it not, but falls a perſwading Agrippa, before whom he appears, and his Courtiers, to turn to God; and when he was ſomewhat ſtirred and perſwaded half way, and ſaid, Thou haſt perſwaded me almoſt to be a Chriſtian. What do you ſpeak of, it only as almoſt ſays Paul? And what of your ſelf alone? Though he had caught the great Fiſh, a King, yet it was not the ſaving of a Kings Soul contented him; his deſires were Larger. I wiſh, (ſayshe) not only that thou, but all that hear me, were not almoſt, but altogether as I am, excepting theſe Bonds. The truth and ſtrength of this deſire is one of the moſt ſure and certain ſigns of Regeneration, and being Begotten again, of any other. For beſides that it is certain that Satans Kingdom is not divided againſt it ſelf, nor can Heartily deſire the ruin of it ſelf, and Members of a Body uſe to defend one another; and men may be zealous to convert men to ticular opinions: It is more certaine that to make Diſciples, and bring men throughly to Chriſt, to parturn from all ſin, to glorifie God, and delight in doing this, and ſeeing it done, as in their own Salvation is the diſtinguiſhing chatacter of a Son of God. Mat. 5. 9. Bleſſed are the Peace-makers, for they ſhall be called the Children of God. This is proper to one Begotten. The ſpurious ſpawn of Profeſſors hatched out of ſelf-love, are not acquainted with ſuch vehement deſires, that yearning of Bowels, that pity to mens Eſtates; tis not the ultimate end and ſcope of their ſpeeches or profeſſion. Grace ſhews it ſelf ſtrongeſt in this, and that more early than in other diſpoſitions. Commonly as ſoon as a Believer comes into the new World himſelf, and as one affrighted out of his Natural Condition, is brought into this marvelous Light and is environed about with it, he hath all things new in his ſight, and apprehends, with an edge of affection, the danger of his former Condition, and Gods free Grace reach'd forth to pull him out: And the light of theſe things is freſh, ſtrong, and vigorous in him: And ſees and wonders how all about him, are running headlong towards Hell. If he caſts, but though meekly in Speech, but a word to ſtop any one: Yet with a ſtrong apprehenſion doth he ſpeak it; and thinks that things that are ſo clear to him, and move himſelf ſo much, ſhould alſo move others, and wonders if they do not. He thinks, ſure he ſhould convert the whole World, if he had but the opportunity of ſpeaking with them. The early buddings of this you ſee in Philip towards Nathaniel, John 1. 45. and Chap. 4. in that woman of Samaria towards that whole City. So in Paul, who conſulted not with Fleſh and Blood, but fell a preaching preſently.

The 2*d*. Uſe is of Exhortation to all that profeſs themſelves born again; that in their capacity and opportunity they would ſet upon this work, eſpecially where there is a heap of living Coals in a Society together. This Exhortation is not to Miniſters only, but to you all, young, as well as thoſe of riper years. Oh ſee, if poſſible, that none of you appear at the day of Judgment afore God, without bringing ſome Benjamin or other with you. The Apoſtle perſwades a poor believing Wife to dwell with, and co-habit with an unbeliev-

Book 10 ing, churliſh Nabal; and to bear all the Burdens of ſo unequal a Yoke even with the hope of ſo great a conſequent, if it ſo fall out, 1 Cor. 7. 16. For what knoweſt thou, O Wife, whether thou ſhalt ſave thy Husband? Or how knoweſt thou, O Man, whether thou ſhalt ſave thy Wife? It is a great encouragement, in James the 6th and the two laſt verſes, Brethren, if any of you do err from the Truth, and one convert him; Let him know, that he which converteth the Sinner from the Errour of his way, ſhall ſave a Soul from Death, and ſhall hide a multitude of ſins. And it is ſpoken not to Miniſters only, but to private Chriſtians; even to Brethren in common. And his Motives are ſtrong. 1. That he ſhall ſave a Soul from Death, which alſo Paul uſeth to Timothy, 1 Tim. 4. 18. If a Man had a mortal Diſeaſe, and a Word of thy mouth would ſave him, what tender Heart would not effect it? He will owe himſelf to Thee, as Paul ſpeaks of Oneſimus. And 2. He covers a multitude of ſins. Gets Gods Book croſſ'd of Debts, contracted from the beginning of his days: And what a great matter is that, and yet unto that end, thou mayſt win others to God, and God may bleſs and ſucceed thee.

1. Be holy in all manner of Converſation. Elſe as Lot's Kindred thought of his Speeches, men will think thou art not in earneſt. A Dart thrown, receives its force from the ſtrength of the Arm that throws it. 1 Pet. 3. 1, 2. He exhorteth Wives to expreſs an holy Chaſtity in converſe with their Husbands, that they may be won thereby. Likewiſe, ye Wives, be in ſubjection to your own Husbands, that if any obey not the Word, they alſo may without the Word be won by the Converſation of the Wives, whilſt they behold your chaſte Converſation coupled with Fear. Chaſtity is but a moral Vertue, as is alſo that Fear or Reverence Wives are to expreſs towards their Husbands: Yet it may be held forth and managed with ſuch a Spirit of Holineſs, as may convey and dart into their Conſciences Beams of the Image of God, and enkindle the ſame into their Hearts it ſhines into. Walk in Light, that is, according to the Spiritual Light, God hath given thee; and hold forth that Light in the midſt of a froward and crooked Generation, Phil. 2. 15. Shew other ends in common actions than other men do.

2. Be fruitful in Conference dropping good and holy Speeches, Prov. 11. 30. The Fruit of the Righteous is a Tree of Life. Such as the Fruit that grew on the Tree of Life that grew in Paradiſe, of which God ſaid, after man was fallen, leaſt he eat it and live for ever. If you had a Tree had ſuch Fruit grew on it as would reſtore dead men to Life, how would you prize and value that Tree, and the fruit of it, and the more it bare, the more would you eſteem it? Such are the Lips of a righteous man in order to Converſion. So it follows: He that winneth Souls, is wiſe. And tho' thou ſeeſt not a preſent effect of it, yet wait. The Kingdom of God is as a Sower that went out to ſow, and the ſeed grew up from Blade to Ear he knew how. A man little thinks what God doth with occaſional Speeches, and to what uſe he puts them, both for Conviction and Converſion. A man hears of them, as of Bread ſown on the Waters, many days after. You may have heard of a Crow flying to let fall an Aſh-key, which hath afterwards proveda Tree: Yet wait, and ſee how thy ſowing good ſeed doth take and thrive, as one doth a Plant or Seed ſown in a Garden; how often do they viſit it, water it, and ſee how it thrives? The Husbandman waits, ſays James, Chap. 8. v. 5, 7. for the pretious Seed its coming up; and loſeth the ſight of it when a Winter, and cold Froſts nip it; yet he waits for its pretious Seed, more pretious than all the Gold and Silver Mines or Rocks of Diamonds in the World: For Mankind could not live on them; but if the Seed Corn ſhould fail to come up, an univerſal Famine would be on the World. Now every holy Truth and gracious Speech, is much more pretious than Seed Corn, and proves a Plant that ſhall never be rooted up, but grows up to Eternal Life. Yea, if men oppoſe, yet ſtill wait: So you are directed, 2 Tim. 2. 25. Inſtruct thoſe that oppoſe themſelves, if peradventure God will give them repentance. Oppoſition is often a ſign that the Pill works. And ſuppoſe thou never ſhouldeſt convert them (as the Apoſtle gives not a certainty, only a what knoweſt thou? 1 Cor. 7. 16. a peradventure venture) yet know that as thou prayest for them, so thy instructions unto them shall return in Grace into thine own Bosom, as Mat. 10. their Peace is said to do: And thou wilt Glorifie God in the day of their visitation. Chap. 7.

USE 3. You that are young Students, and God hath turn'd your Hearts unto him; you have, in this Doctrine, a Foundation laid of the greatest encouragement to the work of the Ministry. For if to endeavour to convert Souls be the most natural and pleasant work to the New Creature, and the noblest endowment in you, and this suited even to the very essential constitution of it, then to have this work to be your very Calling, and a proper work of the Ministry which you are set apart thereby unto, must needs render it most acceptable and comfortable to you. For you see, that Parents use to observe what callings the natural genius of their Children inclines unto, and when they set them in that which is most suitable thereto, they do therein work with pleasantness, and prove eminent in it. Now as your Education helps to fit you with abilities, so your Conversion and the Impetus of the new Creature, you see carries your Heart this way. David, though a King, yet having the Spirit of teaching, dedicates much of his time and pains this way; and makes a vow of it, yea, the first-born of his vows upon this so eminent a Conversion. Whilst others are exercised in this World to get and heap up great Estates, in killing men, overturning Nations, and perhaps doing what they knew not, whether acceptable or not: You have the best, the surest, the comfortablest, the honourablest Trades of winning Souls, and may heap up Souls, bring in great riches and treasure to Christ, and a greater account to your own Souls: Though in the World you may have contempt, and it is fit it should be so, for 'tis mercy enough to be a Minister.

Observ. 2. That teaching Gods ways, and gracious dealings with men in converting and recovering sinners, is specially sanctified by God.

1. By Gods ways sometimes all his works ad extra are meant. So Prov. 8. In the beginning of thy ways. So Behemoth is the chief of Gods ways, but here the ways revealed by the Word are meant. And therein 1. In a more large sense, all the Laws and Statutes he hath commanded men to walk in. So often and usually, Deut. 8. 6. and 10. 12.

2. The right way of true Religion, and how a Soul shall be saved, is call'd a way, and Gods way, Acts 19. 23. And the way of God, Acts 18. 26. The Way of Righteousness, 1 Pet. 2. 21.

3. Sometimes more strictly, the ways of Gods dealings with, or wooing Sinners to himself. (As Solomon calls the woolings of a Lover, gaining the Heart of his Beloved, The way of a Man with a Maid.) Thus here, for David refers to those experiments of Gods Grace, which his Soul had, and should get by Gods recovering him again, and converting him a-new, which he would lay open to others, even all his gracious dealings to his. Psal. 10. All his paths are mercy and truth towards his. Thus the mercies of God in justifying and pardoning Sinners, God termeth his ways. Isa. 55. 6, 7, 8, 9. Seek the Lord while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near. Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts, and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him, and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon. For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord. For as the Heavens are higher than the Earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts.

4. The new Birth and Obedience that follows upon it, is the narrow Gate, and the way that leads to Life. Mat. 7. 14. Isa. 35. 8. an high way, a way, and a way of Holiness.

5. And the Israelites are said to have erred in their Hearts, and not to have known his ways: Where by ways, he means what was more eminently the object of saving Faith, for Heb. 3. where this is cited, it is interpreted of Unbelief; v. 10. 12. and 19. compared.

Christ

BOOK 10 Chriſt ſpeaking of himſelf ſays I am the way, And his Fleſh crucified and torn, is that new and living way God found out into the Holy of Holies. Heb. 10. So then, to teach men Gods ways, in order unto their Converſion, is 1. To diſcover to them their natural condition and unbelief to be a way of Error, and of Death, Jam. 6. 19. That converts a Sinner from the error of his way. For by Nature it is ſpoken of all men, That the way of peace they have not known, Rom. 3. Erring in their Hearts, and not having known his way. 2. To teach them Chriſt, and the way of Faith, and believing on him, and cloſing with the free mercies of God in pardoning. 3. To ſet out unto them the high-way of true Holineſs and Obedience of Sanctification and the new Birth. To ſhew them all the errors, the by and crooked ways men turn aſide into, both in believing, and in turning unto God, and walking with him; which is call'd teaching them the good and right way, 1 Sam. 12.20. 21, 22, 23, 24. And Samuel ſaid unto the People, Fear not; (ye have done all this wickedneſs, yet turn not aſide from following the Lord, but ſerve the Lord with all your Heart: And turn ye not aſide, for then ſhould ye go after vain things which cannot profit nor deliver, for they are vain) For the Lord will not forſake his People, for his great Name ſake: Becauſe it hath pleaſed the Lord to make you his People. Moreover, as for me, God forbid that I ſhould ſin againſt the Lord, in ceaſing to pray for you; but I will teach you the good and the right way. Only fear the Lord, and ſerve him in truth with all your Heart: For conſider how great things he hath done for you. And theſe were the ordinary Subjects of Chriſts Diſcourſes, eſpecially in the firſt fruits of his Miniſtry, in his firſt Sermon he ſpeak's of Faith and Repentance; Mark 1.14. unto which two Paul alſo reduceth the Sum of his preaching Acts 20. 20, 21. And how I kept back nothing that was profitable to you, but have ſhewed you, and have taught you publickly, and from houſe to houſe. v. 21. Teſtifping both to the Jews, and alſo the Greeks, Repentance toward God, and Faith toward our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. And (Titus 3. 8.) he ſays, This is a faithful Saying, and theſe I will that thou affirm conſtantly. Theſe things are good and profitable to men. And the true reaſon why men profit not, nor bring in mens Souls, is, That they divert from theſe great, ſubſtantial, and neceſſary Truths, Jer. 23. 22. If thsy had ſtood in my Counſel, and had cauſed my People to hear my words, then they ſhould have turned from their evil way, and from the evil of their doings. In their diſcourſes they tythe the Mint and Cummin of the Scriptures, and inſiſt not on theſe great and neceſſary Principles of Religion. When our Saviour Chriſt was to ſend his Diſciples forth to preach the Goſpel to all the World, he promiſeth the Spirit, as a Comforter, to their Perſons, and an Aſſiſtant to them in their Miniſtry, John 16. And to ſhew what Doctrines that Spirit would bleſs and go with to the Hearts of men in converting of them; to the end that they accordingly ſhould learn in preaching to the Nations, to inſiſt thereon; He enumerates the work of the Spirit in mens Hearts, in all the parts thereof; ſetting it out by the object matter of each work: Thereby withal pointing to them what Subjects to treat on in their Sermons; the Spirit uſing Doctrines ſuitable to the work he is to do.

3. Obſerve, That in Converting others, God more ſpecially uſeth the endeavours of thoſe himſelf hath turned.

1. The Holy Ghoſt dwelling in them, he is more eaſily communicated; for themſelves are anointed with him. Acts 11. 24. 'Tis ſaid of Barnabas, That he was a good man, and full of the Holy Ghoſt, and of Faith, and much people was added unto the Lord.

2. Tho God may, and ſometime doth uſe others to ſhew his liberty, yet God delights to uſe them in it, and uſually doth, who are themſelves Converted, and this he doth out ſo choice, Mal. 2. 5, 6. My Covenant (ſays God, ſpeaking of Levi) was with him of life and peace, and I gave them to him, for the fear wherewith he feared me, and was afraid before my name. The Law of Truth was in his Mouth, and Iniquity was not found in his Lips: He walked with me in Peace and Equity, and did turn many away from Iniquity. Even as it was with

Abraham,

Abraham, whom being Faithful himſelf, God choſe to be the Father of many Nations. I gave them to him, ſaies God. Chap. 7

3. God rather uſeth ſuch, becauſe they have the Art of doing. For God uſeth meet Inſtruments for the work he imploys them in. Now there is an Art in Converting Souls, an eminent one. Therefore, ſays Solomon, Prov. 11. 30. He that winneth Souls is Wiſe. Now an holy man is more Wiſe in it, becauſe he hath experience in the ways of God, in Converting, Comforting, Recovering Souls. Then ſhall I teach Sinners thy ways, ſaps David, Pſal. 51. 13. namely, which I my ſelf have had experience of: As Paul was able to comfort others, with the comforts he had received: And as Chriſt ſaid to Peter (Luke 22. 23.) Peter, When thou art Converted, ſtrengthen thy Brethren, he then knew how to do it. Such an one knows the Heart of Man, and the windings of it by his own, and ſo knows how to make a Key to Unlock it, and that ſhall paſs the Wards of it.

4. Obſerve, That neither Sins afore nor after Regeneration ſhould prejudice one in the Miniſtery of the Goſpel that truly returns to God, and recovers, as David here did. The Inſtances are clear: God uſed David to Pen Scripture, as he did this Pſalm, after his Murder and Adultery, and he promiſeth himſelf as much ſucceſs in doing good to others as ever. Solomon alſo the Son, you know how he fell, yet God ſtill uſed him to Write Scriptures, and to teach the People. Witneſs that Book of Eccleſiaſtes, which he entitleth The Preacher, after his great and long departure from God. Peter alſo, you know, how he denyed Chriſt, and alſo at Antioch diſſembled: Yet God Converted by his Preaching, after that firſt great fall of his, Three Thouſand at One Sermon, and poured forth his Spirit upon him notwithſtanding and uſed him to the end of his Days, to write Scripture fuller of Holineſs, that is, ſtronger incitements to Holineſs than any other, and to Preach and Stir Men up to Remembrance. And the Reaſons are,

1. The Gifts of God, even thoſe given his Elect, to do good to others, are of high value, and God will not loſe the uſe and improvement of them for their ſins, but will humble them for them, and ſo go on ſtill to uſe and bleſs 'em.

2. His Pardons are Free Grace Pardons, ſuch as they ſhall not invalidate by their ſins. Free Grace is ſtill the ſame towards them.

3. Their Hearts are the ſame to God upon Repentance, and often more enlarged than before. They ſhew themſelves clear in that matter by Repenting, as 2 Cor. 7. the Apoſtle ſpeaks. And ſo God forgives and Man forgives, and they are both as afore.

And 4. Have gained more feeling experience, and deep and quick ſenſe of Gods Love and Gracious dealings than at firſt, Converted by renewed Repentance. And ſo are more able, as Peter was, to ſtrengthen their Brethren.

If ſuch returning ſinners are both in reſpect of uſe, and their Gifts the ſame to God, they ſhould be ſo to men: men ſhould not be prejudiced when God is not; ſpecially ſeeing tis true of any that themſelves alſo may be tempted. Now this takes away a great diſcouragement from what is in ones own Perſon, as well as what prejudice uſeth to be in others Hearts towards one, eſpecially from ſins groſs and ſcandalous after Regeneration. This ought not, nor ſhould not upon and after manifeſt renewed Repentance, diſcourage any one in this Work, as to think that God will ever after ſuch ſins leave him, and not uſe him more: Nor ſhould it be a prejudice in the Hearts of others, for receiving what out of experience from ſuch falls, God ſhall give forth by ſuch an one. OF THE Discourse of Gospel-Holiness implanted in the Heart, and continued in the whole Conversation of Life.

BOOK I.

THAT Graces and Holy Dispositions wrought in the Soul, are the Springs and Principles of Evangelical Obedience. The first Streams which flow from hence are inward Actions of our Souls in Holy Thoughts, and a lively Sense and Perception of Spiritual Things, and a due Approbation and Judgment of them as most excellent. That our Holiness ought to be sincere and blameless. That our Obedience ought to abound in all Fruits of Righteousness, and to continue until the Day of Christ, p. 1

Chap. I. The Words of the Text explained; what the Apostle means by abounding in all Knowledg, and Sense, or Judgment, ibid.

Chap. II. The Inward Effects of an Holy Disposition and Temper in the Soul, are an Ability in the Understanding, to discern, judg of, and approve Spiritual Things, and a Sincerity in the Heart inclining a Man to walk in God's Ways; what it is to be sincere and without Offence, 8

Chap. III. What is meant by these Words in Phil. 1. 10. until the Day of Christ. The different Significations of those Phrases used in Scripture [unto the end] and [until the Day of Christ] 16

Chap. IV. How we may be said to be kept blameless until the Day of Christ, 20

Chap. V. What it is to be filled with the Fruits of Righteousness in our Course of Obedience, 27

Chap. VI. Of what kind those Fruits of Righteousness are, with which our Obedience should abound; what is requisite to make them true and genuine, 32

Chap. VII. That our Obedience ought to be continued; That a Man shall in the Day of Christ appear with all those Fruits of Righteousness, which he hath brought forth in Christ to the Glory of God, 36

BOOK II.

The Demeanour of a Christian, as it is expressed under the Notion of Friendship with God. The Example of Abraham's being the Friend of God. How in the sense of the Apostle James he was justified by Works. How great, excellent, and kind a Friend God is to us. How this Consideration should engage us in a sincere Friendship to him: What are the Duties and Offices to be performed by us, as proper and owing to such a Friendship. Of the Behaviour of a Christian, as it is named Service to God, 40

Chap. I. The Obedience of a Christian expressed under the Notion of Friendship to God. The Title of being God's Friend is given to Abraham. The meaning of the Apostle James, when he says Abraham was justified by Works, ibid.

Chap. II. How the Apostle Paul, and the Apostle James are consistent in the account which they give of Abraham's Justification, 42

Chap. III. Abraham called the Friend of God, upon the Performance of that Act of Obedience in offering up his Son. That what is said of Abraham, is spoken of him as the Father and Pattern of all Believers. That true Faith works in the Heart friendly Dispositions toward God, 47

Chap. IV. An Exhortation unto Friendship with God, from the Considerations how great, excellent, and kind a Friend, he from Eternity hath been, and perpetually, and for ever is to us, 51

Chap. V. What the Conversation of a Believer ought to be in performing the part of a Friend towards God. That we should keep up an entire and near Communion with him. What this Communion is, explained in several Particulars, 56

Chap. VI. What our Behaviour toward God, as his Friends, ought to be, with respect to his Providential Dispensations to us. We should ask his Advice and Counsel on all Occasions. We should make use of and depend upon his Favour and Assistance in all Affairs. We should have an entire Confidence in him without any Jealousy or Distrust, 61

Chap. VII. What Obedience and Duty we owe unto God, as we are his Friends. We should be fearful of doing any thing to displease him, observe his Commands, and do all from the Principles of Love and Gratitude, 69

Chap. VIII. Obedience to God described, as it is a Service performed to him. The Character and Properties of those who are his sincere and faithful Servants, 78

BOOK III.

Evangelical Motives to Obedience, drawn from the Obligation which God hath laid upon us, by his appointing us unto Good Works, his Election of us, and by the Greatness of his Love manifested in the several Instances of it. Other Motives urged from the Consideration that Christ having by his Death conquer'd the Devil, and destroyed his Kingdom, we are by our Christian Profession engaged to hate him, and fight against him as a publick Enemy to Christ and us, and by all our Actions to endeavour the Ruin of his dark Kingdom of Sin. Other Motives deduced, from the Divine Presence, and Majesty apparent in our Holy Services and Performances; and also from God's Design in the Revelation of his Word, that we should not only read and know it, but practise it too, 86

Chap. I. A Motive to Love and Obedience, drawn from the Consideration, that this Obedience is a Business, an Holy Employment committed to us, which we should be careful to discharge. That the Doctrine of Free-Grace enforceth the Performance, and suites our Spirits to it, ibid.

Chap. II. That God's Love in Electing us is a great Motive to all Acts of Love and Obedience: That in this his Election of us he hath ordained and appointed us to Love and good Works, 91

Chap. III. That the great Love of God in electing of us, should be a strong Motive and Incentive to Love and good Works, 93

Chap. IV. Another Motive to Obedience deduced from God's great Love, in giving his Son to die for us. That he requires nothing in requital of so inestimable a Gift, but that we should love, obey and serve him. Other Considerations of God's Love urged, as Motives to Obedience; that he delights in loving us, and therefore it should be our Delight to love and obey him. The Eternity and Immutability of his Love, urged as Motives to faithful and constant Obedience, 97

Chap. V. Motives against Sin, because it is Satan's great Work and Interest, who is Christ's greatest Enemy, 104

Chap. VI. A Motive to Holiness and to fight against Sin, drawn from the Consideration, that this Holy War is a Common Engagement, in which all Angels and Saints are Confederates, 112

Chap. VII. Motives unto Holy Obedience, and unto a Boldness in our Christian Profession, drawn from the Majesty of the Lord that appears therein: With an Exhortation to preserve it, and the Means of maintaining the Honour of our Profession, 121

Chap. VIII. Motives to Evangelical Obedience from this Consideration, that it is the great Design of the Gospel to promote the Life, and Power, and Practice of Godliness, 135

BOOK IV.

The Danger of a loose, careless and unfruitful Profession; or the Danger of Mens living under the Dispensation, and Enjoyment of the Ordinances of the Gospel, viz. the Preaching of the Word, the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, and Church-Communion, if they live in Sin, indulge their Lusts, or be unfruitful. Two Cases resolved, 1. How far a regenerate Man is capable of sinning against Knowledg. 2. Wherein the Sin against the Holy Ghost differs from other Sins against Knowledg, 139

Chap. I. The Text in Heb. 6. 7, 8. explained, with some Observations from it, ibid.

Chap. II. That our worthy and suitable Living under the Ordinances of the Gospel brings a Blessing, but the contrary a Curse on our Souls. The Danger of those who living under the Preaching of the Word of God, indulge their Lusts, or are unfruitful, 143

Chap. III. The Danger of those, who being Partakers of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, do by ungodly or unfruitful Lives act contrary to the Institution and Design of that Ordinance, 148

Chap. IV. The Aggravations of their Guilt, who live in a Course of Sin, and yet live in Communion of the Lord's Supper, 153

Chap. V. The Danger of those, who being in Church-Fellowship and Communion, yet their Lives are inconsistent with such a Relation, 158

Chap. VI. Two Cases concerning a regenerate Man's sinning against Knowledg. The first Case resolved. How far such an one is capable of sinning against Knowledg; and what is the difference between his sinning against Knowledg, and an unregenerate Man's sinning against it, 160

Chap. VII. The other Case resolved, wherein the Sin against the Holy Ghost differs from other Sins against Knowledg, 173

The CONTENTS of the Discourse of the three several Ages which Christians do run through, in their Course of Faith and Obedience.

CHAP. I. The Design of the Apostle in the Text explain'd. The Characters of the several Ages of Christians are drawn from what is found as an excellency in each of these Ages in Mens Natural Life, 177

Chap. II. Of Communion with the two Persons of the Godhead, Father and Son; and how a Believer in his several Ages hath suitably Communion sometimes more with the one, sometimes more with the other, 181

OF Gospel Holiness Implanted in the HEART, And Continued in the Whole Conversation of LIFE.

BOOK I.

That Graces and Holy Dispositions wrought in the Soul, are the Springs and Principles of Evangelical Obedience. The first Streams which flow from hence are inward Actions of our Souls in Holy Thoughts, and a lively Sense and Perception of Spiritual Things, and a due Approbation and Judgment of them as most excellent. That our Holiness ought to be sincere and blameless. That our Obedience ought to abound in all Fruits of Righteousness, and to continue until the Day of Christ.

Philip. I. 9, 10, 11.

And this I pray, that your Love may abound yet more and more in Knowledg, and in all Judgment;

That ye may approve things that are excellent; that ye may be sincere, and without Offence till the Day of Christ.

Being filled with the Fruits of Righteousness, which are by Jesus Christ, unto the Glory and Praise of God.

CHAP. I.

The Words of the Text explained; what the Apostle means by abounding in all Knowledg, and Sense, or Judgment.

THIS is one of Paul's Prayers, several whereof we find dispersed up and down in his Epistles, and they are put up to God for those he wrote to. The Prayers of Holy Men are usually the utmost, and choicest Expressions of their Graces; the Drawings forth, or Pourings forth rather of their deepest Affections and Desires for things, which the Light of the Spirit in them judgeth to be most excellent. And the Words of the Text are the Prayer of the Apostle Paul, who who was filled with the Holy Ghoſt ; and you ſee it is for Holineſs, and the In-Book I. creaſe of it.

This I pray, &c. ſo he begins. You that have very holy Hearts, if God ſhould from Heaven bid you ask ſome one thing (as David ſpeaks, This one thing have I asked) it ſhould be, τοῦτο, this thing, Paul prays for here, to be Holy before him in Love. That which concerning Holineſs he prays for, may be reduced to three Heads.

I. Such Graces and Diſpoſitions as are the inward Springs, or primary eſſential Principles of Holineſs, which are three : 1. Love. 2. Knowledg. 3. Senſe.

II. The next immediate Conſequents of theſe ; the next Streams from theſe in their inward Man, are, That in their Judgments (which is τὸ ἡγεμονικὸν of all both Holy Affections and Actions) they might, 1. Approve of Things moſt excellent. 2. Diſcern Things different. The Words import either. 3. That in their Hearts they might be ſincere. Theſe are inward.

III. The third Thing which the Apoſtle prays for, is, That Holineſs be perfectly, and all ſorts of ways held forth in their Lives ; 1. Negatively, Blameleſs, or without Offence, or without Accuſation, as the word is uſed, 1 Theſſ. 5. 23. 2. Poſitively, That they might be filled with the Fruits of Righteouſneſs. And yet 3. Becauſe it is not the outward Appearance of Fruit, Bigneſs, Colour, Fairneſs, but the Kind, the Conſtitution and Reliſh of it that commends it : He therefore deſcribes theſe Fruits (he prays for) in the higheſt Spiritualneſs of them. 1. That they are ſuch, as are by Jeſus Chriſt, which grow on that Tree, and on Him grafted on that Root. Paradiſe, no, nor the Tree of Life knew none ſuch ; that theſe are a more excellent kind of Fruit, than ever did or ſhould have grown on Adam's Heart. 2. He deſcribes them to be ſuch Fruit, which are immediate and eminently directed to the Glory and Praiſe of God, that have Chriſt and Union with him for their Efficient, and God's Glory for their End. And as the End makes the Means lovely and deſirable, ſo this great End of God's Glory, gives the Reliſh to all the Fruit that comes from us, ſince none other is Fruit to God (as the Apoſtle ſpeaks, Rom. 7. 4.) that is, for God's Taſt and Acceptation.

The third and laſt Thing is, the Extent and Continuance of this Holineſs for the time of it. It is to be found in them, in the day of Chriſt, or until the day of Chriſt.

Theſe are the main Branches, that the Bulk and Body of this Tree divides it ſelf into ; and this is a groſs View of what grows thereon. Let us but ſhake a little, and gather up what will eaſily and naturally fall.

The 9th Verſe is ſuch, that in it (as the Pſalmiſt ſays) all our Springs are found, namely, the inward Springs of true Holineſs. I may call them Springs, not without the Apoſtles Alluſion here : the Word is περισσεύῃ, that it may abundantly flow, as from a Spring ; ſo Muſculus. In ver. 11. he uſeth the Metaphor of Fruit and a Tree ; but here, of Streams and of a Spring. The Principles of Holineſs in us, are in Scripture compared to both, to a Root from whence Fruit grows (Gal. 5. 22, 23. The Fruits of the Spirit) and to a Fountain ; John 4. 14. There ſhall be a Well of Water in him that believes, ſpringing up into Everlaſting Life.

1. Grace and Love to God ſhould flow naturally, Springs do ſo : Trees muſt be watered (that Metaphor is not enough expreſſive of the naturalneſs of the Workings of Grace) but Springs flow readily ; 1 Theſſ. 4. 9. I need not to write to you to love, ye are taught that of God. Out of his Belly (ſays Chriſt) ſhall theſe Waters flow. The Inwards he calls the Belly, which ſhould have Love in them, as the Earth hath Water in the Bowels of it.

2. In a Fountain, as you take away, ſtill more comes, and the faſter it comes : and thus as a Spring retains not its Water to it ſelf ; ſo Love keeps nothing to it ſelf, but it flows to the Uſe and Benefit of God and Men.

3. As Fountains have their Riſe in Hills, ſo this of Love is firſt in God's Heart in Heaven : We love God becauſe he loved us firſt, 1 John 4. 10. It ſpringeth up (ſays Chriſt) to Eternal Life, i. e. its Original. Aqua in tantum aſcendit, &c.

I

I have done with the Metaphor, I come to the naked ſenſe intended, ἔτι μᾶλλον καὶ μᾶλλον περισσεύῃ, may abound yet more and more. It had abounded already; the Love of the primitive Times it abounded, as you read, 1 Theſſ. 4. 9, 10. One Rivulet remains of the former Metaphor to convey this to us, which we have, John 7. 38, 39. He that believeth on me, as the Scripture hath ſaid, out of his Belly ſhall flow Rivers of Living Water. But this (ſays John) he ſpake of the Spirit, which they that believe on him ſhould receive: for the Holy Ghoſt was not yet given, becauſe that Jeſus was not yet glorified. When Chriſt was now glorified, the Graces of the Spirit were not Brooks but Rivers; he poured, not dropt down his Spirit, and Love made the greateſt Channel: Ecce qui diligunt, was the common Obſervation of the Heathens, ſee how they love one another, ſpeaking of Chriſtians. It held till Tertullian's Time: Were there a Cauſe concerned the common good of Saints, their Principle was, they would lay down their Lives for the Brethren, 1 John 3. 6. Was it the Cauſe of God, they loved not their Lives to the Death, 'tis the Character of thoſe Chriſtians, Rev. 12. 7. Our Springs are not only dried up, but turned back as Jordan was; the Hatred among the Saints abounds yet more and more, and is like to ſwell higher yet. Oh my Brethren, Is not Chriſt yet glorified? Chap. I.

The Apoſtle adds theſe Words, yet more and more. To have ſaid that it may abound, had an Emphaſis with it; but he adds ἔτι yet, and adds to that μᾶλλον more, and καὶ μᾶλλον more ſtill. God can never have enough of your Love, nor you of Grace. Paul that knew him thought ſo, and therefore prayed ſo. Seeſt thou a Spark of Fire, lay Straw to it, and then add more Fewel, it abounds more and more according to its Fewel. This whole inferiour World will not be a ſufficient Prey for the Fire one day; it will melt the Elements, as Peter ſays, yea the Heavens that now are it will conſume. Such a thing is Grace and Love, all the Excellencies in God are ordained to be the Object, the Fewel of it; yet it can neither conſume, nor be conſumed, but abounds ſtill yet more and more.

But why is Love firſt? Doth not Faith and Knowledg in order of Nature go before? You muſt remember (as I told you) he ſpeaks here of the Principles of Obedience, and ſo Love is the more immediate, for Faith works by Love. 'Tis Love (ſays the Apoſtle, 1 John 5. 3.) makes all the Commands not grievous. Provoke one another (ſays the Apoſtle Paul, Heb. 10. 24.) to Love and to good Works. Inkindle, ſtir up that Principle, and then good Works, as the Flame, will ariſe. When Chriſt would move Peter to take pains for him and feed his Lambs, and in doing ſo run through all the Difficulties that attended an Apoſtle's Work and Calling, what ſays he to him, Peter, Loveſt thou me? he ſays no more. And what ſays Peter? Lord I love thee. It was enough between them two, to put him on to any thing. Faith is indeed the only Principle, by which we deal with God and Chriſt, for Juſtification and Communion with them; but Love is that which incites us to Holineſs and Obedience. We are ordained to be Holy before him in Love; Holineſs riſeth from Love. Oh, therefore get your Hearts enflamed with the Love of God.

The Apoſtle farther adds theſe Worns, That your Love may abound in Knowledg. Ordinarily Men had need pray, that their Love might grow up to their Knowledg; but Paul here prays, that their Knowledg might grow up with, and to their Love. Uſually Mens Knowledg is larger than their Affections. It was it ſeems otherwiſe with theſe Philippians. There are uſually extent theſe two ſorts of Chriſtians, Affectionate fond Souls of Chriſt, but leſs knowing; others more knowing, yet leſs paſſionate, tho true Chriſtians both: the primitive Times give Inſtances of both. The Corinthians were knowing Chriſtians, 1 Cor. 1. 4, 5. I thank God that in every thing ye are enriched in all Knowledg and Utterance; but they were ſhort in Love. 1 Cor. 8. 2, 3. If any Man thinks that he knoweth any thing (he ſpeaks home to them) he knoweth nothing yet as he ought to know. But if any Man love God, the ſame is known of him. And Chap. 12. 31, ult. They were for Gifts, but yet ſhew I unto you a more excellent Way; and what was that? LOVE. So in Chap. 13. 1. Tho I ſpeak with Tongues of Men and Angels, and have not Love, &c. throughout. But to return to that Chap. 8. 3. If any Man love God, the ſame is known of him. The Speech carries the higheſt Reproof with it, it is as if he had ſaid, You take care to get more Knowledg, but God knows enough for you, if he knows you to Book I. be his. Take care to get more Love, for if any Man love God, the ſame is known of him. And conform your ſelves to God herein: God's loving of you is termed, his knowing of you; they are adequate, let them be ſo in you to him. But the Philippians, and the Theſſalonians were a more plain, ſincere, affectionate ſort of Chriſtians, whoſe Affections had been hitherto more than their Knowledg; he therefore prays that their diſtinct Knowledg might grow up with their Love; That their Love might abound in Knowledg, and both grow together: as 2 Pet. 3. 18. Grow in Grace, and in the Knowledg of Jeſus Chriſt; not in blind Affections, but ſuch which Spiritual Knowledg may ſtir up. What is Grace? It is but Knowledg concocted into the Affections, to have ſutable Impreſſions, Diſpoſitions on the Affections to the things known. 2 Cor. 3. 18. We are changed (by beholding) into the ſame Image.

3. The Apoſtle adds theſe Words, And in all Senſe, ἐν πάσῃ αἰσθήσει, 'tis tranſlated Judgment, but in the Greek Senſe, and ſo in your Margents varied. The Apoſtle puts the Emphaſis here, ſaying, IN ALL SENSE as the main, for 'tis ſuch Knowledg as hath Senſe added to it. We are to enquire what is meant by Senſe, and why it is added to Knowledg. It is all Senſe, let us therefore take in all Senſes may be given of it.

1. Senſe is here added to Knowledg, to expreſs the true Nature of Spiritual Faith in two Words, added the one to the other, which is elſewhere expreſſed by one ſingle Word. Faith, what is it? A Spiritual Senſe of Spiritual Things, or things excellent (as it follows in the Text, Phil. 1. 10.) And the ſame Apoſtle ſpeaking of grown Chriſtians, ſays, that they have their Senſes exerciſed, τὰ αἰσθητήρια, Heb. 5. 14. Tho he ſpeaks this indeed of grown Chriſtians, that they have their Senſes EXERCISED, yet he ſuppoſeth that as Chriſtians they have the Senſes themſelves, that is the Faculties of them: and he ſays not Senſe only in the Singular, as here (Phil. 1 9.) but SENSES, making an Alluſion of the new Creation of the Spiritual Man to the Outward Man; for as the Outward Man hath divers Organs and Inſtruments of Senſe, ſo hath the new Creation. That look as God made an outward World, in which are all ſorts of Objects, Beauty, Colours, ſweet Smells, pleaſant Fruits, ſo he placed in Man's Body αἰσθητήρια, Senſes ſuted to theſe, to take in the real Comfort from theſe; and there is no Creature outward, but there is a Senſe ſuted to it. So he hath made an inviſible World, with variety of things Spiritual, and that variety is but the ſeveral Appearances of himſelf; and in the new Creature there are ſutable Spiritual Senſes made to entertain them, and take them into the Soul. In the Scripture you find, that there is no particular Senſe, but Faith is expreſt by it; you have Seeing and Taſting in one Verſe; Pſal. 34. 9. Taſt and ſee that the Lord is Good: and both put to expreſs Faith, for it follows, Bleſſed is the Man that truſts in him. To ſee God in his Beauty and Goodneſs, and in the Heart and Affection, and to taſt of that Goodneſs (to which Peter alludes, 1 Pet. 2. 2.) are the Acts of Faith. Then for Hearing, I need not enlarge upon it. He that hath an Ear let him hear, with an inward Ear, Rev. 2. 7. For Men may naturally hear, and ſee Gods Wonders, and yet not with a Spiritual Ear: for Deut. 23. 3, 4. The great Signs and Miracles, which thine Eyes have ſeen, yet the Lord hath not given you Eyes to ſee, and Ears to hear to this Day. But Chriſt gives another Character of Believers, when he ſays, John 10. 3. My Sheep hear my Voice, that is, diſcern and diſtinguiſh his Voice by an inward Senſe; for it follows, v. 5. The Voice of a Stranger they will not follow. As the Ear tries Words, ſays Job, ſo they by an Inſtinct know the Mind of Chriſt, 1 Cor. 2. 15. 16. Thus likewiſe as to Smelling; 2 Cor. 2. 15, 16. We are unto God a ſweet Savour of Chriſt in them that are ſaved, and in them that periſh. To the one we are the Savour of Death unto Death, and to the other the Savour of Life unto Life. We are, that is in our Miniſtry; he compares the effect of it, to that of Vapours or Smells. There are ſome Vapours and Smells, that as ſoon as they come into the Noſtrils, ſuffocate the Spirits, ſtrike dead, as in thoſe famous Caverns in Italy. Such are the Threatnings of the Goſpel to a Man that will not leave his Luſts, and believe, they are the Savour of Death, the occaſion of his Ruin; and not only ſo, but his Conſcience (which is a Principle ſuted to the Threatning, as Smell is to Savour) ſmells the Savour of Fire and Brimſtone of Hell in them, and he goes away with Senſe of Condemnation unto him, for thoſe Courſes he is reſolved to go on in. But it is the contrary to thoſe that believe and obey, for unto them this Miniſtry is the Savour of Life unto Life. Some Smells recover Men when in a Swound, ſo do the Promiſes quicken and revive Mens Souls, by their Scent from them. They ſend forth the Perfume of Heaven, of God's Love and free Grace: It is the Savour of Life unto Life. And as to Feeling, which is another Senſe, what ſays the Apoſtle, 1 John 1. 1. What our Hands have handled of the Word of Faith. He ſpeaks not of outward Converſion, but inward, as ver. 3. That which we have ſeen and heard, &c. of that Fellowſhip their Souls had had with him, as Seals on that of their Senſes. Chap. I.

Brim-

2. By Senſe is meant Experience, as it is a diſtinct thing from Faith; for the Apoſtle, Rom. 5. after he had ſaid, By Faith a Chriſtian hath Peace with God, ſhews how Faith is emproved and added unto, through God's Dealings with us, Tribulation worketh Patience and Submiſſion to God, and Patience, Experience. So in ſuch and ſuch Afflictions, after we had ſubmitted to God, God came in and delivered, or upheld with Comforts, and thereby Faith was ſtrengthened againſt the next: for Experience breeds Hope, or Confidence of God's carrying us on to Life and Glory; when we have found God faithful in relieving us, and ſticking cloſe to us in all ſorts of Trials, and ſo it grows up to aſſurance (as Hope is there, and 1 John 3. 1. taken in that Senſe.) Now Experience is an acquired Knowledg in matters Spiritual founded on Senſe: A Collection of Concluſions from what we have the Senſe of, as all Artiſts gather Concluſions from Experiments made. A Man at firſt ſets out to believe with Faith barely founded on the Promiſe; as ſuppoſe he relies on this, that God favours him and loves him, and will do him good, and that God is faithful in ſuch and ſuch Promiſes, afore ever he ſees any Performance; a Man believes this with Spiritual Faith, and a Faith that hath Senſe in it. (Take Seeing for the reality of the Things, as they lie in the Promiſe, and that God is the Promiſer) But afterwards look as God performeth in Proceſs of Time any Promiſes of his, there is then a Senſe of Experience ſuperadded, and a Collection from thence of the Truth of the Promiſe. Pſal. 41. 11. By this I know that thou favoureſt me, becauſe my Enemies do not triumph over me; eſpecially when withal I find as it follows, that as for me, thou upholdeſt me in mine Integrity. A Man believes that there is a God, who is the Rewarder of them that ſeek him, a God that judgeth the Earth, and therefore comes to him, as a God that ſuffers not the Wicked always to proſper, but in the end heareth the Prayers of his poor People. And the Man hath learned this, firſt (as the Pſalmiſt ſays, Pſal. 73. 17, 18.) in the Sanctuary, that is out of the bare Word. But having now believed this, he afterwards ſees with his Eyes a Vengeance executed, as in Pſal. 58. 10. The Righteous ſhall rejoice when he SEETH the Vengeance. He ſees the Vengeance by Experience, and ſo from Experience collects and ſtrengthens Faith anew, namely in this great Point of Faith, which follows there. A Man ſhall ſay, verily there is a Reward for the Righteous, verily there is a God that judgeth in the Earth. Thus alſo David, Pſal. 37. 34. Wait on the Lord and keep his Way, and he ſhall exalt thee to inherit the Land; when the Wicked are cut off thou ſhalt SEE it, that is, have Experience of it. And David confirms this by his own Inſtance, ver. 35, 36. I have SEEN the Wicked in great Power, and ſpreading himſelf like a Green Bay-Tree: Yet he paſſed away, and lo he was not; yea I ſought him, but he could not be found. Thus Promiſes brought home in Trials and Temptations breed Experience: Pſal. 119. 50. This is my Comfort in my Affliction (ſays he) for thy Word hath quickned me. Here is a Concluſion, a Trial of a Receipt in time of Malady, with a probatum eſt, from Experience. And ſuch was the Experience of a dying Chriſtian: Is there not (ſaid he) ſuch a Promiſe? I will be with thee in the Fire and in the Water. Yes, ſaid they, that ſtood by: read I pray (replied he) which done, Bear witneſs (ſaid he) that I die, teſtifying that God is true in that Promiſe to my Soul, which is the ſimilar to that of Davids; This is my COMFORT in my Affliction, &c. Thus in hearing a Man's Prayer, what a world of Experiments hath an experienced Chriſtian. The whole 116*th* Pſalm is a Record of it, and ſo likewiſe the 18*th* Pſalm; In my Diſtreſs I called upon the Lord, and cried unto my God: he heard my Voice out of his Temple, and my Cry came before him, even into his Ears. Heb. 11.

And

Book I. And how it doth set Heaven and Earth on work, the rest of that Psalm shews. And therefore as David learnt himself by Experience, so he teacheth others; Ps. 66. 16, 17, 19. Come and hear all ye that fear God, and I will declare what he hath done for my Soul. I cried unto him with my Mouth, and he was extolled with my Tongue. But verily God hath heard me; he hath attended to the Voice of my Prayer. Thus by experience, we know our own Graces, and Things given us of God; as 1 Cor. 2. and the 119 Psalm throughout shews. And Oh how good is it to draw near to God? says David upon a Taste and Experiment of it, *Psal.*73.28. Of grown Christians we say, they are experimental Christians; and those that were Babes, the Apostle describes such to be ἄπειροι, such that have no Experience; whereas a grown Christian hath his Senses exercised to discern both Good and Evil. Such an one discerns the difference of things readily, not from Reason, but Skill, that hath been contracted from the sense of Experience: Thus of Christ it is said, That he LEARNED Obedience by the Things he suffered, Heb. 5. 8. Take a Man that hath naturally a wise Head, and the Grain, the Current of his Understanding lies and runs that way; yet if such a Man hath been further versed in the World, and hath been tumbled and tost up and down therein, and hath been used to Business of Affairs of State, &c. he will have an experimental acquired Wisdom added, if not to encrease, yet to confirm all those Principles naturally engrafted in him: and through both these, a Man proves a wise Man indeed, as Solomon throughout did. Thus Christ our Lord, tho his Manhood was furnished with all sorts of Abilities, Principles of Faith and Knowledg Spiritual; yet God did put this Great Scholar to School to learn (says the Apostle, Heb. 5. 8.) Knowledg of this other kind. And the Schoolmaster he sets him to was Patience, which breeds up Experience, as the same Apostle saith, Rom. 5. 4. The School was Obedience, that so he might have Sense added to his Faith and Knowledg. The Heart of Christ had an Ocean of Love naturally flowing in it, and yet he must learn Mercy and Pity to us, in a way of Sense; as 'tis said, in as much as he also was tempted, Heb.2.18. And this is the meaning of that Passage in the 10*th ver.* of that Chapter, He was made perfect through Sufferings. God would have his eldest Son educated in all sorts of Faculties and Learnings (whose Type was Moses) that so he might be perfect, and therefore he ran through all Courses as we Mortals run through, that he might be perfect in all sorts of experimental Knowledg; and especially because Sufferings teach most compendiously, he was therefore made perfect through Sufferings. And as Use (we say) makes perfect, so did Experience him: and thus as to us (as the Apostle says, Heb. 12. 11.) Afflictions bring forth the peaceable Fruit of Righteousness, to them that are exercised therein. The Word Exercised is the same that is used in that forementioned, Heb. 5. 14. concerning our Senses being exercised; and it is a Metaphor taken from the Knowledg that is obtained in Schools, whether either of Arts and Sciences, through exercising themselves therein, as Fencing, γύμναζε. Grammar, &c. by performing such Exercises whereby Youths grow up to such a Perfection. The same Word we have again, 1 Tim. 4. 7. EXERCISE thy self to Godliness; that is, get such a Skill by performing the Exercises of it, as Scholars at School do; run through all sorts of Duties, as Scholars do thro all sorts of Forms (which seeing the Holy Ghost so often alludes unto, to express the practical part of Godliness hereby; it is unsavory to call, as some do, the set Performance of such Holy Duites, FORMS and TASKS) But says the Apostle as in direct opposition to these, they diligently run through all parts of Piety, which will procure an exquisite Knowledg by Experience, which is equivalent to Sense here in the Text. So then when the Apostle here prays, they might abound in all Sense; his meaning is, they might run through all courses of Godliness, and be carried through all the varieties of God's Dealings and Dispensations; all sorts of Trial of Graces on their part, and Performance of Promises on Gods; that so having tried all Conclusions, they might be perfect Christians in experimental Knowledg, even in all Sense.

3. By Sense he means deep and glorious Impressions on the Soul, over and above the Light of Faith or Knowledg by ordinary Experiences: and such Impressions are truly rather SENSE than Knowledg, as all find that enjoy them, and they are therefore said to pass Knowledg, Eph. 3. 19. and are entituled, The Peace of God which passeth Understanding, Phil. 4. 7. And the same is hinted, Rom. 5. 5, 6. Patience breeds Experience, and Experience Hope; and Hope maketh not ashamed, because the Love of God is shed abroad in our Hearts, by the Holy Ghost which is given unto us. A Man had before by Faith Peace with God (thus ver. 1.) but now he comes to have Experience with Hope or Assurance from the Love of God SHED; not manifested or apprehended by Knowledg so much, as SHED, whereof the Subject is said to be the HEART rather than the Understanding: and this is that which Christ promiseth, John 14. 21. And this the primitive Christians more generally enjoyed; 1 Pet. 1. 8. Whom having not seen ye love, in whom tho now you see him not, yet believing ye rejoice with Joy unspeakable and full of Glory. Thus were those Peter wrote to, and so were the Philippians and Romans, as you heard; as for the Thessalonians, the Word came unto them in much Assurance and Joy in the Holy Ghost, 1 Thess. 1. 5. And this high and Heavenly Sense and Enjoyment the Apostles used to pray for, in behalf of those they wrote to. Thus Paul for the Romans, Rom. 15. 13. Now the God of Hope fill you with all Joy and Peace in believing, that ye may abound in Hope through the Power of the Holy Ghost. And Peter exhorts those Christians he wrote unto to maintain and not to lose this: for having said, 1 Pet. 1. 8, 9. That they had been filled (as at Conversion, or soon after ordinarily) with Joy unspeakable and glorious, he exhorts them (Ch. 2. 2, 3.) that they would keep up that Sense and Taste, even as new born Babes; he would have them, tho Men in Understanding, yet always to be as Babes in their Appetites and Tastings of the Love and Goodness of God, and if they wanted it, to cry for it. Chap. I.

USE 1. Hath Faith and the new Creature these Senses joined to and implanted in them? then may a Christian, if it be not his fault, lead the most sensual Life (pardon the Expression) of any Creature. For as God hath made a World for Sense, so God hath prepared Christ, and all things Spiritual to the new Creature: You see what Pleasures are in the visible World, which the Senses let in; but the Soul is able to drink in more at one Draught in a Moment, than all the Senses can let in, or the World afford us in Ages. Now what the World is to the Body, that God and Christ are to the Soul. Of this Sense the Psalmist speaks, Psalm 36. 8, 9. They shall be abundantly satisfied with the Fatness of thy House, and thou shalt make them drink of the River of thy Pleasures; for with thee is the Fountain of Life, in thy Light shall we see Light. He instanceth in those Senses of Sight, and Taste, and the Objects thereof, which bring in so much Pleasure to the Body.

USE 2. See the Reason why the same Truth meditated on, or conferred on, or heard again and again to Hearts prepared to relish Spirituals, still affects with a new and fresh Sweetness. If our Souls only entertained, and took them in by bare Knowledg, it would not be so; but Faith containing all the Senses in it, hence if we receive them by Faith, a fresh and rich Pleasure springs out of them.

USE 3. See the Reason why Faith hath the greatest Certainty of Knowledg about its Objects, of any other Knowledg. The Philosopher says, Sensus non fallitur circa proprium objectum, the Senses are not deceived about their proper Objects (due Circumstances and Proportions of distance, &c. being observed) and that the Speech of Christ confirms it. When the Disciples thought Christ to be but a Spirit, he appeals for the final Determination to two Senses, Seeing and Feeling: For says he, hath a Spirit Flesh and Bones as I have? Now Faith hath not one only, but all the Senses conjunct with it, and implanted in the nature of it; so far therefore as we believe, we are certain of the Object, the Reality, the existence of it, tho of our Interest therein we may be doubtful.

CHAP.

Book I.

CHAP. II.

The Inward Effects of an Holy Disposition and Temper in the Soul, are an Ability in the Understanding, to discern, judg of, and approve Spiritual Things, and a Sincerity in the Heart inclining a Man to walk in God's Ways; what it is to be sincere and without Offence.

THE inward Fruits and Effects, that flow from a Principle of Holiness, and do constitute and form such an habitual Frame of Spirit, as may practically fit a Man to walk holily, are next to be considered, and they are two.

1. In the Understanding, an Ability to discern upon all occasions the difference of things, and upon an Act of Discretion choose and approve what is best; or (as the Words may be varied) a Judgment to discern of the Excellency of Things in the Ways of Religion, what is more excellent than other, and to approve of and cleave thereto.

2. In the Heart (That ye may be SINCERE, which respects walking) a Sincerity to incline and direct a Man in his Way, to keep him so as not to turn to the Right Hand or the Left, and to preserve him from stumbling and falling from his course; and therefore it is joined here with ἀπρόσκοποι, which signifies both those that walk without wandring from their Scope, their Mark *, which in their Course they are bound for, as also that are void of Offence, or stumbling, or giving occasion to others so to do; and therefore I added, which practically fit a Man to walk holily.

1. In the Understanding there are Holy Principles, εἰς τὸ δοκιμάζειν τὰ διαφέροντα: both Words here used have an Amplitude, a Comprehensiveness in them. I will open each apart, and fit them each to the other, and all to the thing in hand.

(1.) It signifies to try and discern the difference of things from their Counterfaith or contraries. A Word taken from Goldsmiths, as the use of the Word in 1 Pet. 1. 7. evidently shews; where he speaks of the Trial (δοκίμιον) of Faith, which is found more precious than Gold, tho tried with the Fire (the Goldsmith trys Gold and Metals either by the Touchstone or by the Fire.) And in an allusion to this Metaphor, it is applied to a discerning the difference of Doctrines, whether about things to be done or believed, 1 Thess. 5. 21. Prove or try all things. He had spoken of Prophesying in the Words afore; in which ordinary gifted Men being not infallible, might mingle verisimilia, Errors like Truth, or Dross and corrupt Doctrine with Truth: he exhorts them δοκιμάζειν, to try, or prove, and so hold fast what is good.

(2.) It imports withal, an approving in Judgment of what is good, a savouring, relishing, closing with and cleaving to the Goodness of it, as good and best for him. Thus Rom. 12. 2, 3. Be renewed in your Mind, that you may PROVE what is that GOOD, that perfect Will of God ('tis the same Word) not only to discern the Will of God in its Truth from Falshood, in all the Latitude and Perfection of it (as David speaks, Psalm 119. 96. I have seen an end of all Perfection, but thy Commandments are exceeding broad, but to approve it. There is a vastness and variety of Duties commanded, Sins forbidden; and to discern those, especially the Spiritual Part of them, which is the Perfection, that gives the Acceptation. This no Man can do, but by being renewed in his Mind; but farther, so as withal to prove and close with the Goodness of that Will of God in each particular thereof, to like it, relish it, savour it (as Rom. 1. 28. the Word is used) under this Consideration and Respect, that it is acceptable to God, as well as perfect in it self, yea and also as good, yea best for a Man's self that is to do it, and all this out of a suitableness; this to be sure is found only in, and from a renewed Mind. And thus in that former Place, 1 Thess. 5. 21. this Word δοκιμάζειν is to be understood, Try and prove all things, HOLD FAST what is GOOD. There is you see, 1. a discerning the difference, prove or try, joined with holding fast, or cleaving to the Mind mind of God as good, as good for me. That if I were to make my own Statutes I would live by, it ſhould be thoſe and no other, which I find revealed in God's Word. Pſal. 119. 127, 128. Therefore I love thy Commandments above Gold, yea, above fine Gold. Therefore I eſteem all thy Precepts concerning all things to be right; and I hate every falſe way. The Expreſſions are as full as full may be, I eſteem, I love, yea, I eſteem thy Precepts out of love to their Sutableneſs; therefore I eſteem them, becauſe I love them, and all and every one of them, and that concerning all things, as they direct me in all and each Circumſtance of my Ways; as they concern any part of my Life, oppoſe my deareſt Luſts, or croſs my ſtrongeſt Deſires: And not content with this, he expreſſeth it by his Hatred of its contrary, I hate every falſe Way. Chap. 2.

As theſe are the two Imports of the word δοκιμάζειν, namely, both 1. To try, and 2. To approve; ſo ſutably the other word, which here expreſſes the Object of theſe Acts, τα διαφέροντα, tranſlated, Things that differ, is ſuch a word, and ſo induſtriouſly ſingled out, as anſwers to both, claſps in with both; for it ſignifies either, 1. Things that differ, and ſo yokes well with to try or diſcern, the Object of which is the difference of Things. 2. They are Things that excel, and are more excellent, and ſo yokes with the other Import, to approve as beſt or moſt excellent. I need not give you an account of the firſt, that διαφέροντα ſignifies things that differ, ἀδιάφορα are things indifferent. But for the ſecond import of the word take Luke 12. 7. Ye are of more Value, of more excellency in God's eſteem, than many Sparrows. Yet 'tis the ſame Word that is uſed here. So likewiſe when it is ſaid (1 Cor. 15. 4.) that one Star differs from another Star in Glory; that is, excels another. We ſay of things more excellent, compar'd with things leſs, That there is a great deal of difference. Chriſt obtained a more excellent Name, διαφορώτερον. So then let us take up the Apoſtle's meaning, as it comprehendeth both theſe Senſes.

1. He prays, their Underſtanding may be ſo habited with Spiritual Judgment and Senſe upon all occaſions, whether of Propoſals of Doctrines to them, Matters of Controverſy, wherein there is an aptneſs to deceit, through a Likeneſs; that yet when they ſee Reaſons on this ſide and on that ſide, they might be able out of SENSE, to ſay, This is Truth; that they might diſcern Truth from Falſhood, and approve it: Or in Matters of Practice, in all Turnings of their Lives, or Caſes of Conſcience, they might quickly diſcern and judg what they were to do, to ſee and ſay, This is my way: and that they might know this clearly, ſo as not to be deceiv'd, but ſo as to walk comfortably, as knowing they are doing the Will of God. And this is one Frame or Conſtitution of Spirit the Judgments of God's People are clothed with. Of Chriſt 'tis ſaid, Iſ. 11. 2, 3. The Spirit of the Lord, and a Spirit of Wiſdom and Underſtanding (as the fruit of that Spirit) ſhould reſt on him, and he ſhould be of quick Underſtanding in the Fear of the Lord; that is, he ſhould be quick-eyed, nimble-ſighted to diſcern the difference of things: and anſwerably every Chriſtian is made more or leſs a ſagacious Creature. He receives Wiſdom in Matters doctrinal, Prudence in Matters practical (Eph. 1. 8. Col. 1. 9.) a Skill to know at the inſtant how to walk, which all the notional Knowledg in the World cannot ſtamp on the Mind; for that is not ad manum at every turn when a man is to act, but a Practical Skill is needful. If a Scholar had learnt all the Art of Fencing, in all the Poſtures of it, and had the Rules imprinted on his Fancy; yet a Fencer brought up to it hath a Skill beyond him, a Sagacity impreſſed (through uſe) on his Eye, his Hand, to ſpy out every Advantage. Such a practical Art in diſcerning a Man's Way doth the Holy Ghoſt ſtamp on the Judgment of a Man regenerate, which no Uſe nor Learning can ever enable unto. Then again apply the Uſe of this Word to a diſcerning a difference in things. When a Man is turned to God, how is this fulfilled in him? He is enabled to ſee a ſtrange difference, as in Things and Perſons both worldly and ſpiritual, ſo in the Ways of Men, and in the Difference of Miniſtrys. When a Man is unregenerate, he is Darkneſs, and to Men in the dark Color omnibus unus, all Colours are alike. Morality and natural Devotion in Men go for Grace and Holineſs, Glowworms ſhine as well as Stars: But when a Man is converted, the Darkneſs is paſt, and the true Light ſhineth, as John ſpeaks. And then he diſcerns and knows (as the ſame John says, 1 John 5. 19.) that we are of God, and the whole World lieth in Wickedness. The Scriptures afford a thousand such Instances. And all this the regenerate Man discerns by a kind of Sense, and infused Sagacity. For the farther increase of such Light doth the Apostle here pray; for as this increaseth, so likewise Holiness increaseth in the Heart and Life.

Book I.

2. He prays that their Judgment might be so habited, as to close with, approve, savour the Goodness and Excellency of things spiritual, according to their several Degrees of Excellency, as best for them: That they might approve the Excellency of Spiritual Things in comparison of Things and Persons worldly; and answerably esteem and value Christ, and all his Excellencies, so as to give up all for him, as Paul did, Phil. 3. 8. I account all things as Loss and Dung, for the Excellency of the Knowledg of Christ. And thus Peter speaks, To you that believe he is precious (1 Pet. 2.) whenas all disobedient ones refuse him. To such a Man the Saints of God are the excellent ones of the Earth, as they were to David and Christ, Psal. 16. Likewise the things of the Law are excellent things, as the Prophet speaks, and accordingly are valued by such a Man: And he so values them, as to chuse these as best, and best for him, Psal. 119. 30. I have chosen the way of Truth, thy Judgments have I laid before me. I have deliberately viewed and considered them all, and as deliberately chosen them, and that as my Heritage to live upon, V. 111. of that Psalm.

3. Besides approving in common the Excellency of things spiritual in comparison to earthly and carnal, the Apostle's meaning is of their approving among things spiritual those that are most excelling. Our Apostle praying for grown Christians (as these Philippians were) the aim of his Prayer was, that among those more excellent things they might still more and more (as he had spoken of abounding) approve of what was most excelling. In those Primitive Times, tho there were not several Forms of Religion, and all of them acceptable to God (as some have dangerously spoken) for there is but one God, one Faith, one Baptism (which latter is by a Synecdoche put for all other instituted Ways of Worship) yet according to the several Degrees of Light, there were in some Churches and Persons further and more excellent Attainments; and in this regard it is he prays for these Philippians, that they might be heightned to the approbation of what was most excellent, that they might abound in Knowledg, Love and Sense, so as to embrace and pursue after, of all other, what was most excellent, by perceiving the comparative different Excellency that was between spiritual things. Acts 18. 25, 26. You read of a Man of God, Apollos, who was instructed in the way of God, and one that was fervent in Spirit, that taught and spoke diligently the things of the Lord, yet knowing only the Baptism of John: you read likewise Chap. 19. of certain Disciples that were true Christians, and have that Testimony given them (both here in the Story of Apollos, Chap. 18. 27. and also in that succeeding Chap. 19. 1, 2, 3, &c.) and these had all been instructed in what was fundamental, for even John had taught them, that they should believe on him who should come after him, that is on Christ Jesus (so Ver. 4.) who yet, V. 2. are said not to have heard so much as whether there be any Holy Ghost; that is, either in those his Gifts which accompanied the Profession of Christ, as risen and ascended, or perhaps because they were not struck with any special intensive Apprehension of it, to take up their heedful regard to him: yet it was accounted sufficient that they and he believed on Christ; and therefore Aquila and Priscilla took Apollos (as Paul also those Disciples) and instructed him (as 'tis said) more perfectly, or expounded unto him more perfectly the Way of the Lord, Acts 18. 26. It was not teaching him a new way, but in a way of Superstruction of what he knew before. What says the Apostle, 1 Cor. 3. 11. Other Foundation can no man lay than what is laid, and (as you see) was unto them laid, even Jesus Christ; and yet, says Paul, I shew you a more excellent Way. Take the Apostles themselves, there were many things which they could not bear, their weak Stomachs would have cast them up again. John 16. 12. I have yet many things to say unto you, but you cannot bear them now. And that [them NOW] refers to an After-time, in which they should receive a Spirit of Truth, V. 13. To the Apostles there was a double Coming of the Spirit, as to us and them there is of Christ. The one secret, when when he regenerated them, as of Christ, when he stole into the World unknown. John 1. 10, 11. He was in the World, and the World was made by him, and the World knew him not: He came unto his own, and his own received him not. The other coming of the Spirit is, when he comes as a Comforter: John 14. 20. And in that day (says Christ) you shall know that I am in my Father, and you in me, and I in you. As you see an Instance of attaining things more excellent in the Apostles themselves, and Apollos, and those at Ephesus, so you may see the like in the Corinthians, 1 Cor. 2. 6. & 1 Cor. 3. 1, 2. The Apostle is bold to distinguish and put difference between them that are perfect, and what he taught unto such; and the Corinthians themselves he writ to. Of the first says he, we speak Wisdom among them that are perfect; so Chap. 2. 6. But as for the other, you read what he says, Chap. 3. 1, 2. And I Brethren could not speak to you, as unto Spiritual, but as unto Carnal, even as unto Babes in Christ; I have fed you with Milk, and not with Meat: for hitherto ye were not able to bear it, neither yet now are ye able. Nay after he had written and almost concluded that Epistle (that I may bring it to the very Language of the Text) 1 Cor. 13. ult. he says to the same Corinthians, AND yet I shew unto you a more excellent way. Chap. 12.

This I insinuate, 1. To shew how remote those are from this primitive Spirit, that would include all within their Circle, and that Circle must be what a whole Nation, yea Churches of Nations agree upon, as if there were not room still for something more excelling, built on the former Foundations; tho indeed to destroy or alter Principles Fundamental, is to destroy the Church universal, both that which is now on Earth, and hath been. But soberly compare these Instances (if there were no other) with the Attempts and Principles of this and the former times: And let none of us exclude himself out of Paul's Prayers, that is, of professing our selves to be in a capacity still to approve of things more excelling, than yet we do; and let us pray to God daily to deprive us of no Manifestation of himself, which Saints in this Life are and have been capable of.

The only Observation (besides those which have been insinuated and scattered as I have gone along) I center on, is from the Coherence of those Words, ver. 9. and ver. 10. (That your Love may abound yet more and more in Knowledg, and in all Judgment; That ye may approve things that are excellent; That ye may be sincere and without Offence till the day of Christ, εἰς τὸ δοκιμάζειν, to the end you may approve, &c.) and it is this.

Obs. That the readiest and speediest way for any or every Christian to come to discern and judg aright of Things that differ (as matters of Doctrine controverted, Cases of Conscience, and also of ways that are more excellent in Religion) is this, that they abound in Love, Knowledg with all Sense, as was explained. This Observation is natural, from the Words εἰς τὸ δοκιμάζειν, to the end you approve, &c. Take Sense here in all the Senses I have mentioned; for Faith, as it hath all Senses annexed to it, and found in it (Heb. 5. ult.) Seeing, Hearing, Tasting, Smelling; so Faith conduceth to the discerning of things Spiritual, which are not taken in by Reason only, but by a spiritual Sense joined thereto. Job 12. 11. Doth not the Ear try Words, and the Mouth taste its Meats? Which Conjunction and Comparison signifies, that the discerning of Truths is as discerning by the Taste. The Understanding as made Spiritual, is the Palate of the Soul; The Spiritual Man discerneth all things, 1 Cor. 2. The Word φρονεῖν, put for Wisdom, is savouring; and says Job, Job 6. 30. Cannot my Taste discern perverse Things? He appeals to Sense for things that are grosly perverse, as a Man by Taste discerns his Meat if it be stale or corrupted. Peter's Judgment having a vitiated Humour overflowing it, hereupon says Christ, thou savourest not the Things of God, Mat. 16. 22. My Brethren, the regenerate part hath all Truth and Goodness originally wrought, and interwoven into the Temper and Constitution of it, it self is nothing but Truth and Goodness; and so all Spiritual Things are but prepared (as 1 Cor. 2.) or suted and fitted for it, and so thereby a Christian hath a great Prediſposition to judg of Doctrine and Practices. This sutes or this sutes not (says he) with the regenerate part; and however, tho that is not the sole determiner (for then there would be no want, nor need of Reason or others Teaching) yet when Reason hath done all it can, if this neither approves nor relisheth, there is a bearing off, a not closing with what is propounded. Or if we take Senſe for Experience, as 'tis ſuperadded to Faith, Rom. 5. this is an Help to judg. The Apoſtle ſpeaks, Heb. 5. ult. of ſtrong Meat. The ſtrongeſt Truths are ſuted to be digeſted, and taken in by thoſe that have their Senſes exerciſed, to diſcern both Good and Evil. He ſpeaks of experimental Chriſtians trained up in Temptations, and Caſes of Difficulty; whereas one (as afore) that is unskilful in the Word of Righteouſneſs (the Word in the Margent is, hath no Experience) will be able to digeſt only Milk. A Man diſcerns in things Spiritual the difference, not by Argument merely, but by Aim, that he preſently ſays, this is crooked, that is ſtreight. As a Merchant's Taſt who is uſed to Wines, or an experienced Apothecary judgeth of Drugs, and as Jewellers judg even by Senſe of Jewels. Or if we take Senſe for extraordinary Impreſſions from Communion with God, and Senſe his Love in the Heart, theſe mightily enable and guide a Man, confirm him, and lead him into Truth. How come Men to diſcern ἄδολον γάλα, the ſincere Milk of the Word? 1 Pet. 2. 2. It follows, if ſo be you have taſted (ſays he) that the Lord is Gracious. Infants diſcern the Sweetneſs of their Milk, by Senſe, not Reaſon: I cannot diſpute but can die for the Truth, ſaid that holy Woman Martyr. Thus John exhorts them to Communion with God the Father, ſhewing this as one Privilege of it, that being preinformed therewith, he tells them, Chap. 2. Ye have received an anointing that teacheth you all things; not that they needed not teaching, for then why ſhould he have written to them againſt them that ſeduced them? but he recals them in thoſe Words unto that Principle, which would exceedingly further them in judging of Truths: even as Paul in the caſe of Juſtification by Works, bids them but to have recourſe to the Thoughts they had at Converſion, when they were firſt humbled for Sin; Did you then truſt in your Works for Salvation? this was enough to confute that wicked Opinion. This Perſuaſion came not of him that called you, ſays Gal. 5. 8. and ſo Chap. 3. 2. he appeals to Experience, in the ſame or like queſtion to decide it; This only would I learn of you, Received ye the Spirit by the Works of the Law, or by the hearing of Faith?

Laſtly, To grow up in Love. Working by Faith is the ſhorteſt way to know God's Will; there is a Bleſſing of God that guideth ſuch a Man: John 7. 17. If any Man will do his Will, he ſhall know of the Doctrine whether it be of God, or whether I ſpeak of my ſelf. And David confirms it, Pſal. 119. 98, 99, 100. Thou thro thy Commandments haſt made me wiſer than mine Enemies, for they are ever with me. I have more Underſtanding than all my Teachers, for thy Teſtimonies are my Meditation. I underſtand more than the Antients, becauſe I keep thy Precepts.

Having ſhewed you what it is to approve the Things that are excellent, I come in the next place to explain to you what it is to be ſincere.

1. Sincerity is oppoſed to what is counterfeit. Thus the Apoſtle joins Sincerity and Truth together, 1 Cor. 5. 8. That then is ſincere which is genuine, which is right, which is true, as when we ſay this is true Gold.

2. Sincerity is oppoſed alſo to that which is void of Mixture. Thus Sincera in the Roman Language is ſine Cerâ, without Wax mingled. We do not huckſter the Truth (ſaith Paul) we do not mingle it with falſe Wares, but as in Sincerity, 2 Cor. 2. 17. Sincerity there is oppoſed to mixture. Now then apply it to Grace; a ſincere Heart is (as the Apoſtle calls it) a true Heart, an Heart genuinely Holy. Heb. 10. 22. Let us draw near with a true Heart, true to God, faithful to him in all things, as David is ſaid to have been. A ſincere Heart is a ſound Heart, 2 Tim. 2. 22. an Heart that hath a Principle of Life and Health in it, which works out all mixture of ill Humours, and purgeth it ſelf from all Filthineſs of Fleſh and Spirit, and mingleth with no Sin in the Conſtancy of a Man's Courſe. He keeps himſelf that the Evil One touch him not, as ſound pure Wine boaks and ſeeks to caſt out the Scum.

3. Sincerity ſignifies that which may be brought to the Sun; ſo in 2 Cor. 1. 12. We have had our Converſation in this World, not in Fleſhly Wiſdom, but in Godly Sincerity, or in the Sincerity of God, that is, whereof God is Witneſs, which may be brought to him, be held up to the Sun, and be judged to be ſuch according to that of Chriſt, John 3. 21. But he that doth Truth, cometh to the Light, that his Deeds may be made manifeſt, that they are wrought in God.

Εἰλικρινεία Θεοῦ.

4. But

4. But Sincerity hath a peculiar relation to walking with God (as the Word ſhews with which it is joined, ἀπρόσκοποι, without ſtumbling in his Way: For that Word is properly uſed only of the Feet) And ſo it importeth a ſound Conſtitution of Spirit both towards God and the Commandments of God in walking with him, &c. (as David expreſſeth it) being upright in the Way. 1 Kings 9. 4. If thou wilt WALK before ME (ſpeaking to Solomon) in INTEGRITY of HEART and in Uprightneſs, to do according to all that I COMMAND thee, and keep my Statutes and my Judgments, &c. Chap. 2.

5. But Sincerity implies more particularly theſe two things.

1. A right Intention aiming at God; it is therefore called the Sincerity of God in that, 2 Cor. 1. 12. and it is oppoſed there to Fleſhly Wiſdom, whereby a Man ſeeks to bring the World and Religion together. No (ſaith the Apoſtle) I aimed at God ſincerely, and that is the Teſtimony of my Conſcience. In that 2 Cor. 1. 12. he joins with it Simplicity. Now in Mat. 6. 22. that which the Apoſtle calleth Simplicity, Chriſt there calleth Singleneſs; if thine Eye be ſingle, ſaith he; it is the ſame Word. Now Chriſt his aim and ſcope is evidently in that Place to ſpeak of Sincerity of Intention in aiming at God, and in throwing out Worldly Ends; for he ſpeaks it in relation to a ſincere purpoſe of not ſerving two Maſters. Men think to compound with both, to have the World and Religion too; no ſaith he, God will have all: He that ſerveth him muſt ſerve him ſingly, and his Eye muſt be ſingle. And becauſe Chriſt ſpake of the Aim and Intention which guides the whole Converſation, therefore he adds, if the Eye be ſingle, the whole Body is full of Light. For a ſincere Intention is to direct the whole Man in his walking, as the Eye doth the Body in acting; if this Intention be kept ſingle, a Man will not err. John 7. 18. He who ſeeks his Glory that ſent him (viz. God's) the ſame is true, ſincere and upright, and there is no Unrighteouſneſs in him, he having nothing to biaſs him, or to make him ſwerve. And then take Sincerity for ſuch a Temper of Heart as can come to the Sun, and abide the Light of it: He who thus ſincerely aims at God's Glory, comes to the Light (as Chriſt ſays) John 3. 21. that his Deeds may be manifeſt, that they are wrought in God, and for God, becauſe ſuch an Heart can bear all that the Word ſays.

2. It notes out a bent of Will to all the Commandments, that he knoweth to be ſuch: I ſhall only name but one Place, Pſal. 119. 112. I have enclined my Heart to perform thy Statutes alway, even unto the end. In ſuch an Inclination of Heart that is thus conſtant to all the Commandments, lies Sincerity.

Which Sincerity ariſeth, 1. From a Love to God and his Commands, therefore the Apoſtle prayeth that they may abound in Love. 2. It ariſeth from a Senſe and Taſt that a Man hath of the ſweetneſs of God (through Communion with him) and of that which he finds in his Commands; he taſteth how good God is, and how good the Word is. Oh how I love thy Law! ſays David. And 3. It ariſeth from Knowledg; for, as David ſays in Pſalm 119. 30. Thy Judgments have I laid before me, therefore (ſaith he, ver. 128.) I eſteem all thy Precepts concerning all things to be right, and I hate every falſe way; as he alſo ſaith in the 112*th ver.* Read that whole Pſalm. I may ſtile it a Mirrour of Sincerity. As the Holy Ghoſt hath uſed the Penmen of Holy Writ to utter Divine Truths ſcatteredly and apart, ſo ſome more ſpecial Subjects he hath been pleaſed to write ſet Treatiſes of. Thus Solomon's Song is of Chriſt and the Church, and his Eccleſiaſtes is of the Vanity of all Things. Thus John wrote an Epiſtle of an Union with God, and Jude wrote another of falſe Teachers; and ſo David wrote this Pſalm of Sincerity and the Characters of it, and accordingly he begins, Bleſſed are they that are upright in the way of God. And this is called the Integrity of God, as to give one Inſtance concerning the meaneſt ſervice done to God: Eph. 6. 5. Servants, be obedient unto them that are your Maſters according to the Fleſh, in ſingleneſs of your Heart, as unto Chriſt: That is, aiming at him, even as if you ſerved the Lord Jeſus, and as if he bid you do every thing. And do this not with Eye-ſervice, as Men-pleaſers, but as Servants of Chriſt, doing the Will of God from the Heart, with good will doing Service as to the Lord and not to Men. I inſtance in this, to let you ſee how a ſincere Heart works towards God in one particular Condition and part of Obedience; that you may underſtand what it is to be ſincere in any other part, be it Recreation,

creation, or whatever work God sets thee about. All these put together, make up this Integrity, this Sincerity, this right frame of Spirit towards God and his Commands, that here the Apostle prays for. This is that which Job saith he would not part with, that tho he was not able to answer God one of a thousand, that is, if he came to Actions and Thoughts, yet for this frame of Spirit, saith he, till I die I will not remove my Integrity from me, and let me be weighed in an even Ballance, that God may know my Integrity.

It remains that we explain what it is to be without Offence; it is to walk without Stumbling, as the Word signifies. That place in Acts 24. 16. (where the same Word is used) openeth it; herein do I exercise my self (saith Paul) to have always a Conscience void of Offence towards God and towards Men. That is, that I might not sin against Light in my inward Converse before God, or outward before Men, grosly and willingly against Light; for otherwise in all things we do offend, as James saith. And certainly Paul to the day of his Death lived so, for we find no Sin against Light, either in his Epistles, or in the Story of the Acts recorded of him, but rather the contrary. Elsewhere also you have it explained, as in Luke 1. 6. it is said of Zecharias and Elizabeth, that they walked blameless in all the Commandments and Ordinances of the Lord; that is, the Precepts of the moral Law, and also Ordinances of Worship. You have the like Phrase, 2 Cor. 1. 8. 1 Thess. 5. 23. That you may be preserved blameless, ἀμέμπτοι, without Reproof or Accusation, or just Cause of it, sine querelâ, without just cause of Complaint by Men, 1 Pet. 3. 16. or of Satan, 1 Tim. 3. 7. & 5. 14. who is called the Adversary and the Accuser, Rev. 12. 10. But he hath not power to accuse in such Cases where the Believer walks without offence.

To be without Offence is to be ἀπρόσκοποι. προσκόπη is put properly to signify the Errings, Mis-treadings, Stumblings and Bruisings of the Feet in walking. As afore in that of Sincerity, the Intention of the Mind signified therein was compared to the Eye, so this hath allusion to the Steps. I shall make up the full Comprehension of what this Word holds forth, by what Offences I find in the New Testament the Word is applied to.

1. Heedfully to avoid all such Footsteps and Ways before others, as may induce them to Sin, or we know may prove an occasion to others of stumbling, or that edify them in their corrupt Principles; this is to be ἀπρόσκοποι, or void of Offence in walking. Thus 1 Cor. 10. 32. ἀπρόσκοποι γίνεσθε (the same Word that is used here) be not offensive, or be blameless, give no Scandal (the particular Instance he was upon, was eating in the Idol's Temple) neither to the Jews, nor to the Gentiles, nor to the Church of God. He reckons up all sorts of Religion then in the World, to all which that one Action would be an occasion of Offence. The Jews would say, these Men profess to worship one God as we do, and yet partake with Idols as we do not. The Grecians would say, we may then lawfully sacrifice to our Gods, for lo these Christians join with us in eating the Sacrifices offered up to 'em in the Temples of our Gods; which we (as they know) intend as a part of our Worship and Religion performed unto them. The Church of God would be scandalized, 1. Passively, in that Religion was blamed for it, that it would allow Men any kind of Practices, tho contradictory to the Principles of it self. 2. Actively, That weak Ones would, and were thereby drawn and encouraged against the scruples of their Consciences (to avoid Persecution) to the like compliance, which also proved a Step to Apostacy in many. Thus when by our Footsteps and Example, we invite others to follow us in evil, or give occasion to others to stumble, we are not ἀπρόσκοποι, blameless or inoffensive.

2. To walk in any Action contradictory to a Man's own Principles he professeth before others, is to be offensive, and not ἀπρόσκοπος, in the Apostle's sense. Besides what the foregoing Instance contributes, that Phrase which Paul applies to Peter and his Companions in that Case, is the opposite to this: The Word here, as was said, properly regards ὀρθὴ πόδων, and is properly applied to walking, and but metaphorically to other things; therefore inoffenso Pede, with an inoffensive Foot, say some, inoffenso Cursu, others. Most fitly therefore doth that of Paul, Gal. 2. 16. explain it, when he charged Peter, not to have walked with a right Foot, and that according to the Principles himself professed; therefore it follows, and not according

sed by a Man's self do require. This was Peter's apparent Fault there, for he of all the Apostles was the first that by a Revelation given in and warranted by a Vision from Heaven, was himself the first who had been taught not to forbear eating with Gentiles as unclean, Acts 10. 28. Ye know (says he) that it is an unlawful thing for a Man that is a Jew to keep Company, or to come unto one of another Nation: But God hath shewed me, that I should not call any Man common or unclean: That Principle was, and had been a Partition-wall between Jew and Gentile, Acts 11. 3, &c. and so on in that Chapter; yea and himself glories of it, as a peculiar Honour vouchsafed him by God in a publick Synod, Acts 15. 7. yea and at Antioch himself practised it, and did freely eat with the Gentiles: but when certain Jews came thither, he for fear of them separated himself, Gal. 2. 12. This was a Contradiction so notorious and visible, and his Example had such Influence on others, and so justly offended them, that Paul could not forbear, but openly falls upon him; When I saw (says the Apostle) that they walked not with a Right Foot, I said to Peter before them all, that is, reproved him: for (ver. 11.) he was to be blamed; and so it comes home to the Text, to explain it in the very Phrase of it.

3. As thus to be void of Offence before Men, so not to do any thing contradictory to that Light, which a Man's own Conscience hath received to walk by, not between God and himself, is to be without Offence. In this sense also (Acts 24. 16.) Paul useth the word, applying it to himself, so as we may understand his Prayers for them here, from his own Principles in walking, instanced in by himself; Herein (says he) I exercise my self to have a Conscience void of Offence towards God and towards Men; ἀπρόσκοπον συνείδησιν (tis the same word) a blameless Conscience, nil conscire sibi. He says not only a blameless Conversation, that others shall not be able to blame me, but a blameless Conscience, not to Men only, so as not to offend them, or give them cause of Accusation, but before God also. Conscience is that Principle, which is the Seat and Principle of all that practical Light, which is to guide us in our walkings with God, and is the receptacle of all the Guilt or Opposition to that Light in any Action of ours, which is refunded back into it. Now Paul's Conscience had received in more Light than any Man's in the World, and had therefore the hardest Task of it, that any Man ever had, to walk up to it, and needed the more Diligence and Study how to manage every Action, and the Circumstances of it (which is the greatest Study of the two) that not only his outward Conversation to Men might be without blame or offence, his Conscience bearing witness of that (as 1 Pet. 3. 16. Having a good Conscience, that whereas they speak evil of you, as of evil Doers, they may be ashamed that falsly accuse your good Conversation in Christ) but so as if you brought his outward walking to his Conscience it self, and that Conscience to God, the Searcher of Hearts; he endeavoured so to walk, as that Conscience might not have a Spot, a Darkness, a contrariety in actings of Spirit or Converse, to that Light which shined into his Soul from God, no not in his actings between God and himself. I follow this Metaphor, because the Apostle's parallel Expression glanceth at it, 2 Cor. 1. 12. For our rejoicing is this, the Testimony of our Conscience, that in Simplicity and godly Sincerity, not with fleshly Wisdom, but by the Grace of God, we have had our Conversation in the World, and more abundantly to you wards. That εἰλικρινείᾳ θεοῦ is a Metaphor from bringing fine Linen, as Lawn, &c. to the Sun, to view if there be any Spots in them, by putting them between our Eye and the Sun. Now says Paul, so have I done, and so I do, I hold my Conscience (for of the rejoicing of his Conscience he there speaks) to God, as to my Sun and Judg; and I am not conscious, says he, no not between him and me, of any Action in my Converse, wherein I made an interposition, or cast a shadow against that Light he hath seated therein to guide me. He brought his Works to the Light of God in his Conscience, to see whether they were wrought in God, John 3. 21. for thus Christ speaks of him that doth the Truth. Or if you will take it up in the Metaphor used in the Text, when a Man in all Duties between God and him, as well as Men, hath not dashed his Foot against his Light, and so is free from all Bruises and Wounds which his Conscience would feel, and which a tender Conscience easily feels (and which all Mens Consciences one day shall feel, when the Heat of Lust, and Pleasure of Book I. Action are past and gone) it is then that Man is without offence. This Light of God in the Conscience, is (as Christ himself is said to be) a Stone of Stumbling, on which if a Man fall, it bruiseth or breaks him; and a Sin against Conscience is a dashing against it, a kicking against the prickings of it. But Paul professeth his Religion to consist in two things, 1. For matter of Faith and Opinion, and Way of Worship, he confesseth himself a Christian, Acts 24. 14. After the Way which they call Heresy (says he) so worship I the God of my Fathers, believing all things which are written in the Law and the Prophets. And herein (saith he, ver. 16.) I exercise my self to have a good Conscience. The Translation, I exercise my self, is methinks a little too low and flat, for it doth not reach the higher Emphasis of the Words in the Original, ἐν τέτο ϑ ἀσκῶ, i. e. In this, or unto this (as the main Study and Design of my Life and Soul) do I give up my self, devote my self. Those devout Christians were antiently called Ascetæ, that gave up themselves wholly to God in Contemplation and Mortification therewith, and made it their Business. And as Paul made this his Study, so (as I take it by all that ever I have observed recorded of him) he made this his Glory; that he never after his Conversion sinned against his Light, no not between God and himself, which was rarely any Man's Glory before or since, to be sure it was not Peter's. He had set that down as an excellency he affected, to keep his Conscience a Virgin pure, and this made him so studious, and versed, and exercised in this Point. Unto this (says he) I give all my Study, Meditation, ἀσκῶ (the best Study in the World) for Conscience unblotted is the best, yea only Book in the World, that will remain unburnt, and be opened and exposed, and we examined by it at the latter Day; and when a Man hath studied to get much Knowledg, he is thereby (if he will be answerably holy) further and anew put upon a far greater and more exact Study, Exercise, and Meditation; and that is, how to walk up to the Light of what he knows. And that this Paul made his Glory, the Scripture every where testifies upon all occasions: Acts 23. 1. And Paul earnestly beholding the Council said, Men and Brethren, I have lived in all good Conscience before God until this Day. So, 1 Cor. 4. 4. For I know nothing by my self, yet am I not hereby justified; but he that judgeth me is the Lord. It is as if he had said, I am not conscious to my self of any thing, tho I am not hereby justified, that is, I do not say I am without Sin (for we must accord Paul with John, who says, he that says he hath no Sin deceives himself) because God knows that Sin in me, for which I cannot be justified; yet I have not to my knowledg in any Action gone against my Light. Also, 2 Cor. 1. 12. he thus speaks, For our rejoicing is this, the Testimony of our Conscience, that in Simplicity and godly Sincerity, not with fleshly Wisdom, but by the Grace of God, we have had our Conversation in the World, and more abundantly to you wards. And 2 Tim. 1. 8. I thank God whom I serve from my Forefathers with pure Conscience, that without ceasing I have remembrance of thee in my Prayers night and day. And Heb. 13. 18. Pray for us, for we trust we have a good Conscience in all things, willing to live honestly. This Blamelesness himself having kept, he prays might be in these Philippians, and ought to be in all Christians, and possibly might be, for it was in Paul.

CHAP. III.

What is meant by these Words in Phil. 1. 10. until the Day of Christ. The different Significations of those Phrases used in Scripture [unto the End] and [until the Day of Christ.]

THE next Words to be considered in the Text Phil. 1. 10. are these, Till the Day of Christ.

I should come next according to the Order of the Division of the Text given, to the positive part of Holiness, being filled, &c. but these Words coming in between, I had rather handle them as the Holy Ghost hath placed them. And indeed deed these Words come in, in the midst between both, and so appertain in common to both, and that as to this Sense and Purpose; both, That you may be without Offence until that Day, or in that Day, and also that ye be filled with the Fruits of Righteousness in, and at that Day. This is inserted as a matter of greatest moment, both 1. in it self, as a necessary requisite, that Holiness in us be continued until that Day without interruption, and also crowned with Perseverance. And also 2. in that relation which Holiness hath unto that Day, or the Stead which in that Day it will stand us in: that Day is the special Time and Season, which Holiness and Blamelessness is ordained, and serves for; the Day when it will stand us in most stead, and shine in its greatest Lustre. Which therefore 3. we should have most in our Eye, as a great incentive to abound in it; that in and at that Day we may be found to have been blameless, that in and at that Day we may appear filled with the Fruits of Righteousness, &c. Chap. 3.

Now 1*st.* to clear this Phrase it self, as the Words refer to that first import, being blameless until that Day, there is a Difficulty hath often presented it self to my Thoughts, which I will endeavour to assoyle: Why the Apostle should not rather have said in his Petition, till the Day of Death; but still almost every where in his Epistles, should mention the Day of Christ. Now that he should assign that Day to bear the date of his Prayers and Consolation to expire at, not extending his Petitions to that Eternity after that Day; it looks as if he supposed even after Death, some Danger to remain until that Day, which after that Day they are for ever free from, and after which they would not need any such Petition, but were secure for ever.

1. Some make the Foundation of these and such like Phrases to be, that Paul was of the Mind and Opinion, that the day of Judgment would fall out in his and their Days. And that this was his Opinion they alledg other like Expressions, that seem to look that way, 1 Cor. 15. 51. where speaking of the Judgment-day, he says, as in the Person of himself, and them of that Age; we shall not all die, but we shall all be changed: why did he not rather say THEY then living shall not all die, but he says WE, &c. And he again utters himself in like manner, 1 Thess. 4. 17. Then we which are alive and remain, shall be caught up together with them in the Clouds, to meet the Lord in the Air, and so shall we ever be with the Lord. And to the same purpose (say they) he supposing that Timothy might live to that Day, it was that he says, 1 Tim. 6. 14. That thou keep this Commandment without Spot unrebukable, until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ. All which is further backt with that of Christ's Speech, Watch ye, you know not what Hour, &c. And what I say to you, I say to all. He speaks not as if he would have those his Disciples then living and present, to apprehend the Day of Judgment might fall out in their Time.

But (1.) on the contrary it seems evident, that Paul did think and judg that the Day of Judgment would not be in that Age; and that therefore this is not the Import of this and the like Phrases: And to that end compare we but his Speech in two Epistles to the same Persons, the Thessalonians; in the first of which he maketh the same Prayer that is here, 1 Thess. 5. 23. he prays for them in the same Stile that here; I pray God your whole Spirit, and Soul, and Body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. Yet again speaking to the same Persons, 2 Thess. 2. 2. he exhorts them not to be troubled, neither by Spirit, nor by Word, nor by Letter as from him, as that the day of Christ is at hand. That one particular enumerated, not by Letter, sufficiently cuts off any Expression in his former Epistle, written to import so much; and therefore cuts off too that forementioned Prayer, to keep them blameless to that Day. And this Reason is the same, by which we may argue the like even in these latter days, that this Day cannot fall out in this Age; because there is yet so much Business to be done in the World, for which there is express Prophecy unfulfilled, as it will ask more than the time of an Age. For that Day (2 Thess. 2. 3.) shall not come except there be a falling away first, and the Man of Sin be revealed, the Son of Perdition. And so we may say, the ten Kings must destroy the Whore, and the Jews be called, and the whole Earth be filled with the Knowledg of the Lord, e'er that Day come. As therefore as he says, so say I, they deceive you that tell you so; and for those Phrases, we that are alive, &c. they are eaſily ſalved. He conſiders the Succeſſion of Chriſtians in all Generations as one Body, and Community, in diſtinction from all others reprobated, and accordingly ſays, we ſhall not all die.

But (2.) in the Original, the Word tranſlated until, is not ἄχρι, as at the 6th ver. nor μέχρι, as 1 Tim. 6. 14. but it is εἰς, which is often put for ἐν, and ſo ſignifies in that Day, as 1 Cor. 1. 8. ἐν τῇ ἡμέρᾳ, in the day of Chriſt, and 1 Theſſ. 5. 23. kept blameleſs ἐν παρουσίᾳ, in the coming of Chriſt; and ſo it is all one as to ſay, in, at, or againſt that Day: A Day for which Holineſs is mainly deſigned, when Blameleſneſs and Holineſs will be at the higheſt value, and of more uſe to you than at all times elſe. And ſo there may be an obſervable difference made between the Phraſe he had uſed in the 6th ver. of Phil. 1. where expreſſing his confidence, that God would perfect the Work he had begun, he ſays manifeſtly, until the Day of Chriſt, Ἄχρι. For the Perfection of Glory (whereof Grace is the Foundation) is not till then, and there both in Body and Soul accompliſht; but here in 1 Theſſ. 5. 23. it is, That you may be blameleſs, in or at the Day of Chriſt. And in this ſenſe, wicked Men are ſaid to treaſure up Wrath, ἐν τῇ ἡμέρᾳ, againſt that Day of Wrath, Rom. 2. 5. ſo 'tis there tranſlated, and might be here.

There is only one Place, 1 Tim. 6. 14. hath μέχρι until: That thou keep this Commandment without ſpot, unrebukable, UNTIL the appearing of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. But the anſwer to that one Place is ready and eaſy, and carries a great Truth with it. Paul wrote to Timothy as an Evangeliſt, who being ſet over Churches in that Age, when Churches were to be conſtituted to ſet them in order, they accordingly received Directions from the Apoſtles according to Chriſt's Inſtitutions; yet ſo as their Offices ceaſing (which whether they did or no, I will not here diſpute) the ſame Directions were intended to all ordinary Officers of Churches ſetled. Now then in ſpeaking to him, he in him ſpeaks unto all Saints and Officers betruſted, how to guide and govern Churches in the ordinary way unto the end. 1 Tim. 3. 15. That thou mayeſt know how thou oughteſt to behave thy ſelf in the Houſe of God. To inſtruct all Saints and Officers betruſted with the Government of Churches to the end of the World; and to ſhew he intended the Succeſſion of Officers and Chriſtians in what he wrote to Timothy, he gives him, and in him them, warning of what ſhould fall out in ſeveral Succeſſions, of the latter days of the Church. 1 Tim. 4. 1. Now the Spirit ſpeaketh expreſly, that in the latter times ſome ſhould depart from the Faith, giving heed to ſeducing Spirits, and Doctrines of Devils; wherein he forewarns them of the Apoſtacy of Popery, which fell out in the latter days, the middle Age of Chriſtianity, when Paul and Timothy were Duſt. He ſpeaks here too of carnal Proteſtants that have a Form of Godlineſs, and he ſpeaks too of all that fry of Errors that ſhould infeſt the Churches; from all which his Counſel is to turn away, and ſeparate from them, ver. 5. I alledg theſe Places for this, that he ſpeaks to Timothy, as bearing the Perſon of them that ſhould come after him many hundred Years (as Peter alſo did in receiving the Keys) and ſo that Charge (1 Tim. 6. 13.) is not barely perſonal, but to others after him to the end of the World: and ſo he might well lay a Charge μέχρι, until the Day of Chriſt, and the Commandment there is all the Doctrine in that Epiſtle; where Church Inſtitution and Rules for Worſhip and Government take up a great part. Thus Commandment is taken for the whole Doctrine delivered, 2 Pet. 2. 21. For it had been better for them not to have known the Way of Righteouſneſs, than after they have known it, to turn from the Holy Commandment delivered unto them. Thus alſo in Ch. 3. 2. That ye may be mindful of the Words which were ſpoken before by the Holy Prophets, and of the Commandment of us the Apoſtles of the Lord and Saviour. And the Truth which I ſaid this Explication carries with it, is this great and manifeſt one; that Church-Inſtitution for Worſhip and Government, contained in that and other Epiſtles (I ſay other alſo, for who ſhall put the difference of theſe in this, from thoſe in other Epiſtles?) are the Commandments of Jeſus Chriſt, the charge of which lies upon the Churches of God to the coming of Chriſt. Similarly unto the ſtile of which Injunction here in Timothy, Paul elſewhere ſpeaks, when he ſays of the great Ordinance of the Lord's Supper, ye ſhew forth his Death till he comes; and Chriſt anſwerably gives forth his Promiſe, reaching to the ſame date that Paul's Charge doth. And as he speaks to the Saints under Timothy's Name, so Christ under his Disciples Names speaks to all others, Go, teach and baptize (synecdochically put for all outward Administrations) I will be with you to the end of the World. So then Ordinances and the Command for them continues to the end. This we have only gained by the way, to give an account why μέχρι, until, is used in that Passage, more especially as noting out the whole continuance of time till the Day of Judgment, which yet is not in these other Passages of Paul's Prayers, which are rather to be understood of being kept blameless, in the Day, and in the coming of Christ. Chap. 3.

But a third Satisfaction to the Objection mentioned is, that if the reading be retained until, εἰς for usque ad (as Beza explains it) as noting the Continuance of their being preserved all the time until then (which because the Word may signify, I would take in) yet for the thing it self, both Phrases come all to one, as in the reality of the Event; and it is all one to say, to be kept till the Day of Death, or till the Day of Christ. And this Interpretation two Places do warrant: the first is Rev. 2. 20. Be thou faithful unto the Death, and I will give thee a Crown of Life; which manifestly argues that the Faithfulness which is continued until Death, hath an immediate Reward of a Crown of Life, and is compleated then, so as to admit no addition of Flowers to that Crown by any Faithfulness after; for only so much as till Death is rewarded, and no more accounted. And thus Paul reckons his account finished, his computes perfected at Death; 2 Tim. 4. 7. I have fought a good Fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the Faith. When I come to die, there is an end of a finishing of all, unto which any degree of Glory is accounted; when I come to die, I shall have done my part, I shall have finisht my course. As for that τὸ λοίπον (which we translate henceforth) that Remainder for ever after, that no way lies in me, it is God's part, I shall have done all mine; nothing remains but for him to give me a Crown of Life. So then to be kept blameless as to the Day of Death, as it is enough for our parts; so it is all one with this here, until the Day of Christ. The second Text is, 1 Cor. 1. 8. Who shall confirm you unto the end, that ye may be blameless in the Day of our Lord Jesus Christ. Here is both the one and the other mentioned together, to that Sense which I have given; for to confirm to the end, is to the end of our Lives; and if we are so confirmed till the end of our Lives, we shall be blameless in the Day of Christ. For such we shall be found at the latter Day, as we were in our Lives to the day of our Death. And thus it is necessary to distinguish these two Phrases, to the end, as meant of Death, from that other, as of the Day of Christ, for else it had been a Tautology; when yet the latter is made the end of the former; and the Reason why yet these two are one in the Issue and Reality and Event is, because as the Tree falls it lies, qualis hinc exit, talis judicandus in isto die. There being indeed no account to arise from all that passeth between the Day of Death, and this of Judgment: For 2 Cor. 5. 10. we are to be judged only for what the Soul doth in the Body. For we must all appear before the Judgment-Seat of Christ, that every one may receive the Things done in his Body, according to that he hath done, whether it be Good or Bad. The account is not for what is done out of the Body, which is alike common both to Wicked and Godly men, to those that have done Good or Evil; and therefore Paul, Heb. 9. 27. makes no more between, but that it is appointed for all Men to die, and after this the Judgment; and he speaks of the general Judgment, for it is brought as a parallel Instance, to prove Christ's Coming the 2*d* Time, as it followeth there, ver. 28. So Christ was once offered to bear the Sins of many, and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second Time, without Sin unto Salvation.

But if the Question be asked why, since these two Phrases to the End, and to the Day of Christ, come both to one Sense in reality, he should chuse rather and more frequently to use this latter, till the Day of Christ? The Answer is, because Holiness is of more concernment to us at that Day, than at all Times else; therefore he contents not himself here, nor also 1 Cor. 1. 8. to have said, who shall confirm you to the End, viz. till Death, but adds also, in the Day of Christ.

Book I.

CHAP. IV.

How we may be said to be kept blameless until the Day of Christ.

THUS much touching the difficulty in the Phrase, there is another remaining in the Thing it self, which is concerning the blamelesness, or being void of Offence; How both in this and other places, as 2 Cor. 1. 8. 2 Thess. 5. 23. the Promise included in these Prayers to present us blameless in that day, is to be understood. For Men shall be presented such as they were in this Life; and in this Life in many things, as James says, we offend all; and many of the Saints after Conversion run into Scandals and Offences to others, and their own Consciences. How then are such Prayers and Promises fulfilled?

To this an Antinomian would be ready to give an easy Answer with respect to their Principles: That all this is accomplished in Justification; because Christ shall present us then to himself and his Father, clothed with his Righteousness, we shall be spotless and without wrinkle. But the blamelesness of the Saints here, and in other the like Places at that day, is not that of Justification, but Sanctification. 1. For here he speaks of Sincerity, being filled with the Fruits of Righteousness. 2. And elsewhere, 1 Thess. 5. 23. The God of Peace sanctify you wholly, that your whole Soul and Body be preserved blameless at the coming of Christ. 'Tis spoken of Sanctification you see; and as so taken, I find it sometimes uttered, (1.) as an absolute Promise which God undertakes to perform, as well as that the Saints shall persevere. 2. Sometimes as a Prayer for, and Exhortation to us to be found such, so here. And the several Consideration of either, will answerably afford a double distinction of blamelesness, even of Sanctification intended in this and the like Places. 1. We find absolute Promises annexed to the Prayers he makes for their being kept blameless to that Day that God will perform it: 1 Cor. 1. 8. Who shall also confirm you, to the end that ye may be blameless in the Day of our Lord Jesus Christ. And that it is an absolute Promise, the 9*th ver.* shews, God is faithful, by whom ye were called unto the Fellowship of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord. And in more absolute Terms yet, 1 Thess. 5. you have heard how he prays, even as here in ver. 23. and yet ver. 24. it follows, Faithful is he that calleth you, who also will do it. He first engageth God's Faithfulness, and then doubles the Assurance, he will do it, yea also do it, as sure as he hath called you. Yea, and it is such a Promise, as shall be performed unto all Saints called, Small and Great; for the Promise is founded upon a consideration, that in common holds true of all the Saints, Faithful is he that calleth you; and all Saints are Saints by calling, in the same 1 Cor. 4. 2. Of Necessity therefore such a blamelesness, of that Latitude and Size, must be understood in these Places, as is a common Privilege to all Saints, that ever were, or shall be, and common even to those that have run into Offences, as many of those, he wrote to, also did. And to interpret this only of that perfect Sanctification, wrought just at the parting of Soul and Body, is too dilute; because Paul prays and exhorts, and accordingly promiseth from God, that during the whole course and time of their Lives, they be so kept, even blameless. There is therefore, Brethren, a Blamelesness and Sincerity in the Saints, some especially, in respect of all that vacuity of all sorts of Offences, such as in the Sense the word was interpreted. But in respect to those Principles and Laws, which the State of Grace is bounded with, and Men preserved in that State, notwithstanding such particular Offences; there are certain Principles, which are essential to the being and keeping of us in the State of Grace, as that a Man should live in no known Sin, but live in the constant practice of known Duties, seeking the Glory of God in all. The Apostle John hath everlastingly stated such Principles, as the bounds, the limits between both Estates; 1 John 3. 7. Let no Man deceive you, he that doth Righteousness, is Righteous, even as he is Righteous. He speaks not of particular Acts, wicked Men may do some things Righteous, and godly Men do things that are Evil. But his ποιεῖν, is a Man's Course, Work, Business, to go on in an ill track, as the Devil from the beginning. Another like Principle

Paul inculcates, Rom. 14. 8. None of us lives to himself, but to the Lord, that is, maketh God's Glory the end of his Course and Ways. This is a Fundamental Maxim of our Livery, they are none of us that do not; we own them not, nor will Christ own them. To be kept then to the Practice of these and such like, is radically and essentially necessary to the being kept in the State of Grace. Again, if a Man falls into particular acts of Sin through Temptation, wherein a Christian offendeth his own Conscience or others: an essential Law to the being kept in the State of Grace is, to return and convert, humbling themselves, renewing their Repentance, as Peter did, whose Faith was recovered: I have prayed, says Christ, thy Faith fail not. He wept bitterly, Repentance was renewed, and he loved Christ more than ever: Lord, says he, thou knowest I love thee. Now then as in respect to such Principles as these, there is a blamelesness, a being void of offence according to the Rules of the Gospel; whenas in respect of acts there is not a blamelesness in Conversation: This is such a blamelesness, as that Perfection of Heart is said to be in David, 1 Chron. 28. 9. and in Asa all his days, 2 Chron. 15. 17. tho with a nevertheless (as there) of many foul Acts, the particulars of which you may read in Ch. 16. It was a comparative Perfection, taking their whole Course, and summing up the account of all their days, as 'tis there said; yea and further, when in respect of such Acts committed, a Man is to be blamed, (Gal. 2. 11.) yet if a Man renews Faith and Repentance, he is according to the Rules and Verdict of the Gospel (which is that Royal Law of Liberty) rendred pure and void of Offence. Again, this Paul upon these Principles pronounceth of the Corinthians, in a matter wherein they had been highly guilty (as in the Business about the incestuous Person, 1 Cor. 5.) yet in 2 Cor. 7. after he had related how they had sorrowed (for their Sin) to God, and after a godly manner (witness all those gracious Dispositions he rehearseth, ver. 11.) in the Conclusion he gives forth this gracious Sentence of the Gospel thereupon: In all things you have approved your selves CLEAR in this matter, ἁγνοὺς (as high a word as any other, equivalent to that without spot or wrinkle) clear, not in respect only to other things in their Lives, wherein they had done worthily; but even in this very matter, wherein they had afore been so foully faulty. The Sin they had committed could not be undone, but yet they had done all (in all things ye have shewn, &c.) all namely, which the Law of Liberty, the Gospel, requires in such a Case (the particulars of which he had reckoned up) upon which it declares a Man pure. Neither speaks he of purity through Justification, that is only by Faith, not Repentance, but according to the Rules and Maxims which about Sanctification the Gospel holds forth, and according to which the Day of Judgment shall proceed. Chap. 4.

So then we see one Sense, in which those Speeches of the Apostle (take them as absolute Promises) are to be understood; and this kind of blamelessness must needs be supposed at least to be intended in these Prayers of Paul, especially in that parallel Prayer of his (1 Thess. 5. 23.) where the Promise of keeping all the Saints in this respect blameless, is also annexed: and this to be sure his Prayers attained for them, that were true Saints among 'em.

But yet, my Brethren, this is the lowest, and if I may call it so, the worser sort of Blamelessness; tho indeed thus to be kept all a Man's days in the midst of many Offences, still within the Circle and Limits of the State of Grace, is an infinite Privilege, and high Specimen and Argument of God's free Grace, according to that of Hosea 14. 4. I will heal their Backslidings, I will love them freely. In the State of Nature, God gives Examples in various proportions and degrees, and sizes, how far in common Righteousness Men unregenerate may proceed, and yet remain unregenerate, and be still in that Estate: Some attain to the height of Morality, as Socrates; others of Legality, as concerning the Law blameless, as Paul, Phil. 3. 6. others attain to a degree of a Work Evangelical, yet not saving: 2 Pet. 2. 19, 20. While they promise them Liberty, they themselves are the Servants of Corruption; for of whom a Man is overcome, of the same is he brought in Bondage. For if after they have escaped the Pollutions of the World, through the Knowledg of the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, they are again intangled therein, and overcome, the latter end is worse with them than the beginning. They do escape the Pollutions of the World through the Knowledg of Christ, who yet remain in their Nature;

Swines

Book I.

Swines waſht outwardly, yet not renewed, but returning to their former Vomit. And God in his Actings towards thoſe in a State of Grace, to ſhew the Glory of his free Grace in the variety of Diſpenſations, doth preſerve in and amidſt ſeveral ſizes and degrees of unblameworthineſs thoſe whom he ſaves. Some run out farther, others in leſſer meaſures as to particular Acts of Sin, and yet ſtill ſo as they remain within the Line of Communication of thoſe Principles mentioned. And as it is a matter of difficulty to define, how far a Man unregenerate may go in external Acts of Vertue, and yet ſtill continue within the Sphere and Dominion of that unregenerate Eſtate: ſo it is as hard to ſay, how far Saints may fall, or how often, into offence and blameworthineſs; and yet this radical fundamental blameleſneſs, as to the Principles of the State of Grace, both for his whole courſe, and reducements by Repentance, be preſerved. Some are more ſcarcely ſaved, tho certainly ſaved; ſome are ſuffered to put the ſure Mercies of David to it. Thus the ſureneſs of God's Mercies were exemplified in David and Solomon, for they tried, eſpecially Solomon, how far they would hold. I ſinned (ſaith Solomon) to the utmoſt of the Teddar, as far as the Lines of the Principles of Grace would reach, as far as would be conſiſtent with them. Himſelf expreſſeth it thus in the ſad Story of all his Vanities, in Eccleſ. Ch. 1. and 2. He inſerts this, Eccleſ. 2. 3. that he yet acquainted his Heart with Wiſdom; and his Reducements by Repentance are known to you, for the Title of his Book is a Teſtimony of it; and yet he was ſo ſcarcely ſaved, that it is a Controverſy in the Church to this day, whether he were ſaved yea or no. And altho this may be an Encouragement to ſome Souls, who have had great Diverſions from God in their Lives ſince their Calling, that the Prerogative Sovereignty, and the Faithfulneſs of that Grace they are under the Dominion of, hath reduced them, and hath in all their goings aſtray kept them within the forementioned Principles of this State, and hath reduced them from their Wandrings; yet whoever he be that having the Work of God upon his Soul, will think with himſelf, I will be ſure to ſin but ſo, as to keep within that compaſs; let that Soul know, that he into whoſe Heart this Thought enters, or takes any hold in, is at the next ſtep to outſin thoſe Principles, and to ſink into eternal Perdition. For poor Soul, tho the free Grace that is in God may ſay it, I will ſuffer ſuch an one to ſin, and yet keep him blameleſs according to the Covenant of Grace; yet it is deſperate daring for thee to ſay this, or to preſume upon it; and it is indeed utterly againſt the ingenuity of Grace, and argues nothing but ſelfiſhneſs in thy Soul. Thus much of the firſt ſort of blameleſneſs, which the abſolute Promiſe is made to.

2. There is certainly, in the ſecond place, another ſort intended: for the Apoſtle prays not barely that they may be kept blameleſs, according to the Principles of the State of Grace; but this being a Prayer indefinitely uttered, therefore that ſort of Blameleſneſs which is poſſible to be attained by Saints, muſt be intended here; and my Reaſons are, 1. Becauſe in Prayer we are allowed to ſeek for our ſelves and others the utmoſt good, which by any kind of Promiſe we judg they may poſſibly attain to. And 2. it is evident he ſtints not himſelf here, barely to pray for Perſeverance, but for their abounding more and more; ſo ver. 9. and that they might be filled down, laden with the Fruits of Righteouſneſs; and he aimed therefore at the higheſt Blameleſneſs in his Prayer for theſe. I will not diſpute now, whether the Deſires of our Prayer may not be extended beyond what we know God in his Decrees will grant, when yet his revealed Will propounds it as what ſhould, and ought to be in us, and as what we ſhould aim at, and endeavour to attain. Thus in Mat. 6. 10. Thy Will be done in Earth, as 'tis in Heaven: And alſo in 2 Cor. 13. 7. I pray God ye do no Evil. All which will one day be accompliſht on this Earth, when Chriſt comes to Judgment. But take this Blameleſneſs de facto, attained at the higheſt Pin (without breaking the Strings of Mortality) it hath in any been wound up unto; and as we deſcended to the loweſt Degrees in the other Interpretation, ſo let us aſcend up to the higheſt poſſible in this other. And ſuch a blameleſneſs (we may well underſtand) he intended for theſe Philippians; and what was the Aim of his Prayers, ſhould be the Aim, yea hope of our Endeavours: and to underſtand what blameleſneſs this is, let us take his own Example, 1 Cor. 4. 4. I know nothing by my ſelf (not any Fact againſt Light, Light, and he speaks it as in relation to a censure of him by the Corinthians) and tho I am not justified (which belongs to another Court) by this kind of Blamelesness (for I do not say, I am without Sin) yet this Blamelesness I have (says he) that I never sinned against Light from the first of my Conversion, I know nothing by my self. If he had so sinned, he must have known it, and his Conscience have checkt him in the writing this. Chap. 4.

So then from hence I gather, that besides the former there is a Blamelesness possible to be attained as a more special Privilege, and to be aimed at by Christians, even to be void of offence against Light of Conscience, all the residue of a Man's Days. I say it is a special Privilege for him who attains to it. The chief of the Apostles that forsook Christ did not attain it, yet Paul did; therefore propounds himself as an Example, Follow me, as I follow Christ. And it would seem that Paul was kept to the very end of his days, to his Offering up. For (2 Tim. 4. 18.) he expresseth his confidence in him that had hitherto kept him, That he would deliver him from every Evil Work, and would preserve him unto his Heavenly Kingdom. His meaning is not simply, that God would save his Soul, and accordingly keep him from such ways of sinning, as could not stand with the Principles of Grace; but further so to keep him in his Heavenly Kingdom, as he might be kept from every evil work; such as was contrary to the Principles which he professed before others, or which his own Conscience had the Impression of. And that Place is not so fairly or honourably enough to Paul's Spirit, nor rightly as to his Scope, interpreted of Deliverance from Persecution, and the evil workings of evil Men against him. For this Interpretation is grounded on that false pretence, that the occasion of that Speech was the Narrative of his being delivered out of the Mouth of the Lion Nero, in the Words before; and so as that confidence of his should intend only like Deliverances from the bloody Hands of Persecutors. No! for he was not so delivered, but died by the Sword of the fame Nero, whose Power he had now escaped. But Paul's confidence had a further Deliverance in his Eye, which that very Deliverance was a Pledg of. His Case stood thus: I Paul (I speak in his Person to utter his Sense) have been often before the Bars of Kings and Great Ones for my Life in the Profession of Christianity (you read how before Felix, Agrippa, and the High Priest in the Acts) in all such pressures I never did any thing at any time (I thank God) unworthy of my Profession. You read how instead of pleading for his Life, he still endeavours at the Bar to turn them Christians he spake to. God still preserved him from every evil Work, upon all such sore Trials, he came not off halting. Now in my old Age (for so it was when he wrote this, now he was ready to be offered, and the time of his Departure was at hand, and this Story was then newly acted) I was called before Nero, and I was more put to it than ever. Ver. 16. At my first answer no Man stood with me, but all Men forsook me, I pray God that it may not be laid to their Charge. Yet as at all other times you have heard or read of, I have undergone great Trials: this time of Temptation is as great as I ever underwent, and yet notwithstanding, the Lord stood with me and strengthened me. The chief of his Intention you see, was not upon outward Deliverance, but how not to sin, how to carry it so as to credit Religion, to come off so, as to make a good Confession for the advantage of the Gospel, as elsewhere he had done; and that this is his meaning the next words shew, That by me the Preaching might be fully known, and that all the Gentiles might hear. Paul having thus as a Lion kept his Integrity in this great certamen in his old Age, and having made this his Glory, besides his being delivered out of the Mouth of the Lion, What was his Reward? God came in upon his Spirit with fresh Assurance, not only that he would preserve him unto his Heavenly Kingdom, so as not to fall away; but that he would from thenceforth deliver him from every evil Work. Oh that gladded Paul's Heart! I shewed you formerly how Paul made this his Glory, but we could not tell certainly whether he might not blemish his Glory after; but this Scripture shews that as he had made it his Ambition not to sin against his Light, to be void of Offence all along, so he had now the Security of it as a special Privilege. An holy Man that affected the same exemption came once to me, and professed, he had read all the Scriptures over, and could not find one Promise to keep a Believer from a gross Sin as long as he lived: I thought of this, I know no other. I observe Book I. ſerve that upon eminent Trials, ſuch as that was of Paul's, God uſeth to ſeal up ſomething to a Man's Soul of ſpecial Grace to him. In the 28*th* of this 1*ſt Chap.* of the Phil. when Chriſtians are called to bear witneſs for Chriſt, Be you in nothing (ſays he) terrified by your Adverſaries, which is to them an evident Token of Perdition; but to you of Salvation, and that of God. God at ſuch times, and upon ſuch occaſions uſed to give (ordinarily to Martyrs and Confeſſors of him) an Evidence and Token of their Salvation; as unto the Perſecutors, a Conſternation of Spirit, which is to them an evident Token of Perdition. Now therefore upon this occaſion he gave unto Paul a double aſſurance at laſt, who had ſerved him in ſo many Trials. 1. He gives him an aſſurance of preſerving him to his Heavenly Kingdom, which is common to other Chriſtians. 2. He gives him an aſſurance (which was more ſpecial) of delivering him from every evil Work, which he had ſo much deſired; God ſaid to him, As hitherto thou haſt not, ſo thou ſhalt from henceforth never commit any evil Work againſt thy Light and Principles. I have been the larger in this, to ſet before you the Example, the poſſibility of attaining this kind of Blameleſneſs, for which he therefore prays for theſe Philippians. I would provoke your Spirits hereby to affect it, and endeavour it: It would ſeem attainable alſo by other Inſtances, as that of Elizabeth and Zachary, the Parents of the Baptiſt, Luke 1. 6. 'tis ſaid, they were both Righteous before God, walking in all the Commandments and Ordinances of the Lord blameleſs. You profeſs to live in Obedience to Commandments, I beſeech you do the ſame with reſpect to Ordinances, and all Ordinances; for they are all of alike Neceſſity; and the ſecond Commandment commands you this Duty. From this Doctrine, tho the Papiſts would fondly gather their Perfection and Poſſibility of keeping all the Commandments without Sin (however John and James contradict it, ſaying, in many things we offend all) yet we may well allow them (their Errors having uſually a ſhadow of ſome Truth, which they miſs ſpeaking either over or under) a poſſibility to be blameleſs in reſpect of ſinning againſt Light; and ſo to have a Conſcience void of offence before God and Man. And the Reaſon for it is this, becauſe if an holy Man may be, and is often kept from ſuch Sins a Week, a Month, a Year, then it is alſo poſſible with this State of Frailty to be kept all his Life-time; but for the Papiſts Perfection, a Man is not kept an Hour, a Moment, Sin cleaving to all we do. The Apoſtle Peter, tho he had not ſo lived from the time of his Converſion, yet from Experience now perhaps he had learned the Way how thus to be kept; and accordingly directs thoſe primitive Churches he wrote to, 2 Pet. 1. 10. where exhorting them to all Diligence, &c. he adds this Motive; if ye do theſe things ye ſhall never fall. What fall away? There is no Danger to Men, Partakers of the Divine Nature, ſo to do; but as the word imports never, μήποτε, not at any time. And that Doxology of Jude ſeems more clearly and fully to hold forth ſuch a meaning, as I have put upon this Petition of Paul for theſe Philippians, and ſo withal to argue the poſſibility of obtaining it, which he would have thoſe primitive Chriſtians to have in their Eye, to obtain at God's Hands; Jude 24. Now unto him that is able to keep you from falling, and to preſent you faultleſs before the Preſence of his Glory with exceeding great Joy, &c. I obſerve how the Apoſtle had afore made mention of very great Errors and Miſcarriages in Doctrine and Life, which ſome Profeſſors in thoſe times had run into, and he had alſo ſpoken of the Day of Judgment; and to be kept faultleſs hath relation to thoſe groſs Sins in Judgment and Practice, which would be of infinite moment to them at that day; for it would cauſe mighty Exultation and a triumphant Joy. And as Paul prays here, ſo he there ſets out God to them as able to keep them, to the end they ſhould have recourſe to him, and ſo to do with Encouragement; that as he was able, ſo that he might do it for them: For to that end is God ſet forth to them as able to do this for them, and ſo he concludes his Epiſtle.

Obſ. 1. The only Obſervation or Meditation I ſhall now make is, That the Solemnity of the Great Day ought to be continually in our Eyes, as that which ſhould move us to be ſincere and blameleſs. For therefore it is that the Apoſtle chuſeth to uſe the Phraſe, until, or in the Day of Chriſt (for either ſerves a bottom for this Meditation) rather than until the Day of Death. We ſhould ſo walk and live, and die as if we were immediately mediately to go to Judgment at the very Hour of our Deaths. And tho both the one and the other import the same thing in the event, yet the consideration of this latter strikes a greater awe, and that is the true Reason (which is a remaining part of the former Objection) why Christ in his cautions to watch and be sober (under which he expresseth the highest care to be Holy) and to be continually ready, still mentions this day: Mat. 24. 42. Watch ye therefore, for ye know not what Hour your Lord doth come. Mar. 13. 35, 36. Watch ye therefore, for ye know not when the Master of the House cometh, at Even, or at Midnight, or at the Cock-crowing, or in the Morning; lest coming suddenly he find you sleeping. And ver. 37. What I say to you, I say to all in all Ages. And he speaks of the day of Judgment, and presseth this Readiness and Preparedness upon the uncertainty of the coming and approach thereof, both to them in that Age who knew it not, and to us, and those after, that did and do know it could not be in their or our Times: yet because Judgment finds us as Death leaves us, and as our Behaviour in this World hath been; therefore it is that Christ gives forth the Caution to all Ages, of watching for the day of Judgment, thereby to make the greater Impression. It always moves Men both as it contains a Promise sealed with Christ's last Prayer and Blood, and as withal it carries the greatest warning for our Care and Study, how to behave our selves in this World. Thus Christ at last, when himself was to go to God out of this World, as having seen and passed thro the Temptations of it, as a signal Instance of his Love for us, prays that we should be kept whilst in this World: Thus in his last Prayer, wherein you may see wherein his Solicitude ran out most; John 17. 12. While I was with them in the World, I kept them in thy Name; those that thou gavest me, I have kept, and none of them is lost but the Son of Perdition, that the Scripture might be fulfilled. And ver. 15. I pray not that thou shouldst take them out of the World, but that thou shouldst keep them from the Evil. The Time of their being in the World had all the Danger in it, and he had a special memento and occasion at that time to put up this Prayer; for Peter was to deny him, the Disciples to leave him. I have been glad that Paul in saying, that neither Death nor Life shall separate us from Christ, did put in Life; for I profess I fear Life and the Temptations of it, and how to go through this World comelily, more than Death. Now then as the time and concernment of danger is in this Life, so the consideration of a Judgment to come should have a great Influence to keep us blameless in this World, and free from the Evil of it; therefore here he mentions that Day, as also Christ doth, Luke 21. 36. Watch ye therefore, and pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these Things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of Man. To stand, namely in Judgment (as Psal. 2. the Phrase is) and thus Paul likewise aweth Timothy, and us in him, 1 Tim. 6. 14. That thou keep this Commandment without spot, unrebukable, until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ. The force of this Motive lies thus; as Christ appeared before Pilate (for that was God's Day of judging Christ standing in our stead) so thou, says Paul, must appear before Christ; therefore I charge thee keep this Commandment: and therefore the Apostles turned the Eyes of all the primitive Christians upon that Day, or the Coming of Christ. It was a great part of the Religion of the primitive Christians, to wait for the Coming of Jesus Christ; and they are described to us, to have been such as those that walk'd in view of it, as those that had that Day in their Eye, and should then be judged: and in this they are set forth as a Pattern to us; 1 Cor. 1. 7. So that ye come behind in no Gift, waiting for the Coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. He makes this an Evidence of their excelling in all other Gifts; 2 Tim. 4. 8. Which he shall give me at that Day, and not to me only, but unto them also that love his appearing. This latter you see is a Periphrasis, a Description of the Saints in those Times, and all Ages; and as he describes them by it, so he sets it before them, as his own Principle, which did keep him steady in his walking: 2 Cor. 5. 9, 10. Wherefore we labour, that whether present or absent, we may be accepted of him. For we must all appear before the Judgment-Seat of Christ, that every one may receive the Things done in his Body, according to that he hath done, whether it be Good or Bad. There is a Necessity of it, we must so appear, none can avoid it: and we shall not be present only as in a Crowd, so as to hope to shrink aside, and hide our selves unſeen; but we muſt be ſingled out, be preſented (as Col. 1. 28.) and ſtand forth apart as at a Bar. Men that are perſonally called to appear, ought παραστῆναι σώματι, perſonally to anſwer, Rom. 4. 10. ἔμπροσθεν, in conſpicuo, to be ſeen of all, 2 Cor. 5. 10. to the end they may be made tranſparent, and be ſeen through and through, what they are or have been in their Lives. φανερωθῆναι; and this is then to be made apparent to Men, as now unto God, We are now manifeſt to God, and we truſt alſo in your Conſciences. However this place implies, that at that day we ſhall be made manifeſt one to another, even as now we are unto God.

Book I.

It is a great Scripture and full of Majeſty, in 1 Theſſ. 3. 12. he prayeth they may abound in Love more and more (as here) to the end their Hearts might be eſtabliſhed unblamable in Holineſs before God, even the Father, at the Coming of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt with all his Saints. He preſenteth before them the Solemnity of that Day, by all ſuch ways as might ſtrike their Hearts. 1. He tells them, they muſt appear before God the Judg of all, as Heb. 12. he is ſet forth. 2. Before Jeſus Chriſt, who Heb. 4. is ſaid to have a Sword in his Hand, to rip up every Man's Heart and Conſcience, to divide between the Marrow and the Bones, and the Intentions of the Heart: and that Deſcription of him referreth to Judgment, as the cloſe of that Diſcourſe ſhews. πρὸς ὃν ὁ λόγος, to whom we muſt give an account, as ſpeaking of Judgment, tho 'tis otherwiſe tranſlated. 3. He tells them, that the Saints will be all preſent there, and the general Aſſembly of Angels, and Firſtborn; and theſe as Witneſſes, yea Judges, when all of a Man ſhall be ript up. And to this place add that of Jude, Lo he comes with ten thouſand of his Saints (Jude 14, 15.) to execute Judgment upon all, and to convince all that are Ungodly among them, of all their ungodly Deeds, which they have ungodlily committed, and of all their hard Speeches, which ungodly Sinners have ſpoken againſt him. Now therefore when Paul had conſidered, what a Judicatory, a Preſence there will be, and how that all Secrets ſhall be ript open and laid together, he falls a praying that their Hearts might be eſtabliſht in Holineſs; for as I will ſhew you, God will make out every Man's State by his Works, and the caſting of Mens Conditions ſhall according to an Evangelical Rule depend thereon. Now obſerve it, that this Prayer is plainly and directly for this; that then and at that day, their Hearts might be eſtabliſhed in Holineſs: now it would ſeem ſtrange, that for Men who are to be in Heaven, a long time before that day, there ſhould be ſuppoſed a need to pray, that their Hearts ſhould be then throughly eſtabliſht in Holineſs, which they ſhould have here in this Life; to the end they might then be without wavering or fear eſtabliſht. Yet to me the Reaſon is clear, for they are not then to be judged; nor is their Condition to be ſentenced by that Holineſs they have had in Heaven, but barely by that which Men have had here on Earth, whilſt in the Body, as you heard. All is put upon this, whether ſuch Holineſs accompanied here their Faith, as puts a manifeſt difference between them and Hypocrites; and by that Evidence it muſt and ſhall be made forth to others. Thus Jude, becauſe he had ſaid Chriſt comes with ten thouſand of his Saints, prays, v. 24. Now unto him that is able to keep you from falling, and to preſent you faultleſs before the Preſence of his Glory with exceeding Joy, &c. And thus I underſtand Peter, 2 Pet. 3. 14. Wherefore Beloved, ſeeing that ye look for ſuch things, be diligent, that ye may be found of him in Peace, without Spot, and Blameleſs. In Peace, that is in their Spirits; and therefore John ſtill makes a great matter of it to have Boldneſs at that Day; 1 John 2. 28. And now little Children, abide in him, that when he ſhall appear, we may have Confidence, and not be aſhamed before him at his Coming. And again, Chap. 4. 17. Herein is our Love made perfect, that we may have Boldneſs in the Day of Judgment; becauſe as he is, ſo are we in this World. And there will be a Confidence and a Quietneſs in the Soul, when Heaven and Earth ſhall ſhake.

CHAP. V.

What it is to be filled with the Fruits of Righteousness in our course of Obedience.

I Would turn Paul's Prayer (Phil. 1. 11.) here for these Philippians into Exhortations unto you; his Prayer is for, and the bent of my Exhortation is unto Holiness, in all the eminent Parts and Principles of it; in Heart, ver. 9, 10. in Life, in this 11th ver. where I am now arrived, which holds forth the positive part of an Holy Conversation, being filled, &c. as being blameless did the Negative. There are three Things to be spoken unto, for the opening of these Words.

1. What it is to be filled with the Fruits of Righteousness.

2. The kind of these Fruits, such as are by Jesus Christ to the Glory and Praise of God. He prays for such, because he knew no other would be accepted.

3. The 3d is, of what concernment it is, at or against that Day of Christ, that Saints be filled with such Fruits. For those Words, in that Day, coming in between the former Blameless, and this ver. 11. do indifferently refer to both; and so to the Words of ver. 11. in this sense, that look what Fruits any Man hath brought forth, he shall appear laden with at that Day, as a Tree in Autumn with all its Fruits.

1. To explain what is meant by Fruits of Righteousness, three particulars might be handled: 1. The Metaphor there used, Fruits. 2. The Generical Nature, Substance or Matter of them, Fruits of Righteousness. 3. What it is to be filled with them, which is the main thing that his Petition is directed to.

1. For that Similitude of Fruits, I will forbear to gather it from all the Branches of that Metaphor, tho it might afford good Store to be laid up. It is a Metaphor the Holy Ghost doth frequently delight, to set forth abounding in Holiness by; yet in such a variety of allusion, as is difficult to define, what more specially he aimed at. Instead of a large Prosecution or drawing out the Allegory in any one, I shall content my self to present rather the severals, which this Allusion may have respect unto. There are three sorts of Fruit, which the Holy Ghost is pleased to compare the good Works of Holy Men unto: 1. The Fruits of Trees. 2. The Fruits of the Earth. 3. The Fruit of the Body and Womb, Children. I shall give you express Scriptures for each.

(1.) As for the Fruits of Trees, you find Man thus growing up and down the Scripture, as whilst David (Psalm 1. 3.) compares him to a Tree planted by the Rivers of Water, that brings forth his Fruits in due Season; planted in the House of God, that brings forth Fruit in old Age, Psal. 92. 12, 13. And Christ compares himself and his Members to a Vine, when he says, Every Branch in me that beareth Fruit, John 15. 2.

(2.) As to Fruits that grow promiscuously out of the Earth: holy Speeches and Thanksgivings are called the Fruit of the Lips (Heb. 13. 17.) in allusion to the first Fruits of the Earth, all sorts of which were consecrated to God, as well as the first Fruits of Trees. And the Apostle (Heb. 6. 7.) compares (as Christ afore him in the Parable of the Sower) a good Heart fruitful of Goodness, unto that Earth, which brings forth Herbs meet for the Dresser, or as Christ says (Luke 8. 4.) that brings forth Fruit with Patience.

(3.) As to the Fruits of the Womb, of the Body, or Children; Fruitfulness in Gospel-Obedience by Christ, is under that Metaphor presented. Rom. 7. 4. Wherefore, my Brethren, ye also are become dead to the Law by the Body of Christ, that ye should be married to another, even to him who is raised from the Dead, that we should bring forth Fruit unto God. He compares Christ to a second Husband we are anew married unto (as the Law to a former Husband to whom we are dead) to the end that being married to him, we should bring forth all sorts of acts of new Obedience, as Children begotten in us by his Body. Which Fruits of Christ's Body, and of our Hearts the Wombs of them, he calls Fruit to God, as to whom they are born, the Grandfather of them all, even as Children are called the Fruit of the Body and of the Womb. Now whether unto all these, or unto which more particularly this Metaphor is directed, is hard to determine: there is none of them, but may put in for it, else I would not have so distinctly mentioned them. Of the allusion to that of Children, that Place last quoted seems parallel; for as there we are said to bring forth Fruit to God by Christ, so here it is expressed, which are by Jesus Christ to the Glory and Praise of God. And so at the latter day, as Christ shall say of all his Members, Lo here am I, and the Children that thou hast given me: So a Christian being encompassed about with all his good Works that follow him, shall have it said by Christ, Lo here is such a one, and the Children have been brought forth by him, and begotten by me; and blessed is the Man that then hath his Quiver full of them, he shall not be ashamed in the Gate, Psal. 128. 5. But then this makes it not so clear, for Children (when many) in the Scripture (when spoken of together in a Cluster) are not called Fruits, but Fruit; but the word here in Phil. 1. 11. is in the plural, Fruits; and the term Fruit, as given to Children, being it self a Metaphor in derivation from the Fruits of the Earth, it must be one Metaphor borrowed from another Metaphor, to call good Works Fruits of Righteousness, in allusion unto Children being called Fruits. And if we should carry the allusion to the Earth, where 'tis true there are plenty and variety of Fruits, yet that Metaphor here (Phil. 1. 11.) taking in Christ as the Root from whom they spring (which are by Jesus Christ) that Similitude of the Heart to the Earth, will not so pertinently afford a room or a meet ground for it. But these Words of Christ (John 15.) I am that Vine, and every Branch in me that brings forth good Fruit, are genuine, and proper, and agreeable to that Expression here (Phil. 1. 11.) Fruits of Righteousness which are by Jesus Christ. This sutes also with the Apostolical Exhortations in their Epistles; be fruitful in every good Work, &c. I will not here (for it would be Fruit out of season) enlarge upon the Similitude of Christ the Root, the Heart of Man the Tree, every Faculty the Branch, the Holy Ghost the Sap, Opportunity of doing good the Seasons, God the Husbandman, Union with Christ the Engrafture, and many the like. But having thus fixt the Metaphor to its right Foundation, I come to that which is proper to my Text and Scope, to explain what it is to be filled with these Fruits of Righteousness.

2. Therefore secondly, to shew what it is to be filled with these Fruits. I will suppose that by Fruits of Righteousness are meant all sorts of Holy Actions both towards God and Man, springing from a Heart made Righteous, and conformable to, and brought forth according to the Righteous Law of God; no other are Fruits of Righteousness. But now the Enquiry is, what it is to be filled with them: 'Tis an Hebrew Phrase, to express abounding in them, as full of Children, Psal. 17. 14. A Land full of Silver, Isa. 2. 7. I shall in explaining it keep to the allusion, to a Tree full of Fruits, as that which will guide me.

(1.) A Tree is said to be filled with Fruit, when all its Branches are down laden with them, so as there is not a Twig empty, or thin-set therewith. Now as the Heart of Man is the Bulk and Body of this Tree, so every Power of the Soul, Member of the Body is a Branch, and is so to be understood in this allusion. When the Holy Ghost would set forth the abounding Wickedness in Ungodly Mens Hearts and Lives, he reads an Anatomy Lecture on every Part and Member, and shews how every Member (which are the Branches of these Trees) is full of that Wickedness that it is proper to grow upon; their Mouth is full of Cursing and Deceit ('tis the Expression, Psal. 10. 7.) full of that Foam and Filth to a flowing over. There is a superfluity of naughtiness continually issues thence: and so in James 3. 8. Their Tongue is an unruly Member, full of deadly Poison. Thus also in 2 Pet. 2. 14. Eyes full of Adultery: And Isa. 1. 15. Hands full of Blood; that is, of all sorts of Oppression. In a word, the Heart is said to be full of all readiness to Evil: Acts 13. 10. The whole Man to be filled with all Unrighteousness (Rom. 1. 29.) Fornication, Wickedness, Covetousness, Maliciousness, full of Envy, Murder, Debate, Deceit, Malignity. So on the contrary, a good Man should have all Members and Faculties filled with all Righteousness proper to them; the Mind, the Understanding, and meditative part filled with all Knowledg (Rom. 15. 14.) with a full Stock and Treasury of Gracious Thoughts and Instructions, which might might enable him to do ſpiritual Good to others upon occaſion; ſo it follows (Rom. 15. 14.) Able alſo to admoniſh one another. In the firſt Pſalm the Pſalmiſt compares a godly Man to a Tree, among other Fruit he inſtanceth in the continual buddings of Thoughts: He meditates on the Law of God day and night. He is a Man whoſe Mind deviſeth Good, Prov. 14. 22. He contrives with himſelf how moſt acceptably to ſerve and pleaſe God: for ſuch as the Man is, ſuch are his Devices, Iſa. 32. 8. And thus the Memory is ſtor'd with the Word, Promiſes, Commands, Directions laid up to guide and comfort a Man in his Way: Pſal. 63. 6. When I remember thee on my Bed, &c. And thus when the Will and Affections are full of all Goodneſs (Rom. 15. 14.) there will be freſh Love to God every day, as his Mercies are renew'd every morning. He will keep himſelf in the Love of God, as the Phraſe is, Jude 21. He will keep the Heart ſteep'd in it, and will put freſh Liquor to keep it quick and ſweet every day. He will dwell in Love, 1 John 4. 16. He is full of Mercy to the Souls and Miſeries of others, James 3. 17. And if ſo, he is then full of good Fruits (as theſe will follow) and he is full of Joy and Hope, Rom. 15. 13. Now the God of Hope fill you with all Joy and Peace in believing, that ye may abound in Hope through the Power of the Holy Ghoſt. As thus the inward, ſo the outward Man, and every Member of it, will be ſo many Weapons of Righteouſneſs (which is an alluſion to our Chriſtian Warfare, Rom. 6.) and Trees of Righteouſneſs too, Iſa. 61. 3. The Tongue (to inſtance in that one Member) will be a Tree of Life; Prov. 15. 4. A ſound Tongue is a Tree of Life. He compares that one Member to a whole Tree, and of all Trees to that which was in the midſt of the Paradiſe of God, the Tree of Life; to which Iſaiah alludes, when he calls them the planting of the Lord: for ſo thoſe Trees were in a ſpecial manner, Gen. 2. 8, 9. whereas other Trees were left to grow wild. And when this Holy Tree bears ſuch communicative Fruit that may miniſter Grace to others (as the Apoſtle ſpeaks, Rom. 11. 30.) then it is fruitful indeed. Solomon tells us that the Fruit of the Righteous is a Tree of Life (Prov. 11. 30.) becauſe the Fruit of his Lips, the Fruit of his Actions do become Trees, from whence do often other Trees ariſe, and Souls are won and converted to God: for ſo it follows, He that winneth Souls is wiſe. If any of us ſhould gather all the Fruit that grows but in one day on this Member the Tongue, and (as the Prophet ſaw in his Viſion) put it into two Baskets, the one of good, the other of bad; how little good ſhould we find in the one, how much that is rotten and naught in the other? If the Story of all the outward Actions were written on each Member, and appeared at once, as at the latter day they ſhall; what a world of Evil would be found in each, when the Tongue is a World of Evil, as St. James ſpeaks? Chap. 5.

(2.) A Chriſtian is then filled with Fruit, when Good Works of all ſorts do, and have grown there. Col. 1. 10. Unto all pleaſing, being fruitful in every good Work, and encreaſing in the Knowledg of God. In all pleaſing, that is, all the ways whereby God is pleaſed; in all, that is, the Will of God concerning us, to be done by us. And we muſt be fruitful in every good Work, that is, of all kinds and ſorts, not to be wanting or barren in any. What ſays the Apoſtle, 2 Cor. 8. 7. As you abound in every thing (elſe) in Faith, Utterance, Knowledg, all Diligence, Love to us, ſo that ye abound in this Grace alſo. They had been more empty in the bringing forth of this Grace. So then a Chriſtian ſhould look back, and think with himſelf, What Duty, what Grace, what Part or Courſe of Practice of Godlineſs is there which I have been hitherto deficient or ſcanty in? I have abounded in ſuch and ſuch, but not in Fruitfulneſs of Speech, or the like: O I will ſet my ſelf to abound in this alſo, that I may be found fill'd with all ſorts at that day. And herein indeed a Chriſtian differs from other Trees; unleſs, as was ſaid out of Solomon, we conſider every Member of him, as a Tree of Life, and the whole Man a Paradiſe to God. Take any one natural Tree; and tho every Branch may be filled with Fruit, yet but with Fruit of one kind (ſaid God, Let every one bring forth according to its kind) for the Seed by nature limits it to one. But here the Holy Ghoſt is the Seed and Sap, and ſeminally, yea eminently containeth all that is holy in Himſelf: and ſo doth the Spirit of Regeneration begotten by him; Eph. 5. 9. The Fruit of the Spirit is in all Goodneſs, Righteouſneſs and Truth; Book I. And accordingly you find a Variety of them named as Fruits of the Spirit, Gal. 5. 22, 23. But the Fruit of the Spirit is Love, Joy, Peace, Long-ſuffering, Gentleneſs, Goodneſs, Faith, Meekneſs, Temperance; againſt ſuch there is no Law. And let me add this as a Reaſon and Incentive; God loves a variety of Good Works, tho ſome be of an inferiour kind and ſort, rather than that we ſhould abound in any one ſort that is more excellent. Tho God would have us lay out our Strength moſt in what is moſt excellent, and we are moſt fitted for; yet we muſt fulfil (as Chriſt did) all Righteouſneſs, one part as well as another, and this God delighteth in. It is better to perform Duties of every kind, tho we do the leſs of ſome others. 2 Pet. 1. 5. the Apoſtle exhorts to this Variety, which he calls adding Grace to Grace: Add to your Faith Vertue, to Vertue Knowledg, to Knowledg Temperance, and to Temperance Patience, and to Patience Godlineſs, and to Godlineſs Brotherly Kindneſs, and to Brotherly Kindneſs Charity. And he is exceeding vehement in this Exhortation, to ſet it home, αὐτὸ τοῦτο, περὶ or πρὸς is to be underſtood; and then his meaning is, Bend your Minds unto this, this very thing, mainly and eminently, give your Diligence and Study, and all Diligence unto it. παρεισενέγκαντες, the Jeſuits obſerving a double Compoſition, παρὰ & εἰς, take advantage of the addition of this Particle παρὰ, beſides, to prove, that beſides the Grace of God, Man's Will muſt co-operate παρὰ, ſub, or præter, &c. But, as I take it, there is another Emphaſis of it, ſutable to the Apoſtles Scope; which being to exhort to add one Grace to another, his meaning is, they ſhould ſtill apply their Study to ſome things beſides: That tho they had exercis'd this, and that, and the other Grace, yet ſtill they were to reckon that there was ſomething beſides to be done by them. Our Tranſlators have taken the Particle off from its own Place, the Verb it ſtands on, and have put and joined it to the Pronoun, beſides this; and ſo made the Emphaſis leſs: But Peter's Scope is, as Paul's, to exhort to forget what is behind, and to preſs to what is before; never to think they had done all, but that they had ſomething beſides ſtill to do: And ſays he, if you will bend your minds, πρὸς αὐτὸ τοῦτο, if you have this Rule in your eye, you will never be barren or unfruitful. So then you ſee 'tis proper to what I am upon, namely, to exhort you to add Grace to Grace; and ſtill ſome Grace beſides, and over and above what you have had hitherto. Add to this the Force of that Phraſe, Add Grace to Grace, and it will be evident that this is one way to be fill'd with Fruit. As Men heap up Land to Land, buy whole Towns to lay one to another, ſo do you add Grace to Grace. This ſhould be the Ambition of a Chriſtian: and go to God to enable you to it; for he is, as Paul ſays, a God that is able to make all Grace to abound towards you, 2 Cor. 9. 8.

And

(3.) To be fill'd with Fruits of Righteouſneſs is to be fill'd with them at all times, to have (if poſſible) no time of our Lives barren, always filling up our time with ſome Fruit or other. Other Trees, when young, bear no Fruit, but a Chriſtian from his firſt Converſion doth. Col. 1. 6. the Goſpel is ſaid to have brought forth Fruit among them, ſince the firſt day they heard of it, and knew the Grace of God in Truth. They fell inſtantly on acting holily, and for God, and ſtaid not a day, a moment after their Converſion, Rev. 22. 2. and Ezek. 47. 12. And theſe Trees of the Lord's planting are not only ſaid to be ſuch whoſe Leaves fade not, whoſe Fruit withers not, but to bring forth Fruit every Month, twelve ſorts of Fruit, ſays the Revelation (there is that Variety afore ſpoken of) new Fruit according to their Months, ſays Ezekiel; that is, all ſorts in their Seaſons. In Nature ſome Fruits are in ſeaſon one Month, others in another, but no Time is barren in a holy Heart, it bears the whole twelve Months, the whole of the Year, which is the Epitome of Time: They bear Fruit all their Lives continually; and if ſo, then they will be found fill'd with Fruit.

Now when I ſay at all times, it may be enlarg'd to three Particulars.

1. That our whole Time be fill'd up with ſome good Fruit or other. Now there are theſe things our Time is to be fill'd up withal, our Callings, Recreations, Holy Duties: And we are to ſubordinate the one to the other, and then we are holy in all. A Man brings forth Fruit in Recreations, as well as in holy Duties, if his end be to have Spirits to perform holy Duties with. Bloſſoms that fall off and wither, yet prepare for Fruit. Now it is impoſſible to give certain Rules

what time is to be allotted for each of these, the Conditions, Tempers, Constitutions of Men do so vary. Poor Men that live by their daily Labour are necessitated to spend more time in their Calling, than in Recreations and Duties. Men that are of weak and firy Spirits, and have Callings that are Exhausters of them, are as much necessitated to spend more time in Recreations, than in their Callings or Holy Duties; tho perhaps if such Men had Grace enough, even the most serious Duties might be a Recreation to them. Rich Men that are strong and vigorous, and want Employments, they may and ought to spend the more time in Holy Duties, their Strength and Leisure will afford it: But if a Man proportions wisely and conscientiously forth his Time, according to his Conditions between all these, and puts Holy Ends on all; he will be found for the circumstance he stood in, and the ground he was planted in, filled with Fruits of Righteousness. This the Apostle gives us as a Rule, to be Holy in all manner of Conversation, be it whatsoever. The Mower that hath occasion often to whet his Sithe, and cease his Work with many Interruptions, shall be paid for his Time therein (if he otherwise loiter not) as well as for doing the Work it self. This Rule is certain, a Man is to spend that time in Duties, as may serve to keep his Heart up with God, and not to spend that time in Recreations, as may dull and flat the Heart unto Holiness. My Brethren, the Holy Ghost sets a Price, a Value upon Time and every moment of it, when he says, redeem the Time: now Time hath its pretiousness from the things to be done and acted in it. And because the Fruits we bring forth are said to be pretious (as James calls the Fruit of the Earth precious Fruit, Jam. 5. 7. as also Paul the Fruits of the Spirit; for Phil. 4. 17. they are termed Fruit that abounds to our account, namely, at that day, that is, with Infinite Profit and Advantage) we should therefore improve every moment. There are twelve Hours in the day, saith Christ (John 11. 9.) to work in, but Night comes, and no Man works. Christ you see reckons every Hour as to be employed in working, and why are you idle in the Market-place? Luke 26. 6. Buy thy Time out, let the Time past suffice for Lusts, says Peter, 1 Pet. 4. 2. and the Time remaining is short, 1 Cor. 7.29. and we have much Ground to ride, much Work to do. Peter therefore, 2 Pet. 3. 11, 12. exhorts, What manner of Persons ought we to be in all Holy Conversation and Godliness; hasting unto the Coming of the Day of God? He doth not say only, that the Day of the Lord hastens, to affright them to turn to God, he supposeth that Work done; but do you, says he, hasten against that Day. He speaks to them as to Men, that were to do Work against that Day, which will require the utmost Intention and Improvement of Time, making account they had done already so little towards it; and that therefore the rest of their Lives should be a continual hurry towards it: as Men that are making a great removing at such a Day, how full of Business and Hast are they? Chap. 5.

2. In the time of a Man's Life, there are special Opportunities; and to bring forth that Fruit in that special Opportunity, God calls for it, that makes it doubly acceptable. Psal. 1. 3. A good Man is compared to a Tree, and is said to bring forth his Fruit in due Season: New Fruits according to their Months, as you heard out of Ezekiel. There is a time of Fruit, as Christ speaks, Mat. 21. 34. many Men lose not Time, that yet lose special Opportunities; and tho they be found doing of good, yet not that good at that time God calls for. Do with all thy Might, says Solomon, what thy Hand finds to do, not what thou thy self hast rather a mind to do. And says the Apostle, Heb. 12. 1. Let us run the Race set before us. God chalks out our Works, our Journal every day, and we should heedfully attend it; to omit doing of Work at such a Season God calls for, is to be in a great measure unfruitful. I have judged it the more special meaning of that Passage, Titus 3. 14. Let ours also (that is, those of our Profession) learn to maintain good Works for necessary Uses, that they be not unfruitful. Besides a general Scope which the Words have, in reference to all good Works; he had a particular Aspect, by comparing the Words immediately afore, upon that Duty of bringing two Evangelists Zenas and Apollos on their Journy, that nothing might be wanting to them; and then subjoins as the Reason of it, and let ours also learn, &c. as well as Heathens, who perform such Duties of Humanity. And let Christians, says he, look upon all such Occasions, as Opportunities of expressing a Grace, Book I. Grace, which if they omit when put into their hands, they are rendred so far, and as to that special Season unfruitful. Parallel to which is that Text, Gal. 6. 10. Whilst we have Opportunity let us do good to all, especially to the Houshold of Faith. That which puts a value upon Fruit is their Season, and this is a great part of that Duty, so often inculcated, Watch, as Merchants for a Bargain, ἐξαγοραζόμενοι τὸν καίρον, buying out our Time, Eph. 5. 16. 'tis a Metaphor from Merchants that watch for Bargains, and their chiefest Skill lies in taking Seasons to buy Commodities in. Of Christ 'tis said, Acts 10. 38. That he went up and down doing good, that is, he sought out Opportunities.

3. To be fruitful, is in all Ages and Conditions to bring forth Fruit more proper to that Age; as young Men to fly youthful Lusts (2 Tim. 2. 22.) the Lusts proper to that Age: Old Widows (1 Tim. 5. 5.) to give themselves up to Prayer, as their very Callings proper to that Age do require; the younger Women to guide the House (1 Tim. 5. 14.) Rich Men to be rich in Good Works (1 Tim. 6. 18.) poor Men to be humble, content with their Wages, as John said to the Soldiers.

Lastly, Let Men endeavour to be filled with Fruits toward their end (Psal. 92. 14.) to bring forth Fruit in their old Age; there is a special Blessedness put upon it: Blessed is the Man, whom his Master when he comes shall find so doing, Luke 12. 42. Else we shall be in danger to lose what we have wrought (2 John v. 8.) and not to have a full Reward. Of Christ it is said, John 4. 14. that it was his Meat and Drink as to do his Fathers Will, so to finish his Work. And in the last Week of his Life, when he saw he should die, he did nothing else but spend himself; he went out in the Nights to pray, and in the Morning taught the People, knowing it was his last; he took his Fill, insomuch as he was so spent, that he could not carry his Cross alone, but for fear he should faint and die, they called in another to help him. The Fruit of old Trees is most concocted and pleasantest.

CHAP. VI.

Of what kind those Fruits of Righteousness are, with which our Obedience should abound; what is requisite to make them true and genuine.

HAVING thus shewed what it is to be filled with the Fruits of Righteousness, I come now to explain of what sort or kind these Fruits are.

1. The Man who performs them must be a Righteous Man, he must have an inward frame of Righteousness in his Heart, whence these grow: Make the Tree good (saith Christ, Mat. 7. 17, 18, &c.) and the Fruit will be good; for can an evil Tree bring forth good Fruit? Can you gather Figs of Thorns? So that unless the Heart be made Holy and Righteous, it cannot bring forth the Fruits of Righteousness; and they are therefore said to be Fruits of Righteousness, because they spring from a Righteous Frame of Heart, a Workmanship created unto good Works, Eph. 2. 8. And that which is said in Isa. 37. 31. of the Kingdom of Judah, expressing its continuance, it shall take Root downward, and bear Fruit upward; that I say of the Fruits of Righteousness, that as there should be Fruits growing upward, so there shall be a Root growing downward, which is the Root of those Fruits. And as a Man doth grow and hold forth Profession outwardly, so he should grow inwardly Holy and Righteous, having the Image of God, which is created in Holiness and Righteousness, renewed in his Heart; and Works proceeding from thence, are Righteous Works.

2. They are called Righteous Fruits, which are agreeable to the Law of God, and which have the Word of God for the Rule. The Commandments of God (Deut. 12. 9.) are called our Righteousness (so it is in the Original) and answerably every Work, which a Man hath a Rule and a Warrant for, which a Man doth in obedience to a Law and a Word, it is a Fruit of Righteousness. The Apostle John doth answerably exhort us to such Holy Obedience, 1 John 3. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 7, 8, 9, 10. That good old Apoſtle, who writes about Communion with God, and knew beſt what it was, and what was the Fruit of ſuch Communion, doth not take Men off from the Righteous Law of God, as the Rule of Obedience; tho there were thoſe that went about, even in his time, to take Men off from attending to the Law as a perfect Rule, and that becauſe God dwelt in them, and they had Communion with him. No, ſaith he, ver. 7. Let no Man deceive you, he that doth Righteouſneſs is Righteous, even as he is Righteous. And ver. 4. Whoſoever committeth Sin, tranſgreſſeth alſo the Law, for Sin is the Tranſgreſſion of the Law. Anſwerably therefore the Righteouſneſs which he intended, is a Conformity to that Law. And ſaith he, beſides the Motive that you have from Chriſt (for mark it, ſo the Context clearly runs, he was manifeſted to take away our Sin, and he that hath this Hope in him, that hath any aſſurance to be ſaved, and hath any Communion with God, he purifieth himſelf) but beſides that (ſaith he) whoſoever committeth Sin, tranſgreſſeth alſo the Law. The Righteouſneſs therefore of a Holy Man that is truly Righteous, is that which is a Conformity to the Law; and the Law as a Rule of Righteouſneſs ſtandeth to that Man, and ought to ſtand, and he ought to act according to that Law, and then it is a Fruit of Righteouſneſs. Chap. 6.

3. Theſe Fruits muſt be ſuch as are by Jeſus Chriſt unto the Glory and Praiſe of God. The Scripture inſiſteth much upon the kind of our Actions, as well as upon the Actions themſelves. It is not enough for them to be conformed unto the Law outwardly, yea (if it might be) inwardly too. 2 Tim. 2. 5. If a Man ſtrive for Maſteries, yet is he not crowned except he ſtrive lawfully. The meaning is this, it is an alluſion to thoſe Games uſual amongſt the Greeks, which were for Crowns, where there were certain Rules ſet for the manner of doing them; and if a Man did not keep to the manner as well as to the matter or thing to be done, he had not the Laurel given him. It is not therefore ſtriving only, but doing of it lawfully. The ſame Apoſtle diſcourſeth to the ſame purpoſe, Rom. 7. 4. Ye are become dead to the Law by the Body of Chriſt, that ye ſhould be married to another, even unto him that is raiſed from the Dead, that we ſhould bring forth Fruit unto God. And ſaith he, ver. 6. We are delivered from the Law, that we ſhould ſerve in newneſs of the Spirit, and not in oldneſs of the Letter. It is not the having a Conformity to that old Letter of Moſes's Law, which will make a Fruit of Righteouſneſs; but it is (ſaith he) ſerving in the Newneſs of the Spirit, that is, of the Goſpel: for clearly there, Spirit is oppoſed to Letter, and to perform ſuch Obedience and bring forth ſuch Fruits of Righteouſneſs, as the Goſpel does ſuggeſt and require; this, ſaith he, is to bring forth Fruit according to the Newneſs of the Spirit, and no other Fruit is accepted of God. And therefore whereas before, the Law brought forth Fruits of Righteouſneſs in us, we are now dead to the Motions of it, tho it is a Rule ſtill; yet for begetting Fruits of Righteouſneſs upon us, ſo we are dead to it, and we are married on purpoſe unto Jeſus Chriſt, that by him we might have Fruit, that is, Children unto God, for he uſeth a Marriage Phraſe here. Before, when we were in the Fleſh, the Motions of Sin which were by the Law, did work in our Members to bring forth Fruit unto Death; but now being married unto Jeſus Chriſt, we ſerve in the Newneſs of the Spirit, and by him bring forth Fruit unto God. And he calls it Fruit, becauſe good Works are Children begotten upon the Heart by Jeſus Chriſt; for Fruit you know is not only taken for the Fruit of a Tree, but there is the Fruit of the Womb and the Fruit of the Loins. So that the Fruit which is accepted of God, muſt be ſuch as is by Jeſus Chriſt. And agreeably to what hath been ſaid, the Apoſtle ſpeaks (2 Tim. 3. 12.) of our living Godly in Chriſt Jeſus. And in the ſame Chapter he ſpeaks of a mere Form of Godlineſs, as inſignificant. Godlineſs therefore in Chriſt Jeſus is that alone, which is the diſtinguiſhing Character from the Form of Godlineſs, which is a Conformity to the old Letter.

Now then for the kind of the Fruits of Righteouſneſs, he ſaith two things.

1. They muſt be by Jeſus Chriſt.

2. They muſt be performed by the Heart, ſo as to be directed to the Glory and Praiſe of God.

1. They muſt be by Jeſus Chriſt. Now Fruits are by Jeſus Chriſt in all theſe reſpects.

Book I.

(1.) Becauſe they are from a Workmanſhip created in Chriſt Jeſus. And certainly the Image of Holineſs, which is created in Chriſt Jeſus, is of an higher Strain than that Image of Holineſs, which the Law could ſtamp upon the Heart of a Man. It is of another kind, for it is ſuted and fitted to Goſpel-Motives and Conſiderations, unto which Holineſs in Adam was not ſuted, Eph. 2. 10.

(2.) Becauſe they are ſuch Fruits as do ariſe from the Spirit of Jeſus Chriſt, received from him, and dwelling in the Heart: Love, Joy, Peace, Long-ſuffering, Gentleneſs, Meekneſs, Temperance, &c. all thoſe excellent Vertues are called (in Gal. 5. 22.) the Fruit of the Spirit; and againſt ſuch (ſaith the Apoſtle) there is no Law, there needeth no Threatning of Condemnation to ſuch Men as are led by the Spirit, as you have it ver. 18. If ye be led of the Spirit, ye are not under the Law. There was Temperance, and Meekneſs, and Gentleneſs, and Long-ſuffering in divers of the Heathen, but they were not Fruits of the Spirit of Chriſt, and therefore they were not Fruits of Righteouſneſs by Jeſus Chriſt, and from his Spirit dwelling in their Hearts; neither were thoſe Men led into them by the Holy Ghoſt, and acted by the Holy Ghoſt as dwelling in them, and united to them, and becoming one Spirit with them.

(3.) Fruits of Righteouſneſs are by Jeſus Chriſt, becauſe they are the Fruits that follow upon a Man's apprehending the Righteouſneſs of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt for his Righteouſneſs. And indeed ſo ſome do interpret this Place; ſay they, they are Fruits of Righteouſneſs, that is, of the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt imputed to us by Faith; they being both joined here in the Text, of Righteouſneſs, and that by Jeſus Chriſt. It is evident and clear by the Scripture, that the great Spring of Holineſs and Obedience is Faith in the Righteouſneſs of the Lord Jeſus; I will give you one Scripture for it, it is in Tit. 3. 8. where the Apoſtle having ſpoken in the former part of the Chapter, how that we are ſaved not by Works, and that we are juſtified freely by Grace, and made Heirs according to the hope of eternal Life, he ſaith, Theſe Things I will that thou affirm conſtantly, that they which have believed in God, may be careful to maintain good Works. So that to believe upon Jeſus Chriſt for Righteouſneſs, and to be effectually convinced that all our own Works will ſtand us in no ſtead, and to go to Chriſt for his Righteouſneſs, is the greateſt Spring of good Works, and the beſt Stock to maintain them.

(4.) Fruits of Righteouſneſs are by Chriſt, becauſe they are ſo by Motives drawn from Chriſt. When a Man feels the Virtue of his Reſurrection (as Paul ſaith, Phil. 3. 10.) that is, when he conſidereth that Jeſus Chriſt is riſen as a common Perſon, and that he aroſe for him, as he died for him, or he believeth on him that his Death and the Fruit of it may be his; when a Man feels a Virtue coming to his Soul from the Conſideration hereof, which quickneth him to Holineſs and Obedience, to die unto Sin and to live to Righteouſneſs: When the Love of Chriſt thus conſtrains, when theſe are the Motives of the Fruits of Righteouſneſs, theſe Fruits are likewiſe by Jeſus Chriſt. When the Grace of Chriſt teacheth us to deny all Ungodlineſs and worldly Luſts, and to live ſoberly to a Man's ſelf, and righteouſly to others, and godly in this preſent World, in all the Duties that concern God, a Man's ſelf and others, as knowing that Chriſt hath redeemed us to be a peculiar People zealous of good Works; when the Redemption of Chriſt makes a Man zealous of good Works; when theſe are the Motives (which are the Goſpel-Motives) whereby a Man is acted, and the Peace of God ruleth in his Heart, and the Love of God ruleth in his Spirit, and the Love of Chriſt conſtraineth him; then his Holy Actions are Fruits of Righteouſneſs by Jeſus Chriſt.

(5.) Fruits of Righteouſneſs are by Chriſt, becauſe they flow from our Union with the Perſon of the Lord Jeſus; and therefore the Apoſtle ſpeaks of our growing up into Chriſt in all Things (Eph. 4. 15.) and of our increaſing with the Increaſe of God, Col. 2. 19. The Way to grow up in all Things, is to grow up in him, into nearer Union and Communion with him, and his Perſon and Fellowſhip with him; and when from ſuch a Union and Communion with Jeſus Chriſt, and growing up herein, a Man grows more Holy: Abide in me (ſaith Chriſt, John 15. 4, 5.) and I in you, that you may bring forth much Fruit. When, I ſay, from this Union there flow Works of Righteouſneſs, theſe are Fruits of Righteouſneſs by Jeſus Chriſt.

(6.) They

(6.) They are Fruits of Righteouſneſs by Jeſus Chriſt, when the Example of Chriſt is before me to move me to the like Righteouſneſs. He that profeſſeth he abideth in him (ſaith the Apoſtle, 1 John 2. 6.) ought himſelf alſo ſo to walk, even as he walked. Chap. 6.

(7.) Then my Actions are Fruits of Righteouſneſs, when as I look for all my Acceptation of all my Fruits of Righteouſneſs in Jeſus Chriſt; or when I expect that they ſhould all be accepted of God in and through Jeſus Chriſt, and not as they come from me. Thus our Services are expreſſed (1 Pet. 2. 5.) to be Sacrifices acceptable to God by Jeſus Chriſt, as they are found in him, and as God reliſheth Chriſt in them. I ſay, when the Heart is thus carried out to bring forth Fruits of Righteouſneſs, tho the Law be the Rule that guideth me for the matter, what Fruits of Righteouſneſs to bring forth; yet I ſay, when they are thus brought forth (for the kind of them) by Jeſus Chriſt, then they are accepted by God, for God accepteth nothing out of the Lord Jeſus.

Thus I have ſhewed you, that thoſe Actions are the Fruits of Righteouſneſs, which are done in, and by Chriſt Jeſus. But,

2*ly.* Then our Actions are the Fruits of Righteouſneſs, when they are directed by the Heart to the Glory and Praiſe of God. This the Apoſtle plainly intimates, 1 Pet. 4. 11. where, ſpeaking only of giving of Alms (which is one Fruit of Righteouſneſs) he ſaith, If any Man miniſter, let him do it as of the Ability which God giveth, that God in all Things may be glorified through Jeſus Chriſt. He muſt do it to that end, that God may be glorified through Jeſus Chriſt; for Chriſt himſelf is ordained to the Glory of God, and all the Fruits of Righteouſneſs are to be preſented to God in and through Jeſus Chriſt, and God is to be glorified through Jeſus Chriſt. He ſpeaks it you ſee of an Action, a Deed of Charity; that in all things (ſaith he) God may be glorified through Jeſus Chriſt. But it may be asked, why he doth not only ſay, to the Glory of God, but to the Glory and Praiſe of God? Is there any difference between theſe two? To reſolve the queſtion we muſt conſider that thoſe Things are done to the Glory of God (as you will have it in a way of diſtinction from the Praiſe of God) whenas a Man perſonally between God and himſelf, endeavours to glorify him; and thoſe things are done to the Praiſe of God, which are done by a Man before others. That is properly Praiſe, which is the ſhine of Glory, for Praiſe is the Manifeſtation of Glory; therefore that which is done in the Heart, or perſonally between God and a Man's ſelf, that is properly to his Glory: what cometh forth in the outward Converſation of a Man before others, that is properly to the Praiſe of God. But it is uſual in the Scripture to double Things thus, to put the more Emphaſis upon them; to ſhew that all we do, ought to be to the Praiſe and Glory of God, that our Eye ſhould be ſure to be upon that; and therefore the Apoſtle uſeth two Phraſes, not unto Glory only, but unto Praiſe alſo. To ſhew the abundance of a thing, it is doubled often in Scripture; I will give you but one Inſtance, which is pertinent to the thing in hand, it is in 1 Pet. 1. 7. where he ſpeaks of the great Glory, which our Faith ſhall have in that Day, as here he ſpeaks of the Glory our Works give God in this day of ours; he ſaith, it ſhall be found unto Praiſe, and Honour, and Glory. He heaps up thoſe Words to ſhew the Abundance of Glory, which God will give our Faith at the appearing of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. And let me add this, that the greateſt glorifying of God, that is done by the Creature, none knows but God himſelf and the Soul of a Man. I ſay none knows, nor is privy to it; and therefore thoſe Works are the moſt acceptable Works unto God, which are in a Man's own Spirit, whereof the outward Works are but the Fruit: Why? Becauſe therein a Man ſo glorifyeth God, as no Creature can ſee it, and that is Glory indeed; and all ſecret glorifyings of God in a Man's own Heart, and alſo between God and a Man's ſelf, whereof God alone is the Witneſs, they are thoſe that God eſpecially accepteth; he ſeeth in Secret (ſaith Chriſt, Mat. 6. 4.) and ſhall reward thee openly. And indeed therein lies the Glory of God, that he is ſo reſpected by his Creature, that a Man doth glorify him ſo, as God himſelf only is the Witneſs of that Glory; and that is properly by what is done between God, and a Man's ſelf, and in a Man's Heart. Therefore the greateſt

Book I. Glory God hath from the Saints and Angels, is that which no Creature can give a Witneſs of. Now then to do a thing to the Glory of God, is to do it ſo, as to pleaſe God, aiming at him, moved by his Glory, referring it to his Glory, and intending it ſo: and this is neceſſary to every good Work that is a Fruit of Righteouſneſs. I ſhall give you but a Place or two, Col. 1. 10. He prays that they might walk worthy of the Lord unto all well-pleaſing, being fruitful in every good Work. A Man never walketh worthy of the Lord, that is, as becomes one that hath Communion with God, unleſs he aims at him in all things to pleaſe him. The like Scripture you have in 2 Tim. 2. 5, 6. compared (for I ſtill chuſe out ſuch Scriptures as near as I can that have the Metaphor of Fruit in them) The Husbandman that labours (ſaith he) muſt be firſt Partaker of the Fruits, ſo muſt God. And ſaith he, ver. 4. No Man that warreth, intangleth himſelf with the Affairs of this Life, that he may pleaſe him who hath choſen him to be a Soldier. It was the Law of the Militia of Rome, and of that Empire, that they ſhould do nothing elſe but give themſelves up to the Commands of their General, and unto matters of War; they were not to be ſent of an Errand by their Captains, nor employed by them in any private Buſineſs; and all was that they might pleaſe him that had choſen them, that they might pleaſe their General, to whom, and unto whoſe Service they were aſſigned. Thus now to give a Man's ſelf up wholly unto God, to aim to pleaſe him in all things, and to act all to the Glory of God, to make that the chiefeſt Guide and Rule of all my Actions, this is to do all to the Praiſe and Glory of God.

CHAP. VII.

That our Obedience ought to be continued; That a Man ſhall in the Day of Chriſt appear with all thoſe Fruits of Righteouſneſs, which he hath brought forth in Chriſt to the Glory of God.

THERE is only a third thing to be explained, and that is, what is meant by the Words of the Text, Phil. 1. 10. Till the Day of Chriſt.

Now as in relation to that reference, I do obſerve from thence:

1. All the good Acts and Fruits of Righteouſneſs, inward and outward, that any Man hath done by Jeſus Chriſt to the Glory and Praiſe of God, tho in never ſo weak a meaſure, he ſhall appear with them all at the Day of Chriſt. It ſhall not be with him as with other Trees that have long born Fruit, and at the laſt have none appearing on them; but all the Fruit that a Man hath born ſucceſſively in his whole Life, he ſhall appear withal at the latter Day. Wicked Men ſhall appear with all their bad Works, and Godly Men ſhall appear with all their good Works; and therefore the end of the World (Mat. 13. 39.) is called a Harveſt; and it is called a Reaping, (Gal. 6. 5, 6, 7. where the Apoſtle alludeth to the Day of Judgment, tho he ſpeaks of our Liberality) what a Man ſoweth that ſhall he reap; and at the Harveſt the Crop comes in all at once, whatſoever a Man ſoweth, tho he ſow Barly at one time, and Wheat at another, and Rye at another, yet at the Harveſt all the Crop comes in. He goeth forth (ſaith the Pſalmiſt) carrying precious Seed with him; but when the Harveſt is, he ſhall come again, bringing all his Sheaves with him, Pſal. 126. 6. All the Works that he hath done, he brings them with him at the Day of Judgment. Now then that which the Apoſtle prays for in the behalf of theſe Philippians, is, that at that Day they might appear filled with all the Fruits of Righteouſneſs, and Fruits of that kind, which are by Jeſus Chriſt to the Glory and Praiſe of God. And the Reaſon is this, becauſe a Man's Fruit remaineth, John 15. 14, 16. and remaining for ever, they meet him there at the Day of Judgment: Charge them that are rich (ſaith the Apoſtle, in 1 Tim. 6. 17, 18, 19.) that they be rich in good Works, laying up in Store for themſelves a good Foundation againſt the Time to come. It will be a Store and a Treaſury, which a Man ſhall meet withal at that Day.

2. As a Man ſhall appear thus with all his Fruits of Righteouſneſs, ſo to appear at that Day filled with the Fruits of Righteouſneſs, which he brought forth in the whole courſe of his Life, ſhall be of exceeding great Moment and Concernment. It will be of Concernment every way then, beſides all the Uſes of it now. For, Chap. 7.

(1.) As all theſe Fruits were by Jeſus Chriſt, ſo there will be a great deal of Honour ariſe to Jeſus Chriſt, who ſhall then come to be glorified in his Saints (as you have it in 2 Theſſ. 1. 10.) and to be made wonderful in them that believe, For Jeſus Chriſt ſhall preſent us to the Father at the latter Day (Col. 1. 22.) and our Fruit will be found on him: All thy Fruit is found in me, ſaith he in Hoſ. 13. 7. All our Fruit, I ſay, will be found on him, and he will have the Glory of all; therefore to have brought forth Fruits of Righteouſneſs which are by Jeſus Chriſt, will be infinitely to the Glory of Jeſus Chriſt: As he will ſay, here are the Children which thou haſt given me, ſo here are the Fruits theſe Children have brought forth. We are married unto Chriſt (ſaith the Apoſtle) that we may bring forth Fruit unto God. I am the Husband (will Chriſt ſay) and theſe are the Children of thoſe unto whom I am married; and therefore a Saint is called the Glory of Chriſt, 2 Cor. 8. 27.

(2.) As this will be for the Glory of Chriſt, ſo for the Glory of God the Father, to whom all this was done. Therefore the Apoſtle Peter, 1 Pet. 2. exhorts them, to hold forth the Vertues and Graces of Jeſus Chriſt, to have their Converſation honeſt amongſt the Gentiles, that whereas they ſpeak againſt them as evil Doers, they may by their good Works, which they ſhall behold, glorify God in the day of Viſitation; that at that great and general Muſter, as I may ſo call it, when every Man ſhall ſhew his Arms, God may then be glorified. So that in reſpect of the Glory that ſhall ariſe to God the Father at that Day, and that even before others alſo, it is of great uſe to be filled with Fruits of Righteouſneſs; not only that God may be glorified here in this World (as you have it, Mat. 5. 16. that they may ſee your good Works, and glorify your Father which is in Heaven) but that there may alſo a great deal of Glory ariſe unto God, and Confuſion of Face unto wicked Men, even in that Day of Viſitation.

(3.) It is of infinite uſe likewiſe unto us; for I do believe it to be a great Truth in the Word of God, if I had time to open it, that there are degrees of Glory, and eſpecially at that great day of Judgment, which will be according as a Man hath been filled with Fruits of Righteouſneſs, which are by Jeſus Chriſt to the Glory of God, here in this World. The Prophet (in Jer. 17. 8, 10. verſes compared) compares a Man that truſts in the Lord, and ſo out of Faith worketh and bringeth forth Fruit, to a Tree planted by the Waters, and that ſpreadeth out her Root by the River, that hath her Leaf green, and is not careful in the Year of drought, neither doth ceaſe from yielding Fruit. And ver. 10. ſaith he, The Lord ſhall reward every Man according to the Fruit of his Doings; that is, by an Hebraiſm, according to their Doings, which were their Fruits. Compare the two Verſes together, and you ſhall find them pertinent to the thing in hand: and anſwerably in Gal. 6. 8, 10. ſaith the Apoſtle, as a Man ſoweth ſo ſhall he reap. Now a Man ſoweth either to the Fleſh, to his Luſts, or to the Spirit; all his Thoughts and Affections are laid out either upon Things Spiritual, or elſe upon things carnal; or elſe (as others interpret it) either on things of the Soul and the Eternal Glory thereof, or on things of the Body. Now (ſaith the Apoſtle) whatſoever a Man ſoweth that ſhall he alſo reap, both according to the kind and according to the meaſure: look what a Man ſows to his Luſts, to the Fleſh, he ſhall of the Fleſh reap Corruption; even to a godly Man, whatſoever he ſows to the Fleſh will be all loſt. But what is ſown to the Spirit, it will riſe up to Eternal Life; he that ſoweth to the Spirit, ſaith he, ſhall of the Spirit reap Life Everlaſting. He compares every Action that a Man doth to a Seed; every Action hath a Seed (let us look to it, my Brethren) a Man ſows a Seed in every Thought, in every Affection, in every Word, in every Action that he doth in any kind; and there will either come up Corruption if it be bad Seed, or it will come up to Eternal Life if it be good. Be not deceived, ſaith he, God is not mocked, for he ſeeth and obſerveth every Seed that is ſown, and it is he that makes the Harveſt (for ſo I take thoſe words Book I. words in Gal. 6. to refer to that coherence) Be not deceived, God is not mocked, for whatsoever a Man soweth, he shall also reap. He will look to that, he seeth every Seed you sow, every Thought, and every Affection, and every Action, and he will be sure to make the Harvest accordingly. James speaketh in the same Language too, Chap. 5. he exhorteth them there to Patience in well doing, and he doth it under this very Metaphor I have now spoken of. Be patient (saith he, ver. 7.) till the coming of our Lord, do but stay till then. Whence hath he his Similitude? What shall we expect at the coming of our Lord? Behold (saith he) the Husbandman waiteth for the precious Fruit of the Earth, and hath long Patience for it, until he receive the early and latter Rain: Be ye also patient, stablish your Hearts, for the Coming of the Lord draweth nigh. He compares the Coming of the Lord to the Harvest, and the time of this Life to sowing of Seed. The Husbandman waiteth (saith he) for the precious Fruit of the Earth. It is called precious Fruit, because indeed the Fruit of the Earth is more precious than Gold, for a Man cannot eat Gold; Gold, and Silver, and Pearl, are not so precious as Corn. And sometimes it is precious Seed which is sown, because it cost him a great deal of Mony, and he saves it out of his own Belly to sow it in the Earth; and when he hath done, he endureth all Weathers, and still waiteth and hath long Patience for the Harvest. Do you also (saith he) wait for the Coming of the Lord, because then is the Harvest, and he will reward every Man according to the Fruit of his Doings. And hence therefore you shall find (still that I may speak in the Language of the Metaphor) in this Epistle to the Philippians, Chap. ult. ver. 17. whenas they had sent him a Benevolence (saith he) It is not that I desire a Gift, or that I rejoice in what you have done, but I desire Fruit that may abound to your account. He compares it to Merchandizing; there is, saith he, so much set upon your account in Heaven for it, it is a Fruit of Righteousness, and a Seed sown, which you will have an account of at the latter Day. Certainly, my Brethren, God as he will reward every Man according to the kind of his Works, that is, those that have done good shall go into Eternal Life, as the Expression is; and he will make it out by the kind of the Works, that this Man is a good Man, and the other not; so he will reward according to the proportion, the proportionality. But why should I call it proportion, since it holds no proportion with degrees of Glory? You have a place very considerable, Rev. 22. 11. It is Christ's last Speech from Heaven, his last Sermon that he makes; He that is unjust let him be unjust still, and he that is filthy let him be filthy still, and he that is righteous let him be righteous still, and he that is holy let him be holy still. The Reason why he speaks thus of wicked Men, he that is unjust let him be unjust still, is because, that notwithstanding all that he had said in this Book, and in the whole Book of God, they would go on in their Wickedness, and because the day of Judgment is deferred, they would be more wicked (as Daniel also had foretold in his Prophecy, Chap. 12. 10.) but be not offended at it, But he that is righteous let him be righteous still, and he that is holy let him be holy still; let him continue and increase in Holiness: And why? Behold, I come quickly, and my Reward is with me; that is, I have it ready (for so in 1 Pet. 4. 5. he is said to be ready to judg the quick and the dead) I have every Man's Account in my Head, and I have the Reward he shall have, for I have summ'd up all the Holiness that is in the Heart and Life of a godly Man, and my Reward is with me to give every Man according as his Work shall be, not only for the kind but for the degree. Why? Clearly, because he that is righteous let him be more righteous, he that is holy let him be more holy; for my Reward is with me, and I will give every Man according as his Work shall be found at that Day. Therefore doth the Apostle here (Phil. 1. 10.) pray that they may be filled with Fruits of Righteousness; for the more they are filled with such Fruits, the more will there be Fruit come in then to their account. Truly they hold no proportion with what shall be then, that's certain, none at all: yet as a Man that is casting up of what is due to him, may do it with Counters, when the Money that is paid holds no proportion with the Counters, and yet may truly say, the Money that is paid him is according to that account made up with the Counters; so here, tho all the Fruit we bring forth here, all the Works we do here, are not worthy of that Glory that shall be revealed, they have nothing in them proportionable to it; yet notwithstanding ſtanding it ſhall be according to that account. How this ſtands with free Grace, and is not of Works, I have ſhewed in my Sermons on Eph. 2. Chap. 7.

How ſhould theſe Thoughts make us for ever grow up in Holineſs, and to endeavour to be filled with the Fruits of Righteouſneſs? Every Man (ſaith the Apoſtle, 2 Cor. 3. 8.) ſhall receive his proper Reward. It is a Reward proper to his Work, to his Labour. And to the ſame purpoſe is what the Apoſtle ſays, 2 Cor. 5. 10. For we muſt all appear before the Judgment-Seat of Chriſt, that every one may receive the Things done in his Body, according to that he hath done, whether it be Good or Bad. In the Body, that is, proper to the Body, as ſome read it; or as it followeth, as he hath behaved himſelf in the Body. And he ſpeaks ſutably, 1 Cor. 3. 8. Now he that planteth, and he that watereth are one, and every Man ſhall receive his own Reward, according to his own Labour. It is meant of Heaven, for (ſaith he, ver. 15.) he ſhall be ſaved, yet by Fire; he ſhall ſuffer ſo much Loſs, for the Spirit of God will reveal all. Conſider alſo another Place of the Apoſtle, Eph. 6. 8, 9. he ſpeaks upon occaſion of ordinary Duties, of the Duties of Servants that do Service in their Callings; but you may apply it to any thing elſe that is good, that hath any Ingenuity in it, that is done through Chriſt to the Glory of God. Servants (ſaith he) be obedient, &c. not with Eye-ſervice (he ſpeaks not only of holy Duties, but of all that a Man doth, of Servants ſerving their Maſters) knowing that whatſoever good thing a Man doth, the ſame ſhall he receive of the Lord. A Man doth ſuch a one a good Turn, and he doth it out of a Principle of Grace and Holineſs; whatſoever good thing any Man doth, whatſoever Ingenuity any Man ſheweth of any kind, the ſame he ſhall receive of the Lord. He would never condeſcend to particulars elſe, to a Cup of cold Water, as he doth in Mark 9. All yield, even thoſe that are againſt degrees of Glory, that at the laſt Day there ſhall more Approbation be given to one Man than to another; but why not for ever, ſeeing a Man's Righteouſneſs remaineth for ever?

And therefore, my Brethren, how ſhould all theſe things make us endeavour after Holineſs, as Peter ſaith (ſuffer the Words of Exhortation, for theſe things the holy Apoſtles preſſed upon the Hearts and Spirits of Men) 2 Pet. 3. 14. Seeing that ye look for ſuch things, be diligent that ye may be found of him in Peace, without ſpot and blameleſs (which is the firſt part) and ſeeing that theſe things muſt be diſſolved, what manner of Perſons ought ye to be, in all holy and godly Converſations? ſo it is in the Original. The Apoſtle Peter, who doth in his Epiſtles ſparkle forth ſo much Holineſs, yet he hath ſo great and ſo vaſt a ſight of Holineſs, which yet he would attain to, that he knows not how to expreſs it: What manner of Men (ſaith he) ought we to be! It is a word of Admiration, as when Chriſt did ſtill the Sea in Mat. 8. 27. what manner of Man is this! (ſay they) ſo here, what manner of Holineſs ſhould we uſe, Looking for and haſtning unto the Coming of the Day of the Lord, that is, diſpatching and doing all we can for our Lives againſt that Day; and if we have neglected our time, let us begin now to haſten, and to be holy in all manner of Converſations. It is expreſſed in the plural number, to inſtruct us that in all Ways, towards a Man's ſelf and towards others, and in all Duties towards God, we ſhould be holy. Our Lives ſhould as it were be in a hurry after the Day of Judgment; as thoſe that are to remove at the Quarter-day, they haſten to do all againſt the time. Let a Man think with himſelf, I muſt have all my time filled up, with every Grace I muſt abound, and hold forth Chriſt in every thing, in every condition, and in every relation; and the more fruitful I have been, I ſhall appear ſo at the latter Day, and it ſhall all redound to my account. Let a Man conſider this, it will make him to be like one in a continual haſt, diſpatching as much Buſineſs as he can for his Life.

BOOK II.

The Demeanour of a Christian, as it is expressed under the Notion of Friendship with God. The Example of Abraham's being the Friend of God. How in the sense of the Apostle James he was justified by Works. How great, excellent, and kind a Friend God is to us. How this Consideration should engage us in a sincere Friendship to him: What are the Duties and Offices to be performed by us, as proper and owing to such a Friendship. Of the Behaviour of a Christian, as it is named Service to God.

James II. 21, 22, 23.

Was not Abraham our Father justified by Works, when he had offered Isaac his Son upon the Altar?

Seest thou how Faith wrought with his Works, and by Works was Faith made perfect?

And the Scripture was fulfilled, which saith, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed unto him for Righteousness; and he was called the Friend of God.

CHAP. I.

The Obedience of a Christian expressed under the Notion of Friendship to God. The Title of being God's Friend is given to Abraham. The meaning of the Apostle James, when he says Abraham was justified by Works.

MY present Subject is the Obedience of a Man already regenerated, and this the notion of Friendship with God will in a large manner serve to illustrate unto us. Friendship is the Strength of Love, and the highest Improvement of it: Thy Friend (says Moses) that is as thy own Soul, Deut. 13. 6. Friendship is common to, and included in all relations of Love: A Brother is (or ought to be) a Friend, 'tis but Friendship natural. Husband and Wife are Friends, that Knot is but Friendship Conjugal. See one instance for both, Cant. 5. Christ had first called his Church Sister, and then Spouse. And as not contented with both, tho put together, he adds another Compellation as the top of all, Oh my Friends! ver. 1. This Friendship to God will therefore most perfectly and compleatly serve to express the Love and Obedience of the Saints to God, which is here set forth in the Text, in the Example of Abraham; the State of whose Person, and Temper of Heart is herein made the Common Standard of all Believers.

This

This Phraſe of being Friends to God, is not only expreſſive of the firſt Work of God upon us, but it is ſufficient to inſtruct and direct us; and (as the Holy Ghoſt ſpeaks upon another occaſion) to make the Man of God perfect. The whole of that Charge given to Abraham (who is here made our Pattern, Gen. 17. 1. Walk before me, and be thou perfect) is ſummarily comprehended in this Teſtimony of his Carriage, whereby he made good the Character of a Friend, and ſo was called the Friend of God. Other Titles given us do more expreſs our Privileges, as to be called a Son, an Heir; but this of being a Friend to God (the eſſential Conſtitution and Eſſence of which Regeneration firſt gives us) expreſſeth more of Duty, and of the inward Diſpoſition of a Chriſtian towards God, tho it alſo be as high a Title for Dignity as any other. God writ upon the Palms of his Hands, and as a Signet, and a Memorial on his right Hand, the Name of Abraham his Friend; he remembers him and his Seed by it again and again, as if all were ſpoken in that one word. Our Privilege by it I will not inſiſt on, but the Duty, the Diſpoſitions of it I cannot omit, having gone ſo far in it, which Chriſt alſo inſinuates, John 15. 14. Ye are my Friends, if ye do whatever I command you. Chap. 1.

That I may arrive at this portion of Scripture (my Text) as it ſtands in coherence with the foregoing Words, I muſt neceſſarily open the Aim and Intent of James therein, which hath had ſo much Controverſy upon it. The Point which he purſues in this Chapter and this Epiſtle, was to convince looſe Profeſſors, who building themſelves upon Paul's Doctrine (which if it had not been current in thoſe times, there had been no Colour for their miſtake) that Faith alone being that which ſaved us, and juſtified us without Works, they thereupon had taken up a looſeneſs of Profeſſion in Practice, not judging inward Holineſs in their Hearts, or an outward ſtrictneſs in their Lives neceſſary, ſeeing it was Faith alone that ſaveth. Now in this Chapter there are two Mediums, by which he evinceth the Vanity of that Deceit.

1. That even under the Goſpel, univerſal reſpect to all the Commandments, one as well as another, is required, and upon the ſame ground to all, as unto any one: Yea, and that at the latter Day, God will judg every Man according to this Rule, which he terms the Law of Liberty, ver. 12. The Goſpel requires a ſincere reſpect unto all Commandments; this you have from ver. 8, to the 14*th.* If ye fulfil the Royal Law according to the Scripture, Thou ſhalt love thy Neighbour as thy ſelf, ye do well. But if ye have reſpect to Perſons, ye commit Sin, and are convinced of the Law as Tranſgreſſors: for whoſoever ſhall keep the whole Law, and yet offend in one Point, he is guilty of all. For he that ſaid, Do not commit Adultery, ſaid alſo, Do not kill: Now if thou commit no Adultery, yet if thou kill, thou art become a Tranſgreſſor of the Law. So ſpeak ye, and ſo do, as they that ſhall be judged by the Law of Liberty. For he ſhall have Judgment without Mercy, that hath ſhewed no Mercy; and Mercy rejoiceth againſt Judgment. What doth it profit, my Brethren, tho a Man ſay he hath Faith, and have not Works? can Faith ſave him?

The ſecond part of his Diſcourſe, and which he proſecutes to the end of the Chapter, is, 1. That true ſaving Faith hath always Works of Holineſs, or ſuch a reſpect unto all the Commandments, accompanying it both in the Heart and Life. And, 2. on the contrary, that Faith which hath not theſe Fruits is but a dead Faith, and not the true genuine Faith, ſuch as all Believers have that are ſaved. Yea, and 3. That every Man's Faith (and ſo together therewith every Man that profeſſeth himſelf to have true Faith) muſt one day be put to an open Trial to juſtify the Truth of it ſelf, and of his Profeſſion, and this afore all the World. And the Believer alſo will be put upon the Juſtification of his having had ſuch a Faith as God (ex conſequenti, or in the Sequel) profeſſeth only to juſtify Man upon; for at the latter Day it is Faith is the Grace that muſt be tried and found unto Honour and Glory, 1 Pet. 1. 7. And the Man that ſhall plead Juſtification by Faith alone (which James contradicts not) and that he had a ſaving Faith, muſt undergo this Examination, whether his Faith produced ſuch Works yea or no, as the Nature of true Faith with difference from falſe and unfeigned Faith (which James diſputes againſt) doth note.

Book II.

These three Assertions he intermingledly lays down. The first, ver. 14. What doth it profit a Man, tho he say he hath Faith, and have not Works? Can [illegible], that Faith save him? The second is in ver. 17. Even so Faith which hath not Works is dead, being alone, and but such a Faith as the Devils have, ver. 19. The third is in ver. 21, & 24. A Man is justified by Works, and not by Faith only. The Issue of all which comes to this, that true Sanctification and Holiness of Heart and Life is required by God unto the Possession and the Enjoyment of Salvation, as well as Faith, and serves to justify the Truth of the Faith, by which he hath alone the right to it.

Now for the Confirmation of all this, he alledgeth the Instance of Abraham, as an undeniable Conviction and sufficient Evidence, as his Preface to it shews; Wilt thou know, O vain Man? (says he) ver. 20. He gives such Professors the Title of vain Men, because they are vain in their Imaginations (Rom. 1.) and deceived in what they build on, and their Religion will prove vain (as in Chap. 1. 26. he speaks) such a Man deceives his own Heart, and his Religion is vain.

Now wilt thou know, that is, shall I give thee an invincible Demonstration for all these things? Both that that Faith which is without Works is a dead Faith, a counterfeit Faith, and so of another kind from saving Faith. And 2*ly*, that whoever pleads he hath Faith, must have a Justification (in a right and true sense) by Works, &c. For this, take that Instance of our Father Abraham, Jam. 2. 21. Was not Abraham our Father justified by Works, when he had offered up his Son Isaac upon the Altar? We must understand him here closely to prosecute those assertions he had begun, whereof one was, that it was not enough for a Man that would be saved to say that he had Faith; but he must make this good, and shew it forth in his Works. And accordingly as to this Sense, the Apostle must be understood to speak this of Abraham (for he speaks pertinently to his own Conclusions laid) that if Abraham our Father were now alive, or to appear at the Day of Judgment, and would say or plead that he had Faith, upon which God had imputed Righteousness unto him; that yet even he, as well as any other, must shew that he had such a Faith by his Works, or he had not approved himself to have been a true Believer. And so to be justified by Works, is but to approve himself a true Believer, in difference to a false Faith (which is the main Point, which James his Scope was to disprove) And accordingly there is recorded (to which James his Words do refer) a Justification of him that followed upon that Work of his: ver. 22, 23, 24. Seest thou how Faith wrought with his Works, and by Works was Faith made perfect? And the Scripture was fulfilled, which saith, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed to him for Righteousness, and he was called the Friend of God. Ye see then how that by Works a Man is justified, and not by Faith only.

CHAP. II.

How the Apostle Paul, and the Apostle James are consistent in the account which they give of Abraham's Justification.

IF you ask how this is to be reconciled to what Paul says, Rom. 3*d* & 4*th* Chapters, where he says the clean contrary, that Abraham was justified by Faith without Works? The Answer (besides what hath been now said) is clear out of the Scope of both Places compared. There is a double Justification by God, the one authoritative, the other declarative, or demonstrative; tho this is also before God, yet it is that which is to be made before all the World by God: And in order thereunto, the one is the Justification of Mens Persons coram Deo, before God, as they appear before him nakedly, and have to do with him alone for the right to Salvation; and so they are justified by Faith without Works, either as look'd at by God, or by themselves. God therein passeth an Act of Christ's Righteousness, out of his pure Prerogative; as a King, when he pardons or creates a Nobleman, and the like. And this part of the distinction Paul himself puts in ſtating it under the Example of Abraham; that coram Deo, before God, nor Abraham, nor any Fleſh ſhall be juſtified by Works: Rom. 4. 2, 3, 4, 5. For if Abraham were juſtified by Works, he hath whereof to glory, but not before God. For what ſaith the Scripture? Abraham believed God, and it was counted to him for Righteouſneſs. Now to him that worketh, is the Reward not reckoned of Grace, but of Debt. But to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that juſtifieth the Ungodly, his Faith is counted for Righteouſneſs. Obſerve it, he ſaith, not before God, that is, not in that Juſtification, which is an Act paſt between God and a Man's own Soul, and in reſpect of the private Tranſactions between both. Chap. 2.

But God at the latter Day is to proceed as the Judg of all the World (as Abraham calls him) and as ſuch to put a difference between Man and Man, and that upon this account; that the one were true Believers, when he juſtified them; the other were unſound, even in their very Acts of Faith, which they did put forth: And ſo he is to ſhew forth a difference between thoſe whom he hath juſtified thus out of his Prerogative, and thoſe whom he hath left under Wrath. He is to own the one, with a come ye Bleſſed, and reject the other, with a go ye Curſed.

Now God hath ordered it ſo, that he will not put the poſſeſſion of Salvation upon that private Act of his own, without having any thing elſe to ſhew for it. He ſhews Grace and Favour to a Man without Works; but yet he will go demonſtratively to work, and difference believing Abraham from unbelieving Iſhmael and Laban; and this by ſuch Works as the other had not to ſhew for themſelves: He will juſtify his own Acts of Juſtification, of this Man, and not of that; and he will juſtify the Faith of him he had juſtified (which is James's main Scope) or if you will the Perſon himſelf, as he profeſſed himſelf to have had Faith. And this is as evidently James's Scope, as the other is Paul's. In a word, Abraham's Perſon conſidered ſingly and alone, yea as ungodly, is the Object of Paul's Juſtification without Works, Rom. 4. 3, 4, 5. But Abraham, as profeſſing himſelf to have ſuch a true juſtifying Faith, and to have been juſtified thereupon, and claiming right to Salvation by it; Abraham as ſuch is to be juſtified by Works. Now that this is James's Scope is evident; for,

1. It agrees with the Language he uſeth, which imports his meaning to intend but an outward Demonſtration in this his Juſtification, which he intended, ver. 18. Shew me thy Faith without thy Works, and I will ſhew thee my Faith by my Works. And ver. 22. Seeſt thou how Faith wrought with his Works? So then he ſpeaks of a viſible demonſtrative Juſtification, as the Words ſeeing and ſhewing import.

2. This Inſtance of Abraham's Juſtification (he ſaith) was after he had offered up his Son. Now what was that Juſtification, but that famous Teſtimony of God himſelf, given him thereupon? Now know I (ſays God, Gen. 22. 12.) that thou feareſt God, which is no more but this, I have now a viſible Evidence and Demonſtration of it; ſo that whereas before I, upon a private Act of my own, juſtified thee upon believing, I can now own thee to all the World, and have an Evidence to give upon certain Knowledg. And this Teſtimony was Abraham's Juſtification.

3. The 23*d ver.* alſo tells us, that he had that Character or Title of Honour given him thereupon: 1. That he was called the Friend of God, which is ſpoken in relation unto that Act. 2. He is ſpoken of alſo as one whom God was not aſhamed of to be called his God, nor to own him as a Friend; for he had had it upon an Experience what would juſtify his doing ſo.

4. And yet further, he herein proſecutes what he had ſaid (ver. 12.) that we ſhould be judged by our Works, and ſo ſpeaks this in relation thereunto. And look in what ſenſe a Man may be ſaid to be judged by his Works at the latter Day; in the ſame ſenſe, and that ſenſe only, he intends this his Juſtification by Works, and in no other, for all judging and paſſing of Sentence muſt have either a Juſtification, or a Condemnation, as the Sentence of it in the cloſe. So as there is no more danger to ſay, a Man at the latter Day ſhall be juſtified by his Works, as Evidences of his State and Faith, than to ſay he ſhall be judged according thereto; and the one is to be taken in a ſimilar or like ſenſe unto the other. Now to be judged according to Works (when it is ſpoken of a good Man) is meant demonſtratively, Book II. ſtratively, as they are Evidence of his Eſtate. The Apoſtles Scope being alſo to ſhew by God's Approbation given Abraham, upon the Story of his offering up his Son in his Life-time, what like Approbation or Juſtification Chriſt will declare and hold forth concerning true Believers, when the Story of their Lives and all the Good they have done, or was wrought in them, ſhall be ript up; I was naked, and ye clothed me: And ſo gives them the Teſtimony of his knowing that they had done ſo. As on the contrary, to them that regarded not good Works, he ſays, I know you not, Mat. 7. 23. And David ſpeaking of ſtanding in Judgment, uſeth the ſame Phraſe, Pſal. 1. 5, 6. The Lord knows the way of the Righteous; that is, juſtifies and approves: As in that Speech God did Abraham, Now I know thou feareſt me, &c.

And in relation to this outward Judgment at the latter day, our Sentence of Salvation is termed expreſly a Juſtification; and this very thing is aſſerted by Chriſt himſelf, Mat. 12. 36, 37. I ſay unto you, that every idle Word that Men ſhall ſpeak, they ſhall give an account thereof in the day of Judgment: For by thy Words thou ſhalt be juſtified, and by thy Words thou ſhalt be condemned. Neither is it any where ſaid, that God will judg Men according to their Faith only; nor will it be a ſufficient Plea at the latter day to ſay, Lord, thou knoweſt I believed and caſt my ſelf at thy Grace: God will ſay, I am to judg thee ſo, as every one ſhall be able to judg my Sentence righteous together with me (1 Cor. 4. 5.) Therefore ſhew me thy Faith by thy Works; let me know by them thou fearedſt me: for as I did judg Abraham, and gave thereupon a Teſtimony of him, ſo I muſt proceed towards thee. And this God will do, to the end that all the Sons of Iſrael, yea the whole World, may know that he juſtified one that had true Faith indeed

So then, Paul's judging according to Works, and James his Juſtification by Works, are all one, and are alike conſiſtent with Paul's Juſtification by Faith only. For in the ſame Epiſtle where he argues ſo ſtrongly for Juſtification by Faith without Works (as Rom. 3. 4.) he in Chap. 2. alſo declares, That he will judg every Man according to his Works. He doth ſo to the Good, v. 7. To them who by patient Continuance in well-doing ſeek for Glory, and Honour, and Immortality, Eternal Life: As well as to the Bad he pronounceth a contrary Judgment, v. 8, 9. But unto them that are contentious, and do not obey the Truth, but obey Unrighteouſneſs; Indignation and Wrath, Tribulation and Anguiſh, upon every Soul of Man that doth Evil, of the Jew firſt, and alſo of the Gentile.

Now then to proceed in the Expoſition of James, Thou ſeeſt how Faith wrought with Abraham's Works. Which imports, Firſt, that his Faith was a working Faith, which is the principal Point that James drives at. And Secondly, that his Works did proceed out of Faith, and ſo were accepted. Thus in Heb. 11. 17. By Faith Abraham offered up Iſaac, ſays the Apoſtle there. And by Works Faith was made perfect; that is, declared and manifeſted to be true and perfect Faith. Thus we are ſaid to bleſs God, when we ſhew his Bleſſedneſs: And thus in 2 Cor. 12. 9. God's Power is ſaid to be perfected in Weakneſs; not that it receives any Perfection from us, but becauſe it is manifeſted in its Divineneſs and Perfection. And this the Reaſon of the thing alſo enforceth, for the Cauſe is not perfected by the Effect, but is declared perfected. Fruits perfect not, or make not the Tree good, but ſhew the Goodneſs of it. Now Faith is the Cauſe of Works; and ſo his Faith was perfected by Works, by being manifeſted upon Trial (as Heb. 11. 17. the Apoſtle ſpeaks) to be perfect Faith, that is, true and genuine Faith (for ſo perfect is taken by James, Chap. 1. v. 17. Every perfect Gift) in diſtinction from Faith that proves it ſelf Hypocritical in the Iſſue. Thus you ſay of a true Dye, it is a perfect Colour.

Again then, a thing is ſaid to be perfected when it hath attained the end which it was ordained for, or which was aimed at. Thus in 1 Joh. 2. 5. Whoſo keepeth his Words, in him the Love of God is perfected. Underſtand it either of the Grace of Love in us, it is perfected when it brings forth the Actions and Fruits of Obedience it was ordained to bring forth: Or take it in reſpect of God's Love towards us, Holineſs is the End and Aim thereof. It receives its intended End and Accompliſhment in a Man that keeps the Commandments, for we were choſen to be holy before him in Love.

But

But let us proceed in the Expoſition of James's Words, James 2. 23. And the Scripture was fulfilled, which ſaith, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed to him for Righteouſneſs; that is, upon this his offering up his Son there was a fulfilling of that thing, which aforehand had been ſpoken of Abraham, whereof the Scripture is the Record. Firſt let us conſider the thing. 2. The Phraſe fulfilled.

1. Let us conſider the thing in other Paſſages of the New Teſtament, where it is ſaid, A Scripture is fulfilled when it is firſt done or accompliſhed, with reference to ſome Scripture, or Prophecy recorded and written long afore the thing was accompliſhed. Now that cannot be James his meaning here, for Moſes his Books (and ſo this Book of Geneſis) were written after, both this Imputation of Righteouſneſs by God, and that offering up of Iſaac by Abraham. The Intent of this Saying then muſt reſt upon this, that what is recorded in Scripture, as ſaid long before of Abraham's Faith, was afterward fulfilled and demonſtrated, tho both Paſſages were at one and the ſame time written by the ſame Hand of Moſes long after both. And ſo it refers to the Priority of Matter, that one Paſſage fell out afore the other, not to the Writing it ſelf. Now it is evident by the Story, that about thirty Years before Abraham offered up his Son, God had (as the Scripture records it) imputed Righteouſneſs to him upon believing (Gen. 15. 6.) Yea and upon a bare and naked Act of believing was it that God did impute Righteouſneſs to him. But then, as hath been ſaid, God that juſtified Abraham as his Elect, gave him ſuch a Faith, and ſuch an Act of Faith was then put forth by Abraham, as God (to uſe the Words ſaid of Chriſt) knowing by Intuition and Foreſight the kind of it (he alſo out of Election having given him ſuch a Faith) to be true and genuine, juſtified him upon it; it being ſuch a Faith as he meant to follow with all theſe good Works, that which Abraham afterward out of Faith wrought: And indeed Abraham's Faith after ſo many Years brought forth thoſe many Acts of Obedience, Heb. 11. 17. There was an evident Demonſtration or making good, a fulfilling or juſtifying of what God had done, and of that Faith he had juſtified him then upon; clearly ſhewing that God in juſtifying him upon that, tho a ſingle Act of Faith, yet had kept to that eternal Rule of his, in juſtifying any; that ſuch a Faith ſhould be operative and working of Holineſs. This Abraham in the Sequel fulfilled and made good, and God foreſaw he would: And it is obſervable that in the 15*th* of Geneſis, God gave forth the Promiſe abſolutely unto Abraham firſt, and then he put forth that Act of Faith towards it. The Promiſe was a Declaration of God's immediate Counſel towards him, not founded on any Work precedent, no nor Faith, but uttered for him by Faith to receive; v. 1. I am thy Shield and exceeding great Reward. And Ver. 6. As the Stars ſhall thy Seed be; (in which Abraham ſpy'd out Chriſt.) And he believed in the Lord, and he counted it to him for Righteouſneſs. Therefore Paul argues that God juſtified him, as conſidering him an ungodly Perſon; neither therein reſpecting his Works nor his Faith, as that for which he juſtified him. Now then, upon that eminent Act of Obedience, the offering up his Son (which is recorded Gen. 22.) doth God renew the ſame Promiſe, confirming it with an Oath; I ſay, he renews the very ſame Promiſe for Subſtance given afore; Ver. 16, 17. By my ſelf have I ſworn, that becauſe thou haſt done this thing, and haſt not withheld thy Son, thine only Son, That in bleſſing I will bleſs thee, and in multiplying I will multiply thy Seed as the Stars of Heaven, and as the Sand which is upon the Sea-Shore; and thy Seed ſhall poſſeſs the Gate of his Enemies. Now the fulfilling here is in part interpreted by the Word the Apoſtle uſeth of this very Speech, Heb. 6. 17. That it was a Confirmation of a Promiſe formerly given by an Oath. Referring to the Declaration of himſelf, Gen. 22. as by the 13*th* and 14*th* Verſes appears: For when God made Promiſe to Abraham, becauſe he could ſwear by no greater, he ſware by himſelf, ſaying, Surely bleſſing I will bleſs thee, and multiplying I will multiply thee. So then, as this renewing the Promiſe was but a further Confirmation of what was ſure afore on God's part there; ſo here in James, this fulfilling was but a making forth, or open Verification, or Demonſtration, or ſhewing forth on Abraham's part, that his Faith God had juſtified him upon was true and real perfect Faith, ſuch as God only profeſs'd to juſtify Men upon. And as the firſt Promiſe given Gen. 15. was ſufficient alone to have aſſured us; and the addition of that Oath made it not more true or full in real verity than it was afore, only ex abundanti was added for Confirmation: So Abraham's Justification upon that bare Act of believing was as full and compleat in the thing it self, as it was now upon the offering up of his Son. Only hereupon a new Ratification was made to his Faith thereof. And so the Saying was but fulfilled, and Abraham's Faith (upon which it was first utter'd) justified and declared true; namely, by that Testimony of God's then given, Now I know thou fearest me.

Verity

2. And Secondly the Phrase well bears it; for in this Sense a thing is said to be fulfilled in Scripture when declared and ratified by some eminent Signal of it, Acts 13. 32, 33. When Peter brought the Jews Tidings that they should have God's own Son for their Messiah (for which he quotes Psal. 2. Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee) says he, God hath fulfilled the same unto us, in that he hath rais'd up Christ from the Dead. Now Jesus Christ was not made any whit more God's Son by his Resurrection than he was before; how is it then said by his Resurrection to be fulfilled? Paul hath resolved us, Rom. 1. 4. He was declared to be the Son of God by the Resurrection from the Dead. It is he that was the Son of God by Eternal Generation, and there was no other such a Son of God, and of whom it was accordingly said in Scripture, This day have I begotten thee. This Scripture is said to be fulfilled, when this is manifestly made forth and demonstrated. And this is but the same which God doth every day; when upon occasion of some eminent Act of Self-denial or Suffering he renews Assurance of his Love, and of the Justification of them that have afore believed, as Joh. 14. 21.

Now then, that Justification, which in reality, and for the thing it self was as compleat upon a bare Act of believing as ever it shall be to all Eternity, (and the very Words import it, in that thirty Years before Abraham's offering up his Son, Righteousness was imputed to him by believing) yet is said to be fulfilled when demonstratively and signally held forth: And as the Resurrection of the Son of God added nothing to his Sonship that was essential thereunto, so neither did this Justification of Abraham by Works (James 2. 21.) add any thing to God's real imputing of Christ's Righteousness, but was the Signal of it.

So then, let us conceive aright of God's Proceedings herein. Says God of a Man that now but begins to put forth a naked Act of Faith, I do here justify this Man, and I do justify him for ever, and I will never recal it. But a carnal Heart might object, Will God before hand thus rashly give forth an eternal Justification of a Man? Will he not stay until he sees Works to spring from it? No says God, I will adventure to do it now; for when I mean to justify according to my Decree of Election, I give him Faith, the Faith of my Elect: And I see (for he sees all our Thoughts and Wants afar off) this Faith I justify this Man now upon, this sole Act of believing for Justification, to be so genuine, so true and unfeigned Faith, and of the true and right Breed, that I will adventure it, or rather undertake for it, that in the future course of this Man's Life it shall bring forth in his Heart and Life Acts and Dispositions suitable, which shall justify this my justifying of this Man: Which when it shall do, then is God's Sentence of justifying him said to be fulfilled.

When a Man first believes upon a bare Word of God, God in like manner justifies upon that bare Act of believing: And as he trusts God, so God trusts his Faith, or rather undertakes for it, and pronounceth such a Sentence upon him of Justification as he hath sworn (as he did to Abraham) never to recal. And yet the Case is such, as if in the future course of his Life that Man did not walk so, as by Works and Dispositions of Holiness accompanying that Faith, to give Demonstration of himself to be a true Believer; God at the latter day must recal that Sentence, as pronounc'd upon a dead and empty Act of Faith. When therefore in his future course he walks suitably, he is said to fulfil or make good that first Act of God; for he gives sufficient Proof and Demonstration that he had, and hath that kind of Faith upon which God alone will be sure to justify a Man, even a working Faith that is lively. And in this sense is that Saying of James here to be understood; And the Scripture was fulfilled which says, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed to him for Righteousness.

CHAP. III.

Abraham called the Friend of God, upon the Performance of that Act of Obedience in offering up his Son. That what is said of Abraham, is spoken of him as the Father and Pattern of all Believers. That true Faith works in the Heart friendly Dispositions toward God.

THE Apostle James withal adds, And he was called the Friend of God. 1. Some ado there is where in the Old Testament to find this Saying. Some think it not any where uttered in Words, and must therefore be fetcht from such Passages, recorded betwixt Abraham and God, as argued he owned him for his Friend, as that Promise, Gen. 12. 4. I will bless them that bless thee, and I will curse them that curse thee. And to be a Friend to ones Friends, and an Enemy to all ones Enemies, is the strictest League of Friendship that can be. Also those familiar Conferences and Colloquies vouchsafed to Abraham, do argue it. God in reality used him as a Friend, and so did in effect call him so. But over and above there are two evident Testimonies of God, in expres Terms giving this Title to Abraham by God, 2 Chron. 20. 7. Isa. 41. 8. The Seed of Abraham my Friend. And this honourable mention of him, compared with those real Transactions of Friendship, does put all out of question, as to the Authentickness of this Quotation.

2. For the Scope and Pertinency of James in this Quotation to the purpose he had in hand, it must be considered,

1. That he joins and couples (you see) two several Testimonies, fetcht out of several Scriptures concerning one and the same Person, Abraham (whose Instance he had before him to make forth his Assertions out of it:) One in his Story in Genesis, the other in the Chronicles and Prophet. And thereby he would prove and shew that which he intended; That in him Justification, or justifying Faith, and Sanctification, or Works answerable, did meet: Yea, and that from his Faith by which he was justified, did flow true Holiness and Love to God. So as that from his Instance (who is our Pattern) he argues, that where God imputes Righteousness by believing, the Person is made such in Heart and Life, as God may approve of him as a true and real Friend. Abraham believed, and it was imputed to him for Righteousness: There is the one. And (says James) take this in too, He was called the Friend of God; that is, approved by God as such; and he really was such, for God calls things as they are. Now a Friend to God in James his Interpretation of it, imports such inward Dispositions of Heart, and such a Behaviour and Deportment in Life towards God, as a true Friend beareth to a Friend; and so is set to expres Sanctification in its distinction from Faith, and as inseparable from Faith.

2. He pertinently mentions this Title, of Abraham's being God's Friend, as given him more especially upon that Act of offering up his Son. A Friend we know is known in Trial; now God tried him in the deareft thing he had, in requiring that he himself should sacrifice his own Son; which God took so kindly at his hands, as he ever after upon mention of him termed him Friend; this having been so high an Act of pure Friendship toward him.

3. The Apostle pertinently alledgeth it upon this Discourse of true Faith, to shew what a powerful working thing it is, where it is. You see how it wrought in Abraham's Heart, it framed and changed his Heart into Friendship with God. Abraham believed God, and he was called the Friend of God. You see then what a Faith his was.

4. And lastly, It indeed interprets what James meant by Abraham's being justified by Works; not the imputing of Righteousness, but the calling and owning a Man as God's Friend. And in the same sense that God called Abraham Friend, upon that Act of offering up his Son, in the same sense he is said to be justified by Works in the Verse before. You use to say, such an one is an approved Friend; such Book II. such did Abraham demonstrate himself to be, and God owned him, and entituled him such for ever; which is a clear distinct thing from either Paul's or James's Interpretation of Righteousness, and justifying the Ungodly.

I have but this to add in the close, which I began with in opening this difficult Scripture, that all this is spoken of Abraham, not as a Person extraordinary, but as a Pattern and Father unto all Believers. For 1. else James's alledging his Instance had not come home to his Scope, to shew that all Professors must have that Faith and Sanctification that Abraham had. And therefore, 2. in the 21st ver. when he begins to alledg it, he says, Was not Abraham our Father thus and thus? And therefore we that profess our selves Sons and Children of Abraham, must be herein like and conform to him. Yea, 3. it is observable, that in the Places to which he here refers us, That Abraham was called the Friend of God; it is still spoken of him in relation to us his Seed and Children: You have it in two Places, Isa. 41. 8. 2 Chron. 20. 7. and in both it runs thus, The Seed of Abraham my Friend. It is given him when his Seed is mentioned, and the Entail to them is from him, because they all are to be Friends to God as well as he.

So then to conclude; look as that Glory, that Heaven which we all expect, and which is the common Receptacle of all Believers, is termed in this very respect the Bosom of Abraham, Luke 15. And we are said to sit down with Abraham, &c. because both he and we go to one and the same common Place: So that same kind of Faith, the same Effect and Fruit of Faith, Sanctification and Friendship to God, is to be wrought in us here, if we be saved with Abraham. Now Friendship being put here to express Abraham's suitable Carriage towards God, in the actings of his Heart and Life after believing, the Deductions from hence are two, and they are proper to his Scope.

1. That true Faith where-ever it is, worketh and frameth the Heart to friendlike Dispositions unto God, and brings forth friendlike Carriage in the Life towards God. This the 23d ver. holds forth, And the Scripture was fulfilled, which saith, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed unto him for Righteousness, and he was called the Friend of God. This the Stream of this Text fully carries along with it; James his Scope is not only or chiefly to shew, that whom God justifies he doth reconcile them to himself, or works in their Hearts friendlike Dispositions towards him; but that a friendlike Deportment, that is, sincere Obedience, is thereby signified, and doth flow from thence, and accompanies it in their Hearts and Lives. And to this very End and Scope it is, that this is cited out of the Old Testament, and again and again repeated: so that however Reconciliation elsewhere mainly imports the Work of God upon us at first in the alteration of our States; yet Abraham's being a Friend, properly and mainly relates to Obedience, and a Behaviour suitable to Friendship, as witnessing and testifying that Work and Alteration.

2. Another Inference is, That every Man's Faith, whether it be true or feigned, shall and must have this Trial, whether it hath brought forth Holiness in Heart and Life; and every Man is thereby to be declaratively justified, and differenced from all Men that shall be damned.

I shall insist now on the first of these Inferences, to shew how true justifying Faith works this friendly temper to God, which is the Apostle's Scope here. I shall give you a Reason or two for it.

1. From the Ingenuity of Faith, if it be true and genuine, that is, suitable and answerable unto the Object it apprehends; for in a suitableness thereunto the Truth, the genuineness of Faith consists. For what is indeed the Aim of Faith? when it comes to God and Christ, believing on him, what would it have? What is the thing it looks for from God? And what would it have at his hands? The Mind, and Intent, and Scope of my Faith (when I come to believe) is to have God, out of an infinite Love (the same out of which he gave his Son to die, and which would yet move him to give him, if he had not done it) out of such a Love to pardon me all my Sins, and to justify me, and to become an Everlasting Father, and Friend unto me, and to love me with that Love he loves his Son with, and out of that Love to bestow all things on me. If you ask your Hearts, and your Rom. 8. Faith could but tell you, what the meaning of it is (as the Scripture, Rom. 8. speaks ſpeaks of the Spirit in Prayer) what is its Errand, what its Buſineſs is with God, when it caſts it ſelf upon God in Chriſt for Salvation, you will find the very bottom-reach of it to have been ſpoken in what hath been ſaid; and that this it would have of God, or it is never quiet. Now then if this Faith be but genuine and true, honeſt and unfeigned (as Chriſt in the Parable, and the Apoſtle ſpeaks of it) and ſo is anſwerable to its own Aim: If it have any Truth, Honeſty, Juſtice, Equity, or Reality in it, How is it poſſible it ſhould come to God for ſuch a great Love from him, ſuch a large Fruit and Effect of ſuch an entire Friendſhip on God's part; but it muſt work the Heart to a correſpondent, an anſwerable frame in ſome Sincerity towards God again on our parts? The Faith that juſtifies us is called a working Faith (ver. 22.) and ſurely if it work any thing, it muſt needs work a ſutable Diſpoſition to God, ſuch as it expects from God towards it ſelf. So 'tis evident from the Example of Abraham here; look what his Faith expected to have from God, it wrought in a way of Ingenuity the like in his Heart unto God. Abraham when he believed unto Righteouſneſs, it was founded upon the Promiſe God had made him of his own Son, his only Son, in whom God told Abraham, he and all Nations ſhould be bleſſed. Now doth Abraham believe to have God's Son given to him and for him? (For Abraham ſaw his Day and rejoiced, Abraham being a Prophet, Gen. 20.7. and the Father of the Faithful, to whom the firſt Promiſe of Chriſt, the bleſſed Seed, was made) He muſt then be underſtood to have had the ſame temper which David had, of whom it is ſaid, Acts 2. 30. That being a Prophet, and knowing that God had ſworn that of his Loins according to the Fleſh he would raiſe up Chriſt; he ſeeing this, before ſpake of the Reſurrection of Chriſt. So Abraham, I ſay, muſt neceſſarily be underſtood, upon the ſame account, to know and apprehend Chriſt, and his Offering up, and Reſurrection repreſented in that of his Son's, which is expreſly affirmed, Rom. 4. & Heb. 11. 17, 18, 19. By Faith Abraham when he was tried, offered up Iſaac; and he that had received the Promiſes, offered up his only begotten Son; of whom it was ſaid, that in Iſaac ſhall thy Seed be called: Accounting that God was able to raiſe him up even from the dead, from whence alſo he received him in a Figure. And Abraham conſidering theſe things, ſaid with himſelf, Why then God ſhall have my Son, now he calls for him, my only Son, or whatever elſe is dear to me: Seeſt thou not then how Faith wrought with his Works, when he offered up his Son Iſaac on the Altar? If his Faith would have God be ſo great a Friend to him (as God in that Promiſe had declared himſelf to be) then Faith frames his Heart to be a Friend to God. He believed (this namely, which hath been now diſcourſed) and it was imputed to him for Righteouſneſs, and he was called the Friend of God; that is, this Effect the Faith that juſtified him did work in him. And if Faith be but equal, if Faith be but faithful, if it be but honeſt (as Chriſt himſelf ſpeaks, he calling the Heart, by which the Promiſe is ſavingly received, an honeſt Heart, in the Parable of the Sower) if it be but a Principle of Humanity, and deal with God but according to the Principles of Men, as a Man, a ſinful Man deals with Man, it muſt needs work this frame. For this is made by Chriſt (Mat. 5. 46.) a common Principle of Humanity, to love thoſe again that love us. And Solomon ſpeaks the ſame, That he that hath Friends muſt ſhew himſelf friendly, Prov. 18. 24. Now Faith is an higher Principle than Humanity; it is a Divine Principle of the Operation of God (Col. 2. 12.) and therefore muſt needs by the ſame Power of God (which from firſt to laſt accompanies it) frame the Heart it is ſeated in unto this Ingenuity of Friendſhip unto God. And it is ſeated in the whole Heart, as the Scripture tells us, Rom. 10. And that Faith works in this manner to return to God what it receives from God, that Place likewiſe holds forth, 2 Cor. 5. 14, 15. The Love of Chriſt conſtrains us, becauſe we thus judg, that if one died for all, and that when all were dead, to the end that they might live; that then they ſhould not live unto themſelves, but unto him that died for them, and roſe again. This the Law of Common Equity requires, to live to him, that ſhould have given his Life unto us, eſpecially by his own Death; and this (if you obſerve it) is put upon this Reaſon, becauſe we thus judg, which Judgment is the Product of this Principle and Act of Faith, which both believes theſe things, as of and from God towards us, and withal hath in it an Equity, an Ingenuity to make the like returns to God; and therefore it muſt needs conſtrain us, when we thus in earneſt judg.

Book II. And this holds true of the Faith of Dependance, as well as of Faith of Assurance (if it be genuine) for even Faith of Dependance expects this great Friendship at God's hands, desires it, waits for it, and is not quiet without it. Surely because it so judgeth, and waiteth for and desireth this, it must needs frame the Heart to the like again. And this is the first Reason.

2. The second Reason is from what hath been noticed, That to be sure God accepts of no other Faith, but such as in the kind of it is such as will bring forth Holiness, and works by Love; neither doth he justify upon any other, this being the Faith of God's Elect. Where his Election bestows Justification, there and then, and in them he works that kind of Faith. That there is such a distinction of Faith, James holds forth; and God, to whom all his Works are known, from the beginning knoweth where he worketh such genuine Acts of Faith, and where there is such a Root as will bring forth according to its kind, Holiness in Heart and Life, and that works by Love. God foreknows whom he justifies, and knows things in their Causes, and the properties of Causes. Souls of all sorts come with their Faith unto him, and do alike cast themselves upon him and his Grace. And he knows what is in Man, even their Thoughts afar off; and as a skilful Herbalist knows the differing Roots of Herbs and Fruits e'er they have brought forth, so doth God know of what kind that Faith is wherewith Men come unto him, and so never errs in bestowing his Justification upon an unsound Faith, that hath not Love to accompany it. God doth not justify any Man rashly, or inconsiderately, so as if afterwards he sees a Soul to withdraw, and not answer his Faith in Works and Obedience, he should then call back his Grant. No, he makes sure work, and whom he foreknew or chose unto Faith, in them he works true Faith, and in them alone; and them he justifies upon their believing. The Just is said to have his Faith, which is proper to him, in distinction from that Faith, which those that withdraw have, Heb. 10. compared with that of the Prophet Habakkuk: The Just shall live by his Faith, but he that makes haste (tho he seems to believe) his Soul is not upright in him, that is, his Faith is not sound, and of the right breed. We are not of those that withdraw, but that believe to the saving of the Soul; that is, we are of the number of those that so believe, as to be infallibly saved; 'tis spoken by way of distinction of their Faith, for the other believe too, as the Opposition implies: So as tho many come to God, and put forth Acts of Faith, yet their Faith being not spiritual, nor genuine, God justifies not upon it; for he hath not given them a Faith to the saving of the Soul. He knowing what manner of Faith it is, bestows not that Grace of Justification upon it. I may say of it, as of Christ it is said (John 2. 24.) upon his like discerning beforehand, the ineffectualness and unsoundness of their Faith, Many believed on him, but Jesus committed not himself into their hands, because he knew them all. So God doth in this Case.

3. A third Reason: is, God's end in saving us by Faith, was not to lose by us a whit of that Love and Holiness he expects from us; but rather he chose Faith, because whilst it gave all to free Grace, and his infinite Love, it might withal reflect and carry all that Love down unto the Heart again, and shed it abroad in the Soul, and so cause Love to God to spring up with a redoubled encrease and advance. He did not chuse Love immediately, not because he regarded it not, but because if it had not sprung from Faith, as first apprehending his Love, it would have boasted it self, for it had returned something of it self unto God. But whilst Faith is made the Receiver of all from God, and thereupon the Worker of Love in us; upon that account, God's free Love is at once exalted and magnified, and our Hearts quickned, and enflamed with Love to him again.

CHAP. IV.

An Exhortation unto Friendſhip with God, from the Conſiderations how great, excellent, and kind a Friend, he from Eternity hath been, and perpetually, and for ever is to us.

MY Exhortation now ſhall be unto thoſe that are reconciled, and become (in reſpect of their States) Friends to God already. You ſee your high calling Brethren, you have the Honour to be called, as Abraham was, the Friends of God. You are entred into a Covenant of Friendſhip with God, make ſomething of it: And indeed it is the Scope even of that Place alſo, 2 Cor. 5. Be YE reconciled to God. For he ſpeaks unto the Corinthians, who already believed, and were converted and reconciled: But be you, even YOU, reconciled more, for even you have need of it; and at the beſt your Friendſhip is but imperfect: and as you know but in part, ſo you love but in part. As Chriſt ſays to his Diſciples, except ye be converted (Mat. 18. 31.) ſo ſay I, except ye be reconciled, that is, except you more and more renew your Covenants with God, ye cannot be ſaved. And beſides, you make many Breaches with God; and tho the Covenant through his Grace and Goodneſs notwithſtanding holds, yet you had need to make thoſe Breaches up again: Amantium ira Amoris redintegratio eſt, and Reconciliation is but the renewing of Love.

Conſider that thoſe who are perfect Enemies and Rebels to God, whilſt they are in that Eſtate, do but their kind: but you know what it is to offend God, and how it grieves him, his Spirit hath at times ſet it upon your Hearts, how unkindly he takes any Sin from you. You have felt in part what it coſt him to reconcile you, and have taſted how good the Lord is, and you have a Principle of Love in you which needs but ſtirring up. Conſider what Solomon ſays, Prov. 18. 24. A Man that hath Friends muſt ſhew himſelf friendly; and there is a Friend that ſticketh cloſer than a Brother. It is the Law of Friendſhip you ſee to anſwer it with Friendſhip again, mutuis Officiis vivitur.

And beſides, the ſweetneſs that is found in reciprocal Friendſhip, loyally and ſacredly maintained and kept up, it ſhould move you. God will find a ſweet Savour in you, and you again will have pleaſure in Communion with him. Friendſhip is the ſweeteſt, and of all Comforts the greateſt: therefore Solomon, tho he were a King, and had the Sum of all Delights, yet he would have one in an eſpecial manner be his Friend, 1 Kings 4. 5. And God, tho he need no Comfort nor Happineſs to be added to him, yet he would have Friends to delight himſelf in, and that ſhould delight in him. 'Twas this that moved him, and therefore that the Comfort of his Love and yours be not much of it loſt or impaired, demean your ſelves as Friends. It is Chriſt's own Argument in his laſt Sermon to his Diſciples, in which he treats them, and admires them by this ſacred Name of Friends, John 15. 13, 14, 15. and amongſt other Arguments, he uſeth this in exhorting them to Obedience; So my Joy ſhall be in you, and your Joy ſhall be full, ver. 10, 11. There will be mutual and reciprocal Joy and Delights in the Intercourſes of it. You will add to Chriſt's Joy, whoſe Joy is yet full; and to be ſure yours, which is imperfect, will be made full by it. As we uſe to ſay, if People do not mean to love, let them never marry; ſo if Men do not ſet themſelves to walk with God, let them renounce this ſweet and obliging relation of being Friends to him: eſpecially this is to be done, if a Man find one, who is a Friend indeed, ſo ſays Solomon in that Place, There is a Friend is nearer than a Brother: That will do more for thee than one that cometh out of the ſame Loins. And therefore Moſes (Deut. 13. 6.) ſeems to prefer the Love of ſome Friends to that of ſome Wives. If thy Wife (ſays he) entice thee, yea if thy Friend who is as thine own Soul. Now to ſuch a Friend, if you meet with him (ſays Solomon) ſhew your ſelf friendly. And truly as Faith, ſo Friendſhip is rare on Earth: It is hard to find a good piece of Stuff indeed to make a Friend of.

Book II.

I have two things therefore, which will make up the measure of this my Exhortation full. 1. What a Friend God is, and hath been, and will be unto you. And 2. Wherein you are to express Friendship again unto him. You find them both in that Exhortation of Christ; what a Friend he was, Joh. 15. 13. Greater Love than this hath no Man, to lay down his Life for his Friend. And from thence he presseth this on them, If ye be my Friends, do what I command you.

1. Consider, first, that God hath been your antient Friend, even from everlasting. The older Friends are, the more we ought to prize them. We esteem of an old Servant, but especially of an old Friend. Therefore saith Solomon, Thine own Friend and thy Father's Friend, forsake not, Prov. 27. 10. That is, leave not one who hath been an old Friend to thee, and thy Family before thee. Now God hath been thy Friend and Father from everlasting, therefore forsake him not; he hath loved thee ever since he loved himself. Now if one had loved another ever since himself was, how would this endear him? God hath done this.

2. He is such a Friend as never had his Thoughts off from us. There is not a moment in which he hath not loved us, and had his Thoughts upon us. Other Friends sometimes think and speak of you, but not always; But God withdraweth not his Eys from the Righteous, Job 36. 7. And Cant. 8. 6. We are said to be set as a Seal upon his Hand, so as he continually looks upon us. It is an Allusion to that Type, Exod. 28. wherein Israel is engraven, First, upon two Stones placed on the High Priest (Christ's) Shoulders and Arms, Ver. 11. 12. then on a Breast-plate, or (as 'tis there interpreted) upon his Heart, Ver. 29. Upon his Arms, to shew his Power is engaged; upon his Heart, to shew that his Love is; and placed visibly on both for a Memorial: Isa. 49. 15, 16. Can a Woman forget her sucking Child, that she should not have Compassion on the Son of her Womb? yea they may forget, yet will I not forget thee. Behold, I have graven thee upon the Palms of my Hands, thy Walls are continually before me. Jerusalem (the Type of his Elect) her Walls are continually before him. And in the like Type (Deut. 11. 12.) they are termed a Land (for Selection of People) which the Lord thy God careth for. The Eyes of the Lord thy God are always upon it. Therefore David also saith, How many are thy Thoughts to us-ward? they cannot be numbred. If a King casteth but a glance upon a Man, and thinks of his Suit and Business, he counts it a great favour. What is it then for the great God never to have had his Eye off thee to do thee good? And think with your selves, what, and how old are your Thoughts towards him? they are but of Yesterday. Your Friendship began but the other day, but his hath been from everlasting.

3. As it is from everlasting, so to everlasting. The one is called choosing us from the Beginning, Ephes. 2. 13. The other is called loving us to the end, Whom he loved he loved to the end, Joh. 13. 1. For a Couple to have been twenty Years married, and to hold out in loving, how great a wonder is it amongst the Sons of Men, especially when many Unkindnesses have past?

4. The first moment he took up as much Love, as he hath ever since had, or can manifest to Eternity. This is high, Brethren, if ye consider it. God loves not as Man, as he is not as Man that repents of his loving: Not as Man that begins to love a little, that hath a Velleity at first, an Affection stirring, and having his Heart inclined, is drawn on to do what at first he meant not to do. No, but all the Grace and Favour, which in time is bestowed on us, was given us in one Lump from Eternity, and all to Eternity is but the Manifestation of it: 2 Tim. 1. 9, 10. The Grace which was given us before the World began, but now is made manifest in Christ, who hath brought Immortality to Light. And so that Immortality serves but to manifest, or bring to Light the Grace which was given at the first; of (as it is 1 Cor. 2. 9.) which was then prepared for them that love him. So as all that is done since, is but a Show Love hath prepared to entertain you with, and is set out with new Inventions, and studied ways to take your Hearts. And therefore the very giving Christ is termed but the Commending, that is, the setting out his Love, Rom. 5. 8. And John in plainer Terms says, In this was the Love of God manifest, 1 Joh. 4. 7, 8. The Love in Solido, in Bullion, was all (the whole Mass of it) in his Heart before. And all he doth to Eternity is but the coining of it, stamping this or that particular Mercy, and so paying it forth unto us; Psal. 138. 8.

The

The Mercy of the Lord is for ever. The Lord will perfect that which concerns me. The Connexion of thoſe Words is this, That God having beforehand ſet down with himſelf, what he would do for him, his Mercy which was for ever, was but a perfecting, a limning out that Happineſs Love did conceive the Idea of, and that perfect, from everlaſting. And becauſe an Eternity of Time was required to this vaſt Work, therefore 'tis he adds, Thy Mercy, O Lord, endureth for ever; for ſo much time to perfect what concerns me (a poor Atom placed in the Eye, or becauſe of thy Love) will take thee up. And will not this affect your Hearts, that have any Love in you to him, or Hopes or Purſuits after ſuch a Love? Chap. 4.

5. Conſider what his Love hath cauſed him to do for thee. He firſt gave thee a Paradiſe, but that was not good enough. He prepares Heaven, not as that which thou wert worthy of from thine Original, but which he thought meet to beſtow, to ſhew how great a God he is: Heb. 11. 16. He was not aſhamed to be called their God, for he prepared for them a City. Yea he was not contented with the ordinary direct means of loving; but, as thoſe that are vaſt and laviſh in Entertainments, he muſt have uncouth, artificial ways to love ſuch as are extraordinary. To love us only the plain direct and downright way, and to give us Heaven the firſt day, as he did the Angels that never ſinned; this was too low, too mean. His Love muſt have Meanders, Windings, Difficulties, yea much Water to encounter it, and ſo endanger the quenching of it: all this to commend the Greatneſs and Tranſcendency of it: Love is as ſtrong as Death. And much Water cannot quench it, Cant. 8. 6. And Rom. 5. 8. In this God commends his Love, that whilſt we were yet Sinners, Chriſt died for us: So ſays St. Paul. And Chriſt that was to perform it, knew what he did lay down, Greater Love than this hath no Man, that he lays his Life down for his Friends, Joh. 15. 13. And yet, O dear Redeemer, at how low a Price doſt thou ſet thy Love, whilſt thou entreſt into comparative Suppoſitions of one Man (a mortal ſinful Man) dying for another? Greater Love than this hath no Man: And in that Suppoſition art fain to put in this too, as the higheſt Elevation of Man's Love in ſuppoſition, to lay down his Life for his Friends, to be ſure not for his Enemies. But yet becauſe there could be no higher Suppoſition made, he is therefore fain to repreſent his Love to us hereby. Paul makes the ſuppoſition thus, Rom. 5. 7. For a Righteous Man will one die? yet peradventure for a good Man (that is, one eminently and publickly uſeful to ſuch a Proportion, as his Life (as 'tis ſaid of David's) is worth ten thouſand of other Men) a Man would even dare to die. Well, let all theſe Qualifications meet, and when they do, 'tis yet but a ſcarcely, but a peradventure, that any would be found to die for ſuch a one. 'Tis but a ſuppoſition of one that is otherwiſe weary of Life; and yet if he comes to the point, he will ſhrink at it: therefore 'tis added, To dare to die, it is ſo great an Evil. But to do it not for Friends, but Enemies; and to this end, to make them Friends when he could have created new ones cheaper, and enough of them; yet to die for Ungodly Sinners, Enemies (as Paul exaggerates our Caſe and Condition there) and for him to die that had ſuch a Life to lay down, is an admirable Inſtance of extraordinary Love. For a mere Man, a ſinful Man to die (the Caſe which both Chriſt and Paul do put) is but to give up a Game that muſt be loſt a little after, to reſtore a Forfeiture, a Debt that muſt be paid; but my Life (ſaith Chriſt with an Emphaſis) none can take from me (Joh. 10. 18.) I lay it down of my ſelf. Let me ſay it (which he hints there) his Father could not take it, but that himſelf conſented to it: For his Father had given him to have Life in himſelf, Joh. 5. 26. And will ye know the Value of that Life he laid down? It is the Dignity of the Perſon gives the Worth to the Life. You have it, and you cannot have more ſaid; 1 Joh. 3. 16. Hereby we perceive the Love of God, that he laid down his Life. Well, thus dear it coſt Chriſt who was God: And was this nothing to God the Father too, think ye? Was it nothing for God to ſee one that was God, of the ſame Nature, and his Fellow, ſo debaſed? As it moves Man to ſee any of their Nature deſpiſed, ſo it moved God to ſee God the Son, God equal with him, to lay down his Life: It touch'd the Godhead in common, as in the three Perſons. But for a Father to give and offer up his Son, is a Love above our Thoughts to conceive, or our Words to expreſs. Your Father Abraham, tho he had too big an Heart to weep for it (you ſee no Tears in his Eyes, nor mention of them Book II. them when he was about to do it) yet he knew full well what it was to offer up a Son, an only Son. To be ſure God knew it, and meaſured it by his own Heart to his own Son, out of the ſenſe of which God uttered thoſe Words to Abraham, Now I know thou feareſt me, ſeeing thou haſt not withheld thy Son, thine only Son from me, Gen. 22. 12. And was not God's Son's Life proportionably dear to him, inaſmuch as he is his Father by a more ſubſtantial and tranſcendent Generation? My God, my God (ſays Chriſt Mat. 27. 46.) why haſt thou forſaken me? Thou who art in ſo ſpecial a reſpect my God and my Father: (See Eph. 1. 3.) And he ſpeaks thus, knowing it would ſtrike and affect his Soul. And yet he ſpeaks but the half of what God did in it; and yet in that conſider how he parted with, yea forſook an old Friend, a Boſom Friend; and how Chriſt alſo forſook Father and Mother for his Wife, the Church, Eph. 5. 25. And do you think God to be ſo inſenſible, or impaſſible, or without natural Affection to ſuch a Son, as that all thoſe Speeches ſhould be but Rhetorical Figures, and feignings of a ſorrowful part? When, as you have it inculcated 1 Joh. 4. 9, 10. In this was manifeſted the Love of God towards us; becauſe that God ſent his only begotten Son into the World that we might live through him. Herein is Love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and ſent his Son to be the Propitiation for our Sins. And you have the ſame alſo in Rom. 8. 32. He that ſpared not his own, but delivered him up for us all. Yea, further think with your ſelves, that his Father was himſelf obliged to be the Inflicter of his own Juſtice, to bruiſe and break him; when he made his Soul an Offering for Sin, Iſa. 53. 10. For no Creature could ſtrike Strokes hard enough to ſatisfy for Sin. He laid the Wood of the Sacrifice, viz our Sins about his Soul; for he laid upon him the Iniquities of us all: and he blew the Fire too. All Earthly Bellows would themſelves have been burnt, at leaſt not been able to have made the Furnace hot enough; yea his Wrath againſt Sin was the Fire. Think but with your ſelves if his Mother Mary muſt have been the Crucifier of him, and muſt have knock'd in every Nail with her feeble trembling Hands (whilſt at every Stroak a Sword is ſaid to have pierced through her Soul) what Exceſs of Sorrow would have oppreſs'd her! But now, even what Man did againſt him is ſaid to be by God the Father's own Hand and Counſel. And yet to what end was all this Grief and Loſs? I might ſay it, and could defend it, It might have been ſpared. God in his Prerogative could have ſaved Sinners without it. That Outcry of Chriſt cries thus loud in mine Ears, Let this Cup paſs: all things are poſſible to thee. In which Prayer we muſt ſuppoſe it entred not into Chriſt's Heart to deſire the Elect might not be ſaved, when he uttered it; and yet ſuppoſeth it conſiſtent with that Cup's paſſing from him. But Love was ſet upon it to have our Salvation thus, and no otherwiſe tranſacted. If Juſtice might have permitted it, and have let that diſmal Cup paſs, and ſlip; yet Love was engaged and reſolved to manifeſt it ſelf this way rather; and the more poſſible another way might have been, the more ſhould Love be commended in taking this, That when we were Sinners, Chriſt died for us. It was an Extravagancy, a ſuperabundancy of Love, Loves Device, an Invention of Love, that knew not how to ſhew Love enough. And, my Brethren, theſe are not Notions or Ideas; theſe are the greateſt Realities and Exiſtencies, which are only to be underſtood with our Hearts, and not by our Underſtandings; for the Love of God and Chriſt paſſeth Underſtanding, (Eph. 3. 19.) and ſo is not taken in, but by the immediate Impreſs of the Holy Ghoſt, who is the Shedder of this Love of God abroad into our Hearts (not ſo much into our Underſtandings) as the Apoſtle ſpeaks.

6. I come next to God's Dealings and Diſpenſations towards us; and herein all the Ways of God are Ways of Love and Friendſhip: He is never but doing us good; Pſal. 25. All his Ways are Mercy and Truth. He is never out of the Road of fulfilling one Promiſe, or Truth, or of beſtowing one Mercy or other. In his very afflicting he fulfils a Promiſe, In very Faithfulneſs haſt thou chaſtis'd me, Pſal. 119. And Faithfulneſs is the Performance of ſome Truſt, or Promiſe, out of Love.

7. All he doth, he doth freely for us, and thinks not much at it. A Man muſt hold Pace with other Friends, and do one kindneſs for another: But ſays God (Hoſ. 14. 4.) I will love thee freely, and heal thy Backſlidings: And he will (says Zephaniah, Zeph. 3. 17.) rest in his Love. He is glad and rejoiceth to do his People a Kindness: Jer. 32. 41. I will rejoice over them to do them good, with my whole Heart and my whole Soul. In James 1. 5. it is said, he giveth freely, and upbraids not; the word is ἁπλῶς, that is, simply or singly, that is, for no other end than to give, for who can recompense him? So true Liberality, even in us, is termed ἁπλότης, 2 Cor. 8. 2. He doth it merely to do good, rejoicing in so doing: And therefore when he hath done, upbraids not; and doth not use to say, I have given thee thus and thus. Often in case of great Provocations indeed, thou mayst hear of him (as David did), but it was but to melt his Heart (2 Sam. 12. 8.) but otherwise he is silent: whereas other Friends will be ever and anon twitting you with Kindnesses. Chap. 4.

8. His inward Valuation and real Esteem of you is answerable to, and more than his outward Kindnesses; and really to do so is the greatest attractive of Friendship. He prizeth you above all the World: Isa. 43. 3, 4. I gave Ægypt for thy Ransom, Æthiopia and Seba for thee. Since thou wast precious in my sight, thou hast been honourable, and I have loved thee; therefore will I give Men for thee, and People for thy Life. And he gave real Testimony of this in giving his Son, which was more than a thousand Worlds; Mat. 10. 30. & Luke 12. 7. Even your very Hairs are all numbred, the Hair which is the meanest unvaluablest appurtenance of Man, and which in a Proverb the Latins express as a thing of no value, ne pili æstimo, as we say, I value it not a Straw. Things of worth use only to be numbred, and things that are not are said to be nullius numeri. David made it a great occasion of God's Love to him, That all his Members were written in God's Book, Psal. 139. 16. But Christ descends to our very Hairs; and not your Hair in the Comb, the Bush of them, but every one the smallest, all are numbred, how much more our Persons.

9. Other Friends will be ashamed of you when you fall into Disgrace and Poverty, tho they knew you never so well before. Prov. 19. 7. All the Brethren of the poor do hate him; how much more his Friends that go afar off from him? But the Great God is so far from being ashamed of us, that he takes his Denomination from us, and takes us into his Stile; witness that Expression, the God of Abraham, &c. to which that of Heb. 11. 16. refers.

10. In all thy Afflictions he will stand thy Friend; when thou art in greatest Trials and Distresses, then he will shew himself most to be a Friend, which indeed is the time for the Trial of a Friend: Prov. 17. 17. A Friend loves at all times, but a Brother is born for Adversity. That is, the special Season that a Man hath use of a Friend for: In time of Adversity (saith Job, Chap. 6. 14.) a Man would have pity from his Friend. But usually it falls out (as Solomon says, Prov. 19. 7.) A Man follows them with Words, and they are wanting to him: But then will the Lord own thee most especially, if thou followest him with Words, with Prayers, and seekest earnestly unto him. Therefore David (Psal. 31. 7.) says, Thou hast known my Soul in Adversity: And David speaks it out of the sense of his Love, that he did it then most, when others would not know him nor regard him. And whereas other Friends may be absent, and not able to help thee or advise thee, he is a present help in Trouble, Psal. 46. 1. Yea there are Cases, wherein all thy Friends in the World, if present, could stand thee in no stead, but would be miserable Comforters, as in case of Scandal, &c. and then will God break in and own thee: Yea further 'tis said, Psal. 41. 3. That he makes our Bed in our Sickness. It is put to express the highest tenderness in Distress, a condescending to do the meanest Office, a readiness to supply all Wants and Deficiencies: and in that, he says, he will make all thy Bed; it imports utmost and universal Diligence and Care, in that which is committed to Servants of the lowest Rank. He will as a Friend sit by thy Bed-side, lay thy Pillow for thee, make thy Bed easy, that is, make a distressed Condition comfortable, fetch thee any thing, take care of every thing, apply himself so to thee, that thou shalt then say, thou art in ease in the midst of Trouble.

11. God will not cast thee off when thou art old, and wantest Strength to serve him; but (as it is in Jer. 3. 2.) he then remembers the Kindness and Pains taken in thy Youth. David prays (Psal. 71. 9.) Cast me not off in time of old Age, forsake Book II. ſake me not when my Strength faileth. You know God's Anſwer, long before he prayed it, and ſince, is repeated with five Negatives to aſſure us of it, I will never, at no hand, upon no occaſion, leave thee, or forſake thee.

12. Other Friends, for an ill turn will forget all former good Turns and Kindneſſes done, tho never ſo many; but God on the contrary will forget all thy Sins, and remember them no more (Iſa. 43. 25.) but not one good Deed or Office of Love, no not one good Thought from the firſt to the laſt ſhall be forgotten, but it ſticks in him, and takes deep Impreſſion. Thoſe things thou haſt forgotten, at the latter Day he will remember them, and that to requite them. Every Cup of cold Water ſhall have a Reward: God is not forgetful of your Labour of Love to his Name, Heb. 6.

13. Yea when thou art dead, he will remember thee and thine. Other Friends bury their Friendſhip in the Graves of the deceaſed, but God not only will take care of thy very Bones (Pſal. 34. 20.) but remember thee in thy Seed, as David did Jonathan's Poſterity. Thus he remembred Abraham's Seed for their Father's ſake: The Seed of Abraham my Friend, ſays he, Iſa. 41. 8. and ſo he remembred David's Seed, 1 Kings 11. 34. & Rom. 11. They are beloved (and 'tis Goſpel) for their Father's ſake.

Laſtly, Whatſoever he hath, thou ſhalt have part of it; nay all he hath thou ſhalt inherit, Rev. 21. 7. God himſelf can have but all things, and thou ſhalt have all that he hath: John 17. 24. & John 12. 24. Chriſt ſpeaks with an Heart, as if his own ſingle perſonal Glory would do him no good, unleſs we ſhould be with him, and have part of it. All his Attributes ſhall be for thy Happineſs, as well as for his own Glory: his Power, Wiſdom and Mercy ſhall be ſet on work for thy good; and tho all theſe Attributes ſerve for his own Glory, yet they ſhall as truly and really ſerve for thy Comfort as for his Glory. All within him and without him ſhall be ſet on work for thy good. What canſt thou have more of a Friend?

Now if God hath been, is, and will be ſuch a Friend to us, what manner of Perſons ſhould we be in returns again unto him? My Brethren, this is your Calling; you are called to be Friends of God, ſee you walk worthily and anſwerably unto it, ſo as to fill up the meaſure of that Relation, and obſerve as far as poſſibly the Laws of Friendſhip, that ever were or can be feigned to have been between two Friends, for God full well deſerves it at thy hands. And it ſhould move you that you were a long time before Enemies, and had nothing but Wars in your Thoughts againſt him, and therefore you had need now endeavour to make him amends.

CHAP. V.

What the Converſation of a Believer ought to be in performing the part of a Friend towards God. That we ſhould keep up an entire and near Communion with him. What this Communion is, explained in ſeveral Particulars.

I Come to that main and principally intended Subject, which is, the Converſation of a Chriſtian towards God, in performing the part of a Friend: I ſhall inſiſt on ſome Particulars, wherein theſe returns of Friendſhip do conſiſt.

1. The firſt and primary Head (which will contain divers Particulars in it) is purſuing after, and preſerving entire Communion with God. Mutual Communion is the Soul of all true Friendſhip, and familiar Converſe with a Friend hath the greateſt ſweetneſs in it. Sometimes Solomon compares it to Honey, which as it is pleaſant to the Taſt, ſo enlightneth the Eyes, Prov. 25. 16, 17. compared, reading, as Cartwright doth, for Neighbour, Friend, ver. 17. Sometimes it is compared to Perfumes and Odours, which refreſh the Brain and animal Spirits, Prov. 27. 9. Ointment and Perfume rejoice the Heart, ſo doth the ſweetneſs of a Man's Friend.

Cartwright in loc.

Friend. And he calleth it Sweetneſs in the abſtract rather than Sweet; for it is certain, where it is found cloſe and entire, it is the moſt Spiritual Cordial of Man's Life. And indeed Communion is that which diſtinguiſheth this of Friendſhip from the Intercourſes that are in other relations, unleſs it falls out that Friendſhip be intermingled with them, as in Conjugal it often doth. Parents take care for and love their Children when young, and they again do honour their Parents and obey them, when yet during their Non-age there is not much Communion nor Acquaintance between them. Between Maſters and Servants there is an Intercourſe by way of Command and Obedience. Maſters maintain their Servants, and Servants render Fear and Service to their Maſters, but yet there is not a mutual Communion and Acquaintance between them: And by this doth Chriſt diſtinguiſh Friends and Servants, when he ſets himſelf to heighten the Privilege of this relation, and to endear it to them: John 15. 15. Henceforth I call you not Servants, but Friends. For I have unboſomed my ſelf unto you; whatever I have heard of my Father, I have made known unto you: But the Servant knoweth not what his Lord doth, that is, there is no Communion between them. Chap. 5.

Now altho God beareth all theſe relations of Father, Lord, Maſter, &c. which his diſtance between him and us exacts, yet he alſo hath condeſcended to admit us to Communion with himſelf. John ſeems to ſpeak of it as with an holy boaſting of the eminent Privilege which himſelf and others, that lived up to their Principles, enjoyed. 1 John 1. 3. And truly our Fellowſhip is with the Father, and the Son. The Riſe of it lies thus, Chriſt was God's Fellow (Zach. 13. 7.) which Privilege he hath, by being a Son equal with God. And God found this Fellowſhip ſo ſweet, as he calls us up to the participation of it. 1 Cor. 1. 9. God is faithful, by whom ye are called unto the Fellowſhip of his Son Jeſus Chriſt our Lord. He ſpeaks of it likewiſe, as that which is the height and top of our Calling as we are Chriſtians: And this Fellowſhip with the Lord Jeſus, doth not only conſiſt in his and our ſharing jointly in the ſame Privileges, as in his Graces, Glory, &c. but it is the Fellowſhip of his Son Jeſus Chriſt; and ſo alſo of his Perſon in all the Sweetneſſes of, and Converſes with, and Relations to him. And yet, leſt in too much Familiarity we ſhould forget our diſtance, he adds, our Lord; as in the Pſalm forecited upon the like occaſion, having called us his Fellows (ver. 7.) he adds (ver. 11.) He is the Lord, and worſhip thou him. Now this Communion, as on our part it is to be tranſacted, is ſummed up in theſe things.

1. Beſides the common Tribute of daily Worſhip you owe to him, take occaſion to come into his Preſence on purpoſe to have Communion with him. This is truly friendly, for Friendſhip is moſt maintained and kept up by Viſits; and theſe, the more free and the leſs occaſioned by urgent Buſineſs, or Solemnity, or Cuſtom they are, the more friendly they are. It is made a diminution, tho in his own People; Lord, in Trouble have they viſited thee, they poured out a Prayer, when thy Chaſtning was upon them, Iſa. 26. 16. A Stranger will viſit one whom he hath a Suit unto, and Buſineſs with; and we uſed to check our Friends with this upbraiding, You ſtill come when you have ſome Buſineſs, but when will you come to ſee me? David who hath this Teſtimony from God, To be a Man after God's own Heart, which is equivalent to this of God's, concerning Abraham's being his Friend, hath this Diſpoſition of Spirit recorded of him, Pſal. 63. 1, 2, 3. O God, thou art my God! He embraceth him at firſt word, as we uſed to do Friends at firſt meeting. Early will I ſeek thee (ſays he) my Soul thirſteth for thee, my Fleſh (that is, my ſelf) longeth for thee in a dry and thirſty Land, where no Water is. Surely David had ſome extraordinary Buſineſs now with God to be done for himſelf, which made him thus eager after him; no truly, nothing but to ſee God himſelf, as it follows, ver. 2. To ſee thy Power and thy Glory, ſo as I have ſeen thee in thy Sanctuary; where God had met him, and manifeſted himſelf to him: To ſee thee, hath the ſame Emphaſis here, that thoſe Words, againſt thee have I ſinned, have elſewhere. And further, what was it in God, that ſpecially drew forth his Heart, and was the Object of his Inqueſt? ver. 3. Becauſe thy loving Kindneſs is better than Life. And ver. 4. thus (if I have no other Reaſon) will I bleſs thee whilſt I live. It is all along the pure Language of Friendſhip, the very ſight of a Friend rejoiceth a Man: Prov. 27. 17. As Iron ſharpneth Iron, ſo doth a Man the Face of his Friend. It alone whets up Joy by a Sympathy of Spirits: and in anſwer hereunto it is characteriſtically to God's People, called the ſeeking of God's Face; that is, himſelf, for ſo his Face is taken: Thou ſhalt have no other Gods before my Face; that is, thou ſhalt have my ſelf, or none but my ſelf. Perſonal Communion with God is the end of our Graces; for as Reaſon and the Intercourſe of it makes Men ſociable one with another, ſo the Divine Nature makes us ſociable with God himſelf; and the Faith we live by is but an Engine, a Glaſs to bring God down to us: And as for Duties, the Journies end of them is Fellowſhip with God; and our backwardneſs to them, if you reſolve it into its Original, is a backwardneſs to entire Communion with God; the Soul therefore ſaith it hath no pleaſure in them. But this Communion was the Apoſtles Eden, and proper Walk; John calls us all up unto it, as that which we are alike born to, 1 Joh. 1. 3. It was Moſes his Perfection, as he was Chriſt's Type, Exod. 33. 11. And the Lord ſpake to Moſes Face to Face, as a Man uſeth to do to his Friend. You ſee the Scripture lodgeth this in the Notion of Friendſhip, therefore attempt, if thou haſt not yet tried, this way of ſeeking God. I have known thoſe who have come to God, as for nothing elſe, ſo when they have been come, could mention nothing elſe; but ſcorned to blur or ſoil the noble and royal Intention of their Viſit of him with any lower Requeſt, than that of obtaining Communion with him. And take my Counſel, when the Spirit at ſome by-time moves thee, and it is merely a Motion of his; go and ſtand in the Preſence Chamber, that is, put thy ſelf on Duty with this Aim and Deſign mentioned, and ſee if he hold not out his Golden Scepter to thee. This ſhall prevail with him more than the Sacrifice of Rams.

2. A Second way of Intercourſe and expreſſing Friendſhip to God is this: When thou comeſt into his Preſence, be telling him ſtill how well thou loveſt him; labour to abound in Expreſſions of that kind, than which (when founded in a reality in the Spirit) there is nothing more taking with the Heart of any Friend. That famous Pair of Friends, David and Jonathan, when they met they ſpent the moſt of their time (they had got by ſtealth, and with hazard of their Lives) in vying and revying, and therein ſeeking which of them ſhould utter and declare moſt Love, and manifeſt moſt Faithfulneſs. They weep over one anothers Necks, as overcome with the overflowings of each others kindneſs. The Story affords the pleaſanteſt contention of Love and Friendſhip, and ſtrivings for Maſteries; and accordingly, as to the paſſionate part, the Victory is decided on David's ſide, 1 Sam. 20. 41. They both wept one with another, until David exceeded, ſays the Text. And yet again, for the real part and Demonſtration of Friendſhip Jonathan had the advantage to outvy David; Jonathan had a Kingdom to loſe for his ſake, being Heir apparent by Birth; yet he ventures his own Life to ſave his, who he believed ſhould be King in his room: And let me but live, ſaith he, and not die, v. 14. And let me be the next in the Kingdom, Chap. 23. 17. But David had another and greater Friend, even God: And how his Affections overflowed the Banks towards him, the Pſalms do ſhew. How often have we him breaking forth, I love thee, Lord! And O how do I love thy Law! And how eloquent is he in that his ſolemn, and his almoſt laſt Thankſgiving, 1 Chron. 29. Now the Truth is, the real part is God's; the fond affectionate part of Friendſhip it ſhould be ours. He had a Son to give away; and his Son a Life, a Kingdom; and both of them agreed to do it. We have little to loſe, and can do leſs for them: O yet let us love them, and love to tell them ſo. Haſt thou ever yet lain in thoſe everlaſting Arms? Or, when thou at any time doſt, and his Banner of Love is ſpread over thee, what hath thy Heart meditated concerning God at ſuch a time? As a liberal Heart is ſaid to deviſe liberal things, ſo a loving Heart will deviſe loving things. I us'd to ſay, whatever Ingenuity, Wit, Rhetorick any one hath (and I ſpeak of thoſe that excel therein) there are times wherein God hath the Flower, the Eminency of them vented in Strains of Love to him in Prayer. He hath at one time or other every Mans Strength and Prime. What Affections or Expreſſions thou haſt to beſtow on Friend, or Wife, God will have them from thee to himſelf; and if thy Spirit be narrow, and ſhut up to ſuch a way, yet thou wilt and mayſt be able to vent that Love thou beareſt him, in blunt and downright Expreſſions: Lord (ſaid Peter) thou knoweſt I love thee, if I ever loved any thing. Yea

I have known ſome bad and churliſh Natures to their other Relations, in whoſe Spirits, upon obſervation of them, you ſhould ſcarce find any Strains of pure Ingenuity paſs from them to any other; yet in their Narrations of what hath been between God and them, they have been brought to the loweſt Submiſſion, the higheſt Reſignations of themſelves for him and his Glory, and as great Strains of Ingenuity as any other. As Phyſicians ſay of a Child in the Womb, if there be any good Blood or Spirits in the Mother's Body, the Child will have it; the nutritive and formative Virtue doth and will attract it: So if there be any good Nature in thee, God will have it at one time or other. Yea how often falls it out, that even Souls that want Aſſurance of God's Love to themſelves, yet can pleaſe themſelves in bleſſing God, or at leaſt admiring him for that Goodneſs and Bleſſedneſs which is in him, and which he enjoys, for loving himſelf, and aiming at his own Glory; for his ſo dearly loving his Son (whom alſo their Souls love) and for his being good to others? And they find it real in their Souls to do ſo: Yea, and ſometimes when they come to pray, and are ſhut up for want of vent in other Deſires, they yet can fall a telling God how well they love him, and what (if he would be pleaſed to enable them) they would do for him: And they can do theſe things when they can do nothing elſe. Yea, and becauſe in real Performances they find they can do little, and are not ſatisfied with the Opportunities they have in view at preſent; the Heart will be venting it ſelf in Suppoſitions and Feignings with it ſelf, what in Caſe of God's condemning them at the latter day; ſo that ſhould they loſe their labour, they would ſay in way of Ingenuity, what Farewel they would then take of him, how they would demean themſelves in Hell, when their Souls ſhould be filled with the Noiſe of others Blaſphemies, how they would ſpeak well of him, and rebuke their Fellow-Thieves, as that good Thief did. And becauſe in Suppoſitions higher Strains of Love may be vented, than God will ever put us really to act; therefore the Heart often ſeeks vent for its vaſt Deſires this way. Thus Chriſt, to ſhew his Love to his Father, in ſubmitting to his Will and Love, made a Suppoſition of the Cup's paſſing from him, which yet he knew could not by God's Decree. And thus Paul wiſhed himſelf accurſed from Chriſt for his Brethrens ſake. Or elſe the Heart will go about to do it, by ſeparating Acts of Obedience from ſelf-reſpects; and this in a way of Suppoſition of ſuch things as will not fall out: But yet ſuppoſe they ſhould, Yet Lord (ſay they) I will truſt thee. As Job, Tho he kill me, yet will I truſt in him. It was a Suppoſition of the worſt. Or elſe the Heart will be chalking out within it ſelf, what it would do for God, if it were in ſuch a Power, in ſuch a place of opportunity of Service: As Herbert in his Poems ſpeaks. At theſe, and a thouſand other ways, Love will be creeping out when it cannot go, nor (alas) is ever able to perform. And theſe ſtirrings and ventings of Love God is infinitely taken with, and knows the Mind of the Spirit in them. Theſe Strains are pleaſant, this is Melody and Muſick in his Ears. Know this, that Communion with God lies not only μετὰ ἀλλήλων, as John ſpeaks of it, 1 Joh. 1. 7. (as I underſtand the place) when 'tis mutual; he telling us his Love, and ſo drawing forth ours, when there is an Æſtus, a Reciprocation of Love from him to us, and ſo from us again to him: But alſo when he doth not ſhed abroad his in our Hearts, to an overcoming Aſſurance, and yet ſtrongly draws forth ours to him (as hath been expreſſed) and that is true Communion with him as on our parts, and affects the Soul accordingly. For tho it be true that we love him becauſe he loves us, as to the reality of the thing; yet it is not always ſo in our Apprehenſion, nor neceſſary to the drawing forth of our Love to him.

3. Delight much in him. Friendſhip well plac'd affords the higheſt Delight: Beſides what I noted out of Solomon, of the ſweetneſs of a Friend; David the Father alſo had experimented it (2*Sam.*1.26.) in his beloved Jonathan, Thou haſt been very pleaſant to me, ſays he there. And again of Jonathan 'tis ſaid, He delighted much in David, 1*Sam.*19.2. If therefore God and thou be Friends, retire thy ſelf into him, and make up thy Delights in him. And thus both Chriſt and his Church do mutually expreſs themſelves touching each other; O how fair and pleaſant art thou, O Love, for Delights! Cant.7.6. ſays he of her. Behold, thou art fair, my Beloved, yea pleaſant, ſays ſhe of him, *Cant.*1.16. Pſal. 37.4. Delight thy ſelf alſo in the Lord. Yea

Book II. and the Pſalmiſt preſcribes it as the readieſt, ſpeedieſt way to get Diſpatch of all our particular Suits and Requeſts. So it follows, And he ſhall give thee the Deſires of thy Heart. As it is ſaid of God, that to the Pure he will ſhew himſelf pure, (Pſal. 18.) So to the Ingenuous he will ſhew himſelf ingenuous. A Soul that hath many Wants and Requeſts to put up to him, and yet comes to him and really ſays, Lord, tho I want theſe and theſe things in my outward Condition, yet I am well pleaſed, for I have enough in thee alone; tho I had nothing, and tho thou haſt made me theſe and theſe Promiſes, beſides the making over of thy ſelf unto me; yet thou art my Portion, mine Inheritance, and my Lot is fallen in a pleaſant place in thee, Pſal. 16. Thou art my exceeding great Reward. Whilſt God ſees that thou thus ſetteſt thy ſelf to delight in him, he at once grants thee all elſe thou wouldſt deſire. This is the moſt compendious Art of Begging; Be acquainted with him (ſaith Eliphaz to Job, Job 22. 21.) and thou ſhalt have thy Delight in the Almighty, v. 26. And thou ſhalt have Gold, v. 24. And thou ſhalt have Silver, v. 25. Thou ſhalt have any thing of him, take but that Method. Art thou in any great Diſtreſs? Go alone, think of his Love, think of himſelf, what a God thou haſt whom thou ſerveſt and loveſt. His Love, and himſelf apprehended, embraced and meditated on, affords the greateſt Delight; Pſal. 104. 34. My Meditation of him ſhall be ſweet, I will be glad in the Lord. Life we ſay is ſweet, and Death is bitter (as Agag's Speech implies, the bitterneſs of Death is paſt:) But thy loving-kindneſs, O God, is better than Life, and hath the Sweetneſs of all good in it, if the Holy Ghoſt gives thee but a Taſte of it. Chriſt's Love was ſuch as ſweetned Death it ſelf to him, which we account ſo bitter: It was ſtronger than Death (ſays Solomon) Cant. 8. 6. How ſweet then muſt that Love in it ſelf be, and to the Soul that taſts it? Therefore rejoice in the Lord, and again, I ſay, rejoice; Let God be your chiefeſt Good in the moſt proſperous days, and he will be your only Good in your worſt days. A Friend is for Adverſity; and therefore tho the Fig-tree bloſſom not, &c. and all things fail me, yet I will rejoice in the Lord, I will joy in the God of my Salvation, Habakkuk, Chap. 3. 17, 18. What is the Reaſon Men pray not often, nor much, and in the end perhaps do give it over? You have the Reaſon, Job 27. 10. They delight not in the Almighty. But yet content not thy ſelf with the Performance of Duties, Iſa. 58. 2. They take Delight in approaching to God; that is, in the outward Performance of it: but let thy Delight be in God himſelf. We rejoice in God, ſaith the Apoſtle, Rom. 5. 11. And let not Delights derived from God only content thee; but let thy Delight be in God, and the Excellencies that are in him.

4. A fourth Particular wherein the Communion of Friendſhip lies, is unfolding Secrets. There is a kind of civil Shrift between Friends, ſaith Verulam; the Stile of Friend is a Man of my Secret, Job 29. 19. That which is tranſlated my inward Friends, is in the Hebrew, and varied in the Margent, The Men of my Secret. A Friend is as a Man's own Soul, Deut. 13. 6. As in reſpect of Love, ſo in reſpect of laying up all that is in a Friend's Soul, all that is ones own: And this Uſe and Advantage, or Improvement, a Man is to make of his Friendſhip with God, to unburden his Mind, and ſpread his Heart before him. In Scripture, Prayer is termed, A pouring out ones Soul to God. So 'tis ſpoken of Hannah's Prayer, 1 Sam. 1. 15. which is interpreted by that in Lamentations 2. 19. A pouring out the Soul like Water, before the Face of the Lord. She had as it were wept it out at her Eyes, and poured it forth in Tears. The ſame is eminent alſo in David, Pſal. 142. 2. I poured out my Complaint before him, that is, (as it follows) I ſhewed before him my Trouble. And this is done in caſe of Diſtreſs, when the Heart is overwhelmed, as in v. 3. And in the very ſame Words the Title of the 102*d* Pſalm expreſſeth it, A Prayer of the Afflicted, when he is overwhelmed, and poureth out his Complaint before the Lord. If thou haſt ſome great Affliction or Secret, which is not fit to truſt Man, no not thy neareſt Friend with, and yet thy Heart is ready to break with it; the Heart in that Caſe is apt to tell it to Man, that it may have ſome preſent Eaſe: But take my Counſel, try God alone firſt; and hereby ſhew how only a Friend thou makeſt of him, by telling it alone to him, eaſing thy Heart to him alone. He thinks himſelf honoured by it, and takes it well at thy hands; and if he encourageth thee, or neceſſitates thee to tell it to another another (as in some Cases, James 5. 16.) then do so. As for Distresses thou art in, so for thy Sin; the more Communion there is betwixt God and us, the more secret Sins will God discover to us, and the more will we again disclose to God. This is made an absolute Consequence of holding Fellowship with God: for the Apostle having spoken of Fellowship with God, 1 John 1. 3, 6, 7. he adds ver. 9. If we confess our Sins, he is faithful and just to forgive. He speaks it, as without which none can preserve Communion with God entire; for whilst we labour to walk in nearer, so closer Communion with God, yet if we say we have no Sin, we deceive our selves, ver. 8. Now then, here lies the coherence of the 9th ver. with the former, Confess your Sin, if you say you have Fellowship with him; for the Law and Nature of true and entire Communion and Fellowship, between two as Friends, requires, that if the one sins against the other, he should disclose and confess it; this Friendship cannot hold else, and 'tis well we can have Pardon so. Now says John, we do all sin; therefore in order to hold Communion with God, confess thy Sins: And a further Reason is, that one great part of God's Friendship towards us is seen in pardoning Sins: John hints it, He is faithful to forgive; as a Friend is faithful to perform his Promise: And if he should not, none could retain Friendship a moment with him; but if he pardons, he will have the Score acknowledged, even as tho he promiseth, he yet will be sought to, as the Prophet speaks. And the more the Soul finds that God pardons, the more willing and free it is to confess (Ezek. 16. 61, 63.) knowing it is to a Friend that will not take advantage of the Acknowledgment. Likewise lay open all thy Jealousies thou hast of his Love; another Friend would never bear it, but alas! God knows them all already, and is used to them, and will ease thee of them. Tell him all thy Doubts, Scruples and Objections thou hast about thy Estate, and of his Love; spread even all, lay open thy Case plainly without Guile (as David speaks, Psal. 32.) and he will answer them all, and discover to thee that Sincerity of Heart that is in thee towards him, and how well he loves thee notwithstanding; and this other Friends will not do.

Chap. 6.

CHAP. VI.

What our Behaviour toward God, as his Friends, ought to be, with respect unto his Providential Dispensations to us. We should ask his Advice and Counsel on all Occasions. We should make use of and depend upon his Favour and Assistance in all Affairs. We should have an entire Confidence in him without any Jealousy or Distrust.

I Shall now begin a new and second set of Duties, which our relation of Friendship with him brings upon us; such as do respect his Providential outward Dispensations towards us, as the former related to Communion with his Person. As much of God's Friendship unto us is given forth in his ordering all things that fall out unto us for good; so much on our part lies in observing those his dealings, and applying ourselves to him therein. And for that I give these following Directions.

1. First ask his Advice and Counsel upon all Occasions, and in all (especially great) Turnings of thy Life. This is an Improvement of a Friend, whom we count wise and faithful. Thus David sets out a Man who had been his Friend; Thou, O Man, my Guide, (says he, Psal. 55. 13.) and we took sweet Counsel together, says he, ver. 14. Yea, when one that we have chosen for our Friend, and is a Friend indeed, is yet below us in Parts and Wisdom; yet we love to see how our Thoughts look in the Glass of his Mind and Apprehensions. You may see it in God himself, who is the most perfect Pattern of Friendship, as of all Relations else. He, you well know, needs no Advice; for who is his Counsellor? Rom. 11. 34. Yet when he was to do a great Act, whereof the whole World would ring,

Book II. and when he knew it would certainly come to Abraham's Ears, tho it did not concern Abraham's Particular at all; yet says God with himself, I have singled forth this poor Man to be my Friend, and shall I do so great an Act, that will make such a Report, and not tell Abraham of it? Gen. 18. 17. Shall I hide from Abraham that thing which I do? That Ingenuity that works in the Heart of a Friend, wrought in the Heart of God, insomuch as he could not do a great thing, but he must tell his Friend of it. He speaks as one shackled and restrained by the Laws of Friendship; and upon that Law he had an inward regret, when he came to the Execution of it. The Ground and Account thereof the Text gives you, Abraham was the Friend of God: And Abraham followed God in the same Path, and upon the same Principle, tho haud passibus æquis, not with equal Pace, he stirred not a Foot without God's Direction, Isa. 41. 2. where 'tis said, God called him (that is, Abraham) to his Foot. Which the Apostle in Heb. 11. 8. interprets thus, he went out, not knowing whither he went, but gave up himself and every Step unto God's Direction and Appointment. And we have the like Instance of Friendship to God in David; Psal. 73. 23, 24. Nevertheless I am continually with thee, thou hast holden me by thy Right Hand; thou shalt guide me by thy Counsel, and afterwards receive me to Glory. That word Nevertheless, brings this as a Lesson and Experiment he had learned from the contrary: He had had the Reins laid upon his own Neck for a while, and was left to the Counsel of his own Heart, and so he had miscarried. So foolish was I (says he) and as a Beast before thee; ver. 22. Nevertheless thou holdest me by my Right Hand, that is, I have found by this Experience, that when I being left to my self, am gone out of the way, yet thou secretly and invisibly holdest me by the Hand, to reduce and bring me back again. And what Lesson learns he from it, and what Conclusion issues thence? You have it in ver. 24. Thou shalt guide me with thy Counsel, and I will never more follow my own, but give my self up to thee (as Herbert well expresseth it in his Poems) only give me thy Hand, since both mine Eyes are thine. Neither doth the Psalmist mean his Hand merely to guide, but to support and strengthen: Thou holdest me by my Right Hand. And I also observe it, that God's guiding of us by his Counsel serves us but in this Life; but afterwards he is said to receive us to Glory: he pulls us up by the same Hand, which here guided us, unto that Glory above. You have seen an Instance or Example of this: See a Promise also on God's part for this, which calls loud upon us for this Duty: Isa. 30. 21. And thine Ears shall hear a Word behind thee saying, This is the Way, walk in it, when ye turn to the Right Hand, or when ye turn to the Left. God had promised in the words before to give them Teachers, who doctrinally, or by the delivery of the right Rules, should teach 'em the good and right Way, Thy Teachers shall not be removed from thee, &c. Well, but we poor Christians are to put those Rules and Instructions our Teachers give us into Practice and Execution; and when we are personally to act, we have not our Teachers and Tutors by us, and (God wot) we through Ignorance (as the Psalmist, Psal. 73.) or Forgetfulness, are, when we come to act, at a loss, and know not which way to turn us. Hence therefore at the Voice of thy Cry, when he shall hear it, he will answer thee, ver. 19. And upon such Outcries and Occasions, promiseth his Spirit, who can be, and is always with us: Thine Ears shall hear a Word behind thee, saying, This is the Way, &c. The Psalmist had said, Thou holdest me by my Right Hand, unknown to me, and wilt guide me by thy Counsel. The Prophet says, Thou shall hear a Word behind thee: Wherein he compares him to a Friend, or Companion, that secretly watcheth aloof off another Friend he takes care of, whom he lets go to see how he will order his Steps of himself; yet in great Straits and Turnings, or (as the Text expresseth it) when he turns to the Right Hand, or the Left, comes stealing behind thee; so the Phrase is, Comes behind thee, and whispers (for 'tis called a Word) This is the Way, walk in it. The Prophet compares him to a bonus Genius, who doth Aurem vellicare, pull him by the Ear, and brings things practicable to our Remembrance, as Christ hath it. The Psalmist compares him to a Companion that never leaves us, but gives Strength as well as Guidance. Thou art continually with me, and holdest me by the Hand. These things are evidently spoken of guiding us in Practice, as these Phrases, This is the Way, walk in it, as also Turning to the Right Hand and the Left, do import. They declare declare the various Occasions and Affairs of Man's Life, his going hither and thither, as elsewhere 'tis expressed. This for the Promise of God. Now then that God de facto effectually performs when he is sought to by thee, that other Passage of the Psalmist assures us, Psal. 37. 23. The Steps of a good Man are ordered by the Lord. Which is spoken in respect of that happy Issue and Success which good Mens Actions are through the Blessing of God accompanied withal. But what if he falls into any Disaster? It follows, v. 24. Tho he fall he shall not utterly be cast down, for the Lord upholdeth him with his Hand. Therefore in all thy ways take Solomon's Counsel, Prov. 3. 5. In all thy ways acknowledg him, and he shall direct thy Paths. To acknowledg God in all thy Ways, doth in Solomon's sense import, Chap. 6.

(1.) To come to God in a sensibleness of a Man's own Inability to guide himself in any of his ways; which the same Solomon pathetically utters, How can a Man understand his Ways? And Jeremy having by Vision understood that great Calamity that was in his time to come upon his Nation, not knowing what might become of himself, nor which way to take to help himself, comes to God, and crys out concerning his own Person, Jer. 10. 23. I know that the Way of a Man is not in himself, it is not in Man that walketh to direct his Steps. And therefore seeing I must be involved in a common Calamity, I submit to thy correcting Hand; Correct me (if thou pleasest) but not with Judgment, not in Anger. And God dealt with him accordingly, he had the best Quarter from the King of Babel of all the Jews.

(2.) It imports that we should acknowledg him, by giving our selves up to his Direction, as is evident from what follows, He shall direct thy Paths. His meaning therefore is, so to acknowledg him, as to give a Man's self up to his Direction: Or if you will have it in the Terms this Aphorism was first expressed in, Take his Advice and Counsel. And so the Opposition both before and after carries it: Lean not to thine own Understanding, and be not wise in thine own Eyes. Often, tho Man knows not his own way, yet having distrusted his own Understanding, and coming in simplicity to God for Counsel by Prayer, either God in Prayer leaves a biassing Impression on his Heart, which is the Voice behind him, or by Providence casts him upon it. And truly when a Soul hath thus come unto God, he may blindfold cast it on him. I end this Direction with this great Consolatory, That look as Jesus Christ is thy Priest to obtain and accomplish thy Salvation, so he is thy Prophet; that is, his Prophetical Office is in its kind as much for thee and thy good, and for ordering thy Ways, as his Priestly Office is for thy Salvation hereafter. And he being the mighty Counsellor that knows all Events and Issues, will, if thou hast address'd unto him under that relation, put forth his Abilities and Power given him in that Office for thee; to direct thee as effectually as to save thee; therefore present all to him.

2. When thou hast thus asked and sought his Advice, be sure thou follow it. To that end, observe the Impressions which God upon seeking him maketh upon thy Spirit in Prayer. Observe the most swaying weight that God casts into the Ballance, when otherwise the Scales are even. Observe especially what Spiritual Motives that are purely for God, are cast into thy Heart (for they are from God which are most for God) and follow them fully, as Caleb is said to do. Our Lord and Saviour Christ is in this (as in all things else practicable by us) a Pattern to us. He was (as you know) to die and offer up himself to God, and to enter into a Conflict with his Wrath for Sin. He saw the black Cloud and the Storm coming, and some Drops had been let fall upon his Soul; Joh. 12. 27, 28. And Nature (as you know) wrought in him; and you have heard the Voice and Cry of it, Lord let this Cup pass. Now you read in Psal. 16. 7. Christ blessing the Lord for giving him Counsel; I will bless the Lord who hath given me Counsel, my Reins also instruct me in the Night-seasons; I have set the Lord always before me, &c. Therefore my Flesh rests in Hope: thou wilt not leave my Soul in Hell. Concerning which Passages in this Psalm Peter hath plainly instructed us (Acts 2. 25, 29 to 37. that they were immediately intended of Christ, and not of David at all, as his Type or Shadow; as in other Psalms and Passages of Prophecy. And they are (being thus applied unto Christ) the inward workings and Discussions of his Soul when he was to give up himself to that great Encounter and Adventure, the greatest

Book II. greateſt that ever Creature was to undergo. You have the inward Agitations of his Spirit, and the Conſiderations that heartned him to give himſelf up unto it, v. 8, 9, 10, 11. He mentions the Night-ſeaſons, in which his Reins inſtructed him. Now you read, Luke 21. 37. That immediately before his Paſſover (Chap. 22. 1, 2.) he ſpent the Mornings in preaching, but the Nights in Mount Olivet, to pray all night to God, according to his Cuſtom, Luk. 6. 12. And the Context immediately before this, v. 37. of Luk. 21. ſhews it, Watch ye therefore and pray, v. 36. for which his Example is propounded, v. 37. Thus he ſpent the Night before his Paſſion: For Jeſus knew before hand all that ſhould come upon him, Joh. 18. 4. But thus eſpecially he ſpent that Night in which he was betrayed and taken. You know how he ſpent the time in Prayers and Conflicts, with ſtrong Cries and Tears, being heard in that he feared, Heb. 5. 7. Great Fears and Conflicts were upon him, he was at a ſtand; Father, if it be poſſible let this Cup paſs from me. And when his Soul was thus wreſtling it out, God evidently came in with a new and peremptory Declaration, that he would have him go through with it; which that Speech that immediately follows ſhews, Not my Will but thine be done; which (ſay I) was Chriſt's Motto. Why now that which I aim at to my purpoſe in hand is, that Chriſt bleſſeth his Father for giving him this Counſel, and ſupporting him with this Advice, I will bleſs the Lord who hath given me Counſel. To be ſure we have cauſe to bleſs God that gave him that Counſel, 'twas good Counſel for us; and you hear of this conflicting no more: But after that, tho he knew all that ſhould come upon him, he went forth, and ſaid unto them, Whom ſeek ye? Joh. 18. 4. Peter had given him other Counſel, Maſter ſpare thy ſelf; but God that was his antient Friend, gave him this Counſel, and he thankfully receives it, follows it, and bleſſeth him for it, that ever he gave it him. My Brethren, ſuch Advices in great and difficult Caſes God gives us in Prayer, and by the Word; and the Fleſh comes and gives the contrary. Solomon (Eccleſ. 7. 16.) brings in a Man ſollicited by Fleſh and Spirit, by contrary Counſels. Says the Fleſh, Be not righteous overmuch, not too ſtrict; why ſhouldeſt thou deſtroy thy ſelf, waſt thy Spirits in Duties, and bring Miſeries and hazards of Ruin to thy Name, Eſtate and Life, which attend ordinarily a living godly in Chriſt Jeſus? On the contrary replies the Spirit, Be not overmuch wicked, why ſhouldeſt thou die before thy time? Looſe Ways and Courſes will bring thee to thy Grave ſooner than the Courſe of Nature, A Dart will ſtrike through thy Liver, &c. and thou wilt go to Hell when thou haſt done. And Paul ſpeaks ſimilarly unto this, Rom. 8. 12, 13, 14. Therefore, Brethren, we are Debtors, not to the Fleſh, to live after the Fleſh: For if ye live after the Fleſh, ye ſhall die; but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the Deeds of the Body, ye ſhall live. For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the Sons of God. The meaning whereof is, follow not the Counſel of the Fleſh, it is the Counſel of a Flatterer, an Enemy. It adviſeth thee as the young Men did Rehoboam, for thy hurt: Or its Advice is like that of Job's Wife, Curſe God and die; or like that of Peter to Chriſt, Maſter ſpare thy ſelf. Where had our Salvation been then? And where will thine be if thou followeſt it? But on the contrary, Paul exhorts them to give themſelves up to the Spirit to be led by him as God's Sons, v. 14. His Advice is the Advice of a Father, of a Comforter; and tho his Advice for the preſent may lead thee into ſuch a Way and Courſe, as for which thou mayſt hazard Life, yet conſider (ſaith he v. 11.) That he that raiſed up Jeſus from the Dead, and as you heard gave him Counſel to die, will raiſe up thy mortal Body again: Whereas, if you follow the Fleſh's Advice, and mortify not the Deeds thereof, ye ſhall die. Above all, take heed of rejecting his Counſel when thou haſt askt it; as the Phariſees are ſaid to have done againſt themſelves (Luk. 7. 30.) and the People in the Prophet Jeremy did. The Heathen, when they enquired of their Oracles, durſt not go and do contrary; nor would Socrates act againſt what his Genius dictated: Much leſs let us act againſt the Counſel of God and his Spirit, for this breaks Friendſhip with him. Yea let me caſt in this, take his very Reproofs kindly; Prov. 27. 5, 6. Even the Wounds of a Friend are faithful. He ſpeaks it of Rebukes, v. 5. Let the Righteous ſmite me (ſays David, Pſal. 141. 5.) it ſhall be a kindneſs; let him reprove me, it ſhall be an excellent Oil, which ſhall not break, break, but cure my Head. If therefore the Righteous God ſhall ſmite thee; if the Holy Spirit, who is that holy anointing, rebukes thee in thy way, it is to ſave thee, to heal thee, and to comfort thee in the end: He went on frowardly in the way of his Heart, and I ſmote him, ſays God, Iſa. 57. 17. But it was to heal him; I will heal him, and reſtore Comforts to him. Chap. 6.

3. Make uſe of his Favour and Friendſhip in all Buſineſſes, and depend thereon alone. God would have all kindneſſes run through his hands, for he would have all your Thanks: as David ſaid to Barzillai, 2 Sam. 19. 38. Whatever thou requeſteſt of me, that will I do for thee; that doth God ſay to us Great Men in Power that are Friends, take it ill if it be a Suit (wherein they can ſtead us) if we uſe or truſt to other Friends beſide them: For by doing ſo, we either queſtion their Power or their Love.

There are two things which this Direction holds forth: 1. To uſe God in ſmall matters as well as great. And 2. To make uſe of his ſpecial Favour and peculiar Love in all.

1*ſt.* Let us make uſe of God in ſmall things as well as great, even all. It is ſaid (Iſa. 26. 12.) he works all our Works in us and for us. 'Tis read both ways, for we have two ſorts of Works to be done: 1. Inward in our own Spirits. And 2. Outward, which are for us in the courſe of Providence: And of the two, the inward is of the greater concernment, not to fear what we ſhall ſuffer, but what we ſhall do. We are to uſe God in ſmall things, and herein God's Friendſhip exceeds that of Mens; for Men are ſhy to uſe great Friends about Trifles, but reſerve their Intereſt for greater; for they are both loth to be troubled, and cannot mind us therein, and their Stock of Favour is ſoon ſpent; but God doth not deal ſo with us. I obſerve in the Parable made on purpoſe (as one Evangeliſt hath it) to encourage us, and provoke us to pray, Chriſt repreſents the προτασις, or Story of it thus, Luk. 11. 5. That a Man having a Friend, goes to him at Midnight, and ſays to him, lend me three Loaves. What! trouble a Friend for ſo ſmall a matter as three Loaves, and that at Midnight, and thoſe not for himſelf neither, it is for his Friends Friend; v. 6. For a Friend of mine is come to me, and I have nothing to ſet before him. Chriſt ſhews the Diſpoſition of a Man in this Caſe, v. 7. He from within ſhall anſwer and ſay, trouble me not, the Door is now ſhut, and my Children are with me in Bed, I cannot riſe and give thee. They are loth to be troubled in ſuch a Caſe, tho they are Neighbours and Friends, and may themſelves need the like at another time. And yet (v. 8) for Importunitys ſake, tho not for Friendſhip, he will riſe and give him them. Now the Reddition or Moral of this is, that much more God that profeſſeth himſelf a Friend and Father (v. 13.) will hear you in whatever you ask, even the ſmalleſt; if a Man asks an Egg, or asks a Fiſh, as Chriſt inſinuates, v. 11, 12. or daily Bread, as he had taught them, v. 3. And he thinks it no Trouble, at all Seaſons, upon all Occaſions to be viſited: Come to him at Midnight, come to him for thy Friend's Friend for what thou wilt; this is an Honour to him, he is hereby acknowledged to be God that ruleth and governeth all things, even the leaſt.

2*dly.* Make uſe of God's peculiar Love in all, Outward Providential Mercies do come to the People of God out of peculiar Love, as the Connection of Rom. 8. 28, 29. tells us. The Love of Friendſhip in God is the Fountain and Spring of all; out of that he beſtows all, and therefore will have it acknowledged in all. If therefore in thy outward Affairs thou ſeekeſt God for a Mercy, and thou haſt found a particular Promiſe which mentions the very thing thou needeſt; yet let me adviſe thee to go to Eternal Love, and treat with it to beſtow it on thee; and treat with it in all, as well as for thy Salvation. My Brethren, the effectualneſs of this Cauſe is not known enough; to be ſure the thing is not enough practiſed by Saints.

1. It is utterly a fault, that either, even in great matters they treat not with God, or walk raſhly whilſt they are in dependance on God for them, that is, they leave the Iſſue and caſting of ſuch a matter to all adventures, and ſeek him not in it; which often provokes God to give a Man a ſound Stroak, a ſhrewd Blow, e're he is aware, in what is moſt near to him, as if he cared not where he did hit him. The Iſraelites would have a King; but God gave him in his Anger, and took him away in his Wrath.

Book II. 2. Or elſe they treat not his ſpecial Favour, but leave it to bare ordinary Providence; and things which accordingly come out of ordinary Providence, are by the Courſe of that Providence turned into bitter Croſſes, even to God's own People: tho when they are taught otherwiſe, and humbled, his Love at laſt turns them again into Bleſſings. But thoſe wherein eternal Love is ſought, prove pure Bleſſings, and God adds no Sorrow with them. The Iſraelites did ſeek a King at the hands of God, and yet God complains, Hoſ. 8. 4. They have ſet up Kings, but not by me; they have made Princes, but I knew it not. And yet how could ſo great a matter be done without him, by whom Kings reign, and who knows all that is done in the World? But they carried it ſo as they ſought not God in it, nor acquainted him with it: They did it ipſo inconſulto, without adviſing with him, or intereſting him in them; and without having Recourſe to, and Dependance upon his Favour. If a Man ſhould ſee his Son or his Friend ſtand among the Croud of Beggars that wait at his Door for a common Dole, and that he caſts his Lot for his Meals with them, to be ſerved as his turn comes, as they are; would not this provoke him, would he not ſay, what do you mean thus to ſtand there, are you not at Home? Why do you not come to me for Money for all Neceſſaries? Or why do you not come in and ſit down at Table, and eat with me as becomes Sons and Friends to do? Thus doth God take it ill to ſee his own Children careleſly ſtand at the common Door of Providence, when they ſhould come in and ſeek what they want by Prayer, and intereſt his Fatherly Love in the Buſineſs. The truth is, that thoſe Bleſſings only prove pure, ſtable Bleſſings, which are fetch'd ex iſto Dolio. As God gives, ſo he would have you receive; now he gives out of Eternal Love, and that therefore he will have us apply unto.

4. Yet I add, take ſome ſeeming Denials of particular Requeſts of thine kindly from him. Remember it is Friendſhip with a Superior, who is only wiſe, knows what is beſt for thee, hath many great and vaſt ends in the Government of this World; and ſome things thou haſt earneſtly deſired for thy particular, may and do croſs ſome other, and greater Deſigns for his Glory. As Kings that have large Intereſts, Multitude of Perſons, and things to deal with, are forced to deny ſome things which their deareſt Favourites ask of them, as croſſing ſome other Engagement, or more general Project. But if God denies thee, he will be ſure to remember thee in ſome other thing.

The Truth is, we ſhew our ſelves unfriendly to God, and uſurp upon the Privileges and Dues of Friendſhip, if we expect every thing ſhould be as we would have it: Should it be as thou wilt? as God ſaid to Job. God denied Moſes his Requeſt of entring into Canaan, and it was a great Requeſt of him, and yet he murmurs not, but quietly goes up and dies, when God bad him.

5. Truſt God eſpecially in great Exigents, and take heed of being jealous of him. Mutual Confidence is a great part of Friendſhip, therefore David ſpeaking of his Friend ſaith, Yea mine own familiar Friend whom I truſted, Pſal. 41. 9. If a Man were to procure the Friendſhip of another, he would deal with him in his kind: As if you were to deal with a Covetous Man, ye would bring him Gold; if with a vainglorious Man, you would flatter him. But now the way to deal with God, and to procure Friendſhip with him, is to truſt him; and the Reaſon is, becauſe he doth all his kindneſſes freely: And one that doth all freely, deſires to be truſted before he doth the Benefit, and to be thanked after. Since I knew what Love and Friendſhip was, I have the leſs wondred why God choſe our Faith rather than our Love to ſave us by, and that he calls ſo much for it. The Reaſon is plain, that one that loves much, deſires rather (and prefers it far) to have the Party he freely loves, to believe much that he loves him, than that he ſhould love him, for he deſires to magnify his own Love to them. Now that is God's diſtinction, for it is his main end in loving us to commend his Love. The Holy Ghoſt exhorts, Pſal. 37. 3. Truſt in the Lord, and caſt all thy Care upon him. Friends are Participes Curarum, They are Partners in Cares. There are two eminent Places for this, 1 Pet. 1. 7. Caſt all your Care upon God, for he careth for you: & Phil. 4. 6. Be careful for nothing, but in every thing by Prayer and Supplication with Thankſgiving, let your Requeſt be made known unto God. Be careful or ſollicitous in nothing; he doth not ſay, God leaves ſmall things unto us, or that we

ſhould not be anxious, but avoid τὰς μερίμνας, thoſe Cares that divide and diſtract the Soul. Great momentous Care is God's work, not ours: Caſt all your Care upon him (ſays Peter) for he careth for you. He ſpeaks it of the ſoreſt Trials under God's mighty Hand, ver. 6. He quotes Pſal. 55. v. 2. Caſt thy Burden on the Lord: So much Care as is a Burden on thy Thoughts, lay it on God. What a friendly part is this, that God loves us ſo well as he would have no Burden lie on our Spirits, but is willing to take that Burden on himſelf? Let me have all the Load (ſays he) like a Friend that travels with another, and for his Friend's eaſe carries and takes off all the Baggage. God is not only willing to bear it with us, but to take it wholly off from us on himſelf. He doth not only offer to take one end of it, and ſo eaſe us (as the word is, Rom. 8. 26. συναντιλαμβάνεται) to help us only by taking it together with us at the other end of our Burden, but he takes it wholly off; Caſt thy Burden on him, for he careth for you. The Truth is (ſays he) whether you truſt him or no, he careth for you: Or 'tis ſpoken thus, his is the great Care; as if we ſhould ſay to a Wife that hath a good Husband to her Conſort, he takes all the Care, and is ſo wiſe as you need take none, but may ſleep quietly and take your eaſe; ſo doth God ſay to us. Qui habuit tui curam antequam eſſes, quomodo non habebit cum jam es, ſays Auguſtine. He took care how to redeem thee from Sin, and he will for all things elſe: Yea he takes ſuch care for every one, as if he took care of none elſe. Only indeed this Paul requires (Phil. 4.) That in every thing our Requeſts ſhould be made known to God. He would not have us ſo much as troubled, only ſays he, come and tell me, that's enough, and it is but what a Man would do to a Friend, when burdened, if it were but to eaſe his Mind: not that God needs that we ſhould make known our Requeſts to him, for he knows (ſays Chriſt) you have need of theſe Things; but that there may be a recourſe to him, that he may be acknowledged to be the Carer for you, and alſo your Dependance on him may be owned (Prov. 3. 5, 6.) Truſt in the Lord with all thine Heart, and lean not to thine own Underſtanding. In all thy Ways acknowledg him, and he ſhall direct thy Paths. He ſpeaks it as a Friend, that would have his Friends but come and tell him when they want: 'Tis as if he ſaid, come, and but communicate your Wants and your Neceſſities to me, and I will ſupply them. Thus our Abraham in the Text did truſt in God as a Friend, when he went to offer up Iſaac: Oh Father, ſays Iſaac, but where is the Sacrifice? Take no care Son, ſays he, God will provide, Gen. 22. 8, 9, 13, 14. Hence that Proverb went amongſt the Jews, when any one was afflicted, that in the Mount the Lord will be ſeen, and provide as he did for Abraham and Iſaac in their Straits. Let your Heart therefore in all Occurrences be quiet, and repoſe it ſelf ſafely in him; truſt him at all times, Pſal. 62. 8. and truſt him in all things, and in ſmall things as well as great; make uſe of him, and come to him for every thing, for he thinks you account him not your Friend elſe, and he thinks it no Trouble but an Honour to him. Chap. 6.

I add to this as an Appendix of it, Be not jealous of him. There cannot be a greater wrong done to Friendſhip; Truſt hath made many a Friend, and ſo on the contrary, Suſpicion hath broke many faſt and entire Friendſhips: Hence Charity, or Love to Men binds us to interpret all things well: 1 Cor. 13. 5. Charity thinketh no Evil, believing all Things for the preſent, hopeth all Things for the future. And if this Rule hold of Men who are a Lie, as the Scripture ſpeaks, and of whom a Suſpicion may be that they are falſe, and a Lie is in their Ways; Then much more is this true in Love, and much more ought we to act thus to God, who is Truth it ſelf, Rom. 3. 4. and Love it ſelf, 1 John 4. 16. And accordingly as his Nature is Love and Truth, ſo all his Ways are Mercy and Truth, Pſal. 25. 10. They are Mercy, in reſpect of aiming at our good; and Truth, in reſpect of fulfilling his Promiſes, and faithful Carriage to us: therefore whatſoever befals thee, tho it be clean contrary to thy Expectation, interpret it in Love. Many Actions of Men are ſuch, as a good Interpretation cannot be put upon them, nor a good Conſtruction made of them; therefore Interpreters reſtrain thoſe Sayings of Love, that it believes all, &c. that is, Credibilia, all things believable; otherwiſe to put all upon Charity, will eat out Charity. But none of God's Ways are ſuch, but Love and Faith may pick a good meaning out of them. A bono Deo nil niſi bonum, from a good God there comes nothing but what is good; and therefore says Job, tho he kill me I will trust in him. Endeavour to spy out some end of his for good at the present, and if none ariseth to thy Conjecture, resolve it into Faith, and make the best of it. To be jealous provoketh God exceedingly, for no faithful Friend can endure to be suspected: It breaks amity between Man and Wife, when they love never so entirely; and the Reason is, because one that loves and makes a Business of it to shew himself a Friend, and counts it one of his greatest Excellencies (as God doth, for all his Attributes seem but to set out his Love) cannot therefore bear to have it questioned. Take a Man that is both wise and loving, and he had rather be thought unwise by his Friend, than unloving or false to him. It provoked God much, well nigh as much as any thing, that the People of Israel said that he brought them into the Wilderness to destroy them: which Sin moved him to destroy many of them. And yet thus, and worse, do many wrong God, who tho God hath humbled them, and given them many evident Tokens of his Love, and everlasting good Will; yet still they suspect it to be but a common Work, that God hath enlightned them to make their Damnation greater. He hath brought us out of Egypt indeed, say they, the gross Sins that others lie in, but it is but to destroy us: Jer. 29. 11. I know the Thoughts that I think towards you, saith the Lord, Thoughts of Peace, not of Evil, to give an expected End. It was when the People were carried away Captive into Babylon; they thought God carried them thither to destroy them, these were their Thoughts; and therefore in opposition unto their Thoughts, saith God, it is no matter what you think, I know the Thoughts I think, even to give an expected end, that is, as good an end as you could wish. God speaks like one suspected, and is fain to comfort himself as it were with the consciousness of his own Thoughts toward them, against the hard Thoughts and Speeches they had of him: Well, but I know mine own Heart, says God. His Eyes were as much and more upon the end of their Deliverance and Peace after seventy Years, than upon the Captivity it self, as appears by the Verse going before; for the End is first ordained, and chiefly in an Agent's Eye. Let but God alone, see the end he made with Job (says James, Chap. 5. 11.) whilst God was a pulling down Job's Estate and House piece after piece, Job, nor no Stander by could have known what to have made of God's purpose in it; but the Issue was such, as was evident to the Eye of all Beholders, that all this was in Love. Therefore he useth this Phrase, Ye have seen the end of the Lord in it. He did but put down the old House to set up a new one; some interpret it of Christ's Passion, you have seen the end of the Lord Jesus. Whilst the Apostles and Believers beheld him on the Cross, yea the Angels themselves, they might wonder what God meant to do with him, what should be in his thoughts to hang his Son there; but ye have seen the end of the Lord (saith he) For we have seen Jesus thro the Suffering of Death, crowned with Glory and Honour, Heb. 2. 9. This was fresh News in those Days, for 'twas new done, so as they saw it: When thou art in Affliction, thou art apt to think that he is a destroying thee, but thou knowest not his Thoughts. If a Man be poor and down in the World, then he is apt to say, if God did love me, he would not suffer me to be so low; if rich, he is apt to say, that God puts him off as Abraham did his younger Sons, and reserves his Inheritance for others. So likewise young Christians are often jealous that God will one day take advantage against them for their offending him and Backslidings, and take his Favour from them, and cast them off; but do not suspect him, for he is a constant Friend. It is a slander Papists and Arminians have raised on him, That he should cast away those are entred into Friendship with him, and discard his old Friends; and therefore (Isa. 55. 4.) God's Mercies are called the sure Mercies of David. If others have Comfort, Joy and Peace, which such an one wants, the poor Man begins to be jealous of God, as if God did not love him; as when the Gentiles were called, Zion was jealous, and took it amiss, Isa. 49. 14. and says, God hath forgotten me.

6. Study his Favours, how to find out his loving Kindness in them. God would not willingly lose his Kindness in what he doth: As a wise Man would not his Notions on one that is not apprehensive or capable of them, and a Man's Love is dearer to him than his Notions; this is the least Reciprocation of Friendship that can be expected. God doth ſtudy how to contrive all the Circumſtances of his Mercies, ſo as to make them Mercies, and to ſhew his Love in them, and accordingly orders them. He thinks how to bring them in beſt, to make them take, when and where they will be beſt placed and beſtowed, and moſt ſeen, and taken notice of. He waits to be gracious, Iſaiah tells us: even as a curious Orator orders all his matters, brings in this after this, and ſets out all with Metaphors and Elegancies, and all to make it take and pleaſe his Hearers; ſo doth God ſtrow Mercies through thy whole Life, and you ſhould ſtudy them and the Circumſtances of them (as you would ſtudy and delight to read a curious Speech) and obſerve all the Art that Love hath beſtowed upon the whole. As you ſhall have a World of Wit and Matter couched in a Word, a ſhort Sentence, ſo God caſts out ſometimes a Sea of Love in a drop of Providence, in a ſmall by-paſſage that a Man would ſcarce take notice of. Pſal. 139. when David conſidered but that part of it, of his outward and ordinary Providence only, in creating and conſerving him, he wonders; Marvelous are thy Works (ſays he) and that my Soul knows right well, ver. 14. David had ſtudied them, he was verſt and skilful in them? How precious (ſaith he) are thy Thoughts, or the Thoughts of thee unto me? O Lord, how great are the Number of them! And Pſal. 111. 2, 3, 4. The Works of the Lord are great, ſought out of all them that have Pleaſure therein: His Work is honourable and glorious, and his Righteouſneſs endureth for ever: He hath made his wonderful Works to be remembred, the Lord is gracious and full of Compaſſion. His Goodneſs and Compaſſion he would have obſerved by us; more eſpecially, The Lord is gracious and full of Compaſſion, ſo it is in the cloſe of all, and therein lies the Glory, that is the Concluſion of all. And as in ſearching into any Experiments in Nature, there is an infinite Pleaſure that accompanies ſuch a Study to them that are addicted thereunto: So to him that hath Pleaſure in ſuch Works of God, and is addicted to ſpy out his Kindneſs in them, there is nothing ſo pleaſant as the Diſcovery of ſuch or ſuch a new Circumſtance of Mercy, that renders it glorious and honourable. Get therefore Skill in his Dealings with thee, and ſtudy thy Friend's Carriage to thee. It is the end why he raiſed thee up, and admitted thee into Friendſhip with him, to ſhew his Art of Love and Friendſhip to thee, how well he could love thee.

Chap. 7.

CHAP. VII.

What Obedience and Duty we owe unto God, as we are his Friends. We ſhould be fearful of doing any thing to diſpleaſe him, obſerve his Commands, and do all from the Principles of Love and Gratitude.

THE next thing to be treated of concerneth what in Obedience we owe unto him, what Correſpondencies, what Returns, Obſervances and Compliances are due to him in our Walkings with him, upon the account of Friendſhip. Now the general Conſideration I would premiſe to all that follows, is, that this Friendſhip being contracted between an Infinite God, and Creatures ſubjected perfectly to his Sovereign Power; he might exact all from us, as ſimple Obedience due from abſolute Servants and Vaſſals. But he hath been pleaſed to quit (as it were) that Conſideration: John 15. 15. Henceforth I call you not Servants, but Friends. As if he were content on his part to forget the relation of Servants, and take up all from us as from Friends, provided he hath the ſame that as Servants we owe to him; which muſt needs ſo ſweeten all Obedience to him, as not to make the Commandments grievous, and it alſo puts the ſtricter Obligation unto Obedience, due as Servants, and ſuperadds ſome Strains and Diſpoſitions thereunto, upon the pure account of Friendſhip. So reſpectful is he of us, that he is content to vail and cover this hard and ſevere Tax, and to take it up from us under the Notion of Gratitude and Thankfulneſs. And this Notion will run along, and accompany us thro the whole. Now of ſuch Compliances and Returns of Obedience, Book II. Obedience, there are two Branches, which are a known and common trodden Place by every Tongue and Pen.

1*ſt*. There is a Fearfulneſs to diſpleaſe or offend him as our Friend.

2*ly*. All poſſible Care to pleaſe and render our ſelves friendly and reſpectful to him. I muſt not inſtance in particular Duties, nor be large in any thing; only hint ſuch Conſiderations, as not the Notion only, but the Power of Friendſhip doth bind us to.

1. There is Fearfulneſs to diſpleaſe him, as a Man is fearful to diſpleaſe a Friend. This is to fear the Lord and his Goodneſs, as the Prophet ſpeaks. Every Sin by reaſon of Friendſhip to him, comes under the Crime and Guilt of Falſhood and Petit-Treaſon: When thou ſinneſt, then think with thy ſelf that God's Spirit looks back, and ſays to thee as Abſalom to Huſhai, 2 Sam. 16. 17. Is this thy Kindneſs to thy Friend? Or as God himſelf, Deut. 32. 6. Do ye thus requite the Lord, ye fooliſh and unwiſe? Is not he thy Father that hath bought thee? Hath he not made and eſtabliſht thee? If it had been mine Enemy, I could have born it, but it was thou my Friend, Pſal. 55. 12. ſaid David of his Friend. And ſays God again of David (who had felt the ſmart of Wounds received in the behalf of his Friends, and therefore every Word pierced him) 2 Sam. 12. 7, 8, 9. I anointed thee King over Iſrael, delivered thee from Saul, gave thee thy Maſter's Wives: Yea, gave thee the whole Houſe of Iſrael and Judah to be thy Subjects, and to reign over; and if this (which for this World might well content the largeſt Heart) would not have contented thee, I love thee ſo well, that I would have given thee ſuch and ſuch Things. And you know how the Senſe of his Ingratitude brake his Heart. Now tranſlate this word for word into the Stile and Language of the New Teſtament: I have loved thee (may God ſay) and choſen thee my Friend in Chriſt Jeſus afore the World began. I have delivered my Son unto Death for thee, and with him how ſhall I not give thee all things? Heaven, and Glory, and an Everlaſting Kingdom I have prepared for thee, not to tell thee how many Sins I have pardoned, when thou firſt cameſt to me and ſince; and wilt thou ſerve me thus? Is this thy Kindneſs to thy Friend? This grieves God. Againſt his Enemies he hath a Relief, he can eaſe himſelf, Iſa. 1. 24. I will eaſe my ſelf on mine Adverſaries: but on his Friends he hath no Remedy, no other, but having ſeen their Ways, to heal them; for he cannot, muſt not eaſe himſelf by Revenge. Such things as theſe ſhould move us. Oh! when thou art about to ſin next, and haſt the Cup of Pleaſure at thy Mouth and Lips, think with thy ſelf at the inſtant, that it is the Price of thy Friend's Blood, and pour it upon the Ground; you know I allude to the Story and Paſſage in 1 Chron. 11. 19. Think what was in that Cup which he trembled at: Let this Cup paſs (cried he) Doſt thou begin at any time to ſip of Pleaſures Cup? Oh cry out then likewiſe! Let this Cup paſs from me; my Saviour drank all theſe as turned to Gall and Vinegar, and ſhall I make that my Pleaſure, which was ſuch Horror and Bitterneſs to him? And of Sins, take heed of preſumptuous Sins, which is a making bold with his Friendſhip, and the continuance of his Love ſtill notwithſtanding. Theſe ſtrike directly at the Root, the Soul, at the Marrow of Friendſhip; this is a Strain higher than Treaſon. David a King, might have aggravated Ahitophel's Fault, in that he was his Prince, his Sovereign; but it was, Thou my Friend, which he upbraids him with, and lays to his Charge, his Treaſon againſt Friendſhip. And Ahitophel was therein the Type of Judas, whoſe Sin to this day is branded with the Name of Treaſon: Treaſon the higheſt that ever was, That he who eats my Bread (ſays Chriſt) ſhould betray me. Oh keep me from preſumptuous Sins! (ſaith David, Pſal. 19. 19.) for they are the next Step to the great Offence, ſo ſhall I be free from the great Tranſgreſſion, than which nothing is higher, or nearer than the Sin of preſuming on God's Love. The Oppreſſion of good Nature in any good and ſweet Soul we ſtand in relation unto, is the greateſt Oppreſſion in the World: and what oppreſſeth good Nature more than under preſumption of Friendſhip to abuſe it? So alſo upon the ſame account take heed of Sins that wound the Name of God in thee; How doth one caſt Shame upon all his Friends, when he runs into an Enormity? Noſcitur ex Socio, &c. they account all his Friends and Companions ſuch. David's Sin is aggravated by this, that he made the Enemies of God to blaſpheme; and nothing puts God more into a ſtrait,

how to acquit himself toward you, and save his own Honour, than in such a Case, either to lose the Service you may yet do, or to dishonour himself by using you any longer therein. Chap. 7.

2. The second Branch of Obedience is (as you know) keeping his Commandments, Ye are my Friends if ye do whatsoever I command you (says Christ) Joh. 15. 14. Thus also says Jonathan to David his Friend, 1 Sam. 20. 4. Whatsoever thy Soul desireth, I will even do it for thee. Yea Friendship will turn that Sovereign Word of Commands into that more easy Stile, Whatsoever will please him, Isa. 56. 4. And yet Yours to command is Stilus Amicitiæ, the Stile of Friendship. A Man can requite a Friend but two ways, either by profiting him, or by pleasing him. Now profit God we cannot; What is it to him that thou art Righteous? (says Job) Christ himself could not profit God, witness that Speech spoken of him, My Goodness extends not to thee, Psal. 16. But yet please him he did in all things, Joh. 8. 39.

1. Let us study with our selves what in our way, and in his Will concerning us, will most please him; and let us make it the Pleasure of our Souls to do it. Let us think with our selves as David did, Psal. 69. 31. This also shall please the Lord better than an Ox or Bullock that hath Horns and Hoofs. Let us do what is done by us out of a free Spirit, and not only or barely as commanded. Let us think, that of Paul's looks fully this way, 1 Cor. 9. 16, 17. Tho I preach the Gospel I have nothing to glory of, for Necessity is laid upon me; yea wo is unto me if I preach not the Gospel. Ver. 17. For if I do this willingly, I have a Reward; but if unwilling, a Dispensation is committed to me. The plain Result of which Place is this, 1. That to do the best Work for God that can be done in this World, is to preach the Gospel; therefore by way of supposition, he heightens and greatens it, Tho I preach the Gospel, than which the Angels themselves have not a better Work committed to them. Yea 2. If I outwardly do this Work (says he) with all the Pains and Diligence that Flesh and Blood can perform it with, even to the utmost of the Dispensation and Commission enjoined me, as v. 17. implies: Yet 3. To do this, having this only in my Eye, that I am commanded by God to do it, is not enough. That this was his Scope, is clearly acknowledged out of these his Words, For Necessity is laid upon me. This Necessity was not of any outward Restraint, no Man could have compelled him, no more than they could Demas, who left his Preaching, embraced the present World, and fell a Merchandizing, taking the advantage of growing rich at Thessalonica, 2 Tim. 4. 10. It was not for Maintenance and Livelihood, for it was that he was speaking of, that he refused it for Preaching. Yea the Necessity he in these Words intends, is sever'd from that other Necessity of being damned if he did it not, for so it is emphatically expressed by our Translators. Yea (tanquam aliquid amplius) Wo is me if I preach not the Gospel. He adds it as some further thing, so that the single Necessity of the Command was at first considered by him; which therefore v. 17. he thus expresseth, A Dispensation is committed to me. But to have preached the Gospel out of such a Necessity only, had not been matter of Glory or Acceptation with God. Yea to have preached it upon these or such grounds only, had been to preach it ἄκων unwillingly. The unwillingness being to be interpreted by what he opposeth to it, namely, willingness out of Choice, heartily and freely to chuse the Work out of Love to God chiefly, and the Souls of Men: As one well observes, unwilling is not invitus, Grotius. but jussus; and our Translators have shot that Bolt too far to translate it against my Will. So then to conclude this, to do a thing merely upon the Necessity of the Obligation of the Command, tho of God, and only because such a Dispensation is committed and laid upon one, altho in it self the greatest Service in the World, is not with God acceptable alone, in the Terms which we stand in with him, which are of Friendship and not of mere Servants: And therefore over and above there must be a freeness and willingness out of Ingenuity to God, which is to do it for him, as to a Friend. Which that Paul might manifest, he did preach the Gospel freely; to which yet others (he says) were not obliged, but it had been his Profession so to do. And in doing this out of this Principle, and in this manner, the Work had a Glory, that is, a Grace, an acceptableness in it, which else it would have lost. Peter thus expresseth it, 1 Pet. 2. 19, 20. That it is Thank-worthy,

Book II. worthy, and that from God, τοῦτο χάρις παρὰ θεῷ; which in the same Verse he also terms Glory; what Glory is it? He speaks it upon the like Occasion of doing Noble, Free and Heroical Acts of Obedience unto God: To be patient and quiet, to be buffeted for what is truly faulty; this is good (says he) but this comes merely under the Notion of Justice, and Duty, and Command, and so what Glory is in it? But if when you do well and suffer for it, ye take it patiently, this is Thank-worthy before God. The Stile and Language imports, that such Actions God takes not only well, as a Master that commands things as a Duty, but also as a Friend doth from the hands of a Friend; not only with an Acknowledgment, Well done good and faithful Servant; but with Thanks, which we use not to give to Servants, but to Friends, as having done us free Courtesies: So that altho there are not Works of Superrogation (as in respect of what God doth and may command, Luk. 17. 19. Doth he thank that Servant, because he did those things that were commanded him? I trow not, says Christ) Yet there is such a performing of things commanded for the manner of it, as is over and above the Force of the Command, even out of Freeness and Ingenuity as Friends. And there are some such Noble and Heroical Acts of Obedience, as carry in their very Appearance a Principle above that of Service, which respect the Necessity of the Command, that God thanks them for them, as a Man doth his Friend for a matter of Courtesy; and they come to have a Glory, a special Grace in them, which simple Obedience hath not. And they also have Thanks, which not the Intercourse of Servant and Master, but between Friend and Friend requires; and which chiefly respect the freeness and nobleness of the Mind we do it with. Now that Christ should use the same word that Peter doth, χάρις, Thanks: And that Peter should say, that to such and such Actions Thanks, and those Thanks from God, were due or suitable: And that Christ should on the contrary say, Will that Master thank his Servant? I know not how otherwise to reconcile than thus, that when we shall lift up our Obedience out of the Croud and common Rank of Services (which God might stand upon, since he as Lord and Master could so command, and we must be forc'd to say, We are unprofitable Servants, when we have done, as having done nothing but what was commanded us) and shall perform it to God upon Terms and Grounds of Gratitude and Thankfulness, yea as Friends, then God condescends also to accept it as 'tis given, not as Duty only, but as free, and gives Thanks for it; so Gracious is he if we be thus noble. And all these Places shew, that otherwise (suppose we be saved) yet we lose that Glory, Splendor and Lustre which might be found in our Obedience, if we thus perform'd it.

2. We should study and search out Works so excellent for the manner of Performance, or seek a Heart so noble, as should render such common Actions extraordinary. God hath studied how to commend and set out his kindness (witness the Death of his Son) and prevent us with his loving kindness, as the Psalmist speaks: And we should (if possible) study out some free-born Acts of Obedience, and prevent him with them. Thus David unspoken to by God, out of his vast Desires to glorify him, thinks of building a Temple for him; and says God, I never spake a word of it, 2 Sam. 7. 7. Yet because what was in God's Heart rose up so nobly in David's, ('twas an ingenuous Thought occasioned it, I dwell in an House of Cedar, but the Ark of God dwells in Curtains, v. 2.) God took this kindly; Tell him (says God to Nathan) I will build him an House for it, v. 11. In Services we do let us study to put an Emphasis of Love upon them, as Paul who (when he might have done otherwise) preached the Gospel for nothing.

I shall mention some special Seasons (instead of other Particulars) which thou mayst take the davantage of, to render a quick and diligent Obedience exceeding acceptable to him as a Friend, and Thanks-worthy as from a Friend, παρὰ τοῦ θεοῦ, even by God himself.

(1.) One Season is, when after great Falls you are anew reconciled to him, and he hath pardoned you great Sins. You know what Vows David made after his Falls, Psal. 51. 13. He vow'd to convert others, to celebrate his Praise, and to offer the choicest of Sacrifices, a broken Heart. This made Peter bestir himself, but upon two Words spoken by Christ after his Fall, Lovest thou me? Politick Friendship bids you take heed of a reconciled Friend that hath been treacherous, and done you a miſchief, but God delights in ſuch to chooſe; He therefore choſe forth his entireſt Friends, (and he knew what he did in doing it) out of the Sons of Men that had offended him, rather than make new ones, for he knew they would love him better. A Friend that is in his radical Diſpoſition of a good and ingenuous Nature, and hath wrong'd you, ſuch a one when reconciled, and you have pardoned him, is the beſt and faſteſt Friend in the World. And God will in the end be ſure to make thoſe good natured, and true hearted to him whom he pardons; Pſal. 32. 2. Bleſſed is the Man whoſe Sins are forgiven, in whoſe Heart is no Guile. He couples theſe two for ever together; haſt thou ſinned, and hath God pardoned and loved thee freely? This is a new Converſion to thee, a redintegration of a new Love between you; love much, and obey much, as Mary and Peter did. Chap. 7.

(2.) Labour then moſt, when in view thou art in leaſt Dependance on him for outward Mercies, and thinkeſt thy Mountain moſt ſtrong. In ſome times of a Man's Life he is ſet in an enlarged and free State, ſo as he looks over the preſent Horizon of his Condition, and ſees not one Cloud that any way threatens Rain. He is hedged about (as Job) and ſees not whence a Breach ſhould come: At ſuch a time meditate (if ever) to act in a more extraordinary manner for God's Intereſt and Honour. When was it that David meditated that forementioned high and generous Act of teſtifying his Love in building God an Houſe? It is prefaced thereunto, 2 Sam. 7. 2. That it came to paſs, when David ſat in his Houſe, and the Lord had given him reſt round about from all his Enemies. The Coaſt was clear (as we uſed to ſay) and then the King ſaid, v. 2. He would build God an Houſe. He took this ſpecial Seaſon to expreſs his Love towards God in; and God took thereupon that ſpecial Advantage to confirm his Houſe to him. Hezekiah on the contrary, whilſt Zenacherib lay with his Army before the City, and the ten Tribes were carried captive before his Face, walkt with a perfect Heart: But when his Kingdom was ſettled, and a Leaſe of his Life freely ſealed for fifteen Years; you know then how he forgat God, and how God took it at his Hands. Joſhua (who was a Man God honoured to bring his People into Reſt, having that Teſtimony given him, that he followed God fully) you ſee a long time after (Joſh. 23. 1.) that God had given reſt unto Iſrael from all their Enemies round about, how he engaged afreſh all the People to ſerve God, Chap. 24. and himſelf eſpecially, v. 15. I and my Houſhold will ſerve the Lord. This was friendly, and God took it accordingly, and recorded it for ever.

(3.) On the contrary, when God afflicts and croſſeth thee in thy Deſires, and hath denied for the preſent the Requeſts thou haſt made, apply thy ſelf moſt unto him. Theſe, tho contrary Seaſons, are yet times alike of winning upon God by Obedience; Eccleſ. 7. 15. In the day of Good, or Proſperity, be in good; that is, as our Criticks explain it, Be converſant, and exerciſe thy ſelf wholly in what is good; and in the day of evil, ſee to thy Ways and conſider. Thus he calls for Holineſs alike in both. That was alſo true Ingenuity which they expreſſed, Pſal. 44. 17, 18, &c. All this is come upon us, yet we have not forgotten thee, nor our Steps declined from thy Ways. Paul glories more in the Obedience he did in his Infirmities, than in all his Revelations.

(4.) Tho thou haſt ſerved him long, and waited, and perhaps he hath done little for thee, in compariſon of what for others; yet take occaſion ſtill to ſerve him, and that the more diligently, and be far from thinking much. Amicitia non eſt revocanda ad Calculos; Friends are not as Partners that keep Accounts of their Receipts and Expences from each other. God gives Mercies, and upbraids not, James 1. 5. And we ſhould return Obedience, and not repine. Paul ſerved God many Years, did more than all the Apoſtles, as himſelf ſays; and yet (ſays he) I forget what is paſt and behind, Phil. 3. and reach and roame after ſtill what is before. And tho many Years were paſt already, yet he thought not much at it, that his Condition was not bettered, nor his ways mended; 1 Cor. 4. 11. Even to this preſent Hour we both hunger and thirſt, and are naked, and are buffeted, and have not certain dwelling Place: And labour, working with our own Hands; being reviled we bleſs, being perſecuted we ſuffer it, being defamed we entreat: We are made as the Filth of the World, and as the Off-ſcouring of all things unto this day. You ſee he puts it into the Account, that to that Hour (v. 11.) to that very day (v. 13.) he and his Fellow

Book II. Apoſtles (the greateſt Saints that ever the World had, or was to have) had done ſuch high and ſo great Works of Service for God, as the World did then, yea doth to this day, and ſhall to the end of the World owe their Salvation, and Chriſtian Religion to them; and yet tho they had run out ſo many Years, they were not a whit amended as to their outward Condition. They had neither Meat to put in their Mouths, nor Houſes of Abode to dwell in; yea and which ſtill heightens all this, other Chriſtians that were ſaved as well as they, that had leſs Grace, and done far leſs Service, yea for whoſe ſakes they had been employed to do all this, were gratified by God with theſe kind of Accommodations. The Apoſtle on purpoſe ſets the Inſtance of ſuch by this other, v. 8, and 10. Now ye are full, now ye are rich, ye have reigned as Kings without us; and I would to God ye did reign, that we alſo might reign with you. We are Fools for Chriſt's ſake, but ye are wiſe in Chriſt; we are weak, but ye are ſtrong; ye are honourable, but we are deſpiſed. Yea and v. 9. I think that God hath ſet forth us Apoſtles laſt, as it were appointed unto Death. You that are Scholars know what he alludes to: It is to the Roman Spectacles, either thoſe in which Men were thrown to Beaſts, as the laſt and loweſt ſort of Men, to make ſport unto the common ſort of People (which is Tertullian's Interpretation;) or rather to thoſe Gladiators or Sword-Players, who came up laſt: Of which there were two ſorts, 1. Of ſuch as fenced to ſhew skill, as now adays. 2. Of thoſe that fought but to wounding, and then were fetcht off. But the 3*d* and laſt ſort was of Slaves, or Men condemned to die, who were to fight till they had killed their Fellows, or were killed. And thus God had preordained to his deareſt Friends and Servants, his Apoſtles, whilſt they lived, to run through all theſe Difficulties and Wants, and at laſt to be killed: And all this too to make them Spectacles to the World, yea both Worlds, Angels and Men, and ſet them all aghaſt at them. God had provided a greater Stage and Theater than that at Rome, and he ſets and brings theſe poor Men forth to play their Prize for his Glory; that he might only ſay to them all (as he ſaid to Satan of Job) See you not my Servants Paul and Peter? But what! doth God deal with his beſt Friends, that do moſt for him, thus? Then who will ſerve him? That will I, ſays Paul, I know whom I have truſted, and I have fought a good Fight, and will die in the Quarrel. They thought not much at this, they know whom they ſerved. And let that Conſideration at firſt ſpecified, cheer thy Spirit in this Caſe, which ſurely was it that carried on the Apoſtles themſelves. They knew and conſidered, that their radical and original Subjection by the Law of Creation to God was ſuch, that God might command all this, and exact it of them as pure Servants to him, and give them no Wages; that (as it is in v. 7. of that Chapter) whatever they had they had received: And therefore they owed all they could do for him, upon that account; as David ſays, 1 Chron. 29. 6. Of thine own we have given thee. Our Saviour had laid in this Conſideration in the Hearts of his Apoſtles, whom afterwards he meant thus to uſe. He ſpends one Parable on purpoſe to let them know their Native Condition as they were Creatures, and what Subjection they ſtood in to God, as mere and perfect Servants, yea and unprofitable too, when they ſhould have done never ſo much. He made them know this, that being humbled and prepared hereby, they might ſee the infinite Grace and Favour in God towards them, when afterwards he ſhould adopt, own and admit them to be his Friends (Joh. 15. Henceforth I call you not Servants, but Friends) and how upon that account he would accept of all they ſhould do, the utmoſt of which they owed, as unprofitable Servants: The Parable you have Luk. 17. from the 7*th* Verſe to the 11*th*. But which of you having a Servant plowing, or feeding Cattel, will ſay unto him by and by, when he is come from the Field, go and ſit down to Meat? And will not rather ſay unto him, make ready wherewith I may ſup, and gird thy ſelf, and ſerve me till I have eaten and drunken, and afterward thou ſhalt eat and drink. Doth he thank that Servant, becauſe he did the things that were commanded him? I trow not. So likewiſe ye, when ye ſhall have done all thoſe things which are commanded you, ſay, we are unprofitable Servants, we have only done that which was our Duty to do. He lays before them the common Condition of Servants unto Men, and what was expected from them after the Cuſtoms of Men. A Servant that hath been doing hard and laborious Work, as plowing, or keeping Cattel abroad in the Fields, in all Weathers, Winds and Storms; and this all day, when he hath done these long and tedious Works, might seem to expect when he comes home, to have his Supper prepared and ready dressed for him, that he might eat, and go to rest, after so tedious a Travel. No, says Christ, none deals thus with his Servants, but he must yet stay, tho weary and an hungry (To this Hour, says Paul, we hunger and thirst, nay have not so much as an House in this World to come to) he must yet do another Work, and dress his Master's Supper, but yet then he might expect to sit down, or eat at the lower end of the Table. No, but after he hath drest it, and served it up, he must stand and wait at Table, run hither and thither, see his Master eat the Meat which himself drest before his Face, and perfectly stay till he hath eaten and drunken, and afterwards he shall eat and drink; so as he must not do one, but all sorts of Services. And what when all this is done? Doth his Master thank him? I trow not, says Christ. Nay he teacheth him to say he is an unprofitable Servant, and hath but done his Duty. How then should this move us? That God should take us up out of this servile Condition, which not our Sins, but our Creation hath condemned us to, and constitute us Friends to himself; and profess (if performed with such an Heart by us) to own and accept all these our Services as Acts of Friendship, for which he will thank us and reward us in the highest measure. Who would not be content to serve so great, and withal so good a God as this? Chap. 7.

I shall go on to mention other genuine Properties of Right and true Friendship in the Point of their Obedience to him.

4. Manage all with all Simplicity and plain-Heartedness towards him, in all thy walkings, which is the truest and rarest Jewel in Friendship. A reserved cunning Politician never makes a good Friend, who is an Israelite indeed (as Christ says of Nathaniel, John 1. 47.) in whom is no Guile. Our Saviour not only puts a value, but a Rarity upon him; therefore points him out with an ἰδὲ, Behold, an Israelite indeed; such as you should not find amongst a Million of Men: And he entituleth him an Israelite in this respect, because this is that, which made Jacob's or Israel's Commendation (Gen. 25. 27.) That he was a plain Man, ἁπλῶς, of a sincere Heart without false or cunning ends, and reaches in his way; whereas Esau was a cunning Hunter, a cunning Gamester, as you say, in his. Now let a Man naturally have what Guile or Cunning he will, real Converse and Acquaintance with God will put him out of it, with respect to God himself, whatever God alloweth him to exercise towards Enemies that seek Advantage. For a Man knows he hath to do with a God, that cuts up to the Marrow, and to the Joints, the socket Bones, and the Heart, and all the Wheels it turns upon: He wriggles his anatomizing Knife through them, Heb. 4. David had carried the Business of Uriah cunningly, as to Men; but when his Heart was set in God's Sun, in the Light of God, that Light discovered this Work to be a deceitful close-spun Web of Wickedness, a plotted and continued Villany, which made him upon that occasion cry out, Psal. 51. 6. Behold, thou requirest Truth in the inward Parts, and in the hidden Part thou shalt make me to know Wisdom. The inwards of a Man are the Seat of Guile, as well as of Truth and Plainness; and upon the discovery of this his Sin to him, he entituleth Grace by the Name of Truth, or Plainness, in the inward Parts, and acknowledgeth such a plain Spirit to be the only wise Spirit. David thought himself to be very wise, in ridding his Hands so handsomely of Uriah; but he must not think to carry it thus, and escape God so: he now saw it to have been the greatest Folly in the World, and that it should teach him Wisdom for hereafter; In the hidden part thou shalt make me to know Wisdom. And again you have him at it, Psal. 32. 3. when he hid his Sin and kept silence, he had Distinctions to fence with, and endeavoured to distinguish himself out from being a Murderer, and Day and Night lay roaring; but in the end he confesseth it, and then God pardoned it, ver. 5. I acknowledged my Sin unto thee, and mine Iniquity have I not hid; I said I will confess my Transgressions unto the Lord, and thou forgavest the Iniquity of my Sin. And from thence he ever learnt this Lesson, that whom God pardons, and receives to Grace and Favour with himself, from them he takes out that venomous Vein or Sting, that runs thro the Backbone of Guile and Deceit towards himself. Therefore at the second Verse, he couples these two for ever together:

Book II. together: Bleſſed is the Man whom thou pardoneſt, and in whoſe Spirit there is no Guile. It is obſervable that the Apoſtle makes theſe two equivalent; to do a thing heartily, and to do it as to the Lord (Col. 3. 23.) Whatſoever ye do, do it heartily, as to the Lord, and not unto Men. And in the Words before, he ſays, Not as Men-Pleaſers, but in ſingleneſs of Heart fearing God. That which I obſerve out of it is this, that nothing will fix the Nature of Man, and make it void of ends, but this knowing God, this Fear of him, and converſing with him. If a Servant would propound to pleaſe his Maſter, yet his own purpoſe will not make him conſtant in what is his Duty both abſent, as well as preſent: It will be an uncertain Rule, he will be a Weather-cock in his Actions, obſerving the Wind, and turning uncertainly with it. Now you walk not plain-heartedly, when you ſeek out Excuſes to put off Duties, and are glad of them; and when you labour to find out Diſtinctions, to make good thoſe Sins you are loth to leave; and when you walk unevenly in ſeveral Companies, as Peter did: Gal. 2. 14. He walked not with an even Foot. When alſo you uſe your Wiſdom to hold Correſpondence with God and the World; as they in Gal. 6. 12. When ye have ends of the Fleſh in all; and yet would make as if ye did much for God, as Jehu did, See what Zeal I have for the Lord of Hoſts. To magnify Kindneſſes, when we deſign only our own ends, and to make them ſeem greater, is Guile in Friendſhip. Friends often lay aſide ſome things they would elſe do, merely to avoid the Suſpition of by-ends to their Friends. Paul walked in Simplicity, or with a Spirit without folds, or doublings, as the word ſignifies, 2 Cor. 1. 12.

5. Be faithful to him, in whatever is committed to thy Truſt by him, and let thy Friendſhip move thee. This is the ſpecial Epithet of a Friend, that he is a faithful Friend, Exod. 33. 11. God treateth Moſes at the firſt Entry into his Office, as a Friend: The Lord ſpake to Moſes Face to Face, as a Man ſpeaketh to his Friend. And this obliged and endeared Moſes to that Faithfulneſs, he ſhewed in all and every particular about his Houſe. Compare with this, Numb. 12. 7, 8. My Servant Moſes, who is faithful in all my Houſe, with him will I ſpeak Mouth to Mouth, that is, Face to Face, as a Man with his Friend. Which manifeſtly refers to what God had before done, and ſaid of him, Exod. 33. 11. to which alſo the Margent doth refer us. There is none of us but God hath betruſted with ſomething; with Pupils who are precious Ware, and their Souls as well as their outward State are committed to their Governors; with Riches, Be faithful then in the unrighteous Mammon; with his Name, keep it unſpotted in thee; with Gifts and Talents, improve them to his Advantage; with Power, let it be uſed and turned for God; with thy Voice in Elections, let God diſpoſe of it, and let thoſe that are God's Friends and godly, have it rather than any other: If God hath entruſted thee with the Truth, keep that good thing committed to thee (as Paul ſpeaks to Timothy) Be faithful unto Death, and he will give thee a Crown of Life. Let not God be a loſer in what is committed to thee, whatever thou mayſt be; thou mayſt in the management of what is for God, perhaps loſe a Friend, diſguſt this or that Perſon. It is no matter, be in all things faithful to God, as Jacob was to Laban, and ſerved him fourteen, yea twenty Years Day and Night; and if there were any Loſs he bare it, Gen. 31. 39, 41.

6. Deny him nothing, and yet take his Denials kindly. Friends that are critical in Friendſhip, if they think they ſhall be denied, will not ſo much as ask, for 'twill trouble them. Abraham ſpared not his Son, when God called for him, and he was called the Friend of God. God (to endear thy Friendſhip to him) ſometimes will ſeem to ſtand in need of ſomething thou haſt. When Chriſt was on Earth he was poor, and good Souls miniſtred to him; another time he ſends to a poor Man for his Aſs, with this Meſſage (which was a ſtrange one, Luk. 19. 31.) The Lord hath need of him, tho the Cattel on a thouſand Hills are his: It was but to fulfil a Prophecy, elſe we never read he rode, but went afoot many a wearifom Step, from Galilee to Jeruſalem, to and fro unto the Feaſts. God hath Buſineſs in this World, that concerns his Glory, needs thy Help againſt the Mighty, needs thy good Word in a good Cauſe, and thou perhaps art ſluggiſh, or loth to appear in it: think nothing thou haſt too dear for him, when he calls for it. I count not my Life dear to me (ſays Paul) to fulfil my Miniſtration with Joy, Acts 20. 24.

20. 24. And take this for a Rule to guide thee to know what he calls for from thee. When either thou canſt not hold that which thou haſt, without ſinning againſt him, or when the laying of it down tends to promote his Glory, then God calls for it, and deny him not, he is a ſpecial Friend. Remark that Speech of Chriſt, he that forſakes not Father, Mother, &c. for my ſake and the Goſpel's, is not worthy of me, that is (Mat. 10. 37.) of my Friendſhip; he is not worthy to be held in correſpondency withal by me. Chap. 7.

7. Stick cloſe to him in the time of Trial. A Friend, tho he loves at all times, yet is ſpecially born for a time of Adverſity (Prov. 17. 17.) as in a great Caſe of Diſtreſs it is ſaid of Heſter, ſhe came to the Kingdom for ſuch a time as that: 'twas the greateſt thing God had in his Eye, when, and for which he advanced her. There are ſpecial Times in our Lives, in which God hath ordained to try us, and bring us to offer up our Iſaacs, as he required of Abraham. Think with thy ſelf, I was converted, born again for ſuch a time as this; ſhall I fail God now, and bid farewel to his Friendſhip, when there are ſuch Obligations between God and me? Ah no! they are as Bills of Exchange, and you break all future Correſpondencies, if you pay them not.

8. Suffer for him (if there be occaſion) gladly, and be greedy of ſuch Opportunities, when brought upon thee by others. As the Wounds of a Friend are faithful (as Solomon ſays) ſo for a Friend they are honourable; and Paul calls 'em Chriſt's Marks and Scars. The Apoſtles thought they had a Kindneſs done 'em, when they ſuffered for him, and the primitive Saints loved not their Lives to the Death, Rev. 12. 11. Do thou ſtand for him among his Enemies, and take his part. This we expect of thoſe that profeſs an Eminency of Friendſhip; and in what Company ſoever they be, if they are ſilent at ſuch a time, when they hear their Friend reviled, they ſtrengthen his Enemies in their evil Speeches of him. See how Jonathan ſhewed the part of a Friend for David, 1 Sam. 19. 4. how he pleads for him to Saul, when his Life was in danger at every word, for he threw Javelins at him. And do thou vindicate God and his Ways the rather, becauſe thou ſhalt have Opportunity to do this for him only in this Life; at the latter Day he will appear to defend himſelf, as Jude ſays. You glorify God amongſt his Enemies only here. He that confeſſeth me before Men, that is, here, Him (ſays Chriſt) will I acknowledg, namely then, at that Day.

9. Be affected at all things done to his Diſhonour, as if it were thine own, nay more than thou wouldſt at thine own. Thus Jonathan did for David, 1 Sam. 20. 34. 'tis ſaid, he grieved for David, becauſe his Father had done him Shame. Friends are like Lute-Strings tuned to each, which will ſtir and tremble, if one of them be ſtruck. Was God diſpleaſed at the Sins of the Iſraelites? It is added, Numb. 11. 10. That Moſes was diſpleaſed alſo. And in another place it is ſaid, that he ſtood weeping in the Tent-Door, and knew not how to help it, when God was ſo openly diſhonoured by Zimri leading Cosbi. Paul's Spirit was ſtirred (Acts 17.) when he ſaw their Idolatry. And as thou art to moan on occaſion of Sorrow, ſo to rejoice on occaſion of Joy: When Souls are converted, and the loſt Sheep and loſt Goat are found, he calls his Friends to rejoice with him, ſays the Parable, Luk. 15 5, 6. John being a Friend of the Bridgroom, rejoiced that he ſhould decreaſe, and Chriſt encreaſe, John 3. 29.

CHAP. VIII.

Obedience to God described, as it is a Service performed to him. The Character and Properties of those who are his sincere and faithful Servants.

ROM. VI. 17, 18.

But God be thanked, that ye were the Servants of Sin; but ye have obeyed from the Heart that Form of Doctrine which was delivered you.

Being then made free from Sin, ye became the Servants of Righteousness.

IN these Words (as of old in the Types of Isaac, Ismael, the one the Son of a Bondwoman, the other of a Free, Gal. 4. 24.) you have set forth unto your view the twofold Condition of those two contrary Estates, the one of Nature, the other of Grace; and that in the Example and Pattern of these lately converted Romans, to whom the Apostle wrote, that had Experience of both: Who first while in their Estate of Nature, had been Servants to Sin; but now their Condition being altered by Grace, they were made free from Sin, and became the Servants of Righteousness; where by Righteousness is meant that universal Spiritual Strictness and Exactness which the Word of God requires. For it is here opposed to Sin, and therefore to be taken as largely as that is. And it hath reference unto the word Doctrine in the former Words, as being the whole entire Matter and Substance which that Doctrine commands, and which Christ gave in Charge to his Apostles, To teach all that believe in him, to do whatsoever he commanded, Mat. 28. 20. And the Apostles coming among these Romans, and teaching them that Righteousness which is required of them, God so wrought by their Preachings, that their Hearts were framed and fashioned to the Obedience of it; like as a piece of Clay or Metal cast into a Mould is fashioned to the likeness of the Prints in that Mould, and made serviceable to some use. Thus it was with their Hearts: For God that hath the Hearts of all Men in his Hands, like a skilful Artificer, used their Doctrine, the words of weak Men, as a Mould of Righteousness (as I may call it) whereinto casting and delivering thereinto, casting and fashioning their Hearts, they had the same Image and Prints of Righteousness stamped on them, and were made as serviceable and fit Instruments to be employed therein: They became Servants of Righteousness, shewing and manifesting this in their Lives, obeying that word of Righteousness to the utmost of their Endeavours, and this from the Heart being thus changed and framed thereunto. This is the meaning of the Words, as both the Words in the Original, the Scope of the Apostle, and the best Interpreters do manifestly shew.

Observ. The Condition of God's Children is to be Servants of Righteousness, or (which is all one) Servants to God in Righteousness, or according to that strictness which he requires in his Will. For what he calls here serving of Righteousness, he calls ver. 22. serving of God; please but God's Law, and you please him. 'Tis true indeed, that the Estate of God's Children is an Estate of Liberty, inasmuch as they are made free from Sin, in regard of Bondage to it; but there are two Masters, which, as we cannot serve both, so we must serve one of them; and if we are free from the one, we become Servants to the other, Mat. 6. 24. And also, altho it be true, that (as Christ saith) Henceforth I call you not Servants, but Friends, John 15. 15. yea Brethren and Sons also in other Places; yet Christ speaks not as exempting them from the Obedience of Servants to his Command: For he tells them, they are not his Friends in the 14th ver. unless they do what he commands. And he speaks that to shew his Love to them, in that he would deal with them more graciously, than the Lords of the World do with their Servants (tho they be Men like themselves, and he is God blessed fed for ever) for he would reveal all his Secrets to them, make them his boſom Friends, as it follows there; for the Servants know not their Maſters Will (that is) are not of their Council, as you are, my Favourites, my Friends, my Privy-Counſellors. For all things that I have heard of my Father, I have made known to you. God indeed hath other Servants, that are the Servants of his ſecret Will and Righteous Judgment; and ſo the Devil is, and all wicked Men, Iſa. 44. 28. but ſuch Servants the Saints are not, but of his revealed Will, they are Servants of his Righteouſneſs. They are indeed rather Sons than Servants, he uſeth them ſo kindly. God ſerves himſelf of wicked Men, but the Saints do ſerve God in Righteouſneſs and true Holineſs. Chap. 8.

For the proof of this, why ſhould I heap up Scripture which is ſo plentiful? To be the Servants of the Lord, was the Title that all the old Patriarchs delighted in ſo much, boaſting to wear God's Livery: So David, Pſal. 116. 16. And 'tis the Title that the Apoſtles prefix in all their Epiſtles, as eſteeming it moſt honourable: Yea the Angels themſelves do make it to be the top of their Honour, Rev. 19. 10. I am thy Fellow-Servant to Jeſus Chriſt. I will omit alſo the Reaſons which may be drawn from our Creation and Regeneration. By the firſt Creation, every Creature is bound to be the Servant of its Maker: By virtue of our Regeneration, and being created again, as alſo of our Election, we are to be the Servants of Righteouſneſs. For we are his Workmanſhip, created in Chriſt Jeſus unto good Works, which God hath before ordained that we ſhould walk in them. Eph 2. 10. In which Words obſerve, firſt that God's giving us a new Frame of Heart at our Regeneration, is to that end, it is to the Obedience of Righteouſneſs, to good Works. Every Creature is created to an end, and tied, by virtue of its Creation, to that Work and Service it was created unto, and therefore never reſts till it hath attained that End: So all the Creatures ſerve, yea and rejoice to ſerve God in that Employment he hath created them in. And then 2*ly*, obſerve, That by virtue of our Election we are bound unto theſe Works, we were ordained to walk in them, and we are indeed choſen Servants. But I ſhall inſiſt more particularly on theſe following Reaſons.

1. We are obliged to God's Service, becauſe it is the End, and Fruit of our Redemption by Chriſt. Tit. 2. 14. Chriſt is ſaid to have given himſelf for us, that he might redeem us from all Iniquity, and purge us to be a peculiar People to himſelf, zealous of Good Works. I pray mark the Scope of the Words.

(1.) 'Tis ſaid, that Chriſt gave himſelf for us; that is, reſigned up himſelf, devoted himſelf in all that ever he did here upon the Earth for us: 'twas not for himſelf, ſince himſelf was given for us: he became our Servant, Phil. 2. 6, 7. He took upon him the Form of a Servant, and was obedient to Death; and in his Death, ſubmitting himſelf to obey all Righteouſneſs, he was Righteouſneſſes Servant, and in that our Servant. And why was this? It was to make us a peculiar People to himſelf, and to be peculiarly laid up for himſelf; to be ſet apart, devoted, and given up wholly unto him. And therefore in that Place of the Philippians, the Apoſtle exhorts in the 5*th ver.* that the ſame Mind ſhould be in us; that we ſhould become Servants of Righteouſneſs for him, as he hath been for us.

(2.) Obſerve in that Place of Titus, that Chriſt giving himſelf for us, redeemed us; that is, bought us, purchaſed us out of our Enemies Hands. We are redeemed Ones to God, by the Blood of Chriſt: Now the Law of Nations gives it, that the Redeemed ſhould be Servants to the Laws of the Redeemer: You are not your own (ſays the Apoſtle, 1 Cor. 6. 20.) For ye are bought with a Price; therefore glorify God in your Bodys and in your Spirits; for you are God's by the Right of Redemption. But yet becauſe it might be thought, that tho God's Children are thus redeemed and bought; all the Queſtion is, whether they will, or do become Servants yea or no; for many out of Unthankfulneſs deny the Lord that bought them, 2 Pet. 2. But do any of his Redeemed Ones do ſo? No, they are made willing to ſerve him.

(3.) And therefore 3*ly.* obſerve out of that Place of Titus 2. 14. that they are ſaid to be redeemed, that they might be zealous of Good Works; not only willing, but earneſt, forward, zealouſly and hotly purſuing after Good Works of Righteouſneſs; and were it not ſo, he would loſe his End in redeeming us: And there-therefore God brings home this Redemption of Christ to their Hearts, how he became a Servant to Righteousness, yea to Death for them, and so frames the same Disposition in them to Christ, that was in him to us, Phil. 2. 5. And therefore the Apostle Peter (1 Pet. 1. 14, to 18.) exhorting them to be as obedient Children to God, and to walk in Holiness and Righteousness, useth this as an Argument in the 18*th ver. Knowing that you were redeemed not with corruptible things, but with the Blood of Christ*; as if he had said, if you did but truly know and believe, that Christ did this for you, and that you have a part in this Redemption, it would frame your Spirits to the like willingness of Obedience unto him; yea, if Mens Hearts did but seriously make account to have Salvation by Christ, and did seek after it truly, they would be willing to obey him in any thing.

But tho they are made willing, yet still the Question will be whether they are made able thereunto, yea or no, and so do really become his Servants, and obey him? Therefore,

4. Fourthly, Know that those whom God calls to be his Servants, he doth in some measure enable them thereunto. Every ordinary Tradesman when he takes an Apprentice, binds himself to teach him his Trade, and therefore how much more God? And therefore old Zachary (Luke 1. 74.) speaking of the Fruit of Christ's Redemption in his Redeemed, says, that it is not only to deliver them out of the Hands of their Enemies, but to grant them to serve him in Holiness and true Righteousness all their Days. To grant them, that is, to vouchsafe and give Strength and Ability thereunto: and to that end we are called by the Apostle (Eph. 2. 10.) A new Workmanship created to Good Works, which he had ordained that we should walk in them. Here I pray observe three things.

1*st.* That God creates a new frame of Heart which was not before.

2*ly.* Observe the End to which he created it, unto Good Works. The Phrase implies a giving a Power and Ability in some measure to do them: For as when God is said to create the Heavens to move, what is meant by it, but that he gives a Power to do it, Abilities and Endowments tending to that End? When an Artificer makes a Clock to strike, what is meant by it, but that he so frames it as it shall do so? When God created any thing, he bad it to be, and in that gave Powers to act.

3*ly.* Observe that God had ordained that we should walk in them; his Decree was for it long since, and he cannot be frustrated of his End.

These things being thus cleared, what use shall we make of them?

USE 1. The first Use shall be for Trial, whether we be in the Estate of Grace or no, namely by this, whether we are the Servants of Righteousness or no? Are we the Redeemed Ones, as we all profess our selves to be, when we receive the Sacrament? This Inquiry is the more necessary, because this is the usual Plea of Men, that they are the true and dear Servants of God, and do serve him Day and Night, come to his Service and to Church, and think that is enough. I will name a few Properties of a Good Servant, which I desire you to examine your Hearts by, whether they be in you or no.

1. It is a necessary thing in a Good Servant to know his Master's Will and Humour, and what will please him: and tho I confess there are unprofitable Knowers of God's Will spoken of, that do it not, and who therefore shall be beaten with many Stripes; yet necessary it is that he that doth it, should know it, and that not only for the matter, for so wicked Men do, but for the manner, so to do it as it may be pleasing to God. A Clown that goes to the Court to serve his Prince, if he do not know the Fashion of the Court, will do but untoward Service. And therefore Eph. 5. the Apostle exhorting to Holiness of Life, and walking circumspectly, or exactly in that strictness God requires, adds these Words, not as Fools but as Wise; that is, not going about good Duties as Fools and Bunglers that do they know not what; but as cunning and wise Artists that know what they do. And therefore at the 10*th* & 17*th ver.* of that Chapter he, expressing his meaning, bids them understand what the Will of the Lord is, and what was acceptable to him; and to know this aright it is requisite to know truly what a God he is, whom we have to serve; and therefore in Gen. 31. 33. the knowing of God is made as it were the groundwork of all his Service in the new Covenant. To come therefore to the plication of the Sign, all Men in their natural Eſtate having but low conceits of God, do alſo fall ſhort in their Apprehenſions of that Righteouſneſs which would pleaſe him (even as Fools out of their ſhallow conceits can never pleaſe wiſe Men) and hence they never come to be the Servants of God in true Holineſs and Righteouſneſs. For the Apoſtle (Rom. 12. 1, 2.) requires a true Work of Grace to diſcern what that good, and perfect, and acceptable Will of God is. Now by this Truth therefore it is eaſy to ſhew, that the moſt ſorts of People in the World are not the true Servants of God, becauſe they never dream of, or do follow after that true Righteouſneſs that he requires. To omit the Righteouſneſs of the Papiſts, conſiſting merely in carnal, ſenſual Pomp and Oſtentation, in their Maſs, Muſick, Croſſes, Holy-water and the like; I ſhall conſider the outward Righteouſneſs of thoſe ſorts of People who live among ourſelves. Chap. 8.

(1.) There is the Vulgar ſort of ignorant People, that think they ſerve God well enough with their good meaning, and by mumbling over their Creed and ten Commandments, and ſaying the Lord's Prayer without Underſtanding. Here is a poor blind Sacrifice indeed Alas poor People! You worſhip you know not what, for what God do you think he is, that will be thus ſerved, with ſaying even what you know not, nor underſtand aright? Your God muſt needs be a ſottiſh God, an ignorant God, a fooliſh God, that would be put off with ſuch ignorant, blind and ſottiſh Service.

(2.) There are profane Perſons, that will drink, ſwear and blaſpheme God, rail upon him and his Servants in every Tavern; and yet becauſe they come to Church, and there bow themſelves to God, think they ſerve him well enough. But I pray, conſider, what manner of God do you make of him, whom you think you may thus eaſily deceive, mock and cozen with fair Words and outward Complements? Tell me, wouldſt thou own ſuch a Servant thy ſelf for one Minute, that ſhould rail, conſpire againſt thee, and only now and then come into thy Preſence (as Gehazi did into Eliſha's) and there complement thee with good Words?

(3.) There are civil Men that live in the Boſom of the Church, and think by their juſt dealing and giving content to Men, and by carrying themſelves ſmoothly and evenly in the World, to pleaſe God. Will this Righteouſneſs thinkeſt thou carry thee to Heaven? God muſt then be ſuch an one as thy ſelf, that careth not much for his Sabbath, his Word, his Sacraments, or his Children, but will be put off with the little Morality which thou contenteſt thy ſelf with. Didſt thou never hear that God was an Holy God, and that thou oughteſt to follow after Holineſs, or thou ſhalt never ſee the Face of God with Comfort? Remember the Righteouſneſs of the Phariſees, which if thou exceedeſt not, thou ſhalt never enter into Heaven.

(4.) There is a formal Righteouſneſs in Profeſſors of Religion, who becauſe they ſide with good Men, make a Shew, perform Family-Duties, tho deadly, careleſly, perfunctorily, yet think thus to pleaſe God well enough; if they hear the Word, delight in it, ſpeak well of the Preacher, and ſay of him, that his Voice is pleaſant, Ezek. 32.33. and Ezek. 31. laſt. But alas! Bodily Exerciſe profiteth nothing, that is, fleſhly and outward Performances ſlubbered over, prevail nothing with God without true Godlineſs; Faith in Chriſt and a new Nature aims at his Glory, 'tis Godlineſs muſt do the Deed. The Hypocrite in the 50*th Pſal.* thought to pleaſe God with Multitudes of Sacrifices, which was the outward Worſhip of the Law: and theſe he offered up, tho without Faith, Zeal and Sincerity of Heart. He thought it would pleaſe God well enough, and what was the Reaſon? You have it at ver. 21. he thought God like himſelf, and what pleaſed his own carnal Fancy, he thought would pleaſe God. I ſay to theſe, that think to pleaſe God with a Half-righteouſneſs, a dead dull Righteouſneſs, as God ſays to the People, Mal. 1.6, 7, 8. A mortal Man would not be ſerved ſo, and yet they thought God would. I deſire every one to look into his own Conſcience, and let him but ask his Heart this Queſtion, whether he thinks that that meaſure and pitch of Obedience which he performs, will paſs for current in God's Acceptation at the Day of Judgment.

Book II.

2. A good Servant will be careful of his Master's Business, bear it in his Memory, and not let it slip: Some Servants when they are sent of an Errand, if they be careful to do it, they will be thinking of their Message all the way; and so it is with a Servant of Righteousness, the Duties which God hath enjoined him in his Word, he is careful of them. What says David? Psal. 119. 15, 16. I will meditate on thy Precepts, and consider thy Ways, and I will not forget thy Word. And tho other Business comes in, it shall not put that out of my Head. And therefore as God commands, he remembers the Sabbath, and hath it in his Mind all the Week to plot and contrive his Business, so as that he may attend alone on that Day.

3. A good Servant will stand for his Master's Credit, and not be ashamed of his Livery. He will stand in defence of his Master, and will not hear him wronged; and so is a good Christian, he is for Righteousness whersoever he comes, and he will take its part, turn him whither you will, and is not ashamed to make Profession to all the World, whose Servant he is. He will practise that strictness, which the World cries down so much; and therefore no wonder if he gets so many a Scoff, and Snubs, and Wry-looks for his Master's sake: And if Men break out against any of the ways of Righteousness, he'll be for the defence of it with all his Might; and if he be called to it, will spend his dearest Blood in the Quarrel. What shall we then think of those meal-mouth'd Professors, that are only for Goodness in the Company of their Fellow-Servants, but when they are in the Company of their Master's Enemies, turn their Coats, and will serve Righteousness, but so far as it may stand with the good liking of their Friends, Parents, Masters, or Neighbours; and for fear of displeasing them, cut themselves short, and will go no further, then may stand with their good liking?

But did Men know and consider, that God whom they serve, is a just God and righteous in all his Laws; How durst they content themselves with a Half-obedience, seeing the same God that gave one Precept, gave another, as James saith? No, they would have a respect to all his Commandments, if they had a respect to him, for it is universal Obedience which he requires. Again, did Men consider God to be a Holy God, and to be most delighted in such Duties, wherein we have to do with him in his Ordinances, as his Sabbaths, Word, Sacraments and Holy Meditations, they would labour to please him herein most, and would strive to be holy as he is holy. Did Men also consider him to be an Almighty God, they would come with Fear and Reverence, with Hearts broke and humbled in all their Performances. If God had delighted in Sacrifices (says David) I would have given it him, but he knew his Delight, viz. a broken Heart, such (saith he) thou wilt not despise; and this he therefore brought with him in all his Performances. If Men did but consider God was a Spirit, they would labour to worship him in Spirit and Truth, as our Saviour says, that is, with changed Hearts and renewed Spirits, and durst not bring their old Hearts with them, which they had from Adam. And if Men did also but consider him to be the Searcher of the Heart and Reins, they would in all their Performances have an eye to their inward Man, and humble themselves for their secretest Corruptions therein. And did Men consider God to be a God jealous of his Honour, they would not dare to rest in things done out of Self-love, and for by-respects, tho never so secret, but would labour to work their Hearts in all their Performances, to have an eye to God's Glory, and to deny their own Interest and Honour.

4. A good Servant is content to submit, and to be subject to his Master's Will in any thing he commands. Speak Lord (says Samuel, 1 Sam. 3. 9, 10.) for thy Servant heareth. Let God say what he will, he is his Servant, and must and will obey, and is content to hear, and willing to yield any part of that Righteousness God hath revealed in his Word: Lord, what wilt thou have me to do? says Paul, Acts 9. 6. To do, Why? he undid all that ever he had done, and took a clean contrary course to what before he had walked in. Yea, and what wilt thou have me suffer? he might have said as well, for what Imprisonments did he undergo, and all for Righteousness-sake? I count not my Life dear, says he, so I may fulfil my Ministration with Joy, here was a good Servant. We'll suppose now God calls thee to offer up thy Isaac, to cut the Throat of thy dearest Son, to part with with that Sin which before thou didſt love as thy Life, art thou willing to do this? Thou art a good Servant. Or ſuppoſe he call thee to deny thy Credit and Reputation in the World, for the deſpiſed Profeſſion of his Truth; and tho thou beeſt trampled on, ſo he may have Glory, thou careſt not, thou art a good Servant. And ſo likewiſe when he calls thee, as he doth us all in his Word, to deny thy Correſpondencies with thy former Company, in the unfruitful Works of Darkneſs, and to fall a reproving them rather, and to gather up thy ſelf from Conformity with the World in their Corruptions, and thou obeyeſt, tho againſt the liking of all thy Friends, thou art a good Servant, and ſhalt not loſe thy Reward. And thus alſo he calling thee to the Spiritual and conſtant Performance of ſuch Duties, as thou formerly didſt neglect, or ſlightly perform: As to hear the Word, and to repeat it, and ſo pray it into thy Heart, and to pour out thy Soul in daily faithful Prayer, and to deal plainly with God in confeſſing thy Sins to him in private Prayer, and to tell all, and to deal as honeſtly in confeſſing and forſaking, as thou wouldſt have God deal with thee in forgiving; and to turn thy Heart inſide outward to him: Art thou herein alſo willing and careful to obey? Thou art a good Servant. And God alſo requiring thee to ſanctify the Sabbath, and to be at more coſt than ordinary, in a ſtrict Care of Thoughts, Words and Actions, Iſa. 58. 13, 14. Art thou willing to ſubmit? Thou art a good Servant. And God alſo requiring thee in outward Converſation, not only to avoid ſuch Actions as are ſcandalous before Men, but to beware of unprofitable Speeches, of ſpending away of Time, as alſo to have an eye to the Carriage of thy Heart, watching over it continually, to ſee how it is within doors, ſearching and ferreting thy Corruptions out of their Lurking-holes: This Strictneſs God requires, and it is that great Commandment given, Prov. 4. 23. Above all keeping, keep thy Heart. Art thou careful to do this? Thou art a good Servant. I could name an Abundance more of that Spiritual Strictneſs and Righteouſneſs, but I ſhould be too long. By all the Inſtances mentioned, examine your ſelves, whether your Hearts have been brought to ſtoop and ſubmit, to be made ſubject to the Will of God: *Rev.*8.7. 2 *Cor.*10.4. Is every Thought brought into the Obedience of Chriſt? that is, is it made pliable, willing, ready and glad to yield, whatever comes of it? Doſt thou come to God, ſaying, Lord, what wilt thou have me do? O how many are there in the World, that would go for the Servants of God, whoſe Hearts yet will never yield to half of this, that never left any of their old Sins for God, nor ſet themſelves in a true earneſt Courſe to do any of theſe good Duties; nay, whoſe Hearts are ſo ſtout and proud, as they ſtand out againſt, and are at Enmity with all theſe? They cannot endure this Strictneſs; tell them of ſanctifying the Sabbath, and what a waſpiſhneſs, a peeviſhneſs, frowardneſs and perverſneſs appears in them, for they can't endure to hear of it!

5. A good Servant is he that ſets himſelf apart from all other Mens Buſineſs, yea even his own, to follow his Maſter's. We uſe to ſay of Servants, that they are not their own Men, much leſs other Mens. If I ſeek to pleaſe Men (ſays Paul) I am not the Servant of Chriſt, Gal.1.10. 1 Pet.3.4. That is, a good Servant lives no longer to the Luſts of Men, no longer ſquares his Life, ſo as to pleaſe them, by living in the ſame Luſts as they do: No, but he lives to the Will of God, 1 Pet. 3. 4. We muſt not do our own curſed Wills in any thing, we are not our own, that we ſhould live unto our ſelves, but to him that paid a Price for us. If any Man ſerve me (ſays Chriſt) let him follow me, John 12. 26. And you know what elſewhere follows upon the denying of a Man's ſelf: A Man muſt deny his own Will, his own Buſineſs, and not follow the ſtrain of his own Heart, in doing what he pleaſeth, and leaving undone the reſt. How far ſhort do Men come of this, as thoſe that will not deny themſelves in their carnal Credit, Eaſe or Sloth, for the performance of good Duties. They will ſerve Righteouſneſs, but ſo far as it may ſtand with the good liking of their Parents, Friends, Wives, Huſbands, Maſters, Neighbours, and for fear of diſpleaſing them, cut themſelves ſhort, and pluck in their Hands.

6. A good Servant, as he knows and is content to ſubmit, ſo he makes a Neceſſity too of doing his Maſter's Will; and whatſoever comes in the way, is not ſo neceſſary to him, as this. David, a tried Servant of God, ſays of himſelf, Pſal. 119.

Book II. 31. I have ſtuck to thy Teſtimonies; it is not meant only in regard of defending them, but practiſing them; he ſticks to it as a Concluſion, this muſt be done, this Sin muſt not be committed, this Duty muſt not be omitted conſtantly, whatſoever comes between: as Paul thought that a Neceſſity lay upon him to preach the Goſpel; and whenas his Friends perſuaded him not to go, becauſe of Perſecution at Jeruſalem, I count not my Life dear (ſays he) die or live, I will go. Daniel alſo is an Example without all contradiction in this Caſe; when the Decree was made, that no Petition ſhould be put up to any God but the King only, for thirty Days, Daniel would not balk a whit of his praying thrice a day, tho it ſhould coſt him his Life; he made therefore you muſt think a Caſe of Neceſſity of it, he could not live thirty Days without private Prayer. Every Man's Heart pitcheth upon ſome Cauſe as neceſſary for him to follow, and to it he ſticks, and will not be beaten off of it. Thus a covetous Man layeth this for a Concluſion, that he will be Rich ('tis the Apoſtle's own Phraſe) and an ambitious Man is for Applauſe, and a voluptuous Man is for Pleaſure, let the Commandment do what it will: What care they? There is no wicked Man but ſticks to falſe Neceſſities, and they hinder his Heart from turning. One Man is hampered with Correſpondency with Friends, another entangled in the World, and his Heart hath Intereſt in many things, and when he thinks of turning to God, he ſticks to theſe things as more neceſſary. But thoſe that are Servants to God in Righteouſneſs indeed, and in Truth, count Obedience to God the one thing neceſſary, and that in compariſon to it, it is not neceſſary to be rich or learned, &c. There is in every Man's Life, yea even in every Day, a Time that falls out, wherein a Man's deareſt Luſts will be hazarded for Righteouſneſs Service. Obſerve now in ſuch Paſſages what it is your Hearts ſtick to, as moſt neceſſary; is it either the obeying thy Luſt, or doing thy Duties? Let Men have a Calling, in which they muſt uphold many unlawful Practices, or they cannot live, what doth the Man plead? 'Tis neceſſary (ſays he) that I muſt live. When Men are caſt into Straitneſs, that either they muſt ſin, or loſe their Credit, what is the uſual Plea? 'Tis a Caſe of Neceſſity (ſay they) what would you have had me do? Our own Lives afford many of the like Inſtances to them: examine now your ſelves, what in theſe Caſes you uſually do. Do you rather lay this Concluſion, Let things be how they will, howſoever God muſt be obeyed; thy Will, O Lord! not my Will be done. Hath thy Heart ſuch an Eye to the Will and Command of God? Thou art then a good Servant, and tho thou faileſt ſometimes in a particular Action, yet ſtill thy Heart in thy Courſe is firmly ſet for the Commandment, and makes account ſo to be, whereſoever thou goeſt. Thou knoweſt what thou meaneſt to do, and all the World ſhall not beat thee from it. I confeſs a Child of God may have a great deal ado in his own Heart to deny himſelf in ſome Caſes, yet ſtill his Heart cleaves to the Commandment, and ſtill thinks that to be more neceſſary; whereas a wicked Man's Heart ſlights the Commandment in ſuch a Caſe, and thinks much it ſhould ſtand in his way, and he leaps over the biggeſt of all, if need be, for his Maſter Luſt commands.

7. Another Property in a good Servant is to expect warrant from his Maſter for what he doth, and not to go about his Buſineſs hand over head, or to do ſo much as he liſts, and leave the other undone. Thoſe that are Servants of Righteouſneſs, ſhould look into the Word, as the great Counſel, and ſhould enquire of the Lord, and of his Word. Servants uſe every Morning to come to their Maſters, and know what their Will is; and ſo ſhould we in all our Actions, that we may have warrant for them. He who in Micah 6. thought to ſerve the Lord with Will-worſhip, ſays, Wherewith ſhall I come before the Lord? Shall I offer up Rivers of Oil, or a thouſand Rams? What ſays God there to him? He hath ſhewed thee (ſaith he) O Man, what is good, and what the Lord requireth of thee in his Word. Mariners that ſail at random, often caſt their Ships away, whenas if they would ſail by Compaſs and Chart, they might ſafely arrive at the Port. That which is called in Scripture walking with God, is to do as Enoch did, who had God ever in his Preſence, had an eye to his Commands, and obſerved his Orders in every particular Caſe, directing him, This thou ſhalt not do, this thou ſhalt now do. As the Eyes of the Handmaids were upon the Miſtreſs (as David ſpeaks in the Caſe of Salvation, tion, Pſal. 123. 2.) ſo ſhould our Eyes wait on the Lord in the caſe of his Service. The Apoſtle condemns Eye-ſervice in the Servants of Men, becauſe their Maſters are not always preſent with them, and can't behold them always; but it is commendable in the Servants of God, becauſe they are always in his Preſence, and his Eyes behold whatever they do; and therefore they ſhould do all, as ſeen of him.

8. The laſt, and indeed chiefeſt Property of a good Servant (which muſt be added to all theſe) is not only to know his Maſter's Will, and to be content to ſubmit to it, but to do it effectually. You know there was one ſaid, he would go work in the Vineyard, but yet did not, Mat. 21. 30, 31. It is not enough to enter into the Profeſſion of God's Service, and to call him Maſter, and give him good words. For not every one that ſaith, Lord, Lord, but he who doth the Will of God the Father, ſhall enter into Heaven, Mat. 7. 21. For the ſame purpoſe John ſpeaks, 1 John 3. 7. Little Children, let no Man deceive you, he who doth Righteouſneſs is Righteous: And as he that doth ſin (as in John 8. 34.) is the Servant of it; ſo he that doth Righteouſneſs, that is, that makes it his Trade, conſtant Practice, and his Courſe (for the word ποιεῖν notes out an Habitual continued Practice) is the Servant of it: And herein (ſays John, 1 John 3. 10.) are the Children of God and the Devil manifeſt; he who doth not Righteouſneſs, is not of God. There be many that in their good Mood will come and profer their Service, and ſet their Hand to God's Work, but they look back again, and as thoſe in Hoſea 6. their Goodneſs is as the Morning-Cloud, and as the early Dew it goes away, like as a Miſt or Dew fallen in the Morning, and ſeems to water the Earth, but when the Sun ariſeth, it vaniſheth away. When they had heard a powerful Sermon, and had Judgments threatned, being hewed by the Prophets (as 'tis at the 5th ver.) and being wounded, pricked, terrified by the Word of his Mouth, then they would come and ſubmit themſelves, and do God a ſpurt of Service. But yet alas! their Reformation was but as the Lightning (as 'tis at the 8th ver.) that flaſheth, and is ſoon gone again. For (as 'tis at the 7th ver.) ſtill they broke their Faith, and dealt treacherouſly in God's Covenant: Thus Traitors when they are in Priſon, will do any thing till releaſed; but their traiterous Heart remaining ſtill, they are as bad as ever, when at Liberty. Theſe are not Servants, but Runaways, and God will not own them, for he can ſcarce keep them for one day together.

Nor is it enough to do Service to God conſtantly, and to abide by it, but we muſt do it throughly, having a reſpect to every Commandment: This is God's Teſtimony of David his Servant (Acts 13. 22.) That he did perform all his Will; and 'tis Paul's Prayer for the Coloſſians, that they might walk worthy of the Lord, and pleaſe him in all Things, being fruitful in all good Works, Col. 1. 10. To walk worthy of him, is ſo to walk, as God may not be aſhamed of us, but may ſay, rejoicing in us, as he did in his Servant Job (Job 1. 8.) Seeſt thou not my Servant Job, an upright Man, one that feareth God and eſcheweth Evil? We muſt endeavour to pleaſe him in all things, to obey him in one thing as well as another. A Man will not own a Servant, who doth but what he liſts, and what pleaſeth himſelf, and leaves his Maſter's chiefeſt Buſineſs undone, who inſiſts on tithing Mint and Cummin, and leaves the great things of the Law, as ſanctifying the Sabbath, and conſtant private Prayer unperformed. And we muſt be fruitful in all good Works too, that is, making trial and doing ſome of all ſorts, always abounding in the Work of the Lord. Let us look to ourſelves, for there are many (Titus 1. 16.) that profeſs they know God, and acknowledg him for their Maſter, wear his Livery, but yet in Works they deny him. When a Man in a Conſtancy acts contrary to what God wills, he denies him. For if his Courſe was but trac'd, it would be ſaid, ſurely God is none of his Maſter, he will own no ſuch Servants; and therefore in Works they deny him.

BOOK III.

Evangelical Motives to Obedience, drawn from the Obligation which God hath laid upon us, by his appointing us unto Good Works, in his Election of us, and by the Greatneſs of his Love manifeſted in the ſeveral Inſtances of it. Other Motives urged from the Conſideration, that Chriſt having by his Death conquered the Devil, and deſtroyed his Kingdom, we are by our Chriſtian Profeſſion engaged to hate him, and fight againſt him as a publick Enemy to Chriſt and us, and by all our Actions to endeavour the Ruin of his dark Kingdom of Sin. Other Motives deduced, from the Divine Preſence, and Majeſty apparent in our Holy Services and Performances: and alſo from God's Deſign in the Revelation of his Word, that we ſhould not only read and know it, but practiſe it too.

Titus III. 8.

This is a faithful ſaying, and theſe Things I will that thou affirm conſtantly, that they who have believed in God, might be careful to maintain Good Works; theſe Things are good and profitable unto Men.

CHAP. I.

A Motive to Love and Obedience, drawn from the Conſideration, that this Obedience is a Buſineſs, an Holy Employment committed to us, which we ſhould be careful to diſcharge. That the Doctrine of Free-Grace enforceth the Performance, and ſuits our Spirits to it.

MY Deſign is to conſider the Motives, which the New Teſtament affords to invite Men regenerate to Holineſs, Obedience and Fruitfulneſs in all Good Works; and to this purpoſe I have choſen this Text as the moſt eminent, which hath in its Coherence and Connexion, a Comprehenſion of many the chiefeſt things that might move us thereto included in it. The Introduction in thoſe Words, This is a faithful Saying, refers to what forewent, of which he gives that Encomium, and ſhould rather cloſe the former Verſe than begin this, as Luther and others obſerve. But becauſe the Apoſtle's Scope is to bring upon thoſe he would exhort to Good Works, Works, the weight of all ſaid in the foregoing Verſes; therefore it is fitly joyned to this in this coherence, and is as if the Apoſtle had ſaid, that which I have now ſpoken is of all Sayings or Doctrines the moſt faithful, and tends the moſt of all others to provoke them that believe it, to be careful to maintain Good Works; therefore, ſays he to Titus, affirm theſe things conſtantly. E'er I inſiſt on thoſe Motives, which this ſo faithful a Saying affords to Good Works, I am to ſpeak to four things which ſerve to open the Text. Chap. 1.

1. That the Exhortation to good Works and Obedience, follows their having believed, That they which have believed in God, &c.

(1.) Faith then is clearly founded upon no Work in us or upon us, which is the Apoſtle's Scope to prove, as appears by the 5th ver. where treating of that which is the ground of Faith for Salvation, he ſays, Not by Works of Righteouſneſs, but according to his Mercy, hath he ſaved us. What God doth to ſave us, that is the only Foundation for our Faith; and a Man therefore clearly and nakedly believes on God without conſideration of Works, That they who have believed in God, &c.

(2.) It is in vain to exhort any to Good Works, till they have firſt believed. Papiſts ſlander our Doctrine, that by crying up free Grace and Faith, we deny good Works; and upbraid us, that our Doctrine affords not any Motives thereto ſufficient; and becauſe (forſooth) we do not urge them to that end, for which they would have them, namely, to merit Heaven, therefore they reproach us, that we proceed not upon ſufficient grounds. But we do indeed proceed in the right Order, firſt we teach Men to believe on free Grace, as if there were no Works, and then to fall a doing, as if there was no Faith to be juſtified by: That they who have believed in God, may be careful to maintain good Works. Yea, we add further, we urge good Works upon a higher ground, for a better and more noble end than they can pretend to, who aſſert, that we are juſtified by them. You'l ſay, what's that? It is to glorify God. All the World muſt needs grant, that to glorify God is a higher end than to juſtify Man: John 15. 8. Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bring forth much Fruit. That is the Motive which Chriſt urgeth. Again, they ſay, we proceed not on good Ground, becauſe we do not good Works to merit by them. Ay! But we go on a better Ground, which is Love and Thankfulneſs: whereas theirs is a Motive ſuited only to Self-love. The Devil endeavoured to blemiſh Job, Job 1.9. Doth Job ſerve God for nought? And indeed Religion founded wholly on Self-love and Intereſt, would be mercenary and baſe; but to ſerve God from a Principle of Love and Gratitude, is a noble Act of Friendſhip. John 15. 14. Te are my Friends, if ye do whatever I command you. But of the others it might be ſaid, you are my Hirelings only, you only ſeek to merit by your Services, and do all to merit Heaven. When Paul (Rom. 6. 22.) exhorts to Sanctification, he gives this as a Motive, that the End is everlaſting Life; but yet this Life is a free Gift of God, not what we merit, but what he freely beſtows. That's a poor Religion, in which when Men have done all, they are Workers of Iniquity: But now if Men work only for ſelf, they are Workers of Iniquity, for ſetting up a Man's ſelf is Original Sin; and therefore if we live according to that Principle, we riſe no higher than corrupt Nature.

2. It is to be conſidered, what is the Import of that Phraſe, maintain good Works. The Words are, προϊστάσθαι καλῶν ἔργων. Beza renders it, that they excel, or go before others (namely Heathens) in good Works. The ſame Word is uſed, ver. 14. and that ſenſe of compariſon is favoured by that Expreſſion, Tit. 3. 14. Let ours alſo, &c. ſpeaking of Chriſtians, as in diſtinction from Heathens; and ſo then they that have believed (in the Text) are ſet in oppoſition to Unbelievers. It were the greateſt Diſhonour to Chriſtian Religion (which the Apoſtle boaſts of to be ſo glorious and faithful a Doctrine) if it ſhould produce leſs, or not eminently more of Good Works, than moral Principles in Heathens have done. What ſingular Thing do you? (ſays Chriſt) for theſe Things do the Heathens and Publicans, Mat. 5. 47. Τί περισσὸν, what over and above other Men, yea what, that is abundant in compariſon of them, and which they think ſuperfluous? Chriſt had uſed the Verb of the ſame Noun (ver. 20.) concerning the Phariſees, who were ſo full of Works, that they lookt to be juſtified by them.

But

Book III.

But says Christ, except your Righteousness doth περισσεύειν, overflow, exceed their Righteousness, you cannot be saved.

Another meaning is, that they should take care of Good Works, as their Business, Function, Office, which they are set over, so the Word more naturally signifies; as in 1 Thess. 5. 12. Know them that are over you (speaking of Officers) 'Tis the same Word, and doth govern a Genitive Case, as here also; so likewise the Apostle (1 Tim. 3. 5.) when he speaks of ruling ones Family well, useth the same Word to express a Man's being over it as chief Orderer, Governor and Disposer of it, as a President, which is applied to being over things, as well as Persons. Take any Office of Charge or Trust, especially such wherein one hath others under him, and it hath such a Name in the Greek and Latin Tongues, as to express the matter committed to his Charge; and so we in English express the Office in the Title of the Officer, when we call him, the Treasurer, Master of the Ordnance, or Ammunition. These Names import an Office, and a Man's having a great charge committed to his Trust to manage, and this not as a petty Under-Officer, but as in chief. And so the Word προστάσθαι in the Text, is an elegant Metaphor, and is as if he had said, Exhort them that believe in God to consider what Office and Function by so doing they have taken on them, and are hereby engaged in, even to be in chief over Good Works. And thus it imports three Things.

1. That they have all sorts of Good Works committed to them, as their Business and Employment.

2. That they have them committed to them, as the Ware, the Goods, the Treasure they deal in, to see to it that no kind of Good Work be wanting (as one when any thing is committed to his Charge, is careful of it) and which they are to improve and manage, as the most precious Treasure committed to them as a Trust by God. They are to husband it, and to have the Care of it; and therein they are in chief too, in comparison of all other Men, and are therefore to excel all others by far in Faithfulness, Care and Diligence therein. Moral Civil Heathens, and formal Christians may pretend to this, but you are in chief; you are bonorum operum præfecti, the Foremen, the Presidents of the good Work-Office; and God will require that at your hands, which he will not at theirs (as States and Princes do of their chief Officers the account of such things) and therefore as your Place is, so let your Care be to abound and excel therein. And this Interpretation, as it is more natural to the Greek Phrase, so it is more genuine to the former Words, that they be careful. That which such Places and Offices of Trust do properly require, is Care; and therefore the Apostle using this Metaphor that he might answer the Force of it, useth also the word Careful, and both together do urge with a doubled Strength, this that is required of them. And with this falls in (tho expressed here with a more emphatical Addition) that which is used as a more ordinary ground of Exhortation to Holiness so frequently in Scripture: 1 Thess. 4. 7. He hath not called us to Uncleanness, but to Holiness; you are to make Holiness your Vocation, your Calling, Trade and Business: And so in 1 Pet. 2. 21. Whereunto you are called, and every one is to walk in his Vocation. Thus Good Works are the very calling of a Christian.

3. The 3*d* Thing to be considered is the Motives, the Incentives here used, which the former part of the Words does direct us to, when he saith, This is a faithful Saying, these Things I will that thou affirm constantly, that, &c. It directs us to the Words or Sum of Doctrine afore-delivered: now that Doctrine delivered afore is the Doctrine of free Grace, as it is set out to us in the Work of Father, Son and Holy Ghost, which he had insisted on to this very end in the Verse immediately before, and in the foregoing Chapt. ver. 11, 12, 13. all which came in under the comprehension of these Things in the Text, and all which he himself here brings in (as, if you read what is afore and after, appears) to this end, to urge all sorts of Good Works upon all sorts of Believers. Now the Doctrine of Free-Grace is that, to which in an eminent manner the Apostle useth to give the Stile of a faithful Saying. Thus, 1 Tim. 1. 15. This is a faithful Saying, and worthy of all Acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the World to save Sinners, whereof I am chief. Which Doctrine he would have Ministers most frequent in, to affirm constantly, and to affirm with a special Certainty and Assurance; for so the word to affirm imports, to speak of them as things that hath the greatest reality in them, and which when so delivered and so uttered, do mightily work upon Men. And so I come to the main Doctrine intended, which shall be made good out of this Context and Epistle, viz. That the Doctrine of the free Grace in God the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, doth afford sufficient Motives and Inducements to Men, already saved by Faith through that Grace without Works, to cause them to be careful to abound (above all others) in Obedience and good Works. Chap. 1.

1. The Doctrine of free Grace, is that faithful saying here intended, as that which he sets his probatum est upon, to be effectual to this end. These Things (saith he, namely to teach) are good and profitable unto Men.

2. You have here the free Grace both of God the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, in their several Works; you have them all here.

(1.) You have the free Grace of God the Father: ver. 4. After that the Kindness and Love of God our Saviour towards Man appeared. He intends the Father of our Saviour Jesus Christ, viz. God (so in the Greek) whom he calls Saviour in distinction from Christ, ver. 6. for he (says he) namely, this God our Saviour, ver. 4. through Jesus Christ our Saviour, &c. Therefore these are two distinct Persons, and both our Saviours, the one the Father, the other the Son; and he speaks of this his Grace as an hidden Mystery, which we knew not of, being of old concealed in his Breast towards us, and therefore used the word appeared, επιφνη, broke out suddenly, unexpectedly, as Joseph's Love to his Brethren did.

(2.) There is the Grace and Love of Jesus Christ, and his Work, whom he therefore calls our Saviour; and he says no more there, because he had told us (but seven Verses afore, Chap. 2. 14.) That our Saviour Jesus Christ gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all Iniquity, and purify to himself a peculiar People zealous of good Works.

(3.) There is the Grace of God seen in the Holy Ghost, and his Work.

1. The Gift of him and his Person unto us to dwell in us, ver. 5, & 6. The Holy Ghost, whom he shed on us richly, as the word is, and 'tis indeed the richest Gift that ever was given.

2. In his Work upon us, that he regenerated and renewed us; ver. 5. By the washing of Regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Spirit.

3. In the concomitants of the Gift of him unto us, expressed first in general and comprehensive Terms, saved us, stating us into the whole of Salvation, absolutely and indefeasibly, fully and compleatly, in respect of the Right to it, and this not of Works, but according to his Mercy, mere Mercy. And then secondly, it is particularly expressed in the parts of it: 1. Justification from all Sin, and a Fulness of Righteousness, ver. 7, 8. And 2. a perfect Title to eternal Life, he then made us Heirs of eternal Life; not Children only (which is Peter's Motive) but Heirs of eternal Life according to Hope, for so the Words are to be divided from the other: Heirs of eternal Life being Relatives one to the other, these intermediate words, and according to Hope, being intended to distinguish our being made Heirs here in this Life from that hereafter. Here it is in Hope, we are Heirs according to Hope, but not according to Possession; for as the Apostle says (Rom. 8. 24.) What a Man sees (or possesseth) why doth he yet hope for it? Yet so as it is as sure as if we had it, for 'tis an Inheritance, and we are saved (ver. 5.) fully, compleatly already; and so the last Clause of this Doctrine is made good out of the Words, That to Men already saved through Faith, or of Grace without Works, the Doctrine of this Grace affords Motives to all good Works.

Now before I come to demonstrate this in each particular, I shall premise this general Proof concerning the whole of the Grace of God in all three Persons. 1 Pet. 1. 13. when he would exhort them to behave themselves as obedient Children, and to be holy in all manner of Conversation (ver. 14, 15.) to move them to this, he had said before, ver. 13. Trust perfectly in the Grace that is brought unto you in the Revelation of Jesus Christ. So do I rather read the Words, than as our Translators have rendred them. Trust, τελειως, is perfectly, not by halves, (so in the Margent) for this Grace affords a perfect ground and stay for Faith to rest upon; and then it is plain that φερομενην, which they translate, in the Grace

Book III. which is to be brought (as in the future and for time to come) may more naturally be understood, is brought, it noting what at the present is brought, and so is to be read. It was the word Hope, and the Syriack Translation together, that diverted this reading; whereas Hope is often put for Faith and Trust, both in the Old and New Testament. In the Old, Job 13. 15. that known Place, Tho he kill me, yet will I trust in him, I will hope in him. And in the New, Eph. 1. 12. That we should be to the Praise of the Glory of his Grace, who first trusted in Christ. In the Margent it is hoped, and so in the Greek. Thus then the words, 1 Pet. 1. 13. may run, Trust perfectly on the Grace, which is brought to you, or (as the Vulgar) is offered to you. And the other Phrase, rendred at the Revelation (as if it were at the Day of Judgment) is manifestly ἐν ἀποκάλυψει, in the Revelation of Jesus Christ, in whom this Grace is made known, and is termed a Revelation, in respect of the former hiddenness and secrecy of it, compared to the Manifestation of it now, God having kept it secret in the times of the Old Testament. Thus in Rom. 16. 25. the Preaching of Christ is called the Revelation of the Mystery, which was kept secret since the World began. And at this Peter hath as evident a Name in using this Word here, having (in the Words before, ver. 12, 13.) said, that it was kept hid from those of the Old Testament, yea the Angels, who desired to pry into it; but is brought to you, even home to your Doors, in the Revelation of Christ, namely, through the Gospel. Now having thus restored this Scripture in 1 Pet. 1. 13. to its right meaning; that which I produce it for and apply it unto, is, that the trusting perfectly in this Grace should make us obedient, yea and the more perfectly we trust, the more we shall be obedient; and you can never trust enough or too much upon it, and upon it alone, whilst (as it follows) you are obedient Children, or as the Children of Obedience, made up of nothing else, you carry your selves towards this Grace. For why should the Apostle upon this Connexion and Coherence mention their relation of Children, when he would have the Grace of God to move them, but because there is the sweetest Connexion and Comprehension of these two in the Heart? for no Man rationally is moved to any thing, which he hath not a Principle within him suted to, and which answers that Motive, and which is to be the Life and Soul of it. If a Man be a Slave, one of a mere servile Spirit, this Grace speaks not Reason to him; for that is practical Reason to every one, that sutes his Spirit. Now one under the Law (as the Apostle oppoeth it to Grace, Rom. 6.) can find no Reason, no Strength, no Efficacy in such Cords of Love and free Grace, no more than a Beast doth in Principles of common Reason; but if one be a Child, and have the Spirit of a Child, and is under Grace (as the Apostle speaks) then this Grace, that is his Soveraign, teacheth him this Obedience, and he obeys it naturally; for he is a meet Scholar and Disciple to be taught this Lesson. And this another parallel Place in this Epistle to Titus confirmeth, Chap. 2. 11, 12. The Grace of God that brings Salvation hath appeared. Which is all one with what Peter had said, 1 Pet. 1. 13. Which is brought to you in the Revelation of Christ. And because that this Grace, that is in God himself is the Subject of the Gospel, therefore that Doctrine of it is called Grace; as likewise because withal it is the Object of our Faith, it is called Faith, Teaching us, παιδεύουσα, teaching and instructing us, as Children are taught by their Instructors and Tutors. Now therefore as in the Old Testament, they were under the Law as their School-master, as their Tutor and Governor (I put two or three of the Phrases together used by the Apostle, Rom. 6. Gal. 3.) so being under Grace, their Spirits are taught and disciplined by it, formed and framed to the Principles thereof, and the Lessons it reads, which do all teach denying of Ungodliness, and Subjection to all Dispositions and Duties to God, as he is holy and gracious, which may make him perfect to all and every good Work of all sorts; which he owes to himself in Temperance, to live soberly, to his Neighbour in Justice, to live righteously, and to God in living Godly. That is, it teacheth perfect Holiness to all we owe any kind of Duty unto; for all we do, or can be supposed to owe, are either what is due to God, our Neighbour, or our selves: and it teacheth (as for the Motive or Incentive thereto) all these in one Lesson, the Grace of God appearing to the Heart, and being made manifest to a Man's Soul.

CHAP. II.

That God's Love in Electing us is a great Motive to all Acts of Love and Obedience: That in this his Election of us he hath ordained and appointed us to Love and good Works.

I Come now particularly to demonstrate that the Grace and Love of God, manifested in our Salvation, engageth us to Holiness, Obedience, and Service.

The proper Work of God the Father is Election, and his Grace shines most eminently there. Thus in the mention of all three Persons, and in the ascribing the proper Work to each, the Apostle (1 Pet. 1. 2.) attributes Election to the Father. Now therein I consider two things: 1. The Act it self. 2. The Love, the Greatness of the Grace and Love shewn in it, and how strongly by both we are obliged to Holiness and Obedience.

1. That God should choose and single, and design thee forth to this Prefecture, to this Office of Care over good Works, engageth to all Diligence and Faithfulness: The Apostle judgeth it but reasonable, and upon that ground urgeth Timothy to give himself wholly up to that Office the great God had chose and designed him unto; and he urgeth his Engagement to do so by what Obligation is found amongst Men: 2 Tim. 2. 4. No Man that warreth entangleth himself with the Affairs of this Life; but gives over all other Callings whatever (as the Law of a Souldier then was) that he may please him who hath chosen him to be a Souldier. Paul when he was chosen to the greatest Service that ever Man underwent but Christ, was told by Ananias, Acts 22. 14. The Lord God of our Fathers (that chose them) hath chosen thee, that thou shouldst know his Will, &c. and hear the Word of his Mouth; that is, obey him: And the sense of this fired Paul's Heart. And Christ also (Acts 9. 15.) calls him a chosen Vessel; to what end? To carry my Name; that is, to bear my Name about the whole World, and unto all Ages after, in Holiness of Life, and Purity of Doctrine; a Vessel singled out to do it, purged and made meet for his Master's Use, prepared to every good Work; God having known, owned, and set set his Seal upon him for his own by Election, as Paul speaks, 2 Tim. 2. 19. alluding to that in Isaiah; Be ye pure; ye that bear the Vessels of the Lord touch no unclean thing, Isa. 52. 11. much more the Vessels themselves chosen to bear his Name, ought not to do so. It was a great and effectual Argument to Cyrus (tho an Heathen Prince) to perswade him to give Leave and Commission to the Jews to build the Temple, even this, that God had so many Years before designed him by Name, that God had said (in Isaiah's time) of Cyrus, he is my Shepherd, that shall perform all my Pleasure, Isa. 44. 28. This thus written of him long before he was born, and this coming to his Knowledg, he was moved and effectually moved hereby to perform it: Ezra 1. 2. Thus saith Cyrus King of Persia, The Lord hath charged me to build an House at Jerusalem which is in Judea: How much more should it move thee that hast found, or hast good hope of (or thou hast hope of nothing) that God hath writ down thy Name in his Book from all Eternity, as a chosen Vessel, that should know and perform his Will? Paul in like manner strengthens this Charge to Timothy with those Prophecies that had been given forth of him at his Ordination, when he had Hands laid on him by the Appointment of the Spirit of Prophecy: 1 Tim. 1. 18. This Charge I commit unto thee, Son Timothy, according to the Prophecies which went before on thee, that thou by them mightest war the good Warfare. By them, that is, to be stirred up the more by them, because it was thus foretold of thee; much more should we be stirred up to our Holy Duty, when from everlasting God hath chosen us hereunto. Now (Eph. 1.) Paul expresly tells us, that God hath chosen us before the Foundation of the World, that we should be holy and blameless before him in Love.

2. Holy Obedience being found to be the main thing pitcht upon by God in those Decrees of his, as the principal end under his own Glory unto which he designed us, we should be the more excited to it. The first and primary, yet so in Book III. that place the Apoſtle makes it; for the Apoſtle's Scope is (ver. 3.) to enumerate the Bleſſings, and the Acts of bleſſing, with the proper Deſignments of them as we are bleſſed with them in Chriſt, and to ſet them in their Order. He begins with Election; ver. 4. According as he hath choſen us in him before the Foundation of the World: And withal, lays forth the proper principal Deſignment of Election, as the firſt Act of all other towards us; and the firſt and principal is Holineſs, to be holy and unblameable before him in Love. So that as the Act of Election is diſtinguiſh'd from Predeſtination, and is the firſt of the two; ſo the primary and firſt Aim God in that firſt Act of Election had, was Holineſs, as eſſential to the Perſon who was to be in Chriſt; and then Adoption, or Sonſhip, or Right to eternal Life and Glory (which is the Act of Predeſtination, as 'tis diſtinguiſh'd from Election) is but as an outward Privilege or Dignity ſuperadded. When God chooſeth a Man, he chooſeth him for himſelf (Pſal. 4. 3.) for himſelf to converſe with, to communicate himſelf unto him as a Friend, a Companion, and his Delight. Now it is Holineſs that makes us fit to live with the Holy God for ever, ſince without it we cannot ſee him (Heb. 12.) which is God's main Aim, and more than our being his Children. As one muſt be ſuppoſed a Man, one of Mankind, having a Soul reaſonable, e'er we can ſuppoſe him capable of Adoption, or to be another Man's Heir. As therefore it was the main firſt Deſign in God's Eye before the Conſideration of our Happineſs, let it be ſo in ours. It is not only the means through which God hath choſen us to Salvation: 2 Theſſ. 2. 13, 14. Who hath choſen you through Sanctification, &c. So Sufferings are alſo ſaid to be the Means; but this is the End alſo, and that more than our Glory and Happineſs; and therefore Holineſs for ever remains, and Love (1 Cor. 13.) and we are choſen to be holy before him in Love. This Portion has made me underſtand the reaſon of that Order, and placing of thoſe Benefits and Fruits of Election; namely, why Election to Sanctification is put firſt, and ſo ſprinkling of Chriſt's Blood put after it, yea after Obedience: 1 Pet. 1. 2. Elect according to the Foreknowledg of God the Father, through Sanctification of the Spirit, unto Obedience and Sprinkling of the Blood of Jeſus Chriſt. It is not to ſhew that Sanctification; Obedience ſhould go before the ſprinkling of the Blood of Chriſt upon us, which is our Sanctification; but his ſpeaking of Election ſheweth (as Paul alſo doth) what was the moſt eminent and principal Deſignment and End whereto we were elected, even Sanctification unto Obedience. Election was unto Holineſs immediately and primarily, and was firſt and chiefly intended, (I do not ſay it is greater in the worth of the thing, ſo Chriſt's Blood is of infinite value) as that which God ultimately aimed to bring us unto: And tho Chriſt's Blood is of infinite more value, yet this is more than the ſprinkling of that Blood on us, for it remains for ever in Heaven, when we need no more ſprinkling of that Blood.

3. To make this Obligation laid on us by Election the ſtronger, let us conſider that as God hath choſen us unto Holineſs, and unto good Works, ſo it is ſaid reciprocally, that he hath ordained good Works for us. Thus the Scripture, that it might inform us, turns it both ways, that as he ordained us to good Works, ſo he ordained good Works for us to walk in: even as when Election to Glory is ſpoken of, to ſhew the Certainty, and God's Love in it; the Scripture doth not only ſay, we are ordained and prepared to Glory (as in Rom. 9. 23. and elſewhere) but that this Glory is prepared for us; Come and inherit the Kingdom prepared for you, ſays Chriſt: And ſo ſays the Apoſtle (1 Cor. 2.) Eye hath not ſeen the things prepared for them that love him, ſuted aforehand to make them happy. The ſame we find of good Works, that a choſen Veſſel is ſaid to be prepared for every good Work, as you heard out of Timothy. And ſo in Epheſ. 2. 10. good Works are ſaid to be prepared for us to walk in; not ordained only by way of Precept, for ſo they are ordained to wicked Men; but by Decree and Predeſtination, ſet out as a Man's Work and Way; whence that Phraſe of Solomon is, What thy Hand finds to do, do with all thy Might. A Godly Man's Work (as Chriſt's was) is given him; and the Apoſtle ſpeaks it to ſhew what Ordination good Works have in our Salvation, yet ſo as they might not derogate from Free Grace, for by Grace we are ſaved without Works. God that made us new Creatures, and ſuted us to good Works, had prepared and ordained all ſorts of good Works, to which this new Creature was fitted: As when he made Man, he made Paradise for him to walk in, and set out his way beforehand. Thus God hath chose out Work for us, and (as Christ says, Joh. 15. 16.) hath ordained us to bring forth Fruit, and that our Fruit should remain; for both are of eternal Purpose. Chap. 3.

4. The Consideration that he hath chosen you, not others, how doth it call for Holiness? 1 Pet. 2. 8, 9. Christ (says he) is a Stone of stumbling to the Disobedient, whereunto also they were appointed; that is, with that kind of Appointment, which is to permit them to act as Creatures, and to shew themselves such. He needed not have added that (for he brings it in with an Also, or over and above) but to that end, to move them the more to Obedience: Now then to move them he adds, But you are a chosen Generation, that you should shew forth the Praises of him that called you (which follows:) So that he chose you (as in the former Words;) and this is spoken as in manifest opposition unto appointing others to Disobedience: The like you have, 2 Thess. 2. 13, 14.

CHAP. III.

That the great Love of God in Electing of us, should be a strong Motive and Incentive to Love and good Works.

I Come now to the Love shewn in these Acts, and shall demonstrate that all the Mercies and other Graces or Love that are to be found in Election should move us to Obedience: Rom. 12. 1. I beseech you therefore Brethren by the Mercies of God, that you present your Bodies a living Sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable Service. It is a Transition from Doctrinal Points to Practical Duties, and the Illative therefore sends us to Justification, Sanctification (handled in Chap. 3, 4, 5, 6.) but it especially sends us to Election, and the Mercies in the Bowels of it, of which he had treated in three Chapters immediately before. This Love of God bestowed on us, in and at Election, the Scripture makes use of a double way to work Holiness and Obedience in us.

1. By way of Imitation, it some way or other teacheth all sorts of Graces, and is the lively Pattern of them to us.

2. By way of Incentive or Motive: So as in such things wherein it doth not so fully serve as a Pattern to be imitated (as in all it cannot) yet in those it serves as Motives and Inflamers thereunto.

(1.) By way of Imitation. God's Love in electing us is propounded as a Motive to Obedience: Eph. 5. 1. Be ye therefore Followers of God as dear Children, and walk in Love. He speaks it of God's Love as distinct from Christ's, for of that he speaks as a further Motive in the next Words. I confess he speaks it upon occasion of God's Love in Justification there, that we should imitate it in forgiving others, as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven us, Eph. 4. 32. Yet the Force of the Argument therein holds as strong, yea more strong, in all Considerations about his Eternal Love, which was the Original, the Spring, the Fountain, the Cause of Justification, and all else; yea out of which he then justified, adopted, bestowed all Blessings upon us in Christ. And as the Vertues in a Sovereign Water are stronger in the Spring than in the Streams, so is this Love in God's Heart; and tho it be applied only to Love to Brethren, yet it extends to all Obedience, the Fountain whereof is Love to God; and the Terms he expresseth himself in this are Generals, which will reach to all in his Love, and to all Compliance therewith in us unto all Commands. For when we are exhorted to be Followers of God, it is a general that comes in upon occasion of that particular Act of Love shewn in Forgiveness; as often general Rules, and Reasons, and Promises are brought in upon occasion of particular Instances, to confirm and enforce them. Then when it follows, Walk in Love: What, doth he mean it in this one Act of it, of Forgiveness? (which is a going forth of Love;) No, but in all the Duties of Love besides. And tho the Apostle instances in this, as a more broad and conspicuous way of God's Love

Book III. in forgiving us, and thereupon more particularly exhorts us to chalk out the like Path to our ſelves to walk in, of forgiving others; Yet this is but one of thoſe Walks his Love delights in. He hath dwelt in Love (as John ſpeaks) walkt in Love within his own grounds, within himſelf, (which I ſpeak as warranted by that Phraſe, which he purpoſed in himſelf to us, Eph. 1. 9.) with infinite Delight from all Eternity; and in all theſe (all ſo far as he hath made known to us, the head ways of them) we ſhould be Followers of him, as well as in Forgiveneſs, or the Duties of Love to Brethren. Thus we ſhould walk in Love, and out of Love to him in all thoſe ways which he hath chalked out for us; and this we ſhould do to ſhew our Love unto him by it. This word, be ye Followers of God (that is, as one that follows another in the ſame Steps) is too dull, too flat a Word, falls ſhort of what the Apoſtle ſeems to intend; and therefore is to be taken in, correſponding with thoſe that follow, And walk in Love, that is, in the ſame Steps. In the Original it is, Be ye Imitators, μιμηταὶ. This farther Senſe is alſo aimed at, that we ſhould be like unto God in his Love, as Children are to their Parents in Feature and Diſpoſition; let our Love anſwer to his, as Limb to Limb in a Parent: Therefore he adds theſe Words, as Children, that reſemble the Father, yea often the Grandfather moſt. And everlaſting Love is as the Grandfather that begat, and brings forth all theſe Effects and Fruits of Love, Adoption, Forgiveneſs, &c. Yet ſtill this word μιμηταὶ would ſpeak ſomething more, viz. we ſhould act over to the Life the Love of God, as Actors do Stories; we ſhould not only have in our Hearts the Image of it, but we ſhould act to the Life the Poſtures, the Paſſions, the Geſtures, the Looks and the Caſts of that Love of God: And we ſhould have all theſe continually (as far as may be) before our Eyes, to imitate them in our ways.

(2.) We ſhould ſet up God's Love, not as a Pattern only to us, but as an Incentive to inflame us; and therefore he adds theſe Words, as dear Children. The Words are in the Original, ὡς τέκνα ἀγαπητὰ. 1. As Children to imitate, to act over his Love in all your walkings towards himſelf and others. And 2. As beloved Children, to take in his peculiar Love to you, to invigorate and act you. Children are to imitate their Parents, as they are their Parents and their Superiors; and ſo Chriſt urgeth it (Mat. 5. 48.) Be ye perfect as your Heavenly Father is perfect. And ſo the Apoſtle urgeth it (1 Pet. 1. 14.) as obedient Children, faſhion not your ſelves, that is, imitate not your former Luſts, μὴ συσχηματιζόμενοι; that is, be not caſt into the Garb, the mode of them, frame not your ſelves to them; but be holy as I am holy, imitate me your Father. But the Apoſtle (in Eph. 5. 1.) was enforcing a point of Love. 3. And therefore he adds, as beloved Children, as Darlings, whom God loved and delighted to love; this is put in to make God's Love the Enkindler and Incentive of this Divine Fire in us. Conſider but how beloved, how dear you are, and have been to him; conſider the Endearments of his Love in all the Singularities and eminent Properties of it: What Love was it you were wrapt in when brought forth? Everlaſting Love. What Womb of Love was it in which you as Children were firſt conceived? It was in everlaſting Love. By what Love were you choſen and predeſtinated to the Adoption of Sons, before the World was? Eph. 1. 5. It was that Love which made you Children; neither can any come to know how dear you are to God till they come to diſcover, and drink of this Love, the Fountain, the Original of all. And indeed it is with reſpect to having been beloved with this Love, that they are called Beloved Children. As alſo (in 2 Theſſ. 2. 13.) he gives them this Title and Compellation on purpoſe, in reference to Election, We are bound to give Thanks always unto God for you, Brethren, and beloved of the Lord, becauſe God hath choſen you from the Beginning. He contents not himſelf to have called them Brethren, but on purpoſe adds the other word, Beloved, becauſe it was in Election they were firſt and chiefly beloved. And (in Col. 3. 12.) Paul joins both, and makes them an Argument to all Graces of every kind: As the Elect of God (ſays he) holy and beloved, put on Bowels of Mercy, Kindneſs, Humbleneſs of Mind, Meekneſs, Long-ſuffering. It is eaſy to conceive how Bowels of Mercy and Kindneſs are required of us as Reſemblances of that Love which was accompanied with ſuch infinite Bowels, and Heroick Kindneſs in God towards us; for out of theſe

God chose you at first. It is also to be considered how much Kindness, Meekness, Riches of Long-suffering, and Forbearance, and Forgiveness, God ordained in Election to shew forth toward you. The Fountain of them all was electing Love, and in electing Love were found all these, or it designed to shew forth these: only how humbleness of Mind was shewn therein as a Pattern to us, may be a doubt; but it may be easily resolved, by what I have said on Eph. 2. where I shewed the Greatness of God's Love, in this respect, that it was an humbling Condescension in him the great God to look down on Creatures. Psal. 113. 6. Who humbleth himself to behold the Things that are in Heaven and in the Earth. If to look on them is condescending Goodness, much more to love them, and ordain them Sons, and Friends, and Companions with himself. And it was yet a greater Condescension, to ordain his eternal Son to dwell in humane Nature, and that Nature to become one Person with him, which was the fundamental Decree of all, for we are chosen in Christ as in our Head, Eph. 1. 3. Look therefore, whatever Singularities, Particularities there are of Graces of any kind to be found in this Love, they should either be Patterns or Motives unto us, to answer them in Love and Obedience: Eph. 5. 1. As dear or beloved Children, be Imitators of God. Take the Words as a Motive, and judg within your selves how forcible it is to any Heart possessed with Childlike Love to God. Suppose God from Heaven should say, what my Child (as that Mother to Solomon) my beloved Child, yea as thou art my beloved Child do this or that, and therein obey me, how would this move any of you? Set this before every Command, and think, that God speaks thus to thee, As thou art my dear Child, thou shalt have no other Gods; thou shalt not commit Adultery, Murder, &c.

In Vol. 1. of his Works.

Let us now run over all those special Properties and Singularities by which this Love is commended to us, and see how they all enforce and perswade to Holiness and Obedience, and the giving of all Love to God.

1st. Let us view the Priority of this Love, that he loved us first, not we him. Upon this ground Christ first, then the Apostle John, enforceth all Obedience to all Commands.

First, Christ doth it, Joh. 15. 16. When Christ would move his Apostles to that great and hazardous Work of preaching the Gospel over all the World, when he was gone (as he moved Peter in those Words, Lovest thou me?) he urgeth this, that he had loved them first, You have not chosen me (says he) but I have chosen you. He mentions Election to them, and therein this endearing Consideration that he had first chosen them, not they him; and then subjoins that he had ordained them to go all the World over, and bring forth Fruit, and that their Fruit should remain. It is as if he had thus spoke to them, You did not first provoke me to set my Heart on you, and single you out; but I freely chose and loved you. Then John (1 John 4.) insists on the same Argument, which he expresseth more takingly thus, not that we loved God, but that he loved us (ver. 10.) and loved us first (ver. 19.) and we loved not him at all for a long while after his Love and Pity shewn to us. All the Commandments are by Christ reduced to two Heads: Mat. 22. 37, &c. Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy Heart, and with all thy Soul, and with all thy Mind: this is the first and great Commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy Neighbour as thy self: on these two Commandments hang all the Law and the Prophets. Now John's Scope also (in 1 John 4.) is to exhort to both, and to move to both. He useth this as the Argument twice in that Chapter: 1. In vers. 10, 11. Then 2. In ver. 19, 20, 21. At the 10*th ver.* he heightens the Love of God, herein is Love, that is, herein is Love indeed; and he doth this on purpose to draw from us Obedience to that Command, and Love to our Brethren. Ver. 11. Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another. Therein are comprehended all the Duties of the second Table: Rom. 13. 8, 9. He that loveth another hath fulfilled the Law: for this, thou shalt not commit adultery, thou shalt not kill, thou shalt not steal, thou shalt not bear false Witness, thou shalt not covet; and if there be any other Commandment, it is briefly comprehended in this, Thou shalt love thy Neighbour as thy self. Then again says John, 1 Joh. 4. 19. We love him (so ours render it) or let us love him (so others render it, and indeed the word ἀγαπῶμεν, is indifferent to both; Book III. and favours both alike) becauſe he loved us firſt, and from thence (ver. 20, 21.) he infers Love to our Brethren, and that as a Commandment from that God that ſo loved us: ver. 21. This Commandment have we from him, that he who loveth God love his Brother alſo. So that Love to God the Sum of the firſt Table, is enjoined, or rather ſweetly flows from what the Law of Love requires, and we are bound to requite Love with Love to one that loved us firſt, and ſo highly loved us too, ver. 11. The other Argument is fetched from a ſuperadded Commandment (1 John 4. 21.) from him that thus loved us; and it is enforced from what Chriſt had ſaid (John 14.) If ye love me keep my Commandments. Now in the midſt between both theſe Arguments, he inſerts this Axiom (1 John 4. 17.) As he is, ſo are we in this World. This belongeth to the Argument, why we ſhould imitate God. The coherence carries it to God in his Love, eſpecially that Love before all Worlds, which he had treated of ſo largely before; ver. 16. We have known the Love that God hath to us, God is Love, &c. And herein is Love, that he loved us firſt, &c. If then, as he is, ſo are we in this World, we ſhall have Boldneſs at the latter Day, becauſe we behave our ſelves ſo as to be like him. Becauſe as he is, that is, as he is in loving us firſt, and giving his Son for us, ſuch we are in this World in loving others in imitation of him; or as he is, we are in this World, that is, we being Imitators of that everlaſting Love of his, we ſhall have Boldneſs at the Day of Judgment; it being impoſſible God ſhould diſapprove of thoſe that are like him, in that which is moſt dear to him, viz. his Love and the eternal Acts of it. Thus Piſcator and others interpret it.

2*ly.* Conſider the Peculiarity of his Love, that he hath loved you above all others, in which there is another eminency of Love: Deut. 10. 14, 15. Behold the Heaven, and the Heaven of Heavens is the Lord's thy God, the Earth alſo, with all that is therein. Only the Lord had a Delight in thy Fathers to love them, and he choſe their Seed after them, even you above all People, as it is this Day. He here ſets out the ſpecial Love of God in chuſing them.

(1) He had choice enough, Heaven and Earth lay all before him, and all things in both, and he could have made every Star, every Pebble ſo many Sons to Abraham. As in the Maſs or Chaos, the matter of all Creatures, which lay alike before his Power, out of the ſame matter he made the dull Earth, he might have made the vigorous and ſhining Sun; ſo he had all Ceeatures in Heaven and Earth, out of which to have made Sons to Abraham (as John the Baptiſt ſpeaks) but he choſe them out of Mankind, the Seed of Mankind.

(2) He had before him all People of Mankind, made all of one Blood (Acts 17.) and out of all he choſe thy Fathers and their Seed, out of all (as choice implies) yea above all.

(3.) And 3*ly.* He made this choice, not out of a bare Act of Will, as one reſolved to chuſe ſome Perſons, with a Delight to love them, and delighting to ſhew this peculiar Love to them.

(4.) And 4*thly* That Love and Delight was all, and the alone Cauſe thereto him moving, as that word Only (in Deut. 10. 14, 15.) implies. Only the Lord had a Delight in thy Fathers, &c. Now to what end is all this electing Love thus ſet forth to us, but to the point I have in hand? Deut. 10. 12. And now Iſrael, what doth the Lord thy God require of thee, but to fear the Lord thy God, to walk in all his Ways, and to love him, and to ſerve the Lord thy God with all thy Heart, and with all thy Soul, to keep the Commandments of the Lord and his Statutes, which I command thee this Day for thy Good? This Lord, the God of Gods, Lord of Lords, a great God (ver. 17.) who is withal ſo good, ſo full of Love, of all Love to thee, what doth this God require of thee? (the Hebrew ſignifies alſo to ask, requeſt, entreat; ſo 1 Sam. 1. 17, 20, 27. in the Petition which Hannah put up to God, the ſame Word is uſed) What doth this glorious God after all this Love manifeſted, fall a petitioning thee for? (as tho God did beſeech, as the Apoſtle hath it, 2 Cor. 5. 20.) What doth he ask again of thee, as in anſwer to all this Love? Nothing but thy Love and thy Obedience, which by the Law of Juſtice is a Debt from Equals, namely to requite Love with Love, Rom. 12. 8. He requires nothing but Love, which (as Chriſt ſays) Sinners, the worſt of Sinners, the moſt notorious Sinners in the World pay mutually; Publicans and Sinners love thoſe that love them, Mat. 5. Luke 6. 32.

CHAP.

CHAP. IV.

Another Motive to Obedience deduced from God's great Love, in giving his Son to die for us. That he requires nothing in requital of so inestimable a Gift, but that we should love, obey and serve him. Other Considerations of God's Love urged, as Motives to Obedience; that he delights in loving us, and therefore it should be our Delight to love and obey him. The Eternity and Immutability of his Love, urged as Motives to faithful and constant Obedience.

THE greatness and immenseness of God's Love in electing us was such, that he designed to shew it by a Gift answerable, and that was the Gift of his Son to Death, to be a Propitiation for our Sins; and for this let us return again to that Scripture in 1 John 4. 10. Herein is Love, not that we loved God, but God loved us, and sent his Son to be the Propitiation for our Sins. And then it follows, Beloved, if God so loved us, &c. he puts a [SO] upon it, as leaving it to the Holy Ghost to heighten this [SO] by him unutterable. Our Saviour had done the like: John 3. 16. God so loved the World, that he gave his only begotten Son. A Gift so great, that he hath nothing now left he values; He that spared not his Son, how shall he not with him give us all things? Rom. 8. 32. Now then consider O Man, what doth this God, that designed to give so great a Gift merely to commend his Love, require of thee again? What! Thousands of Rams, ten thousand Rivers of Oil, thy first-born in requital of his first-born? He twice renounceth all or any of these, both in Psal. 50. & Micah 6. What is it the Lord asks of thee? (says Moses also, Deut. 10. 12.) it is all a diminutive: alas! as good as nothing to him: It is but thy Love, thy Service, which when thou hast returned to him to the utmost thou art able, fall down on thy Knees, and say, thou art an unprofitable Servant. All of it is that which he hath no need of, of which he might say as of Sacrifice, If I had need thereof, would I ask thee? It is that God who asks thy Service, who might command it, and 'tis a Favour that he gives thee leave to love and serve him. And 'tis but that Love and Service, which the worth and excellency of this God, if known by thee (tho his Love to thee were as yet unknown) would draw it from thee, and move thee to fear him that is so great (ver. 17.) to love him that is so good and loving (ver. 15, 16.) and to serve him, namely in outward Obedience, by walking in his Ways, who commands all he doth command for thy good (ver. 14.) and so thou serveſt, provideſt for thy self most, in serving him. And as for that which he desires thee to part with for him, what is it but what is merely an Hindrance to this Love and Service of him according to his Greatness and Excellency? and to part with it is for thine own good: Circumcise therefore the Foreskin of your Hearts, and be no more stiff-necked, Deut. 10. 16. It is an Inference from what he had said before. Now what is that Foreskin that makes thee thus stiff-necked? It is inordinate Self-love: Self-love is the Sum of the Law of Sin, as Love to God is the Sum of the Laws of God. The Laws of Sin tell thee, Thou shalt not fear God, nor worship him; thou shalt take his Name in vain, thou shalt kill, steal, or commit Adultery, &c. And if there be any other Commandment of Sin, it is briefly comprehended in this Saying engrafted so deep in all Mens Hearts, Thou shalt love thy self above all Things whatsoever. But the Law of God commands Love to God, and Obedience to him springing thence, and requiring the whole Soul and Strength (as Christ speaks) to love God above ones self, as by the proportion Christ sets is evident, Thou shalt love thy Neighbour as thy self, therefore God above thy self. Hence this Self called Flesh, which opposeth true Love to God, is Emnity with God and his Law (Rom. 8.) and must be therefore cut off and cast away, e'er we can love him, and be subject to his Law, as the Apostle there speaks. And to this purpose, the same Moses preaching the Gospel in another Place, speaks, Deut. 30. 6. The Lord will circumcise

Book III. the Heart, to love thy God with all thy Heart, and all thy Soul. What is it, that this great God that hath out of his Love given a Gift so great, and so to dear to him, require of thee? not any part of what is truly and substantially Love unto thy self; he permits the whole of it in Substance still to remain, and requires only the superfluity of it. The Hebrew Word used for the Foreskin, which is to be cut off, signifies a superfluity, as that part of the Skin which the Jews in Circumsition did cut off is. And therefore Ainsworth emphatically translates it so here, and usually elsewhere, circumcise the superfluous Foreskin; and by the choice of that superfluous Skin to be the Subject of Circumcision, was fitly signified how little and small a matter it is that God requires of Self-denial in us. What doth the Lord require of thee? Not to cut off self entirely, but only the inordinacy, the excrescency; and so some have understood that of James 1. 20. Lay aside all superfluity of Naughtiness. God requires no more than that thou shouldst part with what will hinder thy loving him above thy self: and the word in its Signification suteth this also, for it signifies a Stoppage that hindreth, and so is to be cut off, as that which letteth thee in thy loving and obeying him. And upon the whole to conclude, consider that in Deut. 10. 12, 13. it is expressed, that it is for thy good, that thou art to serve the Lord with all thy Soul, to keep the Commandments which he commands thee for thy good. These Words for thy good, are added to this thy loving and serving him; and so to bring this further home to the thing in hand, herein thy Love and Obedience unto God doth but fitly and meetly answer, as an Imitation of that his Love in Election, and the Contrivements of it, as was observed. For as God in that his loving us, had eminently and above all a respect to his own Glory (Eph. 1. 16. to the Praise of the Glory of his Grace) yet so as he did withal take in such conspicuous Affections of Love to our Persons, that he is said to have delighted to love us, and to love us most in this, that he makes himself, and his Love and Glory, our Happiness and highest End, and accordingly so contrived his Designs therein, as to hold forth both these, decreeing all for our good, as well as his own Glory. Thus in the like proportion and subordination, in imitation of this Love of his, he allows us to love our selves in loving him, and to that end hath given all his Commands for our good, as out of Moses was observed; yet so as to set him up above our selves, and make his Glory and the Praise of it, our chiefest end and greatest good. And thus Moses concludes that 10*th Chapter* of Deut. v. 21. He is thy Praise, and he is thy God.

Let us proceed on to whatever other Singularities or Rarities are to be found in this Love, and shew how we should answer them all in Love and Obedience, and that all and each should become the highest and most enflaming Motives to us. Concerning all which let me premise this general Consideration once for all, That by the same Reason that the Apostle urgeth this Circumstance in God's Love, viz. the Priority of it, that God loved us first as a Motive to Obedience to his Commands, 1 John 4. 19, 20, 21. and as Moses urged the peculiarity of this Love, Deut. 10. by the same Reason may and should any other Consideration that commends it, move us.

Therefore consider, that God in chusing thee, not only love thee, but delighted to love thee. 'Twas not barely an Act of Will, that he would chuse some, he cared not whom, as being indifferent about it; but it was an Act of Love, and not of Love only, but of good Pleasure (Eph. 1.) and of Delight too, as you heard, Deut. 10. How should the Consideration of this sweeten Obedience to thee, not only to do his Will, but to do it willingly? This Love should make not only the Commandments not grievous (1 John 5.) but a Delight. It is hard to find an Instance of this in the Hearts of the ordinary Sons of Men, only in Christ our Head we may find and have the great Example. How ready and willing did the forementioned Consideration make him to do God's Will in all things, to fulfil all Righteousness, and to make this Work his Meat and Drink? I have a Baptism to be baptized with (says he) and how do I long till it is accomplisht? And what was one Spring and Motive hereunto? It was even the Consideration that God had chosen him and delighted in him, which made him his Servant and Obedient: Isa. 42. 1. My Servant whom I uphold, my Elect in whom my Soul delighteth. And therefore he took Courage and Resolution to go thro with the Work he was cho-

ſen to. Thus it follows, He ſhall not fail nor be diſcouraged, ver. 4. The Senſe and Apprehenſion which Chriſt had, that God had written his Name as the Head, at the top of his Book of Life, and that his Name was alſo engraven deeply on his Heart, made him ſpeak thus in Heb. 10. 7. Then ſaid I, Lo I come, (in the Volume of the Book it is written of me) to do thy Will O God. But if you conſult the place this is taken out of, there is more of the Diſpoſition of his Spirit added: Pſal. 40. I delight to do thy Will O God: And in both places this it was that moved him, In the Volume of thy Book, thus it is written of me. God had predeſtinated him as Man before all Worlds, 1 Pet. 1. 20. God had delighted in him, as thus decreed before his Works of old, Prov. 8. 30. And now that his time came, to ſhew his Love to God, and Work for him, this infinitely quickned him; and therefore having run his Race and diſpatcht his Work, he ſays, Joh. 17. 4. I have glorified thee on Earth, I have finiſhed the Work which thou gaveſt me to do: And it follows, ver. 5. And now, O Father, glorify thou me with thine own ſelf, with the Glory which I had with thee before the World was: Which is interpreted by that ver. 24. The Glory thou haſt given me (and ſo ordainedſt it) before the World was, for thou lovedſt me before the Foundation of the Word. You may eaſily diſcern by the Connection of the 4*th* and 5*th* Verſes, interpreted by the 23*d*, what had ſet him on work, and what he had in his Eye, in diſpatching all his Work on Earth ſo willingly, ſo eagerly: It was God's everlaſting Love, that had deſigned to him ſo great a Glory, which therefore as ſoon as now his Work was done, he utters as that the Thoughts of which, and of his having been eternally ordained unto it, out of ſo great a Love had ſet him awork. Now then hath God rejoiced over thee from everlaſting, in his Intentions to do thee good, with his whole Heart and his whole Soul (as Jeremy ſpeaks) how ſhould this Conſideration draw out, ſuck out thy whole Heart from thee, to love and ſerve the Lord with all thy Heart, and with all thy Soul? Was his whole Soul thus delighted to love thee? (Deut. 10. 12, 15.) Was it a pure Act of good Pleaſure in him? O how ſhouldſt thou ſtrive (Col. 1. 10.) to walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleaſing, being fruitful in every good Work?

5. Conſider that this Love hath been from everlaſting, Jer. 31. 3. This Antiquity of it, that it is of ſo long continuance, of ſo long a ſtanding, ſhould have its diſtinct Influence alſo upon thee. This is therefore inſerted (Eph. 1. 3.) who hath choſen us before the Foundation of the World, to be holy before him in Love. Paul minds the Theſſalonians of it alſo, to move them to Holineſs, 2 Theſſ. 2. 13. God hath from the Beginning choſe you to Salvation, through Sanctification of the Spirit and Belief of the Truth: From the Beginning, that is from everlaſting, 1 Joh. 1. 1. The Word of Life, that was from the Beginning. This Conſideration hath much in it to move us.

(1.) When one hath had his Eyes and his Heart long upon a thing which he deſires to ſee accompliſht, how greedy of it, how delighted in it is he, when he ſees it begun to be accompliſht? As Chriſt ſitting in Heaven, and expecting till his Enemies be made his Footſtool, when he ſees any new Degree of it accompliſht, how doth it rejoice him? If God hath ſo long ſince, even from Eternity, deſigned out Holineſs for his Children, he expects earneſtly to have holy Obedience and Service from them.

(2.) Conſider, that as this hath been in his Eye ſo long, ſo how little a time it is ſince thou wert holy, or beganſt to look towards it. His Eyes and Heart were toward thee before the Foundation of the World: and it hath been half thy time perhaps before thou beganſt to look after him or his ways, or to ſet thy ſelf to be holy before him: And when thou didſt begin after ſo long time, thou didſt find thy ſelf enwrapt in the Deſigns of Eternal Love upon thee, that ordained thee to this very thing before the World was. O! how ſhould this quicken thee to haſten thy Work, and to make ſpeed as one born out of time. God loved and choſe thee from the Beginning (2 Theſſ. 2.) and had no other Thoughts nor ſtirrings of Affections, but of Love and Kindneſs to thee: But thou from thy Beginning haſt had no other but Thoughts of Provocation and Enmity againſt him, for thy Thoughts have been only evil from thy Infancy, Gen. 6. 5. As therefore when David would move God not to cut him off in the midſt of his Days, what says he? Psal. 102. 24, 25. I said, O my God, take me not away in the midst of my Days; thy Years are throughout all Generations: of old hast thou laid the Foundations of the Earth. This Speech of David I turn into an Exhortation unto thee. His Love hath been to thee before he laid the Foundations of the Earth, and throughout all Generations; thy Being and Existence was but as this Morning unto him, and it was the midst of thy Days e'er thou brokest off thy Iniquities by Repentance. Thy time of Love is short, and thou hast already shortned it; O now fall to work, and ply thee, and make, if possible, the rest of thy Life an whole Life to him. Peter had a touch of it (1 Pet. 4. 2.) yet without upbraiding; for our God is so good as he upbraideth no Man that turns to him from his former Sins. Well, what says Peter? The time past of our Life may suffice us, to have wrought the Will of the Gentiles. He says no more, yet it is enough to quicken us, yea 'tis the Scope of the Apostle to do it. The Consideration of this, with the other of God's Love, he sets together on purpose to press this Exhortation, that those that have believed should maintain good Works. He fetcheth his Rise from the third Verse, We our selves were sometimes (too long a time) Foolish, Disobedient, serving divers Lusts: And yet God loved us all that while. So ver. 4. When the Love of God appeared that had been hidden, &c. You therefore that served nothing but Sin before, should be the more diligent now in serving God, &c.

6. Consider, that this Love of God hath been constant to thee and unchangeable, ever since and all along from the Beginning, the same (2 Thess. 2. 13.) and so continues to the end, Joh. 13. 1. Yea it is such as nothing can separate from it; Rom. 8. 38, 39. I am perswaded that neither Death, nor Life, nor Angels, nor Principalities, nor Powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor Height, nor Depth, nor any other Creature, shall be able to separate us from the Love of God, which is in Jesus Christ our Lord. And this should move to Constancy and Continuance in well doing always, in which we should suffer nothing to interrupt us, nothing to separate us from it. The Apostle (in that 2 Thess. 2. from Verse 13. to the end, and Chap. 3. 5.) improves this Consideration of the Everlastingness, Unchangeableness of God's Love (for this place speaks at once to both) to move them to Stability in every good Word and Work, and to cleave fast to all the Doctrines and Commandments both by Faith and Obedience. He had spoken before how God would give up the reprobate number of Professors of Christianity to Antichristian Doctrine and Unrighteousness (in plain words) that they might be damned. But (says he v. 13.) We are bound to give Thanks to God always for you, Brethren, beloved of the Lord, because God hath from the Beginning chosen you to Salvation, through Sanctification of the Spirit and Belief of the Truth: Both these two being necessary to Salvation. 1st. It is necessary to believe the Truth as it is in Jesus. 2ly. To be sanctified, and made holy Men by it; and God from the Beginning hath chosen you to be saved through both. Therefore says he, ver. 15, 16, 17. Stand fast, and hold the Traditions which you have been taught, whether by Word or our Epistle. Now our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and God even our Father, which hath loved us, and hath given us everlasting Consolation, and good Hope through Grace, comfort your Hearts, and stablish you in every good Word and Work. It is therefore an Exhortation seconded with a Prayer for their Establishment in Faith and Holiness (ver. 16, 17.) manifestly founded upon, and deduced from what he had spoken ver. 13. now alledged, God hath from the Beginning chosen you. In ver. 16. he makes use of it as a Prayer, God even our Father, who hath loved us, and given us everlasting Consolation, stablish you in every good Word and Work. The Sum of which is, that God hath out of Love chosen us from the Beginning or Everlasting, and thereby hath given us Consolation everlasting; the Object of it being this his unchangeable Love, his Love which hath been from everlasting, and will be to everlasting. Consolation is put chiefly for the object matter, that might and doth afford everlasting Consolation, as the Doctrine of Faith is called Faith. And thus it is rather to be taken, because his Petition thereupon in the 17th Verse is, comfort your Hearts; namely, with this which is so comfortable a ground of everlasting Comfort. As also because he adds in the 16th Verse, And good Hope through Grace. He might well say so, for the matter and ground of Consolation is founded on the Pillars of Eternity, on that unchangeable Love of God, of which he ſpeaks, whoſe Love and Gifts are without Repentance. Now the things he ſuitably exhorts to and prays for, as that which is and ſhould be the Fruit and Operation of that Love in our Hearts, are two. The firſt is (ver. 15.) to ſtand faſt againſt all Oppoſition made againſt the Truth delivered, as Souldiers that keep their ground. The ſecond Exhortation is, to lay hold, ſure hold, and hold faſt with Strength, κρατεῖτε; therefore the Syriac adds Fortiter, as Judas bad them hold Chriſt; Mat. 26.40. Whom I ſhall kiſs, hold him faſt. Be you as ſtable, faſt, and immoveable in your Faith and Obedience, as God is in his Love, who hath loved you from the beginning, from everlaſting. God hath held you faſt, and none can, or ſhall pull you out of his Hands; do you hold as faſt to his Commands. The Word ſignifies alſo ſtudiouſly and carefully to obſerve, Mar. 7.3,4. and ſo it relates to Commands given for Practice and Obedience, and imports withal Conſtancy therein. And by the way, as for their Direction to know what was Truth to hold, and Duties and Ordinances to be obſerved by them, what to ſtick to, when in thoſe times Antichriſtian Dreamers ſhould come to draw them away from the Truth with all Deceivableneſs of Unrighteouſneſs, he refers to what they had been taught either by Word or by Epiſtle, ſo leaving nothing to Revelation immediate as their Rule. Now they had then the Apoſtle's teaching by Word of Mouth; we wanting that, are left to ſtick to what is written, as ſufficient for us, and as having nothing elſe to have recourſe to, and therefore we muſt not leave the Scripture, or admit any other, during all the time that Antichriſt is to deceive the World (for this is the only Direction that is given for the whole of thoſe times) and we are ſure Antichriſt is not yet out of the World. Now this ſtanding faſt in the Doctrines, and holding faſt the Obſervation of theſe Traditions given them, he further interprets to be conſtancy in well-doing: Chap. 3. 4. And we have Confidence in the Lord touching you, that you both do and will do the things which we command you; that is, will be conſtant and immutable in your Obedience, which ſtill in the Enforcement of it hath a Correſpondency with, an Aſpect upon, and an Inference from that Love of God from the Beginning. This is in his Exhortation. Then 2dly. in his Prayer, by which he further inſinuates their Duty, this Inference may yet a little further alſo appear; for he grounds his Petition upon thoſe Acts of God's eternal Love, God even our Father that loved us, and hath given us everlaſting Conſolation and good Hope through Grace, comfort your Hearts, and ſtabliſh you in every good Word and Work. And Chap. 3. 3. he interprets this eſtabliſhing to be keeping them from Evil: But the Lord is faithful, who ſhall ſtabliſh you and keep you from Evil: And he adds in ver. 4. And we have Confidence in the Lord touching you, that ye both do and will do the things which we command you; that is, will be conſtant, immoveable, uninterrupted, in the doing of them. You both do and will do, as God hath loved you and will love you evermore; ſo then to be ſtable in every good Word and Work, is to keep themſelves from evil, both for the preſent and for time to come for ever. This becomes thoſe who profeſs to hope that God hath choſen them from the Beginning, that God hath loved them with everlaſting Love, and thereby given them matter of ſuch everlaſting Conſolation. And look what Arguments Paul in Prayer uſeth unto God, to grant this to them, which are thus ſuted to the matter of his Petition, as you may diſcern. The ſame may be turned upon us as Motives to move us thereunto; for what we would move God with in Prayer, God expects ſhould move us in Practice. Now it is the Eternity, Stability, and the Immutability of that Love, which he uſeth as a Motive to him, to ſtabliſh them in every good Word and Work.

The very ſame Exhortation to Conſtancy, Diligence, and Unchangeableneſs in well-doing (if I miſtake not) the Apoſtle in like manner foundeth upon the Immutability of God's Counſels towards the Heirs of Salvation, expreſſed in his Promiſes to them, out of the Coherence of Heb. 6. 11, 12, 13, 17, 18 Verſes compared, We deſire (ſays he v. 11.) that is, exhort, that every one of you do ſhew forth the ſame diligence, (which out of Love they had formerly, and at firſt ſhewn, ver. 10.) to the full Aſſurance of Hope to the end. He provokes them to Diligence with Conſtancy, that they be not ſlothful but laborious (ver. 10.) in every good Work, and Followers of them, who through Faith and Patience (or Conſtancy Book III. in well-doing, joined with patient Suffering for it) inherit the Promiſes: And what Promiſes are they he lays before them, and what is more eminently held forth in the Promiſe? As he had exhorted them to Diligence and Conſtancy without ſlackning, ſo ſutably he lays before them that in the Promiſe which anſwered thereto as on God's part, citing the great Promiſe made to Abraham the Father, in the Name and for the behalf of all the Heirs of Promiſe, ver. 13. For when God made Promiſe to Abraham, who after he had patiently endured, obtained the Promiſe, ver. 15. And in the Promiſe the Apoſtle to quicken them hereto ſingleth out (with an eminent Obſervation) the Faithfulneſs and Immutability of God's Counſel (which is the point in hand) and unfoldeth in the Tenor of the Promiſe the Oath annexed to it; wherein (ſays he) God willing more abundantly to ſhew to the Heirs of Promiſe the Immutability of his Counſel, confirmed it with an Oath, ver. 17. As God therefore cleaves to us in his Love without Separation, we ſhould in Obedience cleave to him therein with full purpoſe of Heart, Acts 11. 23. As God hath ſtuck to us, and would ſuffer none to divert his Love, we ſhould inviolably ſtick to his Commands, as David did, Pſal. 119. 31. I have ſtuck unto thy Teſtimonies. And as nothing ſhall, or can ſeparate us from the Love of God in Chriſt, as on his part; and as none of all thoſe Millions of Heroes far excelling us, that have been in all Generations, ſo took his Heart as to alter his Purpoſe of Love towards us, or to allure him from us; ſo neither let any thing ever ſeparate us throughout our courſe, from purſuing after Communion with that Love in keeping his Commands. Let not Wife, Children, Honours, Riches, Pleaſures, Temptations on the left hand or right hand, or whatſoever can fall out, or preſent it ſelf unto us, ever ſeparate us from the Love and Service of God. He that forſakes not theſe, being wooed by ſo great a Love (as hath been deſcribed) he is not worthy of him and his Love, nor of the leaſt Beam of it. An Heart enflamed with this Love will do or ſuffer any thing. I make a great Obſervation of this in the Inſtance of Paul, when Chriſt had brought him firſt upon his Knees, and had humbled him, having ſtruck him off his Horſe; Lord (ſaid Paul then) what wilt thou have me do? but when afterwards this Love of God had fired his Heart, then what was it he was not content to do and ſuffer? And when (in this Rom. 8.) the Tide and full Sea came in and overflowed his Heart, inſomuch as he crys out, Who ſhall ſeparate me from the Love of God in Chriſt? Then it was that he was willing to have been himſelf ſeparated from Chriſt, accurſed from Chriſt (as Chriſt was from God on the Croſs) for the Glory of God in the Converſion of his Brethren. Now nothing but this Love could have raiſed up his Heart thus high.

I ſhall conclude this part of this Diſcourſe with what Paul concludeth his in the 2*d* and 3*d* Chapters of the 2*d Theſſ.* He had exhorted them to Conſtancy, prayed for Stability in every good Word and Work, laid before them the eternal Love of God to move them, and alſo put the Lord in mind of it, to move him to grant it to them, and had expreſſed his Confidence herein; Chap. 3. 4. And we have Confidence in the Lord touching you, that you both do and will do the things that we command you. But how ſhould we attain this (might they ſay) and what is the beſt, the readieſt way of all other to arrive thereunto? He immediately adds, And the Lord direct your Hearts into the Love of God. So prays he, and in praying thus for them ſuggeſts the moſt effectual way to attain to this Obedience. By the Coherence before-mentioned, I underſtand it of the Love of God towards them, that Love ſpoken of Chap. 2. 16. And this is that ſingle, and only, and all-ſufficient Direction Paul gives them unto all Obedience, viz. to have their Hearts guided into that Love, and the Comprehenſion of the Heights and Depths of it, as elſewhere he prays for the Epheſians. And this is to be obtained no way but by Prayer to the Lord to lead them into this. When you hear any Duty preſt, you preſently call for Directions; and thoſe are uſually as difficult to practiſe and attain as the things or Graces they are preſcribed for. Paul here preſcribes but one, but it is a Sovereign one, and withal the only way to attain it, viz. Prayer. The Lord, or Perſon he prays unto is the Holy Ghoſt, manifeſtly diſtinguiſhed from God, namely, the Father, and Jeſus Chriſt. The Love of God the Father, and the longing after and waiting for the Revelation of Chriſt in his Glory, are here made the ſubject Matter, the Journies end, the Sight, the Enjoyment, the Object of the Spirit's giving them. And ſo elſewhere it is made the proper Office of the Holy Ghoſt, to lead us into all Truth (Joh. 16.) to guide our Feet into the ways of Peace; and as meetly it is appropriated to him here, to direct our Hearts into the Love of God, and Longings after Chriſt. For as he it is who is given us of God, to communicate the Love of theſe other two, who ſuſtain the Conſideration of Objects to be revealed and communicated by him: So (Rom. 5.) The Love of God is ſaid to be ſhed abroad in our Hearts by the Holy Ghoſt, whom he hath given unto us, as on purpoſe to that end. So then you have all three Perſons in this ſmall Verſe, and a Prayer is made to the Holy Ghoſt, under the Title of Lord, which ſome deny to be found in the Scripture. The Word that is here tranſlated to direct is κατευθυναι, that is, to guide you by a ſtrait way, or by a right Line. It hints this further to me (which hath been in my Heart from other Conſiderations) that of all ways and means that tend to work and keep us, the Love of God apprehended, and enflaming Love in our Hearts to God again (for ſo I take the Love here, both Paſſively and Actively, for he leads us into Love unto God, by diſcovering the Love of God) is the direct ſtraiteſt way of all other; the ſhorteſt cut (as we uſe to ſay) for it is by a ſtrait Line. There are other Motives and Perſwaſives that have done victoriouſly, but this excels them all: As I uſe to ſay of that way of living by Faith immediately, in compariſon of poring upon Graces in our ſelves, and importing Aſſurance therefrom; that this latter is rather a going about, and fetching a Compaſs with a great deal of Difficulty and Uncertainty: But that other way of Faith is as the North-Eaſt Paſſage to the Indies, the ſhorteſt and ſpeedieſt way of comforting and upholding the Heart when found out. The Love of God ſhed abroad will contribute more in a Moment towards our Comfort and Peace, than all other Conſiderations in a Man's whole Life. And therefore pray as Paul did, that the Holy Ghoſt would direct your Hearts into the Love of God. And withal, this Prayer informs us, that our Hearts do of themſelves ſeek out other ways to incourage and uphold them in Obedience, and other Motives are more ſuted to the natural Diſpoſition of them, and we are apt to neglect theſe Conſiderations of God's Love; therefore it is that he ſo ſolemnly prays to the Holy Ghoſt, to guide and direct them into it, becauſe otherwiſe they would never find this way, or light upon it. Chap. 4.

And obſerve laſtly, that the Subject of this the Spirit's Guidance is ſaid here to be the Heart, for indeed that is the proper Seat and Veſſel for God to ſhed abroad his Love into, as (Rom. 5.) the Apoſtle doth in like manner expreſs it. It is the Heart and not the Underſtanding (for this Love paſſeth Knowledg:) And I having upon occaſion of handling the Greatneſs of this Love (on Eph. 2. 6.) viewed all that I could find in the Scripture, to ſet out the Greatneſs of this Love by, found little to what might have been expected, to exaggerate and greaten a Subject of that Magnitude this is of. I reſolved the reaſon of it into this, that it is left to the Spirit to make an immediate Report of this Love by Impreſſions of it, rather than by Notions, or rational Arguments, or Inferences. It is left to him to ſpeak that to the Heart, which can be but whiſpered unto the Mind. It is too big for Words, and too Glorious to be clothed with Man's Apprehenſions, much leſs Expreſſions, and it is fit only to ſpeak it ſelf; and that may be a reaſon alſo, why we find ſo little of rational Inducements drawn from this eternal Love to inforce Obedience. (I have given you all I could find in the New Teſtament.) I attribute it to this, that this Love ſpoken by the Spirit to the Heart, perſuades to it without any more Arguments, and will not take in the Aſſiſtance of Reaſon or Notions, or Inferences to urge the Commands of it ſelf, but will it ſelf do it, and doth it abundantly. It remains that I pray as the Apoſtle doth, 2 Theſſ. 3. 5. The Lord direct your Hearts into the Love of God.

CHAP.

CHAP. V.

Motives againſt Sin, becauſe it is Satan's great Work and Intereſt, who is Chriſt's greateſt Enemy.

1 John III. 8.

He that committeth Sin is of the Devil: for the Devil ſinneth from the beginning. For this purpoſe the Son of God was manifeſted, that he might deſtroy the Works of the Devil.

THE Subject on which I intend to diſcourſe, is Motives to Holineſs and againſt Sin, drawn from ſuch Arguments as the New Teſtament affords; ſuch as ariſe from the Thoughts of Chriſt and his Love, and from the conſideration of the End and Deſign of his Death.

In the Diſcourſe of Chriſt the Mediator, Vol. III. of his Works.

One great end of his Death, I have already ſhewn in another Diſcourſe, to be his overcoming Satan thereby, and ſo redeeming us from the Power of him, that had the Power of Death. What Motives to Holineſs the conſideration hereof will afford, is the thing now to be conſidered, and what uſe Faith may make hereof to ſtrengthen and help the Heart againſt Sin. Now the Scope of this Text is punctual to it: The Apoſtle's Scope is to give an Exhortation unto Holineſs and againſt Sin, and to this end he ſets forth Chriſt and Satan as two Oppoſites and Antagoniſts; Satan, as is denoted to us, having ſet up Sin as his Work, and Chriſt is deſcribed as the Founder of Holineſs, and Deſtroyer of Satan's Work. Theſe two have drawn after them all the Sons of Men into two ſeveral Parties, who are here, and ſhall be hereafter diſtinguiſhed for ever, by the Poiſe and Inclination of their Spirits, and Courſe and Sway of their Lives, as they ſtood to Sin, or Righteouſneſs, and ſhall accordingly be judged to belong to either Chriſt, or Satan. Little Children (ſays the Apoſtle, ver. 7.) let no Man deceive you; he that doth Righteouſneſs, is Righteous, even as he is Righteous: and he that committeth Sin is of the Devil, for the Devil ſinneth from the beginning. For this purpoſe was the Son of God manifeſt, that he might deſtroy the Works of the Devil, ver. 8.

Chriſt the Son of God, is the Fountain of Holineſs and Righteouſneſs to all that hope for, or expect Salvation from him: Ver. 3. Every Man that hath this Hope in him, purifieth himſelf, even as he is pure. And, ver. 5. In him is no Sin. And, ver. 6. Whoſoever abideth in him, ſinneth not; whoſoever ſinneth, hath not ſeen him, neither known him. So as (ver. 7.) He that doth Righteouſneſs, is Righteous, even as he is Righteous. Chriſt requires of all he juſtifies (although he imputes a Righteouſneſs of his own to them) that they themſelves be ſo truly and really Righteous in their Hearts and Lives, as rightly from thence to be denominated Righteous, as truly as all other Denominations are from what Qualifications are in a Man, from which he acts accordingly. A Man is termed a wiſe Man, that hath a Principle of Wiſdom, and acts wiſely, tho he may have Mixtures and Strains of Folly; ſo giving the like allowance to a Holy Man, he that doth Righteouſneſs, makes it his Buſineſs, Work, Trade and Study to do ſo, is Righteous. Let no Man deceive you with the Doctrine of the imputed Righteouſneſs of Chriſt, as if it diſcharged you from having a true inherent Holineſs of your own, ſuch and the ſame for kind as he had. No, it obligeth you unto it, to be your ſelves Righteous, even as he is Righteous.

Now to ſharpen the Exhortation, and make it yet more pungent, he ſets forth withal Satan, Chriſt's Enemy and Oppoſite, and the contrary Head, Fountain, Leader and Author of all Sin, and Oppoſer of all Righteouſneſs, who ſinned from the beginning, and was himſelf the firſt that brought Sin into the Creation, perpetrated it himself, and was the Cause of it in all others. And who not only then sinned and diffused it, but he sinneth from the beginning, that is, hath continually made it his Trade to sin, and to cause others to sin. Tho Adam brought it in among Men, yet it was but by one Act, and of that Act Satan was the Designer; but Adam was not the continual Cause of Sin to others, and is dead long since, and ceased to sin, but Satan sins still from the beginning. He sins not only personally from the beginning, but by provoking and tempting others continually; for so the Devil's sinning from the beginning is here principally to be understood, as he is the Causer of Men to sin, as at the beginning he did to our first Parents, and he thereby makes the Sins we commit his Works: For our Sins, or the Sins in us, as caused by him, are called his Work. Chap. 5.

1. Our Apostle brings in this of Satan's Interest to Sin in a distinct, yea a farther Motive to the Saints against Sin, to be superadded to the former. He had said, that Sin was a Transgression of the Law, ver. 4. That Consideration is to move you as Creatures and Subjects to God; for you are therefore to be such as live under Law and Obedience, but that is denied now-a-days to be any Obligation, tho to John it was. But consider your selves as Persons redeemed by a Righteous Saviour, bearing your Sins, who took Sins away (ver. 5.) and in whom is no Sin; he could else never have taken Sin away in us, nor could he have any other end in dying, than to take Sins away, seeing himself had none. Will not the Ingenuity of this move you? Then (as the Apostle John says) consider whose Interest, and whose Cause Sin is; it is the Devil's Work, and if the Law of Subjects will not move you, let the Law of Arms. That Sin is the Force and Strength of the Kingdom of Satan, Christ's Enemy, is an higher Aggravation of it, than it is a Transgression of the Law. What is but Felony in time of Peace as a Breach of the Law, is Treason in time of a common Engagement: And to gratify a professed Enemy at such a time, is as Witchcraft and Rebellion.

2. As he thus sets forth Sin as the Devil's proper Work, thereby to deter from it, and exhort the more powerfully to constant Holiness; so he pronounceth every one that commits Sin, to be of the Devil, and that hereby the Children of God and Satan are manifestly distinguished: Ver. 10. In this the Children of God are manifest, and the Children of the Devil; whosoever doth not Righteousness, is not of God, neither he that loveth not his Brother. He instanceth in that one Duty, and he turns it both ways, either to Omission or Commission; and the Reason he gives is full, for the Devil sins from the beginning, that is, makes a Trade, a Practice of it. He interprets it to be meant of a Way or a Course of sinning, as by the other he signifies a Course of Righteousness. Of the Devil he saith, he sins (not hath sinned) from the beginning; he hath made it his Work without Interruption, without Ceasing: therefore whosoever he be that continues in Sin, commits it, makes a Trade and Practice of it, is of the Devil, for he sins as he doth. As a Gentleman may do an ignoble Work of a Tradesman, but yet ceaseth not to be noble by it, for he lives upon his Lands, and not upon his Work: so may a Godly Man do a piece of a Sinners Work, and he doth it too often, but he doth not make it a Trade, nor live on it; he lives on higher things, and if he belongs to Christ, Christ will not suffer him to continue in Sin, for Christ came to dissolve the Work, as the Trade, the Haunt of the Devil in him; and he would wholly lose his End, if he preserved not his own, if he broke not that haunt, that way of sinning, and the Dominion, the Rule, the Work of Satan in him, and so defaced that Character wherein the Children of Satan resemble their Father, in being Workers of Iniquity, as Christ calls those (Luke 13. 27.) that have been the greatest Pretenders to him. They shall be found to have been (if you take their whole course) such Workers of Iniquity, Luk. 13. 27. And in this sense he that commits Sin is here taken, as by the Opposite afore, he that doth Righteousness is Righteous. Where not one alone Act of Righteousness, but he that worketh Righteousness, that makes it his Study, Business and Life, is meant: He that lives in Sin is of the Devil. He speaks of the differing States of a Believer and Unbeliever; because Christ was manifested to do this (or to do nothing) namely, to dissolve the Devil's Trade and Work in us. He hath spoiled the Devil's Business, and he will suffer no Man (whom he died for) after he is ingrafted into him, to be the Devil's Factor. 1 John 1. 10. & 2. 1, 2. Ἐργάται.

Book III. 3. The Apoſtle holds forth Chriſt and Satan to be two Fountains, the one of Sin, the other of Righteouſneſs. All Mankind (according as their Courſes and Ways are) fall either to the one or the other, and are either of God or of the Devil. Tho Men conſider it not, they hold of the one or the other in Capite, as of their Head: yea they are Children of one of theſe. John 8. 44. You are of your Father the Devil, and his Luſts you will do. Their Indoles, Genius, Diſpoſition and Practices are the ſame that his are, and he is their Prince, their Sovereign, their natural or rather unnatural Lord; and in this the Children of God, and of the Devil are manifeſt: even as here the Apoſtle ſays, He that commits Sin is of the Devil, and he that doth not Righteouſneſs is not of God. He knows not Chriſt, nor ever truly ſaw him, or was acquainted with him, ver. 6. for he came to take Sin away, to diſſolve the Works of the Devil, &c. and therefore all you that profeſs the Name of Chriſt (ſays John) look to this, and examine your ſelves by it, deceive not your ſelves, but walk by this Example.

I have thus given you the general Scope of the Apoſtle's Words: and the Deſign of my following Diſcourſe, is not now to urge that point of the diſtinction of a regenerate and unregenerate Man, by their ſeveral Courſes of Sin and Righteouſneſs; but to exhort Believers in Chriſt unto all Practices of all ſorts of Righteouſneſs, and to dehort them from all Sin upon all Occaſions. Now unto this end (which is alſo John's Scope) I ſhall preſent unto you (which this Scripture is ſo great a ground for) the great and dividing Intereſts of theſe two Oppoſites, Jeſus Chriſt and Satan, in reſpect of Sin and Righteouſneſs. The Devil ſinned from the beginning, and drew Men after him, and ſet up this Deſign; and Chriſt was promiſed from the beginning, and in the end appeared to break this Deſign of Satan. The Devil had always a Faction for him, and for Sin from the firſt; and therefore John inſtanceth (1 John 3. 12.) in the eldeſt Son of Reprobation, Cain; Not as Cain (ſaith he) who was of that wicked One, and ſlew his Brother. So that if you profeſs your ſelves to belong to Chriſt, you are thereby inſtantly ingaged to ſet upon the Practice and Advancement of Holineſs and Righteouſneſs, and to oppoſe and deſtroy Sin, upon this Intereſt and Account, that you are ingaged together with Chriſt, and ſo his Intereſt in this became yours. And to put an Addition of Strength hereto, and to encourage you the more therein, I ſhall join to this another Scripture, which is the cloſe of Peter's firſt Epiſtle, 1 Pet. 5. 8. Be ſober, be vigilant; becauſe your Adverſary the Devil, as a roaring Lion, walketh about, ſeeking whom he may devour. The things which out of this Text I have deſigned to handle, are principally two.

1. That there is a general Engagement of all Chriſtians againſt Satan, as againſt a common Enemy, againſt whom as ſuch they ſhould all direct, intend, and point their Oppoſition in fighting againſt Sin, and the Force of that Engagement.

2. I ſhall propound the Encouragements we may take to our ſelves in this great Conflict.

1. There is a general Engagement of all Chriſtians againſt Satan as their common Enemy.

(1.) The Devil is a common Adverſary (ſo Peter ſpeaks of him) a malicious Enemy ſeeking whom he may devour, making that his chief End and Buſineſs, to deſtroy and devour Mens Souls as a Lion doth his Prey: An induſtrious Enemy walking about, and ſpying out Advantages privately and particularly againſt every Soul.

(2.) Satan's chief Work and Buſineſs, wherein he ſhews himſelf our Adverſary, lies in drawing us to Sin. This the coherence of the Apoſtle Peter ſhews, for his Exhortation is, be ſober and watch, which evidently hath reſpect unto Luſts, inordinate Affections growing upon a Man's Spirit, and thoſe are the Advantages which Satan ſeeks; and by the prevailing thereof it is, that a Man is devoured by Satan, and to effect this it is, that he walks up and down to do this his Buſineſs.

(3.) The Saints reſiſtance of Satan herein is a common Engagement. He is your Adverſary (ver. 8.) and not yours only, but of all the Brotherhood (as the Word is) that are in the World, who ſuffer and are in danger and jeopardy in this reſpect from him; who therefore as one Man, are all engaged againſt him to reſiſt resist him. And in fighting against Sin, they should point, and direct, and intend their Opposition against Satan also (whom resist, says Peter) and have an aim at him in their resisting of Sin, sharpning and whetting up their Spirits against him. Chap. 5.

(4.) The Force of this Engagement is to be considered.

1. For the first, that the Devil is our Adversary, and a common Enemy, I will not insist on it.

2. That to draw us to Sin, and to preserve our selves from Sin, is the great Interest on both sides; namely to draw us to Sin, and to move us to yield to loose Affections, is the Devil's Interest; and to be sober and to resist him herein is ours. Heb. 12. 4. You have not yet resisted unto Blood, fighting against Sin. To what purpose comes in that addition fighting against Sin? It is to shew that the eminent matter of Contest, and Contention, and Scope of a Christian is to fight against Sin, which every true Believer hath set up as the principal Business of his Life in this World. A Christian is Sin's Antagonist, as the word here rendred, fighting against, is in the Original. Well, but how is it connected with the former Speech? He had minded them (Chap. 10.) how they had already in their Goods and Names been prejudiced and spoiled: What was the bottom Cause of it, but fighting against Sin, because they would not deny Christ, or forsake their Profession, and so sin against Christ? On this account the Apostle puts all those their former Sufferings. Now (says the Apostle) for this Principle and Resolution if you continue in it, as it is indeed your End and Interest, you may be brought to Martyrdom, unto Blood, which yet you have not been, as many others have afore you. And it hath not been resisting Authority, or Opposition to Men, and a contending with them about a worldly Power, or Interest: but the World through Satan's Instigation comes upon them, to urge them to a compliance with sinful Customs and Practices, and they hold fast to their Principle, to fight against Sin (that they would not sin, was the bottom ground of their Opposition) and so chose to suffer rather. So then not to sin, to fight against Sin, is at once the Interest of all Christians, and the Cause of all Persecutions, which by sinning they might avoid; but (as it is in Chap. 11.) They chose rather to suffer Affliction with the People of God, than to enjoy the Pleasures of Sin for a Season. This is our Part and Interest; but then on the contrary the Devil's part is to sin, and to draw Men to sin is his Interest; yea it is the main End and Design of that other part of his Power, viz. the bringing Persecutions on the Saints, for he doth it to draw and tempt them unto Sin; that is in his Eye and Design more than to vex them, or to bring an outward Misery upon them. Αντιαγωνιζόμενοι.

That Subject therefore which I shall a little insist on, is the Demonstration how much, and how properly and peculiarly our sinning is both the Work of Satan, and also the Interest of his Kingdom: to set forth both which, that Place 1 John 3. 8. doth most fully serve of any other Scripture.

1. That Scripture tells us he hath sinned from the beginning, therein charging him, as he that was the first that brought it into the Creation of God. He was the first that sinned himself, John 8. 44. he is said to speak a Lie of his own, for none tempted or tempteth him to sin; and he is the Father of it, as the first Inventer of any Trade is termed in Gen. 4. 20, 21. And moreover he was the Cause of it in all others, and that in a far different manner than Adam was, or any of Mankind have been to others, as Jeroboam or the like. Adam brought in Sin by one Act traduced down to us, but himself is long since dead, and hath ceased to sin; but the Devil sins from the beginning, and hath made it his Trade continually to sin, and draw others to sin: and they are the Sins in us Men, as caused by him, that are termed his Works, for they are those Works of the Devil, which Christ came to dissolve and to take away, ver. 5. But Christ was not manifested to take away the Devil's Sins that are personally in himself, nor shed a drop of Blood to hinder him from sinning; but his Sins and his Works as in us, these Christ came to dissolve, these Sins which are his wicked Work in us.

2. Sin is in a peculiar and proper manner termed his Work more than ours, and is owned by him accordingly; and thus tho we are the Actors of these Sins more immediately, yet it is Satan who loves Sin, as it is a Work of Iniquity. He is

Book III. the very Inventer, and loves the very Workmanship of it in us, as Christ loves in a Believer the new Creature, which in Christ Jesus is created unto good Works, Col. 2. 10. A Mechanick that works to get his living, loves not so much the Work he makes, as the Livelihood that comes by it (as of the makers of Diana's Shrines it is said, Acts 19. 24.) and so Men love Sin for the Pleasure, that cannot be enjoyed without it: but there are principal Artists (as they are termed) the curious Painters and Inventers, who when they have invented a curious piece that pleases their Fancy, love the Work it self. Thus doth the Devil love Sin as his own Work: and as God having made the World, upholds it, gives Virtue to Nature, and works hitherto (as Christ says) so Sin being the Devil's Creature, he preserves it, upholds it, diffuseth it, and so sins from the beginning in tempting and provoking us. Adam poor Man, when fallen (by whom it is said that Sin entred into the World, Rom. 5.) as also our Mother Eve, but look'd upon all the Sins, he or she saw any of their Sons commit, as Evils of which themselves were the Cause, and viewed them with a sad and heavy Heart, and with this mournful Reflection, I have made all this Work in the World. But the Devil looks with another Eye upon all the Sins which are done under the Sun; and says as Nebuchadnezzar, This Babel and Confusion in the World have I built for the Honour of my Majesty, in my opposition to God. He looks as God did upon his Works, and is refreshed, for it is merely, purely his own.

3. It being his Work, and he the Inventer, he hath the Monopoly of it, the Gains of it (and let him enjoy them, as by the ordinary Law all first Inventers use to do) and all we Men work but under him, tho we are also said to seek out many Inventions (as Solomon speaks) but so as he hath the chief Business and Affair in it. Sinners take pains, like the Merchants from far that travel Sea and Land; that is, go over all things delightful in this World, the Delights of the Sons of Men, and seek to and fro to bring in Pleasures from them to themselves, and fall into many Snares and Temptations, that pierce their Souls with many Sorrows: but the Devil hath the Custom out of all, and they bring in but the Bullion to this great Sovereign's Mint. The Coinage, the Prerogative thereof is his, and 'tis his Stamp and Superscription the Works bear. Sinners like the poor Israelites gather Straw where they can find it, do burn (1 Cor. 7. 2.) and are enflamed with Lusts, but it is his Brick which they make. If you ask how his Glory, his Kingdom, his Greatness is increased by it: I answer.

(1.) The Power, the Glory of his Kingdom lies in sinning; for Sin, as Sin, is his Interest, and Sin (as it opposeth God) set him up at first to build Pyramids and Trophies for his own Glory in dishonouring of God. You are busy like Bees flying to and fro to a thousand Flowers; and poor Souls, you aim at Honey, but then you return with it unto his Hive, where you, and he, and Honey, are all burnt together. Look as Christ's Kingdom consists in Peace, Joy, Righteousness (Rom. 14. 17. Heb. 7. 2.) so the Devil's Kingdom consists in Sin, and his Throne is established by it. Eph. 6. 12. The Devils are called Rulers of the Darkness of this World, and the World is the bound of his Dominion; but that wherein properly his Rule lies, is the Darkness, the Sin of the World, which he is the Ruler of; insomuch as that, which is his top Interest, is Sin, and his Throne is established by it, and founded and built upon it, as Christ's Scepter and Throne is a Scepter of Righteousness, Heb. 1. 8. A Scepter is an Ensign of Power, and Kings Scepters are made of Gold; but Christ's Scepter is formed of Righteousness, pure Righteousness; and this is that Interest of his Kingdom, so of Iniquity is the Interest of that of Satan.

(2.) Our sinnings through his Temptations are the greatest, if not the only Delight and Pleasure he hath. They are as Meat and Drink to him, his Food and Nourishment, and we thereby become Caterers and Providers for the Devil's Banquetting. This is founded on 1 Pet. 5. 8. for wherefore is it that Peter gives him here the Character of a roaring Lion, and compares him thereunto, but to represent him as one that seeks for a Prey? for roaring is here attributed to him, as to terrify in respect of the dreadfulness of the Danger, so in relation to his own hungring after a Prey; a Soul acting Sin is his Prey, Psal. 104. 22. The young Lions roar after their Prey, and so the Devil doth too; for it follows in 1 Pet. 5. 8.

5. 8. that he seeks whom to devour, and to that end walks up and down, and seeks a Prey both by spying out a Christian's looseness of Spirit, and also by eyeing God to have a Commission from him to fall upon him. In Psal. 28. 5. a roaring Lion is translated by the Septuagint λέων πένων, the same word which Peter here useth for devouring. When a Lion is hungry, he roars more terribly: and as roaring is from the Speediness and Impatiency of Desire, so the Satisfaction of that Appetite is Delight, and devouring the Prey is his pleasing Enjoyment; suitably his Pleasure is Sin, that is his Prey, and when you sin much, and draw others to sin, you feast the Devil with the Blood of your own Souls. His Curse was to eat Dust for his Food, Gen. 3. 14. being banisht Heaven, he lives on Mens Lusts, and on things earthly, in which yet he delights not, for he tasts not Meat or Drink; but to tempt others herewith, and to draw them to sin, this delights him, and is a Joy to him. The Apostle termeth all our Righteousness σκύβαλα, Dogs-meat; but the Sins are the Devil's Meat, and therefore he walks to and fro seeking it, as Lions do their Food, Psal. 104. 22. yea he calls other Devils to feast with him. Plutarch says, the manner of young Lions is, when they have their Prey, to roar, to invite other Lions to come and eat with them; so the Devil brings seven other Devils worse than himself; and as there is Joy in Heaven if a Sinner be converted, so in Hell when a converted Sinner falls into sinning. Chap. 5.

4. Let us but view what Expressions the Scriptures use of Mens sinning against God, and turning aside from him to serve any Lust, and we shall see that they evidently argue, that our sinnings are the Devil's Interest. Thus the Apostle (1 Tim. 5. 15.) speaking of younger Widows marrying again when they had vowed themselves to Christ, as was the Practice then, says, that they had already turned aside after Satan. If we never so little decline from Christ, return to Satan; and if we give way to any Passion, it's to give place to the Devil, Eph. 4. 27. And what he says of Anger, Wrath, &c. he intends also of any other Sin or Lust, Let him that hath stoln, steal no more, as giving place to the Devil. Thus also when Peter would exaggerate Ananias's Sin (Acts 5.) he saith not only, Why hast thou sinned? but why hath Satan filled thy Heart? Thus he that commits Sin is of the Devil, 1 John 3. 2. He is of his side and Party, yea of the Devil as of a Father, John 8. 44. Yea the measure of Mens Wickedness more or less is expressed, by their having fewer or more Devils in them; Mary Magdalen had seven Devils, Mark 16. 9. And the Devil is said to return to an apostate Backslider with seven Devils worse than himself, to express that his latter Days should be more wicked than his former; yea the Scripture calls a Sinner Devil, John 6. 70. And as Judas joined with the Devil in betraying Christ, the Devil is said to have entred into him, Luke 22. 3. Yea (consider it Brethren) tho a Man be a good Man (as Peter was) yet in any foul Act or Sin he puts off the Christian, and turns Devil for that time. It was the sharpest word that ever Christ uttered to a Man that was Holy, Get thee behind me Satan, thou art an Offence to me, Mat. 16. 23. It was the worst Word that could be given him, and yet Christ, who is Truth, spake it; and he exceeded not in Passion above the merit of the thing, for Guile was not found in his Mouth. And he speaks it with Indignation, as of one he abhorred, Get out of my Sight, I cannot endure to look on thee. It doth not signify, that Christ loved him not, but Christ spoke thus, that he might the more pungently and piercingly set on his Sin upon him. Thus the incestuous Corinthian, tho a good Man (1 Cor. 5. 13.) is called τὸν πονηρόν, that wicked Person: The Man was good, he had Spirit or Grace in him to be saved (ver. 5.) yet in the Act he was a Devil; for ὁ πονηρὸς, is the Stile of the Devil in John, and elsewhere. And therefore it is that Excommunication is to be a delivering up to Satan; and the Apostle would have him delivered up to Satan (ver. 5.) as a suitable Punishment. Thus you say, when you turn an untoward Servant, or Child out of doors, Now go to your Companions. And thus an excommunicated Person is delivered to Satan, as it were in these Words, You acted the part of the Devil in sinning, he entred into you, and you cast your Lot with him (as Solomon speaks) and therefore let the Devil keep you Company a while, and affright and torment you, that so you may learn what it is to have the Devil again. And accordingly at last wicked Men, as having followed the Devil's Design, are cast into the Fire prepared for Book III. the Devil and his Angels, and they and he are tormented together in the ſame Lake of Fire and Brimſtone common to both, becauſe the Cauſe, the Engagement was common to both. All theſe and many more Expreſſions, which might haply be gathered together, evince this, that Sin is the Devil's great Intereſt, and that to ſin is to maintain the Devil's Quarrel, to fight Satan's Battels againſt the Lord, to build up his Kingdom, to ſtrengthen his Cauſe, to ſide and take part with him.

USE 1. If it be ſo (as I have proved) that Sin is the Devil's great Buſineſs, and the Intereſt of his Kingdom; then we may be ſure, that in every Sin to which we are indulgent, we have dealings with the Devil: whilſt we are in this World (as Peter ſpeaks) we are ſubject to be tempted (as Paul ſays, Gal. 6. 1.) and therefore let us be ſober and watch, and (as Chriſt exhorts, Mat. 26. 41.) watch and pray, leſt you enter into Temptation. Our dear Lord had then taken three of his ſtrongeſt Diſciples to aſſiſt him in his Temptation, the foreſt that ever was: they fell aſleep; Well ſays he, you will have your turn, your time of Temptation will come, and you had need watch better for your ſelves than you have done for me, or you will be undone. And in that Compendium of Prayers our Lord gave us, he puts in two Petitions much to one purpoſe, Lead us not into Temptation, but deliver us from that evil One (ſo in the Greek) the Head, the Author of all Evil. That Particle ἀλλα, but, ſhews its Coherence and Conjunction with the former Petition; and ſo the meaning is, that God would not ſo give us over to Satan, as that he ſhould devour us, or undo us. He doubles this Petition, and twines it both ways, becauſe Temptations to Sins are all our Lots; and therefore we ſhould eye the Devil in them, as one with whom we have to do. And tho it is true, that no Man is tempted but of his own Luſt (ſays James, Ch. 1.) yet there is no Luſt ſtirs, but this Tempter blows it up. He obſerves which way the Stream is inclined to run, and he applies his Winds to blow in accordingly: there is no great Sin, but he hath a hand in it, if not by beginning it, yet by promoting it. This you may learn of the ſame James, From whence come Wars? ſays he, James 4. 1. 'Tis true that they ariſe from our Luſts, that war in our Members, prone enough to riſe up in Arms upon every Occaſion, and from thence is all inordinate Love of the World. And the Spirit that is in us, luſts after Envy faſt enough of it ſelf; but yet there is over and above a Devil that acts and inflames all theſe; and therefore when he gives Counſel againſt all theſe, he cloſeth all with this, ver. 7. Reſiſt the Devil as the great Leader of all theſe warring Luſts. If you have bitter Envyings and Strife in your Hearts, this Spirit is not only earthly and ſenſual, but the Devil is in it, 'tis Deviliſh. Are there Diviſions and Offences in Churches? (Rom. 16. 17.) the Devil is in them; ſo Paul ſuggeſts (ver. 20.) comforting them, that the God of Peace, that loves Peace, and is among them, would tread down Satan the Head, the Ringleader of them, ſhortly. Doth Anger ariſe? Take heed, the Devil ſtands at the Door watching to enter, Eph. 4. 26, 27. Be angry and ſin not, &c. neither give place to the Devil. A Luſt given way to, opens the Door for him to enter, and fill the Heart; and what he ſpeaks of Anger, is true of all thoſe Sins he there names afore and after, viz. Lying, Stealing, Uncleanneſs, &c. Is a Man covetous and reſolved to be rich? he falls into Temptation and into a Snare, 1 Tim. 6. 9. Whoſe Snare it is you may eaſily know, by what it is joined with, viz. Temptation. It is the Snare of the Tempter, which in 2 Tim. 2. 26. is called the Snare of the Devil. Thus every Luſt is, and by it he entred into Ananias's Heart and filled it, Acts 5. Hath a Man an evil Tongue? Tho it is bad enough of it ſelf, yet the Devil heats it in his Forge, enflames the Luſt of it, and ſharpens the Wit to it: James 3. 6. The Tongue is a Fire, a World of Iniquity amongſt our Members; it defileth the whole Body, and ſetteth on fire the courſe of Nature, and is ſet on fire of Hell. In like manner with reſpect unto Uncleanneſs, this unclean Spirit takes all Occaſions to tempt us, 1 Cor. 7. 5. The Apoſtle exhorts Man and Wife not to be a long time aſunder (but upon abſolute Neceſſity) leſt Satan (ſays he) tempt you for your Incontinency; that is, whereas the moſt of Men have not that Gift of Continency (which, ver. 7. he ſays he had) and therefore to avoid Fornication and Burning, are ſuppoſed to marry (ver. 2.) Satan ſpies out all Advantages to ſtir up that Luſt e'er you are aware (you having that in you which the Apostle calls your Incontinency) and to provoke you to some unclean Act. All Lusts else are the Devil's Snares; and in a word, in all these Cobwebs there inhabit Spiders, and every straggling Love of inordinate Affection that goes out, and is fastened to any thing in the World, is the Spiders Dancing-Rope, to go in and out of his House upon. Chap. 5.

USE 2. What Weight should the serious Consideration hereof have upon our Spirits, both to preserve us from sinning, and to humble us for having sinned.

1. To preserve us, and to be a Motive against sinning. Doth any Lust begin to boil within thee? Think with thy self, and say, this is Satan's Scout, he is in Ambushment not far off, and the Devil is now approaching, for lo I feel his Darts, his fiery enflaming Darts, as Paul calls them. These Darts cast into my Heart, came out of his Forge, I feel them as Fire in my Bones; and as in War Darts use to be thrown at the first onset, when the Enemy is approaching, so are these; but he will come on with sharper Weapons and surer Assaults, and enter into me, if I take not heed. Our Saviour Christ espied him afar off, Now is the Prince of this World a coming (says he) so mayst thou, as one Army doth another, when their Forelorn is approaching. Christ indeed could say with Comfort, He hath nothing in me, but thou canst not say so, for he hath that in thee will betray thee to him, and join with him against thee. Think then with thy self, Now I have to do with the Devil, and now resist, and give not place to the Devil. If thou wert sure thou hadst to do with the Devil, thou wouldst avoid him; if he took a Shape and appeared to thee, thou wouldst not deal or truck with him: but know, that when thy Lust, thy Passion, thy Pride or Covetousness is up, he is surely at thy elbow. As therefore the Apostle (Heb. 13. 2.) exhorts to Works of Hospitality, because thereby some unawares have entertained Angels, as Lot and Abraham did; so for certain thou by letting in this or that Sin, letteſt in the Devil, and entertaineſt him, tho thou seest him not. And tho thou yieldest but to one Act of Sin only (as thou thinkest) yet thou servest the Devil, and dost his Work; yea and hast Communion with him. The poor Prodigal aimed but at Husks to fill his Belly (Luke 15. 15.) but he could not enjoy them, but by joining himself to the Farmer, the Devil, whose all the Swine and Pleasures of Sin in this World are. Oh consider this! I would not (says the Apostle, 1 Cor. 10. 20.) that you should have Communion with Devils. All Men, especially Christians, abhor that; he takes that for granted, and yet 'tis in the Nature of the thing it self: by yielding to Sin, you become Companions with the Devils, as they in eating things sacrificed to him did. In eating his Dainties of sinful Pleasures, he seems to feast you, but really and indeed you entertain him. In sinning we have Communion with Satan, as in Righteousness we have with God, only with this difference: In Works of Righteousness we have Communion with God, in a Work that is God's (for as Christ saith, we work the Works of God) and then further, we have Communion with his Person by Faith eyeing him, and walking in the light of him, and in so doing he often manifests himself to us; but tho we have not such sensible Communion with the Person of Satan, as with God by Faith, yet having to do with his Works wherein he acts us, we have remotely to do with his Person. For as Merchants (each with other) we have to do with his Wares, and his Commodities, not only for the present, but for hereafter. Now then, in the entrance to any Sin consider upon what is said, that it is the Devil, who is thy Guide, and wilt thou follow him? Thou makest thereby a kind of Covenant to serve him, e'er thou art aware of it. All Men do it implicitely (as we say of them that go to cunning Wizards) but in such a Case thou wilt do it explicitely.

2. Hast thou sinned, and therein acted the Devil's part? Humble thy self greatly, and that upon this consideration, that thou hast sided with Satan, and the Devil hath cause to say, thou hast manfully or rather deviliſhly took my part this day. The Apostle James having shewn, that in yielding to their Lusts they closed with the Devil (Chap. 4. 1, 2, & 7. compared) exhorts them to renounce Satan, and to draw nigh to God, and then to be afflicted and mourn. Humble your selves (says he) in the sight of the Lord. Would it not break thy Heart to hear Christ from Heaven, Book III. Heaven, after such or such a Sin or Fact, to call thee Devil, and to bid thee get thee behind him, as he did to Peter? Now Christ hath the same Affection in this respect whilst he is in Heaven, and when he was on Earth, not only to turn away his Face, and withdraw the Light of his Countenance from thee; but with Indignation (for that present) to reject thee, and cast thee behind his Back, and to remove thee as an accursed thing in his Sight. Christ said thus to Peter, and thou deservest it, but humble thy self and be not discouraged; for at another time when the same Peter had played the Devil worse by far, in forswearing his Saviour, and had acted the Devil in his Colours (for the Devil is a Blasphemer and the Father of Lies, and Peter had done both by lying and forswearing Christ) yet then Christ turned not his Back but his Face upon him. Christ looked back, and one Look of Christ cast the Devil out (as the Believer doth experience, that when Christ appears by Faith in the Heart, the Devil is gone) and Peter went forth and wept bitterly. Be not therefore discouraged, for Christ still loved and prayed for this Peter, and exercised these varieties of Dispensations to the same Peter, to shew us that he useth both upon occasion to his Children, and we should have the one in our eye to humble us, the other to encourage us. We have an Enemy on Earth, Satan, but an Advocate in Heaven, 1 John 2. 1.

CHAP. VI.

A Motive to Holiness and to fight against Sin, drawn from the Consideration, that this Holy War is a Common Engagement, in which all Angels and Saints are Confederates.

I Shall now demonstrate, that there is a common Engagement of all Believers against Satan, in fighting against Sin, and that they are to point and direct their Opposition against him. My purpose is not to enlarge upon the Warfare of a Christian, the Subject of so many Tongues and Pens, but my Scope is to whet and edge your Spirits against Sin, whenever you find your Spirits tempted and Lusts high, and to animate you unto an Opposition to the Devil.

I shall give you the Story of this War against Satan, and shew how antient, and how long a continued and universal an Engagement this is.

1. God in Paradise proclaimed this War, and stated it there, so old is it; it begun there, and 'twas proclaimed there. I will not for the present go so high to say, that it began before between the Son of God, and these evil Angels in Heaven, tho some affirm it. This Devil he affronted our great God in both his Courts, his Court in Heaven where Angels are, and his Court on Earth, Paradise, which God himself built for Adam personally, as the Seat of him who was made King of all the Earth, and Father of all Men. The Devil by tempting our first Father and Mother was the Cause of their first Sin, which was the Original and Fountain of all ours. Because thou hast done this (says God, Gen. 3. 14.) and done it enviously, maliciously and subtilly, knowing what would be the consequence of it to all Mankind, thou art therefore accursed. The Man and Woman were deceived as Birds by the Fowler, but the Devil was the Deceiver, and therefore he is cursed above all. It is therefore the common Quarrel of our Nature, as we are Men, to make War against him.

This engaged God himself, God laid it to Heart on our behalf, and shall not we? Yea it drew in all the three Persons, who appeared in making Man, and said, Let us make Man after our Image, which this Devil sought to deface. They are all answerably disgusted at this destroying of their Image, and are resolved to renew it.

1. It was God the Father, who dealt then personally with the Devil, and who cursed him; for it was he that gave the Law to Adam of not eating the Forbidden Fruit, as appears by this Discourse; and it is the same Person that curseth Satan, and he it is that is that God of Peace who treads him under, Rom. 16. 20.

And

And it is the ſame God of all Grace that helps us againſt him, 1 Peter 5. 9, 10. Chap. 6.

2. God the Son was he that was to become the promiſed Seed, and who was on purpoſe deſigned out by God to deal with him. It was he who was inſtantly proclaimed the General upon the Place of the Affront, and the Head of this Quarrel; and ſo he was then profeſſedly engaged, and that by his own Conſent ſtanding by.

3. The Holy Ghoſt, tho not mentioned, yet to be ſure we may find him to be there, as he muſt needs be Satan's Oppoſite hereupon. For the Devil ſpoiled that in Man, which is more properly his Work (Holineſs being the Work of the Holy Spirit) and their very Titles ever hereafter ſhew their Oppoſition. Thus the one is called the Holy Spirit, and Satan is termed the unclean Spirit in the Evangeliſts and in the Acts, no leſs than two and twenty times; and ſo he is called too in the Old Teſtament, Zach. 13. 2. and he and his Angels are frequently called Evil Spirits both in the Old and New Teſtament. And the Oppoſition of theſe two is ſeen in every Saint's Heart every day. Theſe Words alſo in Gen. 3. 15. I will put Enmity between her Seed and thy Seed, do involve the whole Seed of elect Men as well as Chriſt, as I have ſhewn in another Diſcourſe. Thus it is an univerſal Engagement: yea, and as you ſee God's Heart was ſo upon it, and his Councils and Reſolutions in this Point ſo ripe and ready, as he ſtands not deliberating; but upon the very Place in Paradiſe where the Miſchief was done, and well nigh as ſoon as it was done, he proclaimed War. He ſtays not ſo long as till he had turned Man out of Paradiſe: yea and he profeſſeth himſelf to be the Beginner, Contriver and Undertaker of this War; I will put (ſays he) Enmity, &c. It is a War then of God's own making, and properly his, more than ours. Thus great and ſolemn it is, not a Quarrel only againſt Sin, but againſt the Devil, between thee and the Serpent, that is, the Devil. Of Chriſt the Mediator, B. V. Ch. 17. in Vol. III. of his Works.

As the War was thus early proclaimed, ſo you read how accordingly it was carried on from the firſt, that Men began to multiply in the Earth, even by the two firſt Sons of Men, Sons of Adam, that were in the World; the Devil took the one, Cain, and God took the other, Abel. This early Diviſion and parting of the Seed, John takes notice of, 1 John 3. 10, 11, 12. In this the Children of God are manifeſt, and the Children of the Devil; whoſoever doth not Righteouſneſs, is not of God, neither he that loveth not his Brother. For this is the Meſſage that ye heard from the beginning, that we ſhould love one another. Not as Cain, who was of that wicked One, and ſlew his Brother; and wherefore ſlew he him? Becauſe his own Works were evil, and his Brother's righteous. As if he had ſaid, this different Seed and Quarrel, which in Gen. 3. was ſpoken of, cauſed Arms to be taken up preſently. The Devil as he had ſet up, ſo he carried on his Deſign, and drew Men after him from the beginning. He had a Party for him from the firſt of the Sons of Adam, Cain: and God carried on this Quarrel in like manner, againſt Sin and the Devil in the Heart of the next Son, Abel. Sin was the Intereſt that made the Diviſion, for Cain killed him, becauſe his Works were evil, and his Brother's righteous, ſays the Text. And theſe two, Cain and Abel, led on all that followed under the whole Old Teſtament, all under it fell the one way or the other. The Elect then, as they had the promiſed Seed in their Eye, ſo withal they had Satan as their Adverſary in their Eye, whom they ſhould oppoſe; for by their being inſtructed in the one part of the Promiſe, they were alſo in the other. And hence the word Satan (or Adverſary) was the uſual Name both antiently and frequently in the Old Teſtament given to the Devil, even from Job's time, Job 1. 6. & Chap. 2. 1 Sam. 29. 4. 1 Chron. 21. 1. Pſalm 109. 6. & Zach. 3. 1.

In the end the General himſelf came down into the Field, and he was manifeſt to deſtroy the Works of the Devil, yea and he died in the Quarrel (I need not repeat what I have ſaid at large about this) and when he had by Death deſtroyed him, he triumpht over him, and left it to you ἐπιτελεῖσθαι, (as Peter's word is) to accompliſh the Victory. So then unto that War, which againſt Satan and Sin as his Work was proclaimed by God in Paradiſe, Chriſt founded the Alarum, and upon his Croſs ſet up his Royal Standard thereon, appointed that the In the Diſcourſe of Chriſt the Mediator, in Vol. III. of his Works.

rendevouz to draw elect Men to him when he was lift up, John 12. 32. and unto it and him hath been the gathering of all the Saints ever since. Know then, that Christ in redeeming us, not only intended an Obedience to his Father, and Glory to him, and our Salvation with it, but withal he aimed at the Destruction of Satan: he acted not only the part of a Son that learned Obedience, and of a Saviour, but also of a Warrier, an Avenger and Destroyer. Now the Saints are to fight in this Quarrel, out of the same Interest Jesus Christ doth, and they ought to be spirited with his Aims and Ends; therefore (1 Pet. 4. 7.) we are exhorted to arm our selves with the same Mind that was in Jesus Christ our General, and therefore to direct our Opposition as Christ did: and whereas (Heb. 2. 14.) he is said to have destroyed him that had the Power of Death, in the 10*th ver.* he is set before us as the Captain of our Salvation, ἀρχηγος.

No sooner was Christ gone to Heaven, but unto this Standard all the Saints and Brotherhood on Earth, the Church Universal, have and do flock in all Ages, and enrol their Names. We (says the Apostle Paul) wrestle against Principalities, &c. Eph. 6. 12. We, he speaks it indefinitely in the Name of all the Saints; and so Peter speaks too, Resist your Adversary (says he) knowing that the same Afflictions (that is, the same Temptation from him) are accomplished in your Brethren that are in the World, that is, this is the common Cause, in which all Saints are engaged, not one excepted; and is not this a great Engagement then? That which is translated Brethren, is in the Original Brotherhood, ἀδελφότητα, shewing that they are engaged, not only all and every Saint, nor singly all and every one, but as a joint Body, they all strive together as one Man: so then, these are the two eminent parts of the Communion of Saints, namely to love the Saints, and to resist this common Enemy, and the whole Brotherhood is engaged in both: And the same God that hath put in Love into the Brethren, hath put into all their Hearts also an Enmity against Satan, in fighting against Sin. The Apostle adds in the World, and so speaks of all Saints in all Places, and in all Times present and to come. The Catholick Church, and the Communion of Saints are joined together in the Creed, and are of equal extent in this.

Your Baptism is the Sign and Sacrament of this universal Engagement, so the Primitive Christians understood it: Hi sunt Angeli quibus in lavacro renuntiamus. In the Common-Prayer-Book it is made Sacramentum Militare, manfully to fight under Christ's Banner against Sin, the World and the Devil, and to continue Christ's faithful Soldier; and again particularly it is interpreted to be a Promise, to forsake the Devil and all his Works; and the Scripture is not averse to this very Notion, if the whole Coherence of the sixth Chap. of the Rom. be observed. The Apostle speaks of our being baptized into Christ, and our Conformity to him professedly avowed in Baptism, ver. 3,4. to the 12. and what is his Inference from thence? ver. 12, 13. Let not Sin therefore reign in your mortal Bodies, neither yield you your Members, as Arms, or Weapons of Unrighteousness, but yield your selves unto God. So then through Baptism, they were Milites Sacramento obstricti Duci, in allusion to the Roman Custom of being by an Oath (which was called Sacramentum) engaged to their General. And whereas he says, yield your selves unto God, add but that of James 4. 1. and it carries it to this Engagement against Satan I insist on: for whereas the Apostle (in Rom. 6.) had in Military Language expressed it thus, Let not Sin reign to obey it in the Lusts thereof, but yield your Members as Weapons to God; James following the same Metaphor (Chap. 4. 1, to 8.) thus speaks, Whereas Lusts war in the Members, yield your selves to God, resist the Devil. The Devil is the Leader, Lusts are but the Common Soldiers.

All Men therefore must of necessity fall to one side or the other, either be subject to God and so resist the Devil, or be subject to that evil Spirit. He supposeth every Man when tempted, to be set in the midst between God and the Devil, putting themselves under God's Protection, or yielding themselves unto God; they are ingaged in a War, as against their Lusts, so against the Devil, and are thus to direct their Opposition in fighting against Sin. Calvin * hath a good Speech on those three Passages of James, as they lie, whereof the first concerns our Duty to Men, Humility, God gives Grace to the Humble. 2. Submit to God. 3. Resist the Devil. He shews (says he) whither or against whom we

ſhould direct our Oppoſition; for whereas he had taught Modeſty and Humility towards Men, and Submiſſion towards God, he with the ſame Breath ſets Satan as our profeſſed Enemy, whom we ſhould riſe up againſt and reſiſt, and give no Quarter to him; but whenever thou wouldſt mortify a Luſt, in laying the Knife to the Throat thereof, thruſt it down even unto the Devil's Heart alſo, give that one Blow, and all with the more Violence as ſpighting him therein. Reach him in thy Intention and Aim, for God warrants thee to do it in that bleſſed Curſe, I will put Enmity between thee and the Serpent; and Chriſt loves that you ſhould do it (for himſelf did ſo) for his ſake, and in his Quarrel.

The laſt thing to be conſidered is, what Force and Efficacy this Engagement againſt Satan ſhould have upon our Hearts to make us Holy, to reſiſt the Devil, and to fight againſt Sin, as it is Satan's Intereſt; which if you pleaſe, you may take and turn into the uſe of the former. We have lived in times, in which we have all felt more or leſs the Power of a publick Engagement in our Spirits, and have ſeen by Experience of what Efficacy it is. Let me ſpeak to you then in the Language of the Times you have run through. When after thou firſt gaveſt up thy Name to Chriſt, thou didſt oblige thy ſelf in this ſo ſolemnly a ſtated and publick War, yea and further from that Time, every one of you was then ſet as in a Gariſon, to keep his own Soul, and to preſerve it from Luſts which fight againſt the Soul; ſo as it's not to be looked at by thee only or ſingly, as thine own Soul, and thine own Salvation, but alſo as now made a Caſtle and Fortreſs of Jeſus Chriſt delivered up unto thee to be kept as with a Gariſon. This Alluſion is warranted by all theſe Scriptures put together, Luke 11. 21, 22. and Peter's words 1 Epiſt. 5. kept as with a Gariſon, and Paul's words, Phil. 4. 7. to which may be added that of 1 John 5. 18. He that is born of God keeps himſelf, that the Evil One touch him not. So then thou haſt in Charge, as John ſpeaks, to keep thy ſelf that the Evil One touch thee not, nor come within thee. Now think what a Truſt this is, not only of thine own Soul, but of a Gariſon of Chriſt's, and what a Wickedneſs muſt it be at any time to betray it, or to hold Correſpondency with the Enemy; yet ſo in every Indulgence unto Sin thou doſt. And moreover, conſider that tho a Tranſgreſſion in time of Peace is but a ſmall matter, as to ſteal ſome trifle, or for a Servant or Apprentice to run away; yet to run away, yea to ſtep aſide in time of War, is Death. Adam's ſinning at the firſt was a Tranſgreſſion of the Law, but it was but as in time of Peace: yea, all thy ſinning in unregeneracy, was but as in a time of Peace, in compariſon to this now (when Satan kept his Houſe, thy Heart was in Peace, ſays Chriſt, Luke 11. 21.) but every Sin now is againſt the Law of Arms; it is a ſending Supplies to the Enemy, or a letting in a Foreign Power into Chriſt's Quarters and Dominions.

1 John 5. 18.

But to urge more particularly the Force of what hath been but even now diſcourſed, Peter's Exhortation here you ſee is to reſiſt the Devil, which is done in reſiſting Sin, and in doing that we muſt have our aim at Satan, and be moved the more with an Oppoſition unto him; and what Spirit truly exalted would not the conſideration of each of thoſe Particulars move and raiſe? The next time then that thou art tempted to Pride, Uncleanneſs, Envy, Revenge, Covetouſneſs, or any other Luſt (in which the Devil is always at the Head) make uſe of theſe Conſiderations to ſtrengthen thy Spirit againſt both them and him.

1. Is it nothing to thee to conſider how antient a War this is, and hath been, an old Feud deſcended from hand to hand, till brought down to thee from Paradiſe, and an old Hatred tho in a ſucceſſive Body, as a Nation whets on to purſue the Deſtruction of the Enemy? Ezek. 25. 15. The Devil as he is the old Serpent, ſo he is the old Enemy. As Solomon ſays, to ſharpen Friendſhip, Thy Friend and thy Father's Friend forgot not: So ſay I, to ſharpen thy Hatred againſt the Devil, thy Enemy and thy Father's Enemy forget thou not. Satan is thy Enemy, thy firſt Father's Enemy, the Empoiſoner of our Nature, the Adverſary of all the Saints, remember this and reſiſt him. Therefore when the next Temptation from him riſeth, think with thy ſelf, ſhall I ever yield to ſuch an Enemy?

2. All that is Holy in Heaven or Earth are combined with thee in this Quarrel, thou art environed not only with a Cloud of Witneſſes and Spectators, but with a Crowd of Fellow-Engagers. All the three Perſons were drawn in, and eſpoused this thy Quarrel; all the Holy Angels have fallen in, and in respect of their Opposition unto Satan it is, that they are termed an Heavenly Host, the Militia of Heaven, Luke 2. 14. and their Opposition to the Devil is on our behalf, as appears from Rev. 12. 7. And as these engaged with thee are greedy and curious Spectators and Beholders of the Issue of every Temptation; and as I told you there was an Invisible World you shall one Day judg, so there is an Invisible World that beholds you in all your Actings with, or for Satan. We are Members of that other World, and in fighting against Sin do carry on that general Cause of that other World, striving to do God's Will on Earth as 'tis done in Heaven. God hath made us a Spectacle to Angels and to Men herein, 1 Cor. 4. 9. When Christ had to do with Satan in the Wilderness, and in the Garden, he had Angels both times to view him, and to guard him, and minister unto him. I have shewed in another Discourse, how Christ had made the Devil a Publick Example before the World, Col. 2. and if the Devil gets thee to sin, he makes thee a Publick Shame before the same World. I charge thee (says Paul to Timothy) before Jesus Christ and the Elect Angels, walk so and so, 1 Tim. 5. 21. and as the Things of this Life are made small matters in comparison of those of the other World by the Apostle (1 Cor. 6.) so thy Sin, as it is known amongst Men (which is but Man's Day) is a small matter unto the Blot thou hast in thy Reputation before God and Christ, and the Angels in that other World. And God himself and Christ, are the greatest Spectators of all: 2 Chron. 16. 9. The Eyes of the Lord run to and fro through the whole Earth, to shew himself strong in the behalf of them whose Heart is perfect towards him: herein therefore thou hast done foolishly, said Hanani the Seer unto Asa. Thou hast shamed thy self quite before the great God: you may behold this in the Case of Job (and it is worth our considering) how both God's Heart wrought, and how the Devil's, concerning Job. That Conference between God and the Devil about him is carried so, that you see the Heart of each how they are affected with this Spectacle: you find God begins and boasteth of Job, as one he loved to talk of; Job 1. 8. Seest thou not my Servant Job? there is none like him on the Earth, fearing God and resisting Evil. Which the Devil could never fasten on him or bring him to, as you may see by his Conversation, Job 31. throughout. God boasts of him, as a General would do of some eminent Worthy, that was never yet foiled or taken Captive; or as a Master or Tutor would boast of some eminent Scholar: and O how this pleased God at the very Heart, as I may speak with Reverence! Well, when he had given Satan leave to bring all these Evils on him, and Satan came before God another time (Chap. 2. 10.) the thing God again spoke of, was still concerning Job (ver. 3.) And the Lord said unto Satan, hast thou considered my Servant Job? there is none like him in the Earth, fearing God and eschewing Evil, and still he holds fast his Integrity. And tho thou hast moved me against him, yet all thou hast done hath not moved him: those words, And still he holds fast his Integrity, God let fall on purpose to vex and confound the Devil, and to shew how much he gloried in it; and the Devil, as put to the foil in it, puts it off upon want of some further and greater Trial, in which God lets him use his Skill. The Result of both maketh this apparent, how much it confounds the Devil to think I have tempted this Man, and I cannot for my Heart get him to yield, and on the contrary how much it rejoiceth God to see Satan so often assault a Man, and yet (still) to hold fast his Integrity. God puts the Emphasis there, as on the other side he observes with Grief how often a Man hath been foiled: This they have done these ten times, says God, Numb. 14. 22. It mightily heightens the Spirit of a Soldier to fight in the view of his General, that (as Paul says to Timothy) he may please him who hath chosen him to be a Soldier, 2 Tim. 2. 4. True Stories have many Instances, and Romances imitate the Truth herein, and bring in Great Champions fighting in the sight of their Lover, whose Honour and Service they have undertaken. Let us look to Jesus the Author, Finisher and Crowner of our Faith. Blessed is he that endureth Temptation, for when he is tried, he shall receive the Crown of Life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him, Jam. 1. 12. This Paul had in his eye, I have fought (says he) a good Fight; henceforth is laid up for me a Crown of Righteousness, which God the Righteous Judg shall give me at that Day, 2 Tim. 4. 7, 8.

In Discourse of Christ the Mediator, B. V. in Vol. III. of his Works.

7, 8. He eyed God (as they in their Olympick Concertations did the Judges) to see how he ſtood with a Crown and a Shield, Pſal. 5. 12. Thou Lord wilt bleſs the Righteous with Favour, thou ſhalt crown him about as with a Shield (ſo in the Original) God both aſſiſting as with a Shield in the Combat, and ready afterwards to crown him that overcomes. O! whom would not the Conſideration of theſe things hearten, to ſtand out againſt Sin and Satan therein. O! where are Job's and Paul's to be found on Earth, that hold faſt their Integrity? Chap. 6.

3. Conſider how the General came down into the Field, was tempted in all things as you are, and at laſt died in this Quarrel, to overcome on your behalf. Now the Death of the General enrageth the Soldiers (as was ſeen in the Battel, where Guſtavus Adolphus King of Sweden loſt his Life) and they make their Enemies Lives go for it; and by his Death Chriſt hath begun to make thee free, and hath (as was ſaid) betruſted thine own Soul to thee, as a Caſtle for thee to defend. If a Town or Caſtle hath coſt Blood, the Blood of many Soldiers to win it, and he to whom it is betruſted ſhould yield it up, how heinous would the Action be? So much Blood as it coſt the gaining, ſo much will be reckoned to the Betrayers of it. But hath it been the Life of ordinary Soldiers, or your own Conqueſts that gained your Liberty? No, it was the precious Blood of Jeſus Chriſt, which redeemed you from your vain Converſations; and ſhalt thou now give it up to his utter Enemy whom he came to deſtroy, and whom he by Force threw out? and wilt thou do this for a few good Words, for Husks, and ſuch wretched Allurements?

4. Remember how it was told thee, that thy Saviour perfectly triumph'd for thee over this Devil, as conquered in thy Name and Stead: now this is a great Incentive; as the Apoſtle reaſons from his Death againſt Sin (how ſhall we that are dead, live any longer therein?) ſo I from his Triumph. Thou art more than a Conqueror in him, and Conquerors fight with other Spirits than other Men, as thoſe that know not how to be foiled. This know, that it is thy Duty by Faith, and thou oughteſt and art bound to triumph in Chriſt, and to give Thanks for the Victory as already paſt. Paul in the midſt of the Conflict, falls a thanking God, Rom. 7. ult. I thank my God through Jeſus Chriſt. And, 1 Cor. 15. 51. Thanks be to God that giveth us the Victory through Jeſus Chriſt our Lord.

Now then, 1. if it were but barely betraying what Chriſt triumph'd for, how diſhonourable were it? In ſo doing, look as Chriſt put the Devil then to open Shame, thou putteſt Chriſt to open Shame before the Devils: as Heb. 6. the Apoſtle ſpeaks, Thou makeſt what in thee lies Chriſt's glorying void, which Paul profeſſeth he would rather die than do. But it is more eſpecially ſo, when thou thy ſelf haſt alſo given Thanks for the Victory through Faith. View this in the Glaſs of the times, if Publick Thanks have been given for a Victory, or the gaining of a ſtrong Hold, and a Triumph made upon it, and the great Guns let off; for the ſame Perſons to yield up, what themſelves thus joined in Triumph for, how diſhonourable and hateful were it? As thou art to ſhew forth Chriſt's Death till he comes, ſo Chriſt's Triumph alſo, and ſo to act as a Conqueror, as to be able to ſay, I have overcome that Evil One. Nay let me tell thee, in caſe thou yieldeſt to thy Luſt, thou giveſt occaſion to Satan to triumph, and that not only againſt thee, but againſt Chriſt alſo; and ſo thou not only faileſt Chriſt, but ſhameſt him. O that ever Satan ſhould with an eaſy Suggeſtion win that from Chriſt, which he ſo triumph'd for! The Reaſon why the Devil and Wicked Men rage ſo in open Scandal, and a Saints known Falling, is, becauſe he remembers the Shame Chriſt once put him to; and now, thinks he, I am revenged for it: and ſo with the greateſt Joy he ſpreads and multiplies the Report of it, ſo infinitely doth he pleaſe himſelf with it. You find in the Pſalms how David ſtill prays, he might not be made a Scorn to his Enemies, nor that they ſhould triumph over him: the ſame holds much more in reſpect of Spiritual Enemies. 1 Cor. 6. 25.

Add unto this, the further baſeneſs of it in this reſpect, to yield to, and to be overcome by a routed Enemy rallying again, by a ſtigmatized Enemy (for remember how Chriſt uſed him) by an Enemy thruſt through. If a known Cheater ſhould come to your Shop, whoſe Noſe is ſlit, or Ears cut off, would it not be accounted the greateſt Folly to be gulled by ſuch an one?

Laſt

Book III.

Laſt of all, let it ſomething move thee, that we are to be his Judges. You are to judg the fallen Angels, how will you be fit to do it, if you ſin with them? How diſhonourable is it for Judges to be found to have caſt their Lots with Cutpurſes and Thieves, or for Judges to leave their Seats (now you ſit with Chriſt in Heavenly Places, Eph. 2.) how unworthy and unbecoming is it?

I ſhall conclude with a few Words of further Direction and Incouragement, drawn from what Peter ſays, 1 Pet. 5. 9. Whom reſiſt.

1. From the word Reſiſt, conſider that Satan who tempts you, is an Adverſary without you, the word ἀντίστητε doth import this. Peter ſpeaks of them in whom Chriſt dwells, and bids us underſtand our ſelves herein, that when Satan tempteth any of us, he is but as one that ſtands without us, and we are to withſtand him as one that attempteth to come in upon us. Compare this 1 Pet. 5. 9. with Eph. 6. 13. Take unto you (ſays Paul) the whole Armour of God, that ye may be able to withſtand thoſe Principalities and Powers, ſpoken of ver. 12. Not only the like word ἀντῆναι, withſtand, imports this, but the other Metaphor here alſo; for it were in vain to exhort a Man that had his Enemy in his Boſom, to put Armour on (which is a thing he is clothed with) to withſtand him. It is the Caſe indeed of every unregenerate Man, to have the Devil within him, who is therefore in the firſt place to be exhorted to turn from Satan to God, and to have Satan caſt out of him; but a godly Man is aſſaulted by Satan from without. That other Exhortation alſo (Eph. 4. 27. Give not place to the Devil) argues him without us, ſeeking to come in, and to get room or place in our Hearts. If you give way to a Luſt, he enters in: yea it is made one eminent Difference between a Man unconverted and converted, that Satan is within them whilſt unregenerate. Hence Chriſt is ſaid to have caſt out of Mary Magdalen ſeven Devils that were within her, dwelling as in their own Houſe, Luke 12. 24. So in 1 John 4. 4. this Difference is put between the World and Godly Men, that Chriſt is in one, Satan in the other; Stronger is he that is in you, than he that is in the World. He doth not only work in Wicked Men effectually, but he himſelf is in them: yea as Chriſt is ſaid to be in us, and we in Chriſt mutually; ſo of the World 'tis ſaid, that the Devil is in them, and that they are in the Devil, 1 John 5. 19. the whole World lieth in Wickedneſs, the Words in the Original are ὅλος ἐν τῷ πονηρῷ κεῖται: he had ſaid before, he that is born of God keepeth himſelf (that is, take his whole Courſe) that the Evil One, ὁ πονηρὸς, toucheth him not; which evidently argues, that Satan is not in him but without him, much leſs is he in Satan; and then he adds theſe Words, the whole World lieth, ἐν τῷ πονηρῷ, in that Evil One (as he had done in the former Verſe) that is, the Devil the Author of all Wickedneſs. And John in this Epiſtle had deſigned out the Devil by ὁ πονηρὸς, that Wicked One, Chap. 2. 13, 14. Chap. 3. 12. Cain was of that Evil One. And this is a deeper Phraſe than to ſay they are under his Power; for it implies in its Analogy, that as of their natural Life it is ſaid, they live, move and have their Being in God, ſo of their Life as ſinful, that they lie and move in Satan, and he is their Element as it were. They are all as young Ones in his Belly, and are quickened and nouriſhed by that Wickedneſs they take in from him, as the Child is by the Mother. But it is a great Advantage to a Believer, that his Enemy is without him. A ſtrong Party may be kept out by a few that are in an Houſe, and will ſtand to defend it; and therefore give not plaee to the Devil, but if he knocks, open not to him, for if he ſets in his Bill, he will turn the Maſter out. Yea let me ſtrengthen this yet further, that there is a Stronger within us than is without us: 1 John 4. 4. Ye are of God, little Children, and have overcome them, becauſe greater is he, viz. Chriſt, that is in you, than he that is in the World. And ſo it concerns Chriſt to help us to keep poſſeſſion more than it doth us, for we are his Houſe, and he as a Son is to take care over his own Houſe, Heb. 3. 6. and Chriſt's Graces in us are the Goods. Now it concerns the Governour that hath a Fort committed to him, and is in poſſeſſion, moſt to defend it. It concerns him in point of Honour, tho the Goods within be of little worth, to defend and maintain his own, eſpecially whenas he hath already triumph'd over the Enemy. All our Conflicts therefore, are mainly to ſhew forth Chriſt's Power the more in us. 'Tis true, that againſt theſe Ships that launch forth with Chriſt in them, the Devil (who is the Prince of the Air) will be ſure to raiſe up Storms, but be of good Comfort, Chriſt is in thee, tho thou art but a poor Cock-Boat, ready ever and anon to be overwhelmed, and Chriſt will never ſuffer himſelf to be caſt away. Julius Cæſar ſaid to the Mariner in a Storm, Tecum fortunam Cæſaris vehis; but a greater than Cæſar is in thee. All thoſe Storms and Waves are but to ſhew his Power in rebuking them, go to him and awaken him, and he will do it for thee. Chap. 6.

2. Another Encouragement is, that if thou ſtandeſt ſtedfaſt and fixed in thine own Will, he cannot hurt thee; this both Words, reſiſt and ſtedfaſt, do imply. There can be no greater Security given to combat with any Adverſary than this, that he cannot wound thee, unleſs thy ſelf will. I ſhall but add this Illuſtration to it, when Chriſt was tempted by Satan, and he had had Power to carry his Body up to the top of a Pinacle of the Temple, from whence a Child with a puſh might have thrown him down with eaſe, yet the Devil could not; which is the more obſervable, in that he could hurry and bring his Body to the very Place (as he can us to an Object, that ſhall tempt us and bring us into tickliſh and tottering Circumſtances) yet ſtill throw him down he could not, he muſt have his own Conſent to that, and he could do nothing but perſuade. Thus it is with thy Will, for Chriſt's Temptations are the Patterns of ours. Auſtin makes this the Wonder, that whereas the Devil is a Dog in Chains, yet lo how he doth prevail! when yet he can only bark and ſollicite, but hurt and bite none but him that is willing, and joins himſelf to him. The like hath Bernard, Videte Fratres quàm debilis eſt Hoſtis, qui non vincit niſi volentem.

Neminem poteſt mordere niſi eum qui ſe ei conjunxerit; latrare poteſt, ſollicitare poteſt, mordere omnino non poteſt niſi volentem.

3. Be but ſtedfaſt in believing, and thou art victorious. Have but an inward Courage, let not thy Heart fail thee, and thou conquereſt. I have prayed (ſaith Chriſt) that thy Faith fail not. Keep up thy Heart but in confidence (ſo ſaith the Apoſtle, Hold faſt your Confidence) for Faith ſupports it: yea it is but having a Eye, a Look unto Chriſt, the Author and Finiſher of our Faith, and unto God, the God of all Grace (as the 10*th ver.* points out) It is but to cry out to him for help in time of need (as the word ſignifies, and as the Apoſtle, Heb. 4. 16. directs us) it is but to ſee our own Weakneſs, and to look out for a Strength in the Grace that is in God and in Jeſus Chriſt, and we overcome. 2 Tim. 2. 1. Above all take (ſays the Apoſtle, Eph. 6.) the Shield of Faith, wherewith (alone) ye ſhall be able to quench all the fiery Darts of the Wicked One. And the Reaſon the Apoſtle here puts the Article, ἐν τῇ πίστει, is not to note out Religion in general, but the eminent uſe of that Grace in this Victory. This is your Victory, even your Faith, 1 John 5. 4. I enlarge not on this, only obſerve the eaſineſs of ſuch a Victory, as an Encouragement to us, as Chriſt ſays, Fear not, only believe, Luke 8. 50.

I go on unto what is more directly propounded by Peter, purpoſely for Encouragement, in thoſe Words, Knowing that the ſame Afflictions are accompliſhed in your Brethren, that are in the World. It ought to be a Comfort and Encouragement to us, that to be thus tempted is the common Lot of all the Brotherhood, univerſally in the World. They are all Fellow-Sufferers with us in this kind, not from Men only, but from Satan by ſore and grievous Temptations; and this will afford unto us a double Conſideration for Encouragement againſt Temptations.

1. That there are all ſorts of Temptations diſpenſed amongſt them. If they have not that which thou haſt, they have ſome other, yea and every one hath that which ſhall be perſonally moſt grievous to him. There are manifold Temptations, as James and Peter ſays, and God exerciſeth all with one or other; and the more to lead thee through them, is the more to make thee perfect, for Chriſt was thus made perfect, that he ran through all, therefore be not diſcontented with thy Lot. Yea the Apoſtle intimates that the ſame, the very ſame that befal any one, do befal ſome other in the World (which is a wide Place, and hath many Saints in it) τὰ αὐτὰ τῶν παθημάτων, the ſame of Sufferings, that is, the ſame ſort or kind of Sufferings that befal one, befal ſome other, they have all ſorts amongſt them. We have heard Job complaining (ſays Calvin) did ever the like befal another? (in his 3, 4, 5. Chapters) But the Apoſtle here on the contrary ſaith, that nothing doth befal us in this, which we may not behold in ſome or other Members of the Church. In 1 Cor. 10. 13. the Apoſtle comforts the Corinthians

Book III. thians with this, There hath no Temptation taken you (saith he) but what is common to Man, but God is faithful, &c.

(1.) He speaks to them as Believers, and as considered in the State of Grace, and as those that were under the Protection of God and his Promises, why else doth he comfort them with this word, but God is Faithful? &c.

(2.) He speaks of Temptations to Sin, yea of their having been overcome of Sins, and great Sins, Idolatry, Fornication, Murmuring: and he had laid before them great Punishments for such Sins, Let him that standeth (saith he) take heed lest he fall, namely, into Sin for time to come. And then to comfort them for their having fallen, he adds, there is no Temptation hath befallen you, but what is common to Man, that is, to the Saints of God, as clothed with humane Infirmity, by reason of which a Saint may fall into Sin. Camero says, Sins cannot be meant, because the Promise is, they shall be able to bear them; now it is not a Promise to the Saints to be able to bear Sins. But I answer, that Promise imports two things.

1. That Sins are Sufferings to the Saints and the greatest, why else doth he speak of bearing them, and speak of this as proper to a Saint?

2. The Promise is not that their Spirits should bear them, that is brook them, as being contented with them as Sins; but that they should be able to submit to the Providence of God under them, and not despair (as Calvin saith); and Submission to God in point of Sinnings, and bearing up ones Heart not to despair, is the greatest Patience.

A second ground of Incouragement is from this, that all the Brotherhoods being involved thus in Temptations, is part of the Communion of Saints. Consider how not all singly, but all jointly as one Man are engaged with you in the same Strivings; and so helping one another, ye strive together as one Man, and multorum manibus grande levatur opus; one is fighting in one Place, another in another, one against one Lust, another against another, and this should hearten all and every one. This mightily encourageth Soldiers that they fight together: Now thou hast the Hearts of all the Saints with thee, yea every one helps each other by their Prayers, by their Victories; yea by virtue of this Communion of Saints, all the Prayers thou putteſt up for thy self are for the whole, and what thou loseſt is lost to the whole Party. How doth this move the Jesuits in their Undertakings every where in the World? What thou winneſt is won to the whole Party; every Prayer thou putteſt up for thy self, is put up for the whole, as Christ in that his Form of Prayer hath instructed us. And at the latter Day you will all rejoice together, and Stories will be told, who did most valiantly at such and such a time, how thou wert stormed and the Devil's Mine sprung, which he had been a long while a contriving, and how thou stoodeſt it out against all.

CHAP. VII.

Motives unto Holy Obedience, and unto a Boldneſs in our Chriſtian Profeſſion, drawn from the Majeſty of the Lord that appears therein. With an Exhortation to preſerve it, and the Means of maintaining the Honour of our Profeſſion.

Mark VI. 20.

For Herod feared John, knowing that he was a Juſt Man and an Holy; and obſerved him: And when he heard him, he did many things, and heard him gladly.

WE have here a great and ſtrange Wonder, a Wolf (or as Chriſt called him, a Fox) afraid of a Lamb. Herod a King, is afraid of John Baptiſt, which ſhews a plain Conteſt between two Majeſties which ſhould overcome. We have here a King reverencing a greater Majeſty than his own in a Subject, and in a Subject too of the meaneſt outſide, clad not in Silk, as thoſe in King's Houſes (as Chriſt ſaid of him) but in Camels Hair. I may upon ſuch a ſtrange Encounter ſay, What aileſt thou O Herod, that thou feareſt John? Look on him, what is it thou viewеſt in him to work the leaſt degree of Fear? Art not thou a King? Take Heart, reaſſume Spirit. Ay, but he is an holy, and a juſt Man, and overcomes me (ſays Herod) and that is all the Reaſon indeed. Herod feared John, knowing him that he was a Juſt Man and an Holy, and reverenced him; and when he heard him, he did many things, and heard him gladly.

There are two Doctrines natural to this Scripture.

1. That there is a Glory and Majeſty ſhines in the Graces, and Lives of Holy and Juſt Men, ſo far as they are Holy.

2. That there is a ſpecial Majeſty and Authority diſcovers it ſelf in the Word of God preached, when it is delivered and adminiſtred by Holy Men. Here is both Fear and Reverence, as the Effects aſſigned to a double Cauſe: (1.) Reverence to his Preaching upon hearing of him. (2.) Fear, becauſe he knew that he in his Perſon was a Juſt and Holy Man.

I ſay there is, as an Authority, ſo a Majeſty, for it encounters here with the Majeſty of a King, and outſhines it to an Awe and Reverence; and therefore muſt be in its Kind, a Majeſty greater than what was ſtampt upon him. There are other Proofs of it, as in Iſa. 26. 10. The Majeſty of the Lord is ſaid to ſhine in a Land of Uprightneſs. And theſe two Sentences are ſtrictly to be conjoined, as to this ſenſe, That where Uprightneſs in righteous Men dwells, there, in thoſe upright Men, the Majeſty of the Lord ſhines and appears, which wicked Mens Conſciences, tho glimmeringly, do diſcern, altho they will not behold, that is, acknowledg it. The Reaſons of the Doctrine are,

1. Becauſe God is in them, and darteth eminent Beams of his Majeſty out from them, in their Converſations: 2 Cor. 6. 16. I will dwell in them and walk in them, and I will be their God, and they ſhall be my People. And, 1 Joh. 4. 16. He dwelleth in God, and God in him. God is ſaid to be in them; therefore as the Body hath a Majeſty in it (which appears in the Subjection of Beaſts to the Face of Man) becauſe a reaſonable Soul dwells in it, and a Majeſty anſwerable to ſuch a Soul, appears in it, ſo it is here. And as Solomon's Temple, wherein God manifeſted his glorious Preſence, is therefore ſaid to be glorious, in the Scriptures; much more are theſe living Temples of the Holy Ghoſt, wherein God keeps his Court and Reſidence. The King of Glory cannot come into the Heart (as he is ſaid to come into the Hearts of his People, as ſuch, Pſal. 24. 9, 10.) but ſome Glory of himſelf will appear; and as God doth accompany the Word with Majesty, because it is his Word, so he doth accompany his own Children, and their Ways with Majesty, yea even in their greatest Debasements. As when Stephen was brought before the Council, as a Prisoner at the Bar for his Life, then God manifested his Presence to him, for 'tis said, his Face shone as the Face of an Angel of God, Acts 6. 15. in a proportionable manner it is ordinarily true, what Solomon says of all righteous Men, A Man's Wisdom makes his Face to shine, Eccles. 8. 1. Thus Peter also speaks, 1 Pet. 4 14. If you be reproached for the Name of Christ, happy are you; for the Spirit not only of God, or of Grace, but of Glory resteth upon you. And so in the Martyrs, their Innocency, and Carriage, and Godly Behaviour, what Majesty had it with it? What an Amiableness in the sight of the People, which daunted, dashed and confounded their most wretched Opposers? So that, altho the wicked Persecutors did eat up God's People as Bread (as 'tis *Psal.*14.4,5.) yet it is added, that they were in great fear upon this very account, That God is in the Generation of the Just. God stands as it were astonish'd at their Dealings, Have the Workers of Iniquity no Knowledg? (so in the words afore) That eat up my People as Bread, and make no more ado of it, than a Man doth that heartily eats his Meat. They seem to do thus, they would carry it and bear it out; but for all that they are in great fear whilst they do thus, and God strikes their Hearts with Terror then, when they most insult. Why? For God is in the Generation of, or dwelleth in the Just; and God gives often some Glimmerings, Hints and Warnings to the Wicked (such as Pilate had concerning Christ) that his People are righteous. And this you may see in Phil. 1. 28. And in nothing terrified by your Adversaries, which is to them an evident Token of Perdition, but to you of Salvation, and that of God. In that latter Passage I observe, that an Assurance of Salvation, and a Spirit of Terror, and that of God, is given to either. In the Old Testament it is recorded of David, 1 Sam. 18. 12. that altho Saul hated him (ver. 9.) and sought to destroy him (ver. 10, 11.) yet Saul was afraid of David, because the Lord was with him, and was departed from Saul, which is the Reason in hand. God manifested his Presence in David, and struck Saul's Conscience with his Godly and Wise Carriage, and that made him afraid.

2. The second Reason is, that God hath subjected the Consciences of all Men to the Graces and Uprightness that is in his People, which will appear by three Things.

(1.) There is an assenting to and approbation of their Courses in Mens Consciences. There appeareth to them an Amiableness and a Beauty therein; so as they cannot but say, their Ways are good. Thus Paul says of himself, who yet was spoken against more than any Man; 2 Cor. 4. 12. We have renounced the hidden things of Dishonesty, not walking in Craftiness, but commending our selves to every Man's Conscience, in the sight of God. His Conversation was such, as any Man that knew his ways and manner of Life, could not but in his Conscience approve of what he did, as Good, and Holy, and Just. And thus David was so upright in his Actions, that Achish the King of Gath, an Heathen, acknowledgeth it: 1 Sam. 29. 6, 8. Surely as the Lord liveth, thou hast been upright, and thy going out, and thy coming in, is good in my sight, and I have found no evil in thee: yet the Lords (for their Envy at thee, and their own particular Interest) favour thee not. The like he says too at the 9*th ver. Thou art good in my sight, and as an Angel of God.* And such Trust did he repose in him, he made him Keeper of his Head, and committed his Life to him, 1 Sam. 28. 2. And the Reason of all is, because Holiness is Light, and so is to the Conscience as Light is to the Eye: Eph. 5. 8. Ye are now Light in the Lord, walk as Children of the Light. If you ask what that Light is which is in them? He answers, That the Fruit of the Spirit is in all Goodness, Righteousness and Truth. So that their Godliness, and what is the Fruit of the Spirit in them, is Light. And as sore Eyes that cannot endure to behold the Light, yet cannot but say, that the Light is good, 'tis amiable, 'tis glorious and beautiful; so 'tis here, an Holy Profession and Life is as Beauty is to the Eye; if the Eye be opened, and Beauty laid before it, it cannot but acknowledg it such.

(2.) An Holy Profession and Life hath not only an amiableness in it, but an Authority also to reprove Wicked Men. Eph. 5. 11. By walking in the Light, you

(the Saints) shall reprove their Works that they are evil. And this Authority ariseth thus, that Holiness doth manifest Sin and the Vileness of it in evil Men, and lays open their Consciences to themselves, by the Light shining in a Believer's Profession and Life, and so reproves them, for their Consciences have in and of themselves a Light that shews them their Villanies, and therefore they practise their Wickedness in secret: Eph. 5. 11. It is a Shame (says he) to speak of what is done in secret by them. There is a Shame in it, a Guile in their Courses, which they avoid by Secrecy; but by the coming in upon them of the Light of a contrary Holiness, which hath a Glory in it, the Shame of their secret Wickedness riseth up with the greater Power upon them. Chap. 7.

(3.) Holiness in the Saints hath the Authority of a Judg, as to the Consciences of Wicked Men, and it is a Forerunner of what Authority they shall one Day exercise; for they have the Honour to be Judges in the World to come, and they do begin in their Lives here. So Lot was among the Sodomites, and therefore the Saints are said to bind Wicked Men in Cords (Psal. 2.) And Wicked Men look upon a Godly Man as a Judg, and fear him as a Judg; and as they fear the Word, so they dread the Lives of the Saints, as Herod feared John, because he was a Just and a Holy Man. And thus so far as any Severity of Righteousness did appear, the wise and grave Men obtained Authority amongst the Heathen upon this very Principle. God gave them restraining Graces of his Spirit, and an Authority accompaning them, insomuch as we read of Cato being a Man of immovable Justice and Austerity, that the generality of the People would cease their Plays, and such sinful Spectacles, till he was passed by. 'Tis the Counsel Seneca gives, that a Man should set before his Eyes a Cato, or a Lelius, as a Judg of his Actions; Cogita Catonem Judicem. Now if these Glow-worms that shined in the dark had this Authority on Mens Consciences, what Honour have all Christ's Saints, if they endeavour to hold forth Holiness, who ought to be burning and shining Lights in a crooked Generation?

Lastly, True and genuine Holiness is the lively Image of God; and so much as there is of the Image of God, so much Glory and Majesty is there: 2 Cor. 3. 18. But we all with open Face, beholding as in a Glass the Glory of the Lord, are changed into the same Image from Glory to Glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord: The Image of God, according to the proportion of its Appearance, in any Kind or Degree, hath a Majesty in it, as God himself hath; and still so much of the Image of God as appears, so much Majesty. As for instance, in Man, tho fallen, there being left some Prints of the Image of God, and Superiority over Beasts, answerably there is a Majesty in Man, by reason of which Beasts do fear him. Thus also there is an Impression of Majesty upon Kings and Magistrates, of whom God hath spoken, I have said ye are Gods, as in relation unto Men; and God accompanies them with a Majesty, and an Authority answerable. And so far as God doth back this his Image, so far they reign, and rule, and their Subjects Hearts are touched to obey them, as Saul's Subjects were, when he was made King. So of David'tis said, That God had subdued the People under him (Psal. 45.) and the Church is called the Queen, as being the Spouse of Christ, and her Children are stiled Princes: and as Christ is said to have Glory and Majesty in the third and fourth Verses, so in like manner (ver. 9.) she is said to be all glorious within. As Queens participate of Majesty with their Husbands, so the Church with Christ.

The Doctrine thus proved, an Objection is to be prevented. You will say Experience confutes all this; for there are no People counted viler then the People of God, and their Ways are esteemed Foolishness, and they are insulted over and opposed; where then is this Majesty you have spoken of?

1. I answer, that some, tho brought up in the Church, yet never saw the Light, nor were acquainted with the Power of Godliness, or the Profession of it, but have lived as Men in Vaults, and were never brought forth to see the Light, and so speak against what they know not, Jude 10. Peter also attributes it to Ignorance, that foolish Men speak against the People of God, 1 Pet. 2. 15. That you may put to silence the Ignorance of foolish Men.

Book III.

2. Godlineſs is yet further prejudged to many ſuch by Miſreports. Men look upon it through falſe Miſts, and diſtorted Mediums, falſe Glaſſes, falſe prejudicate Suggeſtions, which Enemies have inſtilled unto them: Even as Bernard an Holy Man did upon the Waldenſes, whom he wrote againſt. Report (ſay they, in Jer. 20. 10.) and we will report it. Thus of Chriſt Men ſpake by hearſay, ſome one way and ſome another, John 7. 12.

3. The real Scandals, yea the utter Fallings away of many profeſſing Godlineſs, confirm them in this Opinion; ſo as indeed the Majeſty of God's Ways, and of the Profeſſion of them, by this means comes to be much obſcured; yet ſo as it ſtill appears. For tho many withdraw and fall back, yet they may ſee ſome who are true, that hold out, and rejoice as a Giant to run their Race.

4. Godlineſs being clothed with ſo mean an Outſide (as it was in Chriſt, that there was no Form nor Beauty in him, Iſa. 53.) is therefore obſcured; for the World looks for the Kingdom of God to come with Pomp, as did the Phariſees: but the beſt of the Saints are ſaid to have worn Sheep-skins, Heb. 11. They were Leather-Coats, of whom yet (ſays that Scripture) the World was not worthy; who (as that inſinuates) dealt unworthily with them, becauſe they diſcerned not their Worth, by reaſon of the meanneſs of their Condition. And Chriſt ſays, Becauſe the Poor received the Goſpel, therefore, bleſſed are they that are not offended in me.

5. The Blame lies much upon true Chriſtians themſelves, who do not labour to expreſs the Beauty of Holineſs, and to put forth that Majeſty, as they ought and ſhould. They ſoil it by too many Infirmities, and ſuffer their Hearts and Lives to lie beduſted, till all the Glory is covered over therewith. There is too much Indifferency, not a due Reſoluteneſs and Peremptorineſs for the Ways of Grace. There is too much Self-ſeeking and Earthly-mindedneſs, and conforming to the the World; and carnal Men view only (as the Egyptians did) the dark ſide, are intent upon the bad that is in them, but deſpiſe and turn away their Eyes from their Graces.

6. Tho all Men ſhould ſee it, the Holineſs of the Saints, and have Glimmerings of it more or leſs, yet God (Iſa. 26. 11.) tells us, that they will not behold it, that is, acknowledg it, but deal unjuſtly with it, oppoſe, ſcorn and deride it, for it is the Majeſty of God ſhining in Uprightneſs; which they are ſaid to deal (oppoſitely) unjuſtly with, which alſo is in the next Verſe interpreted to be, their Envy at God's People.

And this will eaſily appear, if you conſider but two Principles that are in the Hearts of Men.

1*ſt.* There is Conſcience, to which Godlineſs approves it ſelf more or leſs, as Conſcience it ſelf is enlightened.

2*ly.* But there is withal another Principle more prevailing in the Hearts of carnal and unregenerate Man, viz. a Wiſdom deviliſh, earthly and ſenſual, as James ſpeaks; by the Dictates and Principles whereof Men are guided and ruled, impriſoning that Light of Truth in the Conſcience, labouring to blind it and put it out all that may be. Now theſe Luſts and ſinful Diſpoſitions making Men drunk (as the Phraſe is, Deut. 29. 19. they are ſaid to add Drunkenneſs to Thirſt) tho they have ſome Glimmerings of this Majeſty, yet whilſt this Drunkenneſs laſts, they ſtand not much in awe of it; and therefore it is no wonder they are ſo neglective of it. A Servant, over whom his Maſter hath a great Hand and Authority, and he fears him exceedingly; yet if he be drunk he is regardleſs of his Maſter, is not afraid to abuſe him: And thus whilſt Men are drunken with Luſts, they mock, and contemn, and ſlight Godlineſs and Godly Men. But obſerve them on their Death-beds, and in their Month of Pangs of Conſcience, as the Prophet ſpeaks; when their Luſts are allayed, and the Heat gone, and the Drunkenneſs over, and they are a little ſobrified, as at the Day of Death, or Sickneſs they will all be; then the Remembrance of their Ways and Carriages, and their Revilings and Miſuſings of Godly Men, daſhes them and confounds them: And then they will ſend for a good Man, as Pharaoh ſent for Moſes at Midnight, and deſire them to go and ſerve their Gods, and to bleſs them alſo. You will all be made ſober one Day, 1 Pet. 4. 1, to 7. the Apoſtle there uſeth this Phraſe of living to the Luſts of Men; for it is one thing to live and pleaſe their Luſts, and another to live to their Conſciences.

7. And

7. And lastly, Their opposing of Godliness doth not argue but they may have some Glimmerings of the Majesty of it, and yet not sin against the Holy Ghost in their Opposition. For they may hate it out of Love to their own evil Works. John 3. 20. Every one that doth evil, hateth the Light, neither cometh to the Light, lest his Deeds should be reproved. For Sin causeth Rebellion, and puts all out of Order; and so as Beasts, tho there is an innate Majesty in Man over them, yet at times they will (as Christ says) turn upon you, rend and devour you; so 'tis here in this Case, Psal. 14. And have they no Knowledg? (says the Psalmist there) who eat up my People as Bread. And so in Psal. 2. Let us cast away their Cords from us. And truly thus Men deal even with God himself; there is no Principle more rooted in the Heart, than that there is a God, and that he is a Judg, Yet the Fool says in his Heart there is no God, and there is no Fear of God before his Eyes. Yet it cannot be denied, but that the Majesty of the Lord himself appears to Mens Consciences. Chap. 7.

USE 1. Is there such Majesty stamped upon the Graces and Lives of upright Ones? Then first this may be an Encouragement to them to go on, and persist in these Ways, and to abound in Holiness, and to strive to get a reality and excellency therein: For look, how much more real, serious Grace, Sincerity and Holiness appears in you; so much more Majesty and Authority appears also. Be bold in that Holy Profession, which hath been grounded upon the Rock, and which hath a Spring of Regeneration and Sanctification to maintain it; for there is such a Majesty annexed to it, as will bear out it self, and dash, and confound and muzzle its fooliish Opposites in the end. This is a great Motive unto Godliness, and so the Prophet useth it, Isa. 58. 8. Thy Righteousness shall go before thee, that is (as Calvin hath it) the Testimony of thy Goodness and Uprightness, shall appear before God and Man, and be an Usher to make way for thee in the Hearts of Men. And the Glory of the Lord (that is, the Majesty of the Lord) shall be thy Rereward, fighting for thee in the Consciences of Wicked Men, or shall environ and encompass thee round, as that Light did Paul when he was struck off his Horse. As the Apostle makes this a Discouragement to sinful Ways and Courses, that Shame attends them, and is the Fruit and Issue of them (Rom. 6. 2.) so on the contrary it may well be an Incitement to Holiness, that Majesty, and Glory, and Honour, and Fear, and Reverence in the Consciences of Men, doth accompany it even here in this Life. And so the Apostle makes it his concludent Motive to the Philippians, which he shutteth up all with, Phil. 4. 8. when he had exhorted them to walk in those Ways they had heard and seen in him (ver. 9.) see with what Elogies he adorns them, Whatsoever Things (says he) are true, and to be reverenced (for so the word is, ὅσα σεμνὰ) veneranda; whatever are pure and lovely, or amiable: If there be any Virtue or Praise, that is, any thing worthy of Commendations (as all Virtue and Godliness is) think of these Things. By these Epithets the Apostle allures them to Godliness, Holiness and Purity, even because they are amiable, lovely, drawing Reverence and Praise with them. So he calls them, because they are so in themselves, and they are thus to the Consciences of Men. And it is their Consciences, that is, the noble part that is in them, and chief Relick of the Image of God: and therefore tho by reason of their Lusts they distast and despise you, as being contrary thereunto; yet in the highest, noblest part, and most retired Thoughts, they do approve and praise you: Cant. 6. 9. The Daughters saw her and blessed her, and the Concubines they praised her. And the Testimony of an Enemy is the best Testimony in the World, as Moses urgeth it, Our Enemies being Judges, Deut. 32. 31. Be therefore encouraged to hold forth the Word of Life, as Lights in a crooked Generation: Phil. 2. 15, 16. That ye may be blameless and harmless, the Sons of God without rebuke, in the midst of a crooked and perverse Nation, among whom ye shine as Lights in the World; holding forth the Word of Life. Altho the Majesty of true Godliness be under Clouds now, yet the time will come, when the Sun shall break forth as at Noon-Day. Psal. 137. 6. And he shall bring forth thy Righteousness as the Light, and thy Judgment as at the Noon-day. And even in this World when thou art dead, the Envy of Wicked Men against thee will cease: Post mortem cessat Livor. But thy Name will live, and be precious, for the Rust will wear off, and the precious Metal appear. Book III. out the Scriptures, and the Stories of all Ages of the Church; and look what a Man, or Company of Men professing Piety and the Truth were in any Age, such in the end will their Name be, and be owned in after Ages to come: and the reason is in Micah 7. 8. When I fall, I shall arise; when I sit in Darkness, the Lord will be a Light unto me. And, ver. 9. He will bring me forth to the Light, and I shall behold his Righteousness. And the Reason of all is, that there is a Truth in thy Holiness (as the Apostle John in his 2*d* & 3*d Epistles* stiles it) yea and the greatest Truth: for if the word written be such a word of Truth, as Heaven and Earth shall pass away, sooner than the least Tittle of that shall fail, and therefore God preserves it in the Truth of it for ever; then much more the Truth written in Mens Hearts and Lives, not with Ink, but by the Spirit of God, will be verified and ratified by him in thee; and God thinks himself obliged to back Truth, being the God of Truth, and cause it to obtain and prevail. But there is another Reason, that is, the Glory of God that is in thee; Isa. 46. 13. For Israel my Glory. And the Saints are the Glory of Christ, 2 Cor. 8. 13. and Christ will see to his own Glory, as it is engaged in them: and therefore in Isa. 26. he says, They shall see and be ashamed for their Envy at the People. However know this, that by a bold holy Profession of Christ, and his Ways in Sincerity, tho intermingled with very many, and perhaps great Infirmities, you make work for the Day of Judgment: 1 Pet. 2. 12. Having your Conversation honest among the Gentiles, that whereas they speak against you as evil Doers, they may by your good Works which they behold, glorify God in the Day of Visitation. They now speak evil of you, for what they espy to be faulty in you, and wickedly pervert your best Actions, and brand you with Hypocrisy and carnal Ends, yet they shall be forced to glorify God then; and all the glimmering Convictions or Suspicions they had darted into them, will rise up against them in that Day. And tho now the Seeds of these Convictions are sown in Weakness in their Consciences, and pass thorough them but as ordinary, cursory and common Thoughts, yet they will rise in Power, when Christ shall revive them.

USE 2. Let me exhort those who are invested with this glorious Profession, to manifest, and preserve and maintain this Majesty, and not to suffer it to be foiled and justly debased in the Eyes of Men. It is not considered by Godly Men as it ought, what they have committed to their Trust, even the Majesty of the Lord, and that they carry the Majesty of the Lord about with them, and that therefore they should be careful how to behave themselves (as we see Men of Place and of Authority are) lest they should do any thing unworthy of it, so as to debase and vilify it. For were this considered, our Lives and Carriages in the World would be other than they are: What manner of Men should we be in all Holiness of Conversation? But Professors do not consider this, that they have that in them, which if it were maintained and preserved as it ought, and in that Purity it might be, would not only reprove the unfruitful Works of Darkness (Eph. 5. 11.) but put to silence also the Opposers (1 Pet. 2. 15.) yea cause them to be ashamed who speak evil of the Ways of God, as it is 1 Pet. 3. 16. It would plainly dash and put out of countenance, the Pomp, Glory and Splendor of all unregenerate Mens Courses, whose Glory when it is at the highest top thereof, is but their Shame. That therefore you may have this consideration of, and respect unto, the Majesty of the Lord in you, consider but these Grounds and Motives.

1*st.* If you consider it but barely in it self, as an Honour put upon you, you ought to have a regard to it and a care of it; and therefore the Apostle (1 Cor. 6. 19.) when he would dehort them from Uncleanness and Fornication, he puts 'em in mind of the Honour that was in their Bodies, Know you not (says he) that they are the Temples of the Holy Ghost? As if he should say, if you considered the Honour that is put upon your Bodies in that relation, you would not debase them and defile them, and take the Members of Christ, and make them the Members of a Harlot; and therefore (1 Thess. 4. 4.) he speaks of possessing a Man's Vessel in Holiness and in Honour, that is, they were to labour to keep it undefiled, in respect of that Honour that is put upon it. As Fornication is thereby aggravated, that it is the defiling the Honour of the Body, which ought to be preserved; ved; so likewise by the same Reason, all Soil, and Scandal and Filth in you, above what it is in other Men, may be aggravated by this Consideration, That it is a debasing of the Majesty of the Lord in you: and therefore also this is made one of the chief and main Aggravations of Drunkenness, that it debaseth the Glory and Honour that is put upon Man, and the Image of God in him, and lays a Beast in a Man's room. Take Example from Customs among Men: You see Kings having Majesty stamp'd upon them, how careful are they to preserve it inviolate, and undiminished and undebased, tho they are Men subject to Infirmities as others, Heaps of Dust as well as we? therefore what Actions of State and Distance are invented and observed, merely to preserve the Dignity of their Character? Chap. 7.

2*ly*. But 'tis the Majesty of the Lord, it is not yours, but his put upon you by him. Magistrates have an especial Care and Endeavour to preserve their Authority; and therefore tho they would put up many things, were they only personal Wrongs and Debasements, yet if that Authority they have comes to be debased, they will stand to maintain and preserve it, especially when one represents a King, as Ambassadors do. They use strictly to stand upon all Points, to advance the Majesty of their Master, and take that on them which otherwise they would not, and forbear to do, not what is unworthy of them, but of the Person they represent. Now therefore consider this, you that are Saints indeed, you that bear about you the Divine or Godlike Nature, 2 Pet. 1. 4. Consider that God's Majesty is stamp'd on you, the Beauty of the Lord is on you, Psal. 90. 17. You are his Glory, Isa. 46. 13. You represent him in this World, and are in his stead. Consider therefore what manner of Persons you ought to be in all Holiness of Life and Conversation, 2 Pet. 3. 11. and therefore endeavour so to live in the World as God would, if he were now amongst us as in the Days of his Flesh, according to that Speech, 1 John 4. 17. As he is in the World, so ought we to be in this World.

3*ly*. If the Interest God hath in it will not move you, then let your own engage you to have a care to maintain the Majesty of your Profession.

1. Consider that you are to be the Judges of the World hereafter (1 Cor. 6. 2.) and therefore how ought you to behave and demean your selves, that you may have that Authority in Mens Consciences therein, and that you may be a Witness against them without exception? But if you are guilty of the same Crimes whereof other Men are, they may except against you as incompetent Judges. As therefore you look to be honoured with this Prerogative at the latter Day, lay the Foundation of it here.

2. If you look no further than this Life, you have need to look to maintain this Majesty, for you will else be unfit Instruments in doing good to the Souls of others; you cannot rebuke, nor can you exhort, unless you have Authority and Acceptation in Mens Consciences. And therefore Paul bids Titus rebuke and teach with all Authority, Let no Man despise thee (Titus 2. 15.) that is, preserve thy self from all just Contempt, and occasion of Men despising thee in their Hearts, that thou mayst be fit to reprove, and rebuke, and teach others, and do good to their Souls. One that keeps himself without Rebuke and Reproof, blameless, may with Authority rebuke another, and it will be taken well; and the Rebuke will stick the faster, as being thrown by a powerful hand. For as God first accepts the Person, then the Offerings, so do Men; if the Person be not accepted with them, and in Authority over them, their Reproofs and Rebukes will be the less acceptable also: and therefore the Apostle requires that a Minister, because he is to be employed in bringing home of others to God, should be one of a good Report even among them without, lest he fall into Reproach, and so his Ministry do little good upon them. So that if Ministers or others would do good to the Souls of others, they must labour to preserve the Majesty and Beauty of Holiness.

3. Suppose you will not be moved by these Considerations, yet if you respect your own Safety, and would preserve your selves from the Injuries of a malicious World, and from the Strife of Tongues, so as to muzzle Mens Mouths, and silence them from speaking evil of you, or chain their Hands from Violence towards you, then preserve the Majesty of God in your Profession, for it will preserve you. This kept Herodias and Herod's Fingers off John from killing him,

Book III. tho they itched to be at him, Mark 6. 19, 20. 'tis said, she had a Grudg against him, and would have killed him; and Herod (as 'tis likely) had a mind to do so too. But 'tis said she could not, for Herod feared John as a Just and a Holy Man. And when he did murder him at last, it was with much Reluctancy, Grief, and Sorrow of Heart. It was this kept Christ safe a long while also. The Rulers of the Jews would have often laid Hands on him, and would have spoken against John, but that they had by their Holiness won such Authority in the Hearts of the People; therefore it is often said, when they would have attempted this, they dared not, because they feared the People. And therefore if Rulers Hearts were set against you, yet this might be a means to keep you safe, and keep off many Attempts and Abridgments of Liberties, which else would light upon you. And the Truth is, it is one of the greatest Wonders, that the World and Devil, being such strong and deadly Enemies to God's People, should keep their Hands off of them, they being so few and the other so many. But it is this Majesty of the Lord appearing in them, that is a Curb upon Men; and God's being with them casts a Fear upon their Hearts. There is an excellent Place for this, Psal. 105. 12, 13, 14, 15. where speaking of the Preservation of the Patriarchs in the midst of the Canaanites their utter Enemies, he brings it in as a Wonder, that when there were but a few Men in Number, yea very few, and Strangers also, exposed to Indignities, yet God suffered no man to do them wrong, yea secretly reproved Kings for their sakes, speaking and suggesting to their Hearts and Consciences, that they were his Anointed, namely, his People anointed with the Graces of his Spirit (as all Christians are, 1 John 2. 20,27.) and that they were Prophets: The Conscience of this restrained Abimeleck from doing Abraham wrong, Gen. 20. 7. yea and this was a means at the first, for the Primitive Christians to have Peace (Acts 2.) there being some converted by the Apostles, who continued stedfastly in their Doctrine and Fellowship, and breaking of Bread and Prayers; and ver. 43. it is said, Fear came upon every Soul, so as they were a Terror to the Wicked amongst them. Ah! my Brethren, were the Majesty of the Lord but advanced and preserved in this Kingdom by continuing the Word and Ordinances, and giving them full Scope and Liberty to make the desert Places of this Kingdom to see the Excellency and Glory of our God (as it is in Isa. 35. 1, 2.) then should our Enemies bow down before us, and lick the Dust of our Feet (Isa. 61. 14.) and as the Fear of the Lord fell upon the Nations, when the Israelites came into the Land of Canaan, so it would now on our Enemies. But because it is so much depressed among us, and the Majesty of the Lord not beheld, acknowledged and advanced, therefore God goes not out with us. See this in Jehoshaphat's time, 2 Chron. 17. 7. because he sent his Princes and Priests into all the Cities of Judah with the Book of the Law, the Priests to teach, and the Princes to back the Word, and cause the People to yield to it; therefore the Fear of the Lord fell upon all the Kingdoms of the Nations that were round about, so as they made no War against him. This is the Way to secure the Kingdom, by thus advancing the Majesty of the Lord.

4. To conclude all with this as the last Motive hereunto, consider these opposing times, wherein there hath been long a great Battel fighting in Heaven (that is, in the Church) whether Godliness, or Civility and Formality, &c. should get the Victory, as of old between Michael and his Angels, and the Dragon and his, whether Gentilism or Christianism should prevail. Now you have a Weapon in your own Hands if you would but use it, viz. the Majesty of the Lord that is stamped upon you. Draw it forth and unsheath; as Christ, when the Soldiers came to take him with Staves and Spears, did but exert his Majesty, and they fell all to the Ground. And tho your Enemies be more in number, and have more Swords and Staves than you, yet if you would but hold fast that Majesty that is in you, they would not be able to stand out. You are an Army of Kings, and a few of them against a Multitude of Slaves are likely to get the Victory. When the Russian Bondslaves had rebelled, and gathered a great and mighty Army, their Masters agreed to meet them with no other Weapons than their Whips, whereby they used to lash them; and all lashing them together, the Remembrance of their Authority over them, and of the Smart of the Whip formerly felt, struck such Terror into them, as they fled like Sheep before the Drivers. You therefore that are the Enſign-Bearers of God's Majeſty, be exhorted to fight it out, and to contend with wicked Men, and Godlineſs at length may prevail. The Majeſty of the Lord is your Rereward, and therefore till the Glory of the Lord departs from Iſrael, never deſpair of Victory. Know that there is a Promiſe made to the Church under the Goſpel, giving this Hope, Iſa. 61. He ſpeaks of Chriſt, and his coming to preach the Goſpel, which Chriſt himſelf (Luke 4.18.) interprets of himſelf, and of the Church under the Goſpel. In the 6th and 9th ver. there is this Promiſe made, Ye ſhall be named, that is, acknowledged the Prieſts of the Lord. And 'tis added, Men ſhall call you (even the Standers by) the Miniſters of our God. And at the 9th ver. 'tis ſaid, Their Seed ſhall be known among the Gentiles, and their Offſpring among the People; all that ſee them ſhall acknowleag them, that they are the Seed which the Lord hath bleſſed. Chap. 7.

But now it will be asked what you are to do, what means there are to manifeſt and preſerve this Majeſty of the Lord in your Souls and Lives?

Unto which in general let me premiſe but this, That then you do it, when you ſo far approve your Hearts and Lives to Mens Conſciences, by walking in this World as God himſelf walked; that Men are convinced and judged, and ſay, of a truth God is in you. This Deſcription in general, I take out of that 1 Cor. 14. 24. and what there is ſaid of Propheſying in the Aſſembly of the Saints, I apply to their whole Lives. When you ſo walk and demean your ſelves, and ſo in all things approve your ſelves to Mens Conſciences; that whereas now it is in Report and Profeſſion that God is among you, and Men are in doubt whether it be ſo or no; Men are convinced that it is ſo, and that of a Truth (as it is there) God is in you; then the Majeſty of the Lord appears in you.

1. I ſay, approving your ſelves to Mens Conſciences, for that is the ſubject Party, or the Territories of that Majeſty. That you may not conceive amiſs of it, I do not exhort to Surlineſs, Pride, Statelineſs, keeping aloof off and at a diſtance, which is a thing the World objects to Godly Men. No, this is the Devil's Majeſty, and of the Princes and Great Ones of this World, which comes to naught, as the Apoſtle ſays (1 Cor. 2. 6, 7.) diſtinguiſhing between the Wiſdom of this World, and that which is of God, and between the Majeſty of the Lord, and of the World. Now as the Kingdom of Jeſus Chriſt is not of this World, ſo neither is the Majeſty of his Kingdom. And therefore, 'tis not heaping up of Riches, Learning, worldly Reſpect and Authority, that is a means to advance this Majeſty, but 'tis endeavouring to be Holy as God is Holy, 1 Pet. 1. 15. Therefore,

2. I add, it is by living holily, as Chriſt would if he were here. It is to be merciful as he is merciful, kind, faithful, true as he is, pardoning of Injuries as he doth, purifying your ſelves as he is pure; in a word (as you have it, 1 John 4. 17.) it is demeaning your ſelves here as God would if he were in the World: and therefore think not, thou canſt no way advance the Majeſty of the Lord, becauſe thou art poor, or contemned and deſpiſed, and not regarded in the World for thy poor outward Condition. For Chriſt was all theſe, and yet the Majeſty of the Lord appeared in him, and Peter ſays they were Eye-wittneſſes of it, 2 Pet. 1. And thou in all theſe Eſtates, mayſt approve thy ſelf to the Conſciences of Men, as Chriſt did. If thou art poor, yet if thou keepeſt thy Sincerity, and doſt not uſe ſhifting baſe unlawful means, but walkeſt faithfully in thy Calling, and manifeſteſt that thou liveſt by Faith, and dependeſt on God, and ſheweſt a contentedneſs in thy Condition, and that thou liveſt a more comfortable Life by the help of thy Faith, delighting thy ſelf in the Almighty, than thoſe that have moſt Abundance: The Majeſty of the Lord appears more in thee than a Profeſſor, that gliſters more in the World in regard of outward things. Or art thou in Diſgrace, and in Reproaches, abuſed and contemned? labour to approve thy Heart to God, ſeek the Honour that is of him, be patient and revile not again; only take heed that thou ſuffereſt not as an evil Doer, and be not diſcouraged from practiſing all the Duties of Godlineſs with Conſtancy and Chearfulneſs, and thou ſhalt then approve thy ſelf to the Conſciences of Men, and the Spirit of Glory ſhall reſt upon thee, 1 Pet. 4. 14. Keep but thy Innocency, and let them do what they will, thy Light ſhall break forth as clear as at Noon-day. And Book III. that Majesty which shall appear in thee, shall melt all the Disgraces cast at thee, as the Sun doth Snowballs cast at it before they come half way; or they shall all fall off like Burs cast upon a Looking-Glass. For still know this, and build upon it, that nothing from without can debase the Majesty of God in a Man, no outward Condition whatsoever (as Christ says of Defilement, that nothing from without defiles a Man, but all Defilement is from within, a Man's own Heart) nothing from without can foil the Majesty of God in him, but all that Men lose is from within, from Sin, and sinful, ungodlike, unchristlike and unsaintlike Carriages in their several Conditions.

But I shall now shew some particular means, whereby Christians may maintain and keep the Majesty of the Lord from being foiled and debased in them, and preserve Holiness in the Beauty, Lustre and Brightness of it, so as to commend it to Mens Consciences with Authority.

1. Christians must be innocent and harmless. I premise this, not as tho in it self simply and alone, or chiefly the Majesty of the Lord did appear (for many are so, in whom the Beauty of Holiness doth not appear) but yet it is a thing that is fundamentally and mainly necessary thereunto, and which serves much to commend it and approve it to Mens Hearts. For as in all Pictures and Paintings there are Ground-Colours laid, which tho simply in themselves have little gloss, yet must first be laid, or else the Brightness of the other Colours, and Oil and Varnish, in which all the gloss lies, will not so eminently shine and appear: So, nor will the Beauty of Holiness and Majesty of the Lord appear to be in you, or come to be approved of in Mens Consciences, without Innocency and Harmlessness. And therefore when the Apostle (Phil. 2. 15, 16.) tells them, that they were to shine as Lights in the World, in the midst of a crooked and perverse Generation, and they were to hold forth the Word of Life, that is, to hang forth that Holiness the Word requires, as a Light in a dark Night: He withal admonishes them, that if they would shine thus indeed, they must be harmless and blameless, which tho simply it be not the Light, yet 'tis the Lanthorn as it were, through which it shines; which if it be not made of some diaphanous and perspicuous matter as Glass, and that kept clear too, the Light is dimm'd, tho never so great, and is kept from shining: and therefore if they would shine as Lights, and hold forth the Word in their Lives, they must be blameless and harmless, they must keep their Innocency, they must keep their Lives clear, pure and undefiled, and from being spotted in the World, as James says, Jam. 1. 27. And he adds also this Motive as the effect of this, That ye may be the Sons of God, that is, manifest that you are of him; that as he in this World doth no Man wrong, so neither do you injure any Man: and by this, you shall both manifest your selves to be Children of your Father, and approve your selves to Mens Consciences. And tho a Man hath never so much Holiness and Sincerity in him, yet by any failing in this kind, he shall never approve it to Mens Consciences, for Men look upon this Light through this Lanthorn. As Magistrates when they are not innocent, but Oppressors in any kind, or Bribe-takers, and do Men wrong, are made obnoxious by it, and lose their Authority by it, and their Hands are often tied by it in punishing Sin and Wickedness, and they cannot execute Justice as they ought and should: No more will ever Holiness uphold its Majesty and Authority in Mens Hearts, when you are thus obnoxious to Men. And therefore Samuel contesting with the Israelites for rejecting him who had been their Judg, professeth his Innocency, 1 Sam. 12. 3. Whose Ox or Ass have I taken, or whom have I defrauded or oppressed? Or at whose Hands have I received any Bribe? If he had indeed been guilty, then to have despised, and rejected his Authority had been the less Offence. You therefore that have this Majesty of the Lord committed to you, should have a care so to carry your selves in Dovelike Innocency and Evenness to Men here, that God may expostulate with those men at the latter Day, who now reject and contemn his Majesty stamp'd upon you. Whom of you all, then God may say, did they wrong, or deceive or defraud, that you did so much speak against them? Is it merely that they were holy and zealous in my Service, and in those Duties I require? In the 5. Nehem. when some of the Jews had oppressed their Brethren, by letting Corn to use, and had taken Mortgage of Lands of their Brethren in a time of Dearth, and the like cruel uncharitable dealings were among them; see what he says at the 9th ver. in this Case. Is this good that you do? Ought you not to walk in the Fear of our God, not to dare to do this? Why? Because of the Reproach of the Heathen their Enemies. They had the Name to be the People of God, and how durst you do it (says he) knowing that God would be reproached, and your Religion reproached by it? And he good Man professeth, that because he would credit Religion, and shew the Fear of God was in him, he had not been chargeable as former Governors were, yea had not taken that which by Custom he might. At ver. 16. But so did not I, because of the Fear of the Lord. He required not his Due (ver. 18.) because of the hardness of those times; even that Allowance which was appointed to him as Governor he required not, and all this for the Fear of the Lord. His meaning is, that he did it in reference to God, whom he feared, that he might honour him, and credit his Religion in him the more, and that there might be no Cause of reproaching it, as it may be expounded by the 9th ver. And this was it which made old Jacob say to his Sons, his cruel Sons (Gen. 34. 30.) who oppressed the Sichemites, that they made him stink in the Nostrils of the Inhabitants. And so Injuries done to Men that are Enemies to the Gospel, by Revilings, or Defraudings, or by Violence in any kind, will cause Religion to stink; for Men being so great Lovers of themselves, and Haters of Holiness, are sensible of Injuries done unto them in any kind, and revenge all upon the Religion you do profess. And as the Injurious Carriages of the Sons of Eli, in taking of the Flesh of the Sacrifices where they pleased against the Law, caused the People to abhor the Sacrifice of the Lord: So if you be found wrongful to Men, and justly provoke their Self-love in them by any means, it causeth them to abhor all your other Profession, and all the Duties of Holiness, which otherwise they could not but approve. Chap. 7.

2. Labour to do good to all as much as lies in your power. This is a second means to help to commend that Grace that is in you to Mens Consciences, to cause them to think well of it. This you may see was the means, whereby in the Primitive Times, the Christians at first got favour with the People, notwithstanding their cleaving to the Apostles, continuing in their strict Doctrine, and separating themselves from the World, and meeting together and praying, Acts 2. 44. All which are Matters, at which the World so much storms; yet because they parted their Goods to them who had need, and brake their Bread freely, it is said (ver. 47.) they had favour with all the People, whilst they did thus strive to honour their Profession. And this is one thing that credits God himself much to the World, and wins good Words from Men of him, whom tho they hate, and truly hate him as Holy and as a Judg, and cannot endure that Majesty of his which appears in the Word, yet because he doth good unto them, and gives them Rain and fruitful Seasons, and thereby bears witness to their Hearts of his Goodness to them; therefore they speak well of him, and many say they love him, because he is good to them: whereas should they only know him by his severe and strict Commands in the Word, and by those glimpses they have of his Majesty therein, they would assuredly express Revilings of him, and would not have that Esteem of him that now they have. So when wicked men see and view in you nothing but Zeal for God and Duties of Holiness, and feel none of your Goodness extended to them, they will more purely hate you; but if besides your Zeal to God, they find you do good to them, then out of Self-love Men would be drawn to approve good Courses, and to see and acknowledg that God is in you; for they love those that do good to them, and speak well of them: insomuch as the Heathens used to ascribe Divine Honour to those Persons, and thought something more in them than Men, who did them some great, extraordinary, publick Good.

Having dispatched the preparing means to make Godliness to be approved of Men, and acceptable to them: I come secondly to such things, wherein it may appear and be put forth.

1. Shew forth the Graces of the Lord Jesus Christ, as Peter exhorteth: 1 Pet. 2. 9. Shew forth the Virtues or Praises of him, who hath called you out of Darkness into his marvelous Light, being holy in all your Conversation. In your eating Book III. and drinking, in your Callings, expreſs other Ends, doing all in ſuch a manner, that it may appear all is done for God and to God. Whether you eat or drink, let all be to his Glory: and as Zachary propheſieth, let Holineſs be written upon the Bells of the Horſes, and upon your Bowls, Zech. 14. 20, 21. that is, when you go to plow or cart, or ſit down to drink, or go to War, let all theſe be done in a holy manner, that Men may read upon your Drinking-Bowls as it were this Inſcription, Holineſs to the Lord; that you dedicate them your ſelves, and all you have to God; that theſe Veſſels of common Uſe, may become as truly dedicated to God in a Holy Uſe of them, as the Bowls in the Temple were: and even in theſe common Actions, endeavouring to expreſs Holineſs, and Fear, and Reverence and rejoicing in God, you may make as great a Difference appear between them, as performed by you and others, as is between a Picture varniſhed and oiled, and another that hath but bare dead Colours. Moral Virtues ſanctified have a Holineſs, a Glory put upon them; therefore Peter uſeth the ſame word, to expreſs the Graces of Chriſt in that place, that Ariſtotle doth to expreſs his moral Virtues by. Expreſs you Chriſt in them, let his Holineſs appear in you.

2. Abound much in Holy Duties (Iſa. 61. 3, 6, 9.) in praying, in mourning and humbling your ſelves for Sin, in ſanctifying the Sabbath, &c. In the 3*d ver.* 'tis ſaid of thoſe that mourn in Sion, and are broken-hearted Chriſtians, and fruitful Trees of Righteouſneſs, that God may be glorified; that they at the Altar ſhall be named the Prieſts of the Lord, for the Holy Sacrifices they ſhould daily perform and abound in; and Men ſhall call them the Miniſters of our God, when they are diligent in praying with their Families, inſtructing them, and whetting the Word upon them. Men ſhall call them ſo, and give that Report of them; and ver. 9. All that ſee them ſhall acknowledg them, that they are the Seed whom the Lord hath bleſſed. Therefore as Paul ſays to the Philippians, Ch. 1. 9, 10, 11. Be filled with the Fruits of Righteouſneſs, which are by Jeſus Chriſt unto the Praiſe and Glory of God; that God may be glorified, as Iſa. there ſays, and ſo Chriſt alſo, John 15. 8. and then God will thus glorify you according to his Promiſe, Thoſe that honour me I will honour: So to abound much in private Prayer, tho in ſecret, and none knows it, yet it will add a Luſtre to thee in thy Converſation. Converſing with God ſo familiarly 40 Days, cauſed Moſes his Face to ſhine, when he came off from the Mount; and ſo converſing much with God will make thy Face, thy Preſence to ſhine. As Wiſdom is ſaid (Eccleſ. 8. 1.) there to make the Face to ſhine, ſo much more will Prayer; for a Man by much Prayer keeps cloſe Communion with God, God walketh with him, and he with the Lord. Let all thy Actions too, ſhew forth thy Meekneſs and Humility, &c. The meekeſt Man by Nature muſt learn another kind of Meekneſs of Chriſt, Learn of me, for I am meek and lowly. Forgive Injuries becauſe God hath forgiven you, you were ſometimes injurious to others. That which did win Chriſt's Authority, was Holineſs and Meekneſs, Pſal. 45. 4. In thy Majeſty ride proſperouſly, becauſe of Truth, and Meekneſs and Righteouſneſs. Meekneſs did add Majeſty and Grace to him; he that is holy God will exalt, and others will exalt the Man who humbleth himſelf: Be patient in wrongs, nothing overcomes and wins Ground more. It is the beſt Victory, you overcome in the Heart of the Party that wrongs you, you melt it, diſſolve it, and heap Coals of Fire upon his Head; you overcome in the Eyes of others, and are in their Eſteem above him, and he under you. So David overcame Saul's Conſcience, 1 Sam. 24. 17, 18. when he had Saul (his Enemy that ſought his Life) at an advantage, and ſome bid him kill him when he was aſleep, yet he ſpared his Life and forgave him. This mightily convinced Saul, and drew this Confeſſion from him, Thou art more Righteous than I, for thou haſt rewarded me good, whereas I have rewarded thee evil, ver. 17. And, ver. 19. For if a Man find his Enemy, ſays Saul, will he let him go well away? He looked upon his own Heart, and ſaw he could not have found in his Heart to have done this, and few Men elſe would have done it. Such Bowels of Mercy are proper only to God's Elect. Such a Perſon indeed will ſavour and ſmell of Prayer, and having gotten God into his Heart, the Gleam of his Preſence with him will appear in every thing he doth. It will compoſe the Heart, and compoſe the Countenance alſo and thy Converſation, and cauſe all to ſhine. That

Men

Men shall say of thee, the contrary to what Job's Friends said of Job, when they saw him unpatient (they said, surely this Man restrains Prayer from the Almighty) but they shall say of thee, surely this Man prays much, and is abundant in it, his Carriage all day long is so heavenly. Chap. 7.

Labour also to humble thy self, and to mourn, and confess thy Sins with much and daily godly Sorrow; for Humiliation removes the Shame that comes by Sin, which covereth anothers Face, and which daunteth anothers Heart: but thou wilt shew thy self thereby clear in this matter, as 2 Cor. 7. 11. and God also dwells in an humble Heart, and draws nigh to him; and so God's Presence appears more in such an one, and God also will lift up him that humbleth himself under his mighty Hand.

Labour also to make Peace betwixt others and God: this will make thy Steps beautiful in their Eyes, when they discern thou aimest at their Souls good, and sanctifiest the Sabbath strictly; for that Day, by reason of the Duties of it, is a Glorious Day, Isa. 58. penult. that Day is as a Christian Parliament-Day, wherein he rideth in his Robes as it were, and the Majesty of God will appear in thee all the Week after. So also be much in Holy Conference of the things that belong to the Kingdom of God. Psal. 145. David speaking of the Saints, says, they shall speak of the Glory of Christ's Kingdom, and make known to the Sons of Men the Glorious Majesty of his Kingdom. Speak great Words of God, your Interest in him, Privileges by him, and what Glorious Things are laid up for those who love him.

But then 3. be sure you say and do: for the want of this the Pharisees lost their Authority in the Hearts of the People, and Christ won and gained it from them. As Paul says of himself, that he would make it appear, that he was powerful not only in Writing, but that he was so in Presence also; so do you endeavour to express more Power in your Lives than in your Speeches: As Christ did not often in plain words tell them so much that he was the Messiah, but says he, Let my Works testify. As Man never spake as he did, so never any Man did the Works he did. Endeavour to be mighty in Word and Deeds also, Luke 24. 19. As Kings will not dispute but do, so do you, do not stand talking only of the Majesty of his Kingdom, but as David said to Solomon, do it, 1 Chron. 28. 10. That all may come from you, tanquam in Verbo Regis & Sacerdotis, you being Kings and Priests to God your Father; and let all your Principles of Holiness appear to be with you, as the Laws of the Medes and Persians, which you never turn or go from, but are irrevocable. This will preserve and maintain Majesty indeed, as it doth Majesty in a King.

4. Do all you do with as much Reality and Fervency of Spirit as you can (Apollos is said to be a mighty Man, not only in regard of his Eloquence, but Fervency of Spirit also, Acts 18. 24, 25.) that Men may not see Light only shining before them, but feel Heat, and Vigour, and Energy also in you. John was a shining and a burning Light: It is not shining Light only, but it must be burning Light that confoundeth Wicked Men. There is Light in the Work it self when it is done, but the Heat lieth in the Spirit and manner of doing it; be fervent in Spirit, serving the Lord; contend earnestly, put forth your Might in whatever you do, as Solomon says, Eccles. 1. Be zealous of good Works. Press to the Mark, as aiming and endeavouring to reach as far as possibly you can: labour not to do much only, but to have your Spirits shine much in that which you do, that as the Darkness of Ægypt was not discerned only by the Eye, but was felt also, so let the Light of your Works not be seen only, but let them be felt also; express Seriousness and Reality in all, else they will think as they do, that you act but a Part. Actors on the Stage, tho they act the Parts of Kings upon the Stage, yet who fears them? There appears no Majesty because they do but act, and have not the Spirit of Kings, nor the Affections of Kings, tho they take on them for a while the Person, State, Actions, and speak the swelling Words of Kings.

5. Endeavour to do all with Sincerity, aiming to manifest Holy Ends in all, and manifesting and laying aside of your own Ends and Aims. Thus Paul did approve himself to Mens Consciences, 2 Cor. 4. 2. we have renounced

Book III. the hidden things of Dishoneſty. He had no ſecret Ends and Aims, no underhand Projects for himſelf: nor have we walked in Craftineſs (unleſs it were to win their Souls, as he ſays elſewhere) but by Manifeſtation of the Truth, commending our ſelves to every Man's Conſcience, and to God alſo, in the Sight of God. And therefore, ſee how he endeavours to manifeſt and clear to them through that whole Epiſtle, that he ſought not theirs but them, and did preach the Goſpel freely to them: And ſo alſo in the 1ſt Chap. of that Epiſtle, ver. 12, 13. Our rejoicing, ſays he, is this, the Teſtimony of our Conſcience, that in Simplicity and Godly Sincerity, εἰλικρίνεια, perſpicuitate animi, with a Mind you might ſee thro, we have had our Converſation in the World, and not in Fleſhly Wiſdom: that is, we have endeavoured to ſhew we have had no Ends of our own (for fleſhly Wiſdom will ſtill be progging for it ſelf; as Job ſays (Job 22.) a worldly wiſe Man is profitable to himſelf) but ſtill the Event hath ſhewed that God was our Aim, and we have walked in Godly Sincerity; and this with ſuch plain-heartedneſs and cleanneſs of Mind, that you might ſee through us in all our Actions. And we write no other things to you, than what you read and acknowledg; that is, what we now ſay of our ſelves by Writing, you have formerly read in our Actions and Converſations; and you do acknowledg it, ἀναγίνοσκετε, recognoſcitis, you may remember it was ſo, you know ſo much already, and may now remember that this is true; and ſo I hope you ſhall acknowledg, that is, have cauſe to do ſo unto the End.

6. Be conſtant and even in your Courſes, walk not unevenly but ſteddily. The Primitive Chriſtians, who, as I ſaid before at the firſt, won ſo much upon the Hearts of the People, are ſaid to have continued in the Apoſtles Doctrine; and that Welldoing, whereby (1 Pet. 2. 15.) we ſhould put to ſilence the Ignorance of fooliſh Men, notes out a continued Act of welldoing. Kings, who ſometimes take State on them, or any Superior elſe, and then neglect it as much another time, loſe Majeſty by it: Qui ſervat Conſtantiam, ſervat Dignitatem, vincet aliquando pertinax bonitas. Gamaliel gave this Sign and Aim, to know whether they were of God or no, if they go on and hold out; if not, they will come to nothing, ſays he: and Conſtancy therefore overcomes and convinceth, becauſe it argueth Reality; for it is impoſſible long wholly to diſſemble, and act a mere part. The Heathen could ſay of their Fabricius, by reaſon of his Conſtancy, that Virtue was incorporated iuto him, ſo as it was as poſſible to turn the Sun out of its Courſe, as him out of his way of Virtue.

7. Let Chriſtians be unanimous and communicative each to other; this we have commended to us by the Example of thoſe Primitive Chriſtians, who grew in favour with the People; they continued in the Apoſtles Doctrine and Fellowſhip, and in breaking of Bread and Prayers, Act. 2.42. and Fear came on every Soul, *v.*43. For (as David ſays, *Pſal.*14.) God is in the Generation of the Juſt. God is in every one of them; but when there are more together, there is more of God among them, and he ſhines more. An Army of Kings bandied together, ſtrongly cleaving and entring into mutual Leagues (as when the People of Iſrael came out of Ægypt) a Fear muſt needs fall on the Nations about them. They fear your Face, and they fear your Prayers as Cannon-ſhot from Heaven. Hereby ſhall all Men know that ye are my Diſciples, if you love one another, if you cleave together; by this they ſhall know that God and Chriſt is in you.

Laſt of all I will give you a Caution or two.

1. If you would preſerve Authority in wicked Mens Hearts, have no Fellowſhip with them in the unfruitful Works of Darkneſs: Diſtance reproaches them, and keeps Authority in their Conſciences. But reprove them rather, ſays the Apoſtle, Eph. 5. Nimia familiaritas contemptum parit, they will eſpy out your Weakneſſes, and work upon them.

2. Take heed of violent Paſſions, raſh Anger, Impatiency: as they come from Weakneſs, ſo they will weaken you in their Hearts; ſuch Paſſions make Servants controul their Maſters, Children their Parents. As Drunkenneſs is to Reaſon, ſo are violent Paſſions to Grace; they are a ſhort Drunkenneſs, and ſo expoſeth you to contempt: as Noah when he was drunk, Cham mocked him tho he was his Father, for he then diſcovered his Nakedneſs and Shame, and ſo doſt thou in thy Paſſion.

3. Take heed of Earthly-mindedneſs; it were Debaſement to a King, and would loſe of his Eſteem and Majeſty, to load Muckcarts every Day: ſo you who are Heirs of Heaven, it muſt needs debaſe you to lade your ſelves with thick Clay. Let your Affections, your Converſation be in Heaven, where your Treaſure is; magnify not Earthly Things above their own Rate, as the World doth. Alexander knew Porus to be a King by his contemning all things: Do not fear Men, as Kings do not; contemn the Pleaſures of Ægypt, as Moſes did. Nebuchadnezzar left his Throne and fed among Beaſts, his Glory then departed from him. Chap. 8.

4. Take heed of falling into ſcandalous Sins; like Dalilah it will ſhave thy Hair, and then thou wilt be as another Man, and the Philiſtines who reverenced thee before will mock thee. Going up to his Father's Bed, did loſe Reuben his Excellency. As Thamar ſaid to Amon, thou wilt be as one of the Fools of Iſrael, and they all will laugh at thee as at a Fool, and whither will thy Shame go? Thou thereby ſtrengtheneſt the Hands of the Wicked, and they will ſay, behold he is become as one of us.

CHAP. VIII.

Motives to Evangelical Obedience from this Conſideration, that it is the great Deſign of the Goſpel to promote the Life, and Power, and Practice of Godlineſs.

James I. 23.

But be ye Doers of the Word, and not Hearers only, deceiving your own Souls.

HOlineſs of Heart and Life is urged upon us, as we ſtand in relation to the Word of God, as written and engrafted in the Heart, which Holineſs in other Scriptures is called, obeying from the Heart that Mould of Doctrine, that is, anſwering it in the Life. Here in the Text it is called doing of the Word. James ſpends moſt of this Epiſtle upon it, to urge it, and to ſhew the Vanity of that Religion which is deſtitute of it. Now by doing the Word in a large ſenſe, not ſimply outward Obedience is meant, but the whole Conformity to the Will of God in the inward and outward Man: it is a Conformity to all that the Word exhorts to. Now the Word exhort to Faith, to change of Heart, to inward Sanctification in the Will, as well as to a Godly Converſation, and ſo all inward holy Diſpoſitions and Motions are doing the Will of God. Thus the whole Building from top to bottom, Faith, and both inward and outward Holineſs, are called doing by Chriſt: Mat. 7. 24. Hearing my Sayings (ſays Chriſt) and doing them, is to build on a Rock, namely, on himſelf. The Reaſon is, becauſe doing hath relation to Command. Now his Command is to believe, 1 John 5. 23. Faith is therefore called the Work of God, John 6. 29. (it is indeed the Work of all Works) and ſo to increaſe in habitual Grace, Faith, Knowledg, &c. is called doing; 2 Pet. 1. If theſe things be in you (ſays he, ver. 8.) but he ſays ver. 10. If ye do theſe things. When Paul diſputes (as we do againſt the Papiſts) that no Man is juſtified by Works: What! doth he mean external Works only? No, but he excludes from our Juſtification our whole Righteouſneſs, both Root and Branch, the inward as the Root, and outward as the Branches, becauſe under Works of the Law is comprehended a compleat Conformity to the Law, and to what the Law requires, and ſo he means hereby inward as well as outward Holineſs. For when the Law ſays do this, it therein commands inward Holineſs in doing; as the Root of doing, or the Law is not fulfilled. And thus when the Law forbids any evil Work, it forbids Original Sin as well as actual, for Law binds the whole Man.

1*ſt.* It is the end of the Word to enjoin ſuch entire Holineſs. 1 Tim. 1. 5. Now the end of the Commandment is Charity out of a pure Heart, and a good Conſcience, and Faith unfeigned. The Apoſtle in that Chapter reckons up many Particulars, and concludes (as if he had not mentioned all) If there be any thing elſe contrary to ſound Doctrine, according to the Glorious Goſpel. He concludes in general, to involve all Particulars not enumerated, and he calls it the Glorious Goſpel, as that whoſe Glory would not love Iniquity. Now ſays he, the end of this Commandment is Love to God and Man, out of a pure Heart ſanctify'd inwardly, and rightly directing it, and for pure ends, all which unfeigned Faith worketh in him that believes. This you ſee then is the end of the Command, and this is one end of believing the Goſpel if in Truth. And his Scope is to compare this Doctrine with Jewiſh Fables, and Tradition (ver. 4.) which conſiſted in Speculations and Diſputes; whereas all our Doctrine in every part of it tends to Practice, and this is the Glory of our Religion, that all the Truths of it tend to Holineſs and Godlineſs, and are practical or ſtrengtheners of us in Practice. The Incarnation of Chriſt, God manifeſted in the Fleſh and aſcended to Glory, is termed the great Myſtery of Godlineſs, and the whole Doctrine of the Goſpel is called the Doctrine which is after Godlineſs, Tit. 1. 1. 1 Tim. 6. 3. For that is it, which it all tends to, and all Truth is practical; therefore John calls it doing the Truth (1 Joh. 1. 6. a ſtrange Phraſe to a ſpeculative Philoſopher) and walking in the Truth, John 2. Ep. In the Epiſtle to Timothy, the Apoſtle Paul had ſpoken of exhorting Servants and Maſters to their reſpective Duties; for indeed every Truth in the Goſpel ſavingly known, will have Influence into the Actions of all Relations, to make Men conſcientious in performing them, and holy in them. He inſtanceth but in one kind, to ſhew the like in all the reſt, and to ſhew the Glory of all ſound Doctrine in that reſpect. The ſame Apoſtle (Tit. 2. 1.) calls the Goſpel ſound Doctrine, becauſe it tends wholly to Soundneſs and Integrity, and to make the whole Man ſuch in all and every part of him, and to keep every one in their Duties; as Aged Men (ver. 2) Aged Women (ver. 3.) Young Men (ver. 6.) Servants (ver. 9, 10) for the Grace of God, namely the Goſpel of Grace, teacheth Men all theſe Duties. And becauſe this is the profeſſed End and Scope of all the Doctrine of Chriſtianity, and of the Word held forth by the Profeſſors of it themſelves, and in the nature of the thing it ſelf; therefore if Men profeſs the Truths of it in any kind (thereby differencing themſelves from other Men) and yet prove faulty in their Lives, preſently the Word is blamed by others: Tit. 2. 5. Let Wives be obedient to their Husbands, that the Word be not blamed. Or as you have it, 1 Tim. 6. 1. That the Name of God and of his Doctrine be not blaſphemed. Not only the Name of God, but even his Doctrine is mentioned; and why? But becauſe 'tis expected all his Doctrine ſhould tend to Holineſs, and to make all Relations (for of Servants he there ſpeaks) holy: And on the other ſide, walking holily in all Relations, is ſaid there to adorn the Doctrine it ſelf, as well as to glorify God. Thus every Defect and Miſcarriage lights on the Word, and the Truths profeſſed, as being ſuch Truths which teach Men otherwiſe; and all Holineſs tends to glorify the Word, as that which is the great Deſign of it. And indeed all Holineſs and Obedience is but the holding forth in the Converſation, that Word of Life which is in the Heart, and changeth the audible Words into a viſible Work. The Saints are as Lights in the World, holding forth the Word of Life, Phil. 2. 15. As Grace is but the Word ingrafted, ſo Obedience is but the Word held forth. When the Apoſtle ſays you ſhine as Lights, he makes uſe of the ſame Word uſed by the Septuagint (Gen. 1.) for the heavenly Lights: for as the Light that is in the Stars is ordained to be held forth to the World to quicken things below; and as the gathering together of that Light (which was ſcattered by the firſt Days Creation over all the Maſs of Matter) into thoſe bright Globes, the Subjects of it, was the Work of the 4*th* Day; ſo God in the new Creation hath taken that Light which is diffuſed through his Word, and hath gathered it into the Hearts of his Saints, to give Light to a dark World. The Word in the Heart, is as the Light ſeated in the Stars, which is called Lux, and the ſhine of it Lumen is the outward Splendour of it; and as Light in the Stars is ordained for ſhining to others, ſo is the Word to be held forth in Obedience, that it might the more enlighten Men. And unto this difference of Lux and Lumen, Light and Shining of that Light, the Grace in the Hearts of the Saints being as the Light, and good Works as the Shine of it for which that Light is ordained, Chriſt's Speech imports (and the Apoſtle, as ſome think, alludes to it) Ye are the Light of the World, let your Light ſo ſhine before Men, that they ſeeing your good Works, may glorify God the Author of that Light, and that ſo you may glorify your Father which is in Heaven, Mat. 5. 14. The like Expreſſion we have, Jam. 3. 18. If any Man be endued with Knowledg, let him ſhew out of a good Converſation his Works. A good Converſation full of good Works is the beſt Demonſtration of Knowledg; it is a Knowledg ſhewn forth, and therefore it hath the ſame effects that preaching the Word hath: 1 Pet. 3.1. If not won by the Word, they may be won by their good Converſation. So God tells us alſo, Iſa. 29.24. When they ſee my Children, the Work of my Hands (God's Workmanſhip in them created to good Works) they that erred ſhall learn Doctrine, ſhall come to Underſtanding by it. The end of the Word is, not to fill Mens Brains with Knowledg or Speculations, but it is altogether practical. It gives Rules for all Actions of Men: 2 Tim. 3. 17. The Scripture was written that the Man of God may be perfect, throughly furniſhed to all good Works. The Scripture is not like a Philoſopher's Lecture that diſcourſeth of the Heaven, and the Earth, and Nature of all things; but it is a School of Action, that gives Directions and Rules for all ſorts of Life, and Motives enforcing them. God in his Word hath condeſcended to give Directions and Preſcriptions about the meaneſt loweſt Actions of Man's Life; and to what end, becauſe the Religion it teacheth conſiſts in doing, That you may hear and do, Deut. 30. 12. And God ſingleth out the ignorant and fooliſh of the World for his Scholars, and hath revealed this Myſtery unto Babes, and concealed it from the Prudent. Had he intended only to teach matters of Knowledg and Speculation, he would have ſingled out the rareſt Wits of the World, and have poured out all ſorts of Knowledg to fill them: But he hath ſtuffed his whole Word with Exhortations, Directions to Practice, and made all Knowledg and Myſteries in it, but ſubſerve to it; and he hath Scholars anſwerable, the fooliſh of the World. And why? becauſe they are as capable of doing his Will as the wiſeſt. They can love, fear and obey him, as well as the wiſeſt. It is therefore Practice he aimed at in all the Word he hath delivered; and He (ſays Chriſt, Mat. 12. 50.) is my Mother, Brother and Siſter, that doth the Will of my Father.

Chap. 8.

2*ly.* To do, and to be active in God's Word and Law, is the End and Perfection of the reaſonable Creature, and of all the Abilities God hath given Man, Eccleſ. 12. 11. To keep the Commandments is the whole of Man. So it is in the Original, which is more emphatical than to ſay, the whole Duty of Man. It imports, that this is the adequate End and Perfection of Man, all he ſerves for, all he was made for. Man's Soul is an active Spirit made for Doing and Action, and never doth, nor can lie ſtill from that inſtant it firſt began to think, or deſire. As the Heart in the Body ſleeping and waking never ceaſeth Motion, the Soul much leſs, but the Pulſes of its Thoughts and Deſires are always beating. God himſelf is pure Act: John 5. 17. My Father worketh hitherto, and I work. And the nearer any Creature comes in its Degree and Rank of being to God, the more active we ſee it to be. Heavenly Bodies that are in place nearer to God, the third Heavens being his Throne, how active are they, they never ceaſe moving, the Sun rejoiceth as a Giant to run his Race. Now the Perfection of the Activity of all theſe lies in this, that they all are in their Actions ſubject to a Law, an Ordinance, a Statute of God, which they keep: and from this Conſideration concerning them and other Fellow-Creatures doth David raiſe himſelf and others unto Obedience, Pſal. 119. 89,90, 91. his Scope is in that Pſalm and round about thoſe Verſes, to ſhew that himſelf a King, and all that are truly righteous, do live and act by the Law and Word; and he confirms himſelf and them in their Obedience and Allegiance, by what is common with them to the whole Creation. God hath not (ſays he) given a Word, a Law and Ordinances, and Inſtitutions only to Men, but his Word is eſtabliſhed in Heaven, and all the Stars obſerve his Or-

Book III. dinances, and are his Servants; and which is the Wonder of it, they continue to this Day according to his Ordinance. These heavenly Peers from the Sun to the least Star, never transgressed the least Constitution of his, during three thousand Years (as this Place gives Testimony in David's time) nor during two thousand and an half to our times. There is not a Star hath crept an Hairs breadth out of the Stage and Course God set it in to run; the Sun nor Moon never failed (but when God once or twice extraordinarily commanded them in Joshua and Hezekiah's time) of the Minute appointed them for their going down: it knows its going down, Psal. 104. 19. it moves, it winds about from one end of the Heavens to the other, from South to North in a Peer; and yet when it comes to the Tropick, 23 Degrees from the Equinoctial, which is twice in the Year, in Summer when at the highest, in Winter when at lowest, it stirs not an Hairs breadth further, but returns back again (as a Servant or a confined Person that is limited in his Walk and Pale) tho it hath the whole Heaven before it to expatiate in, yea and tho it walks about the World in a Day; David gives the Reason of it, 'tis God's Servant. And the Souls of Men as they are more active and more noble, so they needed more Rules and Laws to regulate their Actions. The Soul hath as spacious a Course as the Sun in the Heavens: The Law of God is exceeding broad (says David) to sport and delight our selves therein (as the great Waters are to the Whales to play, and tumble up and down in them) and yet this noble Creature which in activity exceeds all other of this World, is not lawless; but its Perfection lies in this, that all its Activity be exercised in the Law and Word of God, as the Rule of it.

3*ly*. It is the end of inherent Grace in the Soul, and of our Union with God, that we should be Doers of the Word; as Needles are touched with a Loadstone, that they may point due North. Sin is a Weakener, and yet we see how active it is, how mad are Men of their Sports, they sleep not if they have not done Mischief, and commit Uncleanness with Greediness, Eph. 4. 18. and yet the Life of Sin is but Deadness. But Grace is Life, You hath he quickned, Eph. 2. 1. It is Strength, Strength in the inward Man, Eph. 4. a Likeness to God, and therefore active, A Workmanship created to good Works, which he before ordained we should walk in, Eph. 2. 10.

4*ly*. As an holy Activity is the Nature of Grace, and the Soul of it, so the Perfection of it; as it is the Health of the Body to act and stir according to the Laws of Nature, as to eat, drink, &c. Grace is called the perfect Law of Liberty, James 1. 25. and it makes the Man of God, so that he who continues in it is blest in his Deed: Prov. 16. 17. He that keeps his Way keeps his Soul, he that goes out of it is robbed of it. His Fruit is in Holiness, and in keeping the Commands is his great Reward. Yea the Word it self so far as you receive it into your Hearts is an active thing. If you have it but in your Consciences you cannot be quiet for it, it will put you upon doing, and it will accuse and excuse accordingly, as you obey or disobey it. Rom. 2. 15. It shews the Work of the Law written in their Hearts, and it works there, and all Truth would break out in practice, if Men did not imprison it (so Rom. 1. 18. the word imports) But if it have a place in the Heart and the Affections, it shews it self to be the Word of Life indeed (Phil. 1. 15.) that would break out into the Life. It is quick and powerful, Thy Word was as Fire in my Bones (says the Prophet, Jer. 20. 9.) and I was weary of forbearing, and could not stay. You carry Fire in your Bosoms, and Fire will not be smothered.

The Danger of a looſe, careleſs and unfruitful Profeſſion; or the Danger of Mens living under the Diſpenſation, and Enjoyment of the Ordinances of the Goſpel, viz. the Preaching of the Word, the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, and Church-Communion, if they live in Sin, indulge their Luſts, or be unfruitful. Two Caſes reſolved, 1. How far a regenerate Man is capable of ſinning againſt Knowledg. 2. Wherein the Sin againſt the Holy Ghoſt differs from other Sins againſt Knowledg.

CHAP. I.

The Text in Heb. 6. 7, 8. explained, with ſome Obſervations from it.

Heb. VI. 7, 8.

For the Earth which drinketh in the Rain, that cometh oft upon it, and bringeth forth Herbs meet for them by whom it is dreſſed, receiveth Bleſſing from God.

But that which beareth Thorns and Briars is rejected, and is nigh unto curſing, whoſe End is to be burned.

MY Deſign is to convince Men of what great Moment and Conſequence the Ordinances of God are to the Souls of them that live under the Diſpenſation of them, for a Bleſſing or a Curſe, according as they are fruitful and obedient under them and emproving of them, or remiſs and negligent; and by this Conſideration to move them to all Strictneſs and Holineſs of Converſation. To this end I have taken this Text.

1. The Apoſtle ſpeaks to Profeſſors that had long lived under the Doctrine and Means of Salvation, who yet had made but ſmall Proficiency. Thus he ſpeaks in the foregoing Chapter, ver. 12. When as for the time ye ought to be Teachers, you have need of one to teach you again which be the firſt Principles. Yea and they were fallen back to this (as thoſe Words imply) to become ſuch as have need of Milk. Whereupon he exhorts them (Chap. 6. 1.) To go on to Perfection, namely, both in Knowledg and Holineſs.

2. And he lays before them the Danger that Profeſſors are in, if the means of Grace have not their due effect; and this Danger he ſets before them in the Example of many that have been enlightened and fall away, and are never renewed again to Repentance.

Book IV.

3. He repreſents the Condition of Men under a Similitude of the Earth (to which he compares Mens Hearts) when it either proves fruitful or barren. Thoſe Hearts that drink in the Rain and bring forth Fruit, have a Bleſſing to bring forth more Fruit; and on the contrary, that Earth or thoſe Hearts that bring forth Thorns upon often drinking in that Rain, are rejected and then curſed. The Equity of this Proceeding is taken from the ſame and like Law, that by the ſame Reaſon the Fruitful ſhould receive a Bleſſing, by the ſame the Unfruitful ſhould have a Rejection, for ſo both God and Man uſe to do with the Earth in like Caſes. When Man hath beſtowed his Pains to till it, and God ſeconding Man's Labour hath ſent his Rain upon it, and it brings forth nothing but Thorns; then it comes to paſs, and that deſervedly, that Man rejects it (as the Word is) and God curſeth it; and the End or Iſſue of it, is to be burned together with its Thorns.

I ſhall now open the Particulars of this Similitude, and unto what the Alluſion thereof ſhould refer. Here is Earth bringing forth of Thorns, upon having the Rain falling on it, rejected, curſed, and whoſe End is to be burnt, and the Eſtate of Men that fall away compared thereunto. What is there in other Scriptures?

No one Place will help us to underſtand all of theſe jointly, but ſome Places will give Light unto the one, ſome unto the other.

More immediatly Paul had in his Eye the Parable of our Saviour concerning the thorny Ground: Mat. 13. 22,23. He alſo that received Seed amongſt the Thorns, is he that heareth the Word, and the Cares of this World, and the Deceitfulneſs of Riches choke the Word, and he becometh unfruitful. But he that received Seed into the good Ground, is he that heareth the Word and underſtandeth it, which alſo beareth Fruit, and bringeth forth, ſome an hundred fold, ſome ſixty, ſome thirty. The thorny Ground (the third Ground, as 'tis termed) notes out the higheſt ſort of Temporaries that fall away; and anſwerably, it is the higheſt ſort of thoſe Temporaries, and the eminenteſt Gifts of them, Paul had been ſpeaking of: Ver. 4. For it is impoſſible that thoſe who were once enlightened, and have taſted of the Heavenly Gift, and were made Partakers of the Holy Ghoſt, &c. And as Chriſt there differenceth a good Hearer's Heart (the fourth Ground) from this thorny Ground, that the good Earth receives the World, brings forth Fruit ſixty, and an hundred fold; ſo anſwerably in this Place, the Earth that is fruitful is ſaid to be bleſſed, that is, to bring forth more Fruit, but that which doth not, is curſed and rejected. And again, as in the Parable of the thorny Ground this is added, that they bring not Fruit to Perfection, that is, mature, kindly ripe (Luke 8. 14.) ſo upon this Place Interpreters have generally made the like Obſervations, that of the good Earth it is here ſaid, τίκτουσα, it begets its Fruits, brings them forth, as a mature Birth; of the other, the thorny, it is ſaid, ἐκφέρουσα, it caſts them out as abortive, ſo Grotius. And the different Cauſe of theſe Events in both Places, is in like manner reſolved into the difference of the Soil it felt; for in all theſe ſorts of Grounds, the Seed ſown is the ſame, the Rain that falls the ſame: But there are ſaid to be Thorns in the one, that is, the Roots of Luſts remaining unpulled up, and theſe grow up again after the tops have been cut off, and inſenſibly draw away the Sap, and ſo their Hearts are never regenerated. The other is a good Ground or Soil, where Luſts are parted with, and the Heart changed (2 Pet. 1.4.) and made Partaker of the Divine Nature, having eſcaped the Corruption that is in the World through Luſt. And thus Paul diſtinguiſheth of theſe here, declaring profeſſedly, that thoſe that fall away never had true and ſaving Graces: We hope better things of you, and things that accompany Salvation, inſtancing in their Labour of Love, which the Enlightnings in thoſe other had not. Paul's Hope of theſe Hearers, that the Iſſue of them would be different from the other, lay in this, that altho their ſtanding at a ſtay and not thriving was a ſhrewd ill ſign, yet notwithſtanding that, he believed that they ſhould never ſo apoſtatize as thoſe others had done, becauſe this Apoſtacy befals only thoſe that never had honeſt and changed Hearts, nor a Work that had Salvation in it; but he hopes better things of them, and to have been wrought in them, and things that have Salvation annexed to them: as if he had ſaid, When I conſider that firſt Work upon you, how ſound and thorow it was (Heb. 10. 32, 33, 34.) When I but call to remembrance the former Days, in which after ye were illuminated ye endured a great Fight of Afflictions; partly whilſt ye were made a Gazing-ſtock, both by Reproaches and Afflictions; and partly whilſt ye became Companions of them that were ſo uſed. For ye had Compaſſion of me in Bonds, and took joyfully the ſpoiling of your Goods, knowing in your ſelves that ye have in Heaven a better and an enduring Subſtance. He knew God would certainly revive them again, but yet in the mean time to quicken them, he lays before them, and minds them of the Example of thoſe that fall away. Chap. 1.

2. That other part of the Similitude, The Earth that brings forth Thorns is nigh unto curſing, alludes manifeſtly to the State of the Earth before the Fall, and after the Fall compared together. Before the Fall, the Earth was ſo bleſſed of God, that it was fruitful with very ſmall Pains, by virtue of that firſt Word of Bleſſing, Gen. 1. Paradiſe is termed the Garden of God, becauſe ſo eminently bleſſed of God. And thus it is with Man's Heart, his Soul was planted in the Original Conſtitution of it, a Paradiſe unto God, planted with a right Seed, out of which all Graces roſe up and grew, and Man ſo long inherited a Bleſſing from God: But falling from God, then on the contrary, to ſhew how curſed Man himſelf was, God curſed the very Earth it ſelf to bring forth Thorns. Now as Adam was a Type of Chriſt, and his World of Chriſt's World, ſo even this Inſtance alſo repreſents what falls out under the Diſpenſation of the Goſpel. Altho Man be fallen in Adam, yet to them that live under the Goſpel, God ſends his Word and Spirit to manure them once more, and try if they will be fruitful (ſo you have it both in Iſa. 5. and in the Parable of the Vineyard) God ſends Meſſengers and Dreſſers early and late: And if now the ſecond time of it ſelf it brings forth Thorns, then (as of Trees Jude ſays, ver. 12.) it is twice dead, and ſo twice curs'd, firſt in Adam through his Fall, then by their falling from a ſecond Work which they have loſt.

3. For that other piece of the Similitude, Whoſe End is to be burnt: It may be an Alluſion to the Condition of the Earth in Sodom and Gomorrah; for as the Inhabitants of thoſe Cities are made Types of Men under the Goſpel (Jude 7.) ſo here their Land or Earth may alſo be ſuppoſed to be ſo. Now (Gen. 13. 10.) it is ſaid of that Land for the fruitfulneſs of it, that it was watered as the Garden of God. So then as the Inhabitants of that Land, the Men of Sodom are in Jude made Examples of the Vengeance of Hell-fire; ſo the Curſe that befel that Earth for their ſakes, that was once the neareſt Reſemblance of the Earth in the State of Innocency, may be conſidered to have been ſingled out by God, to make it the ſhadow of the Hearts of thoſe moſt eminent Profeſſors, whom proving unfruitful God above all other curſeth. For lo this Place and Soil is not only turned into a barren Wilderneſs, as the Pſalmiſt threatens, but into a Lake (as Hell is called) of Brimſtone. The Vapours which ariſe out of it, do kill all the Birds that fly over it; and the Apples that grow on the Banks thereof to this Day are a Proverb, Apples of Sodom, looking fair, but falling to Duſt when touched, and all things burnt and blaſted. And unto this Earth thus curſed and burnt up, doth the Apoſtle here compare the Hearts of Apoſtates curſed for being unfruitful, and unworthy, abuſing the means of Grace.

4. There is one thing yet more, that in proſecution of this Similitude, he compares the means of Grace which theſe enjoy, unto, (1.) Rain; (2.) The Tillage or Manurement of it, The Earth that oft drinks in the Rain, and is dreſſed. This of the Rain I know ſome apply to the preaching of the Word, which is compared by Moſes to the Rain, Deut. 32. 2. & Iſa. 55. yet I rather take it that here the Apoſtle doth in this Place intend two ſorts of means vouchſafed to Mens Spirits, whereof the one he compares to the Rain which comes immediately from Heaven, the other to that of Man's Work in manuring and tilling the Earth; ſo noting out diſtinctly inward Influences, Illapſes, and Dews of the Spirit by the Rain; and denoting means outward diſpenſed by Man's Miniſtry by the other, as Sacraments, Preaching, Admonition, or the like. And my Reaſon is, becauſe look as the things themſelves in the Similitude it ſelf are different, the Rain is from Heaven which God alone can give (who is theerby diſtinguiſhed from the Idol Gods that cannot give Rain) whereas the dreſſing,

Book IV. planting, yea watering with Waterpots (Paul plants, Apollos waters) are the Works of Man, and so a different means from that of the Rain which God gives immediately: So answerably, in the Means or Dispensations vouchsafed by God, signified by these unto Men living under the Gospel, I observe how Paul doth as distinctly mention two sorts of them in the former part of his Discourse: 1. Inward, a being enlightened, a partaking of the heavenly Gift, and of the Holy Ghost. 2. Outward, teachings by Men (Heb. 5. 12.) which also that Passage, having tasted of the good Word of God, that is, of the Gospel as preached by Men, implies. And so the two parts of the Similitude of my Text (ver. 7, 8.) correspond fitly with those two parts of Dispensations by God vouchsafed (v. 4, 5, 6.) for even unregenerate Men partake of the Holy Ghost, as Rain and Water from Heaven, and it falls as the Rain both on the Hearts of bad as well as good.

I shall now add two sorts of Observations, whereof the one concerns the Ground that is cursed, the other the good Ground, where true Grace accompanying Salvation is wrought.

Obser. 1. First concerning the bad Ground that is cursed, observe, That in carnal Hearts all Influences from Heaven and Means outward administred, do but nourish Self, and in the end their Lusts, altho by accident, as Paul speaks of the Law's causing Sin, Rom. 7. 7. The Rain causeth Briars to grow as well as Corn and Fruits, and a poisoned Plant turns the Rain into Poison. Thus Men turn Grace into Wantonness and Presumption, and the Power of Mens Lusts prevail over all such Enlightnings. The Thorns did not only overtop, outgrow and choke the Gifts and Graces given, but did convert and turn the Actings of those Gifts into Thorns. The Rain rots dead Oaks in the end, and so do the Means these.

Obser. 2. That God in rejecting such as are more deeply enlightened, proceedeth by Degrees, and not until they have oft drunk in much means. So also the Parable of the Figtree holds forth, Luke 13. 8. he first stayed two Years, then afterwards one Year longer, and digged and dunged it. He goes on by degrees; as 1. He deserts it, which is here intimated by being nigh to cursing, that is, by Withdrawments, in comparison unto what he once afforded in drawing nigh to them. Then 2. he curseth with final rejection, if they become such as God hath no pleasure in, which he shews by being more strange to them; yet he doth not presently curse them, tho they are next door to it, as the word (nigh) here implies, and as it is elsewhere taken, Luke 21. 30, 31.

Obser. 3. That in this Life God may curse such Men, when 'tis a long while after that they are burnt and cast to Hell. That indeed is the end of all, but it may come long after cursing. Thus the Fig-tree (Mat. 21. 19.) stood aboveground after it was cursed, and thus God sware against the Israelites in the Wilderness long afore they died, That they should not enter into his Rest.

The second sort of Observations are concerning the Elect, those that here are supposed to have good Hearts.

Obser. 1. That altho they may stand long at a stay, and seem to go backward, yet God will not take the like advantage of them in the end. This is evident from this Instance here. Many of these Hebrews that still professed were such, as for the time they might have been Teachers; and yet they still needed Milk the lowest Nourishment, they needed even the first Principles to be taught them. Yea it is added in that 12*th ver. That they were become such as needed Milk.* Even as old Men that are decayed, come to live most on Milk again, their Stomachs are so weak, and so are these too decayed in Strength and Appetite to things holy. These deserved that Cursing that was executed upon those others, that by such degrees fell off; but yet the Apostle says, We hope better things of you, for God is not unmindful of your Labour of Love, &c. which they formerly had. They had such a Work, which (as he loved) would again revive, and yet he sets this severe dealing of God's with others before them to quicken them; this being in it self an ill Sign in any, and shewed they were nigh unto Cursing, and had best look to it. Solomon committed the same Sin against Jeroboam, whom God set up, that Saul did against David, and yet God pardoned the one, and cast off the other. And the Reason is, because God treats in his Dispensations of Grace to the one according cording to the Tenour of a Covenant of Works, but with the other according to the Covenant of Grace, which (Heb. 8. 9, 10.) is differenced thus, Not according to the Covenant that I made with their Fathers, in the Day when I took them by the hand to lead them out of the Land of Egypt, because they continued not in my Covenant, and I regarded them not, saith the Lord. For this is the Covenant that I will make with the House of Israel, After those Days, saith the Lord, I will put my Laws into their Mind, and write them in their Hearts; and I will be to them a God, and they shall be to me a People. Chap. 2.

Obser. 2. That even to good Hearts, the Blessing of much Fruit is not at first or presently vouchsafed, until they have oft drunk in the Rain, and then a Blessing from God comes, as it is said, (Heb. 12. 11.) of Affliction, that afterwards it yieldeth the peaceable Fruit of Righteousness unto them which are exercised thereby. 'Tis afterwards, not presently, and after having been exercised thereby long.

Obser. 3. That the heavenly Influence by Ordinances compared here to the Rain, is not always violent or sudden, but gentle and sweet. It sends down, τὸ ὑετὸν, molliores & minores Guttas (so Hyperius observes the Word here used is) signifying that smaller Rain that falls softly, wets and soaks in by degrees, as Moses in Deut. compares the Word, Deut. 32. 2. My Doctrine shall drop as the Rain, my Speech shall distil as the Dew, as the small Rain upon the tender Herb, and as the Showers upon the Grass. And in Isa. 55. 10. the Word is compared both to the Snow and the Rain; the Snow always falls gently and so soft, that if a Man were blind, he would scarce discern its falling. The Rain sometimes falls more violently, and the Snow lies often long upon the Ground unmelted as it fell; but then a Thaw comes and melts it, and it sokes by degrees into the Earth, and serves to make it fruitful as well as the Rain. So Ordinances work often not so much by Violent but still Impressions; as they alter the Habit of the Mind, as a diet Drink doth that of the Body, and work not as Vomits, Purges, or such like violent Physick. For Impressions that are violent, have their Violence from the stirring of Self in Mens Hearts (which is an impetuous Principle when once raised) and not from Grace.

CHAP. II.

That our worthy and suitable Living under the Ordinances of the Gospel brings a Blessing, but the contrary a Curse on our Souls. The Danger of those who living under the Preaching of the Word of God, indulge their Lusts, or are unfruitful.

THE last and main Observation is this, That our Worthy or Unworthy living under the outward Ordinances of the Gospel and those Dews that accompany them, especially the Word of God, is of Infinite Moment and Consequence for Blessing, or a Curse unto Mens Souls; and therefore Men should be wary how they deal with them.

I take in both sorts of Means, 1. The Rain; 2. The Labour of the Husbandman; and add especially the Word, for he speaks there especially of the Doctrine of Salvation. There are those that look for Rain immediatly and alone from Heaven, but they shall never have the Benefit of it, if they neglect or despise the means that are needful to make the Ground fertile. Paul plants, Apollos waters, God gives the Increase, but by their watering and planting; and therefore they are said to be Co-workers with God, 1 Cor. 3.

To make the main Observation good, I shall go over the Instances of all outward Ordinances of the Gospel, and shew the Danger of neglect in making due Improvement of any of them.

1. In the beginning of the Gospel and the first dawning of it, when the Kingdom of Heaven was but at hand, John Baptist came preaching and baptizing. The Law and the Prophets were until John, but now the Gospel is preached, says Christ

Book IV.

Christ, Luke 16. 16 and one Seal thereof, and but one, viz. Baptism, was administred together with it. Now see and consider what a more severe Warning John gives thereupon, both to the Receivers or the Rejectors of it: Now bring forth (says he) Fruits worthy of Repentance. Now nothing will do but Fruits worthy, that is, suitable, answerable to the Profession of Repentance, which by so powerful a Means and Ordinance God called for and required. By Fruits worthy is meant, that they should behave themselves like to true Penitents (as Luk. 12. 36. the Phrase is) like unto Men that wait. The Words here in the Text, Fruits meet, help to expound it. Fruits meet are such that are proportioned to the Cost; as when he elsewhere says, Walk worthy of the Gospel, because now God will not bear so long as formerly, for now the Ax is laid to the Root. If before, when you sinned against the Dispensation of the Law and the Institutions of it, God punished with Temporal Punishments, and did only lop off the Branches, and did not smite the Root, the Spirit, but the outward Man was then perhaps smitten, and it may be it was long first too; yet now the Ax is laid to the Root, that is (as I take it) to Mens Souls: for he compares the Persons of Men to Trees, and the Soul is the Fountain of Life, as the Root is to the body of the Tree. In the old Law, Men were cursed in the Field, and in the Bushel, but now they are cursed in the Church at a Sacrament or Sermon. And he says now, to shew that God will not stay long with the most of Men, e'er he strike their Souls with Hardness and Impenitency. Every Word is in the present, the Ax is laid, not shall be; every Blow, inward Check and Motion tends to ruin, if there be not Fruitfulness. The unfruitful Tree is cut down, is cast into the Fire, as elsewhere 'tis said, He that believes not is damned already, John 3. God takes less time to dispatch Mens Souls, makes quick work with them, and either hardens or softens them. These Threatnings (I take it) are not spoken of Jerusalem's Destruction, and rooting up the Nation, that was 40 Years after; but this here is threatned more speedily to the Persons he speaks to. Every Tree in particular shall be cut down, and cast into the Fire, even to Hell. All this John says of his Baptism, and the Doctrine that accompanied it, to forewarn them, that if they took that Engagement upon them, they should consider what they did. But then the Pharisees thought with themselves, if your Baptism be such an Edg-Tool to cut to the Roots, we will not meddle with it, and so avoid the Curse you threaten. Hear what he says of them, and let all learn to fear and tremble: Christ says of the Pharisees (Luke 7. 30.) that They rejected the Counsel of God against themselves, being not baptized of John. This Baptism, thus requiring and obliging unto true Repentance and Regeneration those that received it, was called the Counsel of God, because it was that which by God's Counsel or Institution was appointed for their Salvation. But seeing that in the End and Intent of it as appointed by God, it required Repentance and Fruits worthy of Amendment of Life, they chose to reject it, they slighted or rejected it, it was against themselves they did this, and to their own ruin: and so their rejecting of it God took more heinously at their hands than others Unfruitfulness and Impenitence that received it.

2. Of Christ's Ministry that followed upon John's (Luke 3. 16, 17.) 'tis said, He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with Fire, whose Fan is in his Hand, and he will throughly purge his Floor, and will gather the Wheat into his Garner, &c. That fanning there is in this Life, for 'tis of the Corn whilst in the Floor (if you mark it) afore it be laid up in the Garner, Heaven; and by it is meant the speedy Discovery and Separation that Christ makes by his Spirit, of the Spirits of Men by Spiritual Judgments, for neglecting the means, and thereby severing Temporary Believers from true, leading them forth with the Workers of Iniquity. Others take this fanning for that Discovery which shall be made at the Day of Judgment; but to me it seems clear to be in this Life, whilst the Corn is in the Floor, as the several Degrees of this Comparison do shew. The first whereof is the bringing in the Corn into the visible Church or outward Profession, which in the Analogy of this Comparison is as the Harvest. Answerable is that Speech of Christ, the Harvest is great (that is, many are to be brought in) but the Labourers are few. The Regions (saith he) are white to the Harvest; this was spoken when Men yet stood as Corn in the Field, not reaped but ripe for it, and the Harvest was the bringing them in. The next to this is that fanning here ſpoken of; and the threſhing and fanning in the Floor are the means uſed after they are come in: then the third and laſt thing is the laying them up ſafe in Heaven till the latter Day, which is called, Gathering them into his Garner. Now this fanning or ſevering here in the Floor is more expreſly intended of Temporaries, than of Men looſe or worldly; for 'tis the Chaff, whom the Fan there is ſaid to deal withal, not the Tares. And the Harveſt to which the preaching the Word is compared, calls Men out from the World; but this Fanning is of the Chaff brought in by the Harveſt, and it is ſevering it from the Corn. So then Chriſt prepares in this Life for the Day of Judgment, ſevers, diſcovers Men here; and he does it by the Fan in his Hand, the Spirit accompaning his outward Adminiſtrations. I ſhall cloſe this of Chriſt's Miniſtry with that dreadful Prophecy of Malachi, propheſying of the Miniſtry of John Baptiſt that forerun, and alſo of Chriſt that followed. How terribly doth he ſpeak of both as of a Day of Judgment? Who may abide the Day of his Coming, and who ſhall ſtand when he appeareth? For he is like a Refiner's Fire, and the Fuller's Soap, Mal. 3. 2. And in ver. 5. ſaith he, I will be a ſwift Witneſs againſt the Sorcerers, and againſt the Adulterers, and againſt the falſe Swearers. And Chap. 4. 1. he ſays, Behold the Day cometh that ſhall burn as an Oven, and all the Proud, yea and all that do wickedly ſhall be Stubble. This bright and hot Seaſon of the Goſpel's Miniſtry and Ordinances, concluded the Rejecters under a State of Hardneſs and Condemnation, more than Ages before had done. Chap. 2.

3. As to hearing the Word preached by Miniſters to the end of the World, Chriſt in many Parables gave great Warnings concerning it, but more eminently in Luke 8. 18. Take heed therefore how ye hear, for whoſoever hath, to him ſhall be given; and whoſoever hath not, from him ſhall be taken even what he ſeemeth to have. Compare this with Mark 4. 24. Take heed what you hear, with what meaſure you mete it ſhall be meaſured to you, and unto you that hear ſhall more be given. He had ſhewed in the foregoing Parable (as here in the Text) the State of the ſtony and thorny Ground, Hearers and Profeſſors, and his Concluſion or Inference from thence is; Therefore take heed how and what you hear. I may add from the Drift and Connexion, Take heed what kind of Hearers you be.

(1.) What kind, for of four ſorts but one is good; and therefore be ſollicitous that you have good and honeſt Hearts, ſuch as the fourth Ground had.

(2.) Take heed what you hear (Mark 4. 24.) that is, take heed to give anſwerable Attendance to the weight of the matter, according as it falls out to be delivered, for theſe are the great Things of the Law. And he adds a Reaſon, with what meaſure, &c. God deals in a proportion: look what from a Sermon one gets, and brings again with him to the next, that will cauſe an Increaſe by the next, elſe there is danger of a Decreaſe.

(3.) Take heed how ye hear, and Chriſt's Reaſon in Luke is, To him that hath (that is, uſeth that which he hath received by hearing well) to him ſhall be given. For ſo Matthew ſpeaking of the Talents warrants us to interpret it, Whoſoever hath not, from him ſhall be taken away what he hath, Mat. 25. 28, 29. He that uſed not his Talent is ſaid not to have it, which is thereupon given to others, even what thou ſhouldſt have had, but through careleſs neglect haſt miſſed it.

Unto this ſo grave and ſolemn a Caveat of our Lord and Saviour, add the conſideration of theſe dreadful Properties and Efficacies, and Operations of the Word ſet before us by the Apoſtle, on purpoſe to make us know and underſtand of what moment and conſequence it is unto us, how we ſhall have to do therewith: Heb. 4. 12. For the Word of God is quick and powerful, ſharper than any two-edged Sword, piercing even to the dividing aſunder of Soul and Spirit, and of the Joints and Marrow, and is a Diſcoverer of the Thoughts and Intents of the Heart. In the 2*d* and 3*d* Chapters and beginning of this, he had given abundant Warning to take heed of neglecting the Word that was preached to them; and to enforce it in this Ver. bids them conſider what a Word they had to do withal, it is a living Word, it is a quick Word, and an eternal Word. And therefore as the Apoſtle ſays, Chap. 10. 31. 'Tis a fearful thing to fall into the Hands of the Living God: So ſay I of the Living Word, it revived the ſenſe of Sin, when the Light of it came into Paul's Conſcience; then I died, ſays he, Rom. 7. As ſome Metals will not melt till ſome other Metal be put to them, ſo nor will Sins melt or diſſolve into the Conſcience, till the Word comes as Fire, and mingles with them; and when God ſets it on work again, then it runs through the Soul like Hail-ſhot, or like Quickſilver.

It is a living Word alſo in this reſpect, that it is eternal. You may think it vaniſheth with our Breath, but it lives for ever, and your Thoughts will have to do with it for ever: 1 Pet. 1. 23. The Word of God abides for ever. And if you ask what Word it is, even that (ſays Peter) which we preach to you. What if the Word is convey'd and ſet on in that Ordinance of Preaching, if it is written in the Heart, it goes to Heaven with you; if 'tis neglected, yet the Holy Ghoſt will bring it to your remembrance, and ſo it will abide and go to Hell with you. You ſhall repeat Sermons enough there, and the Sermons will be the Doctrine, and all your Sins will ſerve for matter of Uſes, of Terror and Dread for ever: Iſa. 55. His Word ſhall not return empty or in vain.

2. The Apoſtle adds in Heb. 4. that the Word is mighty in Operation; as in its own nature it is all Life and Spirit, ſo it is in Operation. It will exquiſitely torture, and become an Executioner of Men in Hell: it divides (ſays he) between the Marrow and the Bones, which expreſſeth the moſt exquiſite Pains. God's Wrath and his Word do torment Men for ever in Hell; 1 Cor. 10. 6. It hath in a readineſs to avenge all Diſobedience, when your Obedience is fulfilled. He compares it there to an Armory of Weapons and Inſtruments of Death of all ſorts that are made ready (as the Pſalmiſt ſpeaks) and laid up to be brought forth. And the Apoſtle there ſuggeſts to Mens conſideration what mighty effects it will at laſt have in avenging all Diſobedience, by what in the mean time it hath in converting and bringing the Godly into Obedience, and in ſubduing their Luſts. It is mighty (ſays he there) in caſting down ſtrong Holds, and high towering Imaginations. Have you ſeen hurricane Winds or Earthquakes, as they are in ſome parts of the World, that overthrow Towers to the very Foundations, tear up Hills by the Roots, and throw them into the Sea; toſs up Ships riding at Anchor like Tennis-balls, and hurl them upon the Dry-land? Or have you conſidered the Power of Lightning, when it breaks the Bottles that hold it, or Thunder when it roars in the midſt of Heaven, blaſting every green thing where it lights, and withering them to a deadneſs in an inſtant, ſhivering the mightieſt Trees to Splinters, diſhevelling and tearing off the Bark, drinking up the vital Sap? Such and ſo great (tho not ſo viſible to the outward View or preſent Senſe) is the Power of the Word. The Voice of the Crier cries, All Fleſh is Graſs; and inſtantly, The Spirit of the Lord blows upon it, withers all the Glory of the World to a believing Soul, and every Vally is filled, every Mountain is brought low. It tears Mens Hearts rooted in evil (as low as the Center of them) from their deareſt Luſts, it makes their Conſciences to boil as a Pot, and the Waves thereof to roar, and then with one word ſtills them, and calms the Winds and the Waves, and they obey it, and the Heart is pacified. As an Hammer it breaks the Rocks, and as Fire it melts the Elements with fervent Heat, melts and diſſolves the moſt rocky, ſtony and ſtubborn Heart to Water, and works it to ſuch a ſoftneſs as fits it to take any Impreſſion. Now the Apoſtle from hence argues (as you ſee) the Operations upon the Godly in this World in their Converſions to bring them to Obedience, and the ſame Word will be as mighty to revenge, when your Obedience is fulfilled. The Word hath had its full Work upon all the Saints, until then theſe Energies of it upon the Hearts of wicked Men are ſuſpended; but then it will work as powerfully another way, yea more powerfully in avenging, becauſe it will take hold of the whole that is in them, which is nothing but matter for it to work upon; and it will work at once, whereas on the Godly it works gently and but by degrees. Look as ſtrong Phyſick, if it works not to purging out Humours, works to Death and Tortures; ſo in the Godly their Luſts are purged by the Word here, but in the Souls of others it works Pain and Anguiſh. He ſhall ſlay the Wicked by the Breath of his Mouth. This Sword which comes out of Chriſt's Mouth (Rev. Chap. 1. & Chap. 19.) will cut (Acts 7. 54.) to the Heart, and divide between the Marrow and Bones, and will be directed by his Skill that gave it, and that knows how to torture exquisitely by it, and who knows what parts are most sensible, and who will apply it to them. Both the Word of God and the Wrath of God are compared to Fire: Jer. 5. 14. I will make the Words of thy Mouth as Fire, and this People as Stubble, and they shall devour them. Fire came out of the Witnesses Mouths (Rev. 11. 5. the Word spoken by them) which kindles the Fire of Hell in Mens Souls, and devours the Adversaries; and therefore take heed how ye hear. If you were to take some desperate Remedy that hath a Danger in it, ends or mends (as Quicksilver in some Cases) how wary would you be to take it right? Such is this Word and every Portion of it, therefore take heed how ye hear. Men feel not this now, nor do they imagine what a Design God hath upon Men in this Dispensation of hearing and preaching. He prepares and lays a Train for the other World, yea and this instrumentally serves to all his Designs upon the Ungodly that obey not his Word. Chap. 2.

1. It prepares for the great Assize at the last Day, by sending out Hue and Cry after wicked Men, whose Damnation pronounced slumbers not, nor lingers, 2 Pet. 2. 3. It also makes Inquisition for Blood, Adultery and all other Sins, finds them out, and in God's Name arrests the Offender: These Things hast thou done, and thinkest thou to escape? It is a swift Witness against the Adulterer and Forswearer (Mal. 3.) because when they go to commit these Sins, it comes in and says, thou shalt not commit Adultery, &c. Also it serves to bind Men over to Hell, even whilst in this Life. As the Truth of the Gospel makes the Believers free indeed, as Christ says (John 8. 32.) so it claps Irons upon others, and binds them over to the great Assize. It is as the Coroners Inquest that prepares the Inditement for that Day: As the Devils are reserved in Chains (as Jude speaks) so wicked Men by the Cords of this Word; for whose Sins we bind (if they repent not) they are bound in Heaven. The Word makes Mens Mittimus's for Hell, that Prison Peter speaks of; and wicked Men resent this sufficiently, which causeth their Opposition against it. It is to them the savour of Death unto Death, which strikes them dead even here, as many poisonous Vapours in Caves and Caverns use to do.

2. At the latter Day the Word will do its Office yet farther.

(1.) Then the Word will be the Discoverer of all Sins known and unknown. It searcheth the Heart and Reins, Heb. 4. It penetrates the Thoughts and Intents of the Heart, and as a searching Drug, gathers all the Humours into the Stomach; so will this Word gather the sad remembrance of all Sins into the Conscience: or as Angels will gather together Mens Persons, so will the Word gather thy Sins from all the four Corners of the World, in what Place soever committed.

(2.) It will be Mens Judg: John 12. 48. He that receiveth me and receiveth not my words, the Word that I have spoken, the same shall judg him at the last Day. As if Christ had said, I shall not need to judg, my Word will do it.

CHAP. III.

The Danger of those, who being Partakers of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, do by ungodly or unfruitful Lives act contrary to the Institution and Design of that Ordinance.

1 Cor. X. from ver. 1. to ver. 13.

Moreover Brethren, I would not that you should be ignorant, how that our Fathers were under the Cloud, and all passed through the Sea;
And were all baptized unto Moses in the Cloud and in the Sea:
And did all eat the same Spiritual Meat;
And did all drink the same Spiritual Drink (for they drank of that Spiritual Rock that followed them, and that Rock was Christ)
But with many of them God was not well pleased, for they were overthrown in the Wilderness.
Now these things were our Examples, to the intent we should not lust after evil things, as they also lusted.
Neither be ye Idolaters as were some of them, as it is written, The People sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play.
Neither let us commit Fornication as some of them committed, and fell in one Day three and twenty thousand.
Neither let us tempt Christ, as some of them also tempted, and were destroyed of Serpents:
Neither murmur ye, as some of them also murmured, and were destroyed of the Destroyer.
Now all these things happened unto them for Ensamples, and they were written for our Admonition, upon whom the ends of the World are come.
Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth, take heed lest he fall.

THE proper Scope of this Scripture is to set forth the high Provocation and Extremity of Danger for Men to live in their Lusts, while they profess and partake of those two great Ordinances, Baptism and the Lord's Supper. The Coherence and carrying on of his Discourse was this: In the 6th & 8th Chap. he had setly by many Arguments dehorted them, both from corporal and spiritual Fornication, the spiritual was the eating in the Idols Temple. Then making a Digression in the 7th Chap. to decide Cases about Marriage (which was appointed as the Remedy against Fornication) in the 9th Chap. he also closeth with a vehement Exhortation unto the subduing and keeping under of every Lust, ver. 25, 26, 27. Every Man that striveth for the mastery, is temperate in all things. Now they do it to obtain a corruptible Crown, but we an incorruptible. I therefore so run, not as uncertainly; so fight I, not as one that beateth the Air: But I keep under my Body, and bring it into subjection, lest that by any means when I have preached to others, I my self should be a Castaway. And this is (as you read) of necessity unto the partaking of Salvation. Now then to enforce both those two particular Exhortations against those two Sins, as also this general Exhortation occasioned thereby unto an universal Strictness and Watchfulness; he lays before them (and insists upon it) the great and solemn Obligation which their Profession of having been baptized, and their usual Partaking and Communication of the Body and Blood of Christ did put upon them; yea and he prosecutes this up and down, and leaves it not till unto the end of the 11th Chap. And he enforceth the Obligation which lies upon us Christians, from the evident Example of the Israelitish Church in the Wilderness. And here I observe, how throughout the Epistles of Paul, Jude and Peter, the State of that Church, when in the Wilderness, is more eminently set out, as the most lively Shadow and Type of the Condition and State of the People of God under the Gospel, because the whole time of our Lives after Conversion, is a Passage from out of the State of Nature to the heavenly Canaan. Now these Israelites enjoyed for substance the like Ordinances unto those two of ours, Baptism and the Lord's Supper, and yet indulged their Lusts, yea those very Lusts, from which he had in those forementioned Chapters so earnestly dehorted these Corinthians, namely, Idolatry (ver. 7.) Fornication (ver. 8.) remonstrating how God had in Wrath, upon that very consideration of their living under such Ordinances, broken forth upon them, had overthrown and destroyed them; and that therefore under the Gospel, the Neglecters and Prophaners of these Gospel-Ordinances, must proportionably expect a sorer and severer Punishment, by how much our Ordinances exceed theirs in Glory, Evidence and Spiritualness. This Scripture therefore is punctual to this Argument in hand, and is indeed here handled tanquam in propriâ sede, as all other Truths of Concernment for the most part are in some one designed Scripture or other. Chap. 3.

I shall draw forth all the several Particulars therein, unto these five Ranks or Heads.

1. That the Jewish Church in the Wilderness did enjoy for the Pith and Kernel of them (altho the fleshly Rind or Shell was thicker and more gross, and of a larger bigness than ours) the same Ordinances of Baptism and the Lord's Supper, as we do now under the Gospel, for he terms them twice the same in substance, ver. 3. They all did eat of the same spiritual Meat, and did all drink the same spiritual Drink, ver. 4. This sameness of them was then represented in a near outward likeness and distinct resemblance, even of the very two parts of our Lord's Supper, as well as in a resemblance of that of Baptism. Our Lord's Supper hath two parts, or rather a distinct reiterated Representation of Christ, in his Body as Food, in his Blood as Drink, 1 Cor. 11. 24, 25. So in like manner, he finds out both these as distinct in their Dispensations then; for the Manna, the Type of Christ's Body, who is the Man from Heaven, was their Food, and their Drink was the Water out of the Rock, the Type of that Water and Blood which came forth of Christ's Side, as John for the History of it avers with a great solemn note of Observancy in his Gospel, and interprets it for the Mystery of it in his Epistle. And you may observe again here, how that to the end he might thus more evidently hold forth this sameness, and the parallel of their Sacraments to ours; he omitteth the mention of Circumcision and the Passover (which yet were the standing Ordinances of that Church, both in the Wilderness and afterwards) because these, though the preceding Types of our Sacraments, yet in respect of an outward Likeness were more dark and cloudy: And he chuseth rather those which were but occasionally and extraordinary, and only in the Wilderness. For as I said afore, that the Estate of that Church, whilst in the Wilderness, was the liveliest and most momentary Type of the Gospel-times; so also those Sacraments extraordinarily and peculiarly to them administred, were Types of these of ours. They came near the Life, both in the distinction of the parts of them, and outward resemblances to every common Eye and first View. The sprinkling or mizling of the Rain in the Cloud, and going through the Water of the Red Sea, was even to the vulgar View a visible baptizing. It had the Resemblance and Appearance which Circumcision had not, unless to a more spiritual Artist's Eye, that could discern the Proportions of the one and other. And again, their eating Manna as Bread from Heaven, and their drinking of that Rock, doth bear and carry more of likeness to our Bread broken, and Cup we drink of, in the outward appearance thereof. And it is an Argument of no small weight against the Papist, both for the number of Sacraments that there are but two (because the Jews had but of these two sorts answering to our two, but all whether ordinary or extraordinary are reduced unto two) as also for the Cup or Communication of this Book IV. this Spiritual Drink as well to all the People of God, without confining it to the Priests or Levits, as of the Bread, for so in their Dispensation of it 'twas typified. They did all eat the same Spiritual Meat, and they did all drink the same Spiritual Drink, even as well as all were baptized, &c. which ingenious Estius seems to acknowledg to be the mind of that ensuing Passage, 1 Cor. 12. 13. By one Spirit we are all baptized into one Body, and have been all made to drink into one Spirit. It alludes (says he) to the Cup in the Sacrament.

2. The Apostle sets before these Corinthians, how greatly God was displeased with these Israelites, that lived and continued in those Sins, aggravated and made far more sinful by the Participation of such Ordinances, ver. 5. With many of 'em God was not well pleased. He says indeed no more, but thereby means to express the highest Displeasure; as in like Phrase he speaks of Apostates from God and Christ, Heb. 10. 38, 39. If any Man withdraw, my Soul shall have no pleasure in him. But is that all? No, but of all other Men in the World, God's Wrath and Fury doth smoke against such a Man (Deut. 29.) as of all Men an Apostate is most hated by him. And as the Reason of this so sore a Displeasure, he insinuates withal that one Speech, that that Manna and Rock, &c. were CHRIST, ver. 4. That Rock was Christ, that is, it signified, represented and exhibited our Christ to them, and it is therefore called a Spiritual Rock. As our Sacraments are not Christ bodily or personally, but spiritually, that is mysteriously in signification and representation to our Faith, as was also the brazen Serpent. Jesus in the Heavens, and that hung on the Cross, is Christ personally: The Church his Body, of which he is the Head (1 Cor. 12.) is Christ mystically; the Sacraments are Christ mysteriously or spiritually, so as in them we see and behold Christ really and spiritually, partake of him, and have to do with him, as if we were present with him: Gal. 3. 1. Before whose Eyes Jesus Christ hath been evidently set forth crucified among you, that is, as really as if he had been crucified among them, as he was once at Jerusalem. One would wonder that so plain and express a Saying, that Rock was Christ, should not have decided Christ's meaning in that like Speech of his touching the same thing, This is my Body, this is my Blood, both being spoken in the same sense and no other. Now that Rock was Christ significatively and mysteriously, and the Papists themselves dare not say the Rock was the Flesh and Blood of Christ transubstantiated. Hence then it was, that the Israelites in all their sinnings offered an open Affront and Contempt to that Christ, whom sacramentally they did eat and drink every day, and discerned not the Lord's Body in it; and therefore (ver. 9.) they are said to have tempted Christ: so as hereby it came to pass their Sins were not barely Transgressions of the Law which was given them, but they were aggravated by this, that they therein undervalued that Christ, who was held forth to them, tho but in those shadows.

3. He sets before them the Severity of the Punishments that befel them, which he alledged as Tokens how highly God was displeased with them. For in those Days God shewed and manifested the Proportions or Degrees of his Wrath upon Mens sinning, by the visible and extraordinary Punishments he executed. His Expressions of those Punishments are, They fell (ver. 8.) They were overthrown (ver. 5.) both do import violent Deaths, as of twenty three thousand in one day. They died not as other Men, but were taken away in heaps by the immediate Hand of God. Then again it is said, for murmuring they were destroyed of the Destroyer, ver. 10. Now Heb. 11. 28. compared with this, tells us that the Destroyers were some of the Angels (whether good or bad I dispute not) who killed the Ægyptians outright at the Passover; you find it also Exod. 12. 23. and thus in like manner is this to be understood.

4. He plainly applies and bringeth all this home to the Corinthians, as living under the same and more spiritual Sacraments that represented Christ.

(1.) That he applies all this to them his Preface imports, ver. 1. Moreover Brethren, I would not have you ignorant, how that all our Fathers were baptized, &c. that is, moreover, or over and above other Considerations afore delivered to move you to Strictness, I would have you lay to heart deeply the Examples of God's former dealings with others, yea of those that were therein your Fathers, and you their Children, in whoſe Sins therefore if you tread, you as their Children ſhall be ſure to reap from God Puniſhments anſwerable; as the Threatning in the ſecond Commandment given about Ordinances runs, I will viſit the Sins of the Fathers on their Children. And then in proſecution of this he further urgeth, that they and theſe Iſraelites had the ſame, the very ſame Ordinances for ſubſtance, which he inculcates twice, ver. 3, 4. And indeed the whole Diſcourſe is bottomed upon that ſuppoſition, and had otherwiſe not been to the purpoſe, his Scope being, that they therefore muſt expect the ſame or ſorer Puniſhments, committing the ſame Sins, aggravated by this, that they lived under the ſame Ordinances. But yet moreover he brings all home to them, ver. 6. Now theſe things were our Examples (or Types of us) to the intent we ſhould not luſt after evil things. This Nail driven thus home, faſtens all upon them. Theſe things ταῦτα, were τύποι ἡμῶν, Types. Chap. 3.

(1.) Prophetical, for Types have the nature of Prophecies to be fulfilled (as Adam was a Type of Chriſt, Rom. 5. 14.) and ſo did foretel, that under the Goſpel many profeſſing Strictneſs of Religion and Converſion (which was as a coming out of Ægypt) and boaſting in their Privileges in theſe Ordinances, ſhould fall into the like Sins, and ſo incur like Puniſhments. To which ſenſe that firſt part of ver. 11. ſtrongly leans: All theſe happened unto them for Examples, that is, God brought them upon them as Types to us, he aiming therein at what ſhould be again acted over, and more fully, under Goſpel times afterwards to come.

(2.) They were Types monitory, that is for Admonition or Warning, which the Apoſtle expreſly urgeth in that other part of ver. 11. And they were written for our Admonition, as Buoys or Seamarks to warn us that we daſh not upon the ſame Rock, Chriſt, manifeſted to us under like, and far more glorious Ordinances.

2 He inſinuates that God will be far more ſevere towards them that live under Goſpel-Ordinances.

(1.) Thoſe, he ſays, were but Types, which word is twice uſed; that is, all theſe things that befel them were, rudiores imagines perfectionis, ſuch as a Draught with a Cole is to a Picture, embelliſhed and drawn to the Life, ὡς ἐν τύπῳ, as Ariſtotle's Phraſe is.

(2.) Theſe their Sacraments he ſpeaks of, tho for ſubſtance the ſame with ours, yet for their manner of Adminiſtration were incloſed about with an Huſk or Rind of a fleſhly Diſpenſation, which made them but Shadows of ours in compariſon. They drank of the Rock which was Chriſt, but their Beaſts drank of the ſame, and ſo it ſerved to another purpoſe beſides that of repreſenting Chriſt. Their Baptiſm was cloudy, 'twas as in a Cloud; and inſtead of its being ſaid to be into Chriſt (as the Goſpel runs, Rom. 6. 3.) the Apoſtle ſays, they were baptized viſibly but into Moſes (ver. 1.) and ſo into Chriſt but as at a ſecond and remote hand, typified forth by that Moſes. In like manner their Paſſover primâ Intentione, and nextly and immediately, ſignified to them their Deliverance out of Ægypt; but that being the Type of our Converſion from Satan to God, Spiritual Deliverance came therefore to be thus ſignified thereby at ſecond hand, ſecundâ Intentione, and remotely (tho yet mainly and in its primary Intention deſigned) but yet that out of Ægypt was the next and immediate Deliverance ſignified. Now as their Ordinances, as encloſed in this Rind, were more outward and fleſhly than ours, which have that Rind now ſhaled off, and Chriſt is thereby immediately and only held forth; ſo,

(3.) The Puniſhments for neglects or profane ſinnings under them were viſible, but outward and temporary, as by bodily Death, &c. which is but the breaking the Shell, the outward Man: But our Goſpel-Ordinances being more ſpiritual, have anſwerably Puniſhments that are ſo. As God bleſſeth in Spiritual Things now, ſo he curſeth in Spirituals alſo, and they are the Curſe in Solido. Of how much ſorer Puniſhment ſhall he be thought worthy (ſays the Apoſtle, Heb. 10. 29.) that profanes Chriſt as revealed in the Goſpel? For example, were they ſtung with Serpents (ver. 9.) and deſtroyed of the Deſtroyer (ver. 10.) by a bodily Death inflicted; we under the Goſpel that live in ſuch Sins, are given up to Satan (1 Cor. 5.) either by Terrors to drive the Elect to Chriſt, or by Seduction and a Curſe to drive Reprobates to Hell; as the Devil entred into Judas whilſt he re-received the Sop: I cannot say he received the Lord's Supper, but the Passover he did, and Christ sealed up his Rejection at that Ordinance.

(4.) The Apostle having spread these things before them, his conclusive Inference is, Let him that thinketh he standeth, take heed lest he fall. Men use in their Thoughts and Speeches to boast themselves of their Enjoyment of such Privileges as these, and do bolster themselves up in them; but know, that they will not guard you from the Curse, nor privilege you at all in that respect. Yea let every such Man know, that this sacramental holy Ground is the most slippery Ground that Men can stand on, as Ice is; and therefore if he falls, he falls most dangerously, he falls upon the Rock Christ, and he that falls on this Stone shall be broken, Luke 20. 18. And also together therewith all the Sermons he hath heard and Sacraments he hath received, fall upon him. The Fall of that House was great, (says Christ also, Mat. 7. 27.) Therefore let him that thinketh he standeth, take heed lest he fall, that is, fall under the participation of such Ordinances. And this Coherence of these Words with the former Discourse is manifest, and the proper drift of them. Nay, and the Apostle judgeth not this one Caution enough, but seconds it with another: ver 15. I speak to wise Men, that is, Men that know how to apply all this, and how fully it sutes your Case and Condition; and βλέπετε, see to it, consider or take heed unto what I say. Neither hath he done with this Exhortation, but heaps on another, The Cup we bless is the Communion of the Blood of Christ, the Bread we break is the Communion of the Body of Christ: And ye cannot drink the Cup of the Lord and the Cup of Devils, and ye cannot be Partakers of the Lord's Table and the Table of Devils, ver. 19, 20. Which Speech or Reasoning, I know, is more particularly intended against that idolatrous Practice of sitting in the Idols Temple (which he had discoursed against, Chap 8. and which was one particular Sin he gave instance for in the Israelites, ver. 7. for which God had punish'd them) yet for the ground and extent of it, it doth by way of Application come home against Fornication, or Indulgence to any other Lusts, feeding on the Objects of them as Animæ pabulum, and worshipping them as God, and sacrificing the deerest of our Intentions to 'em. These are Idolatry, says the Apostle, as some Copies have it: Col. 3. 5. Mortify therefore your Members which are upon the Earth, Fornication, Uncleanness, inordinate Affection, evil Concupiscence and Covetousness, these are Idolatry. A Man hath therein Fellowship with Devils, for they are the Devil's Dainties. They that feed on these Husks, eat of the Table of Devils, have Fellowship with Devils, whose Works these are, 1 John 3. I would not, says Paul, you should have Fellowship with Devils, it is an utter Inconsistency, and will overthrow your Profession and Religion, and eat it out. Ye cannot drink the Cup of the Lord and the Cup of Devils. Well, the Apostle prosecutes it yet further, for his close is ver. 22. Do we provoke the Lord to Jealousy, are we stronger than he? Jealousy is the Rage of a Man, says Solomon, Prov. 6. 34. And it is the height of Anger and Displeasure in God; and if any thing put him into it, it will be to find thee that professest to lie in his Bed of Love, in his Bosom, such is the Lord's Supper, then going from it to lie in Bed with the Devil, engendring Lust, Malice and Mischief. If the Veil could be taken away, Men would see that whilst their Souls brood upon their Lusts, they are entwined close and coupling with Serpents, yea with Devils. Do you provoke the Lord to Jealousy? You may observe that God doth only (at least above all other) profess himself a jealous God, when he gave forth the second Command, that is the Ordinances of his Worship forbidding the contrary. Now the Lord's Supper being the top Ordinance of the second Commandment under the Gospel, to profane it by nourishing Lusts, provoketh God to the greatest Jealousy, and sets God at defiance; and therefore those Words are added, Are you stronger than he? that is, Can you encounter him? Which you must make account to do, if you go thus on.

CHAP. IV.

1 Cor. X. 1, to ver. 13.

Moreover, Brethren, I would not that ye ſhould be ignorant, how that all our Fathers were under the Cloud, and all paſſed thro the Sea, &c.

CConcerning the Danger of unworthy receiving the Lord's Supper, either in being unfruitful, or living in Luſts under the Participation of it, I ſhall add ſome Conſiderations that both aggravate the Sinfulneſs hereof, and ſo heighten the Danger of it. Both which will appear, if we conſider the Nature and Intent of this Ordinance in the Inſtitution thereof, either on God's part, or what is to be done by us or ours.

1*ſt*. On God's part, it is to repreſent and exhibit the whole of Chriſt as crucified for us, in the moſt direct, immediate, adequate and expreſſive madner.

2*ly*. On our parts, it is publickly to ſolemnize and ſhew forth his Death, and erect a freſh Memorial of it, with Profeſſion of our Intereſt in his Perſon, his Death, and all the Benefits thereof. Now to ſin againſt ſo great Obligations ariſing from both, how much muſt it aggravate our Sin?

1. On God's part in the Inſtitution of it, it repreſents theſe things to us.

(1.) It repreſents Chriſt in the moſt immediate and expreſſive manner, which will appear if we compare it with the other Ordinance of the Word read or preached. In the Word read or heard, we have directly and firſt to do but with ſome Truth, and ſo with Chriſt conſidered but either as the Author and Deliverer of that Truth, or at moſt but as that particular Truth concerneth him and treats of him, or of ſome particular Benefit of his, or ſome Excellency of his, or ſome Action of his for us. And theſe are ſingled out to be treated on by piecemeal, unto which our Thoughts are required immediately to be intent, according as the matter thereof is: yea further often, ſome point of Duty on our part, yea ſome diſcovery of ſome Sin by the Law and our Sinfulneſs, with the Threatning annexed thereto, are treated of. All which are remote from Chriſt, and but as a Schoolmaſter to drive us, and that too upon ſecond Thoughts, riſing up unto him and his Perſon. Even as the Sick thinks of the Phyſician upon a ſecond Thought, after the ſad Apprehenſion, and a long and deep Conſideration of his own Malady. But in this Ordinance of the Lord's Supper, we have to do with Chriſt himſelf, his Perſon, &c. We are put upon him, let into him immediately and directly, and are to converſe with him, as a Spouſe with her Husband in the neareſt Intimacies. He is the Image in that Glaſs, and not a glimmering collateral Beam of him only which caſteth a Shine; but the Sun of Righteouſneſs it ſelf is the direct and adequate Subject of that Repreſentation, and our Eyes are called to view him with open Face. The Word preached is termed the Word of Chriſt, Col. 3. and elſewhere, but it is no where termed Chriſt; no, nor is Prayer or any other Ordinance ſo named, but the Rock was Chriſt, the Bread is Chriſt, of which he ſays, This is my Body, and of the Wine, This is my Blood; yea and it is Chriſt entire, whole Chriſt. We have to deal with the whole of his Perſon, the whole of his Death, the whole of his Benefits, Promiſes, yea all that was purchaſed or procured by him. Yea, and we have to deal with all this in the moſt expreſſive real manner; it is whole Chriſt repreſented as to the Eye: whereas a Sermon, if it did repreſent whole Chriſt, yet it would be but to the Ear; and you know things by the Ear ſtrike more dully and ſlowly, but by Sight more really, and make a laſting Impreſſion. Mine Eye affects my Heart, as the Pſalmiſt ſpeaks.

(2.) It repreſents Chriſt alſo as crucified, which is the top and eminent Subject of the Goſpel, 1 Cor. 2. 2. we ſee Chriſt glorious, and ſitting at God's right hand in Heaven, and yet we ſee him too as one dying and crucified: Yea and it is that Book IV. Christ who is now in Glory, who is represented as crucified. It is his Death that is shewn forth herein (1 Cor. 11.) his Body broken and his Blood shed. Whilst one Eye of Faith is called to look up to his Person as now in Heaven glorious, and we see Jesus crowned with Glory, &c. Heb. 2. (which is necessary, for where else can the Soul find his Person as existing, and so make an Address unto Heaven, but where he now is alive in Heaven?) with another Eye we look back upon him as formerly hanging on a Tree, bearing our Sins in his Body, bearing, and representing and undertaking for our Persons. Now what a Sight is this? and what a strong mixture of Affections must needs accompany a Sight so strange?

Now to raise up your Thoughts a little, let me speak unto you in that Language, wherein Christ spake to the People concerning their going forth in Troops to see John the Baptist, as a Sight of Novelty (Mat. 11. 7, 9.) thereby at once to reprove their common slight Esteem of him, as also to raise them up to a true value of him. When you come to a Sacrament, consider what do you go forth to see? A Thing of small value, a Trifle, a Reed shaken with the Wind; or that which is of some more moment, as you would go to see an Ambassador or gaudy Courtier making his Entrance in State and splendid Apparel. No, says Christ, I tell you, you saw a Prophet, yea more than a Prophet. But this here is a Sight of more than all Prophets, than that of all Angels and Saints (which we shall have of them as assembled together at the latter Day) if we could suppose it without him, yea than of the Glory of Millions of Worlds, if that could be represented in the twinkling of an eye.

Let me say further, Men use to flock to other Sights, either that are real, as to an ordinary Execution, or some rare Invention of Mens Art, or else that are in shew, as the acting over of some Story that hath some deep Plot in it, or of some noble and heroick Person; the Sum and Height whereof comes to this, that such an one passeth through the lowest Debasement, leaving it and despising it with an unheard of Greatness of Mind, to the end to save his Country, and to rescue his contracted Spouse fallen into the utmost Gulphs of Dangers and Miseries, and then after that himself riseth up to that Glory, which as a King or Lord was his Inheritance originally: And then to the Participation thereof he pulls up his Spouse, and crowns her with Glory and Honour in the sight of all the World. How are Mens Fancies tickled and filled with the bare shew, outward and empty Appearance of such a Story acted to the Life? How long do they stick therein? How are their Thoughts and Discourses taken up therewith a long while after? Yea and this where all that is presented concerning such a Person, doth nothing concern themselves. The Person had no relation by Race or Country, or any way to them, yea it is but a very Fiction. But here behold the greatest Act or Thing, that ever the great God did, or means to do for ever, set forth but once in this World, actually performed in a few hours space, containing in it the deepest Mystery, Plot and Contrivement that ever lay in the Breast of God, or that his Wisdom can bring forth, and in which all his other Counsels are bottomed and centred; wherein also you have represented the King of Kings, the Lord of Glory coming disguised in the Likeness of sinful Flesh from Heaven, to redeem his Church, his Spouse, from Sin, Death, Hell and Wrath, hanging on a Tree, sustaining her Person, bearing her Crimes and Miseries, and for her sake encountring with and conquering thereby all his and her Enemies, and triumphing over and making an open Shew of Devils led captive, because they were her Enemies and great Seducers; and then flinging off that Form of frail Flesh, and in an instant appearing in the Form of God, sitting down at the Right Hand of the Majesty on high, in so great a Glory, as only the only begotten Son of God and Lord of Glory was capable to be arrayed withal. At the sight of which and his first taking that Place in Heaven, all the Angels of God fall down and worship him. Is there any such Sight elsewhere to be seen on Earth? Yea, Doth Heaven it self afford such another, unless it be of him? And is this a bare Sight, an outward Shew made to strike thy Fancy? Yea, Is it not over and above of the greatest Concernment to thee? This Person who fills this Scene, and whose Story it is, is of the nearest Relation unto thee that ever any was, thy Saviour, Head and Husband.

band. Yea, and these Actings of his that are therein presented, are of the highest moment to thee. Is not thine Eternal Redemption, the cancelling the fatal Sentence of thy Condemnation, the taking away thy Sins by his bearing of 'em, acted over before thee in thine own View? Tua res agitur. Thou committest new Sins every Day, and still seest anew how the Book is crossed by the Lines of his Blood drawn over them; but these cross Lines are like to those which are drawn with the Juice of Onions or Lemons, not appearing until they are brought to this Light of the Word, and then upon this Occasion they rise up either more dimly or more conspicuously unto Faith's View. Either these things are true, and true of thy Soul, or thou art undone, thou art lost for ever, for thou hast an Heart like to Gallio (Acts 18. 17.) and regardest none of these things, and wilt not go over the Threshold to see a thousand of such Sights. Chap. 4.

But take a farther Prospect, and consider, Is all this in the Intendment and Institution of it, a mere Presentation to the Fancy and Memory, as those of other Stories are? No, they are real, and the most real unto Faith, as much as any Sight thou seest of a thing when it is first done. The Holy Ghost is the Presenter of this Scene, and to a believing Soul makes substantial and subsisting Demonstrations of all these, and a thousand more concerning him; for Faith is the Subsistence of things not seen, Heb. 11. 1. See how the Apostle speaks (Gal. 3. 1.) Before whose Eyes Christ hath been evidently set forth crucified among you, as if you had indeed stood and seen it. There is such an Emphasis in those Words, crucified among you, that some have interpreted this Scripture to mean their crucifying Christ by their Apostacy, answerably to what he says, Heb. 6. 5. But it is spoken of the Reality of the Representation which the Holy Ghost makes. And Christ tells us as much concerning this Ordinance of the Lord's Supper, John 6. 55. My Flesh is Meat indeed, and my Blood is Drink indeed. It is not fancy only, as when a Man dreams he eats; but if ever thou hast found a Reality, a Solidity, a Subsistence in any Meat thou hast ever eaten and digested; there is (according to Christ's Institution) a greater Reality unto Faith in this Sacrament. The Apostle also calls Faith, A discerning the Lord's Body, 1 Cor. 11. 29.

Tell me then now, canst thou come to, and daily live under such a sight as this (which was on purpose appointed by God to renew the Impression often, and to draw all Mens Hearts unto him, John 12. 32. & Chap. 3. 14, 15. compared) and then go away and sin, and live in thy Lusts? Or if thou dost, is it not an infinite Aggravation of thy Sins, if they be willingly indulged unto, and can the Danger be other than answerably great? I shall but urge upon you that which Paul doth, Gal. 3. 1. Who hath bewitched you that ye should not obey the Truth, before whose Eyes Christ hath been evidently set forth crucified among you? He aggravates all by this, that it was a Representation (or lively picturing, as the word signifies) of Christ, and him as crucified; and that so to the Life, as it ought to affect them. Yea, the thing in the nature of it was such, and so great, as should have made an Impression never to be impaired. Paul stands wondring and aghast at it, looking on them as Men that had not their common Senses, Who hath bewitched you (says he) your Stupidity must be from the super-addition of some evil Spirit more than ordinary. Suppose thou hadst been an Ocular Witness and Spectator of Christ's being crucified at Jerusalem, as Mary and John were, and thou hadst with all them known what had been the Intent and Purpose of God and Christ in his being crucified, yea and thou hadst believed it had been to take away thy Sins and to save thy Soul, or it could never be saved, and thou hadst known all this, and meditated so on it upon the Place all the while it was a doing, and hadst seen the Nails knock'd in, and thoughtest withal, such a Sin which I have so often committed, is the Hammer that reiterates these Strokes till they are driven unto the Head; and suppose Christ had said unto thee then (as he did to his Mother, Woman, behold thy Son) Sinner, behold thy Saviour; All this is for thy Sake and Sins, I hang here bearing thy Person, and thy Body of Sin is with mine nailed to the Cross, and is crucifying together with it: Couldst thou have gone away from this Sight, and sinned again as formerly? Yea, would not this Sight have so stuck with thee, as whenever thou wert about to sin, the Thought and Impression of it would still have risen up, and quelled it more than all the Book IV. Prohibitions and the Threatnings of the Law? Let me now make an home Push upon thee, Hast thou been at a Sacrament, and hadst thou true and real Faith, that Faith did or would have set thee down by the Cross, as Mary was; and thou mightest stand by and behold all, and not only go over it in a way of fancy as over any other Story, but in a way of subsistence of things not seen, as well past, as present or to come. Conclude therefore (as Paul doth, Gal. 3. 1.) that it is some extraordinary Spirit of Wickedness and Fascination, which hurries thee to go afterwards and sin again.

2. Let us consider the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, as on our part celebrated. It is a publick shewing forth by us his Death, one to another, that partake in it; and it is doing it before all others in remembrance of him, with Profession that we hope and believe we are the Persons for whom he hath done all this. This you have, 1 Cor. 11. 24, 25, 26. And when he had given Thanks, he brake it, and said, Take, eat, this is my Body, which is broken for you, this do in Remembrance of me. After the same manner also he took the Cup when he had supped, saying, This Cup is the New Testament in my Blood, this do ye as often as you drink it in remembrance of me. For as often as ye eat of this Bread and drink this Cup, ye do shew the Lord's Death till he come. We do therefore avowedly give our selves up to him, as his professed Followers and Disciples; Who thus judg, that if one died for all, then were all dead: and that he died for all, that they who live, should not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto him who died for them and rose again. This is the Nature of your Act in it. His giving himself to Death was his own Act, but this is yours, viz. to celebrate and perpetuate the Memorial of it. Compare this a little with the Passover instituted upon their coming forth out of Ægypt: Exod. 13. 8. Thou shalt shew thy Son in that Day, saying, This is done because of that which the Lord did to me, when I came forth out of Ægypt (commemorating all the Deliverance) and it shall be a Sign upon thine Hand, and a Memorial before thine Eyes, that the Law of God may be in thy Mouth, &c. And when a Jew had taken a Passover, and understood this to be the Intent of it, and then look'd but upon his ten Commandments (the Preface whereto is this, I am the Lord that brought thee out of Ægypt, and so in the Force thereof sets on every Command, both against Sin and for Duty) What a renewal of solemn Obligation did that Ordinance of the Passover, the Seal and Memorial hereof, rise unto? Now then, a Christian, who joins in celebrating the Lord's Supper (and therein, in a clearer manner than the Passover, shews forth the Lord's Death) cannot but discern that the Action and Intent of it speaks, that this is done because of that which the Lord did to Christ for me; and this is a Sign and a Memorial I am to carry with me ever in my Eye, that the Love of God may be in my Heart, and held forth in my Life in suitable Obedience. This is, and ought to be the Preface writ over every Duty, or Prohibition of every Sin; and thy Conscience necessarily dictates to thee, I must carry the Memorial of this in my Hand, lest I put forth that to Wickedness, which I stretched forth to lay hold on that Sacramental Christ. This is to be continually in mine Eyes as a Remembrancer, that look as if a dead Father, who at his Death had given such and such Instructions and Commands to his Son, should often appear to him, or appoint a Glass in which, when he looked, he presently would appear to him therein, on purpose to mind him of his Commands, and oblige him to them: This is the Nature of that Ordinance concerning Christ to me. What says Christ? John 15. 14. If you be my Friends, keep my Commandments; and it is edged with this, No Man hath greater Love than this, to lay down his Life for his Friends. O how would we carry in our Eye, the Apparitions Christ makes and gives at a Sacrament, or offers to give unto us if we brought Faith? And if we are about to sin, the Thoughts of Christ crucified, as renewed at such a Sacrament, do or should come in and haunt us. And if we should notwithstanding indulge Sin, and not divert from it, how do we aggravate thereby our Sins against him, and provoke and tempt him? For if Christ crucified thus so oft, appears and stands in our way, and yet we go on to sin, it is worse than what the dumb Ass did at the Apparition of an Angel, and as bad as Balaam's Course was, who was reproved. This we are apt to do, and therefore he bids us to renew often this Remembrance of him, As oft as ye do this, 1 Cor. 11. 27. As the Apparitions made to the Patriarchs, triarchs, all the Ordinances of the Old Teſtament, and the Obligations of them, are nothing unto this in compariſon, by reaſon of the Knowledg we have of Chriſt that accompanies this Sacrament. And yet you read how heinouſly God took the ſinnings of Solomon, that had appeared to him twice, 1 Kings 11. 9. And what ſad Puniſhment for tranſgreſſings after Ordinances, or Obligations for temporal Mercies held forth thereby, did the Iſraelites incur? But now all the wondrous Works and Deliverances out of Ægypt are but Trifles unto this, our Salvation by Chriſt commemorated in this Sacrament. Chap. 4

2. Add to this, that on our parts we take an Oath of Fidelity to Jeſus Chriſt in the moſt ſolemn manner, and we do it upon theſe Conſiderations and Obligations ſpecified. You know the Name of Sacrament was given to this Ordinance by the Antients upon this account; and (as I think) there is ſome Aſpect from Scripture that looks that way. For Paul having diſcourſed of Baptiſm, and the Import of it as an Obligation to Holineſs and Obedience (Rom. 6. from the 3*d* to the 13*th*) he then ſubjoins thereto as the conſequent thereof, how every ſuch Chriſtian had as a Soldier and Servant yielded up himſelf and his Weapons or Arms (ſo he calls his Members, ver. 13.) as Weapons of Righteouſneſs unto God and Chriſt, as his Captain. You know what was the Law of a Soldier, 2 Tim. 2. 4. he gave himſelf up, and that by Oath, to pleaſe him that had choſen him to be a Soldier. You know the Severity and Danger of Martial Law in the Caſe of running away, or ſtepping aſide. Now at every Sacrament thou art drawn into an Oath to Chriſt, thou avoucheſt him to be thy Saviour, as they (Deut. 26. 17, 18.) are ſaid to do at the offering the firſt Fruits. Thou haſt avouched the Lord this Day to be thy God, and to walk in his Ways, and to keep his Statutes, and his Commandments, and his Judgments, and to hearken unto his Voice. And the Lord hath avouched thee this Day to be his peculiar People, as he hath promiſed thee, and that thou ſhouldeſt keep all his Commandments. Thou forſweareſt all thy Sins, and you know the Danger of Perjury, eſpecially when it is the Breach of ſuch an Oath ſo oft renewed, and upon ſo ſolemn Occaſions.

3. I ſhall now ſpread the Danger before you, as the Apoſtle hath ſet it forth, 1 Cor. 11. By going on in they Luſts, thou becomeſt guilty of the Body and Blood of Chriſt, 1 Cor. 11. 27. That is, thou doſt in effect do that which the Jews did in crucifying him; and how heavy a Sin that was to that Nation, the Curſe ever ſince ſhews. What an heavy Imprecation was that? His Blood be upon us and our Children. The Blood of any Man is valuable, the Blood of a Saint is much more precious to God, Pſal. 116. but the Blood of Chriſt, by which God redeemed us all as with a ſufficient Price, is much more precious. Now to have the Guilt of this lie on thee, O think what it is! By this thou becomeſt guilty of his Blood, both by evacuating the ſhedding of it (as Paul ſays, then Chriſt died in vain) and alſo by foſtering that which was the Cauſe of his crucifying, viz. thy Sins, whereby thou makeſt thy ſelf an Abetter of that barbarous Murder. Alſo by profaning that Blood in undervaluing it, by preferring thy Luſt before it, thou putteſt Chriſt again to open Shame, Heb. Chap. 6, & 10. for as by thy joining in the Sacrament thou didſt undertake publickly to ſhew forth his Death as undergone for thee and thy Sins; ſo by ſcandalous Sins, thou doſt as publickly contradict thine own Act, and ſhameſt him by doing the contrary unto what that Death was intended for by him, and unto what thy Celebration of the Ordinance tended on thy part: thou defileſt not only the Temple of God on Earth, the Church of Chriſt, and Body of Saints (and ſuch an Offender will God deſtroy, 1 Cor. 3. 17.) but thou diſgraceſt the Perſon of Chriſt, in whom the Fulneſs of the Godhead dwells bodily, and who is the Tabernacle of God in Heaven, Heb. 9. 11. This is the height of Popiſh Blaſphemy, Rev. 13. 6. The Blood of the Sacrifices under the old Law, which were in their ſignification an Holy Thing, were made by Mens ſinnings that offered them but as the cutting off a Dog's Neck, and ſo but as Dog's Blood (as Iſaiah ſays) But now in the New Teſtament, the Blood which thou diſhonoureſt is Chriſt's Blood, that hath been ſacrificed firſt for thee; and by living in thy Luſts, thou doſt ſhew that thou accounteſt it but as Dog's Blood. Thou art guilty of that Blood alſo, by making that Ordinance (appointed to ſo high Ends) to repreſent a mere nullity, and of none effect. For in the like Case says Paul, 1 Cor. 11. 20. this is not to eat the Lord's Supper, and (ver. 27.) it is termed but eating of Bread, not the Body of Christ, for 'tis but bare common Bread to such an one; even as he accounted that Body and Blood but as a common thing, in still preferring his Lusts thereto.

Yea, such a Man eats and drinks Damnation to himself, ver. 28. of that Chap. Temporal Judgments are often inflicted on the Godly, and on the Wicked Eternal: I will curse your Blessings (says God in the Prophet) and 'tis a certain Truth, that what is intended as the greatest Blessing, if abused, is turned into the greatest Curse. And to have the Fulness of the Blessing of the Gospel, which Christ by being made a Curse purchased, turned into a Curse, how great a Curse must that be? Thou eatest and drinkest Poison if thou comest in thy Sins, or if thy Participation of the Ordinance doth thee no good against thy Sins, and so thou art guilty of thine own Death and Soul's Blood also, as well as of Christ's Death. It will rot thy Soul, as the Water the Woman drank did her, Numb. 5. 27, 28. So shall thy Soul be cursed if thou returnest not. And whereas thou professest to come to remember Christ, and his Death and Suffering, God is provoked thereby to remember all thy Sins: Hosea 8. 13. At their Sacrifices now will he remember their Iniquity.

CHAP. V.

The Danger of those, who being in Church-Fellowship and Communion, yet their Lives are inconsistent with such a Relation.

THE fourth Ordinance of the Gospel is the publick Censures of the Church, consisting of Admonition, Rebuke, and Excommunication. There is a great Danger of a Man living in Lusts, having put himself under the Capacity of these; for God is engaged the sooner to bring thy Sins to light. 1 Tim. 5. 19, 20. he had given Directions to Timothy to deal impartially in Church-censures (ver. 19, 20.) and not to be rash in laying on of Hands; and then he concludes of both, ver. 24, 25. Some Mens Sins are open aforehand to Judgment; Aforehand, going before to Judgment: and some Mens Sins follow after, namely, εἰς κρίσιν, unto Judgment, ver. 25. Those that are otherwise cannot be hid. As I take it, 'tis spoken not of the Day of Judgment, but of that Judgment that is made at receiving in an Elder, or a Member, which was antiently done by laying on of Hands. Whoso sins, tho they have escaped the Cognizance of the Church, yet because they have adventured to take upon them so great and sacred an Office, they cannot be long hid, if they repent not and forsake them. In like manner, Men living under the Peril of the Censure of the Church (which he had spoken of, ver. 19, 20.) if they will venture to go on to sin, and think still to escape the Knowledg of Man, yet because they live and have put themselves under so great an Ordinance, as is the Judgment of the Church (which he there also speaks of) and fear not that God by his Providential Discovery may bring them under it; therefore if their Sins be not such as go before to Judgment, for a long time through God's Patience, yet God will in his Providence order it so, that their Sins shall follow after, εἰς κρίσιν, unto Judgment. And so the meaning is, that if Men have lived long in a Sin, and have escaped the publishing of it to a Church, which doth profess the Exercise of exact Discipline, and is accordingly heedful of Miscarriages as it ought to be; God engageth himself (if the Person repent not) the sooner to give him up to such Sins as shall follow after to Judgment, so as their Iniquity, by reason of this Dispensation, will find them out and cannot be hid. And upon the equity of that other Coherence, namely the Respect to Ordination and Admission, this Rule will in a proportion hold of this Censure also. Now how dangerous a thing it is to be given up to the Censure of the Church, the Apostle tells us, when he calls it a delivering up unto Satan, 1 Cor. 5. Now if any will say, we will avoid this Danger, and keep our selves out from such a Bond, let them consider what follows (1 Cor. 5.) Those without God judgeth, and will do it sufficiently. I take it, those Words do insinuate a great Privilege that those within a Church, who live in a subjection to a Judgment, if they sin, have in comparison of those that live without, be they Heathen or Christian Professors. For if they be within, God forbears to judg them personally, till that means of the Church hath been used, which if neglected, he then falls on both, 1 Cor. 11. A Man is under a Protection (as it were) and God takes not the matter into his Court, because it is under Trial in another, which is a means to reclaim him: but those that live without, are immediately exposed to God's judging them, who will deal with them accordingly more severely, As Whoremongers and Adulterers God will judg, Heb. 13, &c. So that if any Man will stay out to avoid being judged, he falls under a more severe Court. Chap. 5.

Take the last Ordinance of a Church, viz. Church-Contribution and Collection for the Saints, it being not a Civil Matter (as giving Alms is) but an Ordinance religious. It is a Ministration, λειτυργία, 2 Cor. 9. 13. and it is reckoned up with Prayers, and Preaching, and breaking Bread, Acts 2. 42. for so I understand that Word, which is translated Fellowship, and is carried in the Translation, as if it were the Fellowship of the Apostles that were there intended. But it is κοινωνία, Communication, namely of Goods, more largely mentioned in the Verse after; and also in Heb. 13. 16. Be not forgetful ἐυποιΐας ϗ κοινωνίας, of doing good, and of communicating. 'Tis the very same word, as also in Rom. 15. 26. where it is translated, Contribution to the Saints.

1. I say, it being thus a Spiritual Ordinance and Sacrifice, as all Church-Offerings are (as Heb. 13. 6. it follows, for with such Sacrifices God is well pleased) therefore if Men deal unworthily herein, they are in danger of having a greater Curse hereby, perhaps not upon their Estates, but in their Spirits. If you will take an Estimate how heinously God takes dealing falsly in this, because 'tis a matter of Worship; you may see it in that first Example of a Judgment in those Primitive times executed on Ananias and Saphira: And thereby, as you may see how heinously God takes it, so also why it was so, not that they were bound to have given all their whole Estates, ver. 4. Whilst it remained, was it not thine own? And after it was sold, was it not in thine own Power? But they having dedicated the whole in an open Appearance to God, to withhold part was a lying, not to Man, but to God. It was not in a matter merely human between Man and Man, as the Promise that makes a Debt is, or as a Bargain between Man and Man, but the Holy Ghost (ver. 3.) was the Person, with whom in that Work they dealt, and with whom in all Works of that nature we also deal now. And tho God inflicts not such extraordinary Punishments now upon Mens Bodies, yet you may from thence gather, how much he is displeased at the like as a Sin, and in what Danger Mens Spirits are in such cases, of a Spiritual Judgment and Curse, which is more usual under the Gospel, and which accordingly Men shall find at the latter Day. Mat. 10. 15. he threatens those who should contemn the Gospel, not with a Temporal Judgment, but (as if forbearing such under this Dispensation) he threatens them with a greater and worse. Sodom and Gomorrah (says he) were punish'd with visible Judgments, tho extraordinary: But it shall be more tolerable for Sodom and Gomorrah, than for these in the Day of Judgment. Till when he may defer it. When therefore thou draweſt near to God in this loweſt Duty of Worship, yet because it is an Offering to God (Mat. 5. 23.) E'er thou bring thy Gift to the Altar, reconcile thy self to thy Brother. And by like reason, if thou be guilty of, or liveſt in any Sin, reconcile thy self to God, otherwise even this Act of Worship will provoke him the more.

CHAP. VI.

Two Cases concerning a regenerate Man's sinning against Knowledg. The first Case resolved, How far such an one is capable of sinning against Knowledg; and what is the difference between his sinning against Knowledg, and an unregenerate Man's sinning against it.

THAT a regenerate Man may sin against Knowledg, we will take the Instance of Solomon only to prove it, who sinned against his Knowledg, yea and that the experimental, clear and tasting Knowledg of God and his Ways, yet remained Godly. That he sinned very far against Knowledg, see 1 Kings 11. 4, 7, 8, 9. where we read that his Wives turned his Heart away after other Gods, that is, so far as to build high Places for all his Wives, ver. 7, 8. and this for them to sacrifice and to burn Incense on to their several Gods, ver. 10. And this Sin of his is brought in by way of Aggravation, that God had given him a special Commandment against this Sin, and so he had had a special Light against it; yea (ver. 10.) it is added, He (therein) turned his Heart away from God, who had appeared to him twice, that is, after he had strong Revelations, and Impressions and Appearances of the true God upon his Heart, after he had known him, not only with a common Knowledg of Education, as others do, nor by Faith only, as all Believers do, but had superadded to it an especial appearing and drawing nigh of God to him, with a great Acceptation of his Person and Prayers, manifested by God to him, and this twice. Thus he sinned every way against an expressive, clear, experimental Knowledg, the best and purest of Knowledg he could have, unless he had been took up to Heaven (as Paul was) and yet he says, Eccles. 2. 3, 9. that his Wisdom remained with him, namely, his Grace and Knowledg, for he speaks not of his Gifts of Wisdom (since that they should remain was no wonder, such common Gifts remaining in the wickedest of Men) but of that Wisdom, which in his Proverbs he so commends: yea and he says, that He acquainted his Heart with Wisdom, (ver. 3.) tho it took hold of Folly, that is, closed with Sin; and therefore in the Opposition, by Wisdom he means true Grace, so that he sinned against Knowledg, and yet still remained a Godly Man. Yea and again, when for this the Prophet had appointed Jeroboam, as from God, to be King over the ten Tribes, when Solomon heard this (1 Kings 11. 4.) it is said, that therefore Solomon sought to kill him, which was as directly against God's Will revealed by a Prophet, as was that of Saul, when for the same Cause he sought to kill David, because he was assigned his Heir and Successor in his Kingdom. But God had established his sure Mercies with David and Solomon his Child, and not with Saul; and therefore God pardoned Solomon, and turned him fully again unto himself, as his Book of Ecclesiastes shews, whenas he rejected Saul. Having given you this Resolution of the Question in the general from this one Instance, I shall endeavour more particularly to explain the Truth by Answers to several Questions.

The Questions may be made concerning either some particular Acts of Sins committed, or concerning a regenerate Man's whole Course, as either of them do relate unto sinnings against Knowledg.

Quest. 1. If the Question be concerning particular Acts of Sins; we grant, Assertion 1. That a Godly Man may, against actual Light and Knowledg, commit particular Acts of Sin, and omit the Performance of some Acts of Duties. Thus David had some Light against the numbring of the People when he did it, for Joab reasoned the matter with him, and reproved him for it, 2 Sam. 24. 2, 3. and in the 4*th ver. All his Captains shewed their Dislike* (namely, of his Pride in it) yet still he persisted and would have it done. But yet this was not such a strong smiting Light, as that which came upon him after he had done it, then it did strike upon his Conscience, ver. 10. and altho he saw it to be a Sin afore, yet he saw it not in that manner; for it is said, that then his Heart smote him, which shews that before it had not thus smote him; he knew it before, but minded it not much, was not attentively apprehenſive or ſtruck with the ſenſe of it; but now his Heart ſmites him, and he cries out, I have ſinned greatly, and ſo recalled the doing of it. Chap. 6.

was

Queſt. 2. But then the Queſtion will be, May he not ſin, when he hath a ſtrong Pulſe of Conſcience againſt a Sin, a ſmiting Light, as I may ſo term it?

Aſſertion 2. Yes, he may ſin againſt a ſtrong Pulſe of Conſcience. Holy Peter without queſtion had a ſtrong Light to the contrary, when he denied his Maſter; and for the clearing of this, know that a regenerate Man's Conſcience being ſanctified but in part, there is much Light in it that is not ſanctifying Light, all his Knowledg about Sin and Grace is not the Light of Life; ſo as he hath a Remainder of mere natural Light of Conſcience in him, as well as a regenerate part of Conſcience: and hence it may fall out, that natural Conſcience in him may ſtir ſtrongly, and beat much againſt a Sin in a natural Way, but upon ſuch Motives and Conſiderations, as are common to him with carnal Men; when yet true Light is not ſo fully ſtirred up againſt it, it being at the good Pleaſure of the Holy Ghoſt to work in us how and as he will: 'tis a new and peculiar Work of the Will and Spirit to do that, viz. to ſtir the regenerate Part. David had a ſtrong working, and buſtling of natural Conſcience in him, when he lay roaring under Terrors of Conſcience (Pſal. 32.) yet ſtill it prevailed not with him to confeſs his Sin: the natural Light of Conſcience was then ſtirring in him, when yet the regenerate part of Conſcience was not; for if that had wrought thus ſtrongly, as the other did, it would have made him kindly to have confeſſed and mourned for his Sin, as it did when he confeſs'd his Sin to Nathan. By the like Reaſon, before a Godly Man commits a Sin, natural Conſcience may have a ſtrong Work, when yet true Light againſt the Sin hath not. There may be Thundrings and Lightnings in his Conſcience, which God's ſanctifying Spirit is not ſo much in, and ſo he may ſin againſt much Bluſtrings of that common Light, when yet true Light, which ſhould cauſe him to hate it, and ſtrengthen him againſt it, is calm and down; for the Light of natural Conſcience is as the Light of Straw or Sedg, it makes a great Flame of a great Blaze, and ſo glareth much in Mens Eyes, terrifies much but heats not; whereas true Light when it is kindled, is the Light of ſolid Fire, wherein there is leſs Flame and Flaſhing, but more Heat and Efficacy upon the Heart to reſtrain it from Sin. No queſtion but the Apoſtle Peter's Conſcience ſtrongly wrought in him, his Heart throbbed within him, when yet it prevailed not to keep him, but one Look of Chriſt conveyed the Spirit to him, and ſo ſtirred up ſanctified Light, and broke his Heart preſently. So when Nathan came to David to reprove him for his Murder, tho his Conſcience had ſtrongly wrought afore, as appears by the 32d Pſalm (which is thought to be made upon that Occaſion) yet the Spirit of Grace came not on him to ſtir up ſanctified Acknowledgment till Nathan came to him; and then how eaſily did he confeſs it at the firſt? I have ſinned, ſaid he.

Queſt. 3. But you will further ſay unto me, May not a regenerate Man ſin againſt a ſtrong, ſmiting and checking Direction of ſanctifying Light, and of the Spirit of God moving to the contrary, and ſtriving with him, by Motives ſutable to the regenerate Part?

Aſſertion 3. I anſwer yes, Why elſe doth the Apoſtle ſay, Eph. 4. 30. Grieve not the Spirit, whereby ye are ſealed? Now then a Sin is properly againſt the Spirit, when againſt that which is his proper Work, which is to excite to good, to reſtrain from evil; and then we grieve him when we ſin againſt ſuch a working of his, as wherein, like a Father, and as a Friend, he gives Counſel and Direction to the contrary. We grieve him in going againſt ſuch Works of his, wherein he ſhews himſelf a Father to us. When Wicked Men ſin againſt the common Workings of the Spirit, they indeed vex him and provoke him; but when a Godly Man ſins againſt thoſe peculiar ſtirrings of his as a Spirit of Grace, then it is that properly they are ſaid to grieve him: and yet herein they may go ſo far, even his own People, that they are ſaid to rebel and vex his Holy Spirit, Iſa. 63. 10. he ſpeaks it of his own People. Now Rebellion is a Sin againſt Knowledg and Light, and ſuch Light, wherein as a Friend he ſweetly admoniſhed them, for the Puniſhment is, he turned their Enemies and fought againſt them, in rebuking them in Wrath.

Book IV.

But yet these things are to be considered in this Case.

1. That then the Spirit doth not put forth an overcoming Light in such Cases: for tho in all such Acts, whereon the Salvation of his People depends, as their Conversion at first, and his not suffering them to depart from him, therein the Holy Ghost works overcomingly and effectually in all that shall be saved; yet he works not so in giving Light or Strength in every Act of resisting Sin, or in perswading to Duty, therein the Spirit doth not always put in Strength enough into our Light, to prevail against the Temptation, but only to bear a strong Testimony against it, to the end that our Weakness might so much the more appear. For as the Holy Ghost doth not sanctify you as perfectly at first, as he could do if he pleased, but in part only; so neither doth he persuade us effectually in every Act or Motion of Grace, as he did not Hezekiah, but left him to himself, that he might see what was in his Heart. The Holy Ghost, even when he stirreth up the Light of the regenerate part, yet often doth it not so effectually as to prevail; he doth sometimes suadere, but not persuadere, often movere, but not permovere; as he stirs not up all his Wrath against us, so often not all his Grace in us, and then we fall. In the 6th of Gen. 3. there is a striving of the Spirit mentioned, which Man's Corruption overcomes: the Holy Ghost, being a free Agent, putteth not always that full Weight into the Scale that might weigh down the other, tho it moves it much; but Gen. 9. 27. there is a persuading Japheth mentioned, wherein he puts such Weight into his Light, as it prevails with a Man, whereby the Lord makes a Motive, an Apprehension to prevail upon the Mind, as he made the Counsel of Hushai to prevail against the Counsel of Ahitophel (2 Sam. 17.) and so preserved him.

2. The second thing to be considered is, that when a regenerate Man sins against such Motions of the Spirit, and of true Light stir'd and acted, that always then he is in a Passion, some strong Lust and Motion of Sin, and Law of the Members is risen suddenly upon Arms in him. And tho he may sin deliberately, when Passion is not so much up, or when his Spirit is bound and becalmed (as I shall show afterwards) yet if such powerful Light be stirring in him, if right Motions and Gales of the Spirit be breathing on him, it must be a strong Tide of Passion then that carries him against it, which yet it may: as Asa a Holy Man, after a good Sermon of the Prophet's (wherein 'tis probable that the Spirit breathed) wherein the Prophet had reproved him for his Sin, was in such a Rage with it, his Passion and Choler being provoked by that Reproof, that he cast the Prophet in Prison; and the Reason is, because a strong Lust or Passion doth break the Intention of Judgment, and weakens it, and so diverts it, to consider in a more intimate manner the Pleasure of Sin, which his Mind hath a present Impression of, rather than to attend to the Counsel of the Spirit. So Anima dispersa fit minor, the Strength of the Soul is dispersed and weakened, and so soon overcome, as Vapours ascending in Sleep, bind up the use of Reason and Senses, and then Fancy prevails. In like manner, a strong Lust and Motion of Sin, lays Judgment asleep, that it is not fitly it self, but hath an interrupted, broken Working and Operation. And again, a strong Lust doth alter a Man's Judgment, as a Fever doth a Man's Tongue. The Things he knows hurtful are relished as best, whereas good and wholesom Food he hath no pleasure in; and therefore tho the Physician be by and adviseth to the contrary, yet often he will have what is hurtful: for qualis unusquisque est, talis ei finis videtur. We judg of Things as they suite with our Desires, therefore when a strong Desire is up, Judgment is perverted against it self; and therefore when Passion is up, tho there may be Light enough to discover the Evil and the Sin to us, yet not enough to dispel the Mist and clear up the Mind, and so a Man errs and is misled.

3. Yet thirdly, this is to be added in such a Case, that tho the Passion carries it, yet that Light is not in vain, but hath an answerable effect upon the Heart in working an inward Resistance there; and tho it hath not its perfect Work, yet a proportionable effect, so far as it stirs it works, so much stirring of Light, so much Reluctancy in the committing of it: for tho that regenerate Light prevails not to hinder the outward Act of Sins, yet it breaks the Force of the Blow and Strength of the Lusts within, it causeth a contrary Lusting and Reluctancy in the whole whole Man againſt it even in the Act, and ſo hath a proportionable and good effect. So that tho Paſſion carries it, yet but by a few Voices and with much ado, it finds a ſtrong Party of Grace in every Faculty againſt it, in the Underſtanding diſallowing it, in Will hating it, in the Affections luſting againſt it; a ſtrong Impreſſion over the whole Man, a ſtrong Stream running another way; ſo as he cannot do that evil in that full manner that others do, ſo as that Light in the working of it avails ſo far, that he may ſtill be able to ſay, It is not I that hath done it; ſo as thereby the Holy Ghoſt doth manifeſt the Goodneſs of the Heart, even in the midſt of Infirmity, that by their ſenſe of that inward Combat, and of a Seed of God that cannot ſin, the Saints have as much Comfort often, as Diſcouragement in the Fall. Chap. 6.

Queſt. 4. But you may further enquire, May not a regenerate Man ſin againſt Light when he is out of Paſſion, and ſo ſin deliberately againſt Light?

Aſſertion 4. I anſwer yes, David did ſo in the matter of Uriah, wherein he went ſoberly on: and tho it be true he was in a great ſtrait, being afraid of Shame and Scandal, which he thereby ſought to hide; yet that Paſſion had time enough to cool. It was not properly a Paſſion, which is a ſubitaneous Fluſhing: indeed that of his Adultery was from ſuch a Fluſh of Paſſion; but this of Uriah's Murder was a more continued Diſtemper, ſedately ſtirred, and retained and conſidered of. And ſo Iſa. 57. one that is the Child of God, is ſaid after God had ſmitten him for his Covetouſneſs, to go on frowardly in the Way of his Heart, and therefore without Paſſion.

1. But then when a Godly Man thus ſins, it is when he hath been already diſadvantaged and brought low, and into Captivity by ſome former Paſſion, which alſo was David's Caſe. This more ſettled Diſtemper began at his Adultery, which was but a Paſſion; but yet that having interrupted his Communion with God, and his Soul being thereby ſpoiled and left empty of Spiritual Comfort, God's Spirit was already grieved and withdrawn from him, and he left naked; and the regenerate part was knock'd down with ſo horrible a Sin, and lay under Hatches manacled, and was thro the Deceitfulneſs and Guilt of that Sin exceedingly hardned from God's Fear, as a Godly Man may be, Iſa. 63. And he being thus already weakened, no wonder tho he be quietly carried on to further Wickedneſs: and tho a ſudden Paſſion is not, nor was not much up, yet the Spiritual Part being ſo much down, and Corruption fleſh'd, and he put into ſo great ſtraits, no wonder if he was bold to proceed to further Abominations. A wiſe Man being made ſuddenly drunk, may be tranſported to do ſtrange Acts in that drunken Mode, yet but whilſt that Drunkenneſs laſts; when it is over and he comes to himſelf, he wonders at himſelf. But ſuppoſe further, that tho the Drunkenneſs be over, yet it may leave him ſo enflamed, as to caſt him into a more violent laſting Diſtemper of a Fever, which doth more continuedly diſtemper his Brain. This was David's Caſe indeed, the Paſſion that caſt him into this Fit was over, but it left him in an univerſal Diſtemper; it had weakened Grace, enflamed all corrupt Luſts and Humours in him, and now his Spirit was fit for any Abomination, which he ſhould by any ſtrong Temptation be put upon.

2. Or elſe, tho a Man is not fallen into any groſs Act of ſinning, yet by long inſenſible neglects he may be brought into ſome Conſumption of Grace, having neglected to ſtir and to keep up Spiritual Apprehenſions; ſo as his Light is as a Candle burning blew, or in the Socket, and he ſleeps (which was the Caſe of the five wiſe Virgins) inſomuch as tho a Man hath many Glimmerings, and actual Apprehenſions come into his Mind (and ſo his Sins are againſt Knowledg) yet they are not quick, freſh and vigorous, but wan and ſtale. I ſay, when by reaſon of this, Spiritual Affections are brought very low and weak, ſtarved as it were in regard of any Communion with God, heavy and dull in regard of any Endeavours after it: In this Caſe alſo, no wonder if Men deliberately ſteal out for Comfort elſewhere. And ſome have underſtood this to be the Caſe of the Prodigal, as being meant not of one, a new converted out of a profane Courſe, but of the returning of one who hath been converted already; but whoſe Affections thro Fellowſhip with the Pleaſures of Sin have been eſtranged from God; and thus he being ſtarved in regard of Comfort from God, deliberately joins himſelf to another for Huſks.

Book IV.

Queſt. 5. Now if in the laſt place, the Queſtion be concerning a regenerate Man's Courſe, Whether in regard of his whole Courſe, he may be ſaid to live and practiſe according to his Knowledg?

Aſſertion 5. The Anſwer is, that not only no unregenerate Man lives according to his Knowledg, but that no regenerate Man, neither doth live fully and exactly anſwerably thereunto, nor doth he, nor can he fill up the meaſure of it with Practice anſwerable in his whole Courſe.

Which Propoſition I yet limit and explain by theſe four Cautions.

1. That indeed it is true that he lives not (take his whole Courſe) in any one track of ſinning, or way of Wickedneſs againſt his Knowledg; There is no way of Wickedneſs in me (ſays David) it muſt be underſtood, none that he knew of, for he ſpeaks it after he had now come from an exact and diligent Search made into himſelf and Ways. Search me Lord, ſays he, for he himſelf had ſearch'd himſelf and found none; which Search muſt needs be, by bringing his Courſe of Life and Ways, and his Light together; but yet it is as true, that thro his whole Courſe and the tract of his Life, he doth continually fall ſhort of what he knows in all his Actions.

2. But then, when we ſay he falls ſhort of, and lives not according to his Knowledg, the meaning is, he falls ſhort of doing the things he knows in that full Latitude, whereto he ſees the Commandment which is Holy and Spiritual extends; for by Knowledg in the Aſſertion muſt be underſtood, not only the Knowledg whereby a Man doth know, but the things themſelves which are known, in the extent of their being known: and ſo it is uſed in ordinary Phraſe of Speech, for Fides eſt vel qua creditur, vel quæ creditur, it being taken both for the Faith whereby we believe, or for the things we do believe: ſo is Knowledg taken alſo; and as the things believed are called Faith, ſo we ſometimes expreſs the Objects known, calling them Knowledg. Now if by living according to his Knowledg be meant, that he lives exactly according to all the Latitude of what he knows concerning the Commandments, and the utmoſt Strictneſs revealed to him, which as David ſays (ſo far as he ſaw into them) are exceeding broad, and broader than his Life could extend to; ſo no Godly Man doth live according to his Knowledg, he knows more for the Object of his Knowledg, than he can reach in Practice. Thus Paul, Rom. 7. comparing his Heart and Life with the Law, ſaw a further Spiritualneſs in the Law, than he could anſwer in his Heart and Life. And ſo Phil. 3. 12, 13, 14. I reach (ſays he) to the things that are before, not as if I had already attained it; he ſpeaks it of a Chriſtian Courſe, he had Light which diſcovered ſtill a further Horizon of Godlineſs, mightily beyond and diſtant from that, to which at preſent he had arrived; a vaſter Latitude before him than he was able to ſtretch unto, a higher Pitch than he was able to reach unto: as a Child may have Knowledg to diſcern what a fair Copy that is which is ſet before him, and be able to read it and like it, when yet he wants Skill to write after it. A Man knows he ſhould love God with all his Soul, and all his Heart, that he ſhould pray conſtantly, fervently without Diſtraction: but how do we fall ſhort of all this? But if living according to his Knowledg be underſtood, of the Knowledg it ſelf, by which he knows them, that Axiom of Divines will here take place, That ſo much as a Man knows he practiſeth; and he that ſays he knows God, and keepeth not his Commandments, is a Liar, ſays John, 1 John 2. 4.

3. But then this muſt be underſtood of true, real, practical Knowledg, The Light of Life (as Chriſt calls it) ſuch Knowledg as the Apoſtle calls, Knowing as we ought to know: for otherwiſe we have much more Light about the Ways of Grace and Holineſs, than is ſanctifying in us; much of that Light of Conſcience, which is in a regenerate Man's Mind, remains in a great meaſure unſanctified, ſeeing Conſcience is but in part purified (as I ſaid before) and then a regenerate Man hath often a large Addition of Gifts of Knowledg, for the good of others, more than would otherwiſe ſerve his own particular only; as Stewards have more Money than for themſelves: and therefore if we take meaſure of all ſuch Knowledg as is in him of Gifts and Conſcience, it muſt needs be too big, and too wide for his Practice.

4. And

4. And then, if Practice be confined and meant of the outward Performance only, then ſo Rom. 7. 8. Paul himſelf ſays, He was not able to perform all he knew; but if by Practice be meant a continual ſerving of the Law in the Mind, more or leſs, as true Knowledg is active in him; as he there ſpeaks in the 25*th ver.* which in the ſame Chap. is expreſſed by doing, and is ſo eſteemed in God's Account: So it is always true, that ſo much true Knowledg as is ſtirring in the Heart, ſo much Practice is found throughout his whole Courſe; and tho he knows more than he is able outwardly to perform, yet the beſt of his Will is to do as much as he knows, ver. 18, 19. and his Will therein is as large as his Knowledg, and both to keep the Law exactly only. As his Knowledg is intenſive imperfect, tho extenſive and objectively much larger, as extending it ſelf to all the Commandments of God, and the utmoſt ſtrictneſs of them; ſo alſo his Will, tho it be intenſively imperfect, and weak or not able to bring all he knows into Performance; yet it is extenſively as large as what he knows, aiming and ſtirring after the higheſt Perfection: So that look how far his Knowledg reacheth, ſo far doth his Will alſo which is the Principle of Action; and therefore his Practice may be ſaid to be likewiſe as large as both, tho all imperfect. Chap. 6.

And now we have explained how far a regenerate Man may ſin againſt Knowledg, and fall ſhort of it in his Courſe; it will be needful to add ſome Differences to all this, between his ſinning thus againſt Knowledg, and an unregenerate Man's, leſt Wicked Men be hereby encouraged, or Godly Men themſelves made preſumptuous. And herein my meaning is, not to handle all theſe Differences which may be given in their ſinning, but only their different Carriage towards their Knowledg; and theſe Differences we will ſeverally fit to the main of the foregoing Aſſertions.

And firſt we will begin to difference this which we brought in laſt, concerning falling ſhort of his Knowledg in his Courſe, which tho it be common to regenerate and unregenerate Men, yet with theſe Differences.

1. That tho a regenerate Man fall ſhort of his Knowledg in his whole Courſe, yet he preſerves and foſters all his Knowledg ſtill in the utmoſt extent of it, and keeps up his Aſſent to all that Strictneſs he knows, and which he hath been convinced of, and labours alſo to wind his Heart up to it, and this ſtill he endeavours to do; as he goes on to know more, he preſerves the ſame Opinions of the Strictneſs of God's Ways, and ſtudies to confirm himſelf in the Truth of them, and lets not his Light to ſettle, keeps it as his Standard, which he meaſures his Heart and Actions by. But now an unregenerate Man, when he ſees his Heart and Life cannot agree with Strictneſs, he labours to cut the Standard, and makes it even with his Buſhel, to bring his Opinion to his own Heart and Ways. And what is more than he is able to do or means to do, he reckons it too much preciſeneſs. The former Inſtance of a regenerate Man you may ſee in Paul, and what he ſays of himſelf is true of all regenerate Men in their meaſure, as it was true of him in his meaſure; only his meaſure was larger, in which reſpect indeed he puts a wide Difference between a lower ſort of Chriſtians and himſelf in that ſame Place. I ſee the Mark (ſays he) and what is before me. Now (ſays he) I look not to what is behind, but endeavour to reach to what I want. Phil. 3. 13. I do ſtretch to the utmoſt. And, ver. 14. Preſs to the Mark. He ſets up to himſelf the higheſt Pitch of Strictneſs (he knows to be ſo) as his Mark, and that he alters not; he moves not that to himſelf, but moves himſelf to it. And as many as are perfect (ſays he) are thus minded; that is, whoſe Hearts are perfect with God. Now becauſe it would be ſaid, but ſome do not think God's Ways ſo ſtrict as you, have not ſo large Apprehenſions as you have of them, and are not ſo ſtrict as you: It may be ſo (ſays Paul) but yet two things he ſays.

(1.) That God will by degrees reveal it to them, who are Spiritual, in time, as fully as to me.

(2.) And he exhorts that nevertheleſs whereto we have attained, let us all walk; that is, ſo much Knowledg more or leſs that thou art convinced of, proportion thy Endeavour unto, and not thy Knowledg to thy Endeavour.

(3.) And he inſinuates as much as if he had ſaid, Whereas I may ſeem too ſtrict for ſome of you, and to have attained to more than you, therein follow me, ſays he,

Book IV. he, think not to have me come back to you, but come up to me; whereas an unregenerate Man now will perſuade one, that is more ſtrict than himſelf, to come to his Pace, or elſe he hates him.

2. Tho a Godly Man falls ſhort in many particular Acts of what he knows, and ſo can't make his Life and his Knowledg adequate and even, yet take his whole Courſe, he brings his Heart to ſubject it ſelf to all he knows, makes it anſwerable and conformable to every particular thing known, and hath a care to do ſo and keep it ſo from day to day, but eſpecially at ſuch times, when he more ſolemnly reneweth his Covenant with God, and ſets himſelf to make his Heart perfect with God; which Perfection lies in this, in a willing Subjection to all he knows. This you may ſee to be the Fruit and Effect of David's Knowledg, Pſal. 119. 104. David ſays there, He had gotten much Underſtanding; by the Word he knew more Sins than others, had a larger Inſight into Duties commanded than others had: and as he ſays in another Place, Thy Commandments are exceeding broad. Now what was the Fruit and Effect of this Knowledg in his Heart? He ſays, Therefore do I hate every falſe Way. You may obſerve, that as his Knowledg was ſuch a Knowledg as wrought Hatred to the Sins he knew, ſo he had compared particularly his Heart with his Knowledg, and ſurveyed the one and the other, and remark'd all the particular Sins he knew, and of them all he ſays in particular, I hate every one: He goes over to Particulars, makes his Heart and his Knowledg even, and brings it to a Hatred of every falſe Way, which he knew to be ſuch; and ſo for Duties he doth the like, ver. 106. He brings his Heart in ſubjection to every Duty he knew; and tho he had fallen often, yet he takes and renews often an Oath of Allegiance of his Heart, to ſubmit to every one, I have ſworn (ſays he) that I will keep thy Commandments diligently; he will not ſuffer his Heart to ſtand out as a Rebel againſt any: but (as the Apoſtle ſays) 1 Cor. 10. 4. He brings every Thought into Obedience, to the Knowledg of Chriſt; and ſo makes his Knowledg and his Heart in the Subjection of it to every Command, to be even of adequate Extent. So that ſuppoſe in a Godly Man, that ſome Duty and his Heart have been Strangers for ſome while, yet he brings them together again, renews his Acquaintance, makes them Friends ever and anon; and when they are brought together, tho he hath omitted a Duty, and hath been a Stranger to it, yet after a little Conference with his Heart and it, they are as good Friends as ever, he finds his Heart is in it again. So on the contrary, if he hath admitted any Familiarity with any Sin; yet he makes his Heart and every Sin to break Friendſhip, and ſo makes his Heart and his Knowledg adequate; ſo as he can look about them, run over all, and go through every Particle of his Knowledg, and can truly ſay there is no Sin I know to be ſuch but I hate it, and can part with it, no Duty but I have a Heart willing to ſubmit to it, and is agreeable to it. And this making the Heart perfect is that which ſhould be done from day to day, when a Man prays and renews his Covenant with God; ſo David did when he came to pray, Pſal. 66. 18. He made a Separation between his Heart and every Sin he knew ſuch, and eſpecially when he came to the Altar with his Offering, as you to the Sacrament; ſo as ever and anon, he doth as at his firſt Converſion (every new Act of renewing the Covenant between a new Converſion) go over all particular Sins, which either he hath lately been tempted unto or may be, and breaks his Heart off from them, and ſo he views all Duties either he is called to, or may be called to, and brings his Heart into Obedience to them; ſo as he hath a care to make all adequate, and to walk ſo, to ſubſcribe to all often, as I may ſo ſpeak, tho he hath failed in that full actual Conformity required at all Times and upon all Occaſions: but there is no Wicked Man in the World that keeps his Heart thus, and makes it thus correſpondent to his Knowledg, but either he neglects to do it, or if he goes about it, he cannot get it to part with every Sin, nor to ſubmit to every Duty; it ſtands out, and will not take the Oath of Allegiance to every thing, at leaſt doth not this ordinarily in his Courſe.

3. In regard of particular Acts of ſinning, tho a Godly Man may commit a Sin againſt a ſmiting ſtrong Light in Paſſion (as in the former Aſſertions was diſcovered) yet theſe Differences may be aſſigned.

(1.) There

Chap. 6.

(1.) There is much in his whole Heart, that takes part with his Light and backs it, and ſpeaks on its ſide; and tho his Conſcience threatneth, terrifies, reproves and checks, yet ſtill there is ſomething in his Heart is glad of all this, and rejoiceth in it: ſo ſays the Apoſtle, Rom. 7. 22. That he delighted in the Law, and the Light of it, and this as it wars and fights againſt his Luſts; for there is a regenerate part ſutable to that Light, and is glad of all the Buffets and Blows that Conſcience gives the Heart for the Sin, for the Light that is in him fights and ſpeaks of his ſide; but Conſcience, Knowledg and Light in a wicked Man hath nothing to back it and uphold it, Rom. 1. 28. he likes not to retain the Knowledg of God. Indeed to know the Truth, and view it, and the Beauty and Harmony that is in it, may be exceeding pleaſant to him (John 5. 35.) but when this Truth being once received, begins to be buſy with him, and to intermeddle in every Action, as ſuch Light will, and to tell his Heart, this Pleaſure of Sin ought not to be enjoyed, and this Duty ought to be done, and ſo applies it ſelf and ſticks in to guide him in every particular Action; this reproving Light he likes not, and ſo deſires not to retain it, nor to carry it along with him where-ever he goes: tho he was delighted with the bare ſhining of the Truth, yet the reproving of the Truth in his Heart, he likes not. But a godly Man having a Heart ſutable to his Light, delights in all the Checkings and Reproofs of it, as ſpeaking on its ſide and againſt his Enemies. Here now a wicked Man, who in a particular Act, dares not commit the Act it ſelf againſt Light, yet his Heart is againſt the Light it ſelf. As Baalam, If thou wouldeſt give me this Houſe full of Gold, I would ſpeak no other than God ſpeaks; yet his whole Heart was againſt this Light, would have given another Meſſage, and would have reverſed his Bleſſing, and went with ſuch a Hope and full Deſire, ſo as his whole Heart was againſt the Light and Truth, tho he obeyed it. But now on the contrary, a Godly Man, tho he may commit the Sin which is againſt his Light, and the Truth of the Law in his Conſcience, yet ſtill his Heart is for the Light, and ſays, the Law is Holy and Good, Rom. 7. 14. and this, not with an Aſſent which he cannot but chuſe to afford it, but ſo as he is glad there is ſuch a Law, tho it condemns him and Sin: any Truth of Chriſt that is revealed to him, which croſſeth his Aims never ſo much, he doth not only aſſent that it is true and good, but is glad it is a Truth, and ſays it is beſt it ſhould be ſo, and ſo takes part with it.

(2.) Hence ariſeth a ſecond Difference between the Carriage of a Godly Man's Heart towards his Light, and a Wicked Mans, viz. That a Godly Man's Heart is active in uſing the Light he hath againſt his Sin, and in provoking and ſtirring up his Heart to Duty; but a Wicked Man, tho he may be active in getting Light, yet is paſſive rather in the uſe of it in his Heart againſt Sin or to Duty. It is common indeed to both to have Light come in againſt a Sin, both before and after, yet ſo as a Wicked Man's Heart is but rather a Patient in regard of it; but a Godly Man's Heart is an Agent, that endeavours to bring it in, and to uſe it againſt his Sin. This you ſhall find, John 3. 19. where Chriſt diſtinguiſheth a Wicked and a Good Heart by this, by coming to the Light. A Wicked Man comes not to the Light, but the Light to him, Chriſt puts the Difference not in not having, or having Light; but in their coming, or not coming to it; which notes out, that Wicked Mens Light comes in upon them, the other call it in, and come to it, and gladly bring their Hearts, Lives and Eſtates to it. For inſtance, before a Wicked Man commits a Sin, whilſt he is addreſſing himſelf to it, Light of Conſcience may break in upon him, it being appointed as a Controuler and a Watch over him and his Ways, and not ſuffer him to ſin ſecurely and untaken notice of. But now a Godly Man when he is tempted to ſin, he himſelf ſtirs up that Light which is in him to withſtand it. When he hears the Thief knock, he lights his Candle preſently, gathers his Thoughts together, muſters up ſuch Conſiderations as he can think of as Weapons to reſiſt it with, conſiders what Motives, what Arguments are againſt it, calls up ſuch a Place of Scripture as had lain ſleeping in him, remembers ſuch a piece of a Sermon, in ſuch a Corner of his Heart laid up againſt this time; and armed with this Light, all he could muſter up on the ſudden, he encounters his Enemy: So Joſeph did, How ſhall I do this, and ſin againſt God? He conſidered what God was, and what Sin was, to keep him from it; whenas a Wicked Man on the contrary, when he would enjoy his Sin, he uſeth his Light to find out Shifts rather than Arguments againſt it; he would ſhut the Windows, but that there are ſome Crannies at which Light will come in, and find him out, even as Eliah found out Ahab, Haſt thou found me O my Enemy? Such he judgeth his Light, he would impriſon the Light that is come in, that it might not interrupt him; and ſo when he hath ſinned, tho Light be brought in as a Witneſs, and terrifies and checks, and whilſt it follows him, he judgeth himſelf, confeſſeth it to God; yet otherwiſe he would be content to paſs it over, nor would ſet his Thoughts to conſider, what he had done to the end to humble himſelf, but that ſuch Thoughts are ſet upon him, as they were upon Cain and Judas, when he repented himſelf, and upon Darius when his Thoughts troubled him; but he would not go about to trouble his Thoughts about Sin, but that Sin troubles his Thoughts, being ſet on by the Spirit of Bondage. But now when a Godly Man hath ſinned, he ſtays not till his Thoughts be troubled about it, but he ſets his Mind awake to conſider his Sin; he ſtays not till a Writ be ſerved upon him, but ſues out for one, uſeth his Light to examine it, ſearcheth into every Corner and Circumſtance of it, ſits as a Judg on himſelf, judgeth himſelf leſt he be judged, calls in his Conſcience as a Witneſs, and ſo goes and humbles himſelf kindly and willingly before his Father; ſo they, Lamen. 3. 4. ſtir up themſelves to ſet their Light a work, Come let us ſearch and try our Ways, and turn to the Lord. They ſtir up the Light in them, light the Candle, and go down into every Corner: As David did, Lord (ſays he) I have ſearched. He uſed all Knowledg he had in it, and when he had done, he ſets the Windows and Doors open, deſires God to bring in Light and ſearch alſo.

(3.) The third Difference is, that tho a Godly Man may commit an Act of Sin againſt Knowledg, and on the contrary a Wicked Man thro Knowledg and Conſcience abſtain from ſinning; yet in a Godly Man Knowledg will overcome, and be too ſtrong and powerful for his ſinning, and not let him depart from God: but in the other, in the end his Sin will be too headſtrong and overpowerful for his Knowledg, ſo as to make him to depart from God, and to go on in Sin. So 2 Pet. 2. 20. thoſe who through Knowledg had eſcaped the Defilements of the World, were again overcome. Whereas, Rom. 6. 14. Sin hath not Dominion over a regenerate Man, who is under Grace. Which Places expound each other; for to be overcome is to yield a Man's ſelf a Servant again to Sin, Rom. 6. 16. ſo as to be pleaſed and reſt in that Condition, and ſo to go on in it: but a Slave's Spirit never returns upon the Child of God, but the Knowledg of his former Condition reſcues him again, and will not ſuffer Indentures to be drawn between them and him, to become a conſtant Servant to it.

Now the Reaſon of this Difference is, becauſe Knowledg in an unregenerate Man hath the whole Frame of the Heart, and all the Strength of the Will and Affections armed againſt it, ſo as it governs, but as a Tyrant, by Threats, &c. But Grace and ſanctifying Knowledg hath a great Intereſt and Party in the Will and Affections for to back it, ſo as it fights not alone; but there is a whole Man to fight with it, if it be but muſtered up by Knowledg. And now therefore, tho Knowledg in the one, ruling only as a Tyrant, may for a time overcome a whole Country, and keep them under, and ſo Conſcience in a wicked Man rules the whole Man, and reſtrains it from Sin for a time, yet this cannot hold long; for the Power of every King lies in the Law, Hearts and Agreement of his Subjects, and willing Obedience to his Laws. Now therefore Knowledg and Conſcience in an unregenerate Man, having none other than a tyrannical Power; therefore (as all Tyrants are) it is hated of all the whole, whilſt it doth rule and curb unruly Luſts, and in the end they riſe up and overcome it, and depoſe it and impriſon it (ſo Rom. 1. 17.) as Herod did John, tho he feared him. And in the end they begin to ſlight his Threats, and ſo overcome Knowledg, going on in obeying the Luſts of their Hearts, let Conſcience ſay what it will; and by how much the more they were overawed with it, ſo much the more they ſlight it now. But Knowledg in a regenerate Man hath an Intereſt in the whole Heart, even as it's a natural Prince; it hath the Hearts of the chiefeſt and the Strength of the Subjects, namely, of the Will and Affections, and therefore tho it may be foil'd in a particular Combate, lose a Field or two, the Man carried Captive, yet Knowledg in him musters up its Forces again, having such a natural Interest in the House, as it rescues the Heart again; and therefore tho he be overcome in an act of sinning, yet he pitcheth another Battel, challengeth it into the Field again at new Weapons, Prayer and Confession, and never rests till it hath overcome Sin again, so as what it loseth at one time it recovers at another; if Sin overcome one way, Grace will overcome another, yea and still wins Ground, so as the Believer never continues to go on in a Sin, or is overcome of it. Chap. 6.

3. Whereas it was said in the former Assertion, that a Godly Man might deliberately and presumptuously sin, when he is out of Passion; there are these two Differences, between his sinning, and that of a Man unregenerate.

(1.) Altho a Godly Man may break a particular Commandment again and again against Knowledg, yet his Knowledg never suffers him to go on so far as to venture knowingly to break the Covenant of Grace with God, and to depart from him; when he hath gone on so far in a Sin, as he comes to apprehend he must break with God, and lose him, if he goes on any further, this Apprehension stays him, stops and brings him back again; he may presumptuously venture (tho seldom and always to his Cost) to commit an Act of Sin against Knowledg, because he may withal think, that by one Act the Covenant is not broken, nor all Friendship and Love hazarded between God and him, nor his Interest in the State of Grace nor God quite lost by it, tho he may well think he would be displeased with him: but if he should begin to allow himself in it, and to continue to go on again and again in it, then he knows the Covenant would be broken, it cannot stand with Grace; and when this Apprehension comes, and comes in strongly, he cannot sin against it, for this were to cast away the Lord, and to depart wickedly from him, now so he doth not. So David tho he sinned highly and presumptuously, yet, says he, Psal. 18. 21. I have not departed wickedly from my God; that is, I have not so far departed from him, as tho I apprehended I should utterly lose my Interest in him, yet I would go on. No, for he is my God, there lies the Consideration that kept him from departing from him; so Psal. 44. 17. We have not dealt falsly in thy Covenant, says the Church there. Many Acts of displeasing him may pass and be ventured; but if the Holy Soul thinks that the Covenant lay at stake, that God and he must utterly part and break off, thus far he will never go. And hence it comes to pass, that a Christian finds it often harder to deny himself in small matters, than in the great Trials and Turnings of his Life: for usually in great Trials a Man looks upon them as Passages appointed of God on purpose to try him; and if he should fail him then, he thinks he should lose him quite, never look him in the Face more, nor be owned by him: and in these Cases, and when such Apprehensions are set on, the Heart sticks close to God, and returns from sinning, for God hath put his Fear in their Hearts that they should not depart from him, Jer. 32.40. But now a wicked man lying in a Course of sinning, and being in the pursuit of his Sin, altho he apprehends he loseth God thereby by going so far and longer in it, and breaks quite with him, yet he will venture to go on still, as those that defer their Repentance do, and such others; as Esau when he sold his Birthright, wherein he is made a Type of such. So also Saul did, he knew God would cast him off, if he destroyed not all the Amalekites, yet for fear of the People he ventured to spare the best of them, 1 Sam. 15. and rejected the Word of the Lord, and cast God away by that Act. And so many when they have gone so far in an Estate of sinning, that they apprehend and are convinced that they are in a damnable condition, yet venture still as securely to go on as ever; these sin against the very Covenant and the Terms of it, break the very fundamental Condition of it: but this no Godly Man, apprehending or knowing it, can do, nor be false in the fundamental Parts of the Covenant, for such a Violation of it would shut Men out of the State of Grace, for it is not compatible to it. As God keeps the Believer from doing so, so his Knowledg and Fear doth, as Jeremiah says, Jer. 32. 40. A Wife that is loving may venture sometimes to do many things she knows displeasing to her Husband; but if she should apprehend he would certainly divorce her and cast her off, she would not venture on them, she would not lose her Husband. Now to continue in any Sin a Godly Man knows would break the Covenant, and cause an utter Divorce, this the Fear of God in his Heart, and the Knowledg of the Goodness of God, and of his Interest in him, as the Church reasoneth, Hosea 2. 7. will not suffer him to do. So also for the Performance of a Duty, tho a Godly Man may neglect to perform it, and that long, against his Conscience (tho it is dangerous so to do) yet herein he acts as a Man that hath a Bond in a Friend's Hand, and may neglect such a Day of Payment, because he may hope to excuse it and humble himself; but in the end when he shall come to apprehend, that if he takes not some Order about it, his Bond will be sued, all his Estate of Grace mortgaged, an Execution come out; when this is served upon his Conscience, this rouseth a Godly Man; when an unregenerate Man will go on for all this, as Deferrers of Repentance do.

(2.) Tho a Godly Man may deliberately commit a particular Sin against his Knowledg, and therein despise the Commandment of God, that is, make bold with it for that Act (as David did, which is most fearful) 2 Sam. 12. 9. yet he doth not reject or cast away the Commandment, which he thus knows, so as to forsake or renounce Obedience to it as to a Commandment, which he cannot nor will not bring his Heart to be subject unto, as a wicked Man in some one Commandment or other usually doth. So Saul is said to do, 2 Sam. 15. 23. Thou hast rejected the Word of the Lord, and therefore God hath rejected thee from being King; because he cast off the Government of the Commandment, and would no longer be subject to God, therefore God took away his Government over others. He stood out as an Outlaw and a Rebel in that Act, and so the word intimates in that same Verse, for his Act is call'd Rebellion and Stubbornness. Now tho David made bold with the Commandment, and did so much despise it, yet he stood not out as an Outlaw, as one that would not come in to obey it, or that rejected it. A Subject may presume in a particular Act to transgress a Law, and so David did, but yet intends not to shake off the Yoke of Obedience in any thing to his Prince, becomes not a Rebel, an Outlaw to any Commandment, as every Wicked Man doth in regard of some Command or other. Tho Wicked Men know that the Sabbath ought to be kept strictly, they will not only in Particulars make bold with it (which is a high kind of sinning) but their Hearts cannot be subject to it, yea will not, and so stand as Outlaws; they say in their Hearts, This Man shall not reign over us; such a Commandment they will not be subject unto, and so go on from day to day, not despising it only but rejecting it, as the Jews did Christ for being King. So also did they, Luke 7. 30. who are said to reject the Counsel of God within themselves; they knew they ought to subject themselves to John's Doctrine and be baptized, but they scorned to seem to follow a poor Man. And so in the 50*th Psalm*, the Hypocrite is said there, tho he knows God's Will (for he takes it into his Mouth) yet to cast the Law behind his Back. Now when a thing is cast behind a Man's Back, he hath no more an eye to it, but leaves it behind him; but a Godly Man, tho in a particular Act he passeth by the Law, yet he sets it before him, looks to it as a Mariner to the Loadstone to sail by it, he turns not his Back on it: But (as Paul did, Phil. 3. 14.) he sets this Mark before him, and aims at it in a course of constant Obedience. Whereas those did the contrary, of whom the Prophet ſpeaks, Jer. 5. 5. Theſe (ſaith he) have broke the Bands and the Yoke. Every Commandment which a Man knows, becomes a Bond to tie him to God, and as a Yoke to keep him in his Compaſs and Rank, and bring him into Subjection. Now a Wicked Man breaks the Bonds and Yoke in pieces, will not be ſubject to ſome Commandment or other; but a Godly Man, tho he may go aſtray againſt his Knowledg, and run away, yet ſtill he hath the Yoke about his Neck, he hath a Reſolution and Heart ſtill to be ſubject, and doth not break the Bond in pieces, and give himſelf a Liberty and Allowance to be free from any Commandment, tho ſometimes he make eſcapes: as an Apprentice, tho he breaks the Conditions, yet tears not the Indentures as a Wicked Man doth. Chap. 6.

USE 1. The firſt Uſe is rais'd from the differences between a Godly Man's and an unregenerate Man's ſinning againſt Knowledg. Which is to exhort you to examine your ſelves by them, my Brethren; all here have ſome Knowledg, all know ſome Sins and ſome Duties. Go and examine how thy Heart carries thy ſelf to thy Knowledg: It is a ſhort way to convince Men by, uſed by the Apoſtle in Rom. 1. for tho the Gentiles had lived according to Knowledg, it would not have ſaved them; yet it might negatively demonſtrate their Eſtate naught. Doſt thou not deſire to grow in Knowledg, to the end thou mayſt know how to glorify God more? And as thou doſt grow, doſt thou not ſtill deſire to bring thy Practice anſwerable to it, and to run the faſter, the further off thy Practice is from what thou knoweſt thou ſhouldſt do? It is well with thee. But doſt thou reſt a in pitch and courſe of Duties, and ſay, This is enough to ſave me, and what needs more? Thy Eſtate is naught then. Haſt thou not a care to keep thy Heart even with thy Knowledg, to make it perfect, when thou prayeſt and receiveſt the Sacraments? Hideſt thou not thine Eyes from any Command, as it is ſaid they in the Prophet did from the Sabbath? And when thou knoweſt it, doſt thou not reſt till thy Heart be looſned from thy Sin, and made ſubject to all Duty, to pray, read the Word, and ſanctify Sabbaths, and to examine thy Heart, to confer holily? &c. Thy Heart is naught, if thou doſt not and wilt not be found perfect before God. Art thou afraid of any Truth, and ſorry that it is a Truth, when thou knoweſt it, becauſe it croſſeth thy Luſt? Art not glad of that buſy Light that is in thee? but doſt thou wiſh thy ſelf rid of it? Art thou overcome of any Sin, and tho thou knoweſt it to be a Sin, yet in the end goeſt on and alloweſt thy ſelf in it, let Conſcience ſay what it will? Haſt thou a Heart can defer Repentance when thou art perſuaded thy Eſtate is naught, and go on in ſinning when thou ſeeſt thou muſt loſe God if thou doſt? thy Heart is naught then. Doſt thou reject any Commandment, and daily walk, as if there were no ſuch thing to be minded by thee, as if it were not to be put into thy Memorandum to have a care of? Doſt thou paſs Sabbaths thus, and Praying-times over thus? thy Heart is falſe with God then. My Brethren, believe it, at the latter Day the firſt Courſe God will take in his Order of convincing, and condemning Men, will be to reckon and account what Knowledg they had, and ſo then to examine how they walk'd accordingly. Rom. 2. Thoſe without the Law ſhall be judged without it, for it will afford matter of Conviction ſufficient to take what Sins they knew to be Sins, and yet ſinned in them: And therefore in the firſt Chapter of the Epiſtle to the Romans, the Apoſtle goes no further, but inſtanceth in ſuch Sins as natural Light taught them. Do thou ſo of what thou knoweſt, and ſee how thou anſwereſt that Knowledg.

Book IV. And as for you that are Profeſſors, and know more, I here charge you, either leave profeſſing to know God, leave noting Sermons, and repeating them, or elſe make your Hearts perfect, and your Lives anſwerable: For St. John ſays plainly, He that ſays he knows God, and keeps not his Commandments, is a Liar, 1 John 2. 4. an Hypocrite. Wherein lies the Power of Religion, but in ruling and moulding the Heart to what you know?

USE 2. Tho a regenerate Man may ſin ſo far againſt Knowledg, yet this is not to encourage any to go ſo far, and preſume they may ſtill be in the State of Grace. No, but as the Apoſtle ſays, Theſe things we write to you, that you ſin not. Nor do I ſpeak theſe things ſo to you, that you may be diſcouraged, preſently to think all is naught, and to call all into queſtion. I would have ſuch as would preſume on what hath been ſaid, not to make ſo bad a uſe of ſo true a Doctrine, but conſider the heinouſneſs of ſinning againſt Knowledg, and withal the fearful Conſequences of making bold with the Commandments of God. A Sin of Knowledg will ſtop thy Mouth both to God and Man. When thou goeſt to pray to God, it will clap a Lock upon thy Heart and Lips; ſo it did on David's, as appears from Pſalm 51. where after that great Sin, he prays to God to open his Lips, for that they had been ſealed up: Beſides, it will cauſe God to give thee up to Terrors, to loſe the Comfort of all thy Grace. And as thou ſinneſt againſt Knowledg, ſo Knowledg and the Guilt of thy Sin ſhall fight againſt thee; and tho he will not give thee up to thy Luſts, as he gave up theſe Gentiles, and to a reprobate Mind, for thou art his Child; yet he will give thee up to a terrified Mind: And as ſeven Devils enter into one that falls after Knowledg that belongs not to God; ſo in thy proportion ſhall ſeven Devils be let looſe to terrify thee: And as their latter End is worſe than the beginning, ſo ſhall a worſe Humiliation ceaſe on thee than at thy firſt Converſion. If thou wilt go to the utmoſt of what is compatible with the State of Grace in ſinning, God will anſwerably bring thee to the utmoſt Border of Hell, as far as thou canſt go and not go in, to the depth of that Deſpair which may ſtand with Faith. This often he doth: yea happily he will ſhorten thy Life, cut thee off before thy time; for he that ſins preſumptuouſly, Numb. 15. 30, 31. ſhould be cut off. And the Laws of Men not now taking notice of thee, God will cut thee off, at leaſt in thy Apprehenſion, from the Number of his People; thy own Thoughts and Speeches ſhall excommunicate thee, thou ſhalt lie roaring and cry out, thou art none of his. Therefore take heed of doing any thing preſumptuouſly by what hath been ſaid, but make this uſe of it, that if in time paſt thou haſt thus ſinned, and art therefore now in the Dungeon, and ſo thinkeſt becauſe thou didſt ſin ſo grievouſly againſt Knowledg, that therefore thou wert never truly regenerate, to comfort thee, conſider what hath been ſaid.

USE 3. Is it ſo heinous to ſin againſt Knowledg? This ſhould teach us to be valiant for the Truth, if evil times come. Thoſe Truths which you are now aſſured of, flinch not from them: remember what St. Paul ſays to Timothy, 1 Tim. 6. 12, 13. Fight the good Fight of Faith, that thou haſt profeſſed before many Witneſſes. And I give you Charge in the Sight of God, who is able to quicken you if you die for it, and of Jeſus Chriſt who himſelf witneſſed a good Confeſſion before Pilate, and denied not what he knew was Truth, that you do ſo too; tho others will ſay with Pilate, What is Truth? and make a Jeſt of it: but never deny deny it. Be ye caſt in Priſon, the Truth will make you free, John 8. 32. and pay all thy Charges: and therefore do not thou impriſon it, as the Gentiles; for the Children of God can do nothing againſt the Truth not heartily; they cannot deny it, and ſtand out denying it, as the Martyrs could not, it will break Priſon-Doors; for when they had ſubſcribed, they could not be quiet till they had torn out their Names again. We can do nothing againſt it, but for it all we can, 2 Cor. ult. Chap. 7.

CHAP. VII.

The other Caſe reſolved, Wherein the Sin againſt the Holy Ghoſt differs from other Sins againſt Knowledg.

THERE is yet another Caſe or Queſtion to be anſwered concerning ſinning againſt Knowledg, and that is, what difference may be between any other Sin againſt Knowledg, and that great Sin of all other only impardonable, which is in an eſpecial manner called a Sin after receiving the Truth, and after enlightning, Heb. Chap. 6. & 10. And this is neceſſary to ſpeak a little of, for it is homogeneal to this Head, it being an eſſential Ingredient into that Sin, and a neceſſary Circumſtance of it, that it is againſt the greateſt Light; and ſo the Apoſtle in both Places expreſſeth it, as alſo becauſe many poor Souls that ſin after Enlightnings, or have fallen off from the Practice of what they have profeſſed, think therefore they have ſinned that Sin, becauſe againſt ſo much clear and taſting Knowledg: And indeed there is no Man almoſt, that hath been enlightened, but thoſe Places have had a Blow at him, or may come to have. Now therefore as I have given you differences between a regenerate Man's ſinning againſt Knowledg, and an Unregenerate Man's, ſo I will alſo between ordinary Unregenerate Mens ſinning againſt Knowledg and this, there being a Peculiarity in it: for it is not ſimply ſinning againſt and after taſting Knowledg, for then the Saints ſhould ſin it, Solomon and David had done it: nor the reſiſting of the Spirit in the Motions of it; for then they, Iſa. 63. 10. who were God's People, ſhould be guilty of it: nor is it ſimply hating the Light as contrary to our Luſts, for then every one that doth evil ſhould be guilty of it, as John 3. 18, 19. nor hating God as he is conſidered a Judg, commanding ſuch ſtrict Laws, for ſo the Gentiles ſhould have ſinned it, who never knew the Goſpel (Rom. 1. 30.) and then every Unregenerate Man, whoſe Mind is Enmity to God and his Law, Rom. 8. 17. ſhould be guilty of it: no, nor is it ſpeaking evil of, or injuring thoſe we know to be Saints, for then Manaſſes ſhould have ſinned it, who ſlew the Prophets, and filled Jeruſalem with Blood, who yet was brought up well; for Hezekiah being a Godly Man, ſurely had him inſtructed, and he was twelve Years old e'er he died: and at 2 Chron. 33. 10. it is ſaid, the Lord ſpake to him, ſo as he had notice of all. And alſo Herod had ſinned it who put John to Death, whom he reverenced and knew to be a Holy Man: But yet he did not ſin the Sin againſt the Holy Ghoſt, for he was ſorrowful. Therefore to clear this to you:

Firſt, It is not ſinning againſt any kind of Knowledg of things in the Word, that makes this Sin, for it is not ſinning againſt the Knowledg of the Book IV. the Law, to commit Adultery, or blaſpheme God againſt Knowledg, which is this Sin; for Heb. 10. 28. the Apoſtle makes it a further kind of ſinning than deſpiſing any part of the Law: yet to deſpiſe the Law was to ſin preſumptuouſly, and to reproach the Lord therein, Numb. 15. 30, 31. and is oppoſed to ſinning ignorantly: And Chriſt ſays, every Blaſphemy ſhall be forgiven but this. But it is a ſinning againſt the Light of things revealed in the Goſpel, the Light of the Offer of Grace, of the Spirit accompanying that Light, with taſting of the Goodneſs of that Offer; ſo Heb. 6. Heb. 10. 29. and againſt the Work of the Spirit in themſelves and others; and it is not γνωσις only, but ἐπιγνωσις, a Conviction and Evidence wrought of the Truth and Goodneſs of them.

Secondly, It is not every kind of deſpiſing the Truths of the Goſpel, but ſuch as is accompany'd with a deſpiteful cauſeleſs Contempt of 'em, and Indignation againſt them. It is not the undervaluing of the Offer of Grace to the Pleaſures of Sin; ſo the young Man did, who yet was ſorrowful. So many do who defer their Repentance, prefer their Luſts to Chriſt and Mercy, who yet are converted after; for this Contempt is but becauſe they cannot enjoy Chriſt and their Luſts; if they could have him with their Luſts, they would: 'tis but comparatively they thus contemn it, joined with ſome Eſteem of it and Deſire after it. But this Sin includes in it a ſimple Contempt; therefore the Holy Ghoſt expreſſeth it, by trampling underfoot Chriſt's Blood, and eſteeming it as a common thing: If they had a Cup full of his Blood, they would pour it on the Ground, not only preferring other things before it, but trampling it as Mire and Dirt, as the Jews did Chriſt, ſaying that he was a Devil, yet knowing him to be the Meſſiah, (as appears Mark 3. 28. Chriſt ſpeaking of that Sin) debaſing it in their Eſteem, and ſo alſo doing deſpite or contumely, as the word ſignifies, to the Spirit of Grace; contemning, not reſiſting only, his Work in themſelves or others; not oppoſing the Saints only, but having no reverence of them.

Thirdly, Their Hatred to God and Chriſt, and the Light and Work of the Spirit, and his Saints, is a revengeful Hatred, therefore called a crucifying of Chriſt again, and doing deſpite to the Spirit: for you muſt know there may be a twofold Hatred of God and Chriſt, and the Saints; one primary, direct, and hating them as ſuch; another ſecondary, occaſioned and ſtirred up, becauſe they are croſſed by theſe and vexed by them: as Ahab hated Micaiah, not as a Prophet, but becauſe he ſaid contrary to what he would have had him; and ſo Herod againſt John Baptiſt, becauſe he preached againſt his Luſt, it was not as he was a Holy Man, not ſub eo Nomine.

Now all unregenerate Men may come thus to hate God ſecondarily, and indirectly, becauſe they look on him as a Judg, and to hate the Saints becauſe their Light reproves them and vexeth their Conſciences, and they cannot be quiet for them; for it is in Hatred as in Love. And as a Wicked Man may love a Godly Man, yet not as Godly, but for ſome Amiableneſs and Profitableneſs by his Godlineſs to him, as Darius loved Daniel, Pharaoh loved Joſeph, and Achiſh loved David, for the Uſefulneſs and Benefit they had by their Grace: So Wicked Men hate Grace alſo, and they generally do it as being contrary to their Luſts, and therefore ſpeak evil of the Saints: But now this revengeful Hatred which is bounded primarily againſt the Perſon of God and Chriſt, this cauſeleſs Hatred (as Chriſt expreſſeth this Sin, John 15. 24, 25.) ſeeing and hating cauſelefly all the Saints, he knows ſuch, in relation to the Covenant of Grace eſtabliſhed witn them, becauſe they are Saints and God's Children, this may ſeem to be the Form of this Sin; therefore they are ſaid to crucify again to themſelves the Lord Chriſt; for were it in their Power they would do it; and that which is the Devil's Maſter Luſt is theirs alſo, John 8. 44. His Luſts ye will do, ſays Chriſt, ſpeaking of the Phariſees, who deſired to kill him out of a revengeful Diſpoſition, and ſo they ſinned this Sin. It was a revengeful Hatred ſet them awork, and thus they alſo are guilty of this Sin againſt the Holy Ghoſt, who do deſpite to the Spirit of Grace, Heb. 10. 28. and ſo againſt all Saints as Saints: for ſeeing they cannot be revenged on God, they perſecute them; and ſo theſe love Sin, not only ſecondarily for the Pleaſures that come in with it, but as Sin, becauſe it provokes God, becauſe they know it will anger him; which Revenge is made their Boſom-Luſt, and all reſolved into it, and is ſtirred up in them, by reaſon they apprehend God to have caſt them off; therefore they are ſaid to have εκδοχην κρίσεως, to receive Judgment, Heb. 10. 27. whereas others ſtanding in Terms of Treaty for Grace with God, have not this revengeful Diſpoſition ſtirred up in them, but thoſe other malicious Sinners are deſperate. 1 John II. 13, 14.

Ver. 13. I write unto you, Fathers, becauſe ye have known him that is from the Beginning: I write unto you, Young Men, becauſe ye have overcome the wicked One: I write unto you, Little Children, becauſe ye have known the Father.

Ver. 14. I have written unto you, Fathers, becauſe ye have known him that is from the Beginning: I have written unto you, Young Men, becauſe ye are ſtrong, and the Word of God abideth in you; and ye have overcome the wicked one.

CHAP. I.

The Deſign of the Apoſtle in the Text explain'd. The Characters of the ſeveral Ages of Chriſtians are drawn from what is found as an excellency in each of theſe Ages in Mens Natural Life.

THIS holy Apoſtle, who had an advantage for Holineſs in this Life above many of his Fellow-Apoſtles, in that he liv'd the longeſt of them, and ſo to grow up therein; and in the Courſe of his Life had run through all the ſeveral Ages or Seaſons that any Chriſtians do paſs through; and having had experience in other Chriſtians of what was eminent in, and proper unto each Age of Men in Chriſt; writes diſtinctly unto all ſorts accordingly, and ſets down what Eminency in things Spiritual, and therewithal what Duties belong'd unto theſe ſeveral Ages.

Chap. 1. These Ages in Christ he divides into three, according to what Nature divides them into; tho Custom of Speech speaks four.

1. Fathers in Christ.
2. Men grown up; which is translated Young Men.
3. Babes, or new Converts, not yet grown up; but true Believers all.

But this must be notic'd by the way, for the right apprehension of these three Ranks or Classes of Christians (which hath to our English Readers occasion'd a confounding of what the Apostle intended should be differenced) The word Little Children, twice so render'd in ver. 13, and 14. by the Translators, seems as if Little Children in the 12*th* verse were the same with Little Children spoken of in ver. 13. whereas the Words in the Greek differ: τεκνία Little Children in ver. 12. is Filioli, or little Sons; but παιδία Babes or Infants, in ver. 13. is another word. The first, τεκνία, ver. 12. is the common Appellation of Saints in this Life, involving the whole Church, both Fathers, Young Men, Babes and all. Our Lord himself first us'd that word Little Children of and to his Apostles, John 15. 33. and Chap. 21. 5. for they are all Sons, as Gal. 3. 26. and but little Children all of them whilst in this Life, in comparison unto what in the other World they shall be; unto their elder Brethren in Heaven made perfect. See 1 Cor. 13. 10, 11. When that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away. When I was a Child, I spake as a Child, I understood as a Child, I thought as a Child; but when I became a Man, I put away childish things, &c. But in the 13*th* Verse our Apostle John distributeth those Little Children that are Christians, into three sorts, express'd by three Ages in Christ, and terms the new converted ones Infants or Babes; which are but one rank or sort, distinguish'd from Fathers and Young Men.

So that this first, this Title of Little Children, ver. 12. denotes the whole Church on Earth jointly and in common; the second in ver. 13. the whole Church distributively cast into three Ranges. In that first he mentions a Privilege common to all three; namely, That their Sins are forgiven them, in the Name of Christ. As also Eph. 4. 3. This belongs to them all first and last; even Babes have all their Sins forgiven at first, as the Colossians from their first Conversion, Colos. 3. As the Title Sons or Children is common, so is this Benefit of Forgiveness.

This I pass, and handle not.

The three several Ages are my Subject.

By which the Ages of Christians, according to their Years as Men, are not so strictly and chiefly intended: For if the Discrimination be meant according to Nature, that is, their Ages as they are Men, then very Infants, that are sanctified, should be intended; but not so: for it is those only that were capable of understanding this Epistle, written by John; or else it were frustrate to have said, he wrote unto such Babes: therefore he means not Infants according to the Course of Nature. And besides, it may and doth fall out, that some old Men may be Babes in Christ, that is, New Converts; and that Christians long converted who should (for the time) be, as the Apostle says to the Hebrews, of a full Age, yet continue to be Babes in Christ, Heb. 5. 12, 13, 14. Tho then they are even old Men, as Men; and if they be in Christ, are to be treated and reverenc'd by all others as Fathers, 1 Tim. 5. 1, 2. because old Age is found in the way of Righteousness in them, as Prov. 16. 31. But these are not the Fathers that are here meant by John.

So that these sorts of Ages are three degrees in Christianity, or in Christ; sorted by their Stature in Christ. There is a Stature in Christ spoken of, Ephes. 4. 14. and these three are the Degrees unto that Stature: Aud therefore the Apostle is principally to be understood of what several Ages Christians are of as they are grown up into Christ, according as their measure is of the true saving Knowledg in them of Christ: For according to that measure we find their Ages computed. Thus the Corinthians, whom the Apostle calls Babes, and adds, in Christ, 1 Cor. 3. 1. to shew how he meant it, namely as they were in Christ; for otherwise as Men they were grown up in Years, yea and had been some years converted; and suitably as he says these Babes in Christ, so you may add the same here to and of those whom our Apostle speaks of, and say, to you Fathers in Christ, old Disciples, ciples, as in the Acts, of much ſtanding and long Experience: and in like manner, young Men in Chriſt, and Babes in Chriſt. Chap. I.

My Scope in handling theſe is to ſhew the peculiar Appropriation that belongs to each Age, which here the Apoſtle ſchematizeth them in; to the end that you may have ſome help to diſcern what Age you are of in Chriſt: many are to ſeek as to the knowledg of their Age in Chriſt. My Scope is alſo to direct what each ſort ſhould aim at, and apply themſelves to ſeek for at God's hands; that they computing the time they reckon upon for their having been in Chriſt (tho the exact time many know not) yet by ſeveral workings may gueſs at, and have liv'd ſuch or ſo many years in having had ſuch workings on them, ſo as for the time they might well be out of their Babeſhip; they may ſee what for the time they ought to have attain'd, and ſeeing themſelves to fall ſhort, to humble themſelves accordingly: perhaps when old in Years, yet Babes in Chriſt ſtill. 'Tis a great part of Wiſdom to know the Times, ſo in Eſther; and Chriſt ſpeaks of diſcerning the Times: but this is more, to know what the ſeaſons that our particular Perſons are under, to the end to provoke us ſtill to forget what is behind, and to ſeek further.

I come now to open theſe three Characters of the three ſeveral Ages in particular.

Towards the underſtanding the Difference of theſe Characters in particular;

Firſt, ſome Cautions are to be premis'd, to prevent a miſunderſtanding either of the Apoſtle's or my Intent.

1. The firſt and principal one, and which is to be remember'd and taken all along, both as a note and guide of Interpretation, and finding out the Apoſtle's Scope, and to prevent miſtaking in judging our ſelves or others, is, that in deſigning forth theſe ſpecial Characters or Notes to theſe ſeveral Ages, his meaning is not as if what is attributed ſingly, were appropriated to the Ages mention'd, in ſuch a manner, as that the ſame are not at all to be found in the other two. For inſtance, 'tis the Character of Babes, to know the Father; this is not to be underſtood as if that old Chriſtians did not alſo continue to know the Father. The like of that other of middle-ag'd Chriſtians, as if they only were ſtrong, and as if they only did overcome that wicked one. No; for that Knowledg of the Father that is in Babes, may be and is continued in them when grown up to be Young Men; and grows up in Fathers to a higher degree than in either. And in like manner, ſpiritual Strength to overcome is continued alſo, yea and increas'd in old Chriſtians. We ſee that Love of the Father, and ſo the Knowledg of him, is common to Chriſtians of all Ages, Ver. 15. If any Man love the World, the Love of the Father is not in him: that is, he is not a Chriſtian. Likewiſe, whereas young Men are ſaid to have overcome Satan, that is, his Tentations; noting alſo, how that Age is incident to them: Yet Babes alſo have their Tentations to Sin, and ſometimes are enabled to overcome; they have their Deliverances and Victories; and Babes and Sucklings have Strength to ſtill the Enemy and the Avenger, Pſal. 8. which Chriſt applies to the little Children that cry'd Hoſanna. So as it is not the meaning, that any of theſe Attributes are ſo peculiar to any of theſe ſorts, but that there may be found the ſame in ſome degree in each other: but his Deſign is to ſet forth what is more ſingular in every of theſe Ages, what more eminent.

Again, theſe three appropriated Notes are to be underſtood with a potius, with a Rather: As that Babes do at that Age rather apply themſelves to purſue after, and are fond of the Father and his Love; and ſo of the reſt in theirs.

Again, nor as if when they were Babes, they had only this Grace of knowing the Father, and not of him that was from the beginning. New-born Babes, ſays Peter, 1 Epiſt. 2. 1, 2, 3. have taſted that the Lord is gracious: and that Lord there meant is Chriſt, as it follows Ver. 4. To whom coming, as to a living Stone, choſen of God, and precious: 'tis Chriſt he ſpeaks of.

Moreover, when I ſay, what is more eminent in any Age, I ſpeak it not comparatively to the other two, as if the other two had leſs of the Love of the Father, as they grow to be young Men or middle-ag'd Chriſtians, than when they are Babes; but 'tis ſpecially in compariſon of all other Spiritual Excellencies in themſelves, at that Age that this ſpecial Character, that is appropriated thereto, Chap. 1. is found eminere, and to abound in the practice of it. As for inſtance, Babes (which are the loweſt) have their Victories as well as young Men, and the Knowledg of Chriſt who was from the beginning, as Fathers are ſaid to have: yet if you would know what their Hearts and Affections are taken up with moſt, it is the fatherly Mercy of God; to cry Abba Father to him, and to ſeek of him as ſuch the Pardon of their Sins; and perhaps alſo further, to have the Apprehenſion of the Love of the Father, in his Love and Deſign in ſending his Son to be a Propitiation for Sins (which in the fourth Chapter is treated of) ſo that this Compariſon is (not more or above the other two, but) in reſpect of other Spiritual Workings of Heart in themſelves, and which is often more ſtirring than any other.

Again, the meaning is negatively, that in compariſon to thoſe other two, Babes have not yet attain'd to the Excellency of the other two, that is, they are not grown up to that Strength, as to go thorough thoſe Conflicts and Tentations that young Men are exercis'd withal, nor to know Chriſt in that manner which Fathers have attain'd unto.

Again, it may alſo be that not ſimply what their Hearts do moſt abound in at that Age, more than in any other Age; but what is the top Excellency which at that Age they arrive at, in compariſon to whatever elſe is in them; and ſo to the Excellency of the thing it ſelf at that Age, he aims to ſet forth. The Thoughts of Babes may perhaps be exercis'd more about Humiliation for Sin, or the like; yet this of knowing the Father is the top Excellency of any other Exerciſe of Grace they have in them.

Again, there is to be an allowance given to the Liberty which God's free Grace, in his various Dealings with his Children, is pleas'd to reſerve to himſelf, and doth take and will take, according to his good Pleaſure; and his free Grace will not be bound to ſuch acceſſory Rules as are not ſimply eſſential to our being Chriſtians, nor of the Eſſence of that Being, in the State of Grace, and concern the bene eſſe, the well being of them only; but his ſpecial Grace will break in, where and how it pleaſeth him. Some are begotten ſtrong Men in Chriſt (which is the Property of the young Men here) as Paul was from the firſt. He can ripen his Corn ſoon, for his gathering them into his Floor; as is ſeen in many Converts, who ſhoot up to a ſtrange degree and ſtature of Holineſs and Communion with the Father and Son, when God means to take them to Heaven to himſelf. Enoch attain'd to a higher Strain of Perfection in three hundred Years, than his Fellow-Patriarchs in nine hundred: it is therefore what in the ordinary Courſe of God's Diſpenſations falls out, plerumque, and for the moſt part. And to ſhew in what ſeaſons Saints converted grow up into; there are ſeveral Seaſons, for Buds to ſhoot forth in one Month, then Bloſſoms in another, &c.

Laſtly, theſe Characters, altho they belong not ſimply unto Chriſtians, according to their Ages as Men, in this World (as was ſaid) but to their degrees of Stature in Chriſt; yet the Characters are borrowed from, and aſſimilated unto what is found as an Excellency in each of theſe Ages, in Mens natural Life; and not without a great Elegancy transfer'd to the like falling out, in theſe Ages in Chriſt.

1. Wiſdom and experimental Knowledg and Remembrance of things long ſince paſt, is that which old Men delight in, and is eminent in Men wiſe; anſwering to which is, Fathers, you have known him who is from the Beginning.

2. The Glory of young Men, and Men grown up, is their Strength; Prov. 20. 29. The Glory of young Men is their Strength; Wreſtlings and Victories: anſwerable to which is, Young Men, you are ſtrong, and have overcome that wicked one.

3. Infants, they rejoice in the ſight and preſence of their Fathers and Parents, and in their talking of them; anſwerably, Babes you have known the Father.

A ſecond thing to be premis'd, is an account touching my Method in handling theſe Characters, becauſe I ſhall not keep to the Order the Apoſtle hath ſet them in; which we ſee is Fathers firſt, and the Condition of young Men or middle-ag'd Chriſtians

Christians in the middle, and Babes last; he proceeding and keeping to the Order of Time, and the due Honour to be given, as to Fathers first. But my aim in handling them being only to set out the just difference of the distinct Characters appropriated here to them; especially between those two of Babes and Fathers; whose Character in common is to know, and have Communion with one of these two Persons; but distinguish'd by some special Acquaintance, with the Father the one, or with Christ the other: Whereas in his mention of the middle-ag'd, he doth not at all speak of their Communion with either of these two Persons (tho it is to be suppos'd such a Communion with each is, in the measure of their Age in Christianity, found in them also) but their Character carries us only to consider their Conflicts with Sin and Satan, and their Overcomings, to set them forth by. Hence I judg it meet, as to my now mention'd purpose, to link the handling the Characters of those two, Babes and Fathers, together; finding it also to be the fairest and best way to come to discern the difference between them, in respect to the difference of their Communion; whilst we view and compare them together: The Knowledg of, and Communion with the Father in the one; and of and with Christ by the other. And then after this Dispatch to treat apart, and singly by it self, that of middle-ag'd Christians last, but these other two first. Chap. 2.

And thirdly, because a Fellowship and Communion with one of these Persons, in a more eminent manner, is the difference the Apostle intendeth, when he says, Babes know the Father, and Fathers Christ; I shall therefore inlarge my Discourse, and take into my Method the point of Communion with these Persons, not in the Latitude thereof; but especially the point of Inequality of Communion with these Persons (which is apparent from the Instances of these two Ages in the Text) which Christians may, and do often meet withal in successive times of their Lives (and not only at those two Ages) sometimes to be more with one Person, sometimes with the other; as God is pleas'd to dispense it. And then in the end to give a more special account how, and why Babes know the Father, and Fathers Christ. The whole of what concerns these things, to which I limit my self, I shall proceed to prove by God's Grace, and explain by these gradual Approaches, fetcht from out of the third and fourth Verses of Chap. 1. compar'd with the Words of this 13*th* Ver. of Chap. 21.

CHAP. II.

Of Communion with the two Persons of the Godhead, Father and Son; and how a Believer in his several Ages hath sutably Communion sometimes more with the one, sometimes more with the other.

IN successive times of a Christian's Course he doth come to have more eminent Communion with one of the Persons, than with the other; as with the Father more than with Christ, or with Christ more than the Father, in Vicissitudes. This shall be treated and explain'd in several gradual Proposals, with the Reasons and Uses thereof.

That which is common to both these Ages of Christians is to have known either, or both of these Persons: and to know, is not a literal doctrinal Knowledg only, that floats aloft in the Understanding, and rests there; but which takes and overcomes the Heart: Prov. 2. 10. When Wisdom enters into thine Heart. And is that Knowledg which the Apostle calls the Excellency of the Knowledg of Christ, Philip. 3. 10. And in our John here, ch. 4. 7, 8. 'tis a Knowledg wrought by Regeneration and being born again; Every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God: and ver. 8. He that loveth not, knoweth not God; for God is Love: and Chap. 3. 6. Whoever sinneth (whose whole Heart is in some Sin or other) hath not seen him, nor known him. So as to know either the Father or the Son, is to have our deerest Affections and Desires after, our Love to, Delights and Rejoicings drawn forth to them; to have Faith on them, They that know thy Name, will

Chap. 2. will trust in thee, Psal. 9. 10. to have the multitude of our Thoughts running still upon them; How precious are thy Thoughts to me! So David, I am continually with thee. Also 'tis to have our wonted special Recourse unto that Person we know, in all Wants and Needs; John 4. 10. Jesus answered, and said to her, If thou kneweſt the Gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, give me to drink, thou wouldeſt have ask'd of him, and he would have given thee living Water. Also to hold an intimate Converse, Communion, familiar Fellowship with these Persons, in our Treatings with them about our Salvation, for the obtaining of it, upon those Considerations which are most proper to that Person, whom we treat withal about it: as either according to what his Person is, or his special Work and Hand in our Salvation is; according to what he hath done for us, and the Relations he bears to us of God as the Father, and Christ as the Mediator for us. Which latter in the former Chapter the Apostle had expres'd in one Word, to have Fellowship; and that Fellowship mutual between us and them, [one with another, ver. 7.] For thereby he means not the Communion other Saints have one with another, as the fruit of that Fellowship with God; he is not speaking of that there at all: But it is a Communion of God with us, and of us with God; and of Christ with us, one with another. And of that he had spoken immediately before, ver. 3. and 6.

Obs. The Height and Prime of Christian Religion lies in Fellowship and Communion with the Persons of God the Father and Christ. This the Apostle openly professeth to have been the Top of his own, and his Fellow-Apostles Religion; for in their Names he speaks it, and commends it to us, in saying, Truly our Fellowship is with the Father and the Son. And therewith (as their Religion) commends it to all Christians, to the end of the World. In that Word [our] Fellowship, he speaks of themselves, the Apostles; who also were those [we] who have heard, &c. ver. 1, 2. And certainly what was the Top of the Apostle's Religion, must be accounted the Height of our Christianity in this Life. And therefore the Apostle also proposeth it at the beginning of his Epistle, as the ultimate Scope thereof; and thereby to draw on all sorts of Believers to make it their Mark also, and to bring them to such Fellowship as themselves had.

The Height of Popish Religion, and of many others also, is to converse with Maxims and Articles of Faith: and take we the soundest of those Truths they profess, yet their Faith of them is but a Fellowship as with so many Propositions Theological; with a general Knowledg of, and Assent to them. And this Faith they set up instead of Faith justifying; which first draws our Souls unto a Communion with the Person of Christ, and to the Father, and to seek his Grace and Face through Christ, to justify us, as Persons that are in our selves ungodly. This first brings us into Fellowship with the Father. This Faith is the first occasion of, and begins our Acquaintance with either of them. But that other general Faith is that which they cry up as the Catholick Faith, as they call it; without drawing our Hearts unto the Persons themselves, and our applying our selves to both or either; leaves us without intimate Acquaintance with them at all: which that justifying Faith, as we teach it, doth; and it is the Nature and Property of it so to do. But to believe on the Pope, and on the Church as the Judg, and formal ground of all their Faith, which they term believing as the Church believes; and so they finally issue in Fellowship with the Pope as their Head. And the utmost end they have of exacting this kind of general Faith, is to bring Men into, and retain them to hold Communion (forsooth) with their Church: and that's the main they drive at.

And then in their Worship also, whom have they Communion with, but Saints departed? whom they pray to more than to Christ, or the Father: and in Prayer is exercis'd our highest Communion; and theirs with God and Christ is convey'd mediately through them. And which falls lower yet, this Communion in this Worship is with the Images of those Saints; and accordingly they have but a dead lifeless Communion: for their Images are dead, and their Worship of them is like unto them; and at best but the Image of what is true Worship, and Fellowship with the Person of the Father and the Son.

* Others

Others ask them their Religion; they declare it to be a Belief of what the Chap. 2.
criptures ſay to be true, and to give aſſent to them (which we do alſo, and re-eive with all acceptation all the Sayings and Truths deliver'd in the Word of God) as to believe that there is a God; That Chriſt is the Saviour of the World, and died to ſave Sinners: And unto which general Faith they add a Devotion (which is in all naturally towards a Deity) out of which they worſhip im; having this good hap, to be caſt upon the true God and Chriſt, as the Ob-ects of that Devotion. And then they ſtir up the Principles of Vertue that are n them naturally, edg'd by Goſpel-Motives of Heaven and Hell; which, with he Aids of the Spirit aſſiſting theſe Principles in the Will, is the whole of heir Religion. But to have perſonal Communion with the Father and Chriſt, nd to keep ſuch ado about getting Chriſt, and to hold and preſerve Communion with God the Father and Chriſt, and to make them the great Aim and Work of Faith; this they think to be at leaſt needleſs.

But let them and all the World know, that the Top and Summity of our Religion is to obtain, and then to retain and hold Fellowſhip with the Perſon of God the Father, and of Chriſt; and that hereunto we exerciſe our ſelves night and day: That tho the general Faith is our Faith alſo, and that we make uſe of that great Principle of Faith, as the great Engine, Inſtrument, and Means, whereby to have Communion with theſe Perſons, and that to live in a Converſe with them as Perſons; yet our Faith reſts not, can no way content it ſelf with the Belief of the things, Truth or Propoſitions, tho about Chriſt and God the Father, or the Spirit; that is, thoſe Divine Truths or Maxims about them. For our Communion is not with Propoſitions, but the Perſons; and aſpires and carries us ſtill to come at, and to the Perſons. We ſeek continually to have their Love manifeſted, their Hearts won to us; and behold the Glory of God in the Face and Perſon of Chriſt, as the Apoſtle ſpeaks, Phil. 3. That I may win Chriſt. And have the Father and Chriſt made ours: They are our Reſt; the Center of our Souls. We make uſe indeed of the Faith and Belief of the things or Truth aforeſaid, to affect our Hearts to the Perſons the more, whom they are ſpoken of;
as that, it is God that juſtifieth, it is Chriſt that died: And therefore the Love of Chriſt conſtrains us, becauſe we thus judg, that Chriſt died for us, who were all (in our ſelves) dead, and condemn'd to Death of Soul and Body: and this affects us, and draws forth Love out of us, to live to him that died for us. But the Objects that ultimately terminate our Faith, are the Perſons of the Father and Chriſt themſelves, to find and obtain their Loves to our Souls. They are not the things abſtracted from Communion with their Perſons that ſatisfy us, or which we live upon. Our Faith makes uſe of them as Helpers and Inducers, and the Bringers of our Souls to them; and then Soul and Perſon treat together: and we plead and urge thoſe things ſpoken of them Perſons in the Scripture, in our Treatings with them. But it is their Perſons, and their Hearts or their Deſires to be towards us, as the Spouſe ſpeaks in the Canticles, that we ſeek. Alſo we pray, and are converſant in all Ordinances of publick and private Worſhip, ſerving God night and day; we ſeek, we pour out our Souls, we repent, and turn from Sin, and ſet our ſelves to all known Duties: but theſe are not our Reſt, no not in this Life. But all we do is in a tendency to arrive at an acceptable Acceſs and Reception by thoſe Perſons, even before we come to Heaven; and thereby to keep up Communion with them, as holy Jude, ver. 20, 21. But ye, Beloved, building up your ſelves on your moſt holy Faith, praying in the Holy Ghoſt; keep your ſelves in the Love of God, looking for the Mercy of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt unto Eternal Life. If God would ſend Angels down to us, or Mary the Mother of God to converſe withal, whom the Papiſts make their greateſt Object of Converſe, and would not vouchſafe a gracious Intercourſe with his Perſon, that would not ſatisfy our Hearts: Yea, if God ſhould take us up to Heaven it ſelf, and there are many glorious things and Privileges to be had there, Reſt, Felicity, Joy, the beſt Company of all the Angels, and Spirits of Men made perfect; we profeſs that our Souls in the midſt of the Enjoyment of all theſe, if looking about us we ſhould not ſpie out Chriſt, and the Glory of the Father, we ſhould cry out, O but where is Chriſt! we ſee not him yet: we ſhould be at a

loſs

Chap. 2. loſs for want of him. Col. 3. 1. Seek thoſe things which are above: and ſo we profeſs to do; but how? Becauſe Chriſt is there, to whom our Hearts run: Where Chriſt, ſays he, ſits on the Right Hand of the Majeſty on high. 'Tis he draws our Hearts upwards to the things above. And if he would continue (as now to our Faith) being hid in God, when we come thither, we ſhould be dampt: But if he appear once, who is our Life, our Hearts would live, and we ſhould appear in Glory with him. All the things there would not content our Souls, were he not there; Whom have I n Heaven but thee? you know who ſaid it. And not Chriſt only, but God alſo is the Object of our Aſpirement, ver. 3. Your Life is hid with Chriſt in God. Even Chriſt's Life is in God, and therefore ours much more; and to them by Faith we go for it, even to their Perſons continually.

And our Apoſtle John puts the reaſon for this upon the very ſame account that Paul doth there in that Third of the Coloſſians. For having term'd Chriſt the Word of Life (ver. 1. and in ver. 2. that Eternal Life which was manifeſted, and who was with the Father; that is, who himſelf had his Life in, and perſonal Converſe with the Father, during all Eternity) hence therefore our Eternal Life alſo lies in Communion with theſe Perſons of Father and Son: and therefore Chriſt in his laſt Prayer to his Father, to move him towards us, propoſeth this as the ſummary End of that Errand, of his being ſent by him into this World, John 17. 2, 3. As thou haſt given him power over all Fleſh, that he ſhould give Eternal Life to as many as thou haſt given him. And this is Life Eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jeſus Chriſt whom thou haſt ſent. And this Life is not enjoyable only in that Life to come, but this Fellowſhip is begun and attain'd (for ſo it may be) in this Life, and hath a Fulneſs of Joy, as the Product of it; ver. 4. And theſe things write we unto you, having of this Fellowſhip, that your Joy may be full. I ſay to be enjoyed in this Life; for to that end it is he ſays he directeth them to theſe things, which he wrote whilſt in this Life; even whilſt we walk with God here, as ver. 6. And our Apoſtle expreſly ſays, Chriſt who is our Life, Col. 3. 4. And theſe Perſons are always living, for us by Faith to have acceſs unto, Eph. 2. 18. For through him we both have an acceſs by one Spirit unto the Father. And we find them to be alive, and to give forth that Life to our Hearts, when we come and make our Addreſſes to them: and it is the Converſe with their Perſons, which puts Life into the Truths we believe; as without which they would be but dead things to our Souls.

Let our Oppoſites content themſelves with their general Faith, for Faith, and deſpiſe that Faith of Application and Recumbency, and cry up their moral Vertues, of which they boaſt, that they are the Principles and Seeds of gracious actings which are found in any; and that the whole and main of their Salvation in this Life, is but the Reſtitution of them by Chriſt, unto that State of Holineſs which Adam was created in: unto which by the Improvement of thoſe vertuous Diſpoſitions left in corrupt Nature, through an aid of the Holy Ghoſt, which is but external to the Soul, they hope by their own Endeavours, with imperfect ſteps, to attain unto. And in their Catechiſms, let ſome of them give this account why they omitted conſultò to have put in the Doctrine of the three Perſons, becauſe forſooth they wrote a practical Catechiſm; as if the Notion of the three Perſons influenceth not at all the Practice of a Chriſtian. No, that is with them no part of their active Exerciſe, but a mere contemplative Speculation. Whereas we profeſs with the Apoſtle in this Epiſtle, that the Knowledg of and Communion with theſe Perſons, is both that which is the ultimate End and Tendency of all the other part of our practic Religion; as alſo which all along quickens and gives life to our Souls, in all that is of practice whatſoever; and alſo into all other the Doctrines that are found in that our Religion. And obſerve but the Scope and Procedure of this Holy man in this Epiſtle, whoſe Method in our Religion and Practice we profeſs to follow. Now he propoſeth this Fellowſhip as the ſupreme End of his writing, at the very beginning; and therewith propounding the Doctrine of the Father and Son, againſt all Errors then extant, ch. 2. he then exhorts to Holineſs, and keeping the Commandments, as the means to obtain, and keep our Souls in this Communion. We profeſs we can no longer enjoy this Fellowſhip with either Father or Son, than that thus we walk; even as he

thus expreſly chap. 1. v. 6. affirmeth, If we ſay that we have Fellowſhip with him, and walk in darkneſs, we lie, and do not the Truth. And chap. 3. 3, 4, 5, 6. Hereby we do know that we know him, if we keep his Commandments: He that ſaith I know him, and keepeth not his Commandments, is a Liar, and the Truth is not in him; but whoſo keepeth his word, in him verily is the Love of God perfected: hereby we know that we are in him. He that ſaith he abideth in him, ought himſelf alſo ſo to walk, even as he walked. I need refer to no more Paſſages, for you meet with this Doctrine of his up and down the whole Epiſtle: and this is the Order and Method of the Practice which we profeſs in our Religion. Chap. 2.

I only add, to the end none may be diſcourag'd, that Chriſtians either enjoy this Communion, or have their Spirits reſtleſly carry'd on to ſeek it, and cannot ſit down quiet ſhort of it; and ſo are of that Generation that ſeek his Face, as Pſal. 27. 8. which muſt neceſſarily proceed from God the Father's or Chriſt's having firſt made himſelf known to them: and ſo it is affirm'd, God (firſt) ſaid, Seek ye my Face, and my Heart ſaid, I will ſeek thy Face, Pſal. 27. 8. And the conſtant ſeeking of Communion with him is ſanctified effectually to cauſe ſuch Souls to keep his Commandments, as well as to rejoice in the ſenſible Enjoyment of that Communion.

Obſ. It is a Property common to all the Saints, to have had from the firſt ſome knowledg of, and to hold and maintain ſome Fellowſhip, in ſome meaſure and degree, with both theſe two Perſons, God the Father, and the Son. This is in common to all more or leſs, plainly or obſcurely, either implicitely or explicitely; therefore John in this Epiſtle is not only peremptory that thoſe who ſhall deny the one of them, doth conſequently deny the other, ch. 2. 23. Whoſoever denieth the Son, the ſame hath not the Father; but on the poſitive too, ch. 4. 15. Whoſoever ſhall confeſs that Jeſus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God. [He that confeſſeth] that is, believes on Chriſt, and receives him as a Saviour, and treateth of his Salvation with God in and through him (according to that in Rom. 10. 9, 10. If thou ſhalt confeſs with thy Mouth the Lord Jeſus, and ſhalt believe in thine Heart that God hath rais'd him from the Dead, thou ſhalt be ſav'd: for with the Heart man believeth unto Righteouſneſs, and with the mouth Confeſſion is made unto Salvation) and then it follows in that of John, that God, that is, the Father (as in the Verſe before) dwells in him, and he in God; which Dwelling, in John's wonted Phraſe, notes ſuch a mutual Fellowſhip, as two that dwell in one and the ſame Houſe, and under the ſame Roof together, uſe to have one with the other: and therefore he that knows the Son, knows alſo the Father; and vice verſa. And truly when theſe two Perſons are in the Heart, the Spirit muſt be alſo: read the Verſe before that laſt, ver. 13. Hereby we know that we dwell in him, and he in us, becauſe he hath given us of his Spirit. It is not therefore, nor can it be that any true Chriſtian ſhould be utterly a ſtranger unto either, but if he knows the one, he muſt know the other; although with Philip they may not ſo diſtinctly reflect upon that Knowledg. God the Father to ſave through Chriſt, and Chriſt to ſave as ſent by the Father, are thoſe fundamental Points of New-Teſtament Faith; and both compriz'd by Chriſt in that Summary, the famous and ordinary Sanctuary of Believers; John 3. 16. For God ſo lov'd the World, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whoſo believeth in him ſhould not periſh, but have Eternal Life: unto which the 14*th* Verſe of our John the fourth Chapter anſwers; And we have ſeen and do teſtify, that the Father ſent the Son to be the Saviour of the World: And the mind of that Speech, Whoſoever believeth on him, in that third Chapt. v. 16. is thus to be underſtood on Chriſt as ſent, and given out of ſuch a Love by the Father; and therefore Chriſt joins both, John 5. 23, 24. He that honoureth not the Son, honoureth not the Father that ſent him. Verily, verily, I ſay unto you, he that heareth my Word and believeth on him that ſent me, hath everlaſting Life, and ſhall not come into Condemnation, but is paſs'd from Death unto Life. So then both Father and Son are the Objects of our Faith, if we be ſav'd; and therefore ſome knowledg of both is requiſite in every Believer: as if their Faith be chiefly or more explicitely carry'd forth to God the Father, yet it is God the Father in Chriſt. God was in Chriſt reconciling the World, is the Subſtance of the Goſpel Miniſtry; and in Chriſt comes in and muſt come in, as God's Inſtrument, ſent to merit our Salvation.

Chap. 2.

The fourth Aſſertion from the Words of the Text is, that although it is common to all New-Teſtament Chriſtians to have a true diſtinct ſaving Knowledg both of the Father, and of the Son Chriſt, in ſome meaſure or degree; yet that then the Knowledg of the one may abound, more than of the other: But ſpecially that in their growing up into Acquaintance and Fellowſhip with both, it may and doth fall out, that in ſucceſſive times of their Lives, through God's Diſpenſations therein, they are led into, and have and enjoy a more intimate Fellowſhip, free and open-hearted, and inlarg'd Converſe with ſome one of theſe three Perſons, more than they find to be with the other of them; that is, both on thoſe Perſons part whom they converſe with, they find one of them more acceſſible, more free and open-hearted towards their Souls, more ready to entertain them, and receive them graciouſly; and alſo on their own part, as they find themſelves more diſpos'd, according to their various Ages, to treat with one more than another.

Now to the end I may explain this Point of ſucceſſive Communion with the ſeveral Perſons, thus at times and in this manner, indefinitely to be underſtood; I ſhall ſtill continue to have recourſe for Help and Light unto the third and fourth Verſes of the firſt Chapter, which I have already made ſo much uſe of, and join'd with this my Text of Chap. 2. and ſhall give thoſe Animadverſions upon thoſe Words, comparing them together with theſe Words of my Text, as will conduce to this my propoſed aim.

1. That it is that Fellowſhip and Communion (which I term the After-Fellowſhip) which Chriſtians hold after Converſion, that this Interchangeableneſs I intend falls out in, in the Courſe of the whole of their Chriſtianity till Death. I am not inquiring now into what falls out, as to the inequality of the knowledg of Father or Son, at firſt Converſion; for it is this After-Fellowſhip the Apoſtle intends, and which he here exhorts thoſe he wrote to, when he ſays, that you may have Fellowſhip with us, and truly ours is with the Father and Chriſt; that is, the ſame Fellowſhip which himſelf and his Fellow-Apoſtles, whereof ſome were yet alive (in whoſe names, or at leaſt in his own, he ſpeaks) who had been long ſince converted, and had grown up into a high and ſteddy continued Converſe and Fellowſhip with both Perſons; in which they had liv'd to that day, and now enjoy'd. And that is the Fellowſhip he invites all unto (as being capable of it) being already Believers, as he ſuppoſeth them he wrote to; and it is ſuch a Fellowſhip, which in proceſs of time would produce in the Courſe of it a Fulneſs of Joy, ver. 4. which at firſt Converſion uſually falls not out. Laſtly, it is that Fellowſhip which Chriſtians have in their Walkings, that is, their Courſe of Chriſtianity, which he ſpeaks of: for in ver. 7. If we walk in the Light, that is, in Holineſs, &c. we have Fellowſhip, &c. having oppoſitely refuted and diſcovered falſe Profeſſors, ver. 6. If we ſay that we have Fellowſhip with him, and walk in darkneſs, we lie, and do not the Truth. The mind of his Invitation therefore is, that all you that have an Entrance (which is Solomon's word in the Proverbs) or a Beginning of the Knowledg of God and Chriſt, ſet your Hearts and Endeavours with your whole Might, by and with holy Walking, to grow up into a further and higher Fellowſhip and Acquaintance with theſe Perſons; and then your Joy will at length be full, when your Communion comes to be with both.

2. The ſecond Animadverſion from theſe Words is, that our Apoſtle John, and the reſt of the holy Apoſtles, had attain'd unto a Fulneſs (ſo far as in this Life men are capable) of this equal or like Fellowſhip with both the Father and Chriſt, in their daily Walkings; and therefore it is attainable at once in this Life by us Chriſtians: for elſe he would not have propos'd his and their Example to provoke us to Communion with both. And when he ſpeaks of himſelf and them, he ſpeaks indifferently, you ſee, of this Fellowſhip with both; not mentioning either with any Pre-eminence of one above the other. And his adding, that their Joy may be full, confirms it; for unleſs it be with both unto a like Fulneſs, it would be but Joy in part, not full Joy. We find alſo the Apoſtle Paul prays for the Theſſalonians, for their Communion with both, in 2 Theſſ. 2. That both Father and Son might comfort their Hearts, ver. 16, 17. Now our Lord Jeſus Christ himself, and God even our Father, which hath loved us, and hath given us everlasting Consolation and good Hope through Grace, comfort your Hearts, &c. And to them that are grown up into much Holiness in the diligent and faithful keeping the Commandments, Christ promiseth, John 14. 23. If a Man love me, he will keep my Words, and my Father will love him; and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him. Hence therefore Christians in their future course of Walking are capable of intimate Communion with both (as to the Thessalonians) through the distinct Manifestation of the Love of both to their Souls, as that in John shews. Chap. 2.

Chriſt

3. Yet thirdly de facto, or in the Event it so falls out, that in the long progress of God's more slow and ordinary Dealings with Christians, by reason of, and through their like uneven, unequal, and imperfect Walkings with God, they attain not to a full enjoyment of Fellowship with God and Christ, in an Eminency, in a Constancy, and at once together: for unless it be thus with both, their Fellowship ariseth not to a full Joy, here spoken; which ariseth not unless an eminency of Fellowship be held with both. But God with great Intermissions vouchsafes it imperfectly, and what he doth is by turns and vicissitudes; sometimes more with one, sometimes with another. One time Christ doth personally more openly visit the Soul with his Presence and Love; sometime the Father, and that singly. This seems plain to me, from comparing this Text and that other, ch. 1. that whereas in the first Chapter he utters this as a general Maxim, These things I write to you (meaning all) that you may have Fellowship with the Father and Son: which is a general Incouragement given unto all Christians, and belongs to all to entertain it, as that which they were all capable of, and was their duty to seek. Yet, mark it, here in this place coming to the particular sorts of Christians, severally and apart consider'd, that then he should in such a sever'd manner say of Babes, I write to you, for you have known the Father; and of Fathers singly, I write to you, because you have known Christ the Son. This his attributing it specially to Babes to have known the Father, without mentioning their knowing of Christ; again in a special manner to Fathers to know Christ, omitting the mention of their knowing the Father; argues that in the Course and Progress of the Communion which Christians ordinarily do enjoy, it proves usually that Babes do especially know the Father; and Fathers, Christ the Son: And that de facto it had so fallen out in the Apostle's Observation ordinarily. The Apostle writes thus out of Experience, and upon a Survey of Christians in his days, which were Patterns of the like ordinary Dispensations in after Ages. However, I acknowledg, there might and may be some special Exceptions, and more frequently in such as live not many years after Conversion, and so are ripen'd thereby for their compleat Communion with all the three Persons in Heaven; growing up unto much Holiness in a short space: As also in such whom God out of his good Pleasure vouchsafes extraordinary Dispensations of Grace unto, above what he does to many others.

This Assertion thus stated, and for the present indefinitely only propos'd, as to particular times and seasons, without defining that Communion with the Father unto Babes, or with Christ to old Christians, or confining the one and t'other to either of these Ages; I shall endeavour to prove by Instances.

1. Take a view of God's general Oeconomy, or Dispensation to his whole Church, comprehensively taken in one Prospect and set together, that is, of his Church in the Old and New Testament, from the first to the end of the World; and perhaps it may serve aptly to represent unto you some Image or Pattern of his dealing with particular Souls, the Members of that Church, and afford some Semblance at least of the various Manifestations of himself and his Son unto them. In the Old Testament, you know how God manifested himself as the Father, far more abundantly and clearly than he did Christ his Son; and their common frequent Converse with him, did accordingly far more exceed that of theirs with the promis'd Messiah, whom they yet all look'd for to come into the World. Their Thoughts, Affections, Hearts, Prayers, Addresses, and Recourse, ran out to God under the Title of Father; yea and directly, and plainly, and ex-

Chap. 2. presly to him, as such by name, and under that Notion ran out unto the Father with a full and open stream. Moses speaks it of him as a relation that was commonly known, and taken for granted among those in his Times, Deut. 32. 6. Do you thus requite the Lord? is he not thy Father that bought thee, and made thee? thus speaking to the whole People. A Father by a double Title; of Creation, that made thee; of Redemption, that bought thee: which in the Type is New-Testament Language: And they had it by Tradition; for Moses speaks it as generally receiv'd. And so it follows, ver. 7. Ask thy Father, and he will shew thee; thy Elders, and they will tell thee as much. It was the common Profession of that Nation, Mal. 3. 10. Have we not all one Father? of that whole Church, which therefore our Translators in their Margin parallel with that in the New Testament, Eph. 4. One Body, one Spirit, one Lord Christ, one God, and Father of all, &c. ver. 4, 5, 6. And upon that account God as owning it, urgeth them with it, for Obedience from them, Mal. 2. 6. A Son honoureth his Father; if I be a Father, where is my fear? And when they, or any of them were in any distress, they us'd to urge that same upon God for help; Jer. 3. 4, 5, 6. Wilt thou not from this time cry unto me, my Father, thou art the guide of my Youth? Will he reserve Anger for ever? Will he keep it to the end? Behold thou hast spoken, and done evil things as thou couldest. The Lord said also unto me in the days of Josiah the King, Hast thou seen that which backsliding Israel hath done? She is gone up upon every high Mountain, and under every green Tree, and there hath play'd the Harlot. This the wickedest Hypocrites had learned, but the truly Godly; when they began to repent, and turn truly and in reality to God, their Conversion is set out by this, that they avouched him to be their Father indeed, and in another manner; renouncing all their Sins, and cleaving to him as a Father: for in the same Chapter, ver. 19. But I said, how shall I put thee among the Children, and give thee a pleasant Land, a goodly Heritage of the Hosts of Nations? And I said, thou shalt call me my Father, and shalt not turn away from me. They cried Abba Father as well as we, and in the same sense that we: this was the foundation of their turning to him. And again on God's part he avowedly declares that to be the ground and motive in his Heart, why he did work a saving Work upon them, even that he was their Father, Jer. 31. 9. They shall come with Weeping, and with Supplications will I lead them; I will cause them to walk by the Rivers of Waters, in a streight way wherein they shall not stumble: For I am a Father to Israel, and Ephraim is my First-born. Who from everlasting had lov'd them, ver. 3. The Lord hath appear'd of old unto me, saying, Yea, I have lov'd thee with an everlasting Love, therefore with loving Kindness have I drawn thee: And that I am sure is the Father in the New-Testament Language, Eph. 1. 4, &c. And unto these Passages in that Chapter of Jeremy do our Translators refer that Promise, 2 Cor. 6. 18. And I will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my Sons and Daughters, saith the Lord Almighty: the same Person God the Father intended in both; which I observe to prevent an Objection, that God as God is only so call'd in the Old. And after Conversion, their Converse and Fellowship with God was maintain'd, as with a Father to them, they claiming an Interest in him, knowing him to be such, and pleading it with him, Isa. 63. 16, 17. Doubtless thou art our Father, tho Abraham be ignorant of us, and Israel acknowledg us not; thou, O Lord, art our Father, our Redeemer, thy Name is from Everlasting, O Lord! why hast thou made us to err from thy ways, and harden'd our Heart from thy Fear? Return for thy Servant's sake the Tribes of thine Inheritance. Their Hopes of Mercy and Forgiveness lay therein, Psal. 103. 12, 13. And the Mercies of God (which are so specially attributed to the Father, and he as the Father of them) are more often and more largely dilated on, and set forth unto us in the Old Testament, as the other Attributes of the Godhead are, than in the New. And unto those in God they mostly had recourse, as expos'd to them in the Promises and large Declarations thereof to them; and convers'd with God under the Apprehension and Faith thereon. 'Twas a current Character of an Old Testament Saint, One that hoped in his Mercy, trusted in his Mercy: and you find the Pleas of it in every eminent Prayer almost; as by Moses, Num. 14. David, in the Psalms, and others of the Prophets; read Nehem. 9. Ezra 9. Dan. 9. Also in their Thanksgivings, we know the constant Song of Praise in the Temple was, for his Mercy endures for ever, &c. and of Isaiah the Prophet, Isa. 64. 1. And in this manner was their Communion with God, distinctly and by name the Father, managed and transacted, and God's with them. Mercy's Gates had all the Suitors, the Addresses went this way. All Flesh came to him, because there was Mercy with him, that he might be feared. Whereas Christ the Son was rarely in a plain explicite manner nam'd, that is, by his Name spoken of; and his Redemption was involv'd most in obscure Types: which tho they pointed their Faith towards him as to come, yet their Fellowship and Converses with him were rare; as his also with Men were extraordinary, and vouchsafed but to extraordinary Persons, upon extraordinary occasions: as to Abraham, in the case of Sodom; to Jacob, when Esau came with four hundred Men to seek his Life; to Joshua, under the Title of Captain of the Lord's Hosts, to encourage him to those Wars with the Canaanites. Nor did they put up their Petitions in his Name unto the Father; none that I remember of them, unless Daniel in his for the Lord's sake, ch. 9. and David (as some interpret it) for thy Word's sake, 2 Sam. 7. 21. Or unless that in the Sacrifices they offered, when they worshipped, which was a Converse with Christ at second hand, and but in outward Shadows and Figures, as in the Epistle to the Hebrews: Types of Christ's Sacrifice, and hiddenly signified thereby, which the carnal Jew understood not, and but as something understood by the Godly themselves remotely; but not so clear and professed as the Father. Chap. 2.

Song

There may perhaps an Objection start up in some Mens minds, which I preoccupated even now, by parallelling some of those Scriptures alledg'd at first in the Old Testament, with others out of the New.

The Objection is, That it was the Godhead, or God in the three Persons was he, whom as so consider'd the Old-Testament Saints had recourse unto, under the Relation and Title of Father; but not with the Father, as in the New-Testament sense Christ reveal'd him, the first Person of the Trinity, the Father of Christ, and in him our Father: and therefore this Instance will not hold, as to the present Argument in hand.

But besides what I animadverted to prevent this, I further answer.

Ans. 1. That it is one and the same Person bore the Relation of Father in the Old, and whom Christ came more clearly to reveal under the New, John 1. 18. No man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the Bosom of the Father, he hath declared him. It is God, as the Father of Christ the Son, who is especially spoken of there; and 'twas he, one and the same, who bore the Title of God and Father under the Old. There is but one God and Father under both, as Eph. 4. who had been honoured with that Title commonly (and no other Person commonly but he) by the Jews: unto which Christ gives testimony, in saying, John 5. 23. That all Men should honour the Son, as they had honoured the Father. He speaks it to Jews of the Old Testament, who had all along in an open Profession honoured the Father, who was the Father of Christ as the Son, and had committed all Authority to him; that now under the New Testament, they should honour the Son as professedly and knowingly, as the Jews had done the Father.

Ans. 2. That under the Old he was known as the Father of the Son, and so as distinct from the Son, as the Father of him. To this Assertion two Scriptures, Psal. 2. and Prov. 30. give witness. Prov. 30. 4. What is his Name, and his Son's Name, canst thou tell? And the same is evidenc'd by Promise to Solomon, 1 Chron. 22. 10. which in the Type was God the Father's Speech, spoken to his Son (Heb. 1. 8.) and as a distinct Person, as the Father is from the Son; the like to which see in Psal. 89. 26.

2. The other Instances of some Primitive Christians, that long after the Apostles had diffus'd the Knowledg of Christ upon the World, and it had taken root, and brought forth fruit over all the World; there yet continued upon divers Christians of these times, a very dim and obscure Knowledg of Christ, through their being addicted to the Old Testament way: And this not only upon the Jews converted to Christianity, which the Apostle Peter insinuates, when writing

Chap. 2. writing to his Countrymen, Jewish Christians, his second Epistle, as he had also done his first, chap. 1. 1. And it was in the latter end of his Days too, when the Gospel had long been preach'd by himself and his Fellows, as in the 2 Epist. 1. 14. he declares, Knowing that shortly I must put off this my Tabernacle, even as our Lord Jesus Christ hath shew'd me. And Christ's Words to him were, When thou art old. He thereupon tells them, ver. 19. that tho they did well to take heed unto that Word of Prophecy, viz. the Old Testament prophesying of Christ; unto which they were so addicted, that they would entertain no more of Christ than they found fore-prophesy'd concerning Christ therein, as Paul before Agrippa testified of himself, Acts 26. 22. that he said none other things than those which the Prophets and Moses did say should come: Yet that that Word, Peter tells them, was but as a Light that shineth in a dark place, until the Day-dawn, and the Day-star arise in your Hearts: and that Day-star is Christ, Rev. 22. 16. And the Day-dawn is the clear Manifestation of the Gospel, revealing Christ as it had been preach'd, in its full Brightness, by himself and other his Fellow-Apostles. And the reason of their shortness herein was the want of an inward Light of the Spirit and Manifestation of him, that was yet further to arise and visit their Hearts; whereby (as in 2 Cor. 4. 6.) God who commanded Light to shine out of Darkness, hath shined in the Apostles Hearts, to give the Light of the knowledg of the Glory of God in the face of Christ. Whilst yet the Knowledg of God as Father, shining more brightly in that Old Testament, which they attended more unto, must needs accordingly be ascendant to them, in comparison of their Knowledg of Christ from thence.

Nor did this Divine Knowledg of Christ, and an Old Testament Spirit, abide upon these Jewish Christians only, but among many new converted Gentiles also; which I have formerly shewn, from the third Chapter to the Philippians (who were Gentiles converted) where the Apostle having made discovery of his own personal Exercise of Spirit in his daily Communion and Fellowship with Christ, from ver. 8. to the 11th. Yea doubtless, and I count all things loss for the Excellency of the Knowledg of Christ Jesus my Lord; for whom I have suffer'd the loss of all things, and do count them but dung that I may win Christ; and may be found in him, not having my own Righteousness, which is of the Law, but the Righteousness which is by Faith of Christ; even the Righteousness of God, which is by Faith: That I may know him, and the Power of his Resurrection, and the Fellowship of his Sufferings, that I may be conformable to his Death; if by any means I may attain to the Resurrection of the Dead. And how much his Soul was fir'd therewith, you may read in the Verses that follow. But the Close wherewith he shuts up that his Discourse, may seem strange; ver. 15. As many therefore as are perfect, let us be thus minded; and if in any thing ye be otherwise minded, God shall reveal even this unto you: which manifestly refers unto that whole foregone Narrative, how and what his Mind and Heart was, and had stood towards Christ, and the excellent Knowledg of him; so as to win Christ and have Fellowship with him, even in his very Sufferings: wherein as many as were perfect and compleat Christians, he says were like minded with him herein; and were addicted and affected towards this Knowledg of Christ and Fellowship with him, as himself was. But there were but few of these (as his Complaints, and Usage of that Speech in other Epistles shews) and if in any thing of what I have now profess'd, says he, of the excelling Knowledg of Christ, ye be otherwise minded (not in Opinion so much as in the Affections and Exercise of Spirit) otherwise, as the Word in Col. 3. 1. is us'd, addicted, affected, and carried out more towards other things reveal'd, so as that your Minds should at present be diverted, the Stream running in other Channels more; God shall reveal even this to you. Now I could not, when I consider'd the Coherence of this Text, and that how the occasion of the Apostle's writing that Epistle having been that the Leaven of the Doctrine of the Circumcision, and thereby cleaving to the Mosaical Law in force, had been urg'd by false Teachers to be received by them; the Doctrine of which, tho we read not that it had taken place in their Opinions, yet there remained so much of an Old Testament Spirit in them, and so much Effect; that noise of the Circumcisionists Doctrine had upon them, as to draw their Eyes to look more wishtly upon the Old Testament way in the moral Parts of it, as to incline and dispose their Spirits more and more attentively that way: When I consider'd these things, I could not, I say, put any fairer Interpretation upon this Passage and that in the following Verse, or give any other account about these otherwise-minded, who were true Christians (for that he plainly supposeth and distinguisheth them from Circumcisionists) but that an Old-Testament Spirit did so abide upon them, as they entertain'd not, nor took in that excellent Knowledg of Christ, as it shone in the Gospel, in that eminent manner that the Light that had shin'd about them did require: which tho they had receiv'd and profess'd, yet in so remiss a degree, as caus'd him thus to speak. Their Spirits were addicted unto the way of the Knowledg of God, and the exercise of the Fear of God, and Motives to his Commandments, which they met with in the Old Testament, which damp'd much their practical Light towards Christ; and to live by the Faith of the Son of God, and from being so kindly affected and acted by the Motives of the Gospel drawn from Christ. Chap. 2.

And the reason was, that although all Truth belonging unto the whole of our common Salvation, was once for all deliver'd unto the Saints, as Jude ver. 3. even the whole Body and System of Faith, by Christ the Son, Heb. 1. and his Apostles, as fully as ever it was to be; yet in respect to the setting it on, and bringing home that Faith unto their Hearts (and we may say to Ours, of many to this day) in respect to such a sealing Instruction (as Elihu in Job) and in some with a deeper Impression than other some, and even those Points of Faith that are of necessity to Salvation it self (as the Knowledg of God the Father and of Christ are) God is therein pleas'd to go over them in some Hearts with a slighter hand, and but as the first Draught of a Picture, with dim Colours and less bright; and so lets them abide for a while: tho yet he makes a true Resemblance, such as that you may know the Person by, whose Image it is. Whereas in some other Hearts he goes over the same again and again, and ceaseth not, but works it up unto a far greater Life and Glory. God takes several pauses, so as we may say of these Teachings, that he doth it at sundry times; even as well as under the Old 'tis said he did. And herein God and his Spirit useth a liberty to whom and when, and knows not a certain Method, 1 Cor. 12. 8. For to one is given by the Spirit the word of Wisdom; to another the word of Knowledg by the same Spirit. And hence the Apostle speaks of Supplies of the Spirit, Phil. 1. yea, of perfecting what is lacking in our Faith, 1 Thess. 3. 10.

2. I shall give the reasons of this Dispensation.

1. These two Persons are both in themselves and in their works for us distinct, and would therefore accordingly be known distinctly of us; and to be so fully known, as to be honour'd by us in the most ample manner, in which they are in the New Testament reveal'd to us, John 5.23. That all Men should honour the Son, even as they honour the Father: from which place I observe,

1*st.* That it is the design of the Father, that both himself and his Son be honour'd by all Men, yea and the Son [as] the Father; and this is the design of his sending his Son into the World, and of his committing that power of quickening, v. 21. and of judging Men, ver. 22. unto him.

2*ly.* I observe, that this is yet effected at and by successive times (which is the Point before me) The Father's being honour'd by Men, he speaks of in the present time, as they honour; as at that time when Christ spake this, the Jews generally did: but of the Son, as of that which was yet more and more to be done; That they should honour the Son, even as, &c.

2. If they come to be known as fully as they ought to be by us, and as they are reveal'd in Scripture unto us. There are a great many things concerning them, and belonging to either of them, to be known by us, which for us to do fully and distinctly will require successive times and successive Impressions for either; and such as to have our Thoughts to dwell upon them too: As

1*st.* For the Father.

(1.) There is the Person of the Father, as the Father of Glory, Eph. 1. the Fountain of the Deity, the Begetter of his so great a Son, and from whom the Holy Ghost proceedeth: This as to his Person.

(2.) We ought to know the Riches of his Mercy, Love; for these are more properly attributed to the Father, as in the same Eph. 1. so 2 Cor. 13. 14.

Chap. 2. The Love of God (the Father) spoken with distinction from Christ and the Spirit; and Father of Mercies, 2 Cor. 1. 3. said of him who is the Father of Christ.

(3.) We should know the whole of his Work and Hand in our Salvation; as in chusing us in Christ, Eph. 1. sending his Son into the World, which Christ in John's Gospel so dilates on, and our John in this Epistle, Chap. 4. 8, 9, 10. He that loveth not, knoweth not God; for God is Love. In this was manifested the Love of God towards us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the World, that we might live through him. Herein is Love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the Propitiation for our Sins: and all spoken of the Father. And ver. 14. We have seen and do testify that the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the World.

(4.) The bestowing on us all spiritual Blessings ought to be known by us. 'Twas he was the Contriver, and is the Donor of them all, Eph. 1. whereof that one of Sonship and Adoption, wherewith we have a right to glory, our Apostle in this Epistle also so admires, and sets out with a Behold, in chap. 3. 1, 2, 3. of this Epistle; Behold! what manner of Love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be call'd the Sons of God; therefore the World knoweth us not, because it knew not him. Beloved, now are we the Sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is: And every Man that hath this Hope in him, purifieth himself, even as he is pure. There are multitudes of other things more, like to these, whereby the Father's part is set out, as in justifying us, Rom. 4. Drawing us to Christ, John 6, &c. And to know the Father in and by all these distinctly, and to have our Minds to dwell upon them, will ask time and multitude of Thoughts, both to take them in, and then to be answerably affected with them: to dwell in God, in the Intuition of all these, which is our John's Phrase up and down this Epistle; but especially upon this Theme and Argument of the Father's Love, ch. 4. 16.

2*ly.* The like may be said of Christ; that we are to know and have Fellowship with him, viewed in the Excellency of his Person; to know and have Communion with him in his Offices, Priest, Prophet, King: also to contemplate what he did for us, in that he took Flesh, bore our Sins, suffer'd Reproach, all Sorrows, died, bore the Curse and Wrath of his Father, rose, ascended into Heaven, and there appears for us, and brings us to God; intercedes for us continually, pleads the Fulness and Over-sufficiency of his Righteousness, his Ability to save to the utmost: then his Mercy, Grace, likewise in all these, Bowels to receive Sinners; his Gentleness, Meekness, Lowliness of Mind to converse with them, after they come to him; his Long-suffering to bear with them that come to him, his Faithfulness to stand by them in all their needs; his avowed Resolvedness not in any wise to cast them out that come to him, but to raise them up at the last Day.

I mention these on the Persons parts, and proceed unto those on our parts.

2. On our parts; we are in our Capacities narrow-mouth'd Vessels, and cannot take in all at once, all these things of either; which was seen in the Apostles, as Christ tells them, John 16. 12. I have many things yet to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now: even the Knowledg of the Father, wherein of the two they excel'd in; yet thereof he says, John 16.25. These things have I spoken to you in Proverbs; the time cometh when I shall no more speak to you in Proverbs, but I shall shew you plainly of the Father: In Proverbs, that is, but obscurely. We in this Life are Children, 1 Cor. 13. and our Capacity of being taught is but as of Children, here a Line, and there a Line, as the Prophet saith; and we say of the Mind, Intuitio est tantum unius, as the Eye looks wishtly but on one thing at once, so our Minds. But these things, the Mystery of God the Father and of Christ, are so great, as the Mind need go over them by parts; one piece of them to be presented and set on upon our Hearts at one time, other of them at another; as in your great Optick Glasses, the Eye is fain to go travel over the Body of the Moon by parts and quarters. This Scantiness and Clungness, that the Intention of our Minds is but upon some one thing at once, we find in our knowing and minding of other Divine Objects and Duties or Exercises. As in Humblings for Sin, our Thoughts are swallow'd up therewith abundantly at some times, and are as it were wholly in it; then at another time we are all upon seeking for Grace and Holiness; then at a third season, for Faith and Assurance, &c. We are as wholly intent on these by fits (if I may so speak) so as to be less on other Duty's and Exercises. And so it may and doth fall out in our Communion with the Persons, as if we did cease to value the one as well as the other; or so as if we were wholly taken off from the other: but our actual Intentions for that present are lessen'd through our Narrowness, whilst they are intended and heighten'd towards the other. Chap. 2.

But this Deficiency on our parts is not simply to be understood in respect to that disproportion of our Understandings, only consider'd as naturally, unto these so transcending Divine Objects; but from that dimness of a true Spiritual Light in us, without which supernaturally given, the natural Man understands nothing at all of Communion with these Persons, nor any other Divine Objects. Concerning which dependance upon Spiritual Light, I propose these few things to clear this Point to us.

1. We must know that there is a double sort of Knowledg of spiritual things in the Hearts of Men. There is first a true spiritual Understanding (which is proper to the Regenerate) as the Apostle, Col. 1. 9. by way of distinction terms it; as likewise in ver. 6. he calls it a Knowledg in Truth: and either Phrase is us'd with connotating a difference from another sort or kind of Knowledg; namely, a literal speculative Knowledg of them. The first Spiritual Understanding is to be understood, not in respect of the Object only, as because it is of spiritual things; but further, from the manner of Knowledg, to know them spiritually: and so the Apostle accurately distinguisheth, to shew the difference of it from that Knowledg of them that is in natural Men, 1 Cor. 2. 14, 15. And in like manner the second, knowing them in Truth; which is when the Mind doth really attinge, and take in spiritual things, as they are in themselves; being represented by the Holy Ghost to the Minds of spiritual Men in their real Nature and Excellency: and that only is a true Knowledg. The same you have in Eph. 4. 20, 21. to know the Truth as it is in Jesus; even as in Col. 1. the knowing the Grace of God the Father in truth: both which import a Knowledg that is otherwise, and may justly be termed Counterfeit, because it reacheth not to the reality of the things, but only entertains Pictures of them. And the differing Character and Truth of this spiritual Knowledg is, that it is operative, and carries on the Heart with it unto the things spiritual it apprehends, and as they are represented and apprehended in their real spiritual Nature; and as such attracts and draws the Heart to them: which is by a Divine Seed of Light cast into the Heart, that hath a formative Virtue accompanying it, and that forms Christ really in them; whereas natural Light forms but false Conceptions, as they are call'd; whereof the Wombs that go with them do always miscarry in the end.

2. The second Proposal is, that even in Persons truly regenerated, especially that are knowing, there may be and is much of such literal Knowledg of things that are spiritual, that yet is not true spiritual Knowledg (in that sense it was explained and stated) but mingled with what is spiritual. This you may see in the Corinthians, 1 Cor. 1. who were Saints, ver. 2. and sanctified in Christ Jesus; of whom he gives this Elogium, for their Knowledg of spiritual things, in ver. 5. and 7. In every thing ye are enrich'd by him in all Utterance and in all Knowledg; so that ye come behind in no Gift. And yet of those Persons of them he thus sets out for Gifts, he gives the true Character of Saints; Waiting for the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. And yet of these Saints he in ch. 3. 1. speaks thus; And I, Brethren, could not speak unto you as unto spiritual, but as unto carnal; even as unto Babes in Christ: which could not have been, unless it be allowed that their knowledg in Gifts and Utterance about spiritual things far exceeded their true spiritual Knowledg; of which spiritual Knowledg he had discours'd in the latter Verses of the foregoing Chapter, ver. 14, 15. which I even now cited. And then this immediately follows, and in respect thereunto he plainly says they were not spiritual: which if that Knowledg he speaks they had, had been such in the total of it, it would have made their Hearts answerably spiritual; which they were very far from, as if you read on in that Chapter you will easily acknowledg. And the reason why, and how it comes to pass it is so, is clear: for as you all acknow-

Chap. 2. ledg that in a regenerate Man there is in every Faculty a great part that is unrenewed, a mixture of Flesh and Spirit; so by consequence it follows that there is such a knowledg of spiritual things as is common to other Professors that yet remain unregenerate. And that part of Understanding in Men regenerated but in part, so far as it is unregenerate in them, is yet capable of a knowledg of them by common Gifts spiritual, as well as those that are not truly as yet renewed are. Therefore the Apostle distinguisheth in those believing Corinthians, spiritual Gifts, and saving Love and Charity, 1 Cor. 12. 13.

'Tis true that this difference of Knowledg being most conspicuous in what is in the several Persons of Men regenerate and unregenerate, in that in the Unregenerate there is no true spiritual Knowledg at all, no not in the lowest degree, but it is but notional and literal; whereas in the Regenerate there is by Regeneration a principle of this real Knowledg inlaid; and therefore we difference the spiritual Estates of the one and the other by the difference of their Knowledg, as well as by other Characters: Yet there is a mixture of notional Knowledg with spiritual in the same regenerate Person; which tho it prejudiceth not his being in the Estate of Grace, no more than his having Sin in him, and Darkness in his Understanding doth, yet still that mixture is from a distinction and difference of the Knowledg it self that is in him. When therefore we difference the Knowledg of a Man truly regenerate from that which is in a common Professor and temporary Believer, our meaning is not as if all and the whole heap and bulk of Knowledg of spiritual things, that is in a regenerate Man, were in the total of it all of it holy and sanctifying, affective and effective, according to the full extent of that his knowledg of them; whereas in the other, the common Professor, it is wholly unsanctified: Nor is it that the Height, Breadth, Depth of a regenerate man's Affection towards those spiritual things he any way knows, should be adequately answerable to the Dimensions of his Knowledg, every way consider'd; no, but knowledg by Gifts for the good of others and himself, and knowledg of saving Grace are distinct in such a Man regenerated: And both being mixt and put together in his Understanding doth bear the name of Knowledg, or the Knowledg which that one Man hath and is the Possessor of; we may as so consider'd in the general affirm, that his Knowledg compounded of both, doth far exceed his holy Affections, and that his Heart is not in a measure sanctified according to the measure of his Knowledg. And to that Christian that discerns by experience the difference of these two Knowledges in himself (which is a great and true sign of Grace to discern it) it becomes the greatest matter of Humiliation to find that his knowledg of holy things objectively, doth exceed the Holiness of his Heart affectionately and effectively, his Life falling so short of it: yet still take it with this Caution to be added, that their Knowledg objectively consider'd, doth extend with some degree of spiritual Affection accompanying it even unto all things which they know; and which in respect of the Sincerity of their Hearts they have a respect and affection unto all which they know. But yet this is no more intensive, than according to that degree of true spiritual Knowledg, more or less, that is blended with that notional Knowledg; so as in respect of that additional of speculative and gift Knowledg, their Hearts fall so much short, and are not adequate unto that Knowledg.

If it be reply'd; But is not all the Knowledg a godly Man hath sanctified to him?

Anſ. Yes, in that sense that all other things are sanctified to him, to be some way or other for his spiritual Good. But it is not all of it sanctifying Knowledg, and directly operative: And yet it hath this more near and appropriate Tendency unto the Sanctification of him, than other things have, that it is in his Heart as fit combustible matter, as Tow and Flax that lie near Sparks of Fire, ready to be enkindled by that true spiritual Knowledg that is in him: and his case is, as if we suppose as if Tow and Flax encompass Fire in the same Hearth, and there wanted but a blowing up the Fire, and it readily enflames the Tow presently, and assimilates it into Fire; and then both work together upon the Heart. Yet this falls out but as the Holy Ghost shall vouchsafe a special Assistance, and stir up the spiritual Light and Fire in a Man; which Similitude agrees with the Apostle's Phrase in his Exhortation to Timothy; Stir up the Gift that is in thee: which is done by the Holy Ghost's Assistance. You have commonly heard that word stir up, is in the Original, as you do a Fire. And the Gift that was in him, was that additional Knowledg, which is always larger than a Man's gracious Knowledg, and lies in a great part of it like Materials unkindled, yet laid upon the Fire, to the end to be kindled by it: and so that Gift Knowledg becomes spiritualiz'd and sanctifying Knowledg together. Chap. 2.

The use I put these Premises to, and the Corollary I draw from these two Proposals, is to prevent a great Objection, which might be otherwise made against what was alledg'd in the former Instances. The Objection may be this; That the Doctrine of Christ and his Apostles, having as fully discover'd Christ as the Father, and the Father as Christ, unto their Disciples in the primitive Times; and that they were affected in some degree to either of the Persons according to that Doctrine: yet how should it come to pass that their Spirits should be carried forth and addicted to Communion with, and towards one, rather than the other?

The Resolve of this appearing Difficulty lyeth in this, that tho their literal, notional Gift Knowledg, by the Doctrine of the one, might be equal with their Knowledg of the other, yet the true spiritual Knowledg, which affects and turns the Heart, was unequal: the Holy Ghost did not blow the Fire to enkindle the one, as much as the other. And so they came not to have that intimate, affecting, operative Knowledg towards Christ, as towards the Father; and so their Hearts were not drawn out to a like Communion with both of those Persons at once. And then it was they were otherwise minded, as to the knowledg of Christ (as the Apostle's Phrase is in that Philip. 3.) that is, otherwise affected, addicted, &c. as I open'd it; unto which the third Proposal being added, will further clear.

3. The third Proposal; That indeed the Holy Ghost doth direct, draw out, and intend more or less, that true spiritual Knowledg in the actings of it towards spiritual Objects, that yet are of equal weight and moment, according to his own good Pleasure: And therefore an unequal Communion of Believers with the Father and Son, at one and the same time, may and doth often fall towards them. This is certain, that the degrees of our spiritual Communion with either of them, depends upon a more large, or less degree of true spiritual Knowledg; and that as it is at the instant time acted, and drawn forth more or less by the Holy Ghost. And the Holy Ghost may enlighten us with such an affecting and enflaming Light, in a more intense degree to the one, whilst to a lesser degree towards the other. I added, when it is acted and drawn forth, &c. and the reason is, that tho every regenerate Man hath an inherent Principle or Habitude of spiritual Knowledg, capable alike of all and each of spiritual Objects; yet that which makes them more or less manifest, is a Divine Light which God causeth to shine into the Heart, and hereby to actuate that Principle: It is Light (says the Apostle) that makes things manifest. And as the degree of Light about them is, accordingly are our Apprehensions of them; and according to our Apprehensions of them, our Hearts and Spirits are affected; our Communion with them is higher or less intense. We see in Nature that it is not only the less or greater Vigor in the Eye, which is the Principle of seeing inherent in us, which causeth the difference in seeing; but 'tis the Light also shining more or less, doth actuate and bring forth things to a visibility, to a greater or less degree; which if wanting, the clearest Eye in the World, if in the dark, sees nothing: or if the proportion of Light be dim and small, it discerns less. Now the vouchsafing of this spiritual Light, and the degrees of it, doth depend wholly upon God's good Pleasure; who takes a liberty to dispense it as he pleaseth: and the reason of this is, because we of our selves are not sufficient to think one good or holy Thought. And that tho we are not totally in habitual Darkness, but have a spiritual Principle of seeing spiritually; yet in respect of true actual sight and the degrees of it, in that respect we should be continually but Men in the dark. And therefore in the same place the Apostle says, 2 Cor. 3. 5. Not that we are sufficient of our selves to think any thing, as of our selves; but our sufficiency is of God: we are not able to educe one good Chap. 2. Thought. And ch. 4. 6. For God who commanded the Light to shine out of Darkness, hath shined in our Hearts, to give the Light of the Knowledg of the Glory of God, in the face of Jesus Christ. It is not that God did at first once shine into our Hearts and enlighten'd us, or that we have an abiding Principle of Light in us; but he must give us every moment Light to see withal. And we are no wiser, nor spiritually know any more of things spiritual, than at the instant he gives it; which is the Apostle's Phrase to the Ephesians, Christ shall give thee Light: yea command it, or create it continually, as he did Light out of Darkness.

And, which is yet more to this purpose, whereas other Light of the Sun, Moon, or from any other lightsome Body, do alike irradiate all the Objects that are near them in a House or other open place; this of spiritual Light from God doth not equally enlighten all, or any spiritual Objects, but doth in a more especial manner irradiate some one particular Divine Object at once more than another; which he casteth Light upon more than others, and terminates the Eye of the Mind thereto: or like as a Hand that manageth the Light in a dark Lanthorn (and such is his spiritual Light shining in our dark Hearts) that he opens and shuts (as the Phrase in the Revelation is) as he pleaseth. And the Spirit of God, who is given to reveal these deep things of God, is the freest Agent in this, and takes a liberty, dividing to every Man as he will, 1 Cor. 12. 11. Even as in John 3. he is said as the Wind to blow where he listeth, and as to what Person he pleaseth, unto what light or degree thereof he pleaseth: and hence also comes this unequality in the Point in hand. These reasons are from what is on our parts. I return again to such as concern the Persons of the Trinity, to be now added after those that concern us; for I said, I should sort and handle the one and the other intermingledly.

There are these farther Reasons that concern the Persons that move them to this Dispensation of this alternate Communion with themselves.

1. They are willing and content to take their turns and vicissitudes of manifesting themselves, sometimes the one, sometimes the other, in our narrow Hearts; to the end that each of them may have in the issue, the fuller and more distinct Manifestation of themselves: They are pleas'd to give way one to the other in their Communion. From hence it was, as we said, that the Son suffer'd himself to be so much and so long conceal'd, during the time of the Old Testament; and the Father had the vogue in the Church then. And under the New, altho all Judgment is originally the Father's, yet hath he committed all Judgment to the Son, and judgeth no Man, but in and by the Son; to the end that all might honour the Son, &c. John 5. 22, 23. We may observe likewise the Spirit under the New: Also the third Person conceals himself; insomuch as tho 'twas he who indicted all the Epistles of the New, and therein wisheth Grace and Peace from God the Father and from Christ, not mentioning himself, from whom yet Grace and Peace do proceed equally with the Father and the Son: And altho 'tis true that both Father, and Son, and the Spirit also, be in some measure and degree known by every Believer, which the Words of Baptism shew; In the Name of the Father, Son, and Spirit, as having a joint and equal Interest in our Salvation: yet are they content that our Intentions of Mind and Affections should run with a shallower stream at times towards some one, than they do towards another: Altho appretiativè, or in the esteem of them in their Judgments, all Christians value and honour all three alike, as one God, three Persons blessed for ever. So that it must not be understood as if I meant that our Minds were quite taken off from the one, whilst they are carried forth to the other, whilst thus our Affections are more intentionally taken up with any one of them.

Yea, these Persons are so far from Jealousy in this case of one another, lest one should have more of us than himself, that they do help forward and advance the glorifying of one the other unto us. Jesus Christ the Son, when he hath once been thorowly reveal'd and made known to any Soul himself; 'tis he when once believ'd on by it, that reveals the Father unto us, Mat. 11. 27. No Man knows the Father, but the Son, and he to whom the Son reveals him. And, vice versâ, when Christ is reveal'd and made known to you, and your Hearts drawn to him, and your Hearts taken up with the Communications of him; you must know it is the Father that concealedly doth this, John 6. 45. It is written in the Prophets, And they shall be all taught of God: Every Man therefore that hath heard and learn'd of the Father, cometh unto me. So Gal. 1. 25. And then Christ taketh his turn afresh and anew to reveal the Father; John 16. 25. The time cometh that I will shew you plainly of the Father. And the Spirit is as zealous and forward to glorify both; John 16. 14. He (the Spirit) shall take of mine and glorify me, (and take of the Father's too, and glorify him also to your Hearts) by shewing it to you. And I say, he glorifies the Father, as well as Christ; for so Christ intends his Speech, ver. 15. All things that the Father hath, are mine; therefore said I that he shall take of mine, and shall shew it unto you. Herein they take their turns also; John 17. 1. The Hour is come that thou, O Father, shouldst glorify thy Son, that thy Son may glorify thee: in their Courses to glorify one another. And they having an Eternity of Time to glorify themselves unto us in, are not hasty for themselves; they have time enough afore them to do it in, and take their seasons. And however in Heaven they will be sure then to manifest themselves to us at once, to the full, and together. Chap. 2.

2. Seeing that by reason of our great Sinfulness that remains in us, and through want of growth to a perfect Holiness, we are long a growing to be fit, prepar'd, and dispos'd to enjoy an eminency of Fellowship with both at once, and together alike (which is yet attainable) yet till then, each Person is pleas'd to take a singular Contentment in such sole single private Visits, with a Soul by turns. And the very Privacy, that it is done alone, doth afford a special Delight to the Person; and the Privacy of them, in that they are single thus alone, doth afford a special Delight in the mean time to that Person that communes with us, till we grow up to be meet Company for both. This the whole Book of the Canticles shews, wherein Christ hath those Intercourses with his Spouse, he and she alone. You may see how he caresseth her, and talks to her, and she again to him, I am my Beloved's, and my Beloved is mine; as if none's else: when as yet she was the Father's as much as Christ's. But Christ was her Husband, and by that relation having a special and appropriate Interest in her, thence a peculiar private Converse with her, came to have an answerable Solace in it. The Sweetness of a Friend when alone enjoy'd, hath some Advantages in it in some respects, which a joint Society of others with him, tho Friends also, hath not. As that alone one can be more free and enlarg'd in Expressions of mutual Love one to the other, and more particularly direct his Love to that one Friend alone, and the like. As in the way of our Friendship we often do; when we would enjoy a special Friend indeed, we invite him to Supper alone, to have his Company alone. And there is a Resemblance of some such thing, as affected as it were by Christ himself, in that Overture of Christ's, Rev. 3. 20. If any Man hear my Voice and open the Door, I will come into him, and will sup with him, and he with me. That Reduplication [and he shall sup with me] denotes an Aloneness of them two together, supping hand to hand, as we say: And he names no other but himself, to come with him in that eminent way that he himself came. It denotes also that 'tis mutual; that she entertains him, and he her, and each bring their Cost with them. He sups with her, and she with him: He feeds her with his Fruits and Viands, and his Love better than Wine; read Cant. 5. 1. I am come into my Garden, my Sister, my Spouse; I have gather'd my Myrrh with my Spice; I have eaten my Honey-comb with my Honey; I have drunk my Wine with my Milk: Eat, O Friends, drink, yea drink abundantly, O Beloved. And she again invites him to eat of hers, Cant. 7. 12, 13. Let us get up early to the Vineyards, let us see if the Vine flourish, whether the tender Grapes appear, and the Pomegranats bud forth; there will I give thee my Loves. The Mandrakes give a smell, and at our Gates are all manner of pleasant Fruits new and old, which I have laid up for thee, O my Beloved; there will I give thee of my Loves: 'Tis all of it her Speech to him. And thus this private Intercourse of Loves, proper to them two alone, doth in the interim serve to please, till the Fulness of God the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, come together in upon the Soul.

3. They

Chap. 3. 3. They are all there in the mean while stay'd and contented with private Transaction, during our Narrowness and Non-age: even this, that when we have a more eminent Communion with any one Person, we have a secret under-Communion with the other two; tho implicitely with the other, and more distinctly with some one. And 'tis well it is so; for otherwise we should be guilty of a forgetting the Holy Ghost in the most, whilst we have Communion with the Father and the Son objectively; that is, as the Persons whom our Souls are taken up with, as the Subjects of our Converse, whilst the Holy Spirit is content to be the Revealer of both, and to have the honour of that; as also that he knows he is honour'd in their being honour'd by us. And the reason is, because the Foundation of our Comfort in our Communion with any one Person lies in this; that that Person we have the joyful Fellowship with, is God; that is, it makes our Joy a full Joy, as chap. 1. in such a Fellowship. That's the Spring, the Source of all Comfort, that in that Person the Fulness of the Godhead is; without which our Converse would be empty, and but as with a shadow. Now if our Fellowship with one of the Persons, be fundamentally with him as he is God, and all three are but one and the same God; then in having Communion with that one, we have it with the rest. The common Interest of the Godhead (which is one and the same in all) is glorified thereby in us, to us, and by us; and some give that as the full Intent of the Apostle's Speech, 2 Cor. 4. 6. We beheld the Glory of God in the Face or Person of Jesus Christ. For why, because both he is look'd upon by us to be God, and as in whom we apprehend (whilst we exercise our Faith, &c. on him) that the Fulness of the Godhead dwells personally in him, and so we have Communion with him as God; and in beholding him, we behold the Glory of God the Father also. Yet because this Enjoyment of all three in some one is but impliedly, therefore hath God order'd a further special distinct Fellowship with each. And hence the Love of the Spirit is made mention of, Rom. 15. as well as of the Father, or of Christ. The Spirit is God, and he that dwells in God, dwells in Love with any of the Persons. And so in having Communion with the Holy Ghost in his Love, or with any other Person in their Love, we have Communion with God. And therefore in this case it is not a leaning to one Person more than to another; for they are all but one God, and each one glorified as one God: I and my Father are one, says Christ. Likewise in honouring the Son, we honour the Father who hath such a Son; a wise Son is an Honour to his Parents, as often in the Proverbs.

CHAP. III.

The Character of Young Men, or middle-ag'd Christians in Christ.

1 John II. 14.

THE Word here translated Young Men, says Grotius, notes out Men militaris Ætatis, that have attain'd to the Age and Fitness of being Soldiers; and in that semblance is here apply'd unto Men in Christ, those that in a special manner are drawn out into the Field against Satan. And this Condition being the middle between that of Babes, new Converts, and that of old Age in Christ, who in nature use to be exempted from War; hence therefore all that space between an old Age in Christianity and that of Infancy in Christ, is comprehended under the Title of Young men, who are in a special manner military Men. By this rule the Christian Æra, or account of Ages in Christ, is measur'd here: whereas in Nature, according to our wonted Division, we reckon four, Babes, Young men, middle-ag'd, and old Men; whereas here but three: and upon this it is, that the greater space of time is allotted to this of Young men. New Converts in Christ, tho Men grown, are not young Men in Christ presently the first hour; and there is a middle Age besides to be pass'd thorow, e'er they come to be Fathers; and thence all that time between those two, of Babeship in Christ, and old Age in Chriſt, muſt be underſtood and meant by what is tranſlated Young men; comprizing and taking alſo in, that which anſwers to what in nature we call middle Age, even all that time from Babeſhip, till old Age in Chriſtianity comes, as a time of more uſual Conflict and Fighting againſt Luſts (which are the bloody Battels) and it ordinarily falls out, God converting Men more generally whilſt young in natural Years, that that middle Age in Nature is co-incident with this middle Age in Chriſtianity. Chap. 3.

There are two things to be handled, as touching this Age.

1. That during that Age, or ſpace of time, Chriſtians are moſt aſſaulted with Luſts.

2. How it is that they are ſaid to have overcome, and that this ſhould be attributed to them in ſo ſpecial a manner.

For the firſt.

1. The Condition of a Chriſtian is deſcrib'd to be a Warfare; Fighting againſt Sin, Heb. 12. 4. Their Intereſt is to fight againſt Sin and the Tentations of it: And that is the ground of all other Quarrels with the World.

2. Satan and his Angels are at the head of this Battel; That wicked one, ſays the Text: and Eph. 6. 12. We wreſtle not againſt Fleſh and Blood, but againſt Principalities, againſt Powers, againſt the Rulers of the Darkneſs of this World; againſt ſpiritual Wickedneſs in high places.

3. There are ſpecial ſeaſons for War; ſo in the World, as Solomon ſays, Eccleſ. 3. 8. A time when Kings go forth to Battel; and ſo in Chriſtianity.

4. The ſpecial time of this Conflict againſt fleſhly and worldly Luſts, is this middle Age of Chriſtians in Chriſt. 'Tis true that old Men to the laſt become not wholly Emeriti, are not diſcharg'd from this Warfare (as Solomon's Phraſe is of Death) for Eph. 6. 13. the Apoſtle ſpeaks to them that have fought to the laſt, That after you have done all, you may be able to ſtand. There are therefore Aſſaults upon old Chriſtians to the laſt to caſt them down; even thoſe who have yet done all that good Chriſtians are ſuppos'd they ought to have done, in the foregone part of their Lives: yet when you have done all, ſays the Apoſtle, it is well ye have Grace given to ſtand, and keep your Poſts at laſt. And above all, their Danger lies, that the World is apt to enſnare them; and therefore the Exhortation here in the 15*th* Verſe, Love not the World, &c. is made unto both the middle-ag'd Men and the Fathers, according to their ſeveral Inclinations. Piſcator hath obſerv'd this. But to take heed of Errors in Faith, and the way of believing, is incident to Babes; and therefore that Exhortation, ver. 18. is more peculiarly made to them, παιδία, Babes, &c. The Theſſalonians were new Converts, Babes, when he wrote his Epiſtle. And what was Paul's fear of them at that Age, but leſt their Faith had been aſſaulted? 1 Theſſ. 2. 5. For neither at any time us'd we flattering Words, as ye know, nor a cloak of Covetouſneſs; God is witneſs.

5. Yet this middle Age is the eminent time of Warfare unto Chriſtians, during that Age of their Chriſtianity. Overcoming importeth a Fight, a Warfare; and in that Overcoming is attributed in a ſpecial manner to them, it argues the Aſſault to be fierceſt then, then to be the heat of the Battel with the Adverſary.

The Reaſons of this.

1. They are in a middle Condition, between that lower of Babes, and that of old Age; and ſo they partake in a great proportion of both. The working of Corruptions doth follow mens Inclinations in Nature; and middle-ag'd Chriſtians in the poſture of their natural Inclinations, are precipitant of both; of Luſts of Youth, as the Apoſtle calls them, becauſe of their Violence and Predominion, which is moſt in them, that flow from Fancy, Heat, Vigor of Nature; as Mirth, Jollity, Frolickneſs of Youth, as you call them. And truly I think Chriſt had ſome little Reflection upon ſuch as theſe, in what he ſaid to Peter, John 21. 18. When thou wert young, thou girdeſt thy ſelf, and wenteſt whither thou wouldeſt. Peter had ſhewn a forward Youthfulneſs in ver. 7. in caſting himſelf into the Sea with his Coat girt on; 'twas a youthful trick, and what of Folly and Oſtentation was in it, Chriſt ſeems to reprove. Pride of Parts alſo, and of Gifts; Let him

Chap. 3. him not be a young Novice, lest he be puft up. Voluptuousness, Incontinency, Intemperance, overmuch Delight in vain Company, and such Lusts as these, are not yet so abated and cool'd in these middle-ag'd ones, but that they retain a great Inclination to them; and then they partake of old Mens Lusts. Pride and Lusts of carnal Wisdom, Love of the World, and Honour, and Riches, are already begun to grow up in them; for they are come to a ripeness of Temper: Cares likewise begin to enter, and to come about a Man, and to grow up with the Word: their Heads are full of business, intent upon things earthly. Children grow up, and call for a Provision for them. And thus being in the middle of both, when it falls out as middle Age, as they are Christians, doth contemporize with a middle Age in Nature, as often they do; they are then under their Æquinoctial, under which Climate mens Bodies are incident most unto Distempers.

Babes are more obnoxious unto Doubts and Tentations about their Estate in Grace. The Sun's rising is accompany'd with Clouds and Mists, which, as it ariseth higher, are scatter'd: and Christians in their Infancy, are by the mixture of the Remains of the Spirit of Bondage, with some dawnings of Faith, and Hopes of God's favour (which they are usually yet fully assur'd of) kept more awful of yielding to Sin, and Indulgence to Lusts; which by John Baptist's work of Humiliation, had stounded them more than mortified them: But the middle Age having somewhat outgrown those Fears, and attain'd more quietness of Spirit, as to the Hopes of their spiritual Estate, the Spirit of Bondage being much worn out; and yet perhaps those are not grown up to a full and settled assurance neither, so continually actuated in them, as to keep Lusts down. Their Lusts therefore are apt to gather up much of their crumbs again; and assurance not being full and spiritual enough yet in them, they walk in a greater Expossedness to the rising up of Lusts, and Satan's stirring them up in them.

Then 2. their Adversary the Devil, he is let loose more by God upon Christians in that Age, as to the point of stirring up Lusts (for so still I state it) In the Parable, at the first when he is cast forth of a Man, he is much restrain'd as to entering into a Man again, when he is thrown out for a while: and the measures and methods of his assaulting are order'd and dispos'd of by God; his times are in God's hands: Satan shall cast you into Prison for ten days. Now in the Parable, Mat. 12. 43. He walks a while in dry places, seeking rest, and finding none: being put out of trade and dealings with that Man he's cast forth of, as he had afore; not having power over and upon the Man, as he had wont, in point of carrying him to Sin and several Lusts. This Confinement thus against his will, notes a restraint of him from God, that in a Punishment interdicts him to places that are dry, and as a Wilderness to him; even as 'tis thought that when Satan hath tempted a man to actual Murder, or to perpetrate some such great Villany, which cannot be known by Man; God often in that case confines that Devil that tempted him to the house or place where 'twas committed, till by the disturbance he makes (which you call haunting the House) notice is given to some of Mankind, whereby it may be known both that, and sometimes what the Murder was, and where the Man murder'd was buried: that being come to Mens cognisance, then let Man look to it to search it out. Then the Devil is releas'd; God having made that promise, that by whom Man's Blood is shed, by Man shall his Blood be shed. So is it here: God for a present Punishment to that Devil, who had so long born rule over a poor Sinner, whom he had taken captive at his will, and been the Tempter of to so much evil, throws him out and banisheth him; takes away his power as to the violence of such kind of Temptations, as formerly he had wont to use, namely unto grosser Evils of sinnings; puts him out of that Employment; lessens his trade that way with his old Customer, tho he may permit him to tempt in another kind, as to Despair or Presumption, but not this way; which is the worst and most grievous of Temptations, when a Man is overcome by them.

And it is as to such Defilements in point of Lusts, that Satan is thus restrain'd; for the Man had reform'd greatly upon the casting out of Satan, and there is both time and season allowed and allotted by God to do it in: for he sweeps the house, throws out the filth and dust, and garnisheth it with the outward Paintings of many many new Vertues and Gifts: insomuch as Peter (referring to this) says, 2 Epist. Chap. 3. 2. 20. That he is clean escap'd the Defilements of the World; or which the World lieth in. And by the Co-incidence of the Matter in both places, of Christ's here, and Peter's there, 'tis evident the Apostle refers to this Parallel of Christ's: compare but the Apostle's words, ver. 21. 22. (For it had been better for them not to have known the way of Righteousness, than after they have known it, to turn from the holy Commandment deliver'd unto them. But it is happen'd unto them according to the Proverb, The Dog is turn'd to his own Vomit again, and the Sow that was wash'd, to her wallowing in the Mire) with Christ's words in the Parable, ver. 44, 45. Then he saith, I will return into mine House, from whence I came out; and when he is come, he findeth it empty, swept, and garnished. Then goeth he, and taketh with him seven other Spirits more wicked than himself; and they enter in, and dwell there: and the last state of that Man is worse than the first. Even so shall it be also unto this wicked Generation. So as they are worldly and miry Lusts he assaulted them with, to turn them from the holy Commandment.

And this is for some time also, that the state of this Man continues in this freedom from Satan in these respects; for when he hath walk'd his walk through dry places, vext and melancholy at his Disappointments, he after a while thinks thus with himself, to return to his old exercise and employment, and makes trial (but so at first, ver. 44.) then he saith, I will return to my house, from whence I came, &c. and finding a Man yielding, he takes more and worse Devils to aid him.

If the Objection be, that this Instance is of a Man that falls away, and so not applicable to true Christians that hold out.

My Answer is.

1. 'Tis true, that in the point of falling away, these two, a true Christian, and this Instance, agree not.

2. My Assertion stands good in this, that if God restrains Satan from tempting, or prevailing over such temporary Professors in grosser Evils, at their first reforming for a time, then he doth it much more unto true and real Converts of his own.

3. Satan's new invading and returning upon this Man, who after apostatizeth, is not from this, that he knew him to be not a sincere Convert, with difference from one that is sincere: No; God reveals no such thing to him. Nor can he discern that soon; but the one and the other are alike at first in his eye. And so he returns upon the same Opinion, and Apprehensions that are common and alike of either, one as well as t'other; he makes his assault upon the like ground, hoping to prevail upon the one as well as t'other, not knowing which God will preserve and cause in the end to stand, and which not. And therefore the Argument I have us'd from that Scripture doth hold good; and the case of a sincere Convert and another, comes all to one, in respect to Satan's renewing his assaults: for the reason for his new assaulting the one, is the same for the other; and he is by God alike restrain'd from the one, as he is from the other, and let loose again by God in a like manner upon either. For otherwise, if God should therein put and discover a difference, Satan would have knowledg afore-hand, who are sincere and who not; if any constant difference were observ'd by God in this particular.

And 4. God thus orders it in a tender gracious Dispensation towards his own, whose Condition at first needs this; They fall into Temptations, if need be, 1 Pet. 1. 6. But truly there is no need of the falling into, much less prevailing of such Temptations at first; for they would utterly put them off, and split their Faith quite: God reserves them till they are habitually grown stronger in Grace, as the Text here; I write to you, young Men, for ye are strong. God suffers not his East-wind to blow upon tender Plants, at their first shooting forth, Isa. 27. 8. In measure when it shooteth forth, thou wilt debate with it: he stayeth his rough Wind in the day of the East-wind. Nor lets he out any Temptation they are not able to bear. This holds in point of sinning, as well as in point of suffering; yea much more.

(4.) This Dispensation is in conformity unto Christ. When was it that Christ began to be tempted (and indeed he with all sorts of Temptations by Satan Chap. 3. at once) but when he arriv'd at the years of the middle Age of Man, at thirty years? You read not that during his private Life he was tempted afore (tho we cannot affirm that he was altogether free and devoid of them) but there is an Intimation that ſometimes afterwards Satan did return; he departed from him, ſays the Story, for a ſeaſon. And to be ſure that all along after his entrance into that publick Life, he was exercis'd with continual Temptations from Satan and the World; inſomuch as himſelf notes that time, whilſt he had walk'd with his Diſciples, to have been his ſpecial time of Temptation, Luke 22.28. Ye are they who have continued with me in my Temptations. And at, or about thoſe Years of natural Age, unto moſt Converts, may the account of their middle Age of Chriſtianity begin.

Thus much for their incidency unto Temptation, inſinuated in that there is a Conflict, an Overcoming, which was the firſt thing ſingled out.

But there is a ſecond, and of greater difficulty, and that is, How and in what reſpect they are ſaid more eminently to have overcome Satan? For are they not in their Conflicts apt to be overcome, and to yield to corrupt Affections? and how far they may be overcome, is not to be determin'd by Man.

Gualter uti maluit præterito, propter certitudinem victoriæ.

1. This as a difficulty Calvin and others have took notice of; Viciſſe dicit, qui adhuc ſunt in ipſo bellandi; alia conditio in hoc bello, Mars enim aliis dubius, & eventus belli anceps: Nos priuſquam congrediamur, jam ſumus victores; quia Caput noſtrum Chriſtus ſemel totum mundum vicit. "He ſaith theſe have overcome, who "are yet in the very Act of warring; the caſe is otherwiſe in this War, for the "Battel to other Warriors is doubtful, and the Event of the Battel uncertain: "whereas we, before we encounter, are already Conquerors; becauſe our Head "Chriſt at once hath overcome the whole World.

2. If Chriſt maintains a Conflict in thy Heart againſt Sin, that there is a Seed of God yet abiding in thy Heart, that doth never, can never yield to Sin, or an Act of Sin; although the corrupt Law in the Members carry them to the outward Act, yet this reluctancy is a keeping the Field, a not laying down the Sword: thus our Apoſtle in his third Chapter, ver. 9. Whoſoever is born of God, doth not commit Sin, for his Seed remaineth him; and he cannot ſin, becauſe he is born of God. And Rom. 7. ult. when you hear that Outcry in your Hearts, O miſerable Man that I am, who ſhall deliver me? As Jehoſaphat cry'd out, when inviron'd with Chariots, fighting againſt him, 1 Kings 22.32, 33. and 2 Chron. 18.31. And it came to paſs when the Captains of the Chariots ſaw Jehoſaphat, that they ſaid, it is the King of Iſrael; therefore they compaſſed about him to fight: but Jehoſaphat cry'd out, and the Lord help'd him, and God mov'd them to depart from him. So that Man there in Rom. 7. ult. cries out, and by Faith gives thanks afore-hand, in the aſſurance of the Victory; I thank God, through Jeſus Chriſt our Lord. When it comes to be a confidence, God hears our Cry; we then have the Petitions we ask of him. 'Tis our Apoſtle's rule, though the performance be delay'd, and thou mayſt ſtill be actually overcome. Here this Paſſage is added, The word of God abideth in you: and ye have overcome the wicked one. Whence I gather, that if the word of God (which is that Seed of God, chap. 3.9. as Peter tells us, 1 Epiſt. 1.) abideth in thee unexcuſſed, not ſhaken out of thy Heart, UNCHOAKED (as I may difference the caſe of true Believers from others, the thorny ground, from Chriſt's Word us'd in the Parable, in ſaying that in the thorny ones Luſts CHOAK the Word in their Hearts) but in thee it remains rooted; and as a Spring works out the Mud that ſtopt it, and humbles you, and reduceth you to God again: This is a Victory. Join theſe two together that are in the Text; The Word of God abides in you, and you have overcome that wicked one; to this ſenſe that this is an evidence you have overcome, becauſe a Seed of God ſtill abides in your Hearts unconquerably, ſo as the Aſſaults of Sin and Satan have not, cannot totally prevail againſt you.

But you will ſay, theſe are but Generals, common to all Ages of Chriſtianity: They all, yea Babes, in theſe reſpects may be ſaid to have overcome, as well as young Men.

The anſwer is; That this laſt-mention'd Conſideration may in a more ſpecial reſpect be attributed unto middle-ag'd Chriſtians, rather than Babes: for by that time time this Age is come and gone, they must be suppos'd to have run through much, and a long space in fighting against Sin, and to have had many bloody Noses given and taken in those Conflicts: and yet that they should be able to say after so many wounds receiv'd, I have still the same spiritual Life of Christ abiding in me, I am yet alive, I am still heartned to fight it out, I will never lay the weapons down; this is an evidence to them, namely that after so long a time, the Word of God is still abiding in their Souls: The root of the matter is in them. A signal evidence it is that there is that in them that cannot sin, nor close with Sin. Conscience alone will not keep the field so long, nor hold out; at best it doth clamour against Sin, but will soon be flatted, and the edg of its resistance be taken off. But this is a constant Principle of Holiness abiding in them, that really fights against Sin, which can never be still'd nor return thither. And this is a Pawn and Pledg of a certain Victory in the end; and a surer Pledg thereof, than that which young Beginners, who have not run through so great a time in so sore and so re-iterated Temptations of all sorts, can have experience of; such as these middle-ag'd Christians have: and therefore this Honour is rather attributed unto them, than unto Babes. That Grace is preserv'd in the midst of violent Assaults, tending to extinguish it; that a drop of Oil should maintain it self above Water, or in the end still get uppermost, notwithstanding all the stormy Surges of the Sea, when they rage most to overwhelm it. Chap. 3.

5. Take the most of Christians, and their Experience will tell you, that in their Conflicts against grosser Evils and Lusts, they oftner not yield to the Act, than are overcome into it: for which I refer you to other Writings.

6. Instead of many other Answers, I will add this; That the estimate of Overcoming, lies not in accounting how oft thou hast been foil'd, rather than overcome, by not yielding; but in this, that if thou hast had many times in thy Life, yea and at any time thou canst remember (for such Overcomings as I shall now mention, are more rare and less seldom discern'd, than in reality they fall out and occur) that thou hadst a clear Victory, out of pure Motives and Considerations, which are proper to true Grace; as which were drawn from the Interest that God and Christ have in thy Soul, and thy Soul in them; as from the Grace of God, Union with Christ; the Power of his Death apply'd, through Faith its having recourse to it; and the power thereof brought home to thy Heart thereupon; Thou that hast overcome, shalt overcome. There fall out often to God's Children many frustrations of Temptations from Lusts and Satan's assaults, by providential Occurrences and Motives, whereby God restrains his own in the nick of opportunity, as he did David by Abigail; which we are indeed to bless God for, as David there did, 1 Sam. 25. 32, 33, 34. for they are out of Grace and Favour towards us, when not out of pure Grace in us: And therefore David blesseth God for that of his there, and so should we. Yet these are not so evidential to us of our overcoming, or of Victories on our parts; they are ways to escape (as 1 Cor. 10. 10.) rather than Victories: But such as are purely from our having had recourse to Christ for Strength against them; and then Motives that arise precisely from our Converses and Communion with God and Christ, as aforesaid, with Strength coming in, with downright Blows to dead them; and not per modum diverticuli, by way of diverting the Mind: for so any other Thoughts that get in do; they may take off and turn aside for the present the Mind from a Lust, a Fancy, a strong Incursion: but such Overcomings mention'd are signal, in open Field, and by force of Arms, spiritual Arms; and may be recorded Exploits of spiritual Chivalry, and among the famous and wondrous Works that God works in us, and for us.

Use 1. The first Use is an Admonition to middle-ag'd Christians. 'Tis an hour, or rather a long season of Temptation; and no Man knows what Trials he may in Temptations to Sin run through, nor at what time most: we are therefore call'd to stand upon our watch continually, and to be sober, as in 1 Pet. 5. 8. where at ver. 10. But the God of all Grace, who hath called us into his eternal Glory by Jesus Christ, after that ye have suffer'd a while, make you perfect, stablish, strengthen, settle you. Suffering a while is not only or mainly in a time of Persecution for Christ, whereof he had spoken chap. 4. 17. but from Temptations to Sins, which Chap. 3. are the greateſt Sufferings; and the Devil watcheth that he may devour or drink up a man's Soul (as the word is) he ſwallows down ſome Profeſſors, as we do a Draught; and ſo Judas was ſerv'd by him. He ſprings a Mine, and ſuddenly blows them up. Cities beſieg'd ſtand upon their guard, when an Enemy is at the Gates; and keep double watch and ward, and eſpecially in the ſeaſons, as in the Nights, when the ſeaſon is for Onſets and Aſſaults; and countermine their Mines. This middle Age is the time wherein moſt Temporaries fall away, as the thorny Ground, in whom Luſts grew up with the Word, till they had chok'd the Word; ſo that there was ſome long time of Profeſſion paſs'd firſt. Whereas the ſtony Ground preſently gave out; when the Sun of Perſecution was up, they withdrew in the infancy of Profeſſion, and did not ſtay till their middle Age: Theſe were as rath ripe Fruits, and are nipt with an April Froſt before Summer comes. Thoſe other, the thorny, abide longer, for their Humiliation was deep; yet not ſo deep, but that the ſenſe of the Bitterneſs of Sin went off and decreas'd, and ſo they prov'd unfruitful for ſome time before they died: They are wither'd Trees, as Jude compares them; autumnal Fruits, as his Expreſſion is. They fall as Leaves in the Autumn, in the declenſion of their Years, before the Winter of old Age comes; and ſeldom or never continue till then.

Uſe 2. Again, you middle-ag'd Chriſtians, ſet your ſelves to overcome at that ſeaſon with all your might; for as it is the ſpecial ſeaſon of Temptation, ſo of Overcoming. Make it your Glory to obtain Victory, during that ſeaſon; The Glory of young Men is their Strength, Prov. 20. 29. Which was ſeen in the Wreſtlers and Strivings at the Olympian Games, where Crowns upon the publick Charge were given unto the Overcomers; unto which the Apoſtle alludeth, 2 Tim. 2. 5. And if a Man alſo ſtrive for Maſteries, yet is he not crown'd, except he ſtrive lawfully. And if you will know what 'tis to ſtrive lawfully, read 1 Cor. 9. 25. And every Man that ſtriveth for the Maſtery, is temperate in all things: now they do it to obtain a corruptible Crown, but we an incorruptible. Therefore go on thus to fight that good Fight, that you may lay hold upon eternal Life, 1 Tim. 6. 12. And tho you be often foil'd and put to the worſe, yet riſe up, and to't again. And there are two Motives: 1. 'Tis a good Fight, wherein you are to overcome, if you continue to fight, and faint not. 2. Lay hold on eternal Life; this is the Reward, the Bravium in your Eye. He that is ſlow to Anger, and ruleth his Spirit; that is, overcomes himſelf; is better than he that takes a City, Prov. 16. 32.

Uſe 3. Reckon with thy ſelf how many Victories thou haſt had; how oft you have overcome, and how often been foil'd; how many ſet Battels thou haſt fought, wherein the Archers have ſhot ſorely at thee, but thy Bow abode in its ſtrength: theſe do turn greatly to thy Glory at laſt at the Day of Judgment, and thy Comfort now in this Life. The Promiſe that concludes all the Epiſtles to the Churches, runs thus, To him that overcometh. The Indians in New England fighting with ſhort Hand-clubs, wherewith they knock down their Enemies, look how many Men they have kill'd in ſeveral Fights, they ſet down at the Club-ends ſo many Notches; which they keep and ſhew for their Glory. How often thou haſt kept thy ſelf from thine Iniquity, and how often thou haſt been overcome, keep an account, to the end to humble thy ſelf the more.

I come now to the opening of the firſt Character given to theſe young or middle-ag'd Chriſtians; I write to you, Young men, ſays he, becauſe ye are ſtrong. There is a double ſpiritual Strength; one that is radical in the Soul it ſelf, conſiſting in the ſtrength and vigor of habitual Graces: The other aſſiſtant thereto from the Spirit, according as he is pleas'd to arm and fill the Soul with himſelf, joining with it by ſtrengthning the Graces in us; which you read of Eph. 3. 16. That he would grant you according to the Riches of his Glory, to be ſtrengthned with might by his Spirit, in the inner Man. And this latter acceſſory Strength is there meant, as that which is granted by God, as we have need of it, which we have every moment; but in ſpecial Aſſaults and Temptations, ſo as to overcome, 'tis a Strength given to help in time of need. There is ſome likeneſs in both theſe, in the Strength of the Body; there is an inward and abiding Hability in the Limbs and inward parts; a sprightly Vigor fit for any Action, whereto Strength is needful to be put forth; which others that are Children or sickly want: and this is abiding in them when asleep, as in the Body of a Lion or Elephant, in Job 40. 17, 18, 19. He moveth his Tail like a Cedar, the Sinews of his Stones are wrapt together; his Bones are as strong pieces of Brass, his Bones are like Bars of Iron; he is the chief of the ways of God: he that made him, can make his Sword to approach unto him. And there is an assistant Strength, which strong Wine, or some spiritful Cordial gives, over and above the natural. The Psalmist's similitude of a Giant, implies both; like a Giant (who is stronger than other Men in his natural Hability) refresh'd with Wine, which adds thereunto, and makes him more potent to act: so there is an habitual Strength in the inner Man of a Christian, grown up from a Child to be a Man, to a full age; which here the Apostle hath in his eye. That as in nature Babes are weak, Children are weak, but middle-ag'd Men are strong, in respect of such an inward abiding Strength in them; and so 'tis here intended. And in respect to this habitual Strength it is, that in other Scriptures some Christians are term'd strong, others weak, as in the 14*th* and 15*th* Chapters to the Romans, and the Prophet Zach. 12. 8. of the times of the New-Testament Saints; In that day shall the Lord defend the Inhabitants of Jerusalem, and he that is feeble among them at that day shall be as David; and the House of David shall be as God, as the Angel of the Lord before them. The Angels, they are said to excel in Strength, and so the opposition runs between weak and strong Christians. But then the assistant Strength of the Spirit filling that inward Man, whereof Eph. 4. 18. Be not drunk with Wine in excess, but be fill'd with the Spirit; who filling you, strengthens, cheers you as Wine; and wherein is no excess, but an access of a mighty Power, when he mingles with our Spirits, and is as Wine that flushes our natural Spirits. And that is the Strength that Petition Eph. 3. especially intends; and the main Strength also, in respect of which these middle-ag'd Christians are said to be strong, and by which to overcome: for therein it is that indeed our Strength now lies. Chap. 3.

But although this habitual Strength of the inward Man may be intended here by John, yet we must know that the Compare of our spiritual Strength, with that of the Body, instanc'd in, runs upon unequal feet; for our spiritual Strength lies principally in the Supplies of the Spirit, as Phil. 1. they are stil'd, and not in our habitual Graces: whereas the chief of bodily Strength lies in the Body it self and natural Spirits; and the additional Strengthners are small comparatively. I would therefore for illustration sake of this great Point, fetch my Parallel or Comparison from such Persons, whose Bodies, tho by natural Constitution strong, yet had that Strength intended and elevated by the Spirit's coming upon them, enabling them to act, and fight, and overcome; which was Sampson's case: and that indeed will serve to set forth this. Sampson had no doubt a natural Strength, far exceeding other Men, in himself and in his Limbs, such perhaps as Giants, which yet we find not that he was: But then he had superadded to that the Might of the Holy Ghost, falling upon him at times, and upon occasions; as when he pull'd down the Pillars of that Play-house of the Philistines, like as 'twas afore said of him, Judges 15. 14. And the Spirit of the Lord came mightily upon him, and the Cords that were upon his Arms became as Flax that was burnt with Fire, and his Bands loosed from off his Hands. And ver. 15. He found a new Jaw-bone of an Ass, and put forth his hand and took it, and slew a thousand men therewith. And chap. 13. 25. And the Spirit of the Lord came upon him at times, &c. And this Assistance he sometimes had by Faith and Confidence in God, that he would vouchsafe; as in the story of that 13*th* Chap. he ventures unarm'd, yea bound, to meet more than a thousand Philistines, that were resolv'd to kill him; and the Spirit came not in him till he was amongst them: yet he ventur'd it afore. This was therefore in Faith (whereof the Apostle speaks, Heb. 11.) that such an Assistance would come upon him: and so in the other case of the two Pillars.

And this extraordinary Supply of strength by the Spirit, suites best to set forth spiritual Strength here; though withal I profess not to compare such extraordinary Exploits and Atchievements, wherein Sampson was made to excel all other Men whatever, and himself at other times, by the Spirit's coming on him, with those ordinary Chap. 3. ordinary Overcomings here; as if I intended that the middle-ag'd ſhould be acted by ſuch miraculous Exceſſes and Actions, comparatively to other Chriſtians, the Spirit's coming on them. No; but I make uſe of it to this purpoſe, to illuſtrate how as Sampſon's ſtrength to do what he did, lay not in his own inherent Strength, but the Spirit's aſſiſting him with his Power, hiddenly joining with his and elevating of his; and that therein it was his Strength did lie: Thus ſo here, in the Spirit's ſupplies it is, that theſe middle-ag'd mens Strength doth alſo lie, or any others in ſpiritual Actings and Overcomings; and that it was not the habitual Strength of their own Graces. And the Scriptures are expreſs in it, 2 Tim. 2. 1. Thou therefore, my Son, be ſtrong in the Grace that is in Chriſt Jeſus. It were to contradict this Paſſage, and diſhonourable to Chriſt our Head, to narrow this Grace that is in Chriſt Jeſus, unto that habitual Grace inherent in us from Chriſt; as if that were our Strength. No; 'tis that which is in Chriſt Jeſus his Perſon, in his keeping, and his giving forth, as we are to act: for when he exhorts, Be ye ſtrong, &c. he ſpeaks it as in order unto doing and acting, and the increaſe of Strength. And it would ſoon be ill with us, if we ſhould be left to that kind of Strength alone, to act withal, as Adam was: No, ours is in the Perſon of Chriſt, the Power of an endleſs Life reſiding in him, and aſſiſting us according to his Strength, which by Faith going to him for, he gives forth to us. For as he is our Life, Col. 3. 4. ſo he muſt be acknowledg'd our Strength: for what is Strength, but Life in an active Vigor? And this the Apoſtle tells us, from his own Experience, was it that enabled him to do all things, Phil. 4. 13. I can do all things through Chriſt who ſtrengthneth me. 'Twas a Strength in and for the act, that ſtrengthneth me; and 'twas in what he was to do, I am able to do all things through Chriſt that ſtrengthneth me in the doing. Let us walk therefore in an habitual emptineſs of Self-confidence, waiting on Chriſt for Strength, remembring that of the Apoſtle, that when I am weak, then I am ſtrong; and be in this ſenſe weak, that the Power of Chriſt may reſt upon you. There was one King, of whom it is ſaid, he was help'd till he was ſtrong. Peter's Confidence in the preſent ſenſe of his own Grace, though all Men leave thee, I will not, was the ground of his Fall; he went out in his own ſtrength: Iſa. 45. 24, 25. Surely ſhall one ſay, In the Lord have I Righteouſneſs and Strength; even to him ſhall Men come, and all that are incens'd againſt him, ſhall be aſhamed. In the Lord ſhall all the Seed of Iſrael be juſtified, and ſhall glory. We all profeſs that Righteouſneſs of Juſtification (and that is meant there, as appears by ver. 25. In the Lord ſhall all the Seed of Iſrael be juſtified) that's alone in Chriſt, the Lord our Righteouſneſs. Now the ſame is ſaid of Strength: Our Strength lies in him, and as he will give it forth, we have Strength; and as he with-holds, we are weak. And there is the ſame reaſon for this, as for that other, in their ſeveral proportions, wherein they may differ; that in him we ſhould glory, as it follows there: therefore look out to him for it, as the word is, ver. 22. And unto him ſhall Men come. Ver. 24. Surely ſhall one ſay, In the Lord have I Righteouſneſs and Strength; even to him ſhall Men come. Therefore go to him, come to him for Strength; he will ſtrengthen you.

But you will ſay to me, If you interpret this of middle-ag'd Chriſtians, becauſe you are ſtrong, to intend chiefly the ſtrength of the Spirit of Chriſt, in reſpect of aſſiſtance to act; and not ſo much that inward Strength, which is in themſelves, wrought by Chriſt and the Spirit; how could he make this to be middle-ag'd mens eminent Property? for this Strength, tho it works in us, yet is extrinſecal to our Spirits. And again, even Babes may be influenc'd as much with ſuch a kind of Strength, as middle-ag'd Chriſtians may be ſuppos'd to be; for it is wholly what is without themſelves, till ſent in at the time of acting: and Babes are as capable and receptive of this kind of Strength to overcome Temptations (which is the matter whereto we ſpeak) as the middle-ag'd, if the Spirit of the Lord come upon them. And what can the middle promiſe themſelves more thereof, than Babes may do; or the Apoſtle for them, that he ſhould ſay comparatively to Babes, ye are ſtrong? Doth not the Prophet, ſpeaking of the Meſſiah's times, Iſa. 35. 3, 4. ſay, Strengthen ye the weak Hands, and confirm the feeble Knees: Say to them that are of a fearful heart, Be ſtrong, fear not; he will come and ſave you. And at ver. 6.

Then

Then shall the lame Man leap as the Hart; even from the first hour that the Power of Christ, and the Spirit comes upon him. Which is spoken not of the Miracles in such mens Bodies only, but of spiritual Strengthnings also. For those words in ver. 3. Strengthen ye the weak Hands, and confirm the feeble Knees; that precede these other; are applied by the Apostle in the Epistle to the Hebrews, unto spiritual Feebleness and Strength. Chap. 3.

'Tis true that the Dispensations of assisting Grace in the acting our inward Man, is depending wholly on God's good Pleasure, as Phil. 2. 13. and he can, and doth sometimes ordain, that is, vouchsafe Strength unto Babes and Sucklings, Psal. 8. and they are often carried at first, as with a Spring-tide of extraordinary Assistance; which yet afterwards, when that Land-flood extraordinary is run and spent, the Stream is contracted to an usual Channel, and falls unto and becomes Ebb-tides, and greatly decrease: as in my Treatise of Growth in Grace I have observ'd. Yet for answer to the Objection.

Answ. 1. That God more ordinarily vouchsafeth adjuvant efficacious Grace to overcome Temptation, according to the measure of Grace habitual or inherent: and therefore when men are grown up to more radical inward Strength, he gives more effective assisting Strength; he meteth forth Temptations to the ability our inward Man is furnish'd withal, as that we are able to bear them, as 1 Cor. 10. he declares his measure to be. And then he vouchsafes his actual supply of aiding Strength, according to the proportion of that inherent stock of Ability he sees in the inward Man; which if it effectually assist us, will prevail: And then as the Conflicts grow greater, our additional Aids are together therewith increas'd. Now if it be thus, then the Objection comes to be in a great measure solv'd; for the additional is ordinarily proportion'd to the inherent habitual Grace, and so the measure of both comes to one. It falls out in this, as it was with Sampson; the Spirit assisted Sampson when grown up to the full strength of a Man, far more than when he was a Child, and naturally weaker; although when of younger years he at times fell on him and by Fits, as we heard out of Judges 13. ult. yet not to perform such prodigious Exploits, as after he was grown elderly. The Spirit observ'd a Decorum of his Assistance, proportion'd to his Years.

The Grace of God works freely indeed, and will shew his Freedom; he obligeth not, nor ties himself absolutely to such Rules and Measures as these always, and to all Persons: but at his good Pleasure takes liberty to withold his supplies from such as have most of this inherent Grace we speak of, to shew the Weakness of all our Grace, as it is in us, without his further active influencing Grace, working the Will and the Deeds, and also that his Grace is tied to none. This we see in David, when he was left to sin more foully in his middle Age, than in his first days (as they are call'd) and so in like manner Hezekiah, both grown up to a middle Age in Grace. Yet this Assertion of ours concerns only what his more ordinary Dispensations are. And truly of those I may say, that although God's Grace is free, yet it delights to observe set rules in those Dispensations; as to give promise, that he that bringeth forth much Fruit, he will purge to bring forth more Fruit, John 15. 2. That is one rule with himself likewise, He that is justified, let him be justified still. Yet more and more, Rev. last. And to him that hath, shall be given: and the like. For therein his Grace is seen to give Grace, that he may be mov'd to give more Grace: and thus it come to pass, that habitual Grace being increas'd by the exercise and using of it it self, where it is once begun by Regeneration; that then the Influences of active and overcoming Grace from God come to abound more, as habitual Grace through long exercise hath abounded. 'Tis like God's blessing some Men in their outward Callings (and 'tis God that gives power to get Wealth) the Promise being, that the diligent hand makes rich. God giving a Man power to be diligent, superadds Riches as cast in, over and beyond that diligence, as the Reward of it. This we see in some Merchants, who through Diligence having obtain'd a large stock for Trade, God in his good Providence vouchsafeth their special Hits (as they call good haps) singular overplus Advantages that fall out in their way: and thus it is here. And that God increaseth the inward stock of habitual Grace within us, by gracious Diligence in holy actings, I have long understood to be the mind

Chap. 3. of that, in Rom. 6. 22. If ye be Servants to God, you have your Fruit unto Holiness. To be the Servants of God, is to be holy; the Fruit therefore of serving God, is a Communication of more Holiness. Fruit imports what is of the natural growth of a Tree according to its kind. If the good Tree increaseth in bulky Holiness, the Fruit thereof will be more and larger Holiness. And which is strange in Nature, the Tree will grow bigger in the Body and Sap of it, by how much it bears more Fruit. The Fruit it brings forth in holy Actions, causeth the Stock to grow more in quantity still greater. The ground I interpret that place thus, is, that in the foregone Ver. 19. 'tis said, that yielding our members Servants to Righteousness unto Righteousness; that is, that our active Righteousness in our Walkings and Obedience, or Righteousness acted and exercis'd, is Righteousness unto Righteousness; that is, tends to an Increase of habitual intrinsecal Righteousness, which is the Principle of further acting.

Whereunto I add, that God gives assisting Grace in proportion to the measure of Grace acquir'd and gain'd: He crowns his Graces in us with more Grace: Ten Cities to him that had increas'd his one Talent to ten: he crowns habitual Strength, gotten by exercise of Holiness, with more enlarg'd Strength. And so the Apostle might well say of them, who through long exercise of Grace, had acquir'd much inward Grace, that ye are strong; and that in both these senses of a being strong, in comparison to Babes.

Nor doth that Objection wholly or universally enervate this Assertion, viz. That he suffers some in their middle Age much to decline and fall away in Strength; for still it often in experience proves to be in the issue, that they are recover'd to their wonted Vigour again, and act more strongly than ever: as Sampson did at last, when his Hair was grown again; which was the Signal, and as a sacramental Token of his recovering the Spirit again, as it had been before the cutting of it. And it may perhaps prove the truth, that by Falls, and great and long Languishments, and gradual Decays in actings of Grace in some middle-ag'd Christians; it proves there is not so much a decay of the stock it self of habitual Strength in the Root and Principles of it, but in the exercises of it: such as we see in strong-bodied Men, that fall into a Consumption, or some other Infirmity, that occasions a present languishing, that they become for outward Motion as weak as Children; when yet the radical strength of their Constitution, and of that which they were grown up unto, recovers again, as Sampson's Hair did; and they die in a far greater spiritual Vigor than ever: as Sampson at his death was empower'd and cloth'd wsth a far more mighty strength by the Spirit, than ever he had in his whole Life, after the recovering of his Hair.

Answ. 2. Middle-ag'd Christians have through long Use and Experience learnt Self-emptiness in their acting Holiness more, so as to make them not to be so confident they can do this or that, in the strength of Grace inherent. And this is a Lesson long a learning, and perhaps more hard to be learnt, than to go out to Christ for the Righteousness of Justification. And it is taught by long Experience: for as Experience breeds Hope in the way and course of believing, so Experience of having so often been foil'd, through going about to act from the strength of inherent Grace in our selves, doth at last teach us the most effectually this dependance on Christ.

And truly there are divers things that concur upon and after our first Conversion, that give occasion to us, if not to think it is from the strength of inherent Grace receiv'd by Regeneration, that we do then act; yet so far at least, as to divert our Thoughts from so attentive looking out of our selves for a further efficacious assistance from Christ, to work in us both the will and the deed. As,

1. They find in themselves, as other Men, a Will, which by God is appointed to be the free Principle of its own Motion, and of our actings.

Then 2. upon Regeneration we find a new Principle of Holiness wrought in us by Christ; which, as another Nature, poiseth and inclineth our Hearts unto what is holy, and residing in our Wills, disposeth them in some measure, tho imperfectly, so to act; there being by reason thereof, a natural Agreeableness and Sutableness between our Hearts and such Actions, as such, so far as we be regenerated.

3. Christ

3. Christ leaves not this his new Creature to it self, but himself with his Spirit dwelling therein, cherisheth and acteth it, as the Mother doth the Child in her Womb, and nurseth it as when she hath brought it forth; yet this he doth unknown that it is he that doth all. He is a God that hides himself in these his actings at first, as in other things he useth to do; whether the Soul puts forth acts of Faith, and dependancy for his special help in the acting of it, yea or no. Christ bears from the Womb, as well as to the hoary Age; as the Prophet Isaiah under this similitude expresseth it: and it is said of Ephraim, when he was a Child, God holding him up in his Arms, taught him to go. In which case, though a Child useth his own strength, else it were not a teaching him to go; yet the Weakness of his Limbs is such, as it is the strength of him who holds him up, in the virtue of which he goes: and yet when it is thus holden up, it takes no notice of the other's supporting of it, but is ready to ascribe it chiefly to its own Ability, and so to be confident in venturing to go alone, and then it falls. And yet Christ bears us, and carries the Lambs, and those which are with young in his arms: Thus assisting, because he would encourage it in our Weakness, and also to make a discovery of the Quality and kind of this new Creature, acting it self in us. Chap. 3.

And 4. This new Creature thus assisted, being a Divine Nature, and inclining us, as a Nature useth to do, unto good Works to walk in; although we cannot but be sensible that the Infusion of that new Principle it self, has been wholly from the Power and Efficiency of Christ, and not of our selves; the new inward frame of our Hearts being in a good degree so contrary to what was formerly in the unregenerate Estate we had liv'd in: Yet still as to the actings of that new Creature, after it is wrought, we are not presently made so sensible and aware of that great Power that carries it on, and so not of dependance on Christ without us, as of our Head that influenceth all those our actings also, but are apt not to look on it further than that it is, or as if it were the Pondus and Sway of that new Creature, which as a new Creature carrieth on our Wills and Affections, as in a natural way, so far as we are regenerated: even as in sinning we had found afore and do after, that our corrupt Inclinations naturally carried us unto the contrary. And this new infus'd Nature we look upon working as a contrary Nature to that other of Sin, as two contrary streams running cross, as indeed they are. And having been but newly brought acquainted with Christ, that acquaintance begins at first chiefly in our seeking out our Righteousness of Justification in him, and receiving from him therewith this inherent Principle of Holiness, which is his Image; as both being absolutely necessary to that season, and the Condition of a new Convert, who having come forth newly from a state of sinning with full Career and Consent of Will, and made sensible of Sin and Damnation, and possess'd with fears of Hell and Wrath, the grudging Fits of which we for a long time are not quite rid of: the strength and intention of the Mind is swallowed up with these so necessary things, at that present to be had from Christ, as the sole Remedy to the present case. And then the Spirit secretly supplying us with that Assistance, we by Faith should from the first go to him for it, but he hiddenly performing that in us and for us, without our minding it or looking out for it; the Spirit mingleth his Power (unperceivably to us) with the Activity of our Wills, in the new Creature. And further, we being as then fresh water Soldiers, not train'd up enough to the observation of the many Ebbings of this Stream, and the flowings again thereof, to be from the Spirit of Christ; we do not discern his either increasing and raising up the Flood, or his with-holding so to do, to be the Causes of such a Variation in our actings, according to his good Pleasure.

These things consider'd, it is no wonder if we be more Strangers for a while at the first, unto this great point in our Christianity (and all of Christ is not learnt at once) of this continual dependance on Christ for acting, than we were of his Power in regenerating us. For at Regeneration we were convinc'd of that total contrary Corruption that had invaded, possess'd, and fill'd our Souls, so that we saw no one spiritual Good to have been in us; but now the Activity of our Will being thus furnish'd anew, with that new stock of habitual Grace to set up withal, and so vigorously assisted (though insensibly to us) by the Aids of the Spirit; we are prone to think that we have a spring of Good within our selves, that bubbles up

Chap. 3. continually what is good; and ſo our Thoughts are far remov'd from the ſenſe that we are not able to think one good Thought within our ſelves, but that all our ſufficiency is of God. And although it may be ſuppos'd we might more eaſily be brought to receive the Doctrine, of this our Emptineſs and Inſufficiency to act; yet practically to diſcern it, ſo as to ſet our Spirits a-work upon it, and enure our Hearts to the exerciſe of it, it is no wonder if (conſidering what hath been ſaid to be our caſe) we be in the courſe of our Spirits apt and inclinable to put much of that hidden aſſiſtance the Spirit ſupplies us with, upon the natural Tendency and Activity of the new Creature, as a Divine Nature in us: aſcribing the power and force of the Wind we ſee not, that carries on and drives the Stream, unto the natural Pondus and Propenſeneſs of the Stream it ſelf to run that way; till we come to have had the experience of ſuch Interchanges, Ebbings, and Flowings mention'd, and thereby come to ſee and judg what little Strength we of our ſelves have, with all our inherent Graces, and when left never ſo little by the Spirit, and his ceaſing to act us, and what difference there is when we are enlarg'd by Chriſt and his Strength, to run the ways of his Commandments.

But 5. There is yet a further thing at the bottom of this matter, and is the ground of our aptneſs to be miſled in this point; which is, that we are prone to it by Nature, both that corrupt Nature by the Fall, yea and pure Nature alſo, as it was in Adam's firſt ſtate by Creation; for in that pure Eſtate he and we his Poſterity, if he had ſtood, had been under the Covenant of Works in all its differences from the tenor of the Covenant of Grace; whereof this was one part, to work and act from what is in our ſelves. And tho by Converſion we are brought into the Covenant of Grace, yet the Principles of the Covenant of Works do mightily abide in us, and the ſecret unperceiv'd Influences thereof greatly prevail in us, and at leaſt obſtruct us and keep back our Hearts from the clear Knowledg, at leaſt Practice and Exerciſe of Goſpel-principles: although they be by Conviction entertain'd by our Judgments, yet the Principles of the Covenant of Works cleave as the Skin to our Fleſh; for they are the Law of Nature. This needs not to be largely inſiſted on.

'Tis evident enough, that corrupt Nature in Men unregenerate, but enlighten'd and endow'd with excellent ſpiritual Gifts, gratis given them, together with ſome ſupernatural Aſſiſtances vouchſafed in, and for the exerciſe of them in holy Duties; doth convert them all, both Gifts and Aſſiſtance, to its own ſelfiſh ends predominantly, and from the Strength of ſuch ends moving and acting them, they perform what they do in holy things. I need not inſiſt on this neither. But I carry up my Demonſtration higher, and deduce it from that of pure Nature in Adam afore the Fall.

1. Now Adam had firſt a Will, that was to be the free inward Mover and Author of its own Motion, and of thoſe imperate Acts his Will ſhould command to be put forth by him.

2. He had a full and perfect ſtock of Holineſs, and of Love to God, concreated with, and reſiding in his Will; poiſing it only unto what was holy.

3. He had a Concourſe (as they ſpeak) or Concurrency (which we better underſtand) of an Aid and Strength from God, giving ſufficient power to will and act what was holy and good; a poſſe ſi vellet, a power if he would act holily.

And theſe he had from God, as due by Creation, or, which is all one, by the Law of pure Nature, which it was meet God ſhould furniſh him withal: if he would create ſuch a Creature reaſonable, it was meet that then God ſhould at, and by virtue of his firſt creating him, furniſh him with all theſe; eſpecially giving withal Promiſes of Life and Threatnings of Death according to his holy actings, or the contrary. And if we ſuppoſe him not ſufficiently furniſh'd with all theſe, his Fall, or Deficiency had not been imputable, as Sin to him.

Now he that hath thoſe two firſt Principles of a Will; 1. Its being the Mover of it ſelf from within it ſelf; and 2. a compleat Holineſs ſwaying that Will only to what is holy; 3. Join'd with a power of Aſſiſtance from God, as ſhall excite the Will, and give his Will ſufficient power to act, if he will, he may and muſt be ſaid to act and will from himſelf, when he acts or wills; for the Will is his own, the Holiness he acts from and with is his own due, and in that respect natural to him by Creation-Law; and the concurrent Assistance from God, that is, so much and so far as to have power to act and to will, is no less his Creation-due likewise. And God in vouchsafing such an Assistance requisite to enable him to will, did therein no more for him in his kind; that is, according to the natural Law and due of a free-will Agent, which was to be its own Mover from within it self, unto the Act; than he did in his Concourse with each and every one of his Creatures in their actings in their kind, who keep his Ordinances to this day, through that Concourse God gives them. But Man through his Free-will, not using that Power, fell by what was purely his own. Chap. 3.

But my Scope in this recital of these three Principles, which may be stil'd Adam's own Strength, due to him by the Law of Nature, is to shew that these Principles of acting from our selves, naturally sticking in us, as κοιναι ἐννοιαι, common Principles of Nature use to do, are so prevalent, even after we have been enter'd into the Estate of Grace, and receiv'd the knowledg of Christ, that we are exceeding apt and obnoxious to those Principles still, and to be misled and misguided by them in the actings of Grace, and to go their way in seeking of Salvation; and that therefore it is no wonder if new Converts do so, when they find they have a Will that must still be the immediate Mover within it self of its own Action now when regenerate; and that by Regeneration they have a new principle also of Holiness, the very same for the bulk and matter of it that Adam was created in after the Image of God, Col. 3. 10. and find that Principle to be fitted, suted, and dispos'd agreeably to every good and holy Work; and tho when they act and have efficacious Assistance, that works the will and the deed in them, they have it all from Christ living in them, effectually working in their Hearts, beyond giving them a bare posse, power to act holily; yet this exceeding greatness of his power they discover not; and therefore, Eph. 1. the Apostle prays that the Eyes of their minds may be more and more enlighten'd, to know the exceeding greatness of his Power that works in them, whilst they act holily and spiritually, and yet conveying its Influences so hiddenly, that they are apt to think it the Efficacy of a new Nature. For they finding they are, tho supernaturally, yet secretly assisted by the Spirit in holy ways, so as to think, and to find that it is as a Nature in them, that they do it naturally with delight, &c. such is the Suitableness between their Hearts and the Duties of Holiness, when they are drawn out to them; I say, it is the less wonder that their Hearts should think they act in that manner that Adam did, from this Strength as if it were their own (tho indeed wholly receiv'd) and from themselves: or that they should attempt to act from those Principles within them, and put so much Confidence therein, so as to omit to look out for a continual renew'd Assistance from Christ, their new constituted Head. We see the like Ensnarement lies in the point of Justification. Men find they have good Works, perform holy Duties, &c. and the Scriptures term it a Righteousness; and the Principle of pure Nature in Adam having been, that he was justified by that Righteousness of, and in himself, how doth this Principle, because it is the Law of Nature, adhere and cleave to mens Souls, and caus'd Paul to be afraid of his own Righteousness, lest he should be found in it? so that it is a long time that Believers stick in those Weeds clinging about them, and obstructing them in their way of believing on Christ's Righteousness alone. But so it falls out, that when they have through long and often Renunciation of their own, and wonted endear'd Embracements of Christ's Righteousness alone, got free of that Intanglement, they yet remain longer incumber'd and obstructed in this other I treat of, of acting in their own Strength. And as in a Tree that is to be pull'd up by the roots, after that some greater Roots, whereby it was naturally fastned in the Earth, are loosened and cut, yet it will stick still by some other lesser Fibres, smaller Strings that have no less hold fast than those other had; even so it is here. And till all whereby we cleave to old Adam's state be broke, which is long a doing by degrees, we are not grown up into that Compleatness in Christ which we ought to have, and which Union with Christ affordeth. And although I dare not say, the Holy Ghost may not secretly act them efficaciously beyond these Principles, whilst they discern it not, and so help them to overcome; and that the acts of Holiness, which the Holy Ghost

Chap. 3. draws forth of them, according to theſe Principles, may not be acceptable to God; being in reality and truth from the Image of Chriſt, wrought in them by Chriſt; and Chriſt effectually working in them, though they have not the cogniſance of it, nor recourſe to him for it; as hath been the caſe of many true Profeſſors: yet ſtill there is this wanting to make them ſtrong indeed, to act ſteadily and conſtantly.

And this hath been the caſe of many true Profeſſors at firſt for ſome time. and was of the Apoſtle Peter; till by the woful Experience of ſo dreadful a Fall, he ſaw his own utter dependancy on Chriſt, as without whom he could do nothing, and therefore was to abide in him: as Chriſt in his laſt Sermons a little before had inſtructed him, which he then underſtood not. And his Sin lay not in this, that he had not a true and real Reſolution at that preſent time never to forſake his Maſter; (yea, to me it ſeems certain, that it was a Reſolution ſprung from out of true Grace, and cleaving to Chriſt at that time, and drawn forth by the Spirit, and it was not feign'd: And take that purpoſe of his abſtractedly conſider'd, and it was acceptable ſo far) But his Sin lay, 1. In that he diſcern'd not that it was Chriſt and his Spirit, who was the Author thereof at that preſent, and was to be the Maintainer of it and Finiſher of it in him; and ought to have, in the ſenſe of his own Inſufficiency, pray'd as David did for the People, 1 Chron. 29. 18. Keep, O Lord, this purpoſe in the Heart of thy Servants. 2. His Sin lay in the Confidence he had for the future, or time to come, that he ſhould ever retain that Spirit; whereas a Man is no further holy, than at the inſtant God makes him ſo to be. 3. In vain boaſting of his preſent Strength, comparatively to all others; If all Men forſake thee, yet not I: and for this cauſe Chriſt let him fall with this reſerve, praying his Faith might not fail; that he might learn what Paul did in another caſe, not to truſt in himſelf, but in Chriſt to ſtrengthen him. And in like manner thus it is and hath been with many Profeſſors, till in the end through Experience of their own Inability, they come to ſee and know what it is to have Chriſt a ſupernatural Head to them as Members, for Motion, and a ſpiritual Root to them as Branches; and thus as Branches to bring forth Fruit in and by him, Phil. 1. and in him all their Fruit is to be found, and therefore Juice, and Sap, and Strength to bring forth, is to be fetcht from him. And that therefore they in ſpiritual Actings are to walk in an habitual Self-emptineſs, and a daily Renunciation of this active Power of their Wills, as ſtrengthned by inherent Grace alone, though wrought in them by Chriſt; and ſtill to be ſaying within themſelves, that which Iſaiah propheſied of, One ſhall ſay, In the Lord have I Strength, Iſa. 45. and ſenſibly to acknowledg, that that Power that is in Chriſt as their Head, united to them, muſt give the effectual caſting ſtroke in holy Actings, and carry on the Will to them with Power. And this is the Strength the Apoſtle Paul, Phil. 4. and John here ſpeak of; which Chriſtians, till grown and beaten out of Self-confidence in their Wills and inherent Grace, do not learn ſufficiently, and for want of this they come ſo much to fall, as Peter did; God having pronounc'd that in his own Strength no Man ſhall prevail. Now the Experience of the Saints failings, through the want of theſe things, as alſo on the contrary, the Experience poſitive, that when they are weak in reſpect of their own Strength, Chriſt's power doth reſt upon them; theſe two Experiments, beſides other Leſſons given them by Chriſt in time, cauſe middle-ag'd Chriſtians to live in a greater dependance upon Chriſt's Strength to be communicated, as without whom they find they can do nothing; and that all their Fruit is found in him. And this, I ſay, caus'd the Apoſtle here in both reſpects, whether of habitual Grace, or aſſiſting efficacious acting Grace, to ſay of them, Ye are ſtrong.

For 'tis a certain truth, that the more we walk in a conſtant ſenſe of our own Weakneſs, and Dependance and waiting for Chriſt's ſtrength to be put forth in us, the more ſtrong we are: not in our ſelves, but as the Coneys are in their Rock, as Solomon ſays. And this juſtly and deſervedly is to be ſaid, in compariſon of Babes, who like young Boys, in fighting with their Fellows, have more eagerneſs and ſtomach, but find themſelves weak, and eaſily overcome: whereas to ſay in our Hearts, as David did againſt Goliah, I come againſt thee in the Name of the Lord of Hoſts, confirms our Strength.

Anſw. 3. God vouchſafes occaſional Helps and Aſſiſtances, according as our Temptations do grow and increaſe; according to the rule of Paul the Apoſtle, that as his Diſtreſſes abounded, ſo his Conſolations abounded alſo. And this proves true in Temptations to Sin, our greateſt Sufferings, as well as in any other. Now God having (as the Doctrine was) allotted Temptations greater to middle-ag'd Chriſtians, than unto Babes; hence he is graciouſly pleas'd in the end and iſſue, to afford Strength to overcome: and in the view of this, the Apoſtle might deſervedly ſay of them rather, Ye are ſtrong.

CHAP. I.

Of the Bleſſedneſs of a Dying Believer.

Revelations, XIV. xiii.

And I heard a Voice from Heaven ſaying; Write, Bleſſed are the Dead which Die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, ſaith the Spirit, that they may Reſt from their Labours, and their Works do follow them.

MY deſign is to Diſcourſe from this Text concerning Death, which is the ſhooting the Gulph into the ſeparate State of Souls.

1. It is apparent from the Words immediately preceeding, that the Seaſon, and ſo the Occaſion of theſe, was an imminent Danger of Saints ſuffering unto Death; and all other Perſecutions accompanying the keeping the Commandments of God, and the Faith of Jeſus. This is pointed at as with the Finger, and that Twice in that 12th Verſe. Here (ſays he) are they that keep the Commandments of God, and the Faith of Jeſus. That Particle Here in hiſtorical Narration, is ſet to Note out the Time, when ſome obſervable Thing fell out, as well as it doth a Place; wherein Piſcator gloſſeth upon that Word thus, in hac parte Prophetiæ; for an hiſtorical Propheſie began a New at the 12th Chapter; which from thence goeth over all Times, viz. from the Primitive, till the Day of Judgment. And this Particle Here, accordingly Points at ſome ſpecial Succeſſion, and Occurrent that falls out in a particular Time; as a Time wherein there would be extraordinary Trials of the Patience of Saints to the utmoſt; the Word Patience by a Metonimy, ſignifying the Objects, or Matters of the Exerciſe of Patience; the Particle Here likewiſe, Points at ſuch ſad Occurrences to fall out at that Time, as would try every Vein of their Hearts, who kept the Commands of God; and alſo Denotes, that Chap. I. God would then Vouchſafe ſuch Meaſures of Patience to his People, as ſhould be ſignally Eminent, and Singular; and deſerving this Remark, Here is the Patience.

If you be deſirous to know the Time wherein theſe things are to fall out, look back to, and Compare herewith, another Paſſage in the 13th Chapter foregoing: Wherein you have at once an entire Scheme, or Repreſentation of the Riſe, Power and Cruelty of Chriſtian Rome, when turned Antichriſtian; and of her Followers and Adherents. And there you find a Note of Animadverſion inſerted, ver. 10. He that leadeth into Captivity, ſhall go into Captivity; he that killeth with the Sword, muſt be killed with the Sword; here is the Patience and Faith of the Saints. And ſuitably to this next enſuing 14th Chapter, there is given another like entire Map, and Repreſentation of an oppoſite Company that followed the Lamb, in a Succeſſion all along Contemporary with the Times of that Beaſts Reign; and of his Aſſociates. And you find in the middle Part of that Story there, the ſame Reflections for Subſtance, that are here given, and there firſt uttered; and here in the appointed Time marked out, when Death, and all Cruelties were to be Executed on theſe Saints. It is again repeated here in ver. 12. of this Chapter; as that which occaſioned theſe Words of my Text, in ver. 13. where you find Death, and Dying alſo ſpoken of; anſwerably to their being killed in that Paſſage of the former Chapter. So then, we know where we are; and the Perſons whom the Words concern: And withal a punctual Deſignation of the Time; all which the 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, verſes, do inſtruct us in; teaching us to reckon from the beginning of the breaking forth of the Light of the Everlaſting Goſpel, in the heighth of Antichriſtian Darkneſs that went afore, Preach'd by Three Angels, each after other; Age after Age; and more clearly the latter, then the foregoing, diſcovering Rome to be Babylon; and ordained to Ruine: And crying Louder, and Louder againſt their Idolatries; and calling upon Men to worſhip God alone: And alſo detecting their unwritten Traditions; which they had mingled with the Goſpel. All which you may obſerve to be apparently reflected upon, in thoſe Verſes 7, 8, 9, 10, 11. And I ſaw another Angel flie in the midſt of Heaven, having the Everlaſting Goſpel to Preach to them that dwell on the Earth; and to every Nation, and Kindred, and Tongue, and People: Saying with a loud Voice, Fear God, and give Glory to Him; for the Hour of his Judgment is come: And Worſhip him that made Heaven, and Earth, and Sea; and the Fountains of Waters. And there followed another Angel, ſaying, Babylon is fallen, is fallen; that great City: Becauſe ſhe made all Nations drink of the Wrath of her Fornications. And the Third Angel followed them, ſaying, with a loud Voice; if any Man worſhip the Beaſt, and his Image; and receive his Mark in his Fore-Head, or in his Hand: The ſame ſhall drink of the Wine of the Wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture, into the Cup of his Indignation: And he ſhall be tormented with Fire, and Brimſtone, in the Preſence of the Holy Angels; and in the Preſence of the Lamb: And the ſmoak of their Torment aſcendeth up for ever, and ever: And they have no reſt Day, nor Night, who worſhip the Beaſt, and his Image; and whoſoever receiveth the Mark of his Name. And the Notice of this, as the ſpecial Seaſon will conduce towards the underſtanding ſome Things of Moment in the Text; as you will more clearly diſcern when I come to open that Word Henceforth, in the Text. This for the Seaſon, and Occaſion.

2. The Scope, and Ultimate Deſign of the Words was to Comfort, Hearten, and Strengthen thoſe Saints in their ſuffering Death; when any of them ſhould be called thereunto; for Chriſt. And as to Comfort, ſo withal to Direct, and Excite them, that in their Dying for the Lord, and his Cauſe; they ſhould eſpecially look to this, to Die in the Lord. And that alſo all other Saints, who were Expectants of Death every Moment ſhould Live as Dying Men; and put, and keep their Spirits into a Poſture of Dying daily; as thoſe that might be hurried to Death, they know not how ſoon: And therefore ought to be daily in the continual Exerciſe of Faith in the Lord Chriſt. And though it might be their Lot to Die in their Beds a natural Death, yet they ſhould ſee to it; that they exert and put forth all ſorts of Dying Graces, whereby to glorifie Chriſt their Lord and God in their Hearts in their Dying; to the utmoſt they were able: As much as poſſible, as if they were Dying at a Stake for Chriſt.

3. The Subſtance of the Matter it ſelf ſpoken, ſufficiently ſheweth this to be the Scope of the Words. Bleſſed are the Dead (ſays he) that Die in the Lord, &c. Which Matter is ſummarily reſolved into theſe Three Things.

1. That there is a State of full, and perfect Bleſſedneſs to be entred into, and poſſeſſed by the Souls of Saints, as ſoon as they are Dead; which is the Mind of that firſt Saying, Bleſſed are the Dead. Which Bleſſedneſs is further amplified in the latter Clauſe, becauſe they then ſhall Reſt from their Labours; and their Works follow them. Unto which the Voice from Heaven ſuperadds, a pronouncing them Bleſſed that Die in the Lord: That is, that Die in a lively Faith, and ſtedfaſt Hope in the Lord.

2. That this might be effected in the Hearts and Spirits of Dying Believers; and thereby that full Bleſſedneſs, promiſed in the firſt Saying, attained; and Believers Hearts eſtabliſhed in it: The Holy Spirit hath paſſed a Promiſe of his own, to make it good in thoſe ſuffering Times; and from thenceforth to bleſs Multitudes of his Dying Saints ſo to Die in Faith, and Hope, and the Exerciſe of other Dying Graces. Yea, ſaith the Spirit. Which I take to be an Engagement, and further Promiſe of the Comforter himſelf; undertaking more than ordinarily to accompliſh in Believers Hearts, what the Voice had ſpoken, teſtifying to the Truth of it; and engaging his Word to ſee it performed.

3. With all theſe, take in the Importance of that ſmall Word, from henceforth: As denoting a ſpecial Priviledge of ſuffering Saints, in thoſe perſecuting bloody Times: And ſo running along thorough the ſucceeding Goſpel Times downwards.

All theſe Things mixt together with, and digeſted by Faith; having been ſpoken, and thus ſpoken: 1. By an immediate Voice from Heaven. 2. Commanded to be regiſtred into the Sacred Canon. And, 3. Atteſted over and beſides, by a Perſonal Warrant of the Holy Ghoſt, may perhaps be eſteemed as one of the ſtrongeſt, and moſt ſpiritful Cordials, that ever was Compounded for Men that are a Dying; or that live in a continual Expectation of Death, they know not how ſoon. And perhaps it may come to be ſo valued by thoſe, if not in this, yet in following Generations; whom the Efficacy of this following Word [from henceforth] takes hold of, it reaching, and extending to the end of the World, and for ever, for our Comfort; (if we would apprehend it:) But for certain unto theirs upon whom the latter Ends of the World are a coming: In which the Light of the Everlaſting Goſpel will grow. So as what the Apoſtle ſays upon his own having Diſcourſed of the Reſurrection, and Glory that follows thereupon; in 1 Theſ. 4. Comfort one another with theſe Words: The ſame you may Write upon this Alabaſter Box of Cordial; the Outſcription on it; Comfort for dying Saints. And the pretious Ingredients within do ſpeak it. 'Tis no wonder then, that this Voice from Heaven ſhould ſo ſolemnly Command the recording of this Saying: The Voice ſaid unto me, Write: Which puts a ſingular Remark of Honour upon it, in that this ſingle Paſſage ſhould have ſo particular a Command concerning it, to write it: Whereas in Cap. 1. 11. at the Entrance of this whole Revelation, there had been a general Command, WRITE, once for All: And by Vertue of that Command it was, he ſtill did write what he ſaw, or heard revealed to him; unleſs once when he was forbidden to Write, Chap. 10. 11. But this, and none but Two more other, have ſuch an indigitated redoubled Command for them. And the one of them is the Invitation of the Lambs Bride to her Marriage with Chriſt: Rev. 19. 9. And he ſaith unto me, WRITE, Bleſſed are they which are called unto the Marriage-Supper of the Lamb. And he ſaith unto me, theſe are the true Sayings of God. And the other is, when the Marriage is Conſummated, Rev. 21. 5. And read with them the Verſes afore, and after; for they contain the Sayings he was to Write, ver. 3, 4. And I heard a great Voice out of Heaven, ſaying, Behold the Tabernacle of God is with Men, and he will dwell with them; and they ſhall be his People, and God himſelf ſhall be with them, and be their God: And God ſhall wipe away all Tears from their Eyes, and there ſhall be no more

Chap. I.

Death; neither Sorrow, nor Crying; neither ſhall there be any more Pain; for the former Things are paſſed away. Then ver. 6, 7. And he ſaid unto me, it is done; I am Alpha and Omega; the Beginning, and the End; I will give unto him that is a thirſt, of the Fountain of the Water of Life freely. He that overcometh ſhall inherit all Things; and I will be his God, and he ſhall be my Son. This is the Bleſſedneſs of the New Hieruſalem, which John ſaw come down from Heaven, ver. 2. And I John ſaw the Holy City, the New Jeruſalem, coming down from God out of Heaven, prepared as a Bride adorned for Her Husband. And this in my Text is the Bleſſedneſs of Souls ſeparate, who in the mean while, go to Heaven: Both are proclaimed by a Voice from Heaven: And I believe it is the Voice of God Himſelf, that ſits upon the Throne, that uttereth both. And if, of the whole Scripture it be ſaid, That whatever was written, was written that we thorough the Scriptures might have Hope; as Rom. 15. Then ſurely this ſingle Piece the Words of my Text (which is commanded to be Written) above many other Scriptures; for over and beſides its coming from Heaven immediately, it hath alſo the Broad-Seal of the grand Witneſs on Earth, The Spirit, (1 John 5.) ſet to it; after it is Written, and Spoken; Yea, ſaith the Spirit, &c. And it ſo directly, and ſolemnly ſpeaking to the Point of Bleſſedneſs in Heaven, to be preſently enjoied by dying Souls; muſt needs be intended to give us Hope, the Hope of all Hopes; That Bleſſed Hope, Tit. 2.

OBSERVATION.

That for dying Saints to have their Souls enabled to exerciſe Faith, and Hope on the Lord Chriſt in the Hour of Death, is a ſingular, and ſuperadded Bleſſing over and above that of being Bleſſed in Heaven.

Bleſſed are the Dead, that is the common Inheritance of the Saints in Light: But Bleſſed are thoſe that Die in the Lord, is an additional Priviledge. Even as to believe is a Gift common to all Saints, but to you (ſays the Apoſtle to the Philippians, Phil. 1. 29.) is given not only to Believe, but to Suffer: And yet to Believe is far the greater Gift of the Two, for in that is our Salvation, and it is abſolutely neceſſary thereunto: But ſo is not Suffering, for a Saint may be ſav'd without it, tho' not without Believing. Yet in that Manner, and upon the ſame Account that the Apoſtle magnifies Suffering, when added to Believing, and that it is a farther ſpecial Priviledge, over and above Believing, ſo it is here in this Caſe of the Bleſſedneſs of a Believer, who dieth in the Lord. I do not ſay, that to Die in the Lord, is in it ſelf a greater Bleſſing, than the Glory that follows in Heaven: Or that no Saint comes to enjoy the Bleſſedneſs of Heaven, unleſs he Dies in the full Exerciſe of Faith. There are many Caſes fall out to the contrary, and it may in that reſpect ſerve as a Relief, that the Bleſſedneſs of Heaven is ſpoken of, as diſtinct from this of Dying in the Lord. But yet ſtill, it is a Bleſſing in it ſelf alone conſider'd, to whomever it is vouchſaf'd, and it is a Bleſſing over and beſides that of Heaven. And we may Comfort ſuch a Saint, ſo Dying, with this Thought, that God hath given him not only to enter into Heaven, when he Dies, but hath bleſs'd him in his Dying with a lively Faith, and ſtedfaſt Hope in the Lord Jeſus.

1. It is a great Bleſſing comparatively to the Caſe of many other Saints in Dying, whoſe happy Lot it is not to have ſuch vigorous actings of Faith, and Hope at that Hour. And therefore ſuch Dying in the Lord, is pronounced as a Bleſſedneſs in the Second Place, after the declar'd Bleſſedneſs of all Believers, who Die in a State of Salvation, and as Additional to it.

2. It is a Martyrs Bleſſing, who are the Eldeſt Sons of Bleſſedneſs among all the Sons of Adoption, and unto them it is generally vouchſaf'd. The Deſign of this Voice from Heaven (Rev. 14. 13.) is to ſpeak unto Martyrs, and to Comfort, Encourage, and Direct them in their Dying, and to make a Promiſe to them of their being extraordinarily Bleſſed in the moſt violent, and torturing Death. And to bring a Chriſtians Heart (eſpecially in Time of youthful, or manly Years) to be chearfully willing to Die in the ordinary Way, there is need need of great Supplies of the Spirit: And the Apostle had great expectation of them, whether he lived or died, Phil. 1. 19, 20. And therefore, to be in any measure assisted at such a Moment, is a special and singular Blessing to a Man. But to have Faith Overcoming Unbelief, and Triumphant in the Victory, and to have the whole Soul filled with Joy unspeakable and full of Glory; not only to hold his Trust and Confidence in Christ to the End, (Heb. 3. 14.) so as to Die Quietly and Composedly, having his Heart stay'd on the Lord Jesus, as knowing on whom he hath believed; but to be fill'd with all Joy and Peace in Believing, and to Abound in Hope, (Rom. 15. 13.) this is a Martyrs Priviledge and Portion. And now then, for any Christian to have a Martyrs Confidence, and Joys, without a Martyrs Sufferings: How inestimable a Blessing must this be?

Chap. I.

3. The Soul is Bless'd who dies in the Lord, because in that very Hour Christ admits him into the actual Possession of the Eternal Inheritance, which he had purchased; it was this Reception which Stephen pray'd for, Acts 7. 59. Lord Jesus receive my Spirit. And he not only receives it into his own Bosom, but he brings it to God, and Presents it to him with a Joy infinitely more Abounding, then can be in us. So that then it is, that Christ is Glorified, and Rejoiceth in us; and so we may be said rather to Die to the Lord and his Interest, then to our selves. And therefore,

4. The Believer is Blessed who Dies in the Lord; that is, who Dies in the lively Exercise of Faith and Hope; because Christ is Infinitely more Glorified upon us by such our Dying, then ever he was in our whole Lives. We do not only then take up from him a New Estate, and are remov'd into it, and as truly admitted by him, as our Gracious Lord, unto that Eternal House Above, not made with Hands, as ever any Tenant is admitted by the Lord of the Mannor: But, He then makes us compleatly Qualified for our New Glorious Habitation. He consumes all our Lusts, and makes our Spirits perfect, and perfectly meet for the Eternal Inheritance; 2 Cor. 5. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5.

5. The Believer is Blessed who Dies in the Lord, because he hath the Spirit to support him in that Hour which would otherwise be Dark and Gloomy. The Spirit was given us for that Hour, as a Friend is said to be Born for Adversity, Prov. 17. 17. And certainly He who was given for a Comforter to thee all thy Life-long, and hath delivered thee out of all thy Distresses and Fears, will certainly carry thee through this: And though thy Heart should for a while fail thee together with thy Flesh, yet God and His Spirit will not fail thee, Psal. 73. 26. And truly, the Interest of the Spirits own Glory, (besides that He is that good Spirit to do good to us) His Interest I say moved him. No Merchant more rejoiced to bring his Adventure home into the Haven, after he had carried the same safe through so many Storms, than the Spirit doth rejoice to bring a Soul He hath Wrought upon, and who was committed to his Trust safe to Heaven: If a Christian be but reproached for the Name of Christ, happy are you; for the Spirit of Glory and of God resteth upon you, (1 Pet. 4. 14.) that is, the Spirit of God becomes a Spirit of Glory upon them, and in them, viz. as he inables them to bear it with a Glorious Joy, surpassing what the Greatness and Heroicknes of a natural Spirit would do: Yea, exceeding that extraordinary Assistance the same Spirit gives upon other Occasions to the same Persons. And thus the Spirit of Glory rests upon the Soul of a dying Believer, and this is made good in many Believers with Joy at their Death; and yet it is more ordinarily seen, in supporting at the least the Spirits of all; and in giving supplies of the Spirit to the most, as the Apostles Word is, Phil. 1. 9 And he speaks it in relation to Death as well as Life, as will appear by comparing, ver. 20, 21.

Use I. Let us look to it, that we Die so as to be Blessed, that we Die in the Lord. To Die is a Business no Man doth but once, and is a Business of the greatest Moment of any, we ever performed; and therefore, to be directed and assisted in it, is answerably a great Blessedness. If we miscarry, and fail much in some Acts that are of great Consequence in our Lives, (as who hath not done) yet we relieve our selves with this Thought, that we hope to be more assisted, and to do better at other times in our following Course. And oftentimes times Errors in our Lives, are Sanctified by the Spirit to be a good Warning, and Provocative to do better afterward. But if we miſcarry in Dying, we ſhall never have an Opportunity to amend the Fault. If we were indeed to revive, and Die a Second time, the Error might be rectified and repaired; but alas! It is appointed for all Men but once to Die; and therefore to Tranſact that well, muſt needs be a Bleſſing indeed.

Uſe II. Let us regard it as the End, and the laſt Act which will finiſh the whole. Let us regard it as the Concluſion, that ſhuts up the Story of our Days paſt, and through which we enter upon Eternity. Let us regard it as the Centre of all the Promiſes, that are made to us for this Life, in diſtinction from the Life to come. Let us look on it as the Point, whereon we ſtand, between the Life we have paſs'd, and that other we are entring into. It is the End that Crowns all, which is foregone in doing well; yea, dying in the Lord is the Crown of Perſeverance. That and Converſion, are the two greateſt Bleſſings; and as the one is the Alpha, ſo the other is the Omega. Converſion puts us into Chriſt; but Death, and holding our Confidence to the End poſſeſſeth us of Chriſt, Heb. 3. 14. For we are made partakers of Chriſt, if we hold the beginning of our Confidence ſtedfaſt unto the End.

CHAP. II.

That the Soul of a Believer doth not Sleep, or is not in a State of Inactivity till the Reſurrection.

John II. xxv, xxvi.

Ver. xxv, Jeſus ſaid unto her, I am the Reſurrection and the Life; he that Believeth in Me, though he were Dead, yet ſhall he Live.

Ver. xxvi. And whoſoever Liveth and Believeth in Me, ſhall never Die: Believeſt thou this?

THERE is no Truth but hath in this Age, amongſt us, been either Controverted, Contradicted or Queſtioned: And, among others, that great Fundamental One, Concerning the Active Life, and Glorified State of a Believing Soul after Death. Some ſaying, it periſheth until the Reſurrection; others, that it liveth not a Life worthy of the Name of a Life, nor of ſo much Activity as it hath now by Faith; but tantum non, or in Effect in a State A-kin to Death: It ſleepeth all the time, until the Day of the Reſurrection, when it is awakened with the Body. And this they Argue upon occaſion of thoſe Speeches in Scripture, of the Saints ſleeping. Now our Lord and Saviour hath, upon occaſion of Lazarus his Death, and his then preſent State after Death; and alſo in relation to his Reſurrection, which Chriſt meant to effect afore their Eyes; uttered ſomething home unto this Point.

Firſt, Chriſt Himſelf had termed his Death a Sleep; ver. 11. for ver. 13. It is Interpreted by John to be ſpoken of his Death. Now, then in Chriſt's Senſe, to Sleep and to Die is manifeſtly all one; the one being a Metaphorical or Similitudinary Expreſſion; the other a Literal, Plain, Real Expreſſion, of one and the ſame thing; which is manifeſtly what is ſaid, ver. 14. Jeſus ſaid plainly to them, Lazarus is Dead. Inſomuch as Death is in plain Terms, the ſame that Sleeping was in the Metaphor, which he was occaſioned thus plainly to Expreſs; becauſe they, his Diſciples, Dream'd of no other Sleeping as meant by our Lord, then of one who is ſtill alive, and takes bodily Reſt; as appears by

ver. 12, 13. Then said his Disciples, Lord, if he Sleep, he shall do well: Howbeit, Jesus spake of his Death; but they thought that he had spoken of taking rest in Sleep. Hence in Christs Intention, that part of Lazarus only, that is, his Body, which plainly Died; that only is said Metaphorically to Sleep: And so Lazarus is said to Sleep, as in respect thereof only. So as those that will affirm the Souls of Just Men to Sleep, must affirm that in plain Terms, their Souls do also Die: For Christ, (who began that Expression, which the Apostles after Him used;) intended both to be one, and the same; and so Lazarus his Sleep to be really a Death: And therefore both the one, and the other, were intended but of, and in respect of the Body; unless they will affirm that Souls do Die.

Now our Saviour Christ further, to vindicate his meaning for such a Sence as I have assign'd; doth at the 25th verse affirm Two Things of himself, and correspondently Two Things of us Believers, by Vertue of our Union with Him; that are Members of Him. 1. Says He, I am the Resurrection. And, 2. The Life. Both which he speaks of what He will be effectively to us; as elsewhere John 14. 19. He speaks, Because I live, ye shall live also. And from these Two, Christ draws two distinct Assertions, concerning us.

1. The First concerning the Resurrection: He that believeth in me, though he were Dead, yet shall he Live. So as if ye should suppose both Body, and Soul Dead; yet I must not lose them says Christ; but raise them up: And so what ever of them, any may suppose to Die; (as the Body doth,) I will be sure to raise it up, for I am the Resurrection.

2. But then Secondly, Christ assures you, and delivers it for a certain Truth; that the Noble, Chief Part of every Believer; and which is indeed Himself, doth never Die; after his Believing: So it follows, And whosoever liveth, and believeth on me, shall never Die. That Life which he had by Believing, which is his proper Life; he shall never loose: Nor shall that Life ever Cease, or Sleep: Even as Christs own Life doth not, nor shall not; For I am the Life, (says he) a continual Principle, and Fountain of Life; that never ceaseth communicating Life, unto those that are mine: I am the Life, as to mine own Soul, so to His; and therefore there is that in Him shall never Die, and therefore not Sleep; (for in Christ's Sence, Sleeping is one and the same with Death;) and that is his Soul: And again at the Latter Day, it is not his Soul that is raised up, as it was not his Soul that Slept; or Died; but his Body only; or the Man in respect of the Body: And further it is said of Christ, that he now lives a more glorious Life then when on Earth (as in Rom. 6. 10. it is said of Christs Life, after his Death; In that he lives, He lives unto God;) and that likewise we are to reckon our selves alive unto God, thorough Jesus Christ our Lord; that is, to be for ever alive unto God as He was: For He is the Life, and the Pattern of the Life; and so there shall be no Cessation of it; as there was not in his Soul, in, or upon his Death.

And this says Christ, as it is a certain Truth in it self; so likewise so necessary a Truth for you that are Believers, that I would have you put it into your Creed, Believest thou this; (says He to Mary;) and accordingly it was put into the Creed of all Believers, by the Primitive Saints. The Resurrection of the Body, they limited only to the Body; and so Death, and Sleeping to the Body only; but as to express the State of the Soul, they added Life Everlasting: Amen.

So then, this is the Result; That a Believer, in respect of his Soul, doth continue to Live, after Death, a Life of Activity, and Blessedness; and never Dies, nor Sleeps. Christ pronounceth it in Lazarus his Case, whilst as yet Dead; as a distinct Thing from his Resurrection: and speaks so, not in respect of any new Life at the Resurrection. And indeed seeing that by Death, Faith is done away (1 Cor. 13.) that which is Perfect comes in the room of it; and then for certain the Soul is not in a worse Case; enjoies not a lower Life to be sure, after Death; but is made perfect with that, which is the Perfection of Faith; and therefore with a Life that is far more Perfect then that of Faith;

for the Spirits of Juſt Men are then made Perfect; and this of Life, Faith is ſtiled but imperfect, and therefore done away.

CHAP. III.

That the Souls of Believers immediately after their Separation from the Body, Live an Happy Life in the Enjoyment of God, Prov'd from the Account, which we have of the State of dying Saints both in the Old, and New Teſtament.

Diſcourſe of the Creatures, and the Condition of their State by Creation. Book 2. Ch. 11. in Vol. 2. of his Works.

OF the Glory of the Body after the Reſurrection, I have Diſcourſed largely in another Treatiſe: The Deſign of my preſent Diſcourſe, is to prove that the Souls of dying Saints do live a Life of perfect Holineſs, and Bleſſedneſs in the Enjoyment of God, and Chriſt in the Heavens, until the Reſurrection.

1. It is a Life.
2. It is a Life of Perfect Holineſs.
3. It is a Life of Bleſſedneſs in the Enjoyment of God.
4. It is a Life of the Saints living in a Company together.
5. As for the Place, it is in the Heavens.

No one Proof will comprehend all, and each; but one will ariſe out of one Proof, another out of another. Neither will I range the Proofs to the Method of theſe Particulars as Heads, but rather go over the Scriptures from Firſt to Laſt, which opened, you will ſometimes ſee one of theſe Particulars ariſe; ſometimes another, and out of the whole each, and all of theſe.

1. I ſhall concerning this Eſtate, produce Proofs out of the Old Teſtament.
2. Out of the New.

In the Old Teſtament, I ſhall Inſtance only in Abraham, becauſe it will carry the Condition of All other Believers of the Old Teſtament with it; he being the Father, and ſo the Pattern of all the Faithful.

I obſerve, that Chriſt and the Apoſtles affected (if I may ſo ſpeak) to Uſe the Inſtance of him to prove the greateſt Foundations of Religion. Chriſt uſed it to prove the Reſurrection and the Souls Immortality againſt the Sadduces, who denied both; Mat. 22. 32. Have you not read, that which was ſpoken by God to you, I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob. God is not the God of the Dead, but of the Living. And the Inſtance of Abraham is alſo alledged by Paul in the Point of Juſtification; by James for Sanctification: In like Manner our Divines have had their firſt Recourſe to Abrahams Caſe, to prove this State of Bleſſedneſs to the Souls of Men, that Die in the Faith immediately after their Death. It is evident, that God Preach'd to him the Foundations of the Goſpel in plain and real Terms: And ſo it falls out, that in one and the ſame Chapter (namely, Gen. 15.) God delivers to him.

1. The Great and Fundamental Point of Juſtification by Faith; and that by Imputation, then which the Goſpel knows no higher. So ver. 6. And he believed in the Lord, and it was counted or imputed to him for Righteouſneſs: Which Paul invincibly urgeth in Two Epiſtles.

2. And Secondly, What Heaven is, and wherein Mans Happineſs conſiſts. He declares it plainly, Gen. 15. 1. I my ſelf am thy ſhield, that is, in this Life, and thy exceeding great Reward, after this Life ended. For Reward is after the finiſhing of Work; and therefore having ſaid before, Walk before me, and be Upright. What is this Reward, but the Bleſſedneſs of Heaven without

Types

Types or Metaphors, nakedly, and in the Substance and Quintessence of it expressed. Christ himself (of whom, and for whom the 16th Psalm was professedly Penned) says no other, nor no more of it, Psalm 16. 5, 6. The Lord is the Portion of mine Inheritance, &c. For the Joy of which was set afore him, it was, that he laid down his Life, endured his Cross, and his Heart was glad, and his Flesh did rest in Hope, as in the Psalm it suitably follows verse 9. For in thy Presence is fulness of Joy, at thy Right Hand there are Pleasures for evermore, ver. 11. all in God alone.

3. Thirdly, God takes in the same Chapter a fit Occasion to acquaint him for his Comfort, what the Condition of his Soul should be, Thou shalt go to thy Fathers in Peace, thou shalt be buried in a good Old Age.

Now the making forth, of the Happy State of his Soul after Death (then to have God his exceeding great Reward) as also of the rest of the Souls of Just Men in the whole Old Testament, is absolved in these Four Particulars.

1. By a more narrow Consideration of the Coherence of these Words, as here they stand circumstantiated with those Observations, which the New Testament makes upon these Words afore and after. The Promise to Abraham was made in a Vision given him, and is circumstantiated afore and after with the Promises of Canaan to his Seed after the Fourth Generation. And also that Nation, whom they shall serve, will I judge; and afterwards they shall come out with great Substance. And thou shalt go to thy Fathers in Peace; thou shalt be buried in a good Old Age. But in the Fourth Generation they shall come hither again, for the Iniquity of the Amorites is not yet full. And Stephen plainly commenting on these very Words (Acts 7. 5, 6, 7.) takes Notice, that as for Abraham himself, God gave him none Inheritance in it, no not to set his Foot on; yet he promised that he would give it to him for a Possession, and to his Seed after him, when as yet he had no Child. And God spake on this wise, that his Seed should Sojourn in a strange Land, and that they should bring them into Bondage, and intreat them Evil Four Hundred Years, ver. 5, 6. Which is the Summ of these very Verses in Genesis. And Paul, afterwards further opening the Mystery of this, shews, That God would thereby signifie, that he meant and intended him, and those succeeding Patriarchs Isaac and Jacob, a far better State and Condition, expressed by Country or City fill'd with Inhabitants, which in the mean Time was to be enjoied by them, seeing that they to whom the Promises were first made did not yet possess Canaan, but their Seed. So Heb. 11. 9, 10. ver. 9. By Faith (Abraham) sojourned in the Land of Promise [as in a strange Countrey] (observe that) dwelling in Tabernacles with Isaac and Jacob, the Heirs with him of the same Promise. For he looked for a City, which hath Foundations, whose Builder and Maker is God. And ver. 13. These all died in Faith, not having received the Promises, and confessed that they were Strangers and Pilgrims on the Earth. For they which say such Things, declare plainly (observe that) that they seek a Country. It is evidenced by this, that they, to whom the Promise of Canaan was first made fell short thereof, ver. 16. But now that is upon this Declaration of Gods, that they should not possess Canaan, it was that they desire a better Country, that is an Heavenly. The meaning is, it was shewed hereby, that their Expectations were diverted and pitched by God on a State of Blessedness in Heaven in the Enjoyment of God. For it follows, God is not ashamed to be called their God, according to that elsewhere, I am the God of Abraham, &c. And here it is said, I am thy exceeding great Reward. Which Speeches of God were greater Words then the Promise of Canaan, and God should have been ashamed to have spoken these Things, if he should have disappointed them of the Promise of Canaan, and given that to their Seed after them, and if he had not reserved some greater, and more excellent Thing in the mean Time to be possessed by them, which was worthy of that Title, I am the God of Abraham, &c. Yea, their Seed should have been in a far better Condition then they, if they must have stayed for that Heavenly Country, till the general Resurrection; for then these to whom the Promises were first and chiefly given, would have had far the worst of it in Comparison of their Seed. For their Seed should have possessed the Land, and yet have as soon been poſſeſſed of the Glory of the Reſurrection as Abraham and Iſaac were. Then obſerve, how in the Entrance to this Paragraph, Heb. 11. v. 13. there is this Clauſe theſe all dyed in Faith. Why is that ſo ſpecially put in? For it had been ſaid, that whilſt they lived, they had profeſſed, that they ſought, another Country, and deſired an Heavenly, *v.*14.16. But over and above you ſee, 'tis added, They dyed in the Faith; becauſe, upon their Deaths it was, that God Promiſed their Entrance into that Heavenly Country, and they accordingly in dying believed to Enjoy it; which they had here ſeen afar off, but by Faith, and purſued after but by deſires.

Now to return again to Geneſis the 15.15. After God had declared Himſelf His exceeding Reward, and declared him juſtified from all Sins, and gave forth, that not he but his Seed ſhould poſſeſs Canaan; then to quiet him, he declares what ſhould be his State after Death, that ſo he might Die in the Faith thereof. For thy bodily Eſtate thou ſhalt Live long, and to a good Age and be Buried: This was an outward Bleſſing. 2. Thou ſhalt go to thy Fathers, in Peace, or as ſome Read it into Peace; this for thy Soul. And, 3. Thou ſhalt paſs into a Country and City already better Inhabited: Namely, with all thy Godly Forefathers. And this God mentions; Firſt, becauſe the height of his Comfort and Expectation lay in that. And this ſays God, ſhall be thy Condition in the mean time, whilſt thy Seed are poſſeſſing the Earthly Canaan, inſtead of thine own Perſonal poſſeſſing of it.

This, by comparing all theſe things together, ſerves to Illuſtrate in the General the Scope of theſe Words, and this Aſſertion out of it. More particularly, there are two Phraſes to be attended to. 1. Thou ſhalt go to thy Fathers. 2. in Peace; or, as ſome Read it, into Peace: And both theſe Phraſes were firſt uſed of Abraham about his Dying, by way of Promiſe; they are the firſt in all the Book of God.

So then the Second thing, for the making forth of this, will be the opening this Phraſe, thou ſhalt go to thy Fathers. By which ſome would have no more meant then this, thou ſhalt Die; ſo Vatablus and others. And it is certain Death is always thereby meant; and when ever it is ſaid; they Slept with their Fathers, (which is up and down in the Books of Kings and Chronicles) it certainly doth ſignifie Death only, the Sleep: Namely, of their Bodies in the common receptacle of the Earth. But when it is ſaid they go to their Fathers, or are gathered to their Fathers; the juſt Query will be, whether further, what concerns the Soul and the State thereof is not thereby principally intended. Now, ſo it falls out, that when Abrahams dying it ſelf cometh to be Recorded; this here promiſed, [of being gathered to his Fathers] is diſtinctly and apart, and over and above his dying mentioned, as importing ſome further thing after Death; and that beſides his Burial alſo. And this being the promiſe beforehand, muſt be ſuppoſed to intend one of the greateſt Comforts, God could give him againſt his Dying, and his not poſſeſſing perſonally that Land; And ſo it is to be Interpreted, by what we find in the Records of his Death. Now, Chap. 25. 8. It is thus ſaid, then Abraham gave up the Ghoſt (as of Chriſt it is ſaid) and dyed, and was gathered to his People, (which Interprets this here of going to his Fathers) and his Sons buried him. Here are ennumerated (as I take it) all that concerns Death diſtinctly or apart. 1. A giving up the Soul into the Hands of God. 2. The Death of the Man, or Diſſolution of the perſonal Union between Soul and Body; Namely, that he dyed and ceaſed to be a Man as before. 3. And was gathered to his People; and this is a thing diſtinct from Death, for he mentioned that before, and it follows after his dying, and is diſtinct from his Burial alſo; for, that follows after this ver. 9. His Sons buried him. So then that gathering to his People, which is diſtinct from giving up the Ghoſt from Death, and Burial, Imports ſomething beſides all thoſe other.

Again, as this was then firſt promiſed, and ſpoken of Abraham's Death; ſo we find all theſe Four things in the the ſame Words and in the ſame Order, even the very ſame ſaid of Iſaac, Gen. 35. 29. And Iſaac gave up the Ghoſt and dyed, and was gathered unto his People, being Old and full of Days; and his Sons

Eſau

Chap. III.

Esau and Jacob buried him. The like is said of Moses and Aaron, in Deut. 32. 50. Die and be gathered unto thy People, even as thy Brother Aaron died and was gathered to his People. So that to be gathered to his People in Abraham, and the rest of these Holy Ones, was a distinct thing from Death and the Consequent of it.

If next the Enquiry be, what more especially this means, To go to his Fathers, and to be gathered to his People; taken thus, distinct from dying Burial, &c. The Account lies fair, that it respected his Soul, and the State thereof after his Death. For to be gathered to his Fathers and People, imports a Company of People not only Extant, but selected and gathered together already, to whom he goes, and is gathered. Our Saviour Christ, speaking of this our Abraham and all the Godly departed, says, that, now they live unto God, (Luke 20. 28.) When as to the Worlds Eye they are not. There is then a People, a Company of Souls that live unto God, whom when an Holy Man gives up the Ghost, his Soul is gathered unto, whilst the Body lies buried in the Grave.

1. Gathering imports a Careful Sorting, or Collection of things that were Confusedly dispersed: (as Isa. 57. 8.) And so that though all Sorts are in this World mingled, both Good and Bad together, as Tares and the Wheat; yet, now the Good are Gathered, Sorted, and Reserved, and kept Safe together. The same Phrase is indeed used in common, of Bad as well as Good; as of Ishmael in the very same Chapter, the Phrase is used as well as of Abraham (of which Ishmael, where you will Rank him I will not Dispute; you know he persecuted Isaac, and is made a Type of the Covenant of Works, if supposed wicked) in the same, Gen. 25. 17. It is said, And he gave up the Ghost and died, and was gathered to his People. But, though the Phrase is in common use of Good and Bad, both having Immortal Souls to be gathered; yet, each is to be understood in their respective Sense. The one went to his People; the other to theirs, according as their Condition was when they Died.

Gatakers Sermon on that Text, Gen. 15. 15.

2. More especially, the Souls of God's Saints may well be said to be gathered to their People, and their Fathers when they Die; because, they go to that peculiar Place where all their Godly Countrymen and Ancestors are. Nor, doth it hinder to be understood of Abraham, albeit, the most of his Countrymen, and many of his Fathers might be Idolaters, seeing many of both Ranks were Pious, and went to God when they Died, and might be stiled His People, though little of Kin to him, that were the People of that God whom he Served. Yea, as well might all the Faithful that were before him be termed his Fathers, whether Carnally he were Descended of them or no; as all the Faithful that came after him be termed his Sons.

Smith on the Creed, p. 600. on this Text. It could not be meant of the Bodies of his Fathers, for they were buried in another Country; nor of their Souls, for they were Idolaters: But, it was meant of the Fathers of his Faith, to such as he was, Holy and Good Men. For such as a Man is, and Converses with in Life, he shall be gathered to.

And indeed, if there were such a gathering of Souls unto a Company in the other World, that they all went to one and the same Place, and to one and the same Company; this would destroy what is here first spoken of Abraham, as a Promise and a Blessing, as also of the rest, Isaac and Jacob, Moses and Aaron. It had been a Loss and a Disadvantage, to have gone into the Popish Limbus, which differs little from Hell with them for Place; it having also the Punishment of Loss accompanying it, which is the worst part of Hells Punishments.

Abraham had a great Company of Holy and Godly Fathers, Adam, Enoch, Noah, &c. Forerunners in Holiness, (which are termed our Fathers) Abel and of the Seed of Seth, which had been gathered afore him in the other World, whom God promiseth him here, that when he Died, he should go unto.

And, the Consideration of its Opposite may greatly Conduce, to Confirm and Illustrate this different respective gathering of Souls to their several Companies, as intended in that Phrase; though common to both as, Judges 2. 10. For this Serves that Notion of Mr. Mede, that in the Old Testament, the first and most Ancient Phrase to Express going to Hell, was, to go to the Company of the Gyants; so he renders it of many Places of the Proverbs, Prov. 9. 18. He that goes into the strange Woman knows not (or Considers not) that the Gyants are there; and that her Guests are in the Depths of Hell. And, Prov. 21. 16. The Man that Diatribe part I. on Prov. 21. 16.

Chap. II. wandreth out of his way shall remain in the Congregation of the Dead. The Original is Rephaim, of the Gyants. This Alapide and others, have taken Notice of also. The Gyants were those Men eminently wicked, that lived afore the Flood; upon whom, the Flood came and swept them to Hell; for, by Reason of them, the Iniquity of the Earth was great. Gen. 6. And, because Hell had a flush of them, and was Repleniſht at once with such a numerous Addition: Hence from their Company, it bore the Name of the Place of the Gyants. Yea, and they were those of whom Peter Instanceth in, when he speaks of the Spirits in Prison, or in Hell, to whom in the Ministry of Noah Christ Preacht, 1 Pet. 3. 20. So then for wicked Men to be gathered to their Fathers (namely, in Wickedness) was all one, as to go to the Gyants; that is, eminently wicked, who were Men of Renown for Wickedness.

Now then, if wicked Men are gathered to the Congregation and Company of wicked Men, as severed from the Godly; then answerably, when Abraham and Isaac and Jacob dyed, and are said to be gathered to their Fathers, it is meant of their Predecessors in Holiness. And, that it is said of Abraham first, was because, he was the Father of all the Faithfull to come, and because by this time, Heaven had a considerable Company of the Spirits of Just Men, made Perfect from Abel's time, even the Godly out of many Generations. And truly, if we Consider the Importance of that, which in the first Introduction unto this Discourse, was asserted; that Abraham and these Fathers whilst they lived, are said to have sought and desired a better Country and City made by God. It comes all to one, for that was to go to a City and Country plentifully Inhabited, and Replinished with those of their own Kind, Tribe and Affinity. This a Country or City speaketh and supposeth, and so differs not from going to his Fathers, or being gathered to his People; that is, to his Countrymen and Kindred.

And which yet more, adds to the Confirmation of this, our Saviour when he would Express the Gentiles being gathered and going to Heaven; he doth it thus, Mat. 8. 11. They shall sit down with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, in the Kingdom of Heaven. Their going to Heaven, is set out by their going to these renowned Fathers, to their Company, to their Place and Enjoyments, to whom the Promises of Heaven more Eminently were made; and, therefore it is in Effect to say, that they should go to their Fathers, even as wicked Men do to theirs.

3. It was promis'd to Abraham, that he should go to his Fathers in Peace, or into Peace, Gen. 15. 15. By Peace you know the Jews expressed the whole of Blessedness, the Affluence of all Happiness. Answerably, in the New Testament, Peace is wisht as the Effect, and the total Effect of Grace, or the utmost that Grace in the Heart of God hath designed to us. The Jews ordinary Wish at parting was, go in Peace, which is all one with that usual Phrase, I Wish you all Happiness. When therefore God promiseth this to Abraham at his Death; look as Gods Well Wishes and Promises, must be supposed of Greater good Things then Man can Wish or Give; so far doth this Promise made by God exceed all, that Man can be supposed to Desire of Happiness unto another his Friend, as Abraham was to God? And so this also Phrase intends a future Happiness after Death, unto his Soul, when his Body should be laid in the Ground; as the next Words shew:

I know the Phrase of Dying in Peace, is sometimes used in Scripture, to Express such a Death or Departure hence, as in a Man, the great Desires of a Mans Heart are Accompliſht; so as there is nothing left to detain him. As when Jacob saw Joseph, now let me Die (says he, Gen. 46. 30.) and as (Luke 2. 26. 29.) in the Case of Simeon; It was revealed unto him by the Holy Ghost, that he should not see Death before he had seen the Lord's Christ. ver. 29. (says he) Lord, now lettest thou thy Servant depart in Peace according to thy Word. Whose Speech may yet, be well supposed to have this meaning, now let me depart hence into that Peace in Heaven, which Thou hast provided for those that wait upon Thee, from which I have hitherto been detained to see this Sight of my Saviour, and according to thy Word. For else, his Soul may well be thought to have desired still to live and to see his Works, and hear his gracious Words, which Kings and Prophets (Christ said) did Desire to hear and see: Whereas he now leaves him in his Swadling Clouts to go into this Peace we speak of, on which his Hopes were fix'd.

But that which more confirms the Assertion, That this great and first Promise to Abraham (besides what hath been said, that it was made to his Soul, distinct from that made to his Body) was intended not of an outward, quiet Death only, but of going to Rest and Happiness, Is the Correspondency which this holds with that Promise, which, in Analogy to this made to Abraham, we find made to every Believer, that walks in his Uprightness, as Abraham did, Gen. 17. 1. The State of all after Death, who walk in such Uprightness, we have express'd, Isa. 57. 1, 2. The Righteous perisheth, and no Man laieth it to Heart, and merciful Men are taken away, none considering that the Righteous is taken away from the Evil to come. Their State after Death follows, He shall enter into Peace, they shall rest in their Beds. Whoever he be that walketh in his Uprightness: Or each one walking, or that walketh, &c. Which Words are evidently spoken of the Happiness of Souls after Death, and so do fitly Interpret this Promise he made to Abraham in the like Case. It is their State after Death is spoken of, for their Death is spoken of, ver. 1. in their perishing (as to this World) and being taken away: And as the Comfort and Consequent thereof, 'tis said, He shall enter into Peace. He (to be sure) shall be Blessed. The Prophet Isaiah speaks of it, as of a new State or Condition succeeding the Former, for it is entring into it; and it holds Correspondency with that of Christ, Enter into thy Masters Joy, Mat. 25. 23. And it agrees also with another Phrase of Entring into Life, Mat. 18. 8. And the Words of Isaiah are exactly Parallel to that which was said of Abraham, and in the same Order. 1. He shall enter into Peace and Blessedness, as to the Soul. 2. They shall rest in their Beds, that is, their Graves; Death being the Sleep of the Body, as often 'tis express'd in the New Testament, unto which the Words of the Prophet Answer in another Place; Isa. 26. 19. Thy dead Men shall live, together with my dead Body shall they arise: Awake and Sing, ye that dwell in Dust: For thy dew is as the dew of Herbs, and the Earth shall cast out the Dead. And this Entrance into Peace, is therefore meant of the Souls entring into Joy and Peace, during that Time that the Body rests in it's Bed, namely the Grave. Nor is it spoken of Martyrs only, that Die in evil Times by Persecution, but on the contrary, of those that Die afore such Times approach; yea, and universally of every one that walks uprightly.

4. Now Fourthly, For a Confirmation of all this, Christ in the New Testament hath Termed (whilst yet the State and Language of the Old Testament was in force) that State of Bliss which Souls then departing had, Abrahams Bosom, Luke 16. 21. And their being gathered thither, as express'd in the Old, is stiled by Christ, A being carried by Angels thereunto. And indeed Abraham having been set up as the Father of all the Faithful, as their State on Earth is named, A Life of Faith common to him and them, so the Estate of their Souls also in Glory, until the Resurrection is express'd by the State of his Soul as the chief Guest, in whose Bosom they all are to Lye, or sit down as Guests with him at the same Feast.

Now though that Story of Lazarus and the Rich Man be but a Parable, yet as every Parable, so that, must have a principal and substantial Scope, and main Drift it Centers in; and from that Drift we may as safely Argue as from any other Scripture. Now it hath no Scope, but what is utterly Insignificant, if this be not the Scope of it; namely, to shew the different State of Godly Men and Wicked Men after this Life. It signifies nothing, if not this; and if so, again it is as evident, that that State of the Soul afore the Resurrection is there intended. For the Time of the opposite Rich Mans Torment, was whilst his Body lay Buried, and the Time of Lazarus Happy State immediately followed on his Death. So ver. 22. And it came to pass, that the Beggar died, and was carried by the Angels into Abrahams Bosom: The Rich Man also died and was buried. It was also, when Dives had Brethren on Earth, capable of being warned to avoid coming into that Place. See ver. 27, 28. Then he said, I Pray thee

thee therefore Father, that thou wouldſt ſend him to my Fathers Houſe: For I have five Brethren; that he may teſtifie unto them, leſt they alſo come into this Place of Torments. It was alſo afore the general Reſurrection; for ver. 30. He Pleads, that if one went from the Dead, they would Repent. Laſtly, It was whilſt they had Moſes and the Prophets to attend unto, as the Means of Salvation to whom Abraham refers them, ver. 31. And he ſaid unto him, If they hear not Moſes and the Prophets, neither will they be perſwaded, though one roſe from the Dead. And therefore alſo was it a State of Souls, as ſuppoſed under the Old Teſtament, when Moſes and the Prophets were the chief Means of Salvation, and no Scripture elſe Extant. And that Lazarus his Lying in Abrahams Boſom, was Heaven and an Heavenly Condition, may be Confirmed by theſe Two Things.

1. That he was carried into it by Angels. Now their only Walk is between Heaven and Earth, aſcending and Deſcending upon Chriſt; John 1. 51. They go not to Hell. It is alſo the Place which the Angels belong unto, for themſelves are the Inhabitants of Heaven.

2. But Secondly, and more expreſly, the Saints of the Old and New Teſtament are ſaid to ſit down with Abraham in the Kingdom of Heaven, Mat. 8. 11. Which is not the State of the Goſpel, for Abraham lived not in thoſe Times; but a State of Glory. For oppoſitely 'tis ſaid, ver. 12. That the Children of the Kingdom ſhall be caſt into utter Darkneſs. So then, put altogether, Abraham's Soul upon his Death went to his Godly Fathers into Peace, Adam, Enoch, Noah, and the reſt of the Saints in the Old Teſtament after him, are ſaid to enter into Peace, each of them after the Example of Abraham; Iſa. 57. Yea in the New Teſtament, to be carried where Abraham is to be laid into Abraham's Boſom, as the common Receptacle of Souls, Gathered to their Fathers, ſays the Old Teſtament; and Carried to their Fathers, ſays the New. And this Place is the Kingdom of Heaven, as Mat. 8. 11. Hence then the Argument riſeth ſtrong, That all the Godly of the New Teſtament, from the Firſt to Laſt, from Abel to Lazarus were upon their Deaths carried to Heaven. And further, that they were all found there that were Dead, when Chriſt hung on the Croſs, appears by Col. 1. 20. And (having made Peace through the Blood of his Croſs) by him to reconcile all Things unto himſelf, by him, I ſay, whether they be Things in Earth or Things in Heaven. In which Speech it is certain, that thoſe of Mankind in Heaven are meant, however the Angels may come in; for Men are properly Subjects of Reconciliation (the Angels but Analogically) for they are Men, and not the Angels who Sing, Thou haſt redeemed us by thy Blood, Rev. 5. 9. Compare the Angels Song with this, ver. 12. And indeed tho' the Patriarchs were all in Heaven already, yet Chriſt paid for their Attonement; For He Died for the Redemption of Sins, that were under the Old Teſtament, Heb. 9. 15. And I will ſay, that they muſt all have come down from Heaven again, if his Sacrifice for their Redemption had not been offered up.

Now that which in the Old Teſtament was Abraham's Boſom, and ſitting down with Abraham, that in the New is call'd being with Chriſt, and Paradiſe, and the Kingdom of Heaven. The Stile indeed is altered. The God of Abraham, ſaid the Old Teſtament. The God and Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, ſays the New, Epheſ. 1. 3. So to be gathered to their Fathers, to be with Abraham, was the Old Deſcription of Heaven; to be with Chriſt, which is beſt of all, is the Character of it in the New. This Day ſhalt thou be with me in Paradiſe, ſays Chriſt, to the dying Thief.

The Scriptures of the New Teſtament ſpeak more punctually and abundantly this Point, Chriſt having brought Life and Immortality (and all the gradual Advances of it) to Light.

1. There are ſome which are ſo plain, that I ſhall not inſiſt on them, viz. The Example of the Converted Thief, to whom Chriſt ſaid, This Day ſhalt thou be with me. And the Inſtance of Stephen ſeeing, when he was to Die; the Heavens opened, and therein the Glory of God; and ſaying, Lord into thy Hands I commit my Spirit, Acts 7.

2. Another ſet of Inſtances is in Luke 16. 9. And I ſay unto you, make to your ſelves Friends of the Mammon of Unrighteouſneſs, that when ye fail they may receive you into Everlaſting Habitations. And in 2 Cor. 5. from the 1. to the 11.

1. I ſhall Explain that Inſtance, which we have in Luke 16. 9. Thoſe Everlaſting Habitations, there mentioned, manifeſtly are in Heaven, where are many Manſions, and the Words are the Moral Part of the Parable of the Steward. That look, as that Steward, when he ſaw he muſt quit his Office of Stewardſhip, and be put out, conſidered with himſelf, What ſhall I do? ver. 3. And reſolved to make Friends of his Maſters Debtors, ver. 5. That, when he was put out of his Stewardſhip, they might receive him into their Houſes, ver. 4. And this was wiſely done ſays Chriſt, ver. 8. And do you imitate this Wiſdom of his, tho' not the Wickedneſs of it. As if Chriſt had ſaid, in this World ye are but for a Time, the Places and Stations, Riches, Power, &c. you muſt give over. And what will ye do then for the next World?

1. Chriſt expreſſeth Death and the Souls going out of this World by our failing, that is, either as of a Steward turn'd out of Houſe and Means, or as a Merchant that Breaks, that hath a Statute of Bankrupt Sued forth againſt him. Such a Statute is Death, Statutum eſt omnibus ſemel Mori. When Spirits fail, Friends on Earth fail, Riches fail, and cannot deliver; when a Man's Soul goes Naked out of this World into another, even as he came Naked into it; then the Rich, the Great, the moſt Potent, and honourable are Bankrupts. And this Time, when you fail, is not the Day of the Reſurrection, for then we are ſet up again and reſtored. The Body is ſown in Weakneſs at Death, there, and then is the failing; But it riſeth in Power.

2. Chriſt ſhews, that at that Time the Soul is put to it, what it ſhall do, and whether it ſhall go? ver. 3. The Steward ſaid within himſelf, What ſhall I do? The Soul hath Reaſon (and Chriſt adviſeth it) to conſider, what it ſhould do next upon its failing; for the Soul is Immortal, and muſt go ſome whither. Animula vagula quæ abibis in loca. Said the Emperor Adrian, when Dying. Spartianus in ejus Vitâ.

3. He compares the State of the other World in Heaven, to a City or Country, where are many Inhabitants gathered, already repleniſhing of it; and accordingly many Houſes built, and all Accommodations. Abraham and the other Patriarchs are ſaid in the Old Teſtament to be gathered to their Fathers. It comes all to one with what is ſaid in the New, Heb. 11. 10. For he looked for a City which hath Foundations, whoſe Builder and Maker is God. And ver. 14. it is ſaid, That they ſought a Country, that is, an Heavenly. As every City ſuppoſeth Inhabitants there Dwelling; and there in Houſes, &c. and ſuitable Accommodations for Inhabitants: So Chriſt in Analogy expreſſeth it here, that when we fail, and are to be gathered to our Fathers gone before us, They may receive us into Everlaſting Habitations. That we having done good to them, or thoſe of their Kind and Country, now gone to Heaven, they may receive us, and welcome us into Houſe and Home. He expreſſeth it after the Manner of Men. When one comes to a Strange Country, what is more deſireable, then that a Man ſhould have Friends there, that ſhould as it were welcome a Naked Newcomer. What kind Hoſpitality is it in God, that he ſhould receive a Man into his Houſe, and Home, for the good which he did here! And this Habitation is no other then in Heaven, for 'tis call'd an Eternal, Real, Habitation. Firſt, For the Soul without the Body, then for Soul and Body too, 2 Cor. 5. For where the Souls and Perſons of Juſt Men live for ever, there to be ſure is Heaven. Now that after the Day of Judgment they ſhall live in Heaven none ever denied: And if when they Die and Fail, they are received into the ſame, then they are at that preſent admitted into Heaven and Heavenly Habitations, as well as afterwards. If the Souls of Juſt Men were admitted into any other then what is Heaven, afore into Heaven only; after their Bodies were united, then the Place, which firſt received them, could not be call'd Eternal Habitations.

USE. Do good then eſpecially unto the Elect and Houſhold of Faith: Do good to theſe above other, for thou wilt be gathered to them, and they will acknowledge knowledge it, or God at leaſt on their behalf: And it will be a Joy to thee then, and may be a Comfort to thee now, to think that there are thoſe in Heaven, to Whom, or to their Children, or Relations for their Sakes, thou haſt done Good.

CHAP. IV.

That the Souls of Believers do, immediately after the Death of the Body paſs into a State of Glory, demonſtrated from the Deſign of the Apoſtle Paul, in 2 Cor. 4. 17, 18. To encourage the Saints to endure all Afflictions and Calamities of this Life: And from his Deſign in 2 Cor. 5. 1. 28. To Comfort them againſt all Apprehenſions of Death.

II Corinthians IV. xvii. xviii.

Ver. xvii, For our light Affliction, which is but for a Moment, worketh for us a far more Exceeding and Eternal Weight of Glory.

Ver. xviii. Whilſt we look not at the things which are ſeen, but at the things which are not ſeen: For the things which are ſeen, are Temporal; but the things which are not ſeen, are Eternal.

II Corinthians V. i, ii, iii, iv.

Ver. i, For we know, that if our Earthly Houſe of this Tabernacle were diſſolved, we have a building of God, an Houſe not made with Hands, Eternal in the Heavens.

Ver. ii, For in this we groan earneſtly, deſiring to be clothed upon with our Houſe which is from Heaven:

Ver. iii, If ſo be, that being clothed, we ſhall not be found naked.

Ver. iv. For we that are in this Tabernacle do groan, being burdened: Not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon, that Mortality might be ſwallowed up of Life.

ONE Eminent part of the good News of the Goſpel is, the Bleſſed Eſtate of Souls Inſtantly, upon the Diſſolution of their Bodies; and this, in the Name of all the Primitive Chriſtians, doth the Apoſtle here utter, as their Faith; we know, &c. So then we have it not as Pauls Doctrine alone, but as the common Faith of Chriſtians. And that,

In

In these Two Points.

I. That our Bodies shall be raised at the last Day. And,

II. That in the mean time our Souls shall Live.

In these Two did Christ Instruct Mary in the 11th Chapter of John: The First is in ver. 25. He that believeth on Me, though he were Dead, yet shall he Live; there's the Resurrection of the Body: The Second is in ver. 26. And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never Die; Believest thou this? In Answer to the Resurrection of the Body Christ had Prefaced, ver. 25. I am the Resurrection; in Answer to the Living of the Soul, he says, I am the Life: Believest thou this? Says he: Put this into thy Creed, as the Primitive Believers did into theirs.

In Correspendency to both these Two so positive Assertions of Christ, I observe our Apostles Preface in the foregoing Chapter, ver. 13. We believe and therefore speak; and what are those Points, we Believe, and therefore utter with Confidence? 1. The Resurrection of the Body with the Glory that follows thereupon. The ultimate Object of our Faith, ver. 14. Knowing that He which raised up the Lord Jesus, shall raise up Us also by Jesus, and shall present Us with you. 2. The Glory of the Soul in the mean Time presently after Dissolution, this is in ver. 1. of this Chapter, For we know that if our Earthly House of this Tabernacle were dissolved, we have a Building of God, an House not made with Hands Eternal in the Heavens.

This is certain, That the Holy Ghost hath penned in the latter Part of the foregoing Chapter, and in these Words, more Lines about the State of Glory then in any one Scripture again, together, in the whole Book of God.

And the Controversie is, what State of Glory it is, that in these Words, is meant.

I shall fix the State of this Controversie by these few Premises.

1. That the Apostles punctual and proper Scope is, to Comfort himself and all Believers against Death: For he puts the Case in such Terms, If this Body be dissolved; he speaks but generally afore, &c. in Chapter 4. but he in the 5th Chapter particularizeth the Case of Death: And again, he utters this Comfort, in the Name of all Christians in the World. We know, if our earthly House of this Tabernacle were dissolved, &c. And it is intended to shew, what Comfort and Cordials Believers have against fainting at the Thoughts of Death, for this Verse by this Word [FOR,] &c. carries us up to the 16th Verse, as a Reason, why we faint not, always being delivered to Death, &c.

2. The Question then next is, What it is should be that proper, special Matter of Comfort against Death in this 5th Chapter ver. 1, &c. And hereupon, comes the Difference of the Opinions to be stated.

1. Whether only, that if their earthly Bodies be now dissolved, their Souls should have instead thereof other manner of Bodies, as compared to another House for their Souls to dwell in; namely, those Bodies which shall be made glorious at the Resurrection?

Or 2. It may be Queried, Whether the whole Glory of the Soul, either whilest without the Body till the Resurrection, or with the Body after the Resurrection, is meant? Yet so as that, However immediately upon Dissolution, the Soul should have a Glory, which is ready prepared for it, which the Apostle calls here Our House: And which after Dissolution it presently should enter into, and is entertained in; and takes as it were Possession first of, until both Body and Soul shall be joined again together, to a more full and compleat Possession of the same Glory for ever.

So as the difference in General, between these Two Opinions is, That the one Confines the whole only to the Glory the Soul shall have in the Body; the other Opinion of ours enlargeth it self to the Glory of all States from the Instant of Death, and so through all Eternity; and affirmeth, that according to the intent of this Scripture, this Glory commenceth or beginneth from the

Time of Diſſolution: So as their Opinion excludeth, or cutteth off all that Part of the Glory of Men's Souls out of the Body; and not to be meant in this Place, but ours takes in all; only it doth particularly Contend for this, That the Glory of the Soul out of the Body being that which is next, and of general Concernment to the Saints till the Reſurrection, and that being a ſpace for ſo long a Time to come, even almoſt Two Thouſand Years from the Time of the Apoſtles writing, this meaning ſhould therefore be intended by him.

But yet more particularly, to the End that the State of this Difference of Opinion may be underſtood, and thereby alſo, what the Conduct or Steerage of our enſuing Diſcourſe is to be, it muſt be further related concerning that Opinion of thoſe, that makes the Glory of the Body, the Subject of the Apoſtles Diſcourſe.

1. How that ſome of them ſeem to Interpret the whole of the Paragraph, from ver. 1. to ver. 10. of the Glory of Soul and Body only, when joined together. Yet it may be withal obſerved of thoſe Interpreters, that when they come to give the meaning of the 6, 7, 8, and 9th Verſes, they there fall flat; or as treading upon Ice do ſlide them over, not openly affirming of either which is meant: When yet they had openly Interpreted the Four Firſt Verſes of the Glory of the Body, when joined to the Soul only. For indeed the Words in thoſe 6, 7. 8, Verſes are ſo clear for the Souls Glory apart, without the Body, and for its Preſence with the Lord when ſeparate, that they could not oppoſe that meaning: Only I find Grotius ſo daring, as to Interpret thoſe Words preſent with the Lord, ver. 8. to be meant of the State after the Reſurrection; when yet the Words ſpeak of that Preſence which falls out, when we are Abſent from the Body in the very Words afore.

Eſtius in Locum.

2. Eſtius therefore an ingenious Papiſt halves the Matter, and takes Part with this firſt Opinion for the Bodies Glory, ſo far as the five firſt Verſes go; but then when he comes to the 6 Verſe, he falls in with the other Opinion: And ſays, that all the next Words from thence are meant of the State of the Soul after Death till the Reſurrection, and accordingly he begins his Comment upon the Words of that 6 Verſe thus, That becauſe ſome might ſay (upon this Diſcourſe of the Apoſtle hitherto, in the firſt five Verſes held) That this Glory of the Body (which you comfort us withal) is not preſently attained after Death, but perhaps is a long while yet to be expected: That therefore now, in the 6 Verſe (the Apoſtle ſubjoins, and falls upon) the Glory of the Soul ſeparate. And from thenceforward, Eſtius is as fully ours (as to this Point) as could have been deſired. He might have been ſo ſooner, even from the very firſt Verſe; There was Reaſon enough for it.

3. Calvin upon the firſt five Verſes, being to Interpret what was meant by our Houſe in, and from Heaven; plainly ſays, 'tis uncertain whether it ſignifies a State of Bleſſed Immortality, which befals (immediately) after Death, or whether the Body made glorious, ſuch as it ſhall be after the Reſurrection. There is no Inconvenience in either Senſe (ſays he) but in the End he cloſeth with this Senſe; That the Bleſſed State of the Soul after Death (ſo then he prefers that of the Glory of the Soul when ſeparate to be meant) ſhould be the beginning of this Building, but the Conſummation ſhould be the Glory of the laſt Reſurrection. And this Expoſition (ſays he) the whole Context doth beſt make Good. So that he alſo carries it to both States. This is his Judgment of the five firſt Verſes. But then for the 6, 7, 8, 9, Verſes, he is fully in it. That the State of the Soul after Death is only meant. Thus both in his Comment on that Place, ver. 8. as alſo in his ſet Treatiſe de Ψυχοπαννυχία againſt the Souls ſleeping; he argues it, from the whole of this our Apoſtles Diſcourſe here, as a moſt Plain and Cogent Scripture, which to reſiſt (he ſays) were to reſiſt the Spirit of God in it.

I profeſs to be of Holy and moſt Judicious Calvin's Mind, in this his Senſe of this Scripture; and ſhall endeavour to make forth, that the whole of this ſo large a Diſcourſe is meant of the State and Glory of the Soul after Death, not excluding, but taking in that alſo after the Reſurrection; which that one Word, if no more doth invincibly Argue and take in, when he Terms it Eternal in the Heavens: And therefore the whole from Firſt to Laſt, even to Eternity nity must be intended. Only I shall, in this Discourse of mine, plead alone for the separate Souls Glory, leaving the State after the Resurrection, to those, that will read their Comments. Or any other, that will Contend for it. Chap. IV.

4. It is meet also, to take Notice of what is the proper State of the Question between Us, and other Interpreters, whilst we shall be upon the first Verse, distinct from what will be the State of the Question, when we come to the 2, 3, 4, Verses. In the first Verse, they of that first Opinion, well near universally say, The Apostle, for the Comfort of all Saints against Death, delivers this Doctrine, of their having one Day spiritual renewed glorious Bodies, instead of these Earthly; yet so, as with all, they acknowledge his Scope in that Verse to be, That it is God's more general Appointment for all Saints first to Die, and to be Dissolved, and then by a Resurrection of their Bodies, to have new Bodies restored, at and by the Resurrection: Thus they Interpret the Matter of this first Verse, We know, &c.

But then, as for the 2, 3, and 4th Verses, they affirm his Scope to be, that the Saints Knowing, that by the ordinary Dispensation they cannot have such Bodies glorious, unless first they Die; yet this DYING being abhorrent to Nature. The Apostle expresses thereupon the Saints desire, rather to be cloathed upon with Glory, whilst they continue in their Bodies alive, and so to be immediately Changed without Dissolution; but yet with this Correction or Supposition, that they be found of the Number (if it should fall out to be God's good Pleasure) of those Saints that are alive, and Cloathed with Bodies at the Resurrection; and not Dead or Naked, as the generality of the Saints will, at the Approach of that Day, be found to be. Thus they Interpret the 3d Verse. So then with them the Doctrine of the first Verse is, That we shall have glorified Bodies by a Resurrection after Dissolution first, and that as the general Case of Believers: But that notwithstanding, the Object of the Saints desires expressed in the 2, 3, and 4th is, to have the Priviledge to escape that Dissolution, and have a Glory put upon their Bodies without it, as an Exception to that general Rule: And to have that Change, which indeed is spoken of to be at the Resurrection, of them that shall be then alive, at the same Time, that those that are Dead do rise.

Now 5*ly*, The State of the Question which I propose to the Proof, is, whether the Apostles Scope be not to Comfort these Corinthians, and the Generality of the Saints with this, That when their Bodies are Dissolved, they shall have a Glory in the mean Time until the Resurrection; and further my Undertaking is, that he carries this great Truth (as his Scope) uniformly on, throughout all the following Verses to ver. 10.

E're I do begin with the first Verse. It will be very conducible to Consult, whether this had not been his Scope likewise, in the last Verses of the former Chapter, immediately preceding this first Verse, which I the rather choose, because in doing so, I shall by Degrees make Approaches, (beginning thus further off) which I Hope will in the End surround and carry this difficult strong hold of Scripture, which hath been so often taken and wonne by Parties of different Perswasions, as each have imagined to themselves. The Connection between those Latter Verses of the former Chapter, and this first Verse is so Innate and Congenial, as we should loose some of our Strength in this Argument, if we did not take along with us, what they aforehand have spoken.

The Words of the latter Verses of the former Chapter are these, 2 Cor. 4. 16, 17, 18. For which cause we faint not, but though our outward Man perish, yet the inward Man is renewed Day by Day. For our light Affliction, which is but for a Moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of Glory. While we look not at the Things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: For the Things which are seen, are Temporal; but the Things which are not seen, are Eternal.

Which Words, suppose they were considered absolutely, and singly, and as cut off from their Correspondency with this 5th Chapter, do yet contain strong Evictions, that not only the Glory of the Body at the Resurrection, but the whole of the Glory both of the Soul separate afore, as well as after is aimed at in them.

Chap. IV. 1. In that whilſt we live, and continue here in this World, our inner Man is ſaid to be renewed daily, that is grows Young within us, whilſt our outward Man, that is our Body, and outward Condition of Eſtate, Name, and whatever elſe thereto belonging periſheth. So as though we looſe every Day on that Hand, yet this inward Man, every Day grows up ſtronger and more vigorous. And what is, or can be intended hereby, other then to make way and lay a Foundation for this Truth, (as by an evident Token) that between that utter periſhing of the Body by Death, that will in the end befal us, and that Reſtauration of it by the Reſurrection (ſpoken of ver. 16.) this inner Man is ordained to live in the mean Time without that Body or outward Man, and therefore is growing up of it ſelf alone unto a Maturity, as that which is intended to live another Day (as we ſay) when ſevered and apart. To evidence which, you ſee (ſays he) how unto Senſe the Body goes down, and the Soul thrives (as the 3 Epiſt. John 2. ver. hath it) as being that whoſe Eſtate God hath a Care of; it being to live with himſelf during that interſtitium or mean Time, even as the Chicken grows in the Shell unto a Maturity, and then breaks it, and flies away into another and better Eſtate, which is the Prophets Compariſon, Pſalm 90. 10. And can you think, that this inner Man thus nouriſhed to a Virility, by God ſhall be turn'd into a Languid Condition, when ſevered? Or have a dead Sleep or Palſie take it, and ſo Chill until the Reſurrection? No, it is in a tendency to Perfection, as Heb. 12. ſhews.

2. Conſider in the Words, how during this Life (wherein the outward Man is a periſhing) that Glory to come is all the while a working for this inward Man; and this inward Man alſo, is all that while a Being wrought upon, and making ready for that Glory, and both fall out together, but during the ſpace, only, of this Life. The one you have in the 17th ver. of the 4th Chap. and the other at the 5th ver. of the 5th Chap. It is ſaid, that God himſelf works us; For the ſelf ſame thing. And Gods renewing our inward Man in the 4th Chap. is the ſame thing with God's working us, Chap. 5. And working us for that ſelf ſame Glory ſpoken of in Chap. 4. 17. Which is wrought for us by Afflictions; yea, and (which is God's Artifice in it) the ſelf ſame Afflictions, which Work, that, ſo exceeding weight of Glory, are uſed by God to Work our inward Man for that Glory. And (which is moſt obſervable to our Purpoſe) both theſe Workings, the one of Glory without Us, the other of renewings of Grace within Us, are but in the ſpace and during the Time of this Life, and both continue all the while and ceaſe together. The Afflictions work beſt in that Moment; and our Souls they are alſo wrought upon but during that Moment; and the determining of both Ends with our Lives. For as it is but the Afflictions of this Moment that Work the Glory: So it is the Diſpenſation of God in this Life only that renews the Soul, and but whilſt in the outward Man: And at Death, and with Death all ſuch workings of either are at an End. And what doth this mean and argue, but that the working of both ending in that one Period, that therefore theſe Two, the inward Man, and Glory that had gone as together, tho' divided, ſhould ar, and upon Death (the common Period to both) meet, and be Joined or Married together, the inward Man being made ready for that Glory as fully as ever it ſhall be; and that Glory made ready for it. What then ſhall let, or who ſhall forbid, that theſe Two ſhould not be Joined together. Surely this is the Time, the full Time for this Souls Enjoyment, and firſt Entrance into that Glory it was wrought for.

3. Add to this Account of the Apoſtle the Series, Order, and Succeſſion of Time he ſets for theſe Things. The Time allotted for theſe Workings, He ſays, is but for a Moment, and that Moment is but the Term of each of our Perſonal Lives; ſo expreſly, Rom. 8. 18. they are call'd the Sufferings of this preſent Time. And the next Stage he ſets is an Eternal Life and Glory, without any mention of any other Space coming between. He mentions theſe Two, and but theſe Two, and theſe Two immediately ſucceeding each the other; and Comforts us, not only that our Afflictions are but for this Moment, but withal chiefly to Note the Shortneſs of the Time, unto the beginning or entrance into Eternal Life and Glory, which is ready wrought for the Soul, and the Soul for it during that Moment: And that the Ending of that Moment, is the beginning of that Eternity, and that, that Ceasing and Afflictions therewith, Eternal Glory succeeds, so that these Two divide Time betwixt them. But if there had been so long a space as Two Thousand Years afore that beginning of this Eternity to come, between this Moment and the Resurrection, he either would have excepted it, or not have put this Moment and Eternity so together. It is the Account of Times which he here maketh. And Believers that Groan as they Count and Reckon the greatness of the Glory (as Rev. 8. 18.) So in these Groaning, they do reckon or account the Time, till their Freedom and Inlargement: And the Thought of the shortness thereof doth Comfort them, as well as the greatness of the Glory expected. No Apprentice or Servant counteth his Time more till he is Free, and shall set up for himself then a Believer doth; and then the Apostle doth for them, both in this Place, and that other in Rom. 8. And to be sure, that Term of Two Thousand Years, if these Souls had been to stay for this Glory so long (which the Holy Ghost who wrote this foreknew, and we have the Prospect and Experience of Sixteen Hundred Years being now past) is not to be reckon'd as a Moment. Therefore the Apostle would not have reckon'd this Moment and Eternity in so successive an Order, and have left out the Account of Thousands that were to come between them, when he intended thus to Comfort them, even to a Moments Time, when the very Thought of Two Thousand Years stay would have been a long Time indeed, unto such eager and groaning Souls; as ver. 2, 4, of this Chap. 5. They are set forth to be, unless the Apostle had some way satisfied them about the Interim, as appeareth by the cry of How long! Of those separate Souls, Rev. 6. Nay, if these Souls here wrote to (supposing them to Exist, and to be after Death) should have had an Intermission of Injoyment of God for Two Thousand Years to come, this Time of so long Interval, that would have proved to be unto such Souls, who had been inur'd unto Communion with God already, during this Moment of Afflictions, and some times had injoied the Earnests of Heaven (as in the 5th ver. of this 5th Chap. you have inserted as an Argument for separate Souls Injoyment) a far greater weight of Affliction, then what the Afflictions of this present Time amount unto, which is but for a Moment; and the Apostle might rather have indigitated and termed them the Afflictions of that Interval to come, then those of this present Time, as in Rom. 8. he speaks.

Chap. IV.

4. The like Division of Things connoting the same Succession of Time in the 18th ver. (which is the last of this Chap.) Seconds and Confirms this. While we look not at the Things which are seen, but at the Things which are not seen: For the Things which are seen, are TEMPORAL; but the Things which are not seen, are ETERNAL. In this Division of Things, he Sums up the whole of what we are to run through, or which can be supposed we should run through in and under all Times for ever, or that shall betal us from that instant wherein, any Saint at present is, for they are all either Temporal or Eternal. The Temporal he also calls Things which are seen, Visible here, in this World, by our worldly Eyes or natural Eyes; the Eternal which are not seen; That is, not otherwise, then by Faith, Which is the Evidence of Things not seen, and Substance of Things hoped for, Heb. 11. 1. By Temporal then he means, the Good or Evil Things injoied or suffered in this Life or World; and by Eternal All, and the Whole that are to come, as the Reward of what was done in this Life, in the other World to come; which are Things as yet unseen otherwise then by Faith, and Hope; and therefore the Things that are wholly to come are unseen, according to that, Rom. 8. 24. Hope that is seen is not Hope. And further, by distinguishing, or opposing these Two Temporal and Eternal. He with all Connotates and Divides the whole length of Time we are to run through, even as he had afore more plainly done, by his Moment an[d] Eternity in the Words of the 17th Verse. Now I would ask unto which of these Two doth the State of the Soul (of an Holy Soul) till the Resurrection belong? It is certain not to Temporal, though it should be cut off from the Account of that Time, which follows after the Resurrection. It might indeed be said

ſaid Temporal as in reſpect to the Time, namely, of its Duration, merely for the Term of its Widow-hood from the Body, which ends with the Reſurrection; yet to be ſure, it is none of thoſe Temporal Things, which the Apoſtle here Terms Temporal, for they are ſuch Things only as are for the Term of this Life, and ſo ſtiled becauſe they laſt but for this Time, in Diſtinction from thoſe other to come. And beſides this State of the Soul, after this Temporal ended, is unſeen (in this Life by us) otherwiſe then by Faith, as well as what ſhall be after the Reſurrection. So then, that State of the Soul after Death, muſt be caſt, as that which belongs unto Eternal; and both that, and all after makes up together but one entire Eternal, whether of that State of the Soul ſeparate, or that of it after the Reſurrection. For ſo, and not otherwiſe is the Diſtinction or Oppoſition unto the Temporal Enjoyments of this Life made up Full, and Exact, and Compleat, whereas if this State of the ſeparate Soul were not included, and comprehended under that of Eternal, this Diviſion were utterly imperfect; unleſs any will ſay, That there are Two Temporal States of the Soul afore the general Reſurrection, and that from that Time only Eternal Things do Commence and Begin, which no Man will dare to affirm. So then, as Eternal doth begin (as we ſay) a New Account; ſo the State of the Soul ſeparate, and that of the Reſurrection are made up, as to that one New Æra or Account; and are ſummed up into one Total of Eternity. And we in common Speech uſe to ſay, that when a Man Dies he enters into his Eternity; becauſe it is the beginning of a Man's Reward, whether of Puniſhment or of Glory, whether whilſt his Soul remains ſevered, or is join'd again to the Body. Now if this ſeparate State muſt be put unto that Part of the Account of what is Eternal: Then you muſt neceſſarily take in Glory too, for ſo in the 17th Verſe he had ſaid, An Eternal weight of Glory; and again, Chap. 5. 1. An Houſe Eternal in the Heavens. So then, we muſt not exclude this ſeparate State from Glory; for after Temporal is ended, it is an Eternal which ſucceeds, and that Eternal (ſaith the Apoſtle) is Glory; and an Eternal Houſe alſo ſtands ready to receive the Soul, which is all one with Glory. And although the State of it out of the Body be Temporal in this Sence, that is but for a Time, yet this ſeparate State being a Part, yea, the beginning of the Poſſeſſion of that Glory, which ſhall never end, but be more perfectly and fully Conſummated, when the Soul, and Body are re-united: Therefore the Glory in both States is termed Eternal, becauſe from the Time of the firſt Poſſeſſion of it, that Glory is continued to all Eternity; and is the ſame Glory for Kind, though not for Degrees.

So then, the Argument riſeth ſtrong from all theſe Things. As we uſe to argue againſt Purgatory, that there being but Two Ways mention'd in Scripture, the Broad and the Narrow; and but Two Bounds and Endings of thoſe Ways, Eternal Life, or Eternal Death; there are but Two Sorts of Paſſengers, Righteous and Unrighteous which the Scriptures ſpeak of, and therefore no Third or Intermediate Condition betweeen: So I Argue (out of our Apoſtle) there being but theſe Two Stages and Meaſures of Time, Temporal of this Life, Eternal in the other mentioned by him, and when and where the one Ends, the other muſt be reckoned to begin, there being no State or Space between, and alſo this Eternal State being ſo expreſly termed Glory, Eternal Glory, and the inward Man, or Soul it ſelf being Eternal, and to Exiſt when the Body the Outward periſheth, and this Soul being wrought for that ſelf ſame Thing; ſhall not ſuch a Soul invincibly Conclude, when it comes to Die, my Now, my preſent Moment, and all Temporal Things are ended with me: Welcome Eternity, and the Poſſeſſion of Things not hitherto ſeen, but hoped for, which the Apoſtle tells me, is no other then An Eternal Weight in Glory, which now begins, the other being ended.

A Second Head of Arguments may be taken from the ſpecial Connection, and Coherence which the Words of the Text, 2 Cor. 5. 1. hold with theſe foregoing Words in Chapter the 4th. Which the Particle For, doth carry us back again unto. For we know that if, &c. 'Tis an Account (ſays Muſculus) given given, why that we Christians look so intently upon Things Eternal, and on that same Eternal Weight of Glory; for we full well know, that if this earthly House were dissolved, we shall enter upon them. The Things that are Temporal cease, and our Eternity then begins. We come then presently to be Partakers of that Eternal Weight of Glory; or, which is all one, of that Eternal House in Heaven. And therefore, we have good Reason to look upon, and intently to Mind those Things Eternal, so as to over-look the other. For there is but this little, so little a while, between Us and our Enjoyment of them, even but till our Dissolution. This Faith brings Eternal Things to us, and not to look at them as Things afar off. And it is the nearness of Things, and not the greatness only, if apprehended far distant, that doth affect Men. Faith is a Telescope, an Optique Glass (to which the Allusion may seem to refer) that brings them near to us, as Glasses use to represent Things otherwise greatly Remote: And because they are so near as our Death is, therefore we are affected with them.

These Words, For we know, &c. carry us also to the 16th Verse, and so bring in a New Reason, why we faint not at the Thoughts of Dying, ver. 16. Therefore we faint not, no not at Death, For we know, &c. 'Tis a Continuation of Reasons thereof, now observe the Parallel between his Comforts, or Reasonings to Comfort Christians both there and here.

1. There against the Miseries of Life; this is made a Reason, why we faint not; inasmuch as our outward Man only doth perish, but then the inward Man is renewed. But then further to shew Gods uninterrupted Care towards us in this Life, in this Renewal of the inward Man. He further adds, Renewed every Day.

2. Answerably here (Verse 1.) And in as Congruous an Harmony comes in this Cordial against Death: That even, when this outward Man is dissolved, our inward Man shall from that instant of Time, without Interruption or Discountenance have entrance into Glory. As there was not a Day past over their Heads in this Life, in which their inward Man was not more or less renewed, so when Dissolved, or upon Death in like Manner they shall not stay a Day, not from being renewed only, but from being swallowed up of Life, (as our Lord Christ says to the Thief on the Cross, Luke 23. 43. To Day shalt thou be with me in Paradise) and to insinuate this, the Apostle adds these Words Eternal in the Heavens in an opposite Parallel unto that other Expression Day by Day, Eternity is a Continuation of Time for ever, without Succession of Day by Day, as the Schoolmen have observ'd. Eternity is spoken of here to shew, that as upon Dissolution, there is a beginning of it to the inward Man; so there is a Continuation without Intermission, in like Manner, as there had been in this Life a continued renewing of them Day by Day. And it is therefore, that he heartens us not to faint any more at Death, then at Afflictions; because God is proportionably as much careful over us in one State, as in the other. That as he did not renew us for one Day only, and then suspend his Work for a Year, or many Years, and then Visited us again; but every Day renewed us in this Life, so likewise when this outward Man comes to be Dissolved, this inward Man hath an Eternal House. For God stays not forbearing to Glorifie us for many Thousand Years, or until the Resurrection. The Days of Darkness are many (as Solomon says of Lying in the Grave) until then: But here is an Eternal follows upon Dissolution, a beginning of a continued Ævum, when Time shall be no more, as to this glorified Soul.

Now then to bring it home to the Point in Hand; were there not an entring into Glory for that inner Man, as instantly to succeed Dissolving without Suspence, as the renewal of that inward Man is that accompanies Afflictions, and which was continued without Interruption; the Souls of Believers would not have had so full Consolation against Fainting at the Thoughts of Death, and at its Approach, as it had against those other Miseries of Life. But if we take the Apostles Words in the Sense which hath been given, there is full and abundant Consolation against all fear of Death. For the Believer may say, it matters not how soon I Die, since whenever I Die I enter presently into into Glory, and therefore, I will not faint at Death. I need not Care when, or how, I lay down my Life, ſeeing there is a preſent Proviſion made. This one Thought renders the Conſolation home and compleat every Way: Whereas that other Opinion, that he ſhould Poſt us off to the Reſurrection reacheth not to this, for Hope ſo long deferred would make the Heart faint and ſick. Whereas here the nearneſs of it, and the greatneſs of that Glory, both of them coming upon a Man's Soul, both at once do ſwallow up all Thoughts of Trouble, or Diſcomfort any Way. And this Reaſon did in Part cauſe Muſculus to incline to our Opinion, as it hath been Stated.

And now e're we go on, let us take a Pauſe and conſider a little, that after the Apoſtle had forelaid all the Things. 1. Of an inner Man (in Diſtinction from the Body) which ſure God had ſuch a Care of to preſerve, &c. And, 2. That theſe Afflictions (which are but the Periſhings, the Mouldrings of the outward Man) Work an Eternal Glory: And for whom, but for this inner Man on Purpoſe renewed to enjoy it. 3. That theſe Afflictions are for the Moment of this Life; namely, whilſt this inward Man dwells in this outward Man, which is going to Deſtruction. And then, 4. That this Eternal ſucceeds, when this Temporal Life ends: Unto which Eternal, he calls all their Intentions to be fixt upon it. I ſay, when he had thus forelaid theſe Things, and brought down the Series of his Diſcourſe thus far, he then immediately upon all this, brings in the Suppoſition and Mention of Death in this firſt Verſe. What (ſays he) if not only our outward Man periſh, but be utterly Diſſolved, the whole Houſe pull'd down. What then? Call but in a Jury of all Men, and of all Saints, and what would their Expectations be upon, certainly upon this; what ſhould upon that Diſſolution become of that inner Man, he talkt of, when left a Widdow, and alone, and ſeparate from the Body. If a Sage Heathen, as Plato, or Socrates had been diſcourſing ſo ſadly of the Immortality of the Soul, how it grows Wiſer, as the Body grows Older, and then had fallen into the Suppoſition of the dying of the Body, and had but ſaid, if this Body be diſſolved: Surely all his Auditors would expect and deſire inſtantly to hear ſomething of what ſhould be the State of that Soul, he had prædicated to be Immortal, which, when this Body is diſſolved, ſhall ſtill ſubſiſt. But our Apoſtle had much more engag'd himſelf from the Materials of his former Diſcourſe, to Anſwer our Expectations in this, for he had not only inſtructed them with the Knowledge of an Immortal Soul, but how that Soul was preparing, to be furniſhed, fraught and fitted with Graces every Day, and how an Eternal weight of Glory was working for it. And he had call'd off their Eyes from all Things in this World, and fixt them on theſe Eternal; and then after all comes in with the Caſe and Suppoſition of Death. He doth certainly therefore in his following Anſwer ſpeak Home and Cloſe to that which ſhould be the common Expectation of all Men in ſuch a Caſe. As 'tis the Voice of all Men in general. Who will ſhew us any good? (Pſalm 4.) So more eſpecially, when we come to Die, what will then next befal us, and come unto us. This the Parable of the Steward ſhews us, I muſt (ſays he) be turn'd out of Houſe and Home. What ſhall I do? Luke 16. 3, 4. That is, what ſhall I do next, Animula vagula quæ abibis in loca? But above all Men, this would be the ſpecial Expectation of Saints: The Apoſtle Paul therefore, being to give an Anſwer in this Caſe himſelf, having ſtarted the Queſtion: He for the Comfort of all Saints may well be thought to frame his Anſwer unto what is the more general Care, the preſſing and next Thought or Sollicitude of all Saints.

But then add to this, the Periphraſis, or Circumſtance of Speech, by which the Apoſtle choſe to expreſs the Suppoſition of Death, and it will ſtill induce us to think, that the Anſwer or Reſolution he gives ſhould be to this very Point; namely, The State of the Soul when ſeparate. To this End obſerve, how he expreſſeth Dying. He ſaith, not in plain and ſhort Words, If we Die, which is the the uſual Way of Speech, but frames it thus, If our earthly Houſe of this Tabernacle were diſſolved. Which Circumlocution of Speech, I look upon as the Slu e between the Apoſtles former Diſcourſe, (Chap. 4.) and what he here Diſcourſeth (Chap. 5. ver. 1. to ver. 10.) concerning what is to follow with Reſpect to the State of the Soul after Death. As Death it ſelf is the Paſſage between both Worlds, ſo he Lets in, and applies all, he had ſpoken but indefinitely of Eternity, and Glory (in the latter Part of Chap. 4.) and brings it all down definitely ad articulum Mortis, as we ſay, to the Point and Suppoſition of Dying, as the Time deſigned by God to be the Epocha, from whence all thoſe Glories fore-mentioned in that 4th Chapter are to Commence, and begin, and take Place in that ſame inner Man; and ſo the Stream onward unto the 10th Verſe carries on a more Particular Diſcourſe concerning the State of this inner Man after Separation from the Body. Chap. IV.

It is I ſay moſt remarkable, that by this Circumlocution, If our earthly Houſe, &c. he doth moſt lively repreſent Death to be ſuch a Separation of this inward Man from the outward the Body, as that this inner Man doth ſurvive and ſtill exiſt, as it did afore. And to that end look as in the former, Finxit duos Homines (ſaith Gualter) He repreſented the Condition of the Soul in the Body by Two Men, an Inward, and an Outward, on Purpoſe to ſet forth how whilſt the outward periſhed, there was ſtill an inward Man, was ſtill renewed during this Life: So in like Manner now that Death comes to be expreſſed, Fingit duo Domicilia, He ſets up the Compariſon of Two Houſes, which this inner Man removes from, and unto: Thereby manifeſtly declaring, that it ſubſiſted ſtill; yea, and but ſhifted its dwelling Houſe at Death. Which could be to no other end done, then ſtill to make Way, to ſhew what would become of this inner Man after this Separation. Now to this end he termeth this outward Man an Houſe, as unto which the Soul is the Inmate: And who knows not that the Indweller doth, and can live and ſurvive without his Houſe; neither his Life nor Livelihood depends upon it, nor none of his inward Worth or Wealth, which he perſonally carries about him, it is but his removing out of it. And that Word, OUR Earthly Houſe, plainly intimates, that this inner Man, the Indweller bears away the Name of the Perſon, aſſumes the Title of Lord, and Owner, and ſo carries it away alone from the Body, as the Lord of a Mannor-Houſe doth from his Houſe. As if the Soul ſhould ſay, my Houſe is diſſolved, but I my ſelf am ſtill ſafe, and as I was. I my ſelf am not Diſſolved, 'tis but my Houſe. Yea, which more fully demonſtrates this, he termeth it a Tabernacle, when 'tis elſewhere termed an Houſe, yet but of Clay diſſoluble, and whoſe Foundation is in the Duſt, ſoon thrown down as the Houſe built on the Sand. But leaſt that ſhould ſignifie too much dependency of this Inmate upon it, that by tenderneſs and obnoxiouſneſs to Cold and Weather; when expoſed, it might Die (as Shell-Fiſhes, and Snails, when their Shell is cruſht, and they are ſeparated from it, Die:) He therefore adds, it is a Tabernacle. Now a Tabernacle is a covering, that hath not ſo much as a Foundation which Houſes have, but it is merely a Covering; and is ſet up but as for preſent Conveniency for a Shelter, and he that dwells in it, is himſelf ſo little Dependant on it, that he can take it, and carry it on his back, and pitch it when, and where he pleaſeth: And it is uſed by Pilgrims, and Wanderers, and Souldiers, as you know, that leaſt of all depend upon theſe Tents. Heb. 11. 9. It is ſaid of Abraham, That by Faith he ſojourned in the Land of Promiſe, dwelling in Tabernacles with Iſaac and Jacob, for he looked for a City, which hath Foundations, &c. They were Sojourners that dwelt in Tabernacles, and Tabernacles had not Foundations. And this was a Type, and a Shadow to them, and to us in them; that both they then, and we now (that is, our Souls) do dwell in Bodies, that are but Tabernacles. For the Apoſtle tells us, Ver. 13. That by this, and other their Speeches, They confeſſed, they were Strangers and Pilgrims upon Earth, declaring plainly (namely, by theſe as Types and Sayings of theirs) that they ſought a Country, ver. 14. Doth not this Paralel further argue the Apoſtles intent to be, to ſpeak to that Point, What ſhould become of this inner Man, now it comes to ſubſiſt alone; certainly he doth not ablegate us to the Reſurrection, when it ſhall have its Body again: But means to ſhew what God will do with it in the mean Time, in this Interim of Subſiſtence by it ſelf out of the Body.

Chap. IV. Another Head of Arguments is drawn from the Terms in which he forms and ſhapes his Reſolution unto this Suppoſition of Death; or, If we Die.

1. We have,] &c. As this inner Man is the Perſon, and bears the Title of it; ſo when by Death it is turn'd out of Houſe and Home, we can comfortably ſay ἔχομεν [We have] that is, inſtantly, preſently, an Houſe prepared ready. It is not Habebimus, We ſhall have; namely, at the Reſurrection. Look as the next Thought of every Man, Good and Bad upon the Suppoſition of Death [If we Die] is what is next, ſo as readily, as roundly the Apoſtle Anſwers to it, and ſays, We have, &c. And truly what needed more Words, to perſwade any that this was his meaning? If he ſhould ſay, We have, and yet intend Habebimus, We ſhall have, which is the Sence, that other Interpreters would put upon it, he had, when ſo great an Expectation had been raiſed of what ſhould be next and immediately, greatly diſappointed us. Yea, and though you ſuppoſe that ſometimes in the Phraſe of the New Teſtament, the Preſent Tenſe is put to expreſs the Future; yet in this Caſe, the Apoſtle would not have made uſe of ſuch a Criticiſm. Sure, if ever he would ſpeak plainly, and in the moſt direct Senſe, then ſurely now. As Chriſt in the Caſe of comforting his Diſciples with the Promiſe of Heaven; ſays, If it had not been ſo, I would have told you, (John 14. 2.) So here the Apoſtle would not have held them under-hand with an Expreſſion of We have, when yet he meant no more then We ſhall have, retaining them under Hopes of a Reverſion, for Diſtance of Time is a great Matter in the Caſe. Now he intends their Comfort here, as in 2 Cor. 5. Even as Chriſt did there, in John 14. And he intended the utmoſt of their Comfort: And ſo ſurely ſpeaks as plainly, as to the Point of Time, according to the Tenour of his Expreſſion; as Chriſt did, as to the reality of the Thing it ſelf. So then Eſtius is very Dilute in his Interpretation, when he ſays, that the Apoſtle by the Words, We have, only means, We ſhall have. For it is certain, that now we have the Firſt-fruits, and beginnings of Eternal Life, and he that Believes ſhall never Die, John 11.

2. Put the Particle [If] and the Words [We have] together, and Conſult the Analogy of Speech in all Languages.

1. Such a Poſture and Form of Speech ordinarily importeth [When] and ſo to ſay, if it be diſſolved, is all one as to ſay, when it is diſſolved. And this Speech here, and that of our Saviour (Luke 16. 9.) inſiſted on, is Paralel as to the Phraſe, as well as in the Subject Matter (now Chriſts Words are, When ye fail, they may receive you into Everlaſting Habitations.) Only this here of the Two is more Significant, and Punctual. That if it ſo fall out, (fall it out, when 'twill) we have a preſent Proviſion. And it is, as if a Man ſhould ſay, I have at preſent a mean Cottage, a Country Houſe I dwell in, but if Changes come by Fire or Tempeſt, Wars or Plunderings, that this be ruined; I have another dwelling, a City Houſe (to which Heavens Glory is compared, Heb. 11. 10.) ready Built and Furniſhed to remove unto. Inſomuch, that it is the ſame, as if in like Speech, the Apoſtle had ſaid, We ſhall never want an Houſe; but if we be driven hence, we have another. But if his meaning were, that for that other Houſe we muſt wait the Reſurrection; we ſhould in the mean Time have been left at a loſs in our Thoughts for an Houſe.

2. The like Frame of Speech to this, If this were Diſſolved, we have, &c. We ordinarily uſe, when we look at the preſent Condition as an hindrance to what, if that were removed, we ſhould preſently enjoy as more Happy, and more Deſireable. So that it is, as if he had ſaid (purſuing his begun Diſcourſe, and the eager Intention and Working of his Mind, and its fixing on this Eternal State, of which in the laſt Verſe afore) we ſhould have Poſſeſſion of this Glory preſently, inſtantly, were it not for this ſame Body that ſtands in our Way, and keeps us from it. If it were but Diſſolved once, we have a Glory ready. The Apoſtle hereby expreſſeth, how a Chriſtian looks at this Body (as at preſent) as an Impediment, as that which Lets (as the Apoſtle ſpeaks in another Caſe) us in our Way; and till it be taken out of the Way we are detained. Thus we ſpeak of one that hath a great Eſtate in Land, which is out in a Leaſe to another, or of a Widdows Eſtate in a Copy; if that Leaſe were out, and expired, or that Widow Dead, I have inſtantly the Poſſeſſion of a great Eſtate to fall to me, I have it, it is mine already; there is nothing but a little Time, or ſuch an ones Life between me and it, if they were but Dead once, I have it. The like you ſay of an Heir under Age, and ſo here, if this earthly Houſe were diſſolved, and the Leaſe of this Life but expired, I have another to enter into. Chap. IV.

Now that which ſtrengthens this to have been his Scope in this Form of Speech, are Two Things.

1. That he maketh the Demonſtrative Effect of this to be a Groaning, ver. 2. For in this we groan, earneſtly deſiring, &c. Now Groans are Expreſſions of earneſt Deſires, that are obſtructed, hindred, and oppreſſed, and kept from their Attainment. Groans ſuperadd that unto Deſires ſimply conſidered, and that Phraſe ἐν τούτῳ [in this] we Groan, either refers to earthly Houſe, that is, whilſt we are in this Tabernacle, or it ſerves to expreſs Time, ἐν τούτῳ χρόνῳ, interea Temporis, in the mean Time we Groan. And both theſe come all to one, to ſhew the ground of Groaning; namely, becauſe either during the Time of our being in the Houſe, till the Time of that Leaſe is out, Time hinders us; or that whilſt this Body laſts, and remains undiſſolved, we cannot arrive to that other Houſe, but we are kept from it, and hindred: Or elſe ἐν τούτῳ is for this, or upon this Account we Groan; namely, becauſe we are detained from the Enjoyment of our Deſires. Theſe Interpretations fall all in to our Purpoſe. Beza in locum. in Acts 14. 16.

2. In the 6 and 8. Verſes, He expreſly makes a being at Home in the Body an Abſence from the Lord, and a Man's own People; and he makes theſe to be the Two Peregrinations, ſuch as whilſt the one laſteth, the other is not attainable, nor doth, or can begin: So as in plain and expreſs Words, he teacheth them to look at our being in the Body, as an Hindrance and a Let to the Enjoyment of the Lord. And therefore, we deſire rather to be abſent from the Body, and we Groan ſaith the 2d Verſe, in this Body, as that which hinders us, and keeps us from our other Houſe, For if this were diſſolved we have, &c. Now if either of theſe Two Senſes given of this Form of Speech, hit the Apoſtles Intention, as both lie fair, either that, if (as noting Time) it were diſſolved we have, &c. Or that further our being in the Body, is an Impediment to the other: If either of theſe (as 'tis hard if one or both do not) it carries the Point in Hand.

3. Let us conſider thoſe Two Metaphors of an Houſe, ver. 1. And of a Garment, ver. 2, 3. Under the Notion of which he ſhapes the Subſtance of his Anſwer. And by which the Holy Ghoſt choſe to ſignifie the Condition we are to have, if diſſolved. We have (ſaith he) a Building of God, an Houſe not made with Hands, Eternal in the Heavens. And we Groan to be CLOATHED upon, ver. 2, 3. And we ſhall find by the Coherence of this Place and other Scriptures, that they fully fall in with, and ſerve our Aſſertion; namely, they ſerve to expreſs the Glory it ſelf, which we are to have in the Heavens, as well of the Soul whilſt ſeparate from the Body, as when again joined to the Body.

Now thoſe that would exclude the Glory of the Soul whilſt ſeparate, as having been in this Place intended, they with all do narrow theſe Metaphors to the Body it ſelf, when it ſhall be made Glorious. And one great Argument of theirs is taken from the Oppoſition uſed here, That if by our Earthly Houſe of this Tabernacle be meant our Bodies, then by our Houſe made without Hands in the Heavens muſt be intended alſo our Bodies, as they ſhall be made Heavenly at the Reſurrection; 1 Cor. 15. Even as their Earthly Man, and Heavenly Man are ſet in Oppoſition. And in this lies a great Part of their Strength, but now I turn it otherwiſe, not only by way of Anſwer, but by Way of Argument to the contrary. That if by the Metaphors of Houſe, and Garment, or Cloathing, the Glory of Heaven it ſelf, whether of Soul ſeparate, or of Soul and Body, be meant in Scripture, and not neceſſarily the Body alone as an Houſe made glorious with, and for the Soul to dwell in, then there is an open way, and the Plea lies fair for the ſeparate Soul's claim to this Houſe and

Cloathing upon, in the mean Time. But that under theſe Metaphors the Glory of Heaven it ſelf abſtractly conſidered is meant, is evident,

1. From the Context, for what is this Eternal in the Heavens here, but that, which but Two Verſes afore it, he had ſtiled an Eternal Weight of Glory.

2. It is evident from other Scriptures.

An Houſe, Luke 16. Receive you into Heavenly Habitations, Ver. 9. And John 14. 2. In my Fathers Houſe are many Manſions. And the Glory it ſelf is compared to an Houſe, becauſe a Man enters into it, and dwells in it, Enter into thy Maſters Joy, for it is too great to enter into the Maſter himſelf. It is called too, A Building of God not made with Hands. The ſame is ſpoken of the Glory it ſelf, of Heaven; and not of the Body. It is a City which hath Foundations, whoſe Maker and Builder is God, Heb. 11. 10. A City is an Aggregation of Houſes and Buildings; of Houſes, that are not Tabernacles; but are fixt and have Foundations for Perpetuity, which in the Text is Eternal in the Heavens, in Oppoſition unto this Tabernacle Houſe, and is the Oppoſition made there alſo, Ver. 9. Dwelling in Tabernacles.

3. That other Phraſe of a Garment, you have Rev. 6. 11. uſed to expreſs the Glory of the Saints in that other World. Yea, thoſe that are for that other Senſe, and Interpret this Houſe from Heaven to be our Bodies, are yet forced; or at leaſt muſt acknowledge that Phraſe twice uſed, Ver. 2. and 4. [Being cloathed upon] to be meant of Glory, for it cannot be meant, that we remaining in theſe Bodies, ſhould yet be over and above Cloathed upon with other Bodies over them. It were abſurd to ſay, He ſhould mean a putting new Bodies for Subſtance over theſe we have already. As Muſculus hath obſerved: So as even according to their Interpretation which they would put upon it, Glory abſtractly conſidered, muſt be intended as that wherewith we are Cloathed upon: And if under that Phraſe [Cloathed upon] Glory abſtractly conſidered, is intended by their Senſe; then under the Word [Houſe] alſo the ſame muſt be intended. For the Apoſtle joineth both as one, ver. 2. To be CLOATHED UPON with our HOUSE that is from Heaven. And again in Ver. 4. It is [Life] that is ſaid to ſwallow up the Mortality, and therefore Glory ſimply conſidered is the Thing, the Apoſtle intended in his Diſcourſe. And if ſo: This of an Houſe, &c. are applicable as well to the Soul to be Cloathed upon therewith without the Body, as when it is in the Body. For that the Soul ſeparate is capable of Glory none can deny.

In the Fourth Place, to come yet nearer and more Home to the Point in Hand. The Glory of the Soul when ſeparate from the Body is in the Scriptures (yea it falls out in thoſe very Scriptures fore-mentioned) plainly and directly intended under theſe Two Metaphors thereby expreſſing that State of Glory Men's Souls have, when apart from their Bodies.

1. That the Soul when ſeparate from the Body hath an Houſe of Glory, or a glorious Condition compared to an Houſe, provided for it. This is clear by that of Luke 16. That when ye fail, they may receive you into Everlaſting Habitations. Which muſt be our Houſe in Heaven; for 'tis that Houſe in which Everlaſtingly the Soul dwells both out of the Body firſt, and with the Body for ever.

2. The other of being Cloathed upon, we have Rev. 6. 9, 11. And when he had opened the fifth Seal, I ſaw under the Altar the Souls of them that were ſlain for the Word of God, and for the Teſtimony which they held. And white Robes were given unto every one of them. You ſee they are the Souls of them that were ſlain, and that whilſt going naked out of their Bodies, that have Robes given to cover and array them, as a Reward; (as the Word given imports,) The Gift of God is Eternal Life, Rom. 6. White Robes; Enſigns of Glory and Bleſſedneſs. When they come to Heaven they are a new inſtalled, both Kings and Prieſts (as this Book hath it) and accordingly cloathed with new Robes.

1. As Kings: So David, 1 Chron. 15. 27. Joſeph as Governor, Gen. 41. 42. Mordecai, Eſth. 6. 11.

2. As Prieſts: Who when firſt brought into the inner Court of the Temple, had their Veſtments put on; ſo theſe Souls when firſt entred into the Holy of Holies, Holies, that is, Heaven (as the Epiſtle to the Hebrews ſpeaks) are Cloathed in their Robes. This is more plain, Chap. 7. 13, 14, 15. Theſe have waſht their Robes, and made them White in the Blood of the Lamb. Therefore are they before the Throne of God, and ſerve him Day and Night in his Temple, and he that ſitteth on the Throne ſhall dwell among them. 'Tis an Alluſion to the Cuſtom of the Prieſts, when a-new admitted into the Temple. Chap. IV.

3. And Thirdly, White Robes are an Enſign of Glory. The Angels of Glory, when they appear, they do appear Cloathed in long White Garments, Mark 16. 5. John 20. 11. The ſame is ſaid of theſe Souls, becauſe now made like the Angels.

4. For Souls ſeparate to be thus Cloathed upon, agrees with the Phraſe Naked, uſed in the Text; as alluding unto the State of the Soul new coming out, from being Cloathed with a Badge; and ſo having Robes put over it: And this more properly, than it could be ſpoken of Souls continuing in their Bodies without Diſſolution, of which more anon.

In the laſt Place; It may be obſerved, That he ſpeaks of this Houſe and Glory as now ready, and built, ſtanding empty as it were, and waiting for its Inhabitants. It is a building of God not made with Hands. And that you may ſee, I do not obſerve this without Ground; Compare with it that Parallel of Heb. 11. 10. Abraham looked for a City, whoſe Maker and Builder is God. And ver. 16. Wherefore God was not aſhamed to be called their God, for he hath prepared for them a City: And had done ſo when he firſt called himſelf his, and their God. And Chriſt in like Manner ſays, I go to prepare a Place for you: In my Fathers Houſe are many Manſions. Now of the Body, that Spiritual Body to come, it could not be thus ſaid, that it were built and prepared already: For it is as yet to be raiſed up, and it lies in the Grave until that Day, as Peter ſpeaks of David, Acts 2. And again, when is this declared concerning Abraham and thoſe Patriarchs? The Words are ſpoken of what was provided and prepared for their Souls againſt their Death; as that which comforted them againſt their not poſſeſſing Canaan, but dwelling in Tabernacles, and ſo alſo againſt that their Deaths, as I ſhewed, and as the Matter indeed evidenceth of it ſelf.

And the Parallel and Correſpondency of that Place, concerning thoſe Saints of the Old Teſtament; and of this my Text concerning the Hopes of the Saints of the New is very great and ſtrong. In the Verſe afore, Ver. 9. It is ſaid, Abraham ſojourned as in a ſtrange Land, dwelling in Tabernacles with Iſaac and Jacob. Types both of their own, and of our dwelling in the Term of this Life, in theſe earthly Houſes and Tabernacles. For when the Jews his Seed were poſſeſſed of this Land, and dwelt in Houſes of Stone, yet they were to keep a Feaſt in Tabernacles once a Year, to ſhew they dwelt but as in Tabernacles at the beſt, ſhortly to be pull'd down: And yet looking all that while for a City, whoſe Maker and Builder is God; when their Tabernacle Condition ſhould be ended. And God to Comfort theſe Patriarchs againſt this their Tabernacle Life at preſent, and their Dying without the Poſſeſſion of Canaan, Tells them he had already prepared a City (which is an Aggregation of Houſes) for them. And in the ſtyling himſelf their God and their great Reward, (as to Abraham he doth) he thereby ſheweth at once both that their Souls ſhould ſtill live (for as Chriſt ſays, God is the God of the Living) and alſo that he had took Care of them, made Proviſion for them, and would not for the leaſt ſpace of Time leave them deſtitute: But had prepared another Countrey and Houſes to entertain them in. Wherefore ſaith the Text twice, God is not aſhamed to be called their God: Even becauſe he had made ſuch abundant Proviſion for them, like to the great God indeed; if but a Man ſhould have a Friend that were turn'd out of Houſe and Home, and ſhould not have an Houſe to entertain him inſtantly upon it, he would be aſhamed: And ſo would God ſays he, if he had not prepared a City for them. Abraham is call'd the Friend of God, even as God ſtiles himſelf his God. And Abraham therefore ſhall not want (no not for a Moment) Entertainment when his Tabernacle Condition ceaſeth. Nay God hath prepared another aforehand on Purpoſe for him.

Chap. V.

CHAP. V.

A State of Glory for Believers upon their Diſſolution, Demonſtrated from thoſe Vehement and Earneſt Deſires, which God hath implanted in them, after ſuch a State.

II Corinthians V. ii, iii.

Ver. ii. For in this we groan earneſtly, deſiring to be cloathed upon, with our Houſe which is from Heaven.

Ver. iii. If ſo be, that being cloathed, we ſhall not be found naked.

THE Senſe of the Firſt Verſe being thus fixed, to ſpecifie the Glory of the Soul upon the Bodies Diſſolution; our next Work is, to Examine, whether the following Words do give up themſelves thereto; yea, or no: For, if they ſhould be found averſe to, and not correſpondent herewith, or favour another Senſe in the Second Verſe; we profeſs, we muſt relinquiſh it in the Firſt Verſe alſo: Although we may ſafely and aſſuredly, take the Senſe of the 1ſt. Verſe, as the Cynoſura, or Poleſtar, to ſteer us in the Enſuing Interpretation of the reſt. This Firſt Verſe, as it leads on the reſt, ſo it holds the Balance; which is evident by this, that he there utters what is the Faith of a Chriſtian concerning the Glory to come, when he is diſſolved: And in Ver. 2, &c. he proceeds to ſhew the Effects, or Workings of the Heart and Affections towards this Glory, as flowing from this Faith. True, Saving Faith or Knowledge, always works upon the Affections ſuitably to the Object believed or known: For we know, &c. ſays the firſt Verſe; There is the Act of Faith: For we groan, earneſtly deſiring, Ver. 2, 4. There are the Affections flowing from this Faith, and flowing from it as the Effect from the Cauſe. Hence then, it will evidently follow, That Look what Glory it is, that in the firſt Verſe, he hath propoſed as the Object of our Faith, the very ſame we aforehand conclude, to be the Object of our Deſires and Groanings; Ver. 2, 3, 4. which is evident again by Ver. 5. Now he that wrought us for the ſelf-ſame Thing is God, &c. This is the Concluſion of his Diſcourſe from Ver. 1. as from thence, He draws a Thread through the whole afore, and ties a Knot of it at Ver. 5. by telling us that the Self-ſame Glory, which he had ſpoken of (Ver. 1.) as the Object of Faith, and as the Object of our Deſires (Ver. 2, 4.) was the End aimed at in Working all theſe, and whatever elſe Effects of Grace in us: I ſay, then (in the Apoſtle's own Phraſe) it is one and the ſelf-ſame Thing of Glory, which ſtill he profeſſeth to carry through all theſe Verſes, from the firſt to the laſt. Let this be our Rule then, and let us keep to the ſame, the Expoſition of all that follows.

But although (as I ſaid) we might ſafely conclude, and take for granted, that this is the Sence of theſe Second and Third Verſes, the ſame which is of the firſt: Yet we will ſtill put the Iſſue upon a particular Examination of each Word in the ſecond and third Verſes. I ſhall go from Word to Word, and ſee how all will comply with this Interpretation, that the Glory of the Soul after Death is firſt in Order here intended.

For we groan. He had ſaid afore, We know, if this Tabernacle be diſſolved, we have, &c. This Particle, For, leads on a Demonſtration from the Effect. It is a Demonſtration or Evidence.

1. That There is ſuch a Glory for the Soul: For God's Spirit would not otherwiſe have ſtirred up ſuch groaning Deſires (which is Aquinas his Note upon the Place, and it is a good One) for if there be no regular Deſire in Nature, ſays he, but that by God's Ordination there is an Object exiſtent for it, it, then ſurely not in Grace, and therefore it muſt be ſo here, that if the Spirit of God doth work ſuch vehement Deſires after ſuch a Glory, that then there is ſuch a Glory extant or ordained to be; Bleſſed are thoſe that thirſt, for they ſhall be ſatisfied; Mat. 5. 6.

2. It is an Evidence, that our Faith is real Faith, and that we Chriſtians do truly know, and really believe ſo much; Why? For we conſtantly groan after this Thing we thus know, Deſires following upon Knowledge.

3. This Particle, For, with what follows, comes in as an undoubted Sign and Evidence, who they are, that are the Perſons here, that ſhall be Partakers of this Glory, they are ſuch, as upon the Faith and Knowledge they have of this Glory, Do groan earneſtly after it Day and Night, and thereby do particularly come to know, and are perſonally aſſured thereof, becauſe they find their Deſires conſtantly maintained in them after it, and ſo the Words run, as to this Sence, We know; and we know it by this, For we groan after it. For ſuch continual Groans are the infallible Effect of True and Sanctifying Faith, and ſo tokens and evidences to the Perſons in whom they are, that this Glory is ordained for them; yea, and as the Apoſtle ſays (Rom. 8. 23.) They are The firſt Fruits of the Spirit, and ſo the very Beginning and Earneſt of that Glory, as the 5th. Verſe alſo ſpeaks.

This may ſerve for the Opening of the Connexion; now for the Point it ſelf afore us, I argue for it, out of what hath been ſaid. This Second Verſe being thus intended, as a Demonſtration, that There is a Bleſſedneſs eſtated upon Holy Souls upon Diſſolution (which hath been proved to be the full Scope of the 1ſt. Verſe) and that Demonſtration being founded on this, that if God hath wrought groaning Deſires after an Object, he hath alſo deſigned that Object to be exiſtent, wherewith to ſatisfie thoſe Deſires, and if ſo, then certainly this Bleſſedneſs of Souls, we ſpeak of, muſt be the very Thing groaned after, and deſired in this Second Verſe. For it is made the Object of our Faith, Ver. 1. whereas if we take the Interpretation, Others give of this ſecond Verſe, the Demonſtration would then lye croſs to it ſelf, viz. That upon Diſſolution, there is ſuch a Glory ordained the Soul, becauſe God daily ſtirs up Deſires in Chriſtians after a Glory, to be put upon their Bodies without Diſſolution at all. Now this were moſt incongruous and utterly improper, for not only the one followed not from the other, but the latter doth run upon a contrary Suppoſition to that other, and therefore can never be made a Demonſtration of the former. I would exemplifie the Abſurdity of this by a like Inſtance. Suppoſe, a Woman hath an Husband condemned to dye, would this be taken as a Legal Evidence, that the Prince hath eſtated on her a Dowry or Widow's Eſtate If her Husband dye; becauſe, forſooth, it can be proved he ſet her on Work to petition, and deſire of him that her Husband might not dye, but have an Eſtate ſetled on him and on her, both living ſtill together; certainly, ſhe could make no Claim at all of an Eſtate, or Widow's Dowry after her Husband's Death thereby. For the latter runs upon a Suppoſition of what is clean contrary to the former. It might indeed be morally argued, that the Prince did bear a good Will and Reſpect to the Woman, to take Care of her, if her Husband were dead, but legally ſhe could not plead, that ſuch a Jointure, or Dowry were his declared Intendment; and the like Invalidity of Evidence would be found here.

But if we underſtand it, that this Groaning is a Demonſtrative of the Truth and Reality of that Faith, which a Chriſtian is ſaid to have (v. 1.) concerning that Glory, and of his Propriety in it upon this Ground, becauſe theſe Groanings are wrought by God in his Heart, as the ſure and proper Effects of ſuch a Faith, which carrieth his Soul out in Deſires after that Glory, he believes: This doth abſolutely and neceſſarily require, that that very ſame Glory, which is the Object of this Faith for Knowledge, ſhould alſo be the Object of thoſe his Deſires: For Knowledge worketh upon the Deſire in the Vertue of the Object known, or at leaſt it muſt be granted to work it towards the Object known. But now in this Caſe to ſay, we know, and know by Faith, there is a Glory for our Souls when our Bodies are diſſolved (as intended in the 1ſt. Verſe) becauſe we are carried out to deſire a Glory of our Bodies and Souls, without any Diſſolution of our Bodies dies (as intended in the 2d. Verſe.) Here is no Conſequence at all between theſe two as Cauſe and Effect, for they have ſeveral Objects; it muſt therefore neceſſarily remain, that it is one and the ſame individual ſort of Glory is believed and alſo groaned for, inſomuch as if the Glory of the Soul upon Diſſolution of the Body be in the firſt Verſe intended, as that which is believed, it muſt be the ſame and no other that is groaned for, v. 2. And indeed the Object of both is therefore ſpecify'd, and ſet out under one and the ſame Expreſſion in both Verſes; namely, Our Houſe. Thus much may ſuffice for what this Demonſtrative Particle, For, doth afford.

2. The Next Words are, IN THIS, ἐν τούτῳ, we groan.

There are three Iterpretations put upon this Phraſe, and each and all of them will comport, and fall in with my Argument in Hand.

1. Ἐν τούτῳ, In This, is put (ſays Beza) for Interea Temporis, ἐν τούτῳ χρόνῳ, In the mean Time; he referring us to Acts 24. 16. for the like Uſage of the Phraſe. And ſo taken the Words of both Verſes will look at one another thus, We know, if our Earthly Houſe be diſſolved, we have a Glory then at that time to be given us: For in the mean time, namely, until that our Diſſolution, We groan for it. This Interpretation ſo connected evidently points out the Time of Diſſolution to be the laſt Period of that Groaning, and the Beginning of the Enjoyment of that Glory. There is only an Interim, or Space of Time till then.

See Beza on this place and on Acts 24. 16.

A Second Sence given is, that the Phraſe, In this, ſignifies, In this Tabernacle; as ver. 4. ſeems to explain it. But yet even then, if unto this you joyn but that Clauſe, If this Tabernacle were diſſolved (which will ſtill be ſure to follow us, and enter its Claim to be taken in as the Terminus and Occaſion of our Groaning) then certainly it falls moſt naturally to this Sence, That in this Tabernacle, we groan for that Glory, which when it is diſſolved, we ſhall have in a Condition that is out of it; and that whilſt we are in this Earthly Tabernacle, we therefore groan until it be diſſolved upon the aſſured Knowledge, that if once it were diſſolved, we have a Glory in Heaven ready to be given to us.

The Third Sence given is, Unto this we groan, or; For this. Thus the Orientel Verſions, the Syriack and Arabick render it. A Lapide out of the firſt of them gives this Sence in thoſe plain Words, that we groan for this, that our Mortal Houſe were diſſolved; and ſo the Senſe runs clear, That ſeeing we know, we cannot in the Ordinary Courſe, ſet by God (v. 1.) attain this Glory unleſs diſſolved, we groan out of an Eagerneſs of Deſire. even for that Diſſolution it ſelf in Order, and in a Tendency thereunto; even as Paul ſays (Phil. 1. 23.) I deſire to depart (as our Tranſlators have render'd it) namely, in Order to be with Chriſt. And truly, although Diſſolution is not in direct Words made the Object of our Groaning here, yet take the whole Contexture, and it is tacitly, and perhaps neceſſarily ſuppoſed and implied in this place: And to that End it was, the Apoſtle made that Correction and Limitation of his Meaning, v. 4. We Groan being burthened, not that we would be uncloathed, that is, whereas I had ſaid, even we groan for this Alteration, being burthened, yet not ſimply, or for its own ſake, or the natural Conſequent thereof, Eaſe from Burthens, or the like, but to the End to obtain that Glory, which cannot be had without a Diſſolution.

3. The next Words are, We Groan. The Apoſtle having pitcht the Date of our Expectations to be Diſſolution, there appears therein a ſpecial Reaſon, why we ſhould be ſaid To groan (that's his firſt Word) as well as to Deſire (which he adds) which how it makes for our Sence I ſhewed upon v. 1. The Effect of which lies in this, That becauſe this Earthly, Vile Body ſtands in the Way between Us, and the immediate Enjoyment of this Glory; this therefore, gives us juſt Occaſion of Groaning in this Tabernacle. Groans, we know, are properly Deſires obſtructed and hindred; and we In this Tabernacle (till it be diſſolved) looking upon our ſelves as hindred and detained all that time from that deſired Glory, Hence we groan. And further perhaps it is ſaid, that We groan in this Tabernacle, or, in the mean time of this Life for this Diſſolution, as in a Diſtinction from the Deſires, which ſeparate Souls in Glory have for that Greater Fulneſs of Glory to come at the Day of Judgment, which are Deſires in them indeed, but not Groans; they being ſatisfied and quieted in the mean Seaſon, with a Glory ſuitable to that Condition of Separate Souls, they being made Spirits perfect, as perfect as the Spirits of Men ſeparate from their Bodies can be. A white Robe being given every one of them; (Rev. 6. 11.) they are bidden therewith to Reſt. But in Saints on Earth there is A Groaning, until their Change from this burthenſome Life ſhall come, and their Pilgrimage, and Apprenticeſhip be out. We that are (that is exiſtent) in this Tabernacle, we do groan, and we only, v. 4. Chap. VI.

And hence a new Argument may be added, ſtrengthning and confirming what hath been urg'd, That if the Souls of Saints departed had not ſuch Robes, that is, a Glory inſtantly given them when out of this Tabernacle, truly it would occaſion after their Departure hence New Groanings, or the ſame to be ſtill continued; and then the Apoſtle would not have terminated our Groaning only unto our being in this Tacernacle, or in this mean time, nor would he have confined it only to this Life: But if We groan here being burthened; (as v. 4. hath it) we ſhould have had Occaſion to have groaned a ſecond Time in the other World alſo, if Glory had been ſuſpended, and we had been ſtill delayed, eſpecially withal conſidering that Eagerneſs of Deſire, which the Apoſtle there expreſſeth to be in us, after a being cloathed upon. But, ſays our Apoſtle, In this we groan, and in this only: And therefore, there is a Bleſſedneſs in the other World, that waits for our Souls againſt our coming thither, which is beſtowed preſently upon the Soul which ſatisfies it, and prevents all Groanings for ever, after Diſſolution.

Unto all this, it is Objected by thoſe of the other Opinion, that in Rom. 8. the Object of the Groaning of the Saints is expreſly ſaid to be that State of Glory, that follows upon the Reſurrection, and therefore, that alſo is here intended. The Words there are, Even we our ſelves groan within our ſelves, waiting for the Adoption, the Redemption of our Body: Ver. 23. Objection.

For Anſwer, 1. Neither We nor They can deny, but that both that Fulneſs of Glory at the Reſurrection, as alſo this Entrance into and Beginning of Glory, which the Spirits of Juſt Men made perfect do in the mean time enjoy, are, and ought to be the Objects of Chriſtians groaning for here in this Life: And if both are, and ought to be, then look, as ſome Scriptures mention the one more eminently as the Object of our Deſires, ſo ſome other Scriptures muſt alſo be ſuppoſed to do the other, and ſo that hinders not at all, that this ſhould be the Meaning of the Apoſtle here; yea, it would rather ſeem, that as that of the Romans ſpeaks of our Groaning for the Redemption of the Body, ſo it leaves room for this here to ſpeak more eminently of that, which is for the Soul's Glory in that mean time, 'till that of the Body be added. Anſwer 1.

2. Secondly, I Anſwer, There is a Different Ground, or Occaſion mentioned for that Groaning there, and for this here; which diſtinct Characters are engraven upon each to mark out the one for that one Sence, the other for this other. The Occaſion of their Groaning, Rom. 8. is the Doctrine of the Reſtitution of all Things, the Revelation and Glorious Liberty of the Sons of God, v. 19, 21. to be MANIFESTED to all the World, and to be accompanied with the freeing the whole Creation from that Vanity and Bondage they are now in, and for them to have a Participation of ſome Priviledge in a ſuitable proportion. And ſo that Groaning, which the Saints have thereupon, is after that which is common with the whole Creation, in the univerſal Perfection of it, and of Us Saints, as the Object of it there: But this can no way be drawn, as a neceſſary Inſtance, that ſhould give A Law to the ſame Intendment of this Groaning here, where the Occaſion is upon another Thing, which in the mean time falls out, What if our Earthly Houſe be diſſolved, which falls out to ſome Chriſtians or other every Day: But what then? why then We have an Houſe, &c. A Glory in the Heavens ready for us, and this Groaning here coming in upon the mention of Glory in the Interim (v. 1.) Hence it hath for its Object the State that is next, even of the Soul upon its Diſſolution: So as the Ground of this Groaning is a particular Caſe, and upon an Occaſion different from that other in Romans 8. Anſwer 2.

Chap. VI.

Again, 3. If they urge that Place as parallel to this, becauſe of the Word Groaning. We muſt take Liberty to urge another parallel Place, becauſe of the Word Deſiring; which is in Order of the next Word in this Verſe to be taken Notice of. We groan earneſtly, Deſiring. Now elſewhere the Object of our Deſires in this kind is made that Glory, the Soul hath upon Diſſolution, Phil. 1. 23. Having a Deſire to depart, and to be with Chriſt, which is far better: Yea, and to Depart firſt, as it is in Order to our being with Chriſt; that is the Object of his Deſires there. So then ſet one againſt the other.

4. The next Word is, Deſiring. The doubling of theſe two ſhew the inſtant Eagerneſs of Deſire; as in Gen. 31. 30. Longing, thou longedſt; or, Deſiring, thou deſiredſt. Thus alſo in Luke 22. 15. With Deſire have I deſired; as a Woman longing, or groaning in Travail to be delivered, and deſiring to bring forth a Child. Now ſuch vehement Longings, and double Deſires are uſually, if not always pitcht upon, What is to be had preſently, and not long delayed. When we ſee not much Time in View betwixt, then it falls out that Deſires are quickened, and doubled, and ſharpned, even by what is near, and very near. Now the Glory at the Reſurrection, although greater in it ſelf, yet is and was to them afar off, and is ſo yet to us. But if we were once but diſſolved, we ſhould have an Houſe. This Salvation is near (as the Prophet ſpeaks) there are but a few Moments between, but a few Inches. It is this Proximity, or Nearneſs that moves, and ſtirs up a Deſiring. We deſire, &c.

But further Conſider 'tis with a Groaning we deſire. There is ſome Emphaſis, both put together, to our purpoſe. Groaning reſpects the preſent Condition of Miſery and Frailty, v. 4. We groan being burthened: And Deſiring, reſpects the Glory that is to follow Diſſolution. Take a Woman in Travail, Groaning under Pains, and withal ſuppoſe her being told, and aſſured, or to know aſſuredly, that when ſhe is delivered, ſhe ſhall have a Son, a Man-Child, which Man-Child ſhall thirty or forty Years after, become a Great Emperor over many Dominions; but for the preſent upon her Delivery, he ſhall be born a King, and made Happy and Glorious: Certainly, her groaning Deſires in this Caſe would be pitcht upon this, that is next, and more immediately to follow upon her Delivery. Her very Pains and preſent Throws, and Groanings, would rather ſo direct and guide her Thoughts and Deſires, rather than to chear her ſelf meerly with what ſhould be many Years after. For, alas, ſhe is in preſent Pain, and in that Caſe to think of a preſent Deliverance, and thereupon withal of a preſent Greatneſs and Glory, though leſs, would move her much more in groaning to deſire.

That which is deſir'd, is, To be cloathed upon with our Houſe, which is from Heaven; as it follows in the next Words. That by Our Houſe from Heaven, which is alſo here compared unto a Cloathing, that under the Notion of us, both theſe Metaphors or Similitudes The Glory of the Souls departed afore the Reſurrection was clearly expreſſed in the Scriptures, I ſhewed in opening the 1ſt. Verſe. Therefore, I ſhall not at all inſiſt on thoſe Words any more, but my Buſineſs now is to be taken up about this Expreſſion, Cloathed upon; and ſo I ſhall ſhew why the Glory of the Soul even afore the Reſurrection ſhould be termed A Cloathing upon, implying An upper Garment unto the Soul when ſeparate from the Body. And hereupon begins a ſecond Controverſie, from what hitherto hath bin proſecuted (upon Ver. 1.) This Word, Cloathed upon, being uſed twice by the Apoſtle here, and thoſe other Words that follow as in Explication of it, Cloathed, and Naked putting us upon a new Diſquiſition. Thoſe that underſtand the firſt Verſe, to ſpeak (under the Metaphor of An Houſe, &c.) of our Glorious Bodies to be given us at the Reſurrection, do ſimilarly, or in correſpondent like manner interpret theſe Words, Cloathing and Nakedneſs, (v. 3.) to refer unto our Bodies. The Soul of a Saint dead, and ſeparate from his Body, is ſaid (ſay they) to be naked. But we that ſtand for that other Interpretation given of Ver. 1. That the Glory of the Soul preſently upon Diſſolution is intended, do in a ſuitableneſs to that Opinion ſay, That theſe Metaphors of Cloathed and Naked, are uſed in reference unto the Cloathing by Grace, Holineſs, or the Righteouſ- neſs of Chriſt. And ſo our being Cloathed upon with Glory, doth reſpect a putting of Glory over that Soul that is firſt found Cloathed with theſe, here in this Life.

And accordingly, either as the Soul at Diſſolution wants, or is devoid of theſe, it is ſaid to be Naked; as having put on theſe, 'tis ſaid of it, that it is Cloathed, and ſo in a prepared Diſpoſition unto Glory: And anſwerably it is either left for ever utterly Naked, and expoſed to Gods Wrath, or it is Cloathed upon with that Glory in Heaven, provided for all ſuch, who are Cloathed with Chriſts Righteouſneſs. Whereas the other Interpretation ſays, the Glory of Heaven, and Immortality put upon both Soul and Body, is the Cloathing upon, that is here intended; our Bodies ſay they, being the natural Cloathing to the Soul.

As to their Opinion, they to carry it on throughout are conſtrained to make ſome Variation in the Senſe, of the 1ſt, 2, 3, and 4th Verſes, as I obſerved at my Entrance into the 1ſt Verſe. For they ſay, that in that firſt Verſe, the Apoſtle intends to utter the general Faith of all Chriſtians to be this, that if they Die, and their Bodies be Diſſolved; yet however, they are ſure to have their Bodies reſtored with Glory by the General Reſurrection: But then as for the 2, 3, 4th Verſes, they ſay, his Scope ſhould be, that in Conſideration they muſt thus firſt Die, and have their Bodies Diſſolved, and their Souls and Bodies firſt to Part (which is ſo Abhorrent a Thing to Nature) therefore Chriſtians do generally Groan, rather to have their Souls continue ſtill Cloathed in the Body; and ſo without Dying both of them together, to be Cloathed upon with the Glory from Heaven, which one Day our Bodies ſhall have: And this they make the meaning of the 2d Verſe, For in this we groan, earneſtly deſiring to be cloathed upon with our Houſe, which is from Heaven. And yet, becauſe ſuch deſires are not Regular, nor ſuch as they ought to be, if carried out to Things impoſſible, or which God never willeth; therefore the Apoſtle adds a Correction to theſe Deſires, as grounded upon a Suppoſition of what is Gods Ordination towards ſome Saints; Ver. 3. If ſo be, that being Cloathed, we ſhall not be found Naked; namely, that ſeeing it will be the Lot of ſome Saints, to be found alive at the Day of Judgment: Who ſhall not Die, but have their Bodies on the ſudden Changed and Cloathed upon with Glory (as you have it in 1 Cor. 15. 51, 52. and 1 Theſſ. 4. 15, 17.) and this being then a known and common Notion, poſſeſſing the Hearts of all Believers in thoſe Primitive Times: Accordingly theſe Interpreters do ſuppoſe, that Paul here utters his own, and directs all their Deſires, generally to groan after this Priviledge, that they might not Die; but that, without being Diſſolved, their Bodies might be Changed into glorious Bodies, without any more ado. And unto this Senſe, they Interpret the 3d Verſe, If ſo be, that being Cloathed, we ſhall not be found Naked; that is, (ſay they) our Deſire or Groaning is limitted to this Suppoſition; or with this Correction (ſaith Piſcator) If ſo be, it prove to be our Lot to live till that Day, and ſo being then ſtill Cloathed with our Bodies, or, alive, we be not found Naked; that is, in the number of thoſe Saints that are Dead: So that being Cloathed, they Interpret, found Cloathed with their Bodies; and Nakedneſs, they oppoſitely Interpret to be Death; and to be found Naked, to be of the Number of the generality of the Saints, who will be Dead; and their Souls ſeparate, and naked from their Bodies juſt at the Reſurrection. And then the Words of the 4th Verſe, do (as they ſuppoſe) with full Stream fall into their Channel. Ver. 4. For we that are in this Tabernacle do Groan, being burthened (with daily Miſeries and Infirmities) not for that we would be uncloathed; that is, we would not Die, Nature cauſeth us to abhor that, but we would be Cloathed upon Alive; that is, living in our Bodies until that Day. We would rather have our Bodies (which are but as a Garment to the Soul) Cloathed upon with that glorious State, that ſo Mortality which is now the Condition of our Bodies might be conſummately, and once for ever ſwallowed up of Life, as at that Day it will be to thoſe that ſo remain, yea, unto all elſe, that then ſhall riſe, as in 1 Cor. 15. you have it. This is the brief Summ of their Opinion.

Chap. VI.

In which Interpretation of theirs, there is this apparent Variation (I might ſay Deviation, for ſuch it will be found anon) between what they deliver to be the Senſe of the firſt Verſe, and of the other that follow, that the Apoſtle ſhould intend in the firſt Verſe, the Reſurrection it ſelf of glorious Bodies after Diſſolution, and Death firſt ſuppoſed; but in the following Verſes, they divert to another Suppoſition; namely, unto a Glory of our Bodies without Diſſolution or a Reſurrection, and under that Conſideration make it the Object of all Chriſtians Groans, and Deſires.

But we on the other Hand frame our Interpretation uniformly, as to one and the ſame Thing being the Object both of our Faith and Groans, thus.

1. That the Saints know by Faith, that if once theſe earthly Tabernacles were Diſſolved; they have, inſtantly upon that Diſſolution, an Houſe and Cloathing of Glory prepared, and ready built to entertain them, both then, and ſo for ever; whether in the Body, or out of the Body, afore, or at the Reſurrection; and they knowing this aſſuredly by Faith, do therefore.

2. Groan for the Time of their Diſſolution, as the next and firſt Stage of that Glory; as Job did, Job 14. 14. All the Days of my appointed Time will I wait, till my Change come. They Groan out of eagerneſs of Deſiring the Poſſeſſion of that Glory, which is thus to begin, when this miſerable Life is ended, and then a Life will begin, which ſhall never have an end.

3. Thoſe, who thus Groan, and expect, are yet with all admoniſht to be careful, and earneſtly ſolicitous to put on more and more the inner Man, to be Cloathed with Grace, and to be found having the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt; and to keep their Garments cloſe about them to the Laſt, leſt they be found Naked, which is the Caſe and Condition of Multitudes of Profeſſors, when God takes away their Souls; and unto that end it is, that the Apoſtle inſerts this, by way of Caution or Warning. If ſo be, that being Cloathed, we be not found Naked, ver. 3. And to put them in continual Mind of this, and to make way for this Caution, as expreſſed under theſe Metaphors, it was, that he on Purpoſe choſe that other Metaphor, of being (whereby to expreſs the Poſſeſſion of Heavenly Glory) Cloathed upon, as that which ſuppoſeth, a being found under Cloathed with Grace and Holineſs: The Neceſſity of which Cloathing by Grace, he illuſtrateth by the contrary Condition of theſe Mens Souls, that depart this Life devoid of this Cloathing. How unconceivably miſerable muſt they be, that are found Naked, not of their Bodies only, but of all ſpiritual Cloathing; and thereby lie expoſed to the Wrath of God, driven out of all Shelter, Houſe, and Home, and covered with nothing but Confuſion of Face?

CHAP. VI.

That the Cloathing mentioned in the Text, 2 Cor. 5. 3. Doth Import the Spiritual Cloathing of the Soul in this Life, as a Preparation unto Glory.

THE Difference of Interpretation being thus Stated, there are Two Things to be Treated of in the 2d and 3d Verſes.

1. That Cloathing, and anſwerably Nakedneſs here, are ſimilitudes that do refer unto to ſpiritual Cloathing of the Soul while in this Life, as it is a Preparation unto Glory or to a being Cloathed upon.

2. I ſhall ſhew the Incongruities that accompany that other Interpretation, which aſſerts that Cloathing and Nakedneſs ſhould relate ſimply to our Mortal Bodies.

The Account and Demonſtration of the firſt, will be diſpatcht by theſe enſuing Concluſions or Conſiderations.

1. No

Chap. VI.

1. No Man can deny, but that the ordinary and frequent Uſe of theſe Two Phraſes in the Scriptures (when they are uſed as Metaphors, and applied to the Soul, both which is the Caſe here, what ever Senſe be taken) is intended of ſpiritual Cloathing, or Nakedneſs, eſpecially when thus conjoined, and ſet as in Oppoſition together, Cloathed and not Naked, as here, which Doubling of it muſt have a ſpecial Emphaſis in it, and that as to our Senſe; and againſt theirs, of which more in the Sequel. I Counſel thee (ſays Chriſt, Rev. 3. 18.) to buy of me White Raiment, that thou mayſt be cloathed, and that the ſhame of thy Nakedneſs do not appear. And in Rev. 16. 15. Bleſſed is he that keeps his Garments, leſt he walk Naked, and they ſee his Shame. He turns it both Ways (as it is here) Cloathed, and not Naked. This laſt Place I cite, becauſe in many Copies and Scholia's upon this 3d Verſe of my Text, it is found in the Margent thereof, and thereby we are referred unto it, as a Comment upon the Words. Æſtius.

2. If the next Enquiry be, what more particularly the Scripture holds forth, to be our Spiritual Cloathing to be obtained, firſt in this Life, in order to that other: It is to be conſidered, that the Scripture laſt cited, mentioned Garments in the Plural; as indeed in Uſe amongſt Men, the ordinary Apparel of every Man conſiſts of more Garments than one; and that in Diſtinction from his uppermoſt Garment he is Cloathed upon withal. So that the Cloathing of the Soul in this Life, though conſiſting of Two Garments, is reckoned but as one Cloathing, in Diſtinction from that Glory we are Cloathed upon withal in the other World. Now, this Cloathing in this Life are (as Calvin obſerves upon this Place) Two, 1. Chriſts Righteouſneſs. 2. Sanctification of the Spirit.

1. Chriſt and his Righteouſneſs put on by Faith, Gal. 3. 26, 27. For ye are all the Children of God by Faith in Jeſus Chriſt. For as many of you, as have been Baptized into Chriſt, have put on Chriſt. Which is fitly termed a Clothing, for a Cloathing ſerves for a covering of Nakedneſs and Deformities, and ſometimes Sores and Defilements. And our Juſtification by Chriſt's Righteouſneſs, is in that reſpect ſtiled a Covering to us, as well as an Adorning of us, and making us Righteous in the ſight of God. Therefore in one, and the ſame Place, Righteouſneſs is ſaid to be imputed, and thereby Sins to be covered, as the Apoſtle clearly argues it, Rom. 4. 6, 7. By his comparing the Words uſed of David's Juſtification (Pſalm 32.) expreſſed by covering Sin; and of Abraham's Juſtification, which was an Imputation of Righteouſneſs without Works of our own; it is apparent that this Righteouſneſs, with which we are cloathed, muſt be anothers; for alſo it is ſaid, to be imputed to us. And whoſe but Chriſt's Obedience (Rom. 5. 19.) is ſaid to make us Righteous, whoſe Name is Jehovah our Righteouſneſs, as the Prophet hath it. This his Righteouſneſs alſo is that fine Linnen clean and white, given the Church againſt her Marriage, Rev. 19. 7. The Marriage of the Lamb is come, and his Wife hath made her ſelf ready. And ver. 8. To her was granted, that ſhe ſhould be arraied in fine Linnen, clean and white: For the clean Linnen is the Righteouſneſs of Saints? This is Chriſts, and not her own Righteouſneſs. For 1. It is given her over and above her being made Ready, under which is meant that readineſs, or her preparedneſs of Sanctification for Glory, (as after will appear) to ſhew that it was her own, for it is ſaid, ſhe her ſelf made her ſelf ready, by the help of Grace: But of this other Righteouſneſs it is ſaid, that it is granted unto her, as a further Gift and Donary of her Husband. The Spouſe, the Woman uſeth to ſend fine Linnen againſt Marriage to the Husband of her making: But here the Husband ſends the Wife a Cloathing of his own making. Yea, and it is not only ſaid, that fine Linnen was given her; but that it was granted, ſhe ſhould be Cloathed with it, importing a Righteouſneſs merely put over her, and ſo put on by Faith, and not wrought by her ſelf. And beſides all this, what I Aſſert is evident from another Reaſon. Our Righteouſneſs is not fine, and clean, and white, but as menſtruous Raggs, entermingled with Defilements: But this Righteouſneſs imputed, and with which we are Cloathed, is both clean, without Impurity, and white, as eſtating unto Glory. Unto all this it may be added, that he (in Rev. 19. 8.) by way of Eminency points at it, for he ſays, that this is the Righteouſneſs of the Saints. In the Greek it is, This fine Linnen are the Righteouſneſs of the Saints. Which Brightman, with Vehemency urgeth againſt the Popiſh Juſtitiaries, and layeth it at their Door. He aſſerts not (ſays he) The Righteouſneſs of the Saints is this fine Linnen, but, This fine Linnen, thus granted her to be cloathed withal, is that, which is the Righteouſneſs of the Saints; that only Righteouſneſs, which they ſtand righteous before God withal; even they that are moſt holy need to be cloathed with it, to come to the Preſence and Enjoyment of their Husband, and to be cloathed with it over and beſides their own Righteouſneſs. And what I have aſſerted is alſo evident from this, That every Saint in particular is juſtified by this Righteouſneſs, hath a ſhare in it, yea, hath the whole of it for his Juſtification, therefore it is termed δικαιωμάτα, in the Plural. So then Chriſt and his Righteouſneſs, is a Cloathing put upon the Soul in this Life, in Order to that other Life.

2. The Second Thing is our own Inward Holineſs, and our Walking holily. You find both in Epheſ. 4. 22, 23, 24. That ye put off concerning the former Converſation the Old Man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful Luſts: And be renewed in the Spirit of your Mind: And that ye put on that New Man, which after God is created in Righteouſneſs and true Holineſs. And to the ſame Effect the Apoſtle ſpeaks (Col. 3. 9, 10.) Lye not one to another, ſeeing that ye have put off the old Man with his Deeds: And have put on the new Man, which is renewed in Knowledge, after the Image of him that created him. And further, both Places affirm; The Image of Holineſs in Man was at his firſt Creation to have been a Cloathing to his Soul; ſo as it might have been ſaid of him then, He was cloathed, and not naked. Which accordingly appears alſo by him, that when by Sin he had loſt that Image, he fled even from God, as naked in Soul, as well as in Body; Gen. 3.

But let us in the mean time obſerve not a little of Reſemblance, or Parallel between theſe two Places now cited, and this of our Apoſtle that is afore us; which is ſomething to the further carrying on the Proof, what ſhould be the Apoſtle's Scope here. You may remember, we obſerved (as in Order to our Opening the firſt Verſe of this fifth Chapter) how the Apoſtle, by way of Introduction thereto, had ſpoken of our Soul's (conſidered as diſtinct from the Outward Man of our Bodies) as an Inward Man, which was renewed from Day to Day (ſo ver. 16. of Chap. 4.) and then we made ſome Parallel between theſe Words, and ſome Particulars in this firſt Verſe. Now obſerve, how further, this is carried on in theſe Scriptures now cited, under the Metaphor of being cloathed. For he uſeth the very ſame Language. An Inner Man, there is made the Subject of this Cloathing; alſo that Inner Man, there, by being cloathed is ſtill ſaid to be further renewed: The Words are expreſs, Put on the new Man, which is renewed in the Spirit of your Minds: And that is the moſt Inward Part of our Souls in diſtinction from our Outward Man. Now then let us firſt take and put theſe Things mentioned in this Place, in like manner together. 1. An Inward Man renewed, whilſt the Outward periſheth: And, 2. When this Outward Man is diſſolved, we, that is, our Souls Be cloathed, and not found naked: And then let us bring theſe two alledged Parallel Places unto theſe, and they will readily inform us, That the Soul cloathed with the Image of God, and found ſuch at the Diſſolution of the Outward Man, is all one with that Inward Man, which in our Life time was daily renewed, whilſt the Outward Man did moulder, and periſh: Which as you know is the plain Sence, that hitherto hath been driven at: So as he uſeth but a new Metaphor, in this ſecond Verſe, Chap. 4. of Cloathing; to expreſs what he had afore ſpoken of this Renewing.

II. The Second Conſideration is, That this other Phraſe of being cloathed upon with Glory, is fitly, and congruouſly ſpoken in relation to this of our Souls being firſt cloathed with Chriſt's Righteouſneſs, and with Holineſs in this Life; as in Order to our being Cloathed upon with Glory in that other, which will appear from thoſe Reaſons.

1. Take

Chap. VI.

1. Take the Thing it ſelf, 'Tis evident that Grace and Chriſt's Righteouſneſs are in this Life in Order unto, and a neceſſary Preparation unto Glory, as an Under-cloathing, fitted and ſuited to an Upper-cloathing upon. That looks, as if you will lay Varniſh, you muſt firſt lay ſome Colour capable of it, or it loſeth its Gloſs and Verdure; ſo 'tis here.

1. Our being cloathed with Chriſt, and his Righteouſneſs, is a neceſſary Pre-requiſite to Glory; becauſe it gives the Right to it as to an Inheritance: So in that place, cited for that purpoſe, Gal. 3. 27, 29. Thoſe that have put on Chriſt are Heirs; and ſo in many Places more.

2. Holineſs in Heart and Life, that other Part of our Cloathing in this Life, which is next us, is every where termed a Preparation to this Glory, Without which no Man ſhall ſee God. Heb. 12. 14. Yea, without which no Man can ſee God. John 3. 3. The Church therefore, by her decking her ſelf with Holineſs, is ſaid to make Her ſelf ready for the Meeting of Her Husband, in that forcited Rev. 19. 7. which in Rom. 9. 23. is termed A Preparation to Glory. And thus likewiſe, in Epheſ. 5. 26, 27. Chriſt ſanctifieth and cleanſeth his Church, that he might preſent it to himſelf a Glorious Church. And it is not to be paſt over, That what is in 2 Cor. 5. 2, 3. ſpoken in a way of Metaphor, of being Cloathed, in Order to Cloathing upon, our Apoſtle in the fifth Verſe of the ſame Chapter, as to the Reality of the Thing utters thus, He that hath wrought us for the ſelf-ſame Thing is God. That is, he that by working Grace, and Holineſs in us hath fitted us for this Glory: Which in the Phraſe of this 3d. Verſe is expreſſed, Hath cloathed us to be cloathed upon: Or, if you will have it in the Language of the Pſalmiſt (Pſal. 45. 13. The King's Daughter is all glorious within. Her Cloathing is of wrought Gold, ſhe ſhall be brought into the King (and his Palace, ver. 15.) in Raiment of Needle Work; which how that anſwers to this, He that hath wrought us for the ſelf-ſame thing, is God: I leave to any Man to judge. The Context then confirms the Reality of this Metaphor.

3. The Metaphor it ſelf tells us, That Glory is A Cloathing upon, as a Garment put over theſe Garments firſt had in this Life, that is, it is an Upper Garment; which among all Nations hath been made Uſe of Pro Veſte honoraria, as a Sign of Difference of Perſons of Honour from others. Every Man hath his Ordinary Cloaths, but Men of Honour and Rank have beſides upper Garments to ſhew their Dignity, Superiority, &c. Kings and Nobles have their ordinary wearing Apparel for every Day, but when they go to be Crowned, or to be inveſted Kings or Nobles, or go to Parliament, they have Robes or Mantles, upper Garments proper to their Greatneſs. Thus Joſeph, when advanced Second in the Kingdom was arrayed in Veſtments of fine Linnen (Gen. 41. 42.) Pharaoh commanding them to bow before him. Thus Daniel was arayed by Belſhazzar, Dan. 5. 29. and thus alſo was Mordecai cloathed, Eſther 8. 15. He went out of the preſence of the King in Royal Apparel (as his Upper Garment) Being in a Garment of fine Linnen and Purple (as his Ordinary Garment beſides) And to this Day the Kings of theſe Eaſtern Nations do put (as a Sign of Honour) an Upper Garment on thoſe they favour. The Great Turk lets no Ambaſſador with his Followers come afore him, but he gives them Upper Veſtments out of his own Ward-robe, and lets them wear their own ordinary Apparel beſides. Thus the Saints, when they are firſt actually inſtalled Kings in Heaven have Chriſt's Righteouſneſs, and their own Holineſs, which they had obtained and worn in this Life. But theſe are but as their common Apparel, worn every Day, that is, both in this Life and the Life to come. And as ordinary Apparel, though conſiſting of two Garments, is yet reckoned but as one ſort of Apparel, taken in diſtinction from thoſe upper: So both Chriſt's Righteouſneſs, and our Holineſs are in that reſpect reckoned but as a Cloathing, becauſe 'tis that in this Life we are cloathed withal; and this Robe of Glory alſo unto which Sanctification prepared, and Chriſt's Righteouſneſs gave Right, is an Upper Garment, A Cloathing upon: Though indeed Chriſt is our Cloathing in both: Chriſt in Glorification is as an upper Garment, but in Juſtification he is an under Garment, becauſe in this Life, but yet ſtill Chriſt is All in All in both.

And

Chap. VI.

And this Notion, That Glory is as an upper Garment, that Place ſeems to favour. Rev. 6. 11. White Robes were given unto every one of them (ſpeaking of Souls in Glory) given them now when new come to Heaven (as the Context ſhews) and yet they did come cloathed to Heaven, with Garments dipt in the Blood of the Lamb, which they had in this Life (Rev. 7. 14.) yet now anew are Robes given them: Glory muſt therefore be ſaid to be A Cloathing upon. And truly let it be conſidered by Criticks, if στολαὶ, Robes, eſpecially White Robes, doth not ſometimes in the uſe of the Word, properly and peculiarly import upper Garments of Honour and Dignity, which great Perſons are cloathed upon withal: And if at any time the Word is ſtrictly uſed to expreſs ſuch, I would then ſay, That it means ſo here: For he ſpeaks of Robes of Glory, and thoſe granted anew. Sure I am, that στολὴ is ſo uſed reſtrictim, ſometimes, as the Word Robe amongſt us is uſed, both pro Veſte Senatoria, the upper Robes that Senators wear (and ſo among the Greeks) and alſo pro Veſte Sacerdotali, for Prieſts upper Garments; in both which reſpects, the Phariſees affected to wear ſuch Garments. Luke 20. 46. Mat. 12. 28. Which Places we Tranſlate, They deſire to walk in long Robes ('tis the ſame Word) the Enſigns forſooth, of their Dignity, Rule and Greatneſs.

CHAP. VII.

What is meant by the Phraſe, 2 Cor. 5. 3. Of Being found Naked.

THE Third Conſideration is about the Import of this Addition, And not found Naked: It muſt have an Emphaſis in it. For he contents not himſelf to ſay, If being Cloathed; but he illuſtrates it alſo by its oppoſite, And not be found Naked. One Reaſon was, to knock off the Hands of many Carnal and Temporary Profeſſors of Chriſtianity found in all Ages, who pretend to this Hope of being cloathed upon with this Glory when they dye, as well as ſincere Profeſſors, for whoſe ſakes he reaſonably puts, Us, If we be not found Naked. This is ſpoken in relation unto Perſons, and it is but a partial Reaſon, but chiefly it is added to expreſs the perfect Contrary Condition of ſuch as are not cloathed, namely, to connotate the woful and miſerable Condition of ſuch. It notes out not only a bare Vacuity of that Cloathing, though that Fundamentally; but further the Damage, the Detriment and Miſery, that is the Conſequent thereof; namely, that they ſhall not only for ever be deprived of that Glory others are cloathed upon withal, but as naked Souls be oppoſed to Wrath, and have no Fence or Shelter from it. And this carries it far beyond, what that other Sence of theirs talks of. Now to ſtrengthen this Sence of Nakedneſs Spiritual, There are Three or Four Things help forward the arguing of it.

1. It is argued from the further Analogy of the Story of Adam. As to underſtand that Phraſe Of being cloathed; we had Recourſe to the Image of God in Adam at his firſt Creation: So now ſuitably to find out what it is to be found naked, we muſt have Recourſe to him in his fallen State. Thus Beza, though to another purpoſe, ſends us thither, and ſays, there is here an Alluſion to that Nakedneſs of his: And ſo he illuſtrates, how the Body at the Reſurrection is naked, if found without Glory. But I ſhall have Recourſe to it, and to the Identity of it, as ſhewing the Condition of the Souls Miſery in appearing before God deſtitute of Righteouſneſs, in relation unto which appearing, the Word Found, is here added.

We read, Gen. 3. 7, 8, 10, 11. That their Eyes were opened, and they ſaw (or) knew they were naked, and were afraid, and hid themſelves from the Preſence of the Lord becauſe they were naked; as really, ſo alſo in their own Senſe. Though were were bodily Naked afore; yet now, and not till now, they discern this Nakedness Spiritual, and are sensible, not that of Want of bodily Cloathing, they needed not have fled from God's Presence for that; Who will harm you, if you do that which is Good? To be sure, God will not: But they found they had now lost the Image of God. But that was not all, for that Loss simply alone considered corrupt Man laieth not to Heart, but the Consequent Misery ensuing hereupon was that which amazeth them. Their Consciences found themselves now laid open to Confusion and Shame afore God's Presence, and exposed unto his Wrath, his Image being gone: And therefore, they out of Horrour hid themselves from God, being afraid, as the Text there hath it. Chap. VII.

2. A Second Evidence of this is, that in other Scriptures, wherein Cautions about Spiritual Cloathing are given (as also here) there the like Caveat of taking heed of being found Naked, is in like Manner given; even as here, If being Cloathed, we be not found Naked: And to my Knowledge, to no Sense else are the Words thus turn'd both Ways. I shall mention the Places, Rev. 3. 17. Thou knowest not, that thou art Wretched, and Miserable, and Blind, and Naked. I Counsel thee to buy of me White Raiment, that the shame of thy Nakedness do not appear; namely, when thou comest thy self to appear afore God. So then, it is not the want of that Cloathing simply, but the Consequent of it, the Shame of that Nakedness, for which that Nakedness is mentioned. And who upon considering this, will not be ready to say, That this to be sure is spoken in Allusion to our first Parents spiritual Condition, reproaching those to have been more wretched then their first Parents. For in Genesis 'tis said, That their Eyes were opened, and they knew they were Naked: But, thou knowest not (says Christ here) that thou art Naked, yea, and Blind too, in that thou art not sensible of thy Nakedness, as they were. To the same Effect (Rev. 16. 15.) He presents to them the Misery, and the woful Consequence of not keeping their Garments; Lest he walk Naked, and they see his Shame; the like is in Ezek. 16. 4, 5, 7. Their spiritual Nakedness is set forth by their being cast out to the loathing of their Persons in the Day that they were born.

3. And indeed otherwise the Addition Cloathed, and not Naked had been superfluous. For if it were intended as in our ordinary way of Speech it is; not to be Cloathed, and to be Naked, and so e contra, are all one and the same. So he had spoken in this Phrase, but the same Thing which in that other of being Cloathed he had done. But thus taken it puts a further and higher Matter upon it, namely; That look as those, who are Cloathed in that Manner that hath been spoken, shall be Cloathed upon with Glory: So they that are found Naked, are exposed unto Shame, and cast into utter Darkness. It imports an opposite State of Misery, unto that Glory which the true Saints are Cloathed upon withal.

4. But that, which when added to these, chiefly Argue the Word Naked to be taken in this spiritual Sense, is the Word Found, which the Apostle would needs also put in, and not simply say, and not be Naked, but be not found Naked. Found! I would ask of whom? Of God? Yes surely. We have a building of God (so ver. 1.) For to be Cloathed upon withal by God; according as we are found of him, if we be not found Naked (says the Text) namely by God. Which the Apostle Peter thus expresseth, 2 Pet. 3. 14. That ye may be found of him (God) in Peace. It is a judicial finding of God, as a Judge now coming to dispose of Us to Life or Death, according as he shall find us Naked, or Cloathed: And it is put to the worser Part, if found Naked. 'Tis a judicial Word to this Day, you say, the Jury found it so, or so upon Trial, namely. So the Phrase is in the Scripture too; Found a Liar, Prov. 30. 6. Found Guilty, ver. 10. So when God punisheth, he is said; to find out Iniquity, Gen. 44. 16. As also in Relation thereto, he is said, to make Inquiry or Search for Blood, Psalm 9. 12. And truly as the Instance of Adam hath helpt us to understand, what to be Cloathed, and to be Naked, is: So also, it will help to find out, what 'tis to be found Naked. God staid a while, but in the cool of the Evening he came, and came to make Inquisition in what State Adam was. Adam where art thou, Gen. 9 9. Adam had lost God's Image, and Naked God found him, and caſt him out of Paradiſe. The Phraſe is yet more expreſs, when Chriſt cometh to judge of Men's Conditions, in order either to Life or Death, this is that very Thing, which (as in terminis it is held forth) God makes the Subject of his grand Inqueſt, Cloathed or Naked. Mat. 22. 11, 12. When the King came in to ſee the Gueſts, he ſaw there a Man, which had not on a Wedding Garment. If you will have it in the Words of the Text. He was found Naked. Friend (ſays he, as to Judas) how cameſt thou hither, not having a Wedding Garment? And you know what follows, Caſt him, where weeping and wailing is. Chriſt hath a Time when he purpoſely Viſits, When the King came in, ſays ver. 11. And 'tis a Day wherein he adjudgeth to Hell, Ver. 13. And his Eyes ſearch narrowly, and pry into every ones Condition. He Spies out a Man, which had not on a Wedding Garment, not one eſcapes him. And ſo on the Contrary, one that hath put on Chriſt, and is Cloathed with his Righteouſneſs, and with Holineſs of Heart and Life, which is the Cloathing we ſpeak of, he is ſaid to be found in Chriſt. Which was Pauls aim againſt that Time, Phil 3. 9. That I may be found in him, not having mine own Righteouſneſs, but that which is through the Faith of Chriſt. Againſt that Wedding Feaſt it is granted, the Believer to be arraied with this Robe, as you heard out of Rev. 19. 7. And now all theſe Things, how far do they ſhut off that other Interpretation?

IV. The Fourth Conſideration ſhall be about the Time of Gods finding Men, and making Inquiſition, whether Cloathed, or Naked in Order to Glory or Shame. Now if the Time of our Diſſolution be a Time, in which this ſolemn Inquiſition is made, and at which every Soul is Found, and Viewed, whether Cloathed, or Naked in order unto Shame, or Glory: Then this Interpretation ſtill lies fairer: For it is the Point in Hand. Let us conſider, 1. As to the Thing it ſelf, whether this be not a Time of ſuch a Judicature? 2. Whether any Hints make for it in the Text?

1. As to the Thing it ſelf, The Time after Death is the firſt moſt ſolemn Time, wherein God makes this Inquiſition. For Firſt, Then it is, that God takes ſolemn Cognizance of Souls, and their ſpiritual Condition: When he calls for them, and they appear ſolemnly afore him. This the Inſtance of Adam is a Preſident to us of: It was a Private Day of Judgment, as this alſo is. God ſtaid a while, and was Patient, but when he call'd Adam Perſonally unto him, and he appear'd afore him, Adam was found Naked: And God paſt a Trial, and a Sentence upon him. Why now at Death it is, that God takes away Mens Souls, Job 27. 8. 'Tis God that doth it, whether it be he ſends for it by a good Angel as he did to Lazarus, or by a bad one, Luke 12. 20. God ſaid, this Night they ſhall require, or call for thy Soul back again; for alas, it was but Lent. You ſee there, it is God gives the Particular Commiſſion, and ſends for the Soul to himſelf, God ſaid, &c. His Children he ſends for Home (as the Phraſe, Ver. 8. of this 2 Cor. 5. imports) as Men for their Children at the Univerſity, or in Travel. And Wicked Men he ſends for, as a Juſtice doth to apprehend a Felon, to clap him up in Priſon againſt the Aſſizes: So ſays Mercer on that Word in Job, He ſhall take away his Soul; that is, hale, and pull it out of its own dwelling, unto Priſon, and Judgment. So 'tis, that it is ſaid of all Men, The Soul returns to God that gave it, and Lent it, Eccleſ. 12. 7. It returns to God, then, or at that Time, when the Body goes to the Earth. I find in that great Aſſembly that glorious Preſence (Heb. 12. 23. Where Angels and Spirits of Juſt Men are made Perfect; that is, Souls are ſwallowed up into Life) that in the next Words, there is this Deſcription of God, even as he ſits amongſt theſe, and to God the Judge of all. For even now, afore the Great Day of Judgment; and whilſt Men's Souls are in a ſeparate Eſtate, he ſits as a Judge of all both Good and Bad, amongſt thoſe glorious Spirits. Which is ſeen in this, That the Spirits of Juſt Men are taken up by a Judgment paſt on them, ere they ſit down there: And in like Manner he is a Judge of others alſo (for of All it is, he is ſaid to be the Judge) and ſo by the like Judgment, the Souls of Wicked Men are caſt into Priſon: As it is expreſly ſaid, of the Souls of the Old World, after God had taken them away by Death, 1 Pet. 3. 19. Now it is a certain Rule, God never judgeth, or casts into Prison, until he hath past a Trial upon those he so commits, and hath found them so or so: You find it in the Case of Sodom. But especially, he casts no Soul into Prison, until he hath found him Naked. This the Parable shews, when the Guests appear'd afore him, he then saw a Man without a Wedding Garment: He then took Cognizance of it, and him: And further, he examines him, and convinceth him, he wanted it, and then, and not till then cries, Cast him into utter Darkness, where weeping and wailing is. So then, if upon Dissolution Mens Souls are cast by him into utter Darkness, and Prison, it is, and must be, because they are then and at that Time found Naked, and Judged so by him. And though there is a Publick Judgment at the great Day to Manifest, Justifie, and Publish this afore all the World: Yet at Death there is a more Private and Personal Judgment, and a finding of Souls, whether Cloathed or Naked: And a disposing of them accordingly, either to a being Cloathed upon with Robes of Glory, if found Cloathed with Grace (as the Souls of Martyrs, Rev. 6.) or cast into Hell, as the Rich Mans Soul was, Luke 16. The one is as the Assizes, the former as the Private Cognizance and Commitment of the Justice of Peace, perhaps long afore the Assizes. Chap. VII.

If now, surrounded with this Light, we will but with an impartial Eye look round about the Words here, and the Context, we may easily discern, that they are most naturally accommodate to express the State of Souls after their Dissolution. Certainly, if they suit, or fit any Time, or Season, that can be supposed; they are eminently applicable unto this, and therefore so intended, as may appear by some Characters in the Text.

1. To begin with what was last spoken of, there are Two Judgments, one at Death, the other at that great Day: Why may it not then be rationally conceived, That after his Discourse of this separate State of the Soul ended, Ver. 9. he therefore purposely brought in the mention of that Publick Judgment, Ver. 10. For we must all appear before the Judgment Seat of Christ, that every one may receive the Things done in his Body, according to that he hath done, whether it be Good or Bad. Having in the beginning of that his Discourse, (Ver. 3.) spoken of this other, that is more Private and Personal at Dissolution; and so of both Judgments, this as precedaneous unto the Souls Glory whilst separate; that Latter as foregoing that ensuing Glory of Body and Soul conjoined: Surely, the setting the one thus with the other hath a great Comeliness in it, and makes an Harmony in this Structure of his Discourse.

2. But 2dly, The Apostle himself had set for us, and pointed us unto the Time of Dissolution, as the Time when our Hopes are; that if our Bodies were Dissolved, we have a Glory to be Cloathed upon withal. And in these Words he puts in a necessary Caution, if so be, we be found preparatively Cloathed, and not Naked; which no Man can deny, but that as to the Thing it self, complies fully with that Time. It hath therefore been a Wonder to me, That any should pass all this off to another Time, and say, that of this Time, this is not to be meant at all. Truly, I will take the Apostles Time afore any other, when all Things thus correspond and agree with it. Nay, if he had not set it, I should have been induced to have applied it to that Time. If you had any Prophecy, and saw all Things punctually to agree, and to Center in such a Point of Time; would you not say, this surely is the Time, and these the fulfilling of it?

3. But 3dly, The very Metaphor used by the Apostle, and chose out here as ex proposito to express himself by, viz. Not to be found Naked, doth secretly, and yet most elegantly Connotate (together with, and over and above all that else hath been spoken of the import of it) the very separate State of an ungodly Soul, now come out of the Body, to be the very Subject he is a speaking of. Such a Soul at Death goes Naked forth of the Body; for which I do not urge, that we go Naked out of the World in Job's Sense, for that is meant of the Body, as well as the Soul: For he had said afore, Naked I came into the World, and that to be sure is meant of Body and Soul conjoined, yet ſo, as of the Two in worldly Reſpect, the Wicked Man comes leſs Naked into the World, then he goes out of it; for at coming in, many Children come Cloathed with right to Inheritances in this World, and there is a great Difference of Perſons in that Reſpect: So as by Virtue of their Birth, they have all good Things in a readineſs for them richly to enjoy. Beſides, that the Soul is then Cloathed with a Body, which makes it capable of the Enjoyment of all Things in this World, therefore the Apoſtle comparing both Conditions together (1 Theſſ. 6. 7.) ſays of the Latter only, as more undoubted and apparent, that 'tis certain, We carry nothing out of this World: For the Soul then is ſtript of the Body alſo, and no ſuch Reſpects attend it into the other World. Nor will I urge, that Death is as a Birth; namely, into that other World, and ſo the Soul it ſelf now goes Naked, as Soul and Body once did into this, ſtript of all. I will not follow the Alluſion, that the Sorrows or Pangs of Death are uſually termed Birth-throws, ὠδῖνες, nor how that Angels (Good or Bad) attend the Delivery, as Midwives, to catch the Poor Naked Soul, and carry it to the Father of Spirits, as God is call'd (Heb. 12.) Who, if it be a true Son, owns it, bleſſeth it, covers it with Glory; but if it be a Baſtard, rejects it. But I go upon that better Warrant, That the Apoſtle hath here a glance at the State of Souls ſtript of their Bodies, inaſmuch as at the 4th Verſe he expreſly termeth Death, a being uncloathed, as in Relation to the Body, which none can deny: But yet ſtill (obſerve it) when he ſpeaks of Godly Men (as there) he Terms it, but a being uncloathed, that is, a mere want of the Body, for he is ſtill Cloathed with Grace: But ſpeaking of Wicked Men's State when Dead, he Terms it Nakedneſs, not only or barely in reſpect of their Bodies, but chiefly in reſpect of a Nakedneſs every way, that doth accompany their Souls, in regard of the want of Grace, and of Chriſt's Righteouſneſs; and in regard alſo of Shame, Wrath, and every Thing elſe, that Nakedneſs in Scripture can, and doth ſpiritually import. Now the taking of Uncloathed, Ver. 4. to be all one with Naked, Ver. 3. is one cauſe of the Miſtake in our Interpreters: Whereas the being Naked, is ſpoken by way of Ignominy, as hath been ſaid; and ſo ſhews, how from that Time ſuch a Soul is expoſed to Shame and Miſery. Yea, and thereby actually enters into that Miſery; and that becauſe, it is now ſeparated from the Body. And that is the genuine Notion I inſiſt on, for Explication of which, though indeed it is true, that the Soul was really Naked, when in the Body (as Moſes ſeeing God, that is Inviſible, did view the People of Iſrael Naked, Exod. 32.) yet the Miſeries of its Nakedneſs do not break in upon it until now, when it is diſpoiled of its Body; nor doth this appear till then, for Confirmation of which conſider,

1. That by God's own Ordination, the Time of this Life, and of the Souls being in the Body, is ordained as a Screen betwixt God and Men's Souls. The Body is as a Midſt Thing between him and the Soul: And ſo it becomes through God's Ordination, a Time of Patience, Long-Suffering, as to thoſe in Noah's Time it is ſaid to be, and yet when they were Dead, their Spirits were caſt in Priſon. And anſwerably, Men's Soul whilſt in their Bodies are ſaid to be preparing for Wrath, (Rom. 9.) with much Long-ſuffering on God's Part, Rom. 9. 22. There is a Sluce betwixt Gods Wrath and them, but in the other World when out of the Body, the Naked Soul and God himſelf do meet. The Soul then, and not till then, returns to God immediately; though in this Life the Apoſtle tells us, he is not far off from any of us, Acts 17. Now the Soul lies Naked to all God's Wrath, the Cataracts of Heaven are ſet open, and it hath no Shelter, for the Sluce of God's Patience is with the Diſſolution of the Body pull'd up. And this following upon Death, the Apoſtle did moſt elegantly ſo expreſs it, as Connotating at once all theſe Things.

2. As there is this Truce betwixt God and Men's Souls in the reality of the Thing: So at the Diſſolution of the Body, and not till then, it is that Men find themſelves Naked. When is it, That the Hope of the Hypocrite, is ſaid to Periſh, but when God takes away his Soul. To the very laſt Moment, he in the the Parable was Ignorant of this: And therefore upon the Challenge, that he wanted a Wedding Garment, 'tis said, He was Speechless. Till then, Many Men know not, they are Naked, Rev. 3.17. And therefore in respect of their Eyes being then, and not till then opened to discern it, they may be said to be found Naked, as in the Text.

5. The Fifth, and last Consideration concerns the Manner of these Words coming in here, Ver. 3. If so be, that being Cloathed, &c. εἴγε, some express it by way of Limitation, that is of restraint unto the truly Godly and Believers, to shew this Privilege of being Cloathed upon with Glory, to be proper and confined to them alone, with Difference from all others, that are found Wicked and Ungodly. I would rather call it, an wholesome and necessary both Condition, and Caution, given by the way to the Saints themselves, together with Relation specially had unto carnal and presumptuous Professours, who pretend Assurance, and profess to know and groan for Death with the same Expectations, as the Apostle brings in the Saints.

1. It is by way of a necessary Condition, Col. 1. 22, 23. Christ will present you Holy, and unblameable in his sight, εἴγε, if so be, ye continue grounded in the Faith, &c.

2. It is by way of a necessary Caution unto Saints, to keep and hold fast their Garments: In which Manner, that useful Parenthesis comes in, Rev. 16. 15. Blessed is he that Watcheth, and keepeth his Garments, lest he walk Naked, and they see his Shame. 'Tis usual to insert such Admonitions, so in this very 2 Cor. 5. 9. Wherefore we Labour, that whether present or absent, we may be accepted of him.

3. It is by way of holding forth to all, the Truth and Genuiness of Christian Profession in their Expectation of Glory, If so be, that being Cloathed, &c. Even as Eph. 4. 21. The same Words is used. Ye have not so learned Christ, if so be, that ye have been Taught by him, as the Truth is in Jesus,

4. It is spoken with special Respect unto presumptuous Professours, That there being a Faith and Hope in them concerning these Things, that is not genuine but counterfeit, they might be put in Mind to search into themselves, whether they had this Wedding Garment, yea, or no. There were wise Virgins that had Oil in their Vessels, and Foolish, which had not, and so were shut out, so here is the same Case. Thus Rev. 3. 17, 18. That Admonition comes in, Thou saist I am Rich, and increased with Goods, and have need of nothing: And knowest not, that thou art Wretched, and Miserable, and Poor, and Blind, and Naked. I Counsel thee to buy of me Gold tried in the Fire, that thou mayst be Rich; and White Raiment, that thou mayst be Cloathed, and that the shame of thy Nakedness do not appear, and anoint thine Eyes with Eye-salve, that thou mayest see.

And truly this in the Close, for the Confirmation of that Interpretation we have given of Cloathed, &c. as that which respecteth Grace, as a prerequisite to Glory, or being Cloathed upon; I may add some Remarks on those Words, If so be, also, that being Cloathed. 'Tis not εἴγε barely (as in the Places cited) but εἴγε also is added unto Cloathed. 'Tis Calvin's Observation (and for ought I have elsewhere found) his alone. This Sense, (says he) namely of being Cloathed with Grace and Christs Righteousness, is fetcht out of the Particle etiam, or also (as it ought to be Translated) which for Amplification sake was without doubt inserted, as if Paul had said, there is and shall be a new Garment upon Death ready for Believers, if so be in this Life also, they have been Cloathed. And I must Confess, the Emphaticalness, that this Etiam or Also puts upon this being Cloathed, did as much serve to put my Mind off from all those other Interpretations, as any Passage else whatsoever in the Words. And when I went to set down in my Mind their Senses, of being Cloathed with a Body; and then put but these Words, if so be also in therewith, they seemed all dilute unto me, and there appeared not any Thing, that should deserve such a notoriety, such an Exaggeration or Amplification. But if we Interpret it of Grace and Christs Righteousness, they are so Rich, so noble a Cloathing as are worthy of such a Mark of notoriety express'd by the Word Also, and being Pointed at thereby, as prerequiſite to Glory. And in the like way of Exaggeration, or Eminency doth this Word καὶ or Alſo come in, Ver. 5. Who hath alſo given us his Holy Spirit.

Objection. There are Two Objections, I find, made againſt theſe Words being made a Condition, or Caution given to Saints.

Anſwer 1. 1. That in the foregoing Sentence, there being no Promiſe made, nor no poſitive Declaration of any Thing, as requiſite to be done, or to be in us; but only the common Deſire of all Saints expreſſed, viz. to be Cloathed upon, unto which as ſo expreſſed, a Condition or Caution to be added ſeems not proper.

Anſwer 2. It is True, it is not a Condition of the Deſire, or Act of Groaning it ſelf, as it comes from them, but of the Object or Thing it ſelf deſired; namely, being Cloathed upon, which ſhall be (ſays he) if we be alſo Cloathed.

Anſwer 3. Whereas there may prove an Over-weening and Miſtake in ſome that pretend to Deſire or Groan after this, or a Negligence in the beſt, to take heed to be fitly qualified: Such a Caution is in that Caſe ſeaſonable to be made to them; though it be not properly a Condition of the Deſire it ſelf.

And 3dly, We may carry up the Reference of theſe Words alſo higher, even to relate to, Ver. 1. as thus. We have an Houſe in Heaven, if this were Diſſoloved; if ſo be, that being Cloathed with Grace, &c. And ſo it ſerves as a Condition thereof.

Objection. The Second Objection is this, That he ſpeaking theſe Things of the moſt eminent of Saints, as himſelf and other the Miniſters of the Goſpel (Chap. 4.) And ſo of all Saints, whereof many were aſſured of their preſent Condition in Grace, and ſo of Salvation (We know, &c.) or at leaſt of ſuch Perſons, as he takes for granted are Holy: In this Caſe to add, If ſo be ye have Grace, and be not found Naked, was for him to Detract from what he had ſuppoſed already of thoſe, He ſpake of.

Anſwer. 1. I Anſwer, It is to ſhew the neceſſary Connection that is betwixt Glory and having Grace, and Continuance therein to the End. Although the Perſons be ſuch as have the Things that accompany Salvation, yet Paul of himſelf ſays, I eſt, when I have Preacht to others, I my ſelf be a caſt away, 1 Cor. 9. laſt. And to the ſincereſt Coloſſians reconciled by the Blood of Chriſt, (Col. 2. 21.) He yet puts in this Caution or Condition (Chap. 1. 22.) Unto their being preſented at the latter Day by Chriſt, If ye continue in the Faith, &c. And thus too in Rom. 8. There is no Condemnation to them that are in Chriſt. So he begins, and in the end of the Chapter (ſays he) None ſhall ſeparate us from the Love of God, and yet (Ver. 13.) He gives this Caution unto ſuch, If ye live after the Fleſh ye ſhall Die: But if ye through the Spirit mortifie the Deeds of the Fleſh ye ſhall Live. Other Anſwers might be framed out of what hath been ſpoken afore.

Nor doth this Interpretation, that it ſhould be meant of the Time of Death, exclude the Glory at the Reſurrection, as if being Cloathed with Grace, and not found Naked were only a neceſſary Condition at a Mans Death: But would ſtand a Saint in no ſtead at the Reſurrection (which might be made another Objection) No: But all this is true, firſt of the Soul at Death, and then at the Reſurrection; again, alſo, for as then, there will be a new and open Judgment afore all the World: So a new Inquiry, by ripping up our Hearts and Lives to be, Whether we had been Cloathed or Naked in this Life before, and at our Deaths. And Grace, and Chriſts Righteouſneſs that we had here in this Life, will then ſtand us in as much ſtead, as they did at Death.

Chap VIII.

CHAP. VIII.

The Words of the Text Explain'd, and their Coherence with the First and Second Verses.

II COR. V. iv.

Verse iv. For we, that are in this Tabernacle, do Groan, being burthened: Not for that we would be Uncloathed, but Cloathed upon, that Mortality might be swallowed up of Life.

THE First Verse expresseth the Common Faith of the Primitive Christians in this great Point: That, when their Bodies should be dissolved, they expected a Glory for their Souls afore the Resurrection.

The Second Verse expresseth, the lively and vehement Working of their Affections, in groaning Desires thereupon, by, and through Dissolution to arrive at that Glory: Which Groans are the immediate Effect of that Faith.

The Third Verse is a Caution intermingled by the Apostle, as by the Way, unto all that professed this Expectation, To be sure to get, and keep their Garments, least they be found Naked at their Dissolution, and so frustrated of that Glory, and exposed unto Shame and Wrath, Rev. 16.

In this Fourth Verse, he returns a-fresh to sigh forth the groaning Desires of himself, and other Saints after the same Glory with a greater Vehemency and Enlargement of Affection, then was afore expressed. That he assumeth the uttering the former Desires expressed in Verse 2. is evident in the very reading of the Words; and confirmed by this Parallel between them.

1. He had said, Ver. 1. If this Earthly House of this Tabernacle, &c. Here in Ver. 4. He says, We that are in this Tabernacle, &c.

2. He had said, Ver. 2. We in this do Groan to be Cloathed upon with our House. He speaks the same in Ver. 4. So that he brings down, we see, the First and Second Verses into this Fourth Verse: And therefore the Substance, Spirit, and Scope of both Verses is by Infusion soaked into, and contained in this Fourth Verse, and is further impregnated and heighten'd.

If the Question be, What in this Repetition of his, is added to what had been expressed afore in Verse the Second?

The Answer is, that in this Fourth Verse he farther gives the true and genuine Account, upon which a sincere Believer is moved thus to Groan, with a most accurate Distinction from what are the false Grounds, whereupon all other sorts of Men are moved to Wish, or Groan for Death, as Christians use to do. And so the Thing, which is New in this Fourth Verse, is both the Manner of these Desires, together with the explicite Ground thereof, neither of which had been so nakedly and distinctly expressed in that former 2d Verse.

The Scope, which by many Interpreters is put upon the Words, is, that many Christians knowing and believing that, in that ordinary Way and Course, which is set and appointed by God we are to wait until the Resurrection, for the Accomplishment and Perfection of our Glory. And also, that in the mean Time our Bodies must first be Dissolved, e're we can come to, or arrive at that consummated Glory of Soul and Body together: And that Nature in us shrinking at this Dying (all Men naturally abhorring Death) that therefore it should be here intended, that the Saints do Groan as being burthened with the very Thoughts of Dying, and therefore do secretly Desire not to Die at all. Which (say they) is expressed in those Words, not to be Uncloathed, that is, not of their Bodies at all. But instead thereof, their Desires do vehemently Soar to this, that they might both Bodies and Souls (whilst they remain main yet unparted) be gloriſied together without any more ado: And that thus at one leap they might without taking the Degree of Death be Cloathed upon with their Houſe from Heaven, in full conſummated Glory the firſt Inſtant, whilſt yet they were Cloathed with their Bodies; and this they would have effected, and by Virtue of ſuch a Change as is mention'd in 1 Cor. 15. We ſhall not all Die, but we ſhall be Changed in a Moment, in the Twinkling of an Eye. And this Change, which is anſwerable to the Reſurrection of others from the Dead, will ſwallow up all Mortality of the Body ſo, as we ſhall be at once compleatly ſwallowed up of Life. This Interpretation they give under the Countenance of the foreſaid Change, which will yet be but the Lot of ſome Saints, and indeed of thoſe only, who ſhall be found alive at the Inſtant of the Reſurrection, which Priviledge yet theſe would have to be the Deſires of all the Saints here, as that which they would rather wiſh? As alſo, becauſe of that ſeeming Paralel between thoſe Two following Words of the Apoſtle there, 1 Cor. 15. 53, 54. For this corruptible muſt put on Incorruption, and this mortal muſt put on Immortality; and then ſhall be brought to paſs the ſaying; Death is ſwallowed up in Victory. Which Words they judge exactly Paralel with theſe Words here, Cloathed upon, that Mortality might be ſwallowed up of Life.

But the Scope and Senſe, which I contend for, runs upon a clear contrary Suppoſition (which Suppoſition the Apoſtle did begin his Diſcourſe with Ver. 1.) founded on thoſe Words. If our Bodies be diſſolved, &c. Wherein he doth not only tacitly imply, that the ordinary Courſe, ſet by God for the Saints arrival at Glory, is the Diſſolution of their Bodies: And that the Saints generally know, and make Account of this: But he further makes the Suppoſition of this, as de Facto in the Event, that when that this ſhall once be done, and come to paſs, That our Bodies be diſſolved, that then we have an Houſe, &c. And this he laies as the Foundation, whereunto he ſuits the reſt of his Building in this following Diſcourſe to their Relief againſt the Time of this their Diſſolution; and the Groanings and Deſires after the Glory which ſhall follow that Diſſolution. And as in the Second Verſe, he had begun to expreſs their general Deſires after it; ſo here in this Fourth Verſe he perſiſteth with a reiterated Vehemency to ſet out their Groanings continued ſtill upon the ſame Suppoſition, that if their Bodies be diſſolved once, they know they have an Houſe to be Cloathed upon with; they looking upon Diſſolution only as the common Gate and Paſſage appointed by God, whereby their Souls in their ſeveral Ages and Generations ſhall firſt and ſooneſt come to that bleſſed Attainment, which is their firſt Entertainment in Heaven.

Now that the Words of this Fourth Verſe will comply with and give themſelves up to this Senſe and Interpretation, and fully ſuit with it, will appear, when I come to open every Particular in the Words. In the mean while, we may aforehand take up a new general Reaſon, for the confirming this our grand Aſſertion, that the Glory of the Soul ſeparate upon Diſſolution is in this Fourth Verſe continued by the Apoſtle to be ſet out as the Object of a Believers Groanings, as well as it had been in the Second Verſe. And the Reaſon hereof is drawn from the Series and ſtreight Current, that runs thro' all in a Succeſſion from the Firſt Verſe, with the other Verſes down to this Fourth Verſe, and likewiſe which this Fourth Verſe retains with the former, and then deſcendeth down to the Fifth Verſe alſo: Which Reaſon you may frame in this Mould. That look what Glory it is, and what Subject in Man it is, that is the Object of a Chriſtians Faith in the Firſt Verſe, and of a Chriſtians Groanings in the Second Verſe: The very ſame Glory, and the ſame Thing in us is, that which the Apoſtle intends as the Object of a Chriſtians Deſires and Groanings here in this Fourth Verſe. But the Glory of the Soul ſeparate upon Diſſolution is that Glory, which is held forth in Verſe the Firſt and Second, &c. Therefore the ſame is intended in this Fourth Verſe alſo. That the Glory of the Soul ſeparate, &c. is the Houſe intended, Ver. 1. I have before largely, and I hope invincibly proved. And that the ſame Glory (in Ver. 1.) is intended alſo, in Ver. 2. as that which we Groan for, deſiring to be Cloathed upon with our Houſe, which is from Heaven, is evident alſo.

For

For as in the First Verse, he declares what their Faith was; We know, that if this be dissolved, we have, &c. So in the Second he shews, what their Affections were pitcht upon, this their Groaning being the Effect of that Faith: And indeed, it is impossible in this Condition, but that the Glory which by Faith they expected (Ver. 1.) it should be the very same they Groan for, Ver. 2. For Affections follow Knowledge home to the Door of that Object, which Knowledge apprehending doth propose unto us. And the other main Proposition, viz. that the Glory, we are said to Groan after (Ver. 2.) is the very same with the Object of our Groaning here (Ver. 4.) is evident. Chap. IX.

1. Because this Fourth Verse is, a re-assuming (for the Substance) of what was said in the Second Verse, and also in the First Verse, as uttering the same Groaning Desires, though with a fresh renewed Vehemency. But yet it is a Groaning after one and the same Glory, which Glory is therefore in the Fourth Verse continued to be expressed under the same Metaphor he had used afore Verse Second, namely, to be Cloathed upon; even as Ver. 2. Desiring to be Cloathed upon with our House, which is from Heaven; of which House also he had first spoken, in Ver. 1. We have an House in the Heavens. Although herewith he over and above adds a further, and more plain Explanation, what that House and Glory we are Cloathed upon with is, even a swallowing up this Mortality of Life.

2. Again Secondly, He utters the present Condition of the Saints till Dissolution, under one and the same Metaphor, which he had used in Ver. 1. and Ver. 2. In Verse the First, he speaks of Our Earthly House of this Tabernacle; In Ver. 2. he says, in this (namely, this Tabernacle) we Groan: And then he useth the same Word again here in Ver. 4. more indigitately, We that are in this Tabernacle, still to refer us to the first Verses, as speaking to the same Thing, which this Fourth Verse speaketh to. For otherwise, he might have simply said, we that are in the Body, but by repeating this Metaphor of Tabernacle, He again would mind us of the Short Continuance of the Souls abode therein; and also, of that Existence the Soul, the Indweller is to have, when that Tabernacle shall be Dissolved.

3. And thereby Thirdly, He shews he would have us carry down those Words, in Ver. 1. We knowing, that if our earthly House of this Tabernacle were Dissolved, &c. As in common to be repeated, and supplied in the Fourth Verse. And then the Connexion will thus run Current through all the Four Verses: We, who are in this Tabernacle, knowing that, if this earthly Tabernacle were Dissolved, we have a House in the Heavens to be Cloathed upon withal, do therefore Groan to be Cloathed upon therewith: And therefore do also Groan for Dissolution in order thereunto; for we know, that if this Tabernacle were but once Dissolved, we have another House ready, &c. Thus those Words in Ver. 1. If this Earthly Tabernacle were Dissolved, will still follow us down hither into this Fourth Verse, and will Challenge, that it should be admitted and taken into the Interpretation thereof: And thereupon this will inevitably follow, that the Glory of the Soul upon Dissolution is that, which is the Object of this Groaning in this Fourth Verse.

4. Lastly, That one and the same Glory is steadily and Homogenially thus carried along, through 1, 2. 4th Verses, the very first Words of the Fifth Verse do conclusively shew: He that hath wrought us for the self same Thing, is God. What is this, but that one and the self same Glory before spoken and treated of, whether under the Metaphor of an Heavenly House, and being Cloathed upon therewith, or more plainly expressed, as a Life that swallows up Mortality? This Glory is one and the self same Thing, that he had been speaking of in the Fourth Verse, and in all the rest of the former Verses. The Apostles whole Discourse is a Woof of Thread, and one and the same runs through all: And the want of Attendance unto this strict uniform Connexion of the Matter of these Verses one with the other hath been the Cause of those Mistakes in those fore-specified Interpretations, wherein some Expositors have taken Liberty to interpret these Verses of several sorts or subjects, rather of Glory, as of the Soul separate in one, and in another Verse of the Glory that ſhall accrue upon the Reſurrection of the Body, and of that Glory only: And then in another Verſe, they interpret it of a Third Way of coming to Glory, viz. that Change of Body and Soul without either dying or riſing again. Whereas the Apoſtles Diſcourſe doth ſpeak of one and the ſelf ſame Thing, as in Ver. 5. He on purpoſe and profeſſedly ſpeaketh. And ſo the whole Diſcourſe is ſpun of an even Thred, and 'tis apparent, that he ſpeaks of the Glory of a ſeparate Soul all along.

Chap. IX.

Only I ſhall premoniſh the Reader in this Place once for all, That this Plea of mine put in of the Glory of the Soul ſeparate, as now it hath been ſtated, is far from excluding that conſummated Glory at the Reſurrection to be alſo intended. For a Believer may have in the firſt Place, as next in Proſpect, the Glory of his Soul, when ſeparated in his Eye and Deſires, and yet withal he may have ultimately in View that further Glory of the Reſurrection, to come after, as that which he expects and longs for alſo, but yet each in their due Order. Theſe Two, both the Things themſelves, and our Deſires after them may, and do well ſucceſſively both ſtand together: And therefore I oppoſe that Opinion of the Glory at the Reſurrection, no further, then as any would have that Reſurrection Glory ſolely to be meant, and would exclude altogether the Apoſtles Intendment of the ſeparate Souls Glory in the mean Time. But as for the other Senſe of a Believers having Deſires not to Die at all, but to be Changed: If this Senſe I have now given be the genuine Purport of the Words, it will indeed (I Confeſs) perfectly overthrow and exclude that other Interpretation of a Deſire of Non-Diſſolution, for that is contradictory to this of mine: And indeed unto the Apoſtles Suppoſition at firſt, If our earthly Houſe be Diſſolv'd, that leads on to all that follows, as hath been obſerved.

I ſhall now give a general Diviſion of the Words of this Fourth Verſe: The Groanings of a Chriſtian after Diſſolution being the common Scope and Subject of this Verſe, the reſt thereof as belonging to, and ſetting forth thoſe Groanings may be divided into general Parts, whereof ſome will admit of leſſer Diviſions after.

1. The Perſons, that Groan, are ſet out with their preſent Condition, We that are in this Tabernacle.

2. The occaſion of their Groanings, and the Cauſe why they Groan is expreſs'd to be their being Burthen'd.

3. There is a Vindication of Chriſtians in their Groanings after Diſſolution, with Difference from all other Men, in theſe Words, Not for that we would be uncloathed.

4. There is the true Account it ſelf why they Groan, Being burthened, not that they would be Uncloathed, but Cloathed upon with their Houſe in Heaven.

5. That Glory is ſignified by that Metaphor more plainly expreſſed; That Mortality might be ſwallowed up of Life.

I ſhall firſt conſider the Perſons, and their preſent Condition as repreſented in thoſe Words of this Fourth Verſe, We that are in this Tabernacle. Some reſtrain the Word We, unto the Apoſtle himſelf, and his Brethren the Apoſtles, and thoſe eminent fellow Labourers with him in the Miniſtry, becauſe of theſe he had ſpoken in the Perſons We, and Us, and Our, all along in the Fourth Chapter, in his ſetting out their Sufferings, Labours, and Perſecutions: And this, which with ſome Difference (as to the Frequency and Hazard of them) from other ordinary Saints (as appears in Ver. 12, 14, 15.) And ſo propoſing themſelves in all their Sufferings, and in this their Confidence of Glory, as Examples unto the Vulgar Ordinary Chriſtians. And truly, if we ſhould meaſure this by the ordinary Temper of Chriſtians in our Times, we would be induced to think, that what the Apoſtle ſpeaks of Groanings and Deſires after Diſſolution, and the Glory that follows ſhould have been intended only of ſome of thoſe eminent Saints then: Who had received the firſt Fruits of the Spirit (Rom. 8.) beyond what in Compariſon other Saints have receiv'd. And indeed, how remote are Saints now a Days from thoſe Deſires to be diſſolved: But on the Contrary are fearful of Dying. But yet conſidering, that the Apoſtle ſpeaks of, and ſets out thoſe Perſons or Subjects, who were intended by the General Character common to all Saints in the next Words, We that are in this Tabernacle: And alſo holds forth that Aſſurance of Salvation, and a Joyful Waiting for that Day: And alſo conſidering, that an Eſtabliſhment, and Anointing, a Sealing, and the Earneſt of the Spirit, were Priviledges common to thoſe Corinthian Chriſtians, and other Primitive Chriſtians, together with the Apoſtles (as he expreſly ſays, Chap. 1. 21, 22. of this Epiſtle) this warranteth us to judge, that this Word We was intended of the Body of Saints in thoſe Days, and if there be any (as in our Days there be many) that do not thus deſire and groan, it is yet their Duty in this their Condition, as well as it was the Duty of the Apoſtles: We, for unto the Saints he had both intended it and appropriated it, all along appears from theſe Words, We know we have an Houſe; expreſſing the Common Faith of Believers: And in Verſe the 2*d*. he ſays, We groan after our Houſe; and he terms it Our Houſe, as being the proper Demeans of them as Saints, their Free-hold, and diſtinct Property, and accordingly he annexeth their preſent Condition in common, as was ſaid; We in this Tabernacle. The Truth is, the Popiſh Commentators would fain carry it unto Apoſtles and Eminent Chriſtians alone, who they ſay, went immediately to Heaven. And they aſſign a middle Place, Purgatory, for the Vulgus Sanctorum, for the Common, Vulgar Saints; whereas if the Scripture ſhould be intended generally of them, and of their being taken up into Glory at Diſſolution, that Middle State would utterly fall to the Ground. Chap. VIII.

We that are in this Tabernacle: That is, that have our preſent Exiſtence, or Being in the Body, which is our preſent Tabernacle: We that lead as yet a Tabernacle Life. He ſays, not meerly we groan in this Tabernacle, but We that are in this Tabernacle do groan; putting a further and more eſpecial Emphaſis upon it. And thereby he doth not only tacitly inſinuate,

1. The Soul to be the Perſon, that indwells in that Tabernacle our Bodies, at the preſent for a while.

But, 2. He intimates withal, that there is another State, Exiſtence and Condition of other Saints, namely, of Souls out of this Tabernacle upon Diſſolution: Whoſe Condition theſe Tabernacle Saints had in their Eye, whilſt they utter their Deſires after ſuch a State, as far more deſireable, and which they are aſpiring unto, and thereby they are provoked the more to groan after the ſame, and indeed our Attendency to this very Diſcrimination of one ſort [We] in this Tabernacle, and of another ſort implied, expreſſed by the Word [We] in the Word They, who are out of it, may have a great Influence into this our Interpretation, and add a mighty Confirmation to it.

And to this purpoſe it is to be noticed, that as, by that fore-mentioned Character of the Ground and Manner of their Groanings, he intended to diſtinguiſh Saints from other Men, as has been ſaid, and will be demonſtrated: So by this Periphraſis; We that are in this Tabernacle, he intendeth to difference the State of Saints on Earth from their Brethren and Fellow-Citizens in Heaven, ſo ſtyled Phil. 3. 20. Rev. 6. 20. 'Tis as if he had ſaid, ſome of us are already houſed in Heaven, in our Standing-Houſe there. (as Ver. 1, and Ver. 4. he calls it) Whilſt others of us dwell yet in Tabernacles to be diſſolved. GOD's Family is ſaid to conſiſt Of ſome on Earth, and ſome in Heaven, Eph. 3. 15. The Words there, Of Whom (namely, Chriſt) the whole Family in Heaven and Earth are named, ſpeak of two Parts of the ſame Family, whereof ſome are in their Country-Houſe, ſome in the City-Houſe. Thus in like manner here, He by way of Diſcrimination ſetting out that one Part or Company of them abiding on Earth, [We] We that are in this preſent Tabernacle; He thereby inſinuates another Part or Company that are in Heaven, both making up the whole Society and Fraternity of Saints belonging to God. And there is a further differencing Character, and Note of this Diſtinction, which follows and confirms this, viz. That we only in this Tabernacle are thoſe that groan, whereas the other have their Deſires ſatisfied in a great meaſure (Rev. 6.) and do not groan, not being burthened, as we on Earth are.

And this Difference of State between the Saints on Earth, and thoſe in Heaven, Chap. VIII. other Scriptures do in Phraſes ſimilar to this in like manner inſinuate. Thus in this very Chapter, Ver. 10. He ſays, Every Man ſhall receive (at the Day of Judgment, namely) the Things done in this Body. That Clauſe of Limitation imports, as another State to be of their Souls out of their Bodies till that Day of Judgment; ſo that they ſhall be reſponſible, and anſwer only for the Things done whilſt in their Bodies, and not for what they ſhall do when out of them in that ſeparate State. Between Mens Deaths and that Judgment-Day there doth intervene a long Space of Time, as for Inſtance, take Cain's Soul, it hath been perhaps five Thouſand Years out of his Body in Hell, and during all that time, both his or others Souls ſo exiſting ſeparate out of their Bodies have not ceaſed to act ſome way or other; but yet (ſays the Apoſtle) He, or they, ſhall anſwer only for what was Done in their Bodies, in Diſtinction from what they do in the ſeparate State of their Souls: And thus the Diſtinction of; We in this Tabernacle, is in a like Analogy to be underſtood.

And now if in this Place e're we go further, we ſhall look round about us, and ſet all Things together, but ſo far as hitherto we have gone, unto what other Intent or Purpoſe more imaginably Congruous, and more Artificially fitting one Thing to the other in this his Diſcourſe ſhould the Apoſtle inſert; yea, reiterate and inculcate this Clauſe, We that are in this Tabernacle, then that which we have been proving. For having begun his Diſcourſe in Ver. 1. We know, if this Tabernacle were diſſolved, we have an Houſe or Glory ready for us: He (in this Ver. 4.) doth again once more remind them of their Souls being the Inmates, and that their Bodies were but Temporary Tabernacles, ſhortly to be taken down and diſſolved; and that then their Souls are to exiſt out of them. And he alſo makes this ſuperadded Inſinuation, that other of their Brethren who have been diſſolved, have taken Poſſeſſion of thoſe Eternal Habitations, whilſt themſelves remain ſtill in this Tabernacle Life, burthened and groaning, And why ſhould they be brought in hereupon (in Ver. 2. and in this Ver. 4.) again groaning, and groaning again: But becauſe they have in their Eyes and Hearts, whilſt they thus groan, that other State of Glory, which thoſe bleſſed Souls, that are out of thoſe Tabernacles, are in Actual Enjoyment of? And if they ſigh and groan, becauſe themſelves are burthened, they put forth another in the Conſideration thereof. And beſides, What Glory is this they groan for, but that which at the firſt was begun to be ſet afore them, as a Mark of their High Calling? We know, that if our Earthly Tabernacle be diſſolved, we have an Houſe in Heaven. And what other Houſe is it they groan to be cloathed with (as it there follows) but that ſame very Houſe which upon Diſſolution, their other Brethren, that are out of this Tabernacle, have already taken Poſſeſſion of afore them, and with the Thoughts of which Houſe ready for them, they in the firſt Verſe had comforted themſelves: That if this (their) Tabernacle were (in like manner) diſſolved, we have, &c? For it ſtands prepared for us, were we but once diſſolved and abſent from the Body, as in Rom. 8. we find it more plainly ſpoken. And the Conſideration of thoſe Things do whet our Deſires, and make them more eager to be at home (as the 8*th.* Verſe expreſſeth the State of Glory of the Soul ſeparate) at Home, that is, in our aforeſaid Houſes of Glory, and in our own Country, as that Word importeth. How Congruous and Concinnate are all thoſe Paſſages round about us, from firſt to laſt in ſuch their mutual Reflections one upon another, and Connexions one with another as to this Sence, we contend for?

We do groan earneſtly, as ver. 2. 'tis tranſlated. And have we not reaſon think you, when not only by Senſe we feel ſuch heavy Loads, as we that are in this Tabernacle do hourly ſuſtain and ſuffer; and whilſt withal by Faith we know, what Bleſſedneſs there is ready for us in the other World, and which we know, our Elder Brethren are admitted into, and do now enjoy (they having got the ſtart of us, by their being diſmiſſed, and got out of this Tabernacle afore us) and have their Mortality ſwallowed up of Life, whilſt we (poor Souls) are the oppreſſed Ones of the Earth, under all ſorts of Miſeries, and do carry about with us a Body of Death, and are reſtrained the while from that other Enjoyment, only by our Exiſtence in this Tabernacle; and nothing elſe lets, or is between us and ſo great an Happineſs, which is our Inheritance?

The freſh and renewed Thoughts of theſe Things ſet together (as by the Apoſtle they are on purpoſe penned.) How mightily (may we well think) would they move the Heart of Chriſtians, that are aſſured of their Salvation! No wonder, if he ſays it once, We groan, deſiring, v. 2. and then ſays it twice in this 4*th*. Verſe again. Even as on the contrary he doubles it, Rejoyce, and again I ſay Rejoyce; as with a Joy of all the moſt intenſe and vehement. Oh! thinks ſuch a Soul, if I were but diſſolved once, it would not barely quit me of theſe Burthens; but it would inſtantly put me into that Poſſeſſion, my Fellow Brethren are already in. And what is Diſſolution, it is but the ſhooting the Bridge, the Gulph between the one State of a dying Life here, and that other of Glory, when the Mortality of this dying Life ſhall be ſwallowed up of that, which is Life in the Fulneſs of it. And thus, upon thoſe Terms as it is thus ſtated and apprehended, the Saints being ſurrounded with thoſe Thoughts, A Diſſolution becometh the joyful Object of their Groanings, as it is of the Apoſtle's Deſires; Phil. 1. and though Diſſolution be not explicitly ſaid, yet it is virtually and implicitly in the Scope, or in the Strength of all manifeſtly intended, and deſired as a Means to that further End. [We that are In this Tabernacle] and the reſt that follow, from the making a Not-dying at all, or an abſolute Non-diſſolution to be the Object of their Deſires in this place, which the other Interpretations would put both upon it and us. Thus much for the Deſcription of the Perſons that groan, &c. and what may be argued therefrom; I ſhall now conſider the Occaſion of their Groaning, Groan being burthened; That's the Second Head, and is brought in here as the approximate Occaſion of their Groanings, but chiefly as conducing to his illuſtrating that Difference (which follows) between the Saints and others in their Groanings after Diſſolution, The Words; Being burthened, come in between theſe two Speeches. 1. After the Words We that groan. And, 2. Before thoſe latter Words, Not for that we would be uncloathed; and ſo pays Contribution to both, and hath its Aſpect to, and Influence upon both. That is, firſt it hath a reſpect unto their Groaning as ſome Occaſion of it, though a leſs principal One: For then, having done that Service, it ſerves another, viz. That from thence the Apoſtle ſhould take rife to explain How, and Why it is, and How, and Why not, that we Chriſtians do groan for Diſſolution, with Difference from other Men.

Two Things are herein to be attended.

1. A Tacit Conceſſion or Grant, that indeed a Chriſtian is a burthened Creature. And comparatively to other Men, the moſt burthened of any other; which in the foregoing Chapter he had related of himſelf, and others his Brethren

2. That they are ſenſible enough of thoſe Burthens, and are unto their own Senſe and Feeling thus burthened. For hereupon they groan, which muſt be out of a Senſe thereof.

1. There is this Conceſſion or Grant, that indeed of all other ſorts of Men a Chriſtian is the moſt Burthened in reſpect of the Multitude, Variety, and Greatneſs of his Grievances: We having not only all the Miſeries, that are Tributa vivendi, the common and ordinary Taxes and Tributes of Life in this World, that come upon us in common with others, as Sickneſs, Loſs of Friends, and the like; but further, we have all ſorts of Perſecutions, that are Tributa Chriſti, the Double, yea Centuple impoſts for our Religion. As to our Names all Men ſpeak Evil of us, and we are as the off-ſcouring of the World to this Day. And then, in real Damages, in Eſtates, &c. we are by Reaſon of Perſecution without a certain abiding Place, we ſuffer Hunger, Nakedneſs, Impriſonments, Baniſhments, Deaths, (all which he recites in Chap. 4.) And all which he ſumms up into that Total, in 1 Cor. 15. 19. In this Life, we are of all Men moſt miſerable. Not to mention the Burthen they carry about with them in their own Souls from Sins, which other Men make the greateſt Comfort fort and Happineſs of their Lives, and therefore are ſaid to live in them, but which make us to cry out, Oh! Miſerable Men that we are, &c.

2. He would have all Men know, that they are as ſenſible of thoſe Burthens, as any other Men are or can be ſuppoſed to be: And that the Reaſon why they do bear them ſo patiently and ſilently as they do (only with Groanings and Sighings) is not from a ſturdy Stoical Principle, as if they profeſſed a want of Senſe and Affection, which was the Counterfeit, and Palliated Profeſſion of their wiſeſt Philoſophers, who would be eſteemed eminent and ſingular for Wiſdom and Vertue amongſt Men. No, (ſays he) in Oppoſition hereunto, we acknowledge that we are Burthened, and are ſenſible to the Quick; and Groan after Death, yet not like unto other Men, but have another kind of Relief which ſupports us.

CHAP. IX.

The True, and Eminent Grounds of a Chriſtians Groanings after Diſſolution, ſevered from the falſe Grounds of other Men. That a Chriſtian doth not deſire Death meerly on this alone Account, that it will give him eaſe in freeing him from all the Miſeries, and Sorrows of this preſent Life.

OF all other ſorts of Men that were, or had been ever heard of in the World, the Chriſtians in thoſe Primitive Times were obſerved to be the greateſt undervaluers of Life, and ambitious Aſpirers after Death, and Diſſolution. 'Tis made the common Character of them, Rev. 12. 11. They loved not their Lives to Death, and it was our great Apoſtles Publick Profeſſion of, and concerning himſelf: I count not my Life dear to me, ſo that I might finiſh my Courſe with Joy, and the Miniſtry which I have received of the Lord Jeſus, to teſtifie the Goſpel of the Grace of God, Acts 20. 24. It was obſerved, that thoſe firſt Chriſtians came to Martyrdom, as Young Men and Maidens uſe to do to their Weddings; yea, as to their own Marriages. They chearfully being called thereto, expoſed themſelves to Death. As we are always delivered to Death, ſays the Apoſtle (2 Cor. 4. 11.) So we are willing, ſays he (2 Cor. 4. 8. And thoſe Heathens that were Obſervators of this, being Strangers to the Principles of Chriſtianity, not knowing the Grounds and Motives which inſpired their Souls hereunto; imputed theſe high moſt raiſed Actions and Aſpirements unto falſe Principles, or ſuch Cauſes as they found in themſelves, and that might any way be ſuppoſed to be in the Hearts of Men. And as in judging of a Chriſtians Ways and general Courſe of Life, they attributed the ſingularity thereof unto Pride, Hypocriſie, Affectation: So in like Manner in this Point, of not loving their Lives, they aſcribed this Eagerneſs after Diſſolution, partly to Stoiciſm, and Inſenſibility, which ſome of their own Philoſophers profeſſed (of which Sect you read, Acts 17.) or to a wearieſomneſs of Life, becauſe they were ſo perſecuted, and ſpoken againſt, or (as the Apoſtle hath ſpoken their Condition) becauſe they were in this Life of all Men the moſt miſerable: And ſo they were lookt upon in that reſpect as Men that wiſht for Death, and could not find it. And this (beſides what might therein concern the Spirits of Chriſtians themſelves) gave a juſt Occaſion to the Apoſtle to lay down here that Account of the Principles, Chriſtians go upon in this Particular, with Difference from what are, or were found in others, who at any Time wiſh and Groan for Death. But although the Apoſtle alſo acknowledgeth that theſe Burthens have ſome Influence (as there there is all Reaſon they ſhould) into their Deſire after Diſſolution, yet then take the Caſe as it is truly Stated in our Hearts, and all theſe Burthens ariſe not ſo high, or prevail not ſo far upon us, as to cauſe us to deſire Death ſimply, (as the Heathens or others uſe to do) for an avoidance of preſent Miſeries, but know (ſays he) that our Religion, and that alone preſents us with, and holds up to our Faith, and aſſures us of, a Glorious Crown and Eſtate of Life, when this Mortal is ended, whereby Mortality ſhall be ſwallowed up of Life, whereof we have the earneſt (Ver. 5.) and this is it, that raiſeth and enobles our Spirits to this height of confident willingneſs to Die, as in the following Verſe 6. expreſſeth. Chap. IX.

For theſe things I refer you to Heathen Writers of the Primitive Times, as alſo the Apologies made for Chriſtians.

He preſenteth ſuch a Principle (Ver. 4.) in the Name of Chriſtians, as never was found in any carnal Heart, nor is, nor can be underſtood by them. He preſenteth this Principle in theſe Words, Not for that we would be Uncloathed, but Cloathed upon.

Theſe Words ſhew Why, and Why not, How, and How not, a Chriſtian Groans after Diſſolution, and ſo do of themſelves fall into Two Parts.

1. Negative, or a removal of what might be ſuppoſed the Ground, Not for that we would be Uncloathed, or not that, that alone would ever Cauſe ſuch a deſire in us.

2 Poſitive, or the true prevailing utmoſt Ground, Why, and from which it proceedeth, But for that we would be Cloathed upon. And this Centers in the higheſt Thing, that the Object of their Aims could Center in, That Mortality might be ſwallowed up of Life.

It is of Moment to know the meaning of the Phraſe, For that, ſince it is the Hinge upon which both the Negative and Poſitive do turn: Concerning which obſerve Two Things.

1. That in the Greek ἐφ' ᾧ, For that, is ſo Placed, as it indifferently pertains to either of theſe: For the Tenor or Station of the Words in the Greek runs thus, For that, not we would be Uncloated, but to be Cloathed upon. And thus read it, having firſt ſerved the Negative (which is the firſt Part) it ſtands as fairly ready, and was in its Poſture reſerved to be carried to, and joined alſo with the Affirmative or Poſitive Part, and is ſo to be joined therewith thus, But for that we would be Cloathed upon.

2. The true Import of the Phraſe is known to render the Reaſon or the Becauſe, why an Act or Action is ſaid to be done, or not done. It Imports the ὃν χάριν, or the οὗ ἕνεκα, For the ſake of which, or the Reſpect upon which, or the End or Aim for which any Thing is done: And ſo here it ſerves to ſet forth the genuine Aim, or meaning of the Spirit of a Chriſtian; and the true Reaſon or Inducement, whereby he is prevailed upon as to the Point of deſires of his Diſſolution. We ordinarily uſe the like way of Speech. Suppoſe a Brother, or ſome other near Relation, preſenting a Suit againſt a Murtherer of his Friend or Relation, ſhould by way of Account or Vindication of his Act and his ſincere Aims therein, utter himſelf at this Purpoſe. I proſecute this Suit being thus nearly related and concerned in the Perſon, not for that I ſeek the Death of this Man ſimply as a Man, nor for that I have been injured by him, that ſo I might be revenged, but that Publick Juſtice might be done, and that both Divine and Humane Law, that he that ſheds Mans Blood, by Man ſhall his Blood be ſhed, may have its due Courſe and be ſatisfied. In this Speech this Particle [For that] though it be Placed in the Fore-front, viz. the Negative Part of his Speech, yet is what in common is carried to the other, But for that I would Juſtice ſhould be done, &c. The Paralel between that, and this in the Text is eaſily diſcerned.

See Stephans Theſaurus upon the Prepoſit. ἐπὶ cum Dat (as here) put for ea Lege, ea conditione Et ἐπὶ for propter. See alſo Franciſcus Vigerius in Prepoſitione ἐπὶ: Alſo Gloſſius Philologia, lib. 3. Tract. 6.

1. Now then, I ſhall firſt conſider the Negative, Not that we would be Uncloathed, Theſe Words are a profeſſed Renunciation of ſuch lower Ends and Motives, from having the ſway in a Chriſtians Deſires of Diſſolution, by which other Men are induced thereunto, and which yet they finding no other in themſelves, were, and are apt to impute unto Chriſtians. The Motives Negative herein, are Two.

1. In

Chap. IX.

1. In theſe Words, Not to be Uncloathed, being taken ſingly and alone, That is, we Chriſtians do not Groan to Die meerly to be uncloathed or rid of our Bodies, which was one of the nobleſt and higheſt Grounds, the wiſer and great Spirits among the Heathens did pretend unto, and gloried in, as that which made them willing to Die. They had ſuch Valuation for that Diviner Part, their Souls; and thought ſo contemptuouſly of the worſt Part, their Bodies; that they looked on Death, as a Freedom from the cumber of them. And thus under the Metaphor of being Cloathed, the Apoſtle hits and meets with that Principle, which the Sageſt of them chearfully embraced Death upon, which was to put off the Body, as a Man would do a heavy Garment, that clogs and hinders him, to the end to be more Agile, Nimble, Lightſome, and Active; as they Thought their Souls would be, when they had their Mittimus from their Bodies.

They taught the Immortality of the Soul, as well as we Chriſtians, and alſo the Free-acting of the Soul without the Body, but with all they taught their Diſciples to contemn the Body, and complained of the Conjunction or Immerſion of our Souls with it and into it, as if the great God had done it wrong, to put ſo Divine and Vigorous a Spirit into ſo dark and damp a Dungeon or Priſon (that was their ordinary Word σῶμα quaſi σημα ſo Plato) and in the Book of Wiſdom you may ſee, how the Effects of this Principle had tainted the Jews themſelves, for Solomon is brought in there ſaying, was a Soul put into a defiled Body. They thought the Souls high-born Aſpirements, and Soarings, to be Captived, Depreſs'd, Obſtructed, and kept down (as a Soaring Bird kept in a Cage) and its Activeneſs to be confined, and interrupted by the Souls Conjunction with the Body. Like as a Man in Priſon ſees but out of a Loop-hole, or through a Grate, ſo (thought they) the Captived Soul, takes in Things by outward Senſes; and therefore they look upon being uncloathed and out of it, and look conſequently upon Death as a Goal Delivery, or as the Letting a Bird fly looſe in the open Air, the Native Element for it. The Apoſtle contradicts this Principle, and inſinuates that we Chriſtians have Learn'd otherwiſe, that the Conjunction of the Body and Soul was a Happy Match, when God firſt made it, and made Man a Living Soul, (Gen. 2.) That is, a Soul ordained to live in a natural Body. This was that which originally from the Firſt and for ever the Soul was ordained for, although we do find, that by being fallen into Sin, it is not only appointed for all Men once to Die, and were it not for our Hope that is renewed in the Soul, and for the Glory which, upon Separation from the Body, it ſhall be therefore Cloathed upon, the Soul of it ſelf ſubſiſting alone, would be a moſt Lame, Weak, and Imperfect, and Unactive Creature. And further, that the Body is thus a Clog to the Soul, is but accidental through Mans own default: And hence we Chriſtians dare not ſimply wiſh for a Freedom from our Bodies, or Groan for Death. Therefore we dare not in our deſires wiſh for Death, and ſo Contradict and Blaſpheme God's Ordination, as their beſt Philoſophers have done; but we wait God's Pleaſure to whom we Live, and to whom we Die. That the Apoſtle in this Paſſage ſhould have ſome Glance, and Eye upon thoſe Principles of the Heathen, we perceive by the honourble Elogium he preſently gives of the Souls dwelling in the Body, whiles he Terms it a being at home in the Body, for ſo indeed it is in the Ordination of God, and its natural Inſtitution and Make: And therefore to be rid of it, and ſimply to be Uncloathed is not, for that, or for which we deſire to Die. This is the firſt Motive diſclaimed in this Negative.

But it will be replied, that the Burthens that you otherwiſe bear in the Body (which you confeſs) do yet raiſe up theſe eager Deſires in you. For Anſwer to this there is,

2. A Second Negative, wherein this other low, and under Motive more common to Man, and which was more ordinarily imputed to Chriſtians is diſclaimed, and that is, Not for that we are burthened; that is, our being burthened is not the reaſon, whereupon alone we would be uncloathed. Which Word had immediately preceded, and now put that into the Ballance with the former, yet both that and the former weigh not unto ſuch a Prevalency, as would alone excite, and draw forth thoſe vehement Deſires in us. Chap. IX.

This Word Burthened is placed (as you may well obſerve) purpoſely between theſe two; We that are in this Tabernacle, the Words before it, and thoſe that follow, Not that we would be uncloathed. It is placed ſo on purpoſe, (I ſay) that it might illuſtrate the more, and render the Genuine Deſires and Aims of a Chriſtian herein the more Illuſtrious. It firſt, referring unto our being in this Tabernacle, declares, that whilſt we are in it, we are and ſhall be burthened: But then again, its Reference unto theſe Words, Not that we would be uncloathed, ſerves to this Sence, that although we be thus burthened, it is not upon the Load hereof, that the Saints do determinately deſire to be uncloathed, no, if that were all, this alone would not be prevalent with us: And ſo it is, as if he had ſaid, we groan being burthened, not that we would be uncloathed ſimply for Eaſe from them, not upon that Conſideration alone or chiefly. Thus Beza renders the Coherence, Non tædet nos vitæ ipſius; Not that we are weary of Life; viz. by reaſon of our Burthens, Sed futuræ deſiderio ardemus, but we are enflamed with Deſires after that other Life to come. So as though it be ſaid, we groan being burthened, as we have reaſon, and that may alſo be taken in to help forward ſuch our Deſires, even as leſſer Aims, that alone would not be effectual to move unto ſuch or ſuch a thing, do yet contribute together with a greater One: So here, our Burthens are but the leſs principal, they are not that, which alone or chiefly do ſway, they are far from making up the full Motive, why we ſhould deſire to dye. They indeed may and ought to be conſidered, and it was fit the Apoſtle ſhould make mention of them, for the Reaſons before ſpecified, when we opened the Import of what was in that Word; yea, they are ſome kind of Ingredient Motives thereunto, eſpecially when we have ſo great a Glory as the certain Conſequence of Death in our View; but yet otherwiſe theſe hold no Ballance. And you may obſerve, how theſe Words, Not for that we would be uncloathed, come inſtantly in as treading upon the Heels of the before-mentioned, Being burthened, as a Correction and Allay; as if he had ſpoken too much, in ſaying, We groan being burthened. And this would ſeem, as if he were there upon the Point of calling in again that Word, at leaſt, that though he let it ſtand, being (as we ſay) out, yet that he might not be miſunderſtood in it, as if that did caſt the Ballance; he corrects the Sence of it, no, ſays he, we would not be uncloathed, For that we are burthened, ſince that bears no Weight comparatively in the Scale: But more Generous and Glorious Aims in the poſitive part weigh moſt, viz. that Mortality ſhould be ſwallowed up of Life. As if he had ſaid; that of our Burthens is not worthy of Conſideration in compariſon of the other; They are but the ſmaller Duſt of the Ballance, too light to caſt the Scale, but it is that Eternal Weight of Glory, which being diſſolved we ſhall be aſſuredly poſſeſſed of, and which we have in our Hearts, and eyes that mainly turns the Ballance; whereas other Men, eſpecially the Heathens in thoſe Times, if they were in a Diſtreſs, and burthened, there was no other Ho with them, but preſently to dye, ſo to avoid and eſcape out of their Burthens, and ſo in a pett they were wont to dye. This was ordinary amongſt the great Spirits among them.

But the Chriſtians, who are more Noble, have not ſo learned Chriſt, who himſelf gave us an Example in this particular, who though a Man of Sorrows more than all other Men, yet waited, until he had finiſhed the Work, his Father had given him to do, and until his Time was come, yea, and alſo prayed not that we ſhould be taken out of this World, namely, until the Time appointed by the Father. Therefore, we that are in this Tabernacle by GOD's Appointment, ſet, and placed there, as Centinels or Perdues in War, are patiently to endure thoſe Burthens as Chaſtiſements for our Sins, which God brings upon us, or which by ſinning we have brought upon our ſelves. We are to endure them alſo to honour the Profeſſion of our Religion, and with Submiſſion to the Will of God to wait his Time of Deliverance, which we ought not to anticipate, we ought to attend the time which he hath fore-appointed, being well aſſured that of all things outward (which GOD hath taken upon him to determine in this World) the Time of Saints, their being in the Body is the moſt wiſely ſet, and fixed of all others. For if of Men in general it be ſaid Job 7. 1. Is there not an appointed time to Man upon Earth? then eſpecially of Holy Men, that are ſo dear to God, whoſe Death is ſaid therefore to be precious to him, and therefore the Time of their Lives muſt needs be ſo too; for in relation to their Lives their Death is ſaid to be precious, when, and how he will appoint it. My Times are in thine Hand, (ſays David) Our Breath, and all our Ways (ſays Daniel.) Thus of all Mankind the Saints, Whether they live, or, whether they dye, are the Lords. Rom. 14. 8. The Lords in a ſpecial manner, and by a ſpecial Propriety, and Intereſt in them. He is a Sovereign Lord both of Time and of them, as he that is the Grand Maſter, and Lord, and Diſpoſer of Life, Who Hath the Keys of Death, and to Whom Belong the Iſſues of Death, and therefore the Saints are quietly to Wait all the Days of their appointed Time; and for this Cauſe they do not, nor dare not, out of a Wearineſs, or Burthen of Life, deſire to be uncloathed: Though when Death ſhall come, and God's Will therein be manifeſted, they then will, and do relieve themſelves with the Thought of being eaſed from thoſe Burthens, which are therefore in this Argument here mentioned. And this, as it is the true Poſture of a truly inſtructed Chriſtian (eſpecially when aſſured of God in Chriſt), ſo it is the Meaning and Drift of the Apoſtle in this Place.

It is to this purpoſe obſervable, how to the End to ſhew that thoſe Perſecutions and Burthens are not the predominant Incentives, or Fomentors of ſuch vehement Deſires of Death; he in the 6th. and 8th. Verſes doth in his own Name, and in the Name and Behalf of true Chriſtians in the Concluſion utter their Spirits thus. Therefore we are always confident, or Daring as the Word imports. Then he ſays it a ſecond time, v. 8. That is, our Spirits do indeed riſe up the more, and are ſteel'd againſt all Encounters, come what will come through the Will of God upon us. Indeed we have a Boldneſs in all, becauſe if the worſt come, that can come, we know the certain Iſſue. So far then are true Chriſtians from Puſillanimity, or Shrinking of their Spirits into that Hole of Death, as an Evaſion from their incumbent Burthens, that there is a Boldneſs and Erection, or Inſurgency of Spirit raiſed up againſt all theſe, as more than Conquerors in them; and all by reaſon that we know (as he had ſaid v. 1.) If our Earthly Tabernacle be diſſolved, we are ſecured and inſured, we have an Houſe in Heaven. And this Speech in v. 6. and v. 8. doth come in as an Inference from his Doctrine, taught from the firſt Verſe downwards.

We being then ſet in this World by God to live to him, and unto his Glory, and to abide his Time and Will for ſo doing, as Chriſt did: Nay, we being ſet in the midſt of Sufferings ought to eye him, his Will, his Glory, and to have our Deſires ſo poiz'd by our Judgments, that tho' our Deſires run out in Groanings to be ſwallowed up of Life for our own Happineſs, yet our Wills, as they are thus poized by our Judgments, will return this modeſt Anſwer which immediately follows in Verſe 8. We are willing rather to be abſent from the Body, though as it follows there, it is to be preſent with the Lord. Unto this laſt Iſſue and determinate Upſhot doth all come, To be willing rather. Indeed the Affectionate Part in their Groans is vehement and ardent; but the determining and reſolving Part in their Wills is moderate, and is uttered but by a rather, a little more than Indifference. And therefore, as if he had uttered too much Confidence in the other Word, We are always confident, he corrects it by a ſofter Expreſſion, We are willing rather, for this Conſideration, after-mentioned by their Wills, deliberately riſes in the greateſt Vehemency by the breakings in of Glory upon them, as being Men in a Streight between two, like as a Needle equally diſtant between two Load-ſtones: As the Apoſtle ſpeaks of his own Deſires, Phil. 1. There is ſuch a Mixture of Conſiderations meet in it, as though they have great Affections riſe up one way, yet they are checkt again with the Thoughts of God's Will, that they ſhould do him Service by their Lives, which make them but willing rather.

And the Opening of this Negative Part of the Apoſtle's Vindication, and Renunciation of theſe lower Ends argues a more Noble, Elevate, and Generous rous Temper and Frame of Spirit. And we gave a Character of a true Christian, worthy of the Profession of our Christianity, whereof all other Professions do fall short: And answerably this Interpretation; that I have driven in this 4th. Verse, speaks of far greater Spiritualness, suited to a Gospel Spirit by far, than that they should be supposed to desire a Change without dying at all, such a Desire having a Foundation only in that Loathness to dye, which is so Natural to us.

CHAP. X.

The Positive Ground or Reason why a Christian desires Dissolution is; That the Weak, and Sinful Life which he now lives, may be swallowed up of an Heavenly, and Eternal Life.

THAT, which is next to be consider'd, is, the Positive Account of what is the predominant Reason and Respect, upon which we Christians groan for Dissolution. But for this we have in these Words, That we would be cloathed upon; that Mortality might be swallowed up of Life: In which are two Things to be attended.

1. His expressing of that Glory upon Dissolution, under the same Metaphor he had before taken up in V. 2. and in the same Sence and Extent he had there used it in. It is as if the Apostle had said, The Aim of us Christians is not simply to dye, and be uncloathed; but that our Souls be cloathed upon, with that Glory; which upon our uncloathing is prepared for us: He intending Cloathing upon in the same, and no other Sense in this Verse, than he had used it in the second Verse; This Verse being a Repetition of the Substance of that. How Being cloathed upon in that second Verse respects the Glory of the Soul at Dissolution; and is thus termed A cloathing upon, in respect unto the Soul's first having been cloathed with Holiness, in the Time of this Life; as the Preparation to it; I have before largely explained and proved, in the Opening of that Verse second; to which I refer the Reader.

2. The second Thing to be considered is, What is the Issue or Consequence, and likewise what is the Aim of being thus cloathed upon. It is, to have the Mortality, in which we live, swallowed up of Life; which doth more really explain, what is the Substance of the Soul's Aims in its Groaning, than what describ'd under the dark Metaphor of being Cloathed upon. Herein he speaks plainly, and not in Parables or Metaphors; and interprets what he means by Cloathing upon. For indeed this latter Clause, Mortality being swallowed up of Life, doth swallow up into it self all, that had been said of Glory in the former Words. For, 1. It oppositely answers unto the Words, We groan being burthened. In the Substance thereof is this Word Mortality, which is the opposite to this of Life; and it includes, and takes up into it self All those Burthens, the Soul had under that Word, Burthened, complained of; as the Subject Matter it groans to have swallowed up, and abolished. 2. These Words, Swallowed up of Life, speak the whole Spirit, and Quintessence of that Glory, which that other Metaphor, of Being cloathed upon, can be supposed to intend. 'Tis Life, says the Apostle, Pure Life; a Life so Rich, so over-flowingly abundant, as by the overcoming Vehemency thereof, it doth in an Instant consume All that is Evil, or Mortal in the Soul, and all Misery, and Imperfection appertaining to that Condition, which it had whilst in the Body.

There are Two Principles in a Holy Soul, fore-mentioned, which do carry it forth unto these Aspirements.

Chap. X.

1. The Grace and Holineſs it is cloathed withal (v. 2, 3.) which, being but an Imperfect Preparation to Glory, maketh it reſtleſs to be cloathed upon fully with that, which is its ſole Perfection: Even as naturally as Matter prepared and diſpoſed, uſeth to long after that Form, which it is prepared unto. And this is more plainly inſinuated in the next Verſe, v. 5. Now he, that hath wrought us for the ſelf-ſame Thing, is God, who alſo hath given unto us the Earneſt of the Spirit. It is, what hath been wrought in us by God, that puts us upon this Deſire of being cloathed upon.

2. The Second Principle, upon which a Chriſtian deſires Diſſolution is, The Taſte, which a Soul hath already had of an Heavenly Life here, which the Word Groaning, and Deſiring do import, that Taſte being the Drawer forth of thoſe Deſires, after a more full and perfect Enjoyment of that Life in God. Thus ſpeaks the Pſalmiſt, If ſo be you have taſted how good the Lord is; and to the ſame purpoſe he ſays, in another place, Thy loving Kindneſs is better than Life. Theſe ſweet Sippings the Soul hath had; A little further Lift (ſays One) would have lift my Soul to Heaven. They do enthirſt the Soul unſatisfiedly to deſire to drink down the whole of that Sweetneſs and Bleſſedneſs that is in God, or rather (as the Word here in the Greek ſignifies) to be drunk up of that Life it ſelf; as a Drop is by the Ocean.

Thus you have ſeen the Inwards of a Chriſtian, the ſecreteſt Workings of his Heart and Affections in his Deſires of Death cut up before you, as by a two edged Sword, that divides between the Negative, What not; and the Affirmative, which declares, What are a Chriſtian's principal Motives herein. This gives Demonſtration of the Nobleneſs of a Chriſtian's Spirit; and the Apoſtle turns this flaming Sword both ways. And indeed then a Matter comes to be fully cleared, when that which is ſpurious, falſe and counterfeit, and yet hath an Appearance of Truth, is ſeparated from what is true and genuine: Which our Apoſtle hath here performed, even as in other Affections (to diſcover the Spiritualneſs of them) it is his Wont to do. Thus in point of Godly Sorrow, and Mourning for Sin, (which is a moſt ſpiritual Diſpoſition, when rightly ſtated; as it flows in a Chriſtian's Heart) in this very Epiſtle, he thus ſpeaks, Chap. 7. 9, 10. I rejoyce not, that ye were made ſorry, but that ye were made ſorry to Repentance; for ye were made ſorry after a godly manner. 'Tis turned both ways you ſee (even as here) Negatively, and Affirmatively, ſo to expreſs with all Clearneſs the Genuine, Spiritual Temper, of that Grace with difference from all other Sorrow, though for Sin: And both alike are diſtinguiſhed: This here, and that of Godly Sorrow, there. I rejoyce (ſays he) not ſimply, that ye were made ſorry. Although it were for Sin; and in like manner, ſays he here, Not for that we would be uncloathed, as ſimply ſo conſidered, or meerly to be eaſed of our Burthen; ſo the Negative in both are Paralel. And then, there giving the true and proper poſitive Ground of that Sorrow, he ſays; that he rejoyc'd, That they ſorrowed after a godly manner. And here in this Text, he anſwerably gives the poſitive Ground of a Chriſtian's Groaning, viz. To be cloathed upon, and ſwallowed up of Life. And thus the poſitive Principle in both are paralel alſo: And ſo that Text of 2 Cor. 7. 9, 10. moſt aptly ſerves to illuſtrate this Text of 2 Cor. 5. 4.

The Interpretation of theſe Words, That Mortality might be ſwallowed up of Life, will beſt be managed by way of Aſſoiling, or Anſwer to one of the greateſt Difficulties, or Objections, that doth, or may occur againſt this Interpretation of mine, which I have again and again given: An Objection, which hath even almoſt univerſally induced Interpreters to another Expoſition.

The firſt Difficulty or Objection lies thus; that this Phraſe is uſed of the Reſurrection of the Body: 1 Cor. 15. 54. When this Mortal ſhall have put on Immortality, then ſhall be brought to paſs the Saying that is written, Death ſhall be ſwallowed up in Victory. And therefore ſay they, this Verſe muſt be intended of the Change of the Body at the Reſurrection; (for that is the Argument the Apoſtle treats of in that Chapter; and thereunto is this Speech, of Swallowing up, applied;) even then when there will be the Laſt, and Total Change, and Conſummation of all Mortality whatſoever. And the Word Swallowing up, imports ports with it alſo both a ſudden, and a compleat Change, A Totality, a Conſummation; which is not made of all Mortality until the Reſurrection: And I confeſs, that Æſtius his ſo pungent urging the Paralel of the Phraſes there, and here, that the Phraſe there carrying it to the general Reſurrection, therefore it ſhould be ſo here, did the moſt ſtick with me of all Objections elſe to move me to think, that the Glory of the Reſurrection ſhould only be intended in this Place alſo. It is alſo to be conſider'd, that it is the Body, which is in common Acceptation the ſole Subject of Mortality: (As here the Word is tranſlated.) As alſo that until that Day there is not a final ſwallowing up of Mortality. Chap. X.

But on the other Hand I found, that there is at Death a Mortal; τὸ θνητὸν, and that, which truly and in a moſt juſt Sence is to be Termed a Death, which at Diſſolution is done away; yea, and a far greater Death, then what is remov'd at the Reſurrection of our Dead Bodies: And this Death is then ſwallowed up with as much ſuddenneſs, and with as great a vehemency of Power, as ſhall in the Reſurrection be put forth upon our Bodies: And this Death is then ſwallowed up by a Life, which is tranſcendently ſuch, and only deſerves (in ſome reſpects) the Name of Life; and into which now at Diſſolution the Soul is taken up, and ſwallowed up withal. Theſe Conſiderations made me ſtill adhere to this my Interpretation. It may be farther added, That this Phraſe Swallowed up, &c. here is at leaſt as applicable unto the Change made upon the Soul at Death, as it is unto the Change made upon our Bodies at the Reſurrection: And indeed is to be applied, and intended of both. For if Calvin ſays, it is uncertain of the Two, which was meant (although he profeſſeth to incline unto our Interpretation) throughout the whole of the Apoſtles Diſcourſe; then I dare be bold to ſay, if both may be meant, then both ſhould be. It is, and hath been a certain Rule with me, that when a Scripture doth equally, or ſome way alike perpend, or incline towards Two Acceptations of the Words, and ſo may take in Two Senſes, that are not repugnant, that then it is to be in a Latitude taken in both.

I ſhall therefore demonſtrate that at Diſſolution, there is a Mortality ſwallowed up of Life; and ſo the Words are applicable, as well unto the Condition of the Soul then, as at the Reſurrection they are applicable to the Condition of the Body.

1. In theſe Words, this Mortal, we have the Thing ſaid to be ſwallowed up: And by Reaſon of this Word, thoſe who are for the other Interpretation think, they have an Advantage for them; becauſe the Soul is Immortal, and ſo it cannot be ſaid of it, that Mortality is ſwallowed up of Life: But moſt properly of the Body at the Reſurrection, that Phraſe, or Words may be uſed.

But although the Soul in the Subſtance of it be immortal; yet take the Condition of Life which it now leads whilſt in this Tabernacle, and it may be moſt truly ſaid, it hath a Mortality adhering to it, yea, inhering in it, as the Adjunct of it. There is a Mortal State the Perſon is in; there is an Animal Life, (as one calls it); there is a Dying Life, a Life of Death, in which as to a great Part the Soul now Lives: And it is the preſent State, or this dying Life of the Soul, which he here ſpeaks of. For,

1. He ſpeaks of that, which we have in this Tabernacle: (We that are in this Tabernacle;) and ſo whilſt we are in this Tabernacle, we have a Mortal Body, which we carry about with us, which ſhall be ſwallowed up. It is the preſent Mortal Body afore Diſſolution, as much as that Future Mortality after in the Grave, He firſt Points us unto.

2. What he had in the foregoing Sentence expreſſed by Burthens, that accompanied this Life, the ſame he intends, and comprehends under the Notion, and Name of Mortal: And it is, as if he had ſaid, it is this Mortal Life; that ſo Burthens us. What is implied in both theſe Expreſſions is, that one and the ſame Thing, though under Two ſeveral Words, which we Groan at, longing to exchange them for the abundancy of that other Life: And thus all the Frailties, and Miſeries that are now the Adjuncts, or Tributes of this Life, come into the Total of this Mortal Life. For,

3. It

Chap. X.

3. It is termed ſo, as it is ſet in Oppoſition unto that other Life (of which it is ſwallowed up) that which is Life only, and only deſerves the Name of Life: The true, and Eternal Life: Life indeed. And as all thoſe Happineſſes, and Bleſſedneſſes, that are the Concomitants of that State, are termed Life, ſo all the contrary Miſeries of this preſent ſorry Life, we lead in the Fleſh, are comparatively termed a Mortal Life, or a dying Condition. And you may obſerve, how in that 1 Cor. 15. Mortal there is ſet in Oppoſition unto Immortality; becauſe the Subject there, that is ſaid to be Mortal, are the dead Bodies of Saints, which are by the Reſurrection made Immortal: But here it is oppoſed unto Life in the quinteſſence of what is Life: 'Tis oppoſed to pure Life, to the Subſtance of Eternal Life, whereof the Soul we all know, is the immediate, and moſt proper Subject: And therefore oppoſitely this Mortal, or miſerable Life, which the Soul leads in this Body, (whilſt we are in this Tabernacle) is that, which is ſtated the Mortal here. Inſomuch as though the Soul it ſelf is an immortal Spirit, yet the Life it leads, and lives in this Body is (ſet thoſe ſmall Twinklings of the Life of Grace aſide) but a Mortal, Frail, Dying Life, that deſerves the Names of Death, rather then of Life which a gracious Soul, being ſenſible of, therefore Deſires, and Groans after this next Change. In our ordinary Language we uſe to ſay of Dying, that it is the Change of a Mortal Life, for an Immortal Life.

Other Proofs out of other Scriptures, for the Analogy of this Phraſe, are many. Conſult that firſt fatal Sentence againſt us, Gen. 2. 17. That Day thou eateſt, thou ſhalt ſurely Die: Did not Adam live after his eating the forbidden Fruit, Nine Hundred and Thirty Years; how is he then ſaid to have Died that very Day? The meaning is, that from that Day he entred into a State of a Mortal Life, inſomuch as his whole Life was but a lingring Death, in regard of the Frailties, Miſeries, and Sorrows of it. It is the Language alſo up and down in this very Epiſtle: Every Danger a Man is expoſed unto, is termed a Death. In the very Chapter afore my Text; We that live, are always delivered to Death: Chap. 4. 11. In Deaths oft: Chap. 11. The like we have 1 Cor. 9. 10. Every Sickneſs is a little Death, for it tends to Death: So every Croſs: All Worldly Sorrow of Heart is a Mortal Thing, and ſo expreſs'd, 2 Cor. 7. 10. Worldly Sorrow cauſeth Death; and ſometimes it preſently kills: As Nabals Heart died within him, 1 Sam. 25. 37. Every worldly, carnal Sigh and Sorrow is a ſtep towards Death: Every Infirmity hath a Mortality in it, and gives a ſtroak at Life: For it is not the laſt Blow fells the Tree, but each; yea, every ſmall one, that takes away the leaſt Chip. Solomon hereupon plainly Terms this preſent Life, a ſick Life; yea, (Eccleſ. 4. 2.) He Tearms it a Life worſe then Death: Wherefore (ſays he) I praiſed the Dead, which are already Dead, more then the Living, which are yet Alive: That is, I commended, and valued the Condition of a Man that is out-right Dead, and put out of his Pain, rather then of Men Living, but as between Death, and Life, All whoſe Motions are but Throws to Death: As thoſe of a Fiſh out of the Water, its Element. Now foraſmuch as he prefers Death, his meaning evidently is, that their Life in reſpect of the Miſeries that accompany it, hath in a true eſtimate more of, what may be juſtly termed Death, then the Mortal State of their Tabernacle. So then to be ſure, there is Mortal enough in both theſe Reſpects, which is fit Matter to be ſwallowed up of Life, and this at a Godly Mans Diſſolution.

I ſhall next conſider the other Phraſe, Swallowed up, which alſo is as fitly applicable to this Change at Death, whether we conſider the ſuddenneſs of it, or, the Perfection of the Attainments of the Soul thereupon: Both which this Word imports as fully, as it can be ſuppoſed to import them both at the Reſurrection, in 1 Cor. 13. 10. When that which is Perfect is come, then that which is in Part ſhall be done away. The Word καταργηθήσεται, is elſewhere Tranſlated, Deſtroyed, Aboliſht. Thus in Rom. 6. 6. The Apoſtle ſpeaking there of the Body of Death, which was Crucified with Chriſt, ſays, it is to be deſtroyed, which is at once, ſuddenly, totally, perfectly done at Death: And in the 8th Verſe of this 1 Cor. 13. it is rendered, Vaniſheth: As the Shadows do, do, when the Light comes in upon them, They diſappear ſuddenly, in a Moment, and perfectly: Thus that Phraſe there, done away, and ſwallowed up here, are in Effect all one: Only there it is applied unto a doing away of what is imperfect, by a full Perfection coming in upon it: Even as the imperfect Light of the very firſt dawn (if the Sun were ſuppoſed to riſe the next Moment after that dawn) would be done away, and ſwallowed up into perfect Light in an Inſtant: But this ſwallowing up here is applied alſo unto Miſeries, and Frailties, and Corruptions: But the Thing, or Matter it ſelf comes all to one: For if there come in upon us ſuch a Perfection, as doth away in an Inſtant all Imperfections of Gifts, and Graces, and renders them Perfect; (whereof that Speech, 1 Cor. 13. is intended;) then to be ſure Corruptions are done away together therewith; or elſe their Graces would not be made perfect, as at Death they are ſaid to be by this Life ſucceeding.

If the Queſtion be, Whether what is ſpoken in 1 Cor. 13. be intended of the Time of Diſſolution?

The Anſwer is fair on our ſide: For he ſpeaks of that Time, when Faith ceaſeth, and is turned into ſight; Ver. 12. Now we ſee through a Glaſs darkly (namely by Faith;) but then Face to Face; now I know but in Part, but then ſhall I know, even alſo as I am known, and now abideth Faith; but then Faith, and the Knowledge by Faith, are done away; Ver. 8. Now bring theſe Words, to the Words of the Apoſtle, in what follows my Text, 2 Cor. 6. 7. Whilſt we are at home in the Body, we are abſent from the Lord: For we walk by Faith, and not by Sight: And ſo are abſent; not ſeeing, as we are ſeen, Face to Face: But when we are Abſent from the Body, and preſent with the Lord; as Ver. 8. Then as thoſe that are preſent we ſee Face to Face. So then, both Places do ſpeak of Dying, and of the Change that is made then; in the one, Imperfections are ſaid to be done away, by what is perfect; and accordingly their Souls are termed, Spirits made perfect; Heb. 10. 23. In this other, all Miſeries, and Burthens of a Mortal Life, and Condition are ſwallowed up. Thus then the Phraſe is matcht, and that by the like; (and indeed, for Subſtance the ſame) and that too in reſpect of the Time of Diſſolution.

What is it, that this Mortal is ſwallowed up of? It is ſwallowed up of Life. And upon a ſtrict, and narrow View and Conſideration it will appear, that it is more proper to apply this to the Change of the Soul at Diſſolution, then to that of the Body at the Reſurrection: For what Life is it? ἡ ζωὴ, that Life; the Text calls it; that which only is true Life: This is Eternal Life, to know Thee the only true God, and Him whom thou haſt ſent; John 17. And 1 John 5. 20. This is the true God, Eternal Life: God, and Chriſt is this Life, who is the Fountain of Life: And your Life is hid with Chriſt in God, Col. 3. And of this Life it is, that the Soul, the Immortal Spirit in Man is the immediate, and proper Subject, and capable thereof. The Body hath but an overflow of it; viz. the ſhine of that brightneſs of Glory, which is in the Soul; as the Lanthorn ſhines with the Light that is put into it: Within the Body is but a Glory ſuitable to its Capacity, as it is a Body; but it is our Hearts ſhall live for ever: As Chriſt promiſeth, as the Effect of his Death: Pſalm 22. 26. Now if it be ſuch a pure Life, that is here ſaid to ſwallow up this Mortal (in the Senſe it hath been interpreted in) then that Change, which is made upon the ſingle Soul it ſelf at Death, when the Soul alone Exiſts, lies more fair to be intended. For this Expreſſion of Life nakedly, and barely ſpeaks the very Spirit. and Quinteſſence of that Happineſs, which it then ſingly enjoies. It is a pure Life of Living in God; as knowing him, and ſeeing him Face to Face. You may obſerve in that 1 Cor. 15. when the Change of the Body is inſiſted on; (whether the Change of them that are Alive, or of them that are Dead, raiſed by a Reſurrection out of the Grave) that there he expreſſeth that Change of the Body by an Adjunct, that is proper to the Body: This Mortal, ſays he, ſhall put on Immortality; this corruptible, Incorruption: Which are the oppoſite Attributes of the Old, and New Bodies: Mortal, and Corruptible, of the Old; and Immortality, and Incorruption, of the New: But here, he inſtead thereof, ſays, Life:

That

Chap. X.

that Life, (as hath been ſaid;) which is the proper Happineſs of the Soul: Vorſtius, who is of the other Opinion, and would draw this Verſe, and all the reſt unto the Change of the Body, becauſe of this Word Mortal, ſeems yet aware of this, and therefore takes on him to correct the Apoſtle in his Speech, or ſaying; being ſwallowed up of Life. It ſhould be rather (ſays he) ſwallowed up of Immortality; becauſe that Word, would carry it to the Change of the Body: But by his leave, the Apoſtle as on Purpoſe changeth the Word in this Second Epiſtle, from what he had uſed in his Firſt Epiſtle; and ſays, ſwallowed up of Life: And Life imports the Subſtance, the Eſſence of Life; but Immortality, a Continuance of that Life: The one is the Subject, the other the Adjunct, and therefore theſe are mentioned as diſtinct, 2 Tim. 1. 10.

And it doth indeed moſt elegantly, and lively ſet out this great Change of the Souls Life made at Death: That whereas whilſt it was in this Tabernacle, it lived a Sick, Dying, Mortal Life; for it is then taken up into the great Element, and Fountain both of Souls, and of Life, to live in God, who is the Father of Spirits, and great Element of Souls; from whom they came, and unto whom they return: (As Sparks do to their Native Element of Fire) And who is the Fountain of Life (as the Pſalmiſt calls him) ye, Life it ſelf. So as by their being taken up into him, they are of Him, and by Him, and into him ſwallowed up; even as Darkneſs is ſwallowed up of Light; and indeed, in Him is Light, and no Darkneſs at All; no Death, no Frailty, no Sin. And therefore no ſooner is a poor Soul, coming forth of the Body; having yet had in it ſelf (to that very Inſtant) a Body of Death cleaving to it (like one of the Palſie, half of him is Dead, yea quite Dead) but this Abundancy of Life, that is in God, inſtantly ſhales off, Works out all that Filth, Frailty, Miſery, and Purifies, and makes the Soul White, and Perfect; and renders it to be all Life and Joys, and Activity in God; and it doth this in an Inſtant: Even as on the Contrary, Mens natural Spirits are lickt up by a blaſt of Lightning; or as if you ſhould ſee a Lump of Mettal, full of Droſs cleaving to it, caſt into an hot Furnace, (made ſo vehemently hot, as thoſe are, when Bells are caſt;) you would ſee that Fire in an inſtant purge away, and conſume all that Droſs, ſwallow it up, and aſſimulate the Mettal unto it ſelf, that the Mettal it ſelf would appear all of it, as Fire it ſelf. My Brethren, this Life of Ordinances, and that Communion we have with God therein, is but a dull Furnace, our Luſts melt ſlowly; yea, it is long e're we can get our Hearts to melt in Sorrow for them: But this Furnace of Gods immediate Preſence arrived unto at Death, is a quick, and fiery Forge; melts, diſſolves, ſeparates the Soul from all its Droſs, Imperfection, Corruption, and quits it of all in an inſtant; and further, makes as great a Change in it, as if you ſhould ſee a Diamond taken out (if you could ſuppoſe the Sun had that Vertue) of Mud, and from a Sink, and made to ſhine a glorious Star in Heaven: To expreſs all which, the Apoſtle moſt happily choſe out this Word; ſwallowed up of Life.

I ſhall conclude, That if we will rightly, and truly Judge in this Matter, between theſe Two; 1 Cor. 15. And this of 2 Cor. 5. We muſt be ſure to take, and put theſe Two together; both, Mortal, and Swallowed up, &c. And if we compare that Mortal that is ſwallowed up at Death, with that Mortal that is ſwallowed up at the Reſurrection, we ſhall find that at Death there is a greater Mortal (obſerve, how I pitch on that;) that is as a Sacrifice to be ſwallowed up then, then there is by the Reſurrection: For here is a Body of Sin, and Death ſwallowed up, beſides all the Caſualties, Calamities, Miſeries, Obnoxiouſneſſes to Sorrows, which as ſo many Mortal Wounds, that Feſter, will make an End of, and ſwallow up this poor Life in the End. But at the Reſurrection all the Mortal that is ſwallowed up, is but the Body taken out of its Duſt. There is no other Mortal, but this to be done away then: For all theſe other Mortals were taken away afore, at, and upon the Souls departure from the Body; and there is no other Mortality then remaining to be ſwallowed up, but this of the Body only. I confeſs indeed, that in this Reſpect, That Change at the Reſurrection will excel, inaſmuch as it is the Laſt Act, and the Conſummation of all; and that then both Soul, and Body will have a greater Acceſs, and State of Life and Glory, than the Soul whilſt ſeparate had: Yet ſtill there will not be ſo great a ſwallowing up of ſo great Mortality, as there is at Death; nor will it fitly be ſaid, that the Life of the Soul (that had a Perfection of Grace and Glory afore the Reſurrection;) is then ſwallowed up of Life, in ſo high Compariſon unto what it had afore: But with reſpect of ſinful Corruption, and Mortality Aboliſh'd, and ſo of ſpiritual Life induc'd into the Soul, there is at Death that Difference, as will juſtly bear the ſtile of a being ſwallowed up of Life; and it is as ſudden a Change, and by as ſtrong, and vehement a Power wrought in us; as at the Reſurrection. Chap. XI.

CHAP. XI.

That as the Soul is the immediate Subject of Grace, which is a Preparation to Glory, and capable of it: So the Soul is inſtantly after its Departure out of the Body receiv'd into that State of Glory.

II COR. V. v.

Verſe v. Now he that hath wrought us for the ſelf ſame Thing is God, who alſo hath given unto us the Earneſt of the Spirit.

THere is no Point of more Moment to All, nor of greater Comfort to Saints, than what ſhall become of their Souls when they Die: 'Tis our next Stage; and Things that are next, uſe more to affect us. And beſides, it is the beginning, and a taking Poſſeſſion of our Eternity.

That theſe Words ſhould aim at this ſelf-ſame thing, cannot be diſcerned, without conſulting the fore-going Part of the Apoſtle's Diſcourſe: And yet I cannot be large in bringing down the Coherence, having pitch'd upon what this fifth Verſe contributes unto this Argument; which alone will require more than this Time allotted, having alſo very largely gone through the Expoſition of the fore-going Verſes elſewhere: And I now go but on where I left laſt. But yet to make way for the Underſtanding the Scope of my Text, take the Coherence in Brief thus

In the 16th Verſe of the fore-going Chapter (where the Well-head of his Diſcourſe is to be found) he ſhews the extraordinary care God hath of [Our inward Man] to renew it Day by Day; where inward Man is ſtrictly the Soul with its Graces, ſet in Oppoſition unto Our outward Man [the Body with its Appurtenances] which he ſaith daily periſheth, that is, is in a mouldring and decaying Condition.

In the firſt Verſe of this Fifth Chapter, he meets with this Suppoſition: But what if this outward Man, or earthly Tabernacle be wholly diſſolved and pull'd down, what then ſhall become of this inner Man? And he reſolves it thus, That if it be diſſolved, we have an Houſe, a building of God in the Heavens. And what is the [WE] but this inner Man (he had ſpoken of) renewed Souls, which dwell now in the Body as in a Tabernacle, as the Inmates that can ſubſiſt without it? And it is as if he had ſaid, if this inward Man be deſtituted of one Houſe, we have another. God that in this Life was ſo careful over this Inner Man, to renew it every Day, hath made another more ample Proviſion againſt this great Change. It is but it's removing from one Houſe to a better, which God hath built. As your ſelves (to ſpeak in your own Language) if Wars ſhould beſet you, and your Country-houſe were plundred and pull'd down, you would Comfort your ſelves with this, I have yet a City-houſe to retire unto.

Chap. XI.

Neither is the terming the Glory of Heaven, and that as it is beſtowed upon a ſeparate Soul, an Houſe, alien from the Scripture-Phraſe, Luke 16. 9. That when you fail, they may receive you into EVERLASTING HABITATIONS. Death is a failing ('tis your City-phraſe alſo when a Man proves Bankrupt) A Statute of Bankrupt comes forth then upon your Old Houſe (Statutum eſt omnibus ſemel mori) and upon all you have; and then it is that there is a receiving or entertaining that otherwiſe-deſolate Soul into Everlaſting Habitations, that is, into an Houſe Eternal in the Heavens, as the Text.

Nor yet is the Phraſe of terming Heaven a City-houſe, remote neither: For Heb. 11. ver. 13. Abraham and the Patriarchs died in Faith, (Mark that!) in Faith or Expectation of what? He had told us, Ver. 10. He looked for a City whoſe Builder and Maker is God. What is a City, but an Aggregation and heap of Houſes and Inhabitants? Multitudes had Died afore Abraham, and gone to Heaven, from Adam, Abel, Seth, downwards; and God promiſeth him Peace at his Death, and a being gathered to thoſe Fathers, Gen. 15. 15. There was then a City built, and already repleniſh'd with Inhabitants; and amongſt others, an Houſe provided for him, that is, his Soul built of God, and ready furniſhed againſt this removal.

In the Second Verſe he utters the working of the Affections of Chriſtians towards their being Cloathed upon with this Houſe; and ſo in Order to this Enjoyment of it, their DESIRING even to be Diſſolved: Which Paul alſo utters of himſelf, Phil. 1. Now if the Firſt Verſe ſpeaks of the Glory of a ſeparate Soul when he calls it an Houſe, this ſecond Verſe muſt intend the ſame.

In the Third Verſe he gives an wholeſome Caution by the way; and withall inſinuates, why he uſed the Word Cloathed upon, in the fore-going Verſe, thus, ſpeaking of the Glory of ſuch a ſeparate Soul, even becauſe it is abſolutely neceſſary that all our Souls be found Cloathed firſt, and renewed with Grace and Holineſs, and not be found Naked at our Deaths, that is, not devoid of Grace, and ſo expoſed to Shame and Wrath, as Rev. 16. 15.

The Fourth Verſe gives a genuine and ſincere Account, why a Chriſtian doth thus groan, and that after Diſſolution it ſelf, in order to this Glory; which he ſets out with an accurate Diſtinction of their Deſires of Diſſolution, in difference from like Deſires in all other Men: Firſt, Negatively, not for that being burthened we deſire to be uncloathed, or diſſolved; that is, ſimply for eaſe of thoſe Burthens: Nor out of a deſpiſing of our Bodies we now wear (as their Heathen Wiſe-men and Philoſophers did, and others do) No. But Secondly, Poſitively, For this, as the Top-ground of that deſire, That we would be Cloathed upon with that Houſe (ſpoken of Ver. 1. and that ſtill taken in the Senſe, ſpoken of in the 2d. Ver.) to the end that this Mortal, Animal Life which the Soul (though Immortal in it ſelf) now leads in the Body, full of Sins, clogg'd with a Body of Death and Miſeries; (each of which hath a Death in it) and ſo it lives but a dying Life; that this Life may be Exchanged, yea, ſwallowed up by that which is Life indeed, The only true Life, the knowing God as we are known, and enjoying him: All which, as to our Souls, is truly performed at our Diſſolution; although the final ſwallowing up the Mortality of our Bodies alſo, doth yet remain to be accompliſh'd: Which will be done at the latter Day, at that Change both of Body and Soul, though in reſpect of the Body, it will be compleated as then more fully.

The Current of the Four former Verſes running thus ſteadily along in this Chanel; the Stream in this Verſe continues ſtill the ſame.

There is one Word in this Verſe; [εἰς αὐτὸ τοῦτο, For the ſelf-ſame Thing, God hath wrought us] which ſerves as a clue of Thred drawn through the Windings of the former Verſes, to ſhew us, that one and the ſame Individual Glory Glory hath been carried on all along, and ſtill is in this Verſe alſo. So then we ſee where we are. Chap. XI.

What this ſelf-ſame Thing ſhould be, ask the firſt Verſe, and it will tell you, it is That Houſe Eternal in the Heavens, a Building of God, prepared by him againſt the Time that this earthly Houſe is diſſolved. Ask the ſecond Verſe, it is The ſame Houſe we groan to be Cloathed upon with, when the other is pulled down. Ask the Fourth Verſe, and more plainly: It is that Life, which ſucceeds this Mortal Life the Soul now lives in this Body, and ſwallows up all the Infirmities thereof. And then here it follows, Even for this ſelf-ſame Thing, &c. So then, if the Glory of the ſeparate Soul be the Subject of any of theſe Verſes, then of all, and ſo of this Verſe alſo.

And to be ſure it cannot be that extraordinary way of Entrance into Glory by ſuch a ſudden Change, both of Soul and Body into Glory at once, without Diſſolution, ſhould be the ſelf-ſame Thing here aimed at. For it was not the Lot of any of thoſe Primitive Chriſtians (of whom the Holy Ghoſt here ſpeaks this) [He hath wrought us for this Thing] that they ſhould be in that manner Changed, and ſo enter into Glory: But the contrary. For they all, and all Saints ſince for theſe 1600 Years, have put off their Tabernacles by Death, as Peter did, and ſpeaks of himſelf, 2 Pet. 1. 14. and therefore the Scripture (or Holy Ghoſt) foreſeeing, as the Phraſe is, Gal. 3. 8. This Change would be their fate, would not have uttered this of them, [God hath wrought us for this] whom he knew God had not deſigned thereunto.

Neither is it, that thoſe groaning Deſires ſpoken of in the fore-going Verſes, 2, 3, 4. is [That ſelf-ſame Thing] here (as ſome would) for indeed as Muſculus well: If the Apoſtle had ſaid, He that hath wrought this Thing in us, &c. That Expreſſion might have carried it to ſuch a Senſe: But he ſaith, He that wrought us for the ſelf-ſame Thing: And ſo 'tis not that deſire of Glory in us is ſpoken of: But us, our Selves and Souls as wrought for that Glory.

If it be asked, what is the ſpecial proper Scope of theſe Words, as touching this Glory of the Soul? The Anſwer in general, it is to give the Rational Part of this Point, or demonſtrative Reaſons to Evidence to Believers, That indeed God hath thus ordained and prepared ſuch a Glory afore the Reſurrection. And it is, as if the Apoſtle had ſaid, Look into your own Souls, and conſider Gods dealings with you hitherto, viz.

1. The Operation of his Hands. For what other is the Meaning or Myſtery (ſays he) of all, that God is daily ſo at Work with you in this Life? What elſe is the End of all the working of Grace in you, and of God that is the Worker? This is his very Deſign, He that hath wrought us (that is, our Souls) for this very Thing is God.

Beſides the Evidence the Work gives, there is alſo over and above the Earneſt of the Spirit given to your Souls, now whileſt in your Bodies, in Joy, full of Glories of the ſame kind (as Earneſts are) of what fulneſs of Glory they are both capable of then, and ſhall be filled with, when ſevered from your Bodies, Who hath [alſo] given us [the earneſt] of the Spirit.

We Preachers have it in uſe, as to alledge Proofs of Scripture for the Points or Subjects we handle. So to give Reaſons or Demonſtrations of them. And ſo doth our Apoſtle here of this great Point, he had been treating of: And ſuch Reaſons or Demonſtrations run often upon Harmony and Congruity of one Divine Thing or Truth kiſſing another. Alſo upon Becomingneſſes or Meetneſſes, that is, what it becometh the great God to do. For Inſtance; in giving an Account, why God in bringing many Sons to Glory, did chooſe to Effect it by Chriſts Death, rather than any other way. It became him (ſays he) Heb. 2. 10. For whom are all Things, and by whom are all Things, &c. And ſo in the Point of the Reſurrection, 1 Cor. 15. 21. Since by Man came Death, by Man came alſo the Reſurrection of the Dead; that is, it was Congruous, Harmonious, it ſhould thus be; the one anſwering correſpondently to the other. The like Congruity will be found couched here, in Gods bringing Souls to Glory, afore that Reſurrection.

Chap. XI. Now there are two ſorts of harmonious Reaſons couched in the fore-part of theſe Words, He that wrought us for this, is God.

I. That it is Finis operis & operantis, The End of the Work it ſelf upon us; and of God as an Efficient working for an End: God hath wrought on us for this very Thing.

II. It is Opus Dignum Deo Authore, A Work as he is the great God, and as a Thing worthy and becoming of God as the Author of it: He that hath wrought us for this Thing, is GOD.

There is a Third Point to be ſuperadded, and that is, It is the Intereſt of all Three Perſons: Which how clearly evidenced out of the Text, will appear, when I have diſpatched theſe former Doctrines.

Obſervation. That it is a ſtrong Argument, that God hath provided a Glory for ſeparate Souls hereafter, That He hath wrought us, and wrought on us a Work of Grace in this Life.

Ere the Reaſon of this will appear, I muſt firſt open Three Things, natural to the Words: Which will ſerve as Materials, out of which to make forth that Argument.

1. That the Thing here ſaid to be wrought, is Grace or Holineſs; which is a Preparation unto Glory. (1.) Grace is the Work. And ſo, Phil. 1. 6. termed, The good Work. A frame of Spirit, Created to good Works: Eph. 2. 10. We are his Workmanſhip, created unto good Works. The Text here ſays, Who hath wrought us: There ſimilarly, We are his WORKMANSHIP. And (2.) Secondly, This Work is a Preparation to Glory. For, for one Thing to be firſt wrought in Order to another, is a Preparation thereunto. Now ſaith the Text, He hath wrought us for this Thing; and Rom. 9. 23. It is in terminis, The Veſſels of Mercy, which he had AFORE PREPARED TO GLORY; which was by working Holineſs: For it follows, Ver. 24. Even us whom he hath called. Likewiſe, Col. 1. 12. Who hath MADE us MEET to be Partakers of the Inheritance of the SAINTS in Light. Meet, by making us Saints. So then, Had prepared, Hath made Meet is all one with, Who hath wrought us for this Thing.

2. What is the principal Subject wrought upon, or prepared and made meet for Glory? 'Tis certainly the Soul, in Analogy to the Phraſe here. We uſe to ſay (when we ſpeak of our Converſion) Since my Soul was wrought on. And though the Body is ſaid to be ſanctified, 1 Theſſ. 5. 23. yet the immediate Subject is the Soul; and that primitively, originally: The Body by Derivation from the Soul. And hence it is, the Soul (when a Man Dies) carries with it all the Grace by inherency: All Fleſh is Graſs which withers; that is, the Body with all the Appurtenances, ſaith Peter, 1 Epiſt. c. 1. v. 24. But you, having purified your Souls, being born again of incorruptible Seed (our Bodies are made of corruptible Seed, which is the Oppoſition there) by the Word of God, which lives and abides for ever: And this is the Word (he ſays, he means) which by the Goſpel is Preached (every Day) unto you, Ver. 25. And by Preaching is engrafted in your Souls, purifying [your Souls] Ver. 22. In no other Subject doth that Word (as Preached) for ever abide. For the Body rots, and in the Grave hath not an inherent, but a Relative Holineſs, (ſuch as the Epiſcopal Brethren would have to be in Churches conſecrated by them) becauſe once it was the Temple of the Holy Ghoſt, who dwells in us.

And that it is the Soul the Apoſtle hath here in his Eye, in this Diſcourſe of his in my Text, as that which he intends the Subject here wrought upon, appears, if we conſult the Well-head of his Diſcourſe about the Soul, which is the 16th Ver. of the 4th Chap. Our inward Man (ſays he) is renewed, &c. (there is your wrought upon here) whilſt the outward (the Body) periſheth. Which Soul, in being call'd the inward Man, connotates at once both Grace and the Soul Conjunct together, and diſtinct from the Body, as well as from Sin and Corruption. Elſewhere it is declared the Subject firſt and originally wrought on, Eph. 4. 23. Be renewed [in the Spirit of your Minds.]

Minds.] Look round about the Text, and what is the [US] wrought on? Plainly this Inward Man, by the Coherence afore and after. Ask Ver. 1. If our Earthly Tabernacle (that is, our Bodies) be diſſolved, WE have, &c. that is, This inner Man, our Souls, have; for the Body is ſuppoſed diſſolved. So likewiſe, Ver. 4. [WE] in this Tabernacle, that is, our Souls in theſe Bodies. More expreſly after, ver. 8. our very Souls, not only whilſt in our Bodies, but when ſeparate from our Bodies, have the [WE] given them; We are willing to be abſent from the Body, and preſent with the Lord. The We preſent with the Lord, and abſent from the Body, is, nor can be no other, than a ſeparate Soul in its Eſtate of Widowhood. And ſo here, Ver. 5. Hath wrought US: The Soul bears the Perſon, carries away the Grace with it. Chap. XI.

3. Add to this, the Time here ſpecified in the Text, in which we are wrought upon: It is but this Life, and during the Term thereof. Hath wrought us, ſays the Apoſtle; not in the Future, Who ſhall Work us for it: That [hath wrought] referring to the work of Converſion at the firſt, Who [HATH MADE] us meet to be Partakers, &c. Col. 1. 12. And who doth continue ſtill to Work us; the Preterperfect being often put by the Apoſtle for the Preſent, God renewing the inner Man DAY BY DAY, Chap. 4. 16. So working upon it, in order to this ſelf-ſame Thing, continually. Unto which Words there, theſe here have an evident Aſpect; yet ſo, as that Time of Working is but during this Life: For it is whilſt the outward Man is Mouldring, and that by Afflictions, which during this Moment Work an Eternal weight of Glory, Ver. 17. And that is expreſly ſaid to be but this preſent Time, Rom. 8. So then, there is NO PARABIT in that other World: But as Solomon ſays of Man, There is no Work after this Life; No remembrance, ſays David: Namely, which hath any Influence into a Mans Eternity. So there is no working upon us in order thereunto, after Death: God hath done his Do [hath wrought] and Man hath finiſh'd his Courſe; as Paul of himſelf, and in this Chapter of my Text, Ver. 10. Every Man receiveth the Things done in his Body, be they Good or Evil. Thoſe Things that are done in this Body only; therefore only what in this Life he hath wrought. And for this he hath wrought us (ſays the Text.)

Ecclef. 9. 10.

Pſalm 6 5.

Theſe Things premiſed, I come to the Argument to be raiſed out of them, to prove the Point in Hand.

1. That becauſe Grace or Holineſs are immediately wrought in the Soul, therefore when the Body dies the Soul ſhall be taken up into Life. That this is a meet and congruous Ordination of God, the Scripture it ſelf owns, and ſeems ſo to pitch the Reaſon of it, in Rom. 8. 10, 11. And if Chriſt be in you the Body is Dead, becauſe of Sin: But the Spirit is Life, becauſe of Righteouſneſs. But if the Spirit of him that raiſed up Jeſus from the Dead dwell in you, he that raiſed up Chriſt from the Dead ſhall alſo quicken your Mortal Bodies by his Spirit that dwelleth in you. He gives an Account of what is to become hereafter both of the Bodies and Souls of them in whom Chriſt is. (1.) For the Body, that is condemned to Die, The Body is Dead becauſe of Sin. By Body I underſtand the ſame which he in the 11th Verſe Terms the Mortal Body to be raiſed up, which (ſays he) is Dead that is, appointed to Die, as one Sentenced to Death, you Term a Dead Man. And this [becauſe of Sin.] It was meet, that that firſt threatning of dying ſhould have ſome Effect to Evidence the Truth of God therein. Only God is favourable in his Ordination in this, that he arreſteth but the Body, the leſs principal Debtor. But that (to be ſure) ſhall pay for it: It is appointed to all Men once to Die, even for Men that are in Chriſt, as this Place of the Romans hath it. Then (2.) Follows, what remains, the Soul of ſuch an one when the Body dies. [But] ſays he, (ſpeaking by way of Exception, and contrary fate too) The Spirit is Life, becauſe of Righteouſneſs. The Spirit is the Soul in Contradiſtinction to the Body. This, when the Body Dies, is [Life] He ſays not Living only, or Immortal; but is ſwallowed up into Life: And why? Becauſe of Righteouſneſs, which is Chriſts Image; and ſo preſerves, and by Gods Ordination upon Dying, elevates the Soul, which is the immediate and original Subject of it,

Chap. XI.

(which is the Point in Hand.) For this Thing it is, God hath wrought it. But then, becauſe the Query would be, Shall this Body for ever remain Dead, becauſe of (this firſt) Sin, and bear this Puniſhment for ever? No: Therefore (3.) He adds, He, that raiſed up Chriſt from the Dead, ſhall alſo quicken your Mortal Bodies. So at laſt, and then bringing both Body and Soul together unto compleat Glory.

And the congruity of Reaſon, that is for this Appointment, is obſervable, ſomething like to that 1 Cor. 15. As by Man came Death, ſo by Man came alſo the Reſurrection from the Dead. For that Sin that condemned us to this Death, we had from the firſt Adam by bodily Generation, as the Channel or Means of Conveying it, who was (as other) Father of our Fleſh.

The Arreſt therefore goes forth againſt the Body, which we had from that Adam, becauſe of that Sin, conveyed by Means of our Bodies: For though I muſt not ſay the Body defiles the Soul, or of its ſelf is the immediate Subject of Sin; yet the original Means or Channel through which it comes down, and is derived unto us, is the Generation of our Bodies. The Body therefore congruouſly pays for this, and the Death thereof is a Means to let Sin out of the World, as the propagating it was a Means to bring Sin in: But an Holy Soul or Spirit which is the Off-ſpring of God, having now true Holineſs and Righteouſneſs from the ſecond Adam communicated to it, and abiding in it; and being not only the immediate Subject thereof, but further, the firſt and Original Subject, from and by which it is derived unto the Body. The Womb, into which that Immortal Seed was firſt caſt, and in which the inward Man is formed, and in reſpect of a conſtant abiding in which it is, that Seed is termed Incorruptible. Hence therefore, ſays God of this Soul [It is Life] It
1 Cor. 13. 8. ſhall live when this Body Dies. There is nothing of Chriſts Image, but is or-
2 Cor. 9. 9. dained to abide for ever. Charity never fails, His Righteouſneſs endures for ever; and therefore is ordained to conſerve and elevate unto Life the Subject it is in, and that is the Soul. This, as a Foundation of the ſubſtantial Parts of this firſt Reaſon, out of this one Scripture, thus directly and explicitely holding this forth.

I come (2.) To the Argumentation it ſelf, which ariſeth out of theſe Things laid together. (1.) That the Soul is the immediate Subject of Grace. (2.) The firſt and Primitive Suſceptive thereof. (3.) And it ſelf is alone and immediately capable of Glory, which Grace is a Preparation to. And (4.) That God afore our Deaths hath wrought all of Grace he intends to work, in Preparation to Glory. Out of all theſe a ſtrong Argument doth ariſe, That ſuch a Soul upon Death ſhall be admitted unto Glory, and not be put to ſtay till the Time of the Reſurrection, when both Soul and Body ſhall be joined again together. And that this holdeth a juſt and meet conveniency upon each, or at leaſt, all theſe grounds, when put together.

1. Conſider the Soul as the immediate Subject of this Working and Preparation for Glory. Hence therefore this Will at leaſt ariſe, That the inherency or abiding of this Grace, wrought in this Soul, depends not upon its Conjunction with the Body; but ſo as it remains as an Everlaſting and Perpetual Conſerver of that Grace ſtampt on it; yea, and carries it all with it ſelf, as a rich Treaſure innate unto it where-ever it goes, when ſeparate from the Body. I ſay, it either hath in it, or appertaining unto it, all that hath been wrought for it, either in it, or by it. Rev. 14. 13. Bleſſed are the Dead which Die in the Lord: [And their Works do follow them] They go to Heaven with
1 Pet. 1. 13. them, and after them. And in what Subject elſe is it that the Seed of God re-
Ver. 25. mains incorruptible, or the Word of God abides for ever? Or how elſe comes that ſaying to be performed, 1 John 2. 17. He that doth the Will of God endures for ever? Having therefore all theſe Riches by it, and as compleat (as, here, it ſhall be;) Meet it is, it ſhould partake the Benefit thereof, and live upon them now it is ſingle and alone, and in its Widows Condition. And it is an opportune Seaſon, that by a Glory given it for that Holineſs, this ſhould now appear, That it was the Soul which was the ſole intrinſick and immediate Receptive of all this Holineſs. This the firſt. Add alſo,

2. Its

2. Its being the First and Primitive Subject of Holiness, from which it is derivatively in the Body. Meet it was this Soul should not be deferred till the Appurtenance of it be united to it, but be served first; and admitted into that Glory ordained; and by having it self first Possession given of that Inheritance, the Body might in its Season be admitted derivatively thereinto from it, after that renewed Union with it by the Resurrection. Reason good. that look, as, in Priority, Grace, the Preparation unto Glory, was wrought: So, in that Order of Priority, Glory it self should be communicated. And therefore seeing its Fate is to abide awhile alone; therefore first to enjoy, and drink both the Juice and the Fruit of that Vine it is the Root of.

Magis conveniens videtur ut animæ in quibus per prius fuit culpæ & meritum, prius etiam vel puniantur vel præmientur. Aquinas com. c. Lib. 4. cap. 91. Sect. 3.

And (3.) It being in it self, when separate, as immediately capable of this Glory, as when it shall be again United to the Body: For what is the Essential of Glory, the Substance of that Life that swallows up all? But (as we said on ver. 4.) Gods immediate Presence, and our knowing him Face to Face, as we are known. Now of this the Apostle doth in the 6, 7 and 8 Verses, expressly inform us, That the separate Soul is not only capable thereof, but that it then begins to enjoy it: Therefore (says he) we are always confident, knowing that whilst we are in the Body, we are absent from the Lord; (For we walk by Faith, not by Sight.) We are Confident, I say, and willing rather to be absent from the Body, and to be present with the Lord. Where to be present with the Lord, and to live by sight, is expressly made the Priviledge of a Soul absent from the Body; which can mean no other State, than that of the Soul between the Death of the Body, and the Resurrection. For whilst it is present in the Body afore Death, it is absent from the Lord; and when it shall be present with the Lord, after the Resurrection, it shall not then be any more absent from the Body. This Conjunction therefore of absent from the Body, and present with the Lord, falls out in no State else, but only in that interim or space of Time between. And let us withal view this Place in the Light, (by bringing the one to the other) which that Passage, 1 Cor. 13. 12. doth cast upon it: For now we see through a Glass darkly, but then Face to Face; now I know in part, but then shall I know, even as also I am known. [To see as in a Glass darkly] there, is to [walk by Faith] here: But to see Face to Face, and to know God as we are known (so there) is all one; and to attain to sight, and to be in Christs presence (here.) And to be sure, the Body is in no Estate whatever capable of knowing God, as we are known of him: None durst ever affirm that. For besides that, the Spiritual Knowledge of God is proper to an Intellectual Nature: Further, So to know God, as God knows us, and so to be elevated to the similitude of Gods Understanding, is not communicable to the Body. We may as well dare to affirm God himself to be a Body, as that our Bodies are capable of ever being raised up thus to know God. Hence therefore, whether the Soul be out of the Body, as after Death, or so in the Body; as it shall be after the Resurrection; yet still it is the Soul that is immediately alone capable of that Sight and Knowledge of God. And therefore seeing it depends not on the Body, it is as well capable of it afore the Resurrection without the Body, as after the Resurrection in the Body.

Only this must be added, That whilst indeed the Soul is at home in this Body, (this earthly Tabernacle) it is not capable of this sight, of the Glory of God, that is, so as to continue in the Body, and enjoy it; for it would crack this earthen Vessel: as 1 Cor. 15. 50. Flesh and Blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God. And although Paul, as a stander by, was an over-hearer, and an Eye-witness (by way of Revelation and Vision) of what the Spirits of just Men in Glory do enjoy: Even as on the contrary, the Angels are often standers-by on Earth, and Overseers of us, what is there in done, (as the Phrase is, Zech. 3. 7.) yet he was not estated into it, or admitted a Possessor thereof himself, no more than Angels into an earthly Estate; and therefore could not say, whether the Revelation vouchsafed him, might not be in the Body, as well as out of it: Whereas God had otherwise long since peremptorily determined that Question, That no Man could see God, and live; that is, at once continue in this Body, and see him Face to Face. And Paul here in my Text alſo determines it, That whilſt we are at home in the Body, (as now) we are abſent from the Lord: They are two incompatible Eſtates. But ſtill when that which, thus, lets (this Body) is taken out of the way, the Soul it ſelf is ſufficiently capable, as truly as ever it ſhall be.

4. But if this Argument from theſe be yet judged not home enough, but ſhort; Then let us in the Fourth Place add what force the Third Premiſe will give to it, concerning the Time of Gods working on us, to drive all cloſer home; namely, That God hath wrought upon the Soul in this Life, all that he ever means to work, by way of Preparation for Glory. For this Thing God [hath wrought us] which though it might with the Enlargements and Sub-arguments that now ſhall follow, be made an Argument alone; yet I chooſe to caſt it into this Total, to make the whole the more ſtrong.

Therefore (4.) Gather up the Demonſtrations thus: If the Soul be the immediate and firſt Subject of Grace, which is a Preparation to Glory, and capable of this Glory, when out of the Body; And God, the great Agent, or Worker, hath wrought all that ever he means to work in it, this way, by way of Preparation to Glory: Then, as Peter ſaid in the Caſe of admitting the Gentiles to Baptiſm, What ſhould hinder that theſe Souls ſhould not be glorified, inſtantly, when out of their Bodies? If indeed, as the Papiſts, and corrupted Jews and Heathens have feigned, there were any Work to be after wrought, a Purgatory, or the like; Then a Demurre or Caveat might be yet put in, to ſuſpend this their Admiſſion into Glory: But the contrary being the Truth, then, &c. Now the Strength of the Argument from this latter, ſuperadded to the reſt, ſtands upon two ſtrong Grounds.

Firſt, If we conſider what is common to God in this with all other, but ordinary wiſe Efficients or Workers, that are intent upon their Ends, which muſt be given to him, the only Wiſe, All-powerful God, (who is here ſaid, as an Efficient, to work us for this End.) When any ordinary Efficient hath brought his Work to a Period, and done as much to ſuch or ſuch an End as he means to do, he delays not to accompliſh his End, and bring it to Execution; unleſs ſome over-powring Impediment do lie in his way to it. If you have beſtowed long and great Coſt upon any of your Children, to fit and prepare them for any Imployment; The Univerſity ſuppoſe, or other Calling; Do you then let theſe your Children lie Truants, idle, and aſleep at home, and not put them forth to that which you at firſt deſigned that their Education unto? Will you ſuffer them (in this Caſe) to loſe their Time, Do you know how to do good to your Children? And doth not God? We ſee God doth thus in Nature. We ſay, when the Matter is as fully prepared as ever it ſhall be, that the Form enters without delay: Now Grace is expreſly termed a Preparation to Glory. Alſo God doth obſerve this in working of Grace it ſelf, when the Soul is as fully humbled and emptied, and thereby prepared for the Lord, by John Baptiſts Miniſtry, as he means to prepare it; the Work of juſtifying Faith preſently follows. In all his Diſpenſations of Judgments or Mercies, he obſerves the ſame. When Mens Sins are at full (as of the Amorites) he ſtays not a Moment to execute Judgment: So in anſwering the Faith of his People waiting on him for Mercies. And thus it is for Glory; I have glorified thee on Earth, (the only Place and Condition of our glorifying God) I have finiſhed the Work thou gaveſt me to do: And now (what now, and preſently now remained there, follows) glorifie me, &c. Thus ſpake Chriſt our Pattern.

Secondly, There is this further falls out, in this Caſe and Condition, of ſuch a Soul, as doth indeed call for this out of a kind of Neceſſity, and not of Congruity only. For whereas by Gods Ordination there are Two ways of Communion with him, and but Two, unto all Eternity; either that of Faith, which we have at preſent; and of Sight, which is for hereafter. Into theſe Two, the Apoſtle reſolves all Gods Diſpenſations to us, Ver. 7. of this Chapter, We walk by Faith, (namely, in this Life) not by ſight. And again, 1 Cor. 13. 12. [Now] we ſee in a Glaſs [Then] Face to Face. Theſe Two [Now] and [Then] do divide the Diſpenſations for Eternity of Time to come. The like in Peter, 1 Epiſt. 1. 8. In whom though [Now] you ſee him not (as you one Day ſhall) yet believing: If therefore when the Soul goes out of the Body, that way of Communion with God by Faith utterly ceaſeth, that Door and Paſſage will be quite ſhut up; God having fulfilled all the Work of Faith (The Work of God) with Power, that ever he intendeth: Then ſurely Sight muſt ſucceed according to Gods Ordination, or otherwiſe this would inevitably follow, That the Soul would be for that interim, until the Reſurrection, cut off from all Communion with God whatever; having yet all its acquired Holineſs of Sanctification abiding in it, and Righteouſneſs accompanying of it all that while. Look therefore as a Child hath Two, and but two Ways of Living, and when the one ceaſeth, the other ſucceeds, or Death would follow; in the Womb it lives by Nouriſhment from the Navel, without ſo much as Breathing at the Mouth: But it no ſooner comes into the World, but that former Means is cut off, and it liveth by Breath, and taking in Nouriſhment by the Mouth, or it muſt inſtantly Die. So ſtands the Caſe with the Soul here between Faith and Sight: So that we muſt either affirm, That the Soul dies to all ſpiritual Actings and Communion with God until the Reſurrection, which thoſe Scriptures ſo much do contradict, He that believeth hath Eternal Life, &c. and ſhall never (no not for a Moment) Die; (and in thoſe Promiſes it is not ſimply a ſluggiſh Immortality, but to Live, and Act, and Enjoy God (which is our Life) muſt needs be meant:) Or we muſt on the other ſide affirm, That the Life of Faith ceaſing, and God yet having that way wrought all that ever he intendeth, That then, Sight of God Face to Face muſt come in its Place: Which indeed the Apoſtle in that 1 Cor. 13. affirms, in ſaying, Ver. 10. When that which is Perfect is come, then that which is but in Part is done away. There is not an utter ceaſing of the imperfect, and then an interval or long ſpace of Time to come between; and then, that which is Perfect is to come: But the Imperfect is done away by the very coming of that which is thus Perfect. And in the 12th Verſe he explains himſelf, That the imperfect is this our ſeeing [Now] in a Glaſs darkly, that is by Faith; and that Perfect, to be that ſeeing God Face to Face, as that which preſently entertains us in that other World. Nay, the Apoſtle admits not ſo much as a Moment of Ceſſation, but ſays, That the imperfect is done away, (ver. 10.) and vaniſheth, (as ver. 8.) by the coming in of the Perfect upon it: And ſo the imperfect, namely [Faith] is ſwallowed up of the Perfect, namely, [Sight.] Now if we thus grant (as we muſt) this ſeparate Soul to have this ſight, or nothing now left it to enjoy God any way by; then it is no other than Glory, it is admitted unto: For, the ſight of God Face to Face, and to know as we are known, is the very Eſſence of Glory, as it differs from Faith. Neither indeed is that ultimate Enjoyment, or Happineſs in God, which Souls ſhall have after the Reſurrection, any other (in Name or Thing) than the ſight of God, as it is thus diſtinguiſhed from Faith; and therefore the Soul is now admitted to the ſame Enjoyment it ſhall be Then for Kind, although it ſhall be then raiſed and intended unto far higher Degrees of Perfection.

Chap. XI. 1 Cor. 13. 8, 13. 1 Theſ. 1. 11. John 6. 28. John 9. 51. Chap 11. 26.

And for a Concluſion, that which follows in that Place lately cited out of 1 Pet. 1. ver. 9. Receiving the end of your Faith, the Salvation of your Souls, may as fitly ſerve for the Confirmation of all theſe latter fore-going Notions, as to any other Senſe Interpreters have affixed.

I am aware how theſe Words, Receiving the end of your Faith, the Salvation of your Souls, are Interpreted of that Joy unſpeakable, and full of Glory, which the Verſe afore had ſpoken of, In whom, though Now ye ſee him not, yet believing, ye rejoice with Joy unſpeakable and full of Glory; ſo as in thoſe Joys vouchſafed the Saints are ſaid to receive the Salvation of their Souls, as being the Earneſt of it in the ſame Kind, and ſo a Part of the Reward of Faith received in Hand, (as we ſay) and vouchſafed over and above the ordinary way of living by Faith. This Interpretation I no way gain-ſay, nor will go about to exclude: For I know, it doth conſiſt with that other I am about to give, and is ſubordinate to it: But if this Senſe ſhould obtain, that it were, Directly, alone intended, yet by Conſequence, and at the rebound, it doth ſtrongly argue the Point in Hand. For if whileſt Faith continues, God is pleaſed to vouchſafe ſuch Joys, much more, when Faith ceaſeth, He will vouchſafe a fuller Enjoyment: For why elſe are theſe preſent Joys termed Salvation? That is, in a ſort Part of the taking Poſſeſſion of Salvation afore-hand, and that as diſtinct from the Right to Salvation, which Faith in ordinary gives, without ſuch Joys at all Times to all Believers: They have the Name given them, as being an Earneſt of the ſame Kind, of that greater Sum. And again, why are theſe preſent Joys termed the Salvation of their Souls? But becauſe they are intended by God, being alſo, now wrought immediately in the Soul, without the Bodies influence) to be an Earneſt, that it is their Souls, when without their Bodies, ſhall have that fuller Poſſeſſion given them; and ſo this Earneſt aſſigneth this Payment to be made to this Legatee, the Soul, ſpecified as the firſt Receiver of it. [2.] Every Payment having a Day, or ſet Time appointed for it, which the Earneſt obligeth the Truſtee unto, as well as to make Payment it ſelf, and uſeth to be at the end of the Performance on his Part to whom the Contract is made, this therefore is as elegantly deſigned to be the End of their Faith; there's the Day of Payment. And [3.] It would be hard to think, that God ſhould give forth Joys whileſt Faith continues; and then for ſo long a Time as till the Reſurrection withdraw all Communication of himſelf, both of Faith and Joy (through Sight) alſo. Surely they are not left worſe than in this Life they were.

I alſo know, the Soul, being the eminent Part of Man, is often in Scripture by a Synecdoche put for the whole Perſon. And I muſt not deny, but that ultimately it is intended here, it extending it ſelf to the whole of Salvation firſt and laſt after Faith ended. Which Senſe on the other Hand many Interpreters are for.

I only Contend for this, That the Salvation of the Soul is intended alſo of that Salvation, which falls out in the midſt between theſe Joys (the Earneſt) in this Life, and that ultimate Salvation at the Reſurrection, that is the Salvation of the Soul, whileſt ſeparate, as being the next. It hath a weight in it, that Salvation and Damnation ſhould ſo often be ſaid to be of the Soul by Chriſt himſelf, as Mat. 26. 16. What ſhall it Profit a Man to gain the whole World (and ſo provide for his Body) and loſe his own Soul? And again, in ſpeaking of the Soul, as conſidered apart from the Body, Mat. 10. 28. Fear not them that are able to kill but the Body, and are not able to kill the Soul. But that which is more Conjunct to my Purpoſe; it is obſervable, that this our Apoſtle Peter ſhould chooſe to uſe in this Epiſtle, more than any other Apoſtle, this Phraſe of [Soul] in relation to Salvation, either as being the eminent Subject, and ſometimes as the ſingle Subject both of Grace and Salvation: So in this Chapter, You have purified your Souls, &c. as the immediate Suſceptive of the incorruptible Seed (as was obſerved.) Then again, in Chap. 2. 11. Abſtain from fleſhly Luſts, which War [againſt the Soul] and 8. 25. Ye are returned to the Biſhop of your Souls. Which he ſpeaks as being the eminent Part, and (upon Separation from the Body) the ſpecial Charge he hath Paſtoral Care of. And more directly to our Purpoſe, Chap. 4. laſt ver. he Exhorts them when they come to Die, to commit their Souls to God, as then being to be ſeparate from their Bodies. Now it were hard to think, that this Salvation to come ſhould bear the Title and Name of the Salvation of the Soul in this and other Scriptures; and that yet when this Soul ſhall in the other World come to ſubſiſt for a long Time ſingle and alone, and then be properly and without Figure: A meer Soul without a Body, a lone-ſome Soul: That during that State it ſhould not be the Subject of this Salvation, and ſo intended here, when more properly and literally, if ever, it is the Salvation of the Soul. And it would be yet more ſtrange, that the Phraſe, Salvation of the Soul, ſhould be wholly reſtrained unto that Eſtate of the Soul, when remitted to the Body at Reſurrection, and only unto that. And that Word the Soul ſhould ſerve only ſynecdochically, as a Part put to ſignifie the whole Man, as then it is to be raiſed up: But eſpecially, it were ſtrangeſt of all, if it ſhould be confined and limited in this Place of Peter, wherein this Salvation of the Soul is ſet forth forth for the Comfort of ſuch as were to lay down their Tabernacles of their Bodies for Chriſt (as this Peter ſpeaks of himſelf in the next Epiſtle) and whoſe Faith was then to ceaſe with their Lives, whoſe Expectations therefore he would in this Caſe certainly pitch upon that Salvation of the Soul next, which is this of the Soul ſeparate. To Confirm all which, Chap. XI.

Heb. 10. v. laſt. Jam. 5. v. laſt.

That, which further invited me to this Place, was this Phraſe [The end of your Faith] eſpecially upon this Conſideration, that he ſpeaks it unto ſuch Chriſtians, who in theſe Times were (as he foretels, Chap. 4. ver. 4.) ſhortly to be Martyred, and at preſent were ſorely tried (ver. 7. of this Chapter) and in the laſt Verſe of the Fourth he thereupon inſtructeth and exhorteth them to commit their Souls (when they Die) to be kept by God: And ſo underſtood in a proper and literal Senſe, this Salvation of their Souls is in all Reſpects termed, The End of their Faith.

Firſt, In that it is the next and immediate Event that Faith ends and determines in, as Death is ſaid to be the end of Life. So noting forth, that when Faith ends, this Salvation of the Soul begins and ſucceeds it. The end of a Thing ſignifies the immediate Event, Iſſue, Period thereof. As of wicked Men it is ſaid, whoſe End is Deſtruction, Phil. 3. and Heb. 10. laſt ver. Apoſtaſie and Unbelief are ſaid to be a drawing back unto Perdition. And on the contrary, there Faith is termed a believing to the Salvation of the Soul: And both Note out the final Event and Conſequent of each, and Salvation of the Soul to be the end of Faith, when Men continue and go on to believe, until their Faith arrive at, and attaineth this Salvation of the Soul. To this Senſe alſo, Rom. 6. 22. You have your Fruit in Holineſs, and the [End] Everlaſting Life. And the Apoſtle Peter having in the foregoing Verſes celebrated the Fruits and Workings of their Faith in this Life, as in ſupporting them gloriouſly under the ſoreſt Trials, Ver. 7. and then ſometimes filling their Hearts with Joy unſpeakable and glorious, ver. 8. he here at laſt concludeth with, what will be the End or Iſſue of it in that other Life, when Faith it ſelf ſhall ceaſe; and what it is that then they ſhall receive, Receiving (after all this) the end of your Faith, the Salvation of your Souls, Κομιζόμενοι in the preſent, by a frequent and uſual Enallage of Time, being put for the Future: For ye ſhall receive (or being about to receive) to ſhew the Certainty of it: That when Faith ſhall end, you may be ſure on't, even of that Salvation (that great Salvation ſo ſpoken of by the Prophets, Ver. 10.) of your Souls, which as it hath no end to be put unto it, as Faith hath: So no Interruption or ſpace of Time to come between (during which your Souls ſhould not be actually ſaved) a Salvation of your Souls ſingly (whileſt through Death they ſhall ſo Exiſt) as well as of the ſame Souls primarily, and more eminently, when both Soul and Body ſhall be reunited.

Secondly, The End of your Faith, that is, of your Aims and Expectations in your Faith: The End importing the Aim or Expectation, which is alſo a proper and literal Senſe of that Word. And upon this Account alſo the Salvation of the Soul, when they ſhould Die, that being the very next Thing their Eyes muſt needs be upon, is therefore here intended.

And 3. The End of your Faith, that is, as being that for which the great God (who keeps us by his Power through Faith unto Salvation, ver. 5.) hath wrought this Faith in you. Accordingly we find it termed the Work of Faith, 1 Theſ. 1. 3. Which when God hath fully wrought, and brought to that degree he aimed at in this Life; (or to uſe the Apoſtles own Expreſſion of it, 2 Theſ. 1. 11. When God hath fulfilled the Work of Faith with Power, he then crowneth it with this Salvation of the Soul without End. As James ſpeaks of Patience, when it hath had its perfect Work, Chap. 1. 4. compared with Ver. 12. and ſo ſpeaks my Text, for this ſelf-ſame Thing he hath wrought us. And therefore when this Faith ſhall ceaſe which he wrought for this, he will attain his End without delay: And you (ſays he) ſhall attain your End alſo: And Faith thus ceaſing, if this Salvation of the Soul did not ſuccenturiate and recruit it anew, the End of this Faith were wholly and altogether preſent deſtructive Loſs unto the Soul, in its well-being until the Reſurrection.

4. The [End] ſignifies the Perfection and Conſummation of any Thing, as Chriſt is ſaid to be the End of the Law, Rom. 10. 4. And ſo the meaning is, That your Faith, which is but an imperfect knowing God, ſhall then, when it ceaſeth, be ſwallowed up of Sight, (which is all one with that Salvation here) tanquam perfectibile, a Perfection, as that which is imperfect is ſaid to be by that which is Perfect, 1 Cor. 13. 10. Thus much for the literal and proper Import of the Word [End.]

Now then, if we take the Word [End] in its proper Meaning, and the Word [Soul] likewiſe in its native proper Meaning alſo, which Senſe in Reaſon ſhould be firſt ſerved (when the Scope will bear it) then it makes for that Purpoſe, more fitly, which we have had in Hand.

That nothing may be wanting in this laſt Place cited, to make up all the Particulars in the fore-going Sections inſiſted on: So it is, that the Apoſtle Peter doth further plainly inſinuate, That this Salvation (here) conſiſteth in the Sight and Viſion of Chriſt (which was one Particular afore-mentioned) accompanied with Joy unſpeakable, and glorious. The Coherence (if obſerved) makes this forth clearly: For whereas in the Verſe immediately foregoing, he had commended their preſent State of Faith by this, Whom [NOW] though you ſee not, yet believing, rejoice with Joy unſpeakable, and glorious. That [NOW] you ſee not, (in this Life) is ſet in Oppoſition, and carries a Promiſe with it of a Time to come, wherein they ſhould ſee, even as Chriſt ſaid to his Diſciples, John 13. 33, and 36. compared, Whither I go, I [NOW] ſay to you, ye cannot come; but thou ſhalt follow me [AFTERWARDS.] So here [NOW] believing, (which is the Principle at the preſent which you live upon) you ſee him not; but when the End of your Faith ſhall come, you ſhall then ſee him; and in this it is conſiſteth the Salvation of your Souls. So that ſtill it carries on what I have afore ſpoken unto, That when Faith ceaſeth, Sight cometh; yea, perfects and ſwallows it up, as was ſaid even now, out of 1 Cor. 13.

And let me add this, That the Apoſtle on Purpoſe doth bring in the mention of this ſupereminent Fruit of Faith, (Even Now when we ſee not) that believing, ye yet rejoice with Joy unſpeakable and glorious: On Purpoſe, I ſay, to make way for the raiſing up their Thoughts and Apprehenſions, how infinitely tranſcending that Salvation of their Souls muſt be, when Faith ending, they attain to Sight, To ſee him Face to Face, whom their Souls have loved: It is implicitely as if he had ſaid unto them, Oh! Think with your ſelves, what Joy, what Glory that muſt needs be, which exceedeth and ſurpaſſeth this that now accompanies your Faith, in an anſwerable Proportion, as much as ſight of Chriſts Preſence, and Face to Face, muſt be ſuppoſed to excel the Knowledge of him by Faith, which ſees him but as Abſent, darkly!

And further, give me leave to improve this Notion: You may take this aſſured Evidence, That your Souls ſhall then ſee and enjoy God, when your Faith ſhall CEASE, which will be, when once your Souls ſhall come to be ſeparate from your Bodies by Death: In that, even now, in this Life, it is your Souls and Spirits that are the immediate Receptives, or Partakers and Subjects of ſuch glorious Joys.

The Soul enjoies them (though in the Body, yet) without the help or concurrence of the Body, or the Phantaſms of it: Yea, ſuch Raptures do paſs Underſtanding, that is, the common way of Underſtanding, which by the uſe and help of the Body, or Images in the Fancy, the Mind exerciſeth in other Things, and which do concur with the underſtanding ordinarily in Faith. But this Joy falls into, and is illapſed within the Soul it ſelf immediately; yea, the weakneſs of your Bodies, and bodily Spirts, will not permit you to have ſo much of this Joy, as otherwiſe the Soul is now capable of by Faith. And therefore by this experimental Taſte aforehand in your own Souls, you may be aſcertained, That your Souls, when ſeparate from your Bodies by Death, as well as when united again unto their Bodies, ſhall enjoy this great Salvation.

And

And thus much for the first Point raised out of the Words, which did undertake an Argumentation for a separate Souls Glory and Happiness. (1.) From the Condition of the Soul, as the immediate Subject of Grace wrought in it. (2.) From Gods Ordination of the Work wrought, to raise the Soul up to Life, whilst Sin should bring Dissolution upon the Body. (3.) From the Scope of the Worker, God himself; who as an Efficient will accomplish the End, when his Work for that End is finish'd. And all these, as comprehended in what the very first View and Front of the Words of my Text hold out, God hath wrought us for the self-same Thing.

CHAP. XII.

The Glory into which the separate Soul is receiv'd, demonstrated from this Consideration, that God is the Efficient of it.

BUT lo! a greater Matter is here. It is not simply said, God hath wrought us for this; but, HE that hath wrought for this Thing, is GOD: Thereby calling upon us to consider, How great an Hand or Efficient is here, Even God, who hath discovered in a transcendent Manner his Glory, in the Ordaining and Contriving of this Work unto this great End. Take it Not therefore as a bare Demonstration given from Gods working US to this End, such as is common to other Agents (as hath been said.) But further, a Celebration of the Greatness and Glory of God, in his having contrived this with so high an Hand, like unto the great God: And is as if he had said, There is a design in this, worthy of God; HE hath shewn himself in this, to be the great God indeed. He that hath wrought us for this, is God.

When Gods ordinary Works are spoken of, it sufficeth himself to say, God did Thus, or This: But when Gods Works of Wonder, then often you find such an illustrious Note of Reflection upon, and pointing at Him, to have done as God. And it is ordinary among Men, when you would commend the known worth of the Artist, to say, He that wrought this, is such a Man, so to commend the Workmanship.

And thus both when the Holy Ghost speaks of this Glory it self, (which is the End for which here) His stile is, Whose Builder and Maker is God, Heb. 11. 10. And in like Equipage here of Preparation to that End, he saith, He that hath wrought us [for this Thing] is God. In this very Chapter (2 Cor. 5.) (to go no further) when the great Work of Salvation, in the whole of it, is spoken of, he Prefaceth thus to it, All Things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself, &c. that is, in this Transaction he hath appeared like that God [of whom all Things else are] and so more eminently in this than in all, or at least, any other Work. What there is said of Salvation in the whole, is here of that Particular Salvation of a separate Soul. You have the like Emphasis put Heb. 2. 10. Of bringing many Sons to Glory [it became him] says the Text. Now put all together, and the result is:

> Observ. That to have provided a Glory for separate Souls of just Men, wrought upon in this Life, is a Dispensation becoming the great God: Yea, and that there is an Artifice and Contrivement therein worthy of God, and like unto himself, such as he hath shewed in other his Works of Wonder.

There are two Branches of this Doctrine, which I set otherwise out thus:

1. That it is a Thing becoming the great God, thus to deal with such a separate Soul, having been wrought upon.

2. That

Chap. XII.

2. That God hath deſigned, and brings forth, therein, a glorious Artifice and Contrivement, ſuch as argueth him a God Wiſe in Counſel, and Wonderful in Working.

1. It becomes God. The Account of this becomingneſs is beſt made forth, by comparing and bringing together into an interview, both the inward and outward Condition of ſuch a Soul, and then the Relations which God bears to it, ſuch as ſhould thereupon move him (through his good Pleaſure) thus to deal with it.

You know I at firſt undertook chiefly Reaſons of Congruity or Becomingneſs, and ſuch always conſiſt of Two Parts, and when the one anſwereth and ſuiteth to the other, then the Harmony of ſuch a Reaſon is made up.

1. Let US therefore conſider, on the Souls Part.

1. The Species, the Kind, and intrinſecal Rank of being, which this Creature (we call the Soul) thus wrought upon ſtands in afore God.

2. The outward Condition or Caſe this Soul is left in upon its parting with the Body, unleſs God takes it up into Glory.

1. For its Rank or Kind of Being, there are Two Things.

1. This Soul was by its firſt Creation a Spirit, and that in the Subſtance or Native Kind thereof; and in that Reſpect (conſidered apart for its Union with the Body) is in a more ſpecial Manner allied unto God, than all other Creatures (but Angels) are. You have the Pedigree of Man, both in Reſpect of Body and Soul, ſet out, Acts 17. the Extract of our Bodies, in ver. 26. He hath made of one Blood all Nations of Men: So then on that ſide (as we ſay) in Reſpect of our Bodies, there is a Conſanguinity of all Men, being made of one Blood, between one another: But then in Reſpect of our Souls, we are Gods off-ſpring, ver. 28. And ſo on that ſide there is an Alliance (not of Conſanguinity) unto God, upon the Account of having been Created immediately by him, and IN the very Subſtance of our Souls, made like him, and in his Image; and yet we are not begotten of his Eſſence or Subſtance, which is only proper to His Great Son: And in a Correſpondency unto this, God is ſtiled Heb. 12. 9. The Father of our Spirits, in Diſtinction from the Fathers of our Fleſh or Bodies: (ſee the Words) which Alliance or Fatherhood, take it as in common with all Mens Spirits, lieth in this, That he not only created our Souls immediately out of nothing, but in his own Image, as to the Subſtance of them, which Image or Likeneſs other Creatures did not bear, which yet were made out of nothing, as the Chaos was; both which appear, by putting two Places together, Zech. 12. 1. He frameth their Spirits (ſpeaking of the Souls of Men) and that [altogether] ſaith the Pſalmiſt, Pſalm 33. 15. (ſo Ainſworth and others read it) that is, both, each of thoſe Spirits; and alſo wholly and totally, every whit of the Subſtance of them: Creatio eſt productio totius entis; for Creation differs from Generation in this, that it is a raiſing up or producing the whole of a being out of meer nothing, that is to ſay, [altogether] whereas Generation preſuppoſeth pre-exiſtent Matter; as in the Generation of our Bodies, which are not wholly and every whit of God immediately, but the Parents afford the Stuff, the Matter, and the Formative Vertue beſides, by which our Bodies are framed. So then, in reſpect of our firſt Creation, our Souls (apart conſidered) are thus allied to God, which our Bodies are not; being Spirits in the very being of them, that altogether do owe that their Being to him.

But there is a taint come upon the Souls of all Men by Sin, ſo as this Alliance is thereby worn out, yea forfeited, until it be reſtored. Now therefore theſe Souls (the only Subject of our Diſcourſe) being ſuch as God hath wrought, and ſo are become his Workmanſhip by a new and far nobler Creation, and thereby Created Spirit anew, according to what Chriſt ſays, That which John 3. is born of the Spirit is Spirit. Hereupon theſe Souls are Spirit, upon a double Account: As you ſay of Sugar, it is double-refined; ſo this is now become a ſpiritual Spirit, or Spirit ſpiritualized and ſublimated; yea, and thereby the inward Sanctuary, The Holy of Holies, the Seat of Gods moſt ſpiritual Worſhip; Rom. 7. 22, 25. which the Body is not, but only as it is the outward Temple or Inſtrument of this new-made Spirit.

And

And hereupon that original Affinity to God of Spirit is not only reſtored, but endeared; for now there is both the Stuff, or the Ground-work, and then the Workmanſhip, or Embroidery upon it, and both of them the Works of God; that ſo look as the Gold wrought upon commends the Enamel, and then again the Enamel enhaunceth the Value of the Gold, ſo as both are conſidered in the Price; ſo it's here with this Soul wrought by God in both Reſpects.

2. Conſider we now again the Caſe and outward Condition of ſuch a Soul, that of it ſelf would fall out to it upon the Diſſolution of the Body.

1. It fails of all ſorts of Comforts, it had in and by its Union with the Body in this World, Luke 16. 9. When you fail, ſays Chriſt, ſpeaking of Death, 'tis your City-phraſe when any of you break, and perhaps are thereby driven into another Kingdom, as the Soul now is.

2. Then, if ever, a Mans Fleſh and his Heart fail, Pſalm 73. 26.

3. And (which is worſe) a Mans Faith faileth or ceaſeth after Death, and all his ſpiritual Knowledge as in this Life, 'tis the expreſs Phraſe uſed 1 Cor. 13. at the 8th Verſe, and which is proſecuted to the End of that Chapter. And ſo all that Communion, it had with God in this Life, is cut off: It is of all Creatures left the moſt deſtitute and forlorn, if God provides not.

And yet Fourthly, It is now upon Death (which it never was afore) immediately brought into the Preſence of God. Naked Soul comes afore naked God. Eccleſ. 12. 7. Then ſhall the Duſt return to the Earth, as it was: And the SPIRIT ſhall RETURN UNTO GOD that gave it: It is put out of Houſe and Home, and turned upon its Father again. Thus much as to the Souls Condition.

2. But Secondly, Let us conſider what it becomes God on his Part to do. This is a ſpecial Seaſon for God to ſhew his Love to ſuch a Soul, if ever afore or after, an Opportunity, ſuch as falls not out, neither afore, whileſt it was in the Body; nor after, when it is united to the Body again at the Reſurrection: If ever therefore he means to ſhew a Reſpect unto a poor Soul, which is his ſo near Kindred and Alliance, it muſt be done now. We read in Pſalm 73. 26. My Fleſh and my Heart faileth (as at Death to be ſure it doth) but God is the Strength of my Heart, both in this Life and at Death to ſupport me [and my Portion for ever] in the Life to come, without any Interruption or Vacant ſpace of Time, as that [ever] imports: And that David ſpake this with an Eye unto the Glory to come, when Heart, and Fleſh, and all in this World he fore-ſaw would fail him, is evident by what he had immediately meditated in the Words afore, ver. 24. Thou ſhalt guide me with thy Counſel, ſo in this Life, and afterwards (that being ended) ſhall receive me unto Glory. The Contemplation whereof makes him cry out again, Ver. 25. Whom have I in Heaven but Thee? For all Things elſe will fail me one Day, when my Fleſh utterly fails me alſo: And There is none upon Earth (where he had at preſent many Comforts and Comforters) in Compariſon OF THEE. You ſee God is the Portion of the whole of his Time, even for ever, as ver. 26. and his Eſtate in Heaven and Earth divide that Time and Portion between them, and no middle State between both, but when the one ceaſeth the other begins, for between them Two muſt be the [for ever], and when all fail him, which he had on Earth, then God alone becomes his Happineſs in Heaven. But this only in General ſhews, what God is and will be to a Soul in this Condition.

But I having undertaken to proceed by way of Congruity, I muſt further, more Particularly ſhew, how in a Correſpondency to this inward and outward State of this Soul, he ſhews himſelf God, and how meet and becoming a thing it is for God to receive it into Glory, upon the Conſideration of many Relations, which he profeſſedly beareth to ſuch a Soul.

1. God is a Spirit, and thereupon in a ſpecial Manner (as Wiſd. 11. 26.) The Lord is a Lover of Souls above all his other Creation. So it is there, Thou art merciful to all becauſe they are thine. O LORD THOU LOVER OF SOULS [God is a Spirit] when therefore this naked, and withal ſublimated Spirit (by its being Born again by his own Spirit) and ſo aſſimilated to God himſelf, a pure ſpark now freed and ſevered from its Duſt and Aſhes, Chap. XII. Luke 16. 22. Heb. 1. ult.

Aſhes, flying up (or is carried rather by Spirits, the Angels, out of their like ſpiritual Love to it as a Spirit) unto that great Spirit, that Element of Spirits, it will ſurely find Union and Coalition with him, and be taken up unto him: For if, as Chriſt ſpeaks, John 4. 23. God being a Spirit, therefore ſeeks for ſuch as Worſhip in Spirit and Truth, that is, he Loves, Delights in ſuch as a Man doth in a Companion or Friend, who ſuits him. And doth God ſeek for ſuch whileſt they are on Earth? Then ſurely when ſuch Spirits ſhall come to him, and have ſuch a grand Occaſion, and (indeed) the firſt Occaſion in ſuch an immediate way to appear before him, in ſuch a manner and upon ſuch a Change as this, as they never did before; theſe Spirits alſo having been the Seat, the inner Temple of all this ſpiritual Worſhip and ſanctifying of him in this World: Surely God who ſought ſuch afore, will now take them into his Boſom and Glory: We alſo read Iſa. 57. 16, 17. Of the Regard he bears to Perſons of a contrite and humble Spirit, to revive them upon this ſuperadded Conſideration, that they are Souls and Spirit, and ſo thereby allied to him, the lofty one. Hear how in this Caſe he utters himſelf, The Spirit would fail afore me, ſays he, and the Souls which I have made. He ſpeaks of their very Souls properly and reſpectively conſidered, And [them] it is which he conſidering, and it moves him unto Pity; for he ſpeaks of that in Man, whereof God is in a peculiar manner the Maker or Creator [The Spirit which I have made] (ſays he) and it is one of the eminent Titles he takes into his Coat, The Framer of the Spirit of Man within him, Zach. 12. 1. as in many other Places: This is argued alſo, in that he ſpeaketh of that in Man, which is the Subject ſenſible of his immediate Wrath. I will not contend for ever; nor will I be always wroth. (This I have obſerved in what is Publick of mine.)

Child of Light walking in Darkneſs.

Now what moves him to remove his Wrath from ſuch an one? The Spirit would fail (ſays he.) Now doth God thus profeſs to have a regard to them in this Life, and that upon this Account, that they are Spirits, leſt they ſhould FAIL, or Faint; and ſhall we not think that when indeed otherwiſe they do fail (as after Death you have heard (even now) Chriſt himſelf expreſſeth they would) and would upon all theſe Conſiderations before-mentioned, ſink into utter Deſolation, unleſs they were received into Everlaſting Habitations (as Chriſt there alſo ſpeaks) Do we think that God will not now entertain them? The Time is now come, the full Time to have Pity on them.

2. God at this Seaſon forgets not, but full well remembers his Relation of being [THEIR CREATOUR] both by the new, and alſo firſt Creation (the new reviving and ingratiating the remembrance of the firſt) [The SOULS which I HAVE MADE] ſaid he in Iſaiah. But in our Peter this is more expreſs, and mentioned as that, which indeed moves God (and ſhould be accordingly a ſupport to our Faith) to take Care of our Souls, when we come to Die, even upon this Account, that he is the faithful Creatour of them, 1 Pet. 4. laſt. Wherefore let them, that ſuffer according to the Will of God, commit the KEEPING OF THEIR SOULS to him, in well-doing, as unto to a FAITHFUL CREATOR. He ſpeaks this ſpecially unto ſuch as were continually expoſed unto Perſecution unto Death for Chriſt in thoſe Primitive Times; which therefore, ver. 12. he Terms the fiery Trial, and ver. 17. forewarns them of a Time of Judgment which was begun, and going on upon the Houſe of God, ſuch as they had not yet felt; who yet Heb. 10. 32, 33, 34. had ſuffered Reproach and ſpoiling of their Goods (as Peter writes to the ſame Jews) hereupon Peter pertinently inſtructs them to commit the keeping of their Souls unto God. At Death you it is that, when Mens Bodies are deſtroied, and ſo the Seaſon when their Souls to be ſeparated therefrom, ſhould be committed to Gods Care; as our Darling (as our Tranſlation) or lovely Soul, when ſeparate (as others) as Chriſt in David ſpeaks, Pſalm 22. And Peter had in his Eye Chriſts Example, and Pointed them thereunto, who at his Death committed his ſeparate Soul or Spirit into the Hands of God, Luke 23. 46. And the Word commit is one and the ſame in both theſe Places: Only there is this Difference, that whereas Chriſt ſays, Father I commit, Peter ſubſtitutes another Title of Gods (there being more than one Relation moving ving God, and ſtrengthening our Faith to this) even of faithful Creator. And I underſtand not the firſt Creation only or chiefly here meant by Peter; but the ſecond Creation chiefly (which brings into Repute and Acceptation with God the firſt again together with its own) and ſo God is thereupon engaged to be faithful in his Care and Proviſion for ſuch Souls, according to his Promiſes: And faithfulneſs doth always reſpect and refer unto Promiſes; and my Reaſon why thus I underſtand it, is, becauſe I find Gods Faithfulneſs ſtill annexed unto his Calling of us, that is, Converting us, which is all one with this new Creation: Faithful is he that hath called you, that is, made you new Creatures, 1 Cor. 1. 9. 1 Theſ. 5. 24. And I find that David alſo urges it upon God as a Motive, as in other Pſalms. So Pſalm 138. 8. Forſake not the Works of thine Hands, that is, this double Workmanſhip of thine of the firſt, and then ſuperadded unto that, of the Second Creation, which he urgeth thereby to move him to Perfect the Work begun, and to be merciful unto him for ever, in the former Part of that Verſe. Chap. XII

3. God profeſſeth himſelf the FATHER of SPIRITS; which relation, though it ſpeaks his being the Creator of them, at the firſt, yet hath ſomething more of Bowels in it: It ſays withal ſomething further, when it falls out that ſuch Spirits as he is a Father unto by the firſt Creation, are alſo the Subjects of His Eternal Love, by Grace and Election unto the Adoption of Children, as Eph. 1. 3, 4, 5. See the Words. Which Love, having accordingly taken hold of their Souls by a Work of Grace wrought upon them in this Life, thereby owning them as his, in this Caſe, that God that is a Father of their Spirits by the Law of the firſt Creation, is in a more tranſcendent Manner become the Father of the ſame Spirit by Grace, and the ſecond Creation ſuperadded: Hence it falls out, in as paralel way, that (as was ſaid) ſuch Souls were become [Spirit] upon a double Account, that is Spirits for the Subſtance of their Being, and again Spirit, by being Born again of the [Spirit] ſo anſwerably it is, that God ſtands in relation unto them as a Father of their Spirits upon the like double reſpect. And this is equitable upon a very great Account; for his relation of Father is more eminent to his Grace by Election, and then again by the Grace of his ſecond Creation, then it could be any way ſuppoſed to be by the firſt Creation. And therefore is ſet and pitcht in like ſingularity and eminency upon the ſame Object, that is their Spirits. And hence it may well, yea muſt be ſuppoſed and acknowledged, That if God did make ſuch a darling of the Soul, ſuch an Account of it by Creation, as to entitle himſelf ſo ſpecially the Father thereof, then certainly this Love of Grace much more hath in like Equipage taken up the ſame gracious ſpecial Relation in its kind of Father thereunto: Not only becauſe Nature ſhall never be found to exceed Grace in its Favours; but that indeed the Motives are far greater, that God ſhould extend the like and greater Priviledges where he meant to Love by Election and Choice, then he did where he loved only by a due and meet Law of Creation: So that when God ſhall profeſs himſelf a Father to their Spirits, ſpeaking to ſuch as are his Elect, he ſtrongly inſinuateth thereby, That he is by Grace likewiſe the Father of their Spirits in a peculiar Manner. And truly that Speech of our Saviour at his Death confirms it, Father into thy Hands I commit my Spirit: It was not barely as a Father of his Spirit by Creation (as you all know) but by Everlaſting Love, and ſo in that reſpect alſo in a peculiar Manner the Father of his Spirit; and therefore as to a Father he commends his ſeparate Spirit unto him. And this he did, although he was to riſe again in leſs then Three whole Days ſpace.

Now we read Heb. 12. 12. The Apoſtle to hold forth this very relation of Gods being a Father of Spirits, with this Promiſe thereunto annexed, That they ſhould live: Which relation of Father, &c. although it be their explicitely ſpoken in reſpect of their firſt Creation (which is common unto the Saints with others) yet being uttered of and unto Men in the State of Grace (as thoſe were ſuppoſed, whom he there exhorteth, and that to move them to be Subject unto him as ſuch; with Promiſe, that they ſhould live) it evidently reſpecteth not meerly the Relation of Father in reſpect of what was paſt the Act of Creating them, but it looketh to the Future, That they depended upon him (as Children do upon Fathers for their Future Livelihood, ſo theſe) for to Live in him, and with him as a Father to their Spirits by Grace. For I take hold of that Word [and Live] this Life is well interpreted by ver. 14. They ſhall ſee God, that is, be glorified, and ſo I conclude all thus, that if he would have them be ſubject unto God in Holineſs, as upon that Relation, as unto the Father of Spirits, with this Promiſe, That they ſhould Live; then ſurely one ſpecial aim of the Promiſe is anſwerable, and hath this Eye, That God as a Father of their Spirits will therefore take Care of their Spirits ſingly, and ſo when ſeparate, that they ſhall Live. And that accordingly he will give Demonſtration of this ſpecial Relation Born to their Spirits (when the Occaſion ſhall be) conſidered apart in beſtowing this Life on them: And truly when its more proper for him to ſhew himſelf a Father, then when their Souls after their Subjection to him in Holineſs here accompliſhed, and when that as naked Spirits they come to ſtand in need, and ſtand afore him in his Preſence, being now turned out of Houſe and Home, and quite Caſhired out of this World, and come ſtript and naked of all but Holineſs unto their Father (for it is ſaid, They return to God that gave them) who proves to be their Father by Grace. And doubt not of it, but he will certainly then own them, and give them a Fathers Bleſſing, and not reject them as if they were but Baſtards and no Children (as that Chapter to the Hebrews ſpeaks) but as Spirits, who as Sons that have ſerved him, and been Subject to him.

Add to this, Fourthly, God his being our God, which is more home to the Demonſtration of this Point then all the former. The Text ſays, He that wrought us for this, is God. I add, he is your God. And this alone, if we will take the Scriptures Verdict, will carry it, and lo, as he is ſtiled, The Father of Spirits in common, and yet withal a Father of their Spirits out of ſpecial Love: So in like Manner, he is ſtiled both, The God of the Spirits of all Fleſh, (that is, of Man, Job 12. 20.) thus in Common; and alſo to his Elect, I am your God by Grace. And theſe two Relations, God and Father, are commenſurate, and exactly paralel, whether they be applied unto all Men Common, or to the Elect in ſpecial, he is termed, The God of the Spirits, and likewiſe, The Father of the Spirits of all Men: So in common, anſwerably he is Your God, and Your Father by ſpecial Grace to his Elect; both which in this latter reſpect you find yoked Hand in Hand, John 20. 17. Look how far he is a God of the one, ſo far a Father alſo extendeth in the other: And look how far that he is our God, ſo far reacheth alſo that he is our Father. If therefore the God of our Spirits to provide for them, becauſe he is our God, then anſwerably the Father of our Spirits in the like peculiarneſs, becauſe our Father. And ſo the Proof of this Fourth Particular will add further Strength and Confirmation to that we preſented in the former.

Now that his being our God (which is the Subſtance of the Covenant of Grace), doth engage him to provide Glory for ſeparate Souls, That one Inſtance of Abraham (The Father of the faithful, and we all his Sons perſonated in him) is a ſufficient Evidence, God did profeſs himſelf, The God of Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, and unto Abraham, Gen. 15. 1. perſonally, I am thy abundant Reward, (which reſpected the Life to come) and his Friend, 2 Chron. 20. 7.

Now the Scriptures of the New Teſtament do improve this Relation of Gods unto us, unto Two Inferences drawn from Abrahams Inſtance: Whereof the one is the Point afore us.

The firſt is Chriſts Inference from thence, That therefore Abrahams Soul lives, and Abraham both Soul and Body ſhall riſe again, For God is not the God of the Dead, but of the Living, Mat. 22. 31. Thus Chriſt.

2. Paul's Collection from the ſame Promiſe is, that God had provided in the mean Time for Abraham's Soul afore the Reſurrection, a City, and an Houſe therein for him. Thus Heb. 11. 16. But now they deſire a better Country, that is, an Heavenly: Wherefore God is not aſhamed to be called their God, for he hath prepared for them a City. To give Light to this, Paul had repreſented the Story and Caſe of Abraham, and the reſt of the Patriarchs, in the Verſes afore, to have been this; That God had indeed promiſed the Land of Canaan to him and them, ver. 8, 9. whereupon, ver. 13. it is ſaid, That theſe all Died in Faith, not having received the Promiſes, being Strangers in the Land; yea, not having a Foot of Land in the Land of Promiſe, as Stephen ſpeaks, Acts 7. 5, 6, 7. And alſo Paul, in the 9th Verſe of this Heb. 11. Now then, when they Died, what was it their Faith expected in ſtead thereof? The 10th Verſe tells us, He looked for a City whoſe maker and builder is God. From which compared, obſerve, That when he Died, his Faith was thus pitch'd to look for this City, in ſtead of that Land of Canaan promiſed. This was the Expectation of their Faith on their Part. Well, but how doth it appear, that this flow'd from Gods having profeſſed himſelf to be the God of Abraham, &c. his Reward, and his Friend? You have this clear in the 16th Verſe, where you have the whole ſumm'd up as the Concluſion of the Story, and as the Proof and Ground hereof; but now they deſire a better Country, that is, an Heavenly: There is their Faith and Expectation when they ſhould come to Die. Then it follows, Wherefore God is not aſhamed to be called their God, for he hath prepared for them a City; which is ſpoken in full Anſwer to that their Expectation at their Deaths, to ſhew, that God in profeſſing himſelf to be their God, he had thereby engaged himſelf according to his own intent in that Promiſe, to make this Proviſion for them at their Deaths: The Words are expreſs, Wherefore God is not aſhamed; what ſhould this mean in this Coherence, but that his declaring himſelf to be their God did import and carry this with it, That he had provided this Eſtate for them at their Death, even an Heavenly; and, that otherwiſe (as the Apoſtle gloſſeth upon it) he had not come up unto the amplitude of, nor filled full this Covenanted Engagement and Profeſſion of HIS BEING THEIR GOD. Will you have it in plain Engliſh, (as we ſpeak) if he had not made this Proviſion for their Souls, he would have been aſhamed to have been called their God: Thus deeply doth this oblige him, That he is our God and Father, which is the Point in Hand.

for

And judge of this in the Light of all that Reaſon we have hitherto carried along; and again, let this Inference of the Apoſtle mutually ſerve to confirm us in all that Reaſon. For poor Abraham to be driven out of his own Country by God, who called him to his Foot, and ſaid no more, but as a Maſter to his Servant, Take your Cloak, and follow me (who muſt preſently, without more ado, trig and Foot it after his Maſter) as Iſa. 41. 2. and then to live a Stranger in the Land of Promiſe upon the Faith, that God would be his God: Which Faith in him was alſo to ceaſe when he came to Die. If this God in this Caſe ſhould not have taken Care to Anſwer his Faith in ſome greater way, in ſtead of the Poſſeſſion of Canaan; and that after, upon his being turned out of that Country too, which he ſojourned in during this Life, if God had not provided another Houſe, or Country, or City for his Soul, that was to live, to bring it into, when it ſhould be deprived of all in this World; The Apoſtle tells us, God (in this Caſe) would have been aſhamed to have been called his God: Which now, having provided ſo abundantly for him upon Dying, there is ſuperabundant Cauſe to ſay, God is not aſhamed; for that is a diminutive, implying, That he infinitely exceedeth that their Expectation could be ſuppoſed to be.

Let us but view the force of this Inference of the Apoſtles (and ſo of all the reaſonings hitherto read) But according to Man, or what is found amongſt Men, (and God will be ſure infinitely to ſurpaſs Men in his Ways of Favour.) Take an ordinary Friend, if his Friend be turn'd out of Houſe and Home, Plundred, Baniſhed, driven out of all, as the Steward in that Parable, Luke 16. was, and comes to his Friend at Midnight, as in that other Parable, Luke 11. 5, 6. Will not his Friends entertain him into their Houſes; as ver. 9. of Luke 16. yea, and riſe at Midnight to do it, as ver. 5, 6. in that Parable of Luke 11. ſhall Profeſſion of Friendſhip engage and oblige Men to do this, and ſhall not Gods profeſſing himſelf to be our God, Father, and Friend, engage his Heart much more? Nay, will he not ſo entertain them, as ſhall exceed all wonderment? What need I ſay more than this? Wherefore He is not aſhamed to be called their God: He will therefore give you an Entertainment that ſhall be worthy of his being your God.

The Fifth and Laſt Conſideration is, That theſe ſeparate Souls having done and finiſhed all their Work, that in order to Glory God hath appointed them for ever to do, they now at Death appear afore him as a JUDGE AND REWARDER. And that is the Fifth Relation moving God to beſtow at this Seaſon ſuch a Glory on them. How that then the Soul returns to God, you have heard again and again out of Eccl. 12. 7. and that it is upon the Account of his being the Judge thereof at the End of their Work in this Life.

Heb. 11. 6. The Chaldee Paraphraſe hath long ſince gloſſed upon it, It returns to God, that it may ſtand in Judgment afore him. In this Life it came unto God by Faith, as the Apoſtle ſpeaks, believing that God is, and that he is a Rewarder of them that diligently ſeek him; and now at the end of its Faith it comes unto God for the Reward of its Faith, as ſome Interpret that 1 Pet. 1. 9. (which we ſo largely have inſiſted on.) This is certain, That in that Promiſe to Abraham, To be his God, he intended and included, his being to him an exceed-

Gen. 15. 1. ing great Reward. And ſo we come to Connect this Fifth Head with the fore-going. And therefore if the being his God, moved him to prepare that City againſt his Death (as hath been ſaid) Then ſurely his being his Reward, doth alſo then take Place. I ſhall not omit it, becauſe it falls in the next Chapter, Heb. 12. 23. That in that ſtupendious Aſſembly of Heaven, God the Judge of all is mentioned between the Church of the Firſt-born which are written in Heaven; this afore: And the Spirits of juſtified Men made perfect; this after it: For there are none of theſe Firſt-born, or the Spirits of juſt Men do come to ſit down there, but they paſs the Award of this Judge firſt, for they ſit down by him; and ſurely, having done all their Work in the Time of that Day is allotted to each Man to work in, it is a righteous Thing with God to give them a Reward in the Evening of this Day, (which is Chriſts Time ſet for rewarding, and it is the Twelfth and Laſt Hour ſuc-

See Burgenſis, Maldonat. &c. ceeding the Eleventh of the Day, Mat. 20. 6, & 9. compared) which is

Lev. 19. 13. when the Night of Death comes. Now there is a Law given by God, that the Wages to a Man hired ſhould be given him (by him that ſet him a-work) in his Day, that is, ſays the Septuagint, the very ſame Day, ſo as his

Deut. 24. 15. Work, or the Wages of his Work, Abide not with thee all the Night until the Morning, ſays God, Deut. 24. 15. Did God take care for Hirelings, when their Work was done not to ſtay any ſpace of Time, no not a Night, and doth he not fulfil this himſelf unto his Sons that ſerve him? Surely Yes: He defers not, nor puts them off to the Morning of the Reſurrection, as the Pſalmiſt elegantly calls it, Pſalm 17. laſt. It abides not with him all that dark and loneſome Night, or ſpace after Death, in which their Bodies reſt in the Grave, which Eccleſ. 12. 5. is termed Mans long home: And, The Days of Darkneſs are many (ſays Solomon) no; he Rewards them in the Evening of the Day, beſides what he will add to it in the Morning. It is obſerveable, that Rev. 6. 9, 10. concerning the ſeparate Souls ſlain for Chriſt, that whilſt they cry for Juſtice on their Enemies only, And when he had opened the fifth Seal, I ſaw under the Altar the Souls of them that were ſlain for the Word of God, and for the Teſtimony which they held. And they cried with a loud Voice, ſaying, How long, O Lord, Holy and True, doſt thou not judge and avenge our Blood on them that dwell on the Earth? That they had white Robes given them to quiet them in the mean-Time; Ver. 11. And white Robes were given unto every one of them, and it was ſaid unto them, that they ſhould reſt yet for a little Seaſon; till they heard that Vengeance alſo was executed on that Roman Empire for their Blood-ſhed. And thus to deal is a righteous Thing with God.

Thus you have ſeen the Point confirmed from all ſorts of Relations that God bears unto us, by congruous Reaſons, that ſo it becometh God, the great God to do — He that hath wrought us for this Thing, is God. And ſo much for this firſt Branch of this ſecond Doctrine.

2. The

2. The Second Branch of it is this, That there is a glorious Contrivement and Workmanship carried on in this Dispensation of his, like unto the great God indeed. This carries on this Point yet higher. For, it is not only an Ordination becoming God, (upon the Respects mentioned) but there is an Artifice, a Workmanship in it, such as he useth to shew in his Works of Wonder, even in this, That he should work upon Mens Souls in this Life, and then bring them into a Glory, he had in the mean space been a working also for those their Souls. This is the great God indeed. Chap. XII.

When God secretly bestows Cost and Curiosity in preparing Matters for such or such an end; and then again as hiddenly hath laid out a greater Art, Skill and Workmanship upon that End it self; and then hath exactly suited and matched the one to the other: When all comes to be finish'd, and both wrought and brought together, then will an Infinite surpassing Glory arise unto God out of all, which deserveth to have this Notoriety (that is here) put upon it, He that hath wrought this for that, is God: And lo, this is found here, which is demonstrated, if we view,

1. Each of these Workmanships singly and apart.
2. Jointly, as designed and fitted each to the other.

1. Each singly: If there were no such Ordination of the one for the other, yet so considered, they deserve to have, each, an [He that hath wrought this, is God] to be written under it.

1. For his Artifice, in working us in this Life. Learned Cameron hath but one Note upon this whole Fifth Chapter, and it falls to be upon this very Word [Who hath wrought] and it is this: This Word (says he) as used by the Septuagint, signifies Rem expolire rudem & informem, To polish a Thing that is Rude, and without Fashion: For which he gives Instance out of Exod. 35. 33. in Bezaleels Work (whom, as the 31, 32, Verses speak of him, God had filled with his Spirit in all Wisdom, in all Workmanship, to devise cunning-work.) And again, the same Word is used of the Temple-work (that other was for Moses Tabernacle) 1 Kings 6. 36. by Solomon, which how transcendent a structure it was, you have all read or heard. An infinitely surpassing Art then hath the Spirit himself (who is the immediate Worker in this) shewn in the framing, and hewing, and curiously Carving and Engraving those living Stones, that grow up into a Temple unto God, 1 Pet. 2. 5. especially considering the utter remoteness, indisposedness, yea crookedness and perverseness in the Matter wrought upon (our Souls, fill'd with the contrary Form and Workmanship of Satan) Ye are his Workmanship, says the Apostle, Eph. 2. 10. And truly, if we could enlarge upon all the varieties of Dealings God useth to each Soul to work it, the several sorts of gracious Dispositions he impresseth and carveth upon it; the manifold Actings of every Soul drawn forth by him, you may take a view of some in the very next Chapter to that of my Text, 2 Cor. 6. from the 4. ver. In much Patience, in Afflictions, in Necessities, in Distresses. Ver. 5. In Stripes, in Imprisonments, in Tumults, in Labours, in Watchings, in Fastings. Ver. 6. By Pureness, by Knowledge, by Long-suffering, by Kindness, by the Holy Ghost, by Love unfeigned. Ver. 7. By the Word of Truth, by the Power of God, by the Armour of Righteousness, on the right Hand, and on the Left. Ver. 8. By Honour and Dishonour, by evil Report and good Report: As Deceivers, and yet true. Ver. 9. As unknown, and yet well known: As dying, and behold, we live: As chastened, and not killed: Ver. 10. As sorrowful, yet alway rejoicing. As Poor, yet making many Rich: As having nothing, and yet possessing all Things. Ver. 11. O ye Corinthians, our Mouth is open unto you, our Heart is enlarged. What a glorious Embroidery upon the Soul of a poor Believer will in all these Things appear, when finished! Psalm 45. 13, 14. The Kings Daughter is all glorious within, her Cloathing is of wrought Gold: She shall be brought unto the King in Raiment of Needle-Work.

2. For his Art and Workmanship bestowed in the Glory of the Soul in the other World; if any Work (but Christ, God-man) be his Master-piece, it is the framing of that House, and Building spoken of ver. 1. of this Chapter,

We

Chap. XII. We have a Building of God, a Houſe not made with Hands: And the 11 of the Hebrews 10. expreſly uſeth two Artificial Words, τεχνίτης the Artificer in it, and δημιουργὸς the Artificer in it, and the Builder of it, that is, who hath ſhewn his Art and Skill in Building of it. So then in each his Workmanſhip appears. I do but add this towards the Confirmation of the main Point in Hand.

Hath the great God perfected both Works upon the Soul, as much as he means to Work in Heaven? Alſo prepared a Building for it? And will he then (think we) let both lie empty? Of the one, ſays Heb. 11. 16. [He hath prepared for them a City] of the Soul, in like Manner [He hath wrought us for this ſelf-ſame Thing] Will God (think we) leave this his Houſe to ſtand deſolate, when he hath been at ſuch Coſt in both? Doth any Man or Landlord build or repair an Houſe, and then let it lie empty, when he hath a Tenant fit for it? God is ſaid not to be a fooliſh Builder in reſpect to perfecting; and he is much leſs a careleſs Builder, to neglect to take his Tenants into it, when both are ready and fitted each for other. This for the firſt, viz. the Conſideration of each ſingly.

Let us conſider them next Jointly, that is, as they are in ſuch a manner wrought apart, ſo as to ſuit and match one the other, when brought together in that manner, as it muſt be ſaid of them. [For this Thing hath God wrought us] Yea, and therein it is he hath appeared to be the great God.

For therein, even to wonderment, doth the Glory of God in his Works appear, and that he is wiſe in Counſel, and wonderful in Working, when he hath hiddenly contrived one Thing for another, when as each are in themſelves, and apart glorious. It is ſaid by David of himſelf (and it is true of all Men in their Meaſure) Pſalm 139. 15. I was made in ſecret, and curiouſly wrought in the loweſt Parts of the Earth; that is, in my Mothers Womb, as the Context ſhews; which are termed the Lower Parts of the Earth, as when Chriſt is ſaid, Eph. 4. To have deſcended into the lower Parts of the Earth; that is, to be conceived in the Womb of a Virgin; when a Child is born, a lump of Fleſh animated with a Soul comes forth curiouſly wrought, &c. but wrought, for what? In Davids Perſon (in which this was ſpoken) it was for a Kingdom, the ſupreameſt Condition of Enjoyments in this World. But in every other Man (that is Born) it is, that he was curiouſly wrought, in a fitneſs and capacity to all Things that are in this World, made and prepared exactly for it, long afore it came into the World; you may ſee it in Adam (our firſt Pattern) more lively. God was buſie for Six Days in making this World, the Angels all that while ſtood wondring with themſelves, Job 36. 7. to what end, or for whom all this was prepared. At the end of the Sixth Day, they ſaw God to ſet down into the World this little Thing called Man; and then they ceaſed their wonderment; for they ſaw all this World (prepared aforehand) ſet in Mans Heart, and all in Man curiouſly wrought and fitted for all Things made in this World, richly to enjoy, as 1 Tim. 6. 17. We may apply that in the Text to this it appeared, That he that hath Man for this ſelf-ſame Thing is God; both Works of wonder apart, and yet as fitted to each other: All wonderment exceeding —— I might much more enlarge upon the ſuiting of Chriſt the Head and Husband, and the Church his Body and Wife, wrought and growing up to him in all Ages, both apart, ſecretly and hiddenly prepared, and each ſo glorious in themſelves, and yet put together. Let us refer our Admiration hereat until the latter Day. Juſt thus it is in fitting the Soul for that Glory: And again, that Glory in Heaven for that Soul: God works the one for the other apart. —— The very ſimilitude in the former Verſes do import ſo much; he ſtileth Glory in Heaven a being Cloathed upon, and Holineſs here he compares to an Under-garment, which that of Glory is to be put over, or upon: There was never a curious Artiſt in making Garments that ever took meaſure of the Proportions of an upper and under Garment, to fit the one to the other, as God hath in proportioning his work upon us here, and his Preparation of Glory for each of us in the World to come: He hath took exact meaſure, and his Law is (that designed his own workings on both Hands afore-hand) that every Man shall receive his own Reward according to his own Labour, 1 Cor. 3. 8.

Now the Artifice of God in both these lies in this, That each are hiddenly contrived apart, and yet so gloriously matcht as wrought one for the other; which is an Argument as of two Artificers, the one in the East Indies, the other in the West; should the one make the Case, the other make the Watch, un known each to other, and both Workmanships of the highest curiosity in their Kind, and when both brought together they exquisitely fit the one the other.

And what? Have I been telling you all this while an artificial pleasant Story? Doth not this Scripture tell the very same? For a Close, Do but now at last take a view and prospect of our Apostles whole Discourse. The Round and Cicle whereof begun at ver. 16. of Chap. 4. and endeth with my Text; and do you not find it speak (to use the Texts Language) the very self-same Thing.

1. He tells us there of an inward Man renewed, whilest the outward is a perishing, to the end it may live and subsist alone, when the Body is wholly dissolved; (there he laies his Foundation.) And is not this all one with what the Text says? God works us (these Souls) Day by Day: Even as the Child is curiously wrought in the Womb, to subsist of it self alone in this World, so this inward Man in that other.

2. He then immediately subjoins ver. 17. that all Afflictions (which are nothing else but the Perishings of this outward Man) as also all Things and Dispensations else that do befal us, they are secretly at Work too, all that while; so set to Work by God (who works the inner Man daily unto such a Measure of Grace) and these to work, and by his Ordination procure a proportionable weight (for God works all these Things in weight and measure) our light Affliction works for us a far more exceeding and eternal Weight of Glory —— as shall in a comely and in the exactest Manner answer and suit that curious workmanship on the inward Man; and it is observable that the same Word for (working) is used in that Verse, that is used in my Text: But yet these are but outwardly a work, as inferiour Artificers or Instruments: Therefore,

3. He further declares, 1. verse of this Chapter, That God himself is at work about this Glory, who as the Master-workman, that hath the Draught and Platform of all afore him, drawn by his own designing, he viewing the inward Work on us, the outward Work of Means and Dispensations; and knows afore-hand what Degree of Holiness to bring us ultimately unto, he according unto these, as Patterns, is a framing a Building for us in Heaven, exactly suited to the working of all the other; which building he prepares and makes ready for this inner Man to entertain it, when the Body is Dissolved: If our earthly House were dissolved, we have a Building of God, an House not made with Hands, of either Men or Means, or of our own Graces; but of God. But every Soul hath a State of Glory proportioned to all these, ready built for it against this Time; even as Statues in Stone are framed and carved, to be set up in such a curious Arch framed for them by the Builder. Now then, 1 Pet. 1.

4. Add but the Words of my Text, which is the Close of this his Discourse: And it opens all the Scene, He that wrought us for the self-same Thing is GOD. The Apostles Conclusion answers his beginning; he began in ver. 16. Chap. 4. And the Circle ends in my Text. And this is God, who is wise in working and wonderful in Counsel.

Observ. III. That it is the Interest and Engagement of all Three Persons to see to it, that a righteous separate Soul be brought to Glory at Dissolution.

And this carries it yet higher, even to the highest, and gives the most superabundant Security and Assurance of this Thing that can be given and superadds above all the former. But you will ask me, How I fetch this out of my Text? Thus:

1. You

Chap. XII.

1. You ſee here are Two Perſons expreſly named, God [the Father] namely, and the Spirit. This is a Rule, that where the Name God, and then ſome beſides other of the Two Perſons, Chriſt or the Spirit, are mentioned therewith, as diſtinct; there God is put perſonally (not eſſentially only) to expreſs the Father: Now here the Spirit or Holy Ghoſt is mentioned diſtinct from God; for it is ſaid, that this God hath given the Spirit; which alſo Chriſt ſo often ſpeaketh of the Father, as I need not inſiſt on it.

2. It is another Rule, That in any Scripture where Two Perſons are mentioned, as concurring in any Thing, or Matter; there the other Third Perſon alſo muſt be underſtood to have his ſpecial ſhare therein alſo; as when he wiſheth Grace and Peace from God the Father, and from Jeſus Chriſt; 'Tis certain, the Holy Ghoſt is as ſpecially underſtood; as indeed we find him in that Apoſtolical Bleſſing, as diſtinctly ſpoken of as the Father or Chriſt. Thus it muſt be here, Chriſt muſt be taken in, who alſo in John is ſo often ſaid to give the Spirit, when the Father gives him, as it is ſaid here he hath, For this ſame Thing.

But 3. You have even Chriſt alſo not far off intereſted in this ſelf-ſame Thing in the next Verſe, and ver. 8. Abſence from the Lord, whileſt in the Body, ver. 6. and Preſence with the Lord, when ſeparate from the Body, ver. 8. This Lord is Chriſt; the Phraſe of the New Teſtament concerning Chriſt runs in this Stile, To be with Chriſt, This Day with me —— To be where I am, and ſee my Glory: So Chriſt. To be with Chriſt is beſt of all, and we ſhall be ever with the Lord. So Paul.

USE I. Doth God work Us for this Thing ere he brings us to it? What hath God wrought hitherto upon Thee or Thee, in order to this end? 'Tis a blunt Queſtion, but the Text puts it in my Mouth: How many Souls are there living in the Profeſſion of Chriſtianity, that know not what this means, to have a work wrought on them (a-new upon them) over and above what moral Honeſty (which was Natures Portion) and the common Profeſſion of Chriſtianity adds thereunto, by Cuſtom and meer Education. An honeſt Turk profeſſing alſo and obſerving the Principles of his Religion, upon the Ground of his Education only (and a Religion every Man muſt have) will as ſoon go to Heaven as Thou; for all thy Religion is founded but upon the like Foundation that his is. I tell thee, that Chriſtian Religion is not a Thing ſo cheap; nor Salvation by Chriſt at ſo low a Rate. Thou muſt have a work upon thy Soul ſuited unto all the Truths, thus profeſſed in the Power and Efficacy of them. They muſt enter thy Soul by a ſpiritual Faith and Frame, and mold it anew to a Likeneſs to them. Carry home therefore the Caveat our Apoſtle hath put in ver. 3. If ſo be that being cloathed, we be not found naked of Grace and Holineſs wrought, and Chriſts Righteouſneſs by ſpiritual efficacious Faith applied, (Faith in earneſt) bowing the Soul to be obedient unto Chriſt, as heartily and as honeſtly, as it expects Salvation by Chriſt, as without which thou wilt never be ſaved. This is our Religion; and when at Death thy Soul (thy poor loneſome Soul) being ſtript of all Things in this World; even the Body and all, ſhall come afore the great God and Jeſus Chriſt, what will the enquiry be? as Mat. 22. 11. When the King came in to ſee the Gueſts, he ſaw a Man had not the Wedding-Garment; he ſpied him out: And the Man was ſpeechleſs, ver. 12. Take him and bind him, (ſays he) and caſt him into utter Darkneſs, ver. 13. The other, that were Cloathed, were admitted unto the Marriage; and, (as the Pſalmiſt, the Words of which are here alluded unto) She was brought unto the King (the very Title which in both theſe Places is given to Chriſt: See ver. 11.) in Raiment of Needle-Work, and this cloathing is of Gods working; and ſo my Text falls in with both: There is no Admiſſion unto Chriſt without it —— This is the firſt Uſe.

USE II. Hath God begun to Work this good Work in thee? He will perfect it: Whereof the Text gives this Aſſurance, that he hath wrought it for this Thing, that is, for this End, and God will not loſe his End: Beſides, he ſays he hath given Earneſt.

USE

USE III. Thou Saint, be content to Live, for whilſt thou liveſt, thou art under Gods working, in order unto Glory. Value Life; 'tis a Seaſon of being wrought upon: And to be ſure, thou ſhalt live no longer, than whilſt God is ſome way or other a working this. What an Advantage is it, that all thy Sins, occaſioned by living long, ſhall ſurely be forgiven, and nothing of thy ſcore be uncut off for thee, but all the Righteouſneſs that is wrought upon thee, and wrought by thee, (and therefore wrought by thee, becauſe upon thee; for, being wrought upon, we work, and all is rather, God hath wrought us, than that we have wrought) All thy Righteouſneſs (I ſay) ſhall remain for ever. All the Time thou remaineſt in this Life, thy Soul is ripening, or maturing for Glory.

How great a Comfort is that? In explicating the Doctrinal Part, I gave Inſtance of a Child in the Womb curiouſly wrought all that Time, in order to its living and ſubſiſting afterwards in this World. 'Tis a dark Place, the Womb which the Child is wrought in; and it lives there in a ſtifled Condition, it cannot Breath, it takes Nouriſhment but at the Navel, (a way invented and prepared of God meerly for that Seaſon) it lies boiling, toſſing and tumbling, and ſleeping away the moſt of its Time, and gives now and then a faint ſtirring, to ſhew it is ſtill alive; and it is a Life ſcarce worth the Name of Life: Well, but all this is a being wrought and fitted to live another, freer, and braver Life in this World. And this is your preſent Caſe, your Life is hid, it is to come; all that you find in this World, is but [that God hath wrought you for the ſelf-like Thing] And if this Child we ſpake of ſhould be forced out of the Womb afore the due Time, it would have the more imperfect Life in this World: So here, if you could ſuppoſe a Saint ſhould die afore the full Birth of his Souls being wrought on —— Therefore be content to wait Gods leiſure, until your Change ſhall come. Pſalm 139. 15.

USE IV. No Matter what befalls thee, ſo it works towards this End; let whatever be, ſo thou findeſt God to go on with this Deſign, that he Works upon thy Soul; be it upward, in Communion with himſelf, or downward, in diſowning thy ſelf, thy Vileneſs and Corruptions, ſo it works. Thou haſt Afflictions that break thy Heart (as Reproach broke Chriſts Heart, ſays the Pſalmiſt in his Name) no Matter, ſo they work upon thy Soul. Know then, that they are ſet awork by the Hand that ſent them, to Work a far exceeding weight of Glory for thee: If by any means, (ſays Paul) no Matter what, ſo the Work go on. A Carver comes with his Chiſſels, and cuts off this Piece, and cuts into that Part of the Stone: No Matter; a ſtately Statue bearing the Image of ſome Perſon of Honour is to be ſet up for Perpetuity, and is accordingly a framing: So though God carves his Image out of thy Fleſh, no Matter. Comfort thy ſelf, and think not much at any Condition, whilſt (as Paul ſays) it turns to thy Salvation. Election ſent thee not into this World to have a great Name (perhaps God will load it) nor to be Rich, or to have Power, but to work thee for this ſelf-ſame Thing; and if thou ſeeſt that Plough a going (though it makes deep furrows on thy back, yea Heart) yet ſo, that this Seed be ſown therein, rejoice, For thou ſhalt bring thy Sheafs with thee. For my ſelf, ſo that I find Election purſuing its Deſign, of making me Holy, and Bleſſing me with ſpiritual Bleſſings in heavenly Places (as Epheſ. 1.4.) I care not (I would not care) what befals me in this World.

Chap. XIII.

CHAP. XIII.

Whether the State of Glory, into which ſeparate Souls enter after Death, and in which they Live until the Reſurrection, be not different from that, which they ſhall poſſeſs after that glorious Day, and in what the Difference conſiſts.

BEfore I can ſet forth any poſitive Particulars of their Bleſſedneſs, I find it is neceſſary to Diſcuſs this Queſtion, Whether there be not Two ſeveral States of Glory after this Life.

1. Of Souls ſeparate differing from that, which is,
2. After the Day of Judgment.

Towards the Reſolution of this

1. I give this Explanation, that I intend not this Difference ſimply of Degrees of Glory, but of ſomething further, although I confeſs I know not what Term to expreſs it by, as whether I ſhould call them ſeveral removes from Glory to Glory, or ſeveral Conditions of Glory rather then States. However I think there is more then a Difference ſimply of Degrees for this Reaſon; Becauſe differing Degrees of Glory in the ſeveral Perſons that are glorified do Accompany each of theſe States (if ſo I may call them.) As for Example, one Degree of Glory is given to Paul, another to Apollos, or to any one is given to Ordinary, another to more eminent Saints; Such Degrees of Glory are ſuppoſed to Accompany them with a various Difference, according to their Works. The Souls of Men that Die in the Lord, have in their ſeparate Condition a Variety of Degrees of Glory among them, according to their Works: For of them it is ſaid, (Rev. 14.) That their Works do follow them, which is all one as to ſay (as of the laſt Reward of Judgment it is ſaid) they have a Bleſſedneſs proportionable to what that Condition will bear and ſuite to, or according to their Works. For to reſt from their Labours, is equal and alike to All, but of the poſitive Reward it is ſaid, That their Works follow them (as the meaſure of Gods Diſpenſation) and follow them to procure an anſwerable and ſuitable Reward unto that Condition, which ſuch Souls are then in. This Difference therefore of Degrees runs along through all, from Firſt to Laſt unto Eternity: But differing Conditions, or differing States of Glory is another Thing, and of that is the Query to be underſtood.

The Propoſitions therefore which I aſſert are theſe,

I. That there are ſeveral States after the Separation of the Soul, or after Death, which the Souls of Saints do run through.

II. That they attain not their fulneſs of Glory, for all ſorts of Glory, till after the Day of Judgment.

It is evident from the Inſtance or Example of Chriſt himſelf our Pattern and Fore-runner in all; (for that Rule which Chriſt utters upon the Point of Perſecution is General, and will hold true here.) That the Servant is not above his Maſter, who purchaſed all that the Servant is to enjoy. Now 'tis evident, that Chriſt himſelf as to his Soul did not attain a Glory during its ſeparate Eſtate, in any Proportion like unto that he had when riſen again; nor ſuch as he had after he Aſcended, and was received up to Glory, as Paul's Speech is, 1 Tim. 3. 16. Nay, his Soul could not have attained it, for although although all that which his Soul was to ſuffer, was, as Himſelf ſaid, It is finiſhed (and unto the Conſummation of the Sufferings of his Soul doth that Speech refer) yet his whole Perſon, yea, and his Soul remained ſtill under a State of Humiliation; becauſe his Body, and in Reſpect thereof his Perſon had not yet ſatisfied for the utmoſt Farthing, which remained ſtill to be Paid, and therefore it had been improper for his Soul to have entred into a Fulneſs of Glory, whilſt that Part of the Man Jeſus, viz. his Body, the Copartner of that Soul; yea, of that Perſon was under that firſt Curſe, which was, To Duſt thou ſhalt return: His Soul alſo was in its Widowhood or Separation, and thereby as yet ſo far Partaker of that firſt Curſe, viz. of being ſevered from the Body, which was a Part of the Curſe, and is a forlorn Eſtate of it ſelf, in Reſpect to the Primitive Ordination of God at the firſt Creation of Man.

Yea, Chriſt when aſcended had not his full Glory, neither hath it, until that great Day of the Reſurrection; for he is in Expectation of his Glory, being more compleated in the entire Conqueſt of all his Enemies, Heb. 10. 13. Likewiſe till then He wants his Body, which is the Church, which is his Fulneſs (Eph. 1. 23.) and therefore doth come then to be admired in all his Saints (2 Theſſ. 1. 10.) When he ſhall come to be glorified in his Saints, and admired in all them that believe. Only this Priviledge indeed falls on his Part, as He is Lord, and the firſt Fruits of all, that as He roſe on the Third Day to the End he might not ſee Corruption; ſo being ordained our Forerunner (Heb. 4.) and to prepare a Place for Us, He therefore was firſt in the mean while to govern the World, and to enter into Glory long afore us; He yet expecting our Accompliſhment, and we being Expectants of that full Glory, He in the mean Time enjoys. Hence therefore, it may well become Us, and it may well be entertained by Us poor Creatures, as to follow our Lord whereſoever He goes, ſo to paſs through whatever Conditions he run through; and that not only, whilſt our Souls are Widows to that other Part of Manhood, according to Nature (and it is becoming, that the Soul without it ſhould not be perfect) but withal in Reſpect of that (Curſe, I will not call it now, but) Sentence of Death pronounced againſt Us all in Adam, which arreſted the Soul when it was firſt ſeparated from the Body, and is continued during its ſeparate Condition. The Soul therefore cannot be ſuppoſed in this Eſtate, to have that full Enfeoffment unto Glory, whilſt the other half of Man, and it ſelf too, remains under ſuch a Sentence.

Hence the Stream of the New Teſtament Runs and Centers in the great Day, as carrying away the Glory from all afore it; and alſo, as being that Day for the Miſery of the Wicked, as if there were none elſe till then. All is every where almoſt referred unto that Day, both for Puniſhment to the Wicked, and Reward to the Godly. The Bad are but as kept in Priſon, (1 Pet. 3. 19.) though with ſome Torment (Luke 16.) but the great Puniſhment is to follow afer the Reſurrection and Judgment, which is called therefore, The Reſurrection of Damnation, John 5. 29. I will name but one Scripture common to both, 2 Theſſ. 1. 7, 8, 9. And to you who are troubled, reſt with us, when the Lord Jeſus ſhall be revealed from Heaven with his mighty Angels. In flaming Fire, taking Vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the Goſpel of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, who ſhall be puniſht with Everlaſting Deſtruction from the Preſence of the Lord, and from the Glory of his Power. Inſomuch as it was the Occaſion to the Fathers, almoſt generally to ſpeak ſo low Things of this Interim Condition, and is an Occaſion unto others, either wholly to deny any Glory to Souls ſeparate, or greatly to diminiſh from it with Reſpect to the generality of the Saints departed, as the Papiſts and others do. And it is certain, that the Glory of the Laſt Day will comparatively riſe to be ſo great, as this of the Soul ſeparate hath no Glory in Compariſon of it. And the Principles of our common Chriſtianity (which are related in Scripture concerning this Point) afford this reſponſible Ground for it, harmonious to Reaſon.

1. For then, and not till then, Chriſt hath all his Saints about him, and himſelf (as was ſaid) is compleat every way.

Chap. XIII.

2. Then, and not till then it is, that the Soul and Body are united together again, for Chriſt redeemed the Body as well as the Soul: And if the Fathers were not Perfect without us (Heb. 11. 40.) then by the ſame Reaſon is not the Soul Perfect without the Body. Gods charge to Chriſt was, as to looſe none of his Number, ſo to looſe ἓν nothing of them, and therefore not only to entertain their Souls, but alſo to raiſe their Bodies. John 6. 39. And this is the Fathers will, which hath ſent me, that of all which he hath given me; I ſhould loſe nothing, but ſhould raiſe it up again at the Laſt Day. God hath the Soul of Abraham with him, but ſtill he reckons he hath not Abraham, that is, the whole of him until the Reſurrection; for from thence Chriſt argues, that Abraham muſt riſe, becauſe God is called Abraham's God, Mat. 22. 32.

3. At the latter Day, and not till then, there comes to be a full Aſſembly of all Saints, 2 Theſſ. 1. 10. When he ſhall come to be glorified in all them that believe. He ſhall then have all about him, and his Body compleat; and till then, before that Time it will ſtill be ſaid as in another Caſe, there are Brethren not yet fulfilled. A general Aſſembly there falls not out until then, and if it was reaſonable to quiet the ſeparate Souls to ſtay till the reſt of their Brethren ſhould be killed, then it is as reaſonable to quiet them to ſtay out their full Glory, till all of the Saints (whether to be killed, or not) are fulfilled, or their Number accompliſht, πληρώσωσι, That ſo (as Chriſt ſays) All may rejoice together, John 4. 36.

4. There is the Solemnity, the Pomp of Chriſt's entrance, when (as the Apoſtle to the Hebrews, Heb. 11. ſpeaks) where God bringeth his firſt begotten into the World attended with all the Angels, and appearing in the utmoſt Glory of his Father, on purpoſe to be admired in his Saints, and by the Glory he beſtows upon them. No wonder then, if the great Glory be reſerved to that Day, whereas this Admiſſion of our Souls in the mean Time unto Glory is as a ſecret Entrance incognito (as we ſay) which is done every Day, and a-part ſingly.

5. The Glory of our Souls in the mean while is but an occaſional Diſpenſation for a ſhort Time, and brought in by Death the Fruit of Sin. They are in the Caſe of Friends, who by ſome preſent Diſaſter are put out of Houſe and Home, and come to us unawares and on the ſuddain. This Condition is occaſioned by the Curſe upon Adams fall, Thou ſhalt Die. Souls thereupon returning to God, do recommend themſelves into his Hands, as driven out of Houſe and Home. He therefore beſtows them (as it were) in the mean while, as well as may be for that Condition. He lodgeth them in Beds (Iſa. 57. 2.) conveniently, ſuitably to that their Eſtate, but this is but for a ſhift, and till they ſhall be better provided for: But the Glory after the latter Day, was the great Thing deſigned afore Sin, or Death fell out, or redemption from Sin. That Fulneſs of Glory the Body and Soul was ordained unto, is the Center of all Gods Decrees concerning us. 'Tis Regnum antemundanum, and it ſhall remain for ever without any Accident, or Change to intervene, or interrupt it. We ſhall be ever with the Lord; whereas afore, though our Souls were with the Lord, yet ſo, as Chriſt and we ſeem for a Seaſon to Part, and our Souls come down into our Bodies, and riſe to meet the Lord (as the ſame Place ſhews) but this latter Diſpenſation of Glory is once for all, and to hold to Eternity one and the ſame unchangeably, 2 Theſſ. 4. 16, 17. The Dead in Chriſt ſhall riſe, and then be caught up to meet the Lord; And ſo we ſhall be ever with the Lord. That is the Condition afterwards which admits not (no not, for the twinkling of an Eye) ſo much as any looking off from him, much-leſs a parting for ever. No wonder then, if God hath ſo reſerved the Splendor of Glory for that Day, and then makes a new State of Glory, as if there had been no Glory afore.

The Third is,

1. To find out what is common to the Eſtate of Glory of a ſeparate Soul, hath in common with the State after the Day of Judgment.

2. To find out what is properly belonging to the State of its Separation.

Chap. XIII.

1. That we may find out what is common to both States, It is meet for us here to know and consider, that under the same Expressions found in Scripture common unto both, there is yet intended a vast Difference, and Disproportion, in the Glory vouchsafed either to the one or t'other. Therefore we must be aware of such Expressions, and not presently think, that the same are us'd common to both, therefore the same State of Glory is indifferently intended. Two great Errors I conceive have been committed about this Matter.

1. That the New Testament speaking so high, and great Things of the Glory both at, and after the Day of Judgment; the Glory of the Souls separate hath been too much Eclipsed to some Apprehensions, and utterly denied by others, and but carelesly and negligently spoken of by most, especially the Ancients.

2. Others Treating of it do Hand over Head, and confusedly shuffle together, or apply what is said of the one unto the other in such a Manner, as if there were not any Difference, as to the Souls Condition in either State, but only that the Body is glorified at Last: Whereas certainly by what the Scripture speaks, there must be found a vastly differing Disproportion between those Two States, and that not alone in Respect of the Conjunction of the Body to the Soul (which alone would not be so much, if the Souls Happiness in it self were not in its Proportion there-with also advanced) but in Respect of God's Communications of himself to the Soul it self, the proper Vessel of Glory. I may safely say of this Difference what the Apostle in comparing the Estate of the Law and Gospel doth; 2 Cor. 3. 10. That which is made glorious, in this separate Estate, hath no Glory in Respect of that which excelleth at, and after the Day of Judgment. See M, on Rev. 14. 13.

Now that which hath occasioned this promiscuous or confused way of handling the Blessedness of both Estates (as in Respect to the Soul) as if they were one and the same hath been this, that the Scriptures utter the Happiness of each Estate in many Things, under one, and the same Expressions, as common to both; and therefore it is inferr'd from thence, that the Thing it self is but one and the same, without any such excessive Disproportion to be found between them, especially seeing that in that State after the Day of Judgment, there is but only an Addition of Glory to our Bodies then Conjoined, but that of the Soul is one and the same in both States. As for Instance, 'tis said, that the State of separate Souls is a being with Christ, which (as Paul says) is best of all, and what is there said more of that State after the Day of Judgment? The Place also wherein the Souls are afore the Day of Judgment is said to be the Heavens, and the same is said of the Place after that Day: And therefore it would seem, that there should not be any such Difference between the one and the other. This is a common Apprehension and Inference there from. I shall endeavour to contribute some Things in General unto the clearing of these confused Entanglements, about this Matter by these Three Assertions, or Conclusions.

1. That indeed the same Expressions are used of the Blessedness of the Soul in both Conditions, yet,

2. That these Expressions must still be understood with a vast Difference, and Disproportion. Which

3. I shall confirm from this, that the very same Expressions are used in Scripture of extraordinary Communions with God and Christ in this Life, that are used of the State of Souls, either separate afore, or after the Day of Judgment: Between which yet, and that in Heaven all do acknowledge a vast Difference. And the Inference from all will be, that notwithstanding the same Expressions of these Two States in Glory: Yet a great and exceeding Difference may be found between them.

1. The same Expressions indeed are used of both States.

1. Both are called a Crown, which is given to that state of Souls immediately after Death; Rev. 2. 10. Fear none of those Things which thou shalt suffer: Behold, the Devil shall cast some of you into Prison, that ye may be tried, and ye shall have Tribulation Ten Days: Be thou faithful unto Death, and I will give

give thee a Crown of Life: And yet a new Crown shall be set upon our Heads at the latter Day, 2 Tim. 4. 8. 1 Pet. 5. 4. 2 Tim. 1. 18. All which Places refer to our crowning at the latter Day.

2. Both States are a being present with Christ. The Condition of the Soul when absent from the Body (2 Cor. 5. 8.) is said to be present with the Lord, and to be with Christ which is best of all, Phil. 1. 2. In like Manner of that
1 Thess. 4. 17. State after the Day of Judgment it is said, We shall ever be with the Lord. That Expression also in John 17. is spoken of both States, That they may be with me (says Christ) where I am, that they may behold the Glory which thou hast given me.

3. Both are termed the sight of God and Christ. That State after the latter Day is so call'd, 1 John 3. 2. Beloved, now we are the Sons of God, and it doth not yet appear, what we shall be: But we know, that when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is. When he shall appear, namely at the latter Day: And he speaks it as if we had never seen him afore, and as if then only we began to see him, and then also only began to be like him. And therefore a late Writer doth boldly restrain that sight, (1 Cor. 13. 12. For now we see through a Glass darkly, but then Face to Face; now I know in Part, but then shall I know even as also I am known) unto that of the latter Day for this Reason, that Paul there not expressing whither he spake of the Resurrection of the State in the mean Time; therefore John here determines it, and confines that also spoken by Paul unto our seeing him at the latter Day. But it is certain, that our Souls shall see him afore, 2 Cor. 5. 6, 7. Then it is, when we are in the Body, that we walk by Faith, and not by Sight: But when absent from the Body, we are so present with the Lord, as we walk by Sight; as the Opposition of Sight unto Faith there shews.

2. I now come to shew, That though the same Expressions are used, yet we are to understand the latter State of the Soul after the Resurrection as still exceeding the former, with a vast Difference, and disproportion, which will much reconcile Scripture, and dissolve Doubts about this Doctrine; the Assertion is made out many Ways.

1. All the Saints are in the mean while presented as Expectants, and so to have their Eyes fixed on the last Day, as if they over-look't this middle State between. And yet this Interim of the Souls Blessedness is a Part of their Eternity, 2 Cor. 5. 1. Luke 16. 9. Where in both Places that Eternal House, and those Eternal Habitations, are spoken of the separate Souls Condition. Thus in the Old Testament, David's Expectation was, Psalm 17. 15. When I awake (that is at the Resurrection) I shall be satisfied with his Image. And thus Job also speaks, Job 19. 23, 24, 25, 26. And again, in the New Testament the Character of a Believer is, a Person waiting for the coming of the Lord Jesus. Thus the Corinthinians are describ'd, 1 Cor. 1. 7. Thus the Thessalonians are decypher'd, 1 Thess. 1. 10. It was Christ's coming, that their Hope fixed, and Terminated on.

2. Yea, the separate Souls that are in Heaven wait for it (Rev. 6.) and are comforted with this, that they shall stay, but till the Number of Gods Elects is fulfilled. That Place also in Job 14. 14. (If a Man Die, shall he live again? All the Days of my appointed Time will I wait, till my Change come.) Ainsworth in his Book entitled Communion of Saints, Interprets of the Souls waiting after Death, till that great Change shall be at the Resurrection; of which Change it is elsewhere said, That he shall Change our vile Bodies, like unto his glorious Body, Phil. 3. 21. and 1 Cor. 15. 51. It was that which the Eye of Job's Soul was then, and should all along the Time of his lying in the Grave, be fix'd upon.

3. Yea, Christ's Hope whilst his Body lay in the Grave, (although his Soul was in Paradise) was fixed on the Glory after his Resurrection, Psalm 16. 9, 10, 11. Therefore my Heart is glad, and my Glory rejoiceth: My Flesh also shall rest in Hope. For thou wilt not leave my Soul in Hell, neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see Corruption.

4. Yea,

4. Yea, the whole Creation is brought in as waiting together with us, Rom. 8. 19, 23. For the earneſt Expectation of the Creature, waiteth for the Manifeſtation of the Sons of God. And not only they, but our ſelves alſo which have the firſt Fruits of the Spirit, even we our ſelves groan within our ſelves, waiting for the Adoption, to wit, the Redemption of our Bodies. The Apoſtle here holds up that Glory which is that Day to be beſtowed, as the great Glory indeed; in the fore-view of which it was, that thoſe Primitive Saints reckoned not the Sufferings of this preſent Time, worthy to be compared with the Glory then to be revealed, (ver. 18.) namely, at the Redemption of our Bodies ſpoken of ver. 23.

5. The Reward of the Saints is ſo ſpoken of, as if not any at all were given, until that Day, ſo 2 Tim. 4. 8. Henceforth there is laid up for me a Crown of Righteouſneſs, which the Lord the righteous Judge ſhall give me at that Day: And not to me only, but unto all them alſo that Love his appearing: Which is alſo called Chriſt his Day, or the Day of the Lord Jeſus (1 Cor. 1. 8. 5. 5. 2 Cor. 1. 14. Phil. 1. 6. Chap. 2. 16.) the Day of Redemption (Epheſ. 4. 30.) and κατ' ἐξοχὴν that Day (1 Theſſ. 5. 4. 2 Theſſ. 1. 10. 2 Tim 1. 12, 18.) and the Day unto which our Reward is referred, as in thoſe Places, is withal held forth; and in like Manner Peter alſo ſpeaks (1. Epiſt. 1. Chap. ver. 4.) that their Life of Hope lies in Expectation of an Inheritance reſerved in Heaven for them, ready to be revealed in the laſt Times.

6. The Puniſhments of Wicked Men in Hell, as well as this Glory to be revealed are both one, and the other alike ſpoken of as then only, and not afore to begin. 2 Theſſ. 1. 8, 9, 10. In flaming Fire, taking Vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the Goſpel of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, &c. And this is ſpoken of that Time, When the Lord Jeſus ſhall be revealed from Heaven with his mighty Angels, which is at that Day. And the Spirits of Wicked Men are ſaid to be in Priſon (1 Pet. 3. 19.) and tormented (Luke 16. 25.) and the Soul is ſaid to be killed and caſt into Hell after the Body is killed, as well as Soul and Body at the latter Day; Luke 12. 4, 5. That which is inferr'd from hence at leaſt is, that there is a ſuperexcelling weight of Glory then to be revealed, and communicated, which is hid in God till then (as in Col 3. 3. the Apoſtle ſpeaks) even as there was a ſurpaſſing Glory of Things of the Goſpel, that lay hid in God during the Times of the Old Teſtament, as (Epheſ. 3. 9.) and it may raiſe up our Hearts unto an Infinity of Expectation of what this Glory will riſe up to in the End, by what we yet hear, and read, is the Glory of Souls ſeparate afore that Day. As Job ſaith of God, How little do we know of him? So as little can we know, what he can or will do for his Children, and what Entertainments he hath for them in the other Worlds, he who hath an incomprehenſible Power to Effect, and an Eternity of Time before him to perform all in: When we hear of this next State of Souls, and the Glory thereof we cannot Imagine what better Thing there is, or can be yet behind, which ſhall ſo much exceed: And yet there is ſo great an one as this fore-going comes not into Remembrance, as the Prophet ſpeaks.

3. The Third Aſſertion which tends to reconcile theſe Two, is, that the like or ſome Expreſſions are uſed of ſuch ſpecial Manifeſtations of God, and Chriſt, to the Soul, through Faith here on Earth, that are uſed of either of theſe States of Glory. And therefore look as a vaſt Difference is found between ſuch Diſpenſations on Earth, from thoſe in Heaven, ſo why upon the Premiſes may not ſuch a Diſproportion likewiſe be underſtood in an Analogy between thoſe Two States of Glory, under one and the ſame Expreſſions? Eſpecially, if we make up the Parallel, that look as there is a vaſt Difference between thoſe ſpecial Diſpenſations on Earth, and ſuch other as are ordinarily vouchſafed to Faith whilſt we are on Earth, ſo in a Parallel way may in their Spheres the like be found between thoſe Two States. Now the Inſtances that prove the ſame Expreſſions to be uſed of Gods ſpecial Manifeſtations in this Life, that are alſo uſed of the State of Glory, are many.

1. Theſe

Chap. XIII.

1. Theſe Manifeſtations are ſtiled the Sight of God. Thus Job ſpeaking of an extraordinary Manifeſtation of God unto him, Job 42. 5. (And comparing therewith his Experiences in former Times) I have heard of thee by the hearing of the Ear (ſaith he) but now mine Eye ſeeth thee. Thus in like Manner the Prophet ſpeaks, Iſa. 6. 5. Mine Eyes have ſeen the King, the Lord of Hoſts, which Chriſt interprets of ſeeing his own Glory, John 12. Now Job plainly termeth that his own Laſt; and preſent Manifeſtation vouchſafed him, SIGHT, in ſo vaſt a way of Difference from all former ways of Knowledges of God vouchſafed, or whatever fore-gone Diſcoveries had been made unto Faith; that he Terms thoſe but as an hearing of the Ear, as if it were by another Senſe, at leaſt a lower Senſe, but this latter was by Sight. And indeed ſuch Revelations which he thus Terms Sight, are of the higheſt Kind of thoſe vouchſafed in this Life; Having Joy unſpeakable and full of Glory to accompany them, which we yet find denied by the Apoſtle Peter to be SIGHT, in Compariſon of the loweſt State in Heaven (1 Pet. 1. ver. 8.) in thoſe Words, In whom though now you ſee him not, yet believing, you rejoice with Joy unſpeakable and full of Glory. This therefore of Job's and Peter's was indeed but Faith and not Sight in Compariſon to that of the Souls after this Life, of which Peter ſpeaks (ver. 9.) terming the Salvation of their Souls the next End, and Reward of their Faith. Take any Chriſtian that walks by ordinary Faith (which is but as walking in the common Day-light of the Sun, be it overcaſt) and let him be ſet down with Jobs Light, and his Spirit be raiſed up to that Preſence, and Revelation that was made of God to Job: And that Soul will inſtantly ſay, now I ſee God ſo as I never did afore, and yet his former Faith muſt be acknowledged a ſight of God; but this latter to differ as much from the former, as a Man walking in a clear Sun-ſhine Day, that looks full upon the Sun it ſelf, doth differ from his walking in the ordinary Day-light in a dark cloudy Day. Thus far doth Faith thus elevated differ, and tranſcend it ſelf at ſuch Times, and yet at this its higheſt Elevation it is ſtill but Faith, but yet ſo far exceeding that ordinary Converſe with God by Faith, that it is as no Sight in Compariſon thereunto, For Faith at this its higheſt Elevation is but of Things not ſeen, Heb. 11. Why then may it not without Offence be ſaid, that Viſion or Sight of God and Chriſt which we ſhall have at the latter Day, ſhall be ſo far raiſed and elevated above what our Souls enjoied afore; as it will in Compariſon be as if we had never ſeen them: And yet both be juſtly termed (as they are) the Sight of God and Chriſt, utterly differing from that of Faith in this Life: For the Sight is not as in a Glaſs only, as that of Faith is ſaid to be, but Face to Face, each of them, as the Apoſtle ſpeaking at once of the Sights of both thoſe States to come in the other World in Oppoſition to that of Faith, expreſſeth it, 1 Cor. 13. 12. The Sun if it were farther removed up into the Heavens would ſeem but as a Star, and therefore ſome have fancied each Star to be a Sun; though at ſuch a Diſtance they ſeem ſo ſmall to us as they do. Or if one looks through an inverted Optique Glaſs to view the Sun, yet then it appears but as a Star: But turn the other end, and it appears the Sun indeed. Now unto the Souls ſeparate (though in Heaven) Chriſt is but as the Morning Star in Compariſon of what at the latter Day God and Chriſt will appear to be.

Rev. 22. 16.

2. A Second Inſtance, That the ſame Expreſſions are uſed of Communions with God in this Life, that are us'd of thoſe after, is the Phraſe of ſeeing Gods Face, which all acknowledge the higheſt Expreſſion of that Glory, in which the utmoſt of the Bleſſedneſs in Heaven doth conſiſt: Yet even this is attributed to an high Communion with God in this Life. Thus it is ſaid of Jacob, Gen. 32. 30. And Jacob called the Name of that Place Peniel: For (ſays he) I have ſeen God Face to Face. 'Twas ſpoken of an extraordinary drawing near of God to him, and ſo Moſes alſo expreſſeth himſelf, Exod. 33. 11. And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes Face to Face, as a Man ſpeaketh unto his Friend, &c. And yet he ſaw but his Back-parts, ver. 23. And I will take away mine Hand, and thou ſhalt ſee my Back-parts: But my Face ſhall not be ſeen.

3. In

3. In this Life under the Gospel we behold the Glory of God in the Face of Jesus Christ, (2 Cor. 4. 6.) which yet is made the Difference between what is vouchsafed to us in the State of Glory (1 Cor. 13. 12.) and what we see in this Life, and yet again the same is used of the Kingdom of Christ; Rev. 22. 3. In like Manner in that Holy of Holies in the Heavens, where Christ now is, and where we shall be with him after the Day of Judgment, the Sight of God is termed a seeing his Face, and enjoying his Presence. So Christ (Psalm 16. 11.) speaks of it, In thy Presence is Fulness of Joy: And therefore (Heb. 9. 23.) he is said to appear, ad faciem Dei, before the Face of God (so Beza renders it) or in the Presence of God, as our Translation hath it.

4. The Phrase of being with God and Christ, is a like used of strong Communion with God in this Life; and also of that Happiness in both States hereafter. David having his Heart for some time taken up a Morning with strong Fellowship with God says of it (Psalm 139. 18. When I awake, I am still with thee, even in this Life. And of the Souls State in Paradise, the like Expression is used. To Day (says Christ) shalt thou be with me in Paradise: To be with Christ (says the Apostle) is best of all. 'Tis spoken of the State of the Soul after Dissolution. Then again, the same Phrase is also used of the State after the Day of Judgment, 1 Thess. 4 17. Then we shall be for ever with the Lord.

5. The Phrase of Dwelling in God, is a-like used of all States. In this Life we dwell in God, by ordinary Communion, 1 John 4. 15. Whosoever shall confess, that Jesus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God: And in extraordinary Manifestations the Soul dwells in God. John 14. 21. He that keeps my Word, my Father will Love him, and I will Love him, and manifest my self unto him. And (Ver. 23.) We will come to him, and make our abode with him. The same Expression is used of the States of Souls, 2 Cor. 5. 1. We have an House of God, which is interpreted (Rev. 7. 15.) That God shall dwell upon, so it is in the Greek. Finally, and above all after the Day of Judgment, Christ will then give up his present Kingdom to his Father, and God shall be all in all, (2 Cor. 15.) and the Kingdom, he shall then give up, lies in the Dispensation and Communication of himself to the Souls now in Heaven; for during the Time allotted his Kingdom he is as much in Heaven, as in Earth; Mat. 28. 18. And how much this Communication of God, when he is all in all will exceed, what is the Communication of himself to the blessed Saints now, none but God and Christ himself do, or can know.

If further unto these several sorts of Dispensations, through pure Faith vouchsafed to Job and others, serving to illustrate the like Difference in the other World, we shall also add those Visions, and Revelations made unto Stephen and Paul, whilst they were in this Life, it will much Conduce to enhaunce the Disproportion between two States of Glory. For Stephen, to whom the Heavens were opened, saw otherwise then by Faith the Glory of God, and Christ standing at his Right Hand; and yet this sight was but a far of, and but with his Bodily Eyes. Now assuredly, when his Soul was out of that his Body, he had a sight of both Gods Glory and of Christ, that transcended this, which his Soul had, whilst abiding in Flesh and Blood, or indeed was capable of; seeing Flesh and Blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God in that Manner, as when the Soul is uncloathed thereof. Some of the Fathers speaking of the Receptacles of Souls, term them Atria à Longè, but as the Courts or Suburbs of Heaven, and as a far of in Comparison, and those separate Spirits, they stile Souls sub Altare, under the Altar; as signifying, that in that State they do not yet see, nor can see the Glory of God, and Christ at his Right-hand in that Manner, as after the End of the World they shall see them; Whereas of that other State their Expressions are, that they shall be Super Altare, placed above the Altar; yea, in the Holy of Holies (say I) and so behold God and Christ in a nearer Manner.

If this Comparison made of Stephens Sight, which was above the Sight of Faith, and yet below what his Soul after enjoied, be not sufficient to demon-

ſtrate the Difference aforeſaid; then let us climb a ſtep higher. Paul at his Converſion had ſeen Chriſt appearing in his Glory (Acts 9.) as Stephen had done; and yet his Soul was preferred to an higher Sight, whilſt he was wrapt up into the Heavens; and yet during that while alſo he remained, and continued but an Appartenance of this World; an Inmate belonging thereunto, and was to come down and Live here again as formerly: And yet this his Rapture, and Revelations, and Viſions, did far exceed either that of his own vouchſafed him at his firſt Converſion, or that of Stephens: So as his Face ſhining with it he was a Candidate, or rather Inceptor of Glory. And yet ſtill we muſt ſay, that Paul's ſeparate Soul when it was carried into Heaven, and made Perfect, did, and doth to this Hour enjoy that Fruition of God and Chriſt, which all his Viſions amounted not unto: For why? He was not then admitted into the State and Number of the Bleſſed Ones, but only taken up as a Stander by, that over-heard Things unſpeakable; and yet this Viſion infinitely exceeded any Revelation of any Kind or Degree formerly made to his Faith, or afterwards.

I conclude then, if Gods Manifeſtations in this Life admit ſuch variety of Aſcents, as we ſee by all theſe Inſtances they have done; why may not Gods Diſpenſations yet remaining for us in the other World, be framed unto ſo vaſt a Diſproportion, as I have been arguing for?

CHAP. XIV.

A Particular Enumeration of the Glories of that State, into which the ſeparate Soul enters immediately after Death.

THE Revelation being for the moſt Part, the Repreſentation of a long and ſad Story of Martyrdoms and Sufferings of the Church, ending in a glorious Kingdom of Chriſt, God was pleaſed to intermingle ſpecial Comforts ſuited to thoſe Sufferings in the mean while, till that Kingdom ſhall appear. The Deaths and Martyrdoms of Saints are every where up and down related in that Book in ſeveral Ages; as Chap. 2. 3, 10, 13, 19. Chap. 3. 10. Chap. 6. 9, 10, 11. Chap. 11. 7, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 12. 11, 13, 17. Chap. 13. 7, 10, 15. Chap. 14. 12, 13.

2. Our Character of the Primitive Saints (for all the reſt) is in Rev. 12. 11. They loved not their Lives unto the Death: I may ſay, that, as the Apoſtles were ſet forth unto Death Laſt; ſo theſe Chriſtians firſt, not in Time only, but for Eminency. Saints have more Cauſe to prize their Lives for the opportunity of ſerving God in this Life then other Men: Yet that Part of Life, they might have lived until natural Death, and therein have done Service unto God, they valued not; thoſe that were Young did not value it, but gave it up.

Now obſerve we his Method of Comforts for them, and all the Saints from Firſt to Laſt, and all along.

1. In the very Prologue to that Body of Prophecy that follows (Chap. 5. 10.) e're any Seals were opened, or Trumpets blown, the Repreſentative of the whole Church Comfort themſelves with this, We ſhall Reign on Earth. They look'd at this, as that, which would be the Cloſe and Concluſion, whatever falls out in the mean Time until then. And as anſwering thereunto at the very End, and Cloſe of all we find the Event to correſpond, Rev. 20. 4, 6. Then when all Enemies are deſtroied, and after ſo long a Time in Suffering run out, this Kingdom fore-underſtood by them is then given them. But yet ſtill to ſhew what their Souls ſhould have in the mean Time (for 'twas a long Time unto the Kingdom, eſpecially to thoſe firſt Saints well nigh 2000 Years) Chriſt takes ſpecial Care to inſert in this Book, what the State of their Souls after Death ſhould be till then, and he doth it ſet by, and at large upon Two eminent Occaſions. There were Two eminent Times of Sufferings, and Ranks of Sufferers. 1. Thoſe under Heatheniſh Rome, till Chriſtianity overcame the Red Dragon. 2. From Antichriſt, or Chriſtian Rome, The Beaſt. Now obſerve, Chap. XIV.

1. That in the midſt of, or rather againſt the Time of the greateſt Perſecutions under Heatheniſh Rome, Chriſt to comfort them all tells them, what Glory he would in the mean Time give their Souls, Rev. 6. 9, 10, 11. And when he had opened the fifth Seal, I ſaw under the Altar the Souls of them that were ſlain for the Word of God, and for the Teſtimony which they held: And they cried with a loud Voice, ſaying, How long, O Lord, Holy and True, doſt thou not judge and avenge our Blood on them that dwell on the Earth? And White Robes were given unto every one of them, and it was ſaid unto them, that they ſhould reſt yet for a little Seaſon until their Fellow-ſervants alſo, and their Brethren that ſhould be killed, as they were ſhould be fulfilled. This is ſpoken, but to the firſt Rank of Sufferers, the firſt Fruits of Sufferers by Heatheniſh Rome; and that now under the fifth Seal, at the laſt and greateſt of their Sufferings in Dioclеſian's Time. He choſe there to inſert it, though it was intended for all that ſuffered afore alſo, as thoſe Words ſhew, O Lord, how long? They had Brethren you ſee to come, they had another Company that were to ſuffer under another Power Antichriſtian Rome; Rev. 13. 10. He that leadeth into Captivity ſhall go into Captivity, he that killed with the Sword muſt be killed with the Sword, here is the Patience, and the Faith of the Saints. Lo God who ſpeaks once and twice, ſpeaks a ſecond Time in ſpecial to thoſe, as he had done to thoſe other, and that upon the Occaſion of a moſt eminent and general Suffering by that Beaſt; Rev. 14. 12, 13. Here is the Patience of the Saints; here are they that keep the Commandments of God, and the Faith of Jeſus: And I heard a Voice from Heaven, ſaying unto me write, Bleſſed are the Dead which die in the Lord, from henceforth; yea, ſaith the Spirit, that they may reſt from their Labours, and their Works do follow them.

Wherein, 1. Obſerve the Juncture of Time wherein 'tis ſpoken; and to this Purpoſe take Notice, that this 14th Chapter deſcribes that Company which Chriſt had had all along Antichriſts Reign, ver. 1, 2, &c. (as the 13th Chapter had done Antichriſts Adherents) and the 14th Chapter deſcribes alſo the ſeveral Progreſſes of the Goſpel by Three Degrees, and when it came to the Third Degree (ver. 9.) that Profeſſors enlightned by the Goſpel began boldly and with a loud Voice to challenge that Beaſt of Rome to be the Beaſt or Antichriſt, and that they would all be damned (ver. 10.) if they entertained not the Goſpel, which was done by Luther, &c. Then aroſe the greateſt Perſecution that ever had been afore. The Time hereof laſted long between Luthers firſt Preaching and the Reformation, or quiet Harveſt by Supream Authority crowned, which follows; ver. 14, 15, 16. And I looked, and behold a white Cloud, and upon the Cloud one ſate like unto the Son of Man, having on his Head a golden Crown, and in his Hand a ſharp Sickle: And another Angel came out of the Temple, crying with a loud Voice to him that ſate on the Cloud, thruſt in thy Sickle and reap, for the Time is come for thee to reap, for the Harveſt of the Earth is ripe. And he that ſate on the Throne thruſt in his Sickle on the Earth, and the Earth was reaped; it was a great Time of Sufferings. Thus Twice God ſpake it, and that a-part unto each.

Then 3. At the 20. Chap. he ſpeaks at once to both, when all Sufferings were over, and Comforts them with the coming in of that Kingdom or new Hieruſalem, which they had rejoiced ſo to think of afore-hand at the firſt, when it was as then almoſt 2000 Years off.

1. The firſt ſort is Thoſe that had been Beheaded for the Witneſs of Jeſus and the Word of God, thoſe who were the Primitive Sufferers, Witneſs that Jeſus was their Lord, and King, and Saviour, and that themſelves were Chriſtians, that was their Teſtimony.

Chap. XIV.

2. Another ſort is thoſe, which had not Worſhipped the Beaſt, neither his Image, neither had received his Mark upon their Foreheads, or in their Hands.

And, 3. The firſt Promiſe made Chap. 5. is Propheſied of, to be fulfilled, They lived and reigned with Chriſt a Thouſand Years, and had the Honour of being Prieſts and Kings, which from the firſt was ſaid of them. Chap. 1. ver. 6. And hath made us Kings and Prieſts unto God and his Father.

Let me add this, I take it: The Promiſes unto the overcomers at the cloſe of every Epiſtle, to the Seven Churches are for the moſt Part, if not all of them, made concerning the Bleſſed State of the Souls of Saints in Heaven, and in Chriſt's Kingdom afore the Day of Judgment; which I ſhall now deſcribe to you, from Particular Inſtances concerning the State of a Believers Soul departed, Collected for the moſt Part out of the Book of the Revelation.

Having by theſe Generals made my way. I come to the Particulars, that any way concern, or that are Ingredient into, the Glory of Souls ſeparate.

1. When the Soul goes forth out of the Body at Death, the Second Death hath no Power over it, Rev. 2. 11. He that overcometh ſhall not be hurt of the ſecond Death. This Promiſe is unto one, who hath finiſhed his Courſe with a Victory, which is at Death; and ſo ſtill in the cloſe of all thoſe Epiſtles, it runs to him that overcometh: And in the Verſe afore, (ver. 10.) it is expreſly declared, that that overcoming is at Death, as having been a Conflict until then, Be faithful unto Death, &c. The Promiſe therefore concerns the Soul at, and upon, and ſo after Death, and hence to Comfort them at, and againſt that firſt Death; it is ſaid, that the ſecond Death ſhall not hurt them, namely then: This Negative in view may ſeem but a ſmall Matter to the Expectations of Believers, but it is a great Matter to us as Sinners. For

1. It imports, That the Devil that hath the Power of Death, ſhall not lay an Hand, or ſo much as a Finger touch on them. A Believer doth then after Chriſts Example, commend his Soul into the Hands of God, and God as a faithful Creator (1 Pet. 4. 19.) will be ſure to keep them from Satans clutches, when thy Soul goes forth, he ſhall not hurt nor fright thee; for God will give him a Charge, as he did to Laban concerning Jacob. There was a Diſpute indeed between a good Angel and the bad in Jude, what ſhould be done with Moſes Body, but not the leaſt altercating Word paſt about his Soul: And God will cut off all Diſputes about thy Soul alſo, as he did about the Soul of Moſes. God himſelf ſecured that from all Debates, of Angels good or bad about it. Some have underſtood thoſe Words, Deut. 34. 5. (which according to the Hebrew are read, Moſes Died, ad os Domini, at the Mouth of the Lord) with this Paraphraſe (which ſome of the Jewiſh Writers alſo did conceive to be this Sence) Ad oſculum oris Domini, at the Kiſs of the Mouth of the Lord: Even as the neareſt loving Friend (as was the Roman manner) uſeth to take the laſt Breath of his dying Friend into his Body with a Kiſs, that ſo did God ſuck out Moſes Soul into himſelf.

But Believers have a plainer Warrant, and clearer Word of Teſtimony (however that Paraphraſe is elegant) from the Apoſtle, Heb. 2. 14. That Chriſt through Death, having deſtroyed him that hath the Power of Death, that is, the Devil: Hath (thereby) delivered us from the fear of Death (and ſo of the Fear of the Devil at our Death) unto the Fear of which all Men are juſtly Subject, not at Death only, but all their Life Time. But Believers have no Cauſe at all of any ſuch Fear, for that of our Saviour added, may mightily add to our Comfort at that Hour, John 5. 24. Verily, verily, I ſay unto you, he that heareth my Word, and believeth on him that ſent me, hath Everlaſting Life, and ſhall not come into Condemnation: But is paſſed from Death unto Life. This is a great Priviledge for a Man apt to fear, that when his Soul is forth, the Devils may appear about him. But do not fear, Hands off, ſays Chriſt. Thou carrieſt a Paſs-port and ſafe Conduct with thee Signed and Sealed, and if thou need not fear the ſecond Death, thou needeſt not fear the Devil, that hath the Power of that Death.

As a Lapide ſays upon Deu. 34. 5.

2. Thy Soul shall have Angels to wait on thee, to take thy Soul when it comes forth, as the Midwife doth the Child, when it comes forth of the Womb. The Angels carried Lazarus Soul into Abraham's Bosom, Luke 16. 22. The Devils take others Souls away. Of Apostates whilst they Live, Christ says, that Men shall take them (John 15.) as the Pharisees did Judas, which is an heavy Judgment: But at Death the Devils take their Souls, Luke 12. 20. This Night they shall require thy Soul. Who are those they? Hell is a Prison, so in Peter, 1 Pet. 5. Luke 12. 58. And the Judge delivers to the Officer, and the Officer casts in Prison. This Officer is the Devil, that hales Souls to that Prison, and therefore Paul says of him, that He hath the Power of Death. Indeed at the Day of Judgment the good Angels (Mat. 25.) are said to throw both Men and Devils to Hell, but until then the Devils are the chief Leaders of Wicked Mens Souls to Hell. Chap. XIV

Now that the good Angels should do this for us at Death, it is for State, and to Grace us, as Kings send some great Noblemen of their Court to attend those (they would Honour) into their great City, and unto Court; and it is by this Christ shews his Value of Us: And as at the latter Day, when the Wedding is to be solemnized he will come himself and fetch us, (John 14. 3. And if I go and prepare a Place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto my self, that where I am there ye may be also) so now at Death. In the mean while he sends his Angels, to bring his espoused unto him.

3. The Soul is in Heaven instantly. 'Twas Three a Clock Afternoon, when Christ Died, and about after Six the Day ended; and the Even of the Passeover the next Day began soon after, as the Jewish scruple shews, about the Thieves hanging on the Cross any Part of that Day to come; for which they brake their Legs to dispatch them afore the Evening, which was the beginning of that next Day; as you read, John 19. 31, 32. And Christ knowing what would fall, and that they should Die afore that Evening of that next Day began; spake unto the good Thief on this wise. This Day thou shalt be with me in Paradise: That is afore Night comes. Heaven is ready long since, and reserved for you (1 Pet. 1. 4, 5.) and thy Soul hath been preparing, and making meet for it, and in an Instant it is swallowed up of Life, 2 Cor. 5. 4. And the Angels like the Sun-beams or Flames of Fire are swift of flight, flying swiftly, as the Angel Gabriel said to Daniel, Dan. 9. 21. And hence, as soon as thou beginnest to be Absent from the Body, or ceasest to be at home in the Body, thou art present with the Lord. And if this Body be dissolved Ἔχομεν, we have an House ready prepared, for Christ went to prepare it. John 14. and he hath prepared for every Soul his proper Apartment, Mat. 20. 23.

4. At thy Dying, so far as thou hast been rich in Faith and good Works, thy Heart will be strengthned, both at Death, and thy Passage to Heaven, to lay hold upon Eternal Life: And as thou art just a coming thither, and near to set thy first Foot on that most Holy Ground; thou shalt find a rich Entrance, πλουσίως, or an abundant large Entrance into those Holy Courts. Those Everlasting Doors, the broad Gates of Heaven will be thrown wide open for Thee; for loe here comes an Heir, a rich Heir of Life. 1 Tim. 6. 18, 19.

5. Either at the instant of Death, or in that Passage to Heaven, thy Soul shall be fully purified from Sin, and made perfectly Holy, Heb. 10. 23. The Church in Heaven is said to consist of Angels (whose stile is the Holy Angels) and of the Spirits of Just Men made perfect. These Just Men, whilst Men, and their Souls abiding in their Bodies, were but just imperfectly; though just in Gods Acceptation (as of Job, and others we read) but the Souls of these Men now when separate, are made Perfect; that is, in that sort of Righteousness (their Sanctification) wherein they were deficient afore. To the same Purpose the Apostle speaks, 1 Cor. 13. 9, 10. For we know in Part, and we Prophesie in Part. But when that which is Perfect is come, then that which is in Part shall be done away. It is to be understood of a Comparison between the State of this Life, which is the Time and Condition wherein we are imperfect, and oppositely to that other State, when this Life is ended. Now we know but in Part, and Prophesie in Part: And there is the like Reason of Holiness, Habebitis Liberum et apertum ingressum, Gerard in verba.

lineſs; we are Holy but in Part. And that it is after this Life ended, that that which is perfect doth begin, is evident from theſe Words, when that which is Perfect comes, that which is imperfect is done away, and é contra, when that which is in Part is done away, then that which is Perfect comes. Now at, and upon Death, it is that Knowledge and Propheſying are done away, and therefore then it is that Perfection begins; and although that way of Knowledge or Faith, which now we have is done wholly away, yet Love (ver. 8.) and ſo Holineſs fails not, but is perfected. And the Reaſon for this is, becauſe God then takes up our Souls into the Preſence of his Glory for us, to know him as we are known, &c. which though it may admit of Degrees; as the Compariſon of that after the Day of Judgment ſhews; yet it is for the kind of it a being admitted unto the Glory of God; and not to know as in a Glaſs, but Face to Face. Now though the Knowledge of God as imperfectly revealed in the way of Faith, may conſiſt with an anſwerable imperfect Holineſs, (as here it doth) yet the Communication and Revelation of the Glory of God it ſelf unto Sight; cannot conſiſt with imperfect Holineſs: For if ſo, then it would be with a mixture of Sin remaining; which God who is a conſuming Fire to all Sin, and every Degree thereof, will not, and cannot bear; and the Soul it ſelf would have more Torment then Happineſs in ſuch a ſight. Moſes could not ſee Gods Face and Live, but when he was made Perfect he might. David ſays, I will behold thy Face in Righteouſneſs, Pſalm 17. 15. which otherwiſe he could not behold. The Subſtance of this Reaſon we find in Jude 24. Now to him that is able to keep you from falling, that is, into any groſſer Evil (for he ſpeaks that of his keeping us in the midſt of indwelling Corruptions in this Life) And to preſent you faultleſs before the Preſence of his Glory with exceeding Joy. This is when this Life is ended, and immediately ſucceeds the former; for there is no keeping us from falling in that other World; for the Danger of ſinning is over: But then we being to be admitted to the Preſence of his Glory muſt be found faultleſs, for that Preſence of his Glory can endure no Spot, or Imperfection in our Grace, no not the leaſt. That the Souls of Saints are preſent with the Lord, the Apoſtle often tells us, 2 Cor. 5. 8. and that we are admitted to the Preſence of his Glory, that Inſtance of Stephen ſhews, That Stephen when dying ſaw his Glory, Acts 7. 55. and ver. 59. He died crying, Lord Jeſus receive my Spirit; that is, in reſpect unto a being received unto that Preſence of his Glory, it was that our dying Stephen when his Soul was now departing, cries, Lord Jeſus receive my Spirit; now unto what it is that Chriſt receives our Souls that (Rom. 15. 7.) informs us, As Chriſt (ſays he) hath received us unto the Glory of God. There indeed 'tis ſpoken of his having received us into the right of that Glory in this Life; but this new receiving us at Death is, and muſt therefore be his receiving us unto the Poſſeſſion of it, which in this Life we have not, and otherwiſe there were no new Act of receiving, nor Addition to the former, now when we come to Die.

If any Doubt or Scruple ariſeth in thee from hence, that thou findeſt at preſent an Infinite Depth of Sin, Luſts, and Corruptions, and the greater Part of thy Heart, like that of the Earth over-flown with that Sea. If thou art troubled, that thou haſt had Experience of ſo ſlow a Proceedure, and of ſo difficult a winning Ground upon them for many Years; though thou haſt by Faith been continually applying Chriſts Death to them. And if hereupon thou art ready to ſay, how then ſhall I hope and believe, that in an inſtant all thoſe Corruptions will be purged out, and Holineſs perfected in me? For Anſwer: Conſider,

1. That in this Work thy Soul is meerly Paſſive; whereas in working out of Corruptions whilſt thon liveſt here, God goes the Pace of thine own Faith and Endeavours, and attempers his Work thereto, Rom. 8. 13. If you through the Spirit mortifie the Deeds of the Fleſh. But in this laſt compleating and filling up of Holineſs, God doth that alone upon thee, as a Reward of thy former imperfect Endeavours, and as a part indeed, or rather Foundation of glorifying of thee; and therefore look as in believing thou art Paſſive, ſo in this.

2. 'Tis

2. 'Tis a new State and Condition, that thou art at Death entring into, differing from Faith. Thy Enjoyment of God after Death is to be by Sight, and accordingly thy Soul must be disposed for it, which it cannot be but by perfect Holiness; and therefore the like Time, and Pauses to work out Corruption, as were during the Life of Faith, are not to be expected. God suits the Dispensation answerable unto the State and Condition he puts us into.

3. You may help your Faith in this, by considering the great Change, which at the latter Day shall be in a Moment wrought upon the Bodies of the Saints, by him, who shall Change our vile Bodies to be like unto his glorious Body, through his Power by which he subdueth all Things to himself: The Bodies of these Saints, that are then alive, shall in the twinkling of an Eye be changed, and of Mortal be made Immortal, and of natural Bodies spiritual; and the Bodies of them in the Grave (that not stink only, but are rotted there) and the Atomes and Dust of many of them scattered, and dispersed) in an instant God will Work that great Change, which the Apostle so much celebrates, 1 Cor. 15. And why shouldst thou not believe the same for thy Soul? Especially, seeing thou hast had Experience of so great a Change wrought in thee in thy Regeneration, from the State and Power of Sin that once held thee, which was a far greater Change then this, being but of Degrees of Holiness; but that was a Change from a total State of Sin, and the Power of it, unto Holiness, though imperfect.

6. There is a great Solemnity used upon the Souls arrival, and first coming thither. I shall take my first rise from that 24th of Jude: Now unto him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the Presence of his Glory with exceeding Joy. There are Two Words, that import thus much. 1. A presenting to himself afore the Presence of his Glory. 2. A doing this with exceeding Joy or Triumph.

1. That latter of exceeding Joy is a Joy on all Hands, both on the Souls Part, which now first enters into Joy, and which to be sure hath good Cause to rejoice. The believing Soul rejoiced, when it saw not Christ, but only believ'd on him; and it rejoic'd with a Joy unspeakable, much more now then, when it sees him. There is Joy also of the glorified Saints, especially of those, that knew thee, and were there afore thee, who are therefore said to receive us when we Die, into their Eternal Habitations; Luke 16. and 9. Its spoken after the Manner of Men, as Friends use to entertain and welcome Strangers formerly known to them, that come from far, though they belonging to the same Country themselves were in afore them. And if there be Joy in Heaven at the Conversion of a Sinner among the Angels, as Christ says, then there is Joy at the new coming of such a Soul to Heaven, especially among those Angels, that bring them thither, and among those other Saints fore-mentioned. But above all, there is Joy in the Heart of God and Christ. For if there be Joy in thine own Heart, and in the Angels and Saints, much more in Christs Heart; for Christ hath the great Purchase of his Blood now come home, and his long expected venture is now arrived Safe and Past all Danger. And there is the same Joy in the Heart of God, who chose Thee, and had set his Heart upon thee from Everlasting, and thou comest home to himself, having been sent for by him; when thou hadst been long Absent from him, and wandering in a sinful miserable World. Did the Father of the Prodigal rejoice, and make a Feast, and justifie by this, that it was meet, he should make Merry and be Glad, because he, that was lost is found (Luke 15.) then meet it is also in its Proportion, that there should be the like Joy, when a Soul, that hath been Absent from God his Father and his Fathers House (John 14. 1, 2.) so many Years, and during all that space in great Danger of having been lost through manifold Temptations and Hazards, and which had been all along so miraculously kept, and preserved in Christ (as is said in the first Verse of this our Jude) it is very meet that when he first arrives, and appears in the Presence of his Father, there should likewise be great rejoicing, and there is great Cause for it, and indeed the same Reason is for this, as was for the other. And truly, whosoever will consider each Word used here, as 1. Presented to him- himſelf, (now ſo as not afore) and, 2. But now firſt made perfectly unblameable and faultleſs, and now new come into God's Preſence as not afore; may eaſily diſcern, that ſuch a Thing as this (though ſpoken thus after the Uſe and Manner of Men) ſhould be intended in this exceeding Joy.

As alſo it is evident, that it is intended of this firſt appearing of ſuch ſeparate Souls afore the Preſence of God, which begins after this Life ended upon Diſſolution. For at the firſt appearing in any ones Preſence that Love us among Men, there uſeth ſuch exceeding Joy to follow and accompany it. Beſides, that this Joy referrs to their having eſcaped, and paſt through ſo many Rocks and Hazards, which other Souls had Ship-wrack'd upon, as the whole fore-gone Scope of that Epiſtle had ſhewn, and thereby is to be underſtood in the firſt Place of that firſt Admiſſion into Gods Preſence, as alſo that this Time is the firſt when we are made compleatly Faultleſs, Ἄμωμοι, that Devils, nor Angels, cannot find any Matter of Blame, nor any ſuch Thing, no not the leaſt.

The firſt Word (that imports Solemnity) is, that 'tis ſaid, God preſenteth them unto himſelf, as Chriſt elſewhere is ſaid to preſent us unto God. The Greek Word ἵστημι here uſed ſignifies both to Make, and to Eſtabliſh, and ſo underſtood, it Imports God's making, or eſtabliſhing us in perfect Holineſs afore his Preſence. It alſo ſignifies to make Preſent, or to ſet before ones Preſence. And farther, if we compare this with other like Scriptures, it will prove in Senſe and Scope the ſame παριστημι; for we find Epheſ. 5. 26. that Word in like Manner ſpoken of Chriſt, That he might preſent it to himſelf a glorious Church, not having ſpot or wrinkle, or any ſuch Thing, but that it ſhould be holy and without blemiſh. And that faultleſsneſs, there is eſpecially ſpoken of Sanctification, as by the Verſe afore appears, that he might ſanctifie it, &c. So when he preſents it perfectly ſanctified to himſelf, as being her Husband, and ſhe his Spouſe; he is likewiſe ſaid to preſent us to his Father, in whoſe Sight and Preſence we are to appear; Coloſ. 1. 22. To preſent you holy and unblameable, and unreproveable in his Sight, &c. In his Sight, there is meant of the Father, and the Word preſent in thoſe Places is a Word of Solemnity uſed of preſenting the Male Children unto God (and accordingly 'tis ſpoken of Chriſt when preſented in the Temple, Luke 2. 22.) or of a Spouſe unto an Husband when firſt brought into his Preſence, as of Eve 'tis ſaid (Gen. 2. 22.) God brought Her to Adam as his Wife. So then God the Father here, when he hath compleatly rendred and made us perfectly Holy, preſents us to himſelf as his choſen Children, according to Eph. 1. 4, 5. He hath choſen us to be Holy, and without blame afore him in Love, Ver. 4. And hath predeſtinated us unto the Adoption of Children to himſelf, Ver. 5. And we being now at Death accordingly made perfectly Holy, and without Blame, he then preſents us to himſelf (ſaith Jude here) and Jeſus Chriſt, when any Soul his Spouſe being made without wrinkle, and now cometh firſt ſo unto him, preſents it to himſelf and to his Father, as his Spouſe and his Child; and he doth this by the ſame Reaſon, as when the whole Church ſhall come together, being become without fault, ſpot, or wrinkle, or any ſuch Thing (as at the latter Day, he then will preſent her to himſelf, and ſolemnly to his Father: Though that is done with infinitely greater Solemnity, when it is of the whole Church, as the Apoſtle (Eph. 5. 27.) tells us: But in the mean Time he doth it to every particular Soul, at firſt Approach into the Preſence of that Glory. The ſame Reaſon in a Proportion holds for this latter as well as the former; ſo it is confirmed by this, that at the Saints Converſion, Chriſt is ſaid to preſent us to his Father, to own and take us as firſt given to him by Chriſt; and he doth this often afterward by Interceſſion.

It was a memorable Speech of an Holy Man, when dying to this Effect; Though I am now (ſaid he) at preſent filled with the Aſſurance of God the Fathers Love, and that he will receive me, yet I ſhould dread to appear afore ſo great a Glory, were not Chriſt there in Heaven to preſent me to him.

CHAP.

CHAP. XV.

Of the Glories of Heaven, and the Happineſs of glorified Saints therein.

ROM. VIII. xviii.

For I reckon, that the Sufferings of this preſent Time are not worthy to be compared with the Glory which ſhall be revealed in us.

MY Deſign is to raiſe up your Hearts to Heaven, and to conſider that great Glory which God hath prepared for them that Love him, to open and deſcribe Heaven, whereof there are many Uſes both to thoſe that are in the State of Nature, and thoſe that are in the State of Grace. There is nothing more powerful to bring Men to Chriſt, nothing more proportionable to a Principle of Self-love: And there is nothing that is a greater Encouragement to the Godly, that they may willingly and with chearfulneſs paſs through the Afflictions of this Life, that they may paſs through the Evil World with their Hearts raiſed up to Heaven. The Apoſtle from the 17th Verſe to the end of this Chapter ſends it in, beating this upon the Hearts of God's People in ſtealing their Hearts, and raiſing them up againſt Tribulations; and among the reſt this is one Incouragement, to conſider the Joy which ſhall not only be revealed to us but in us, which we ſhall be made Partakers of. The Conſideration of Heaven which is ſo little Thought on by us Chriſtians, this I would lay open to you: In the Excellency of which Glory, that we might more clearly behold it, we might look upon many Things, but I will only Name Two.

Firſt, I will conſider it Comparatively, and this the Text leads us unto, For I reckon not the Sufferings, &c. Secondly, Simply as it is in it ſelf.

Firſt of all, To know this great Glory, let us compare it with all other Things, with all the Goods the Creature can afford; with all the Things here below, which our Hearts dote ſo much upon, as Pleaſures, Honours, Riches, Beauty, &c. They are not to be compared to it, it tranſcends all the Glory of this World, all the good Things we are capable of, one Leaf of this Tree of Life, is better then all the Fruits that grow in this World, Rev. 22. Out of the Bowels of this Earth are raiſed Gold, Silver, Pearls, and Precious Stones, which ſerve but for the materials of the Walls of this City and for paving the Streets of it; the moſt glorious Things this World hath, ſerve only for the Gates of the Temple. If the outſide be ſo glorious, conſider how glorious muſt the inſide be, how beautiful muſt it be within? No Creature this World hath, is worthy ſo much as to ſhadow it; all the Creatures be ſwallowed up with this Glory, even as a drop is ſwallowed up with the Ocean. Solomon in all his Royalty, the moſt magnificent, rich, and glorious Prince the World ever had, lived indeed at the beſt Rate, he had the very quinteſſence of all earthly Glory, and Joys, in ſo much that a Queen her ſelf was amazed to ſee his great Glory: Yet let me tell you, this Solomon which is now in Heaven, Ten Thouſand Times exceeds all the Glory and Pomp he had on Earth; I ſay, the Glory he hath now in Heaven excells that Glory he had on Earth, being on his Throne in all his Royalty, even as much as he did then excell himſelf above what he was in his Mothers Womb. We ſee then the good Things of this Life are not worth talking of, they come far ſhort, they are not worthy to be compared with this Glory of Heaven.

In the Second Place, compare this Glory with the Afflictions we ſuffer here, and it doth as the Apoſtle ſaith, weigh them all down, not only the Afflictions which befal one Man but all Men. Take all of them, be they what they will be, and lay them in one Ballance, and Heaven and its Glory in another, and it will weigh them all down, even as a Grain of Sand will be weighed down of the whole World. There is no reckoning to be made of them in Reſpect of Heaven, and yet one of theſe Afflictions will eclipſe all the Good we enjoy here; for if we are afflicted, we take no Pleaſure in all our worldly Contentments: Therefore we ſee that the Afflictions of this preſent Time are not worthy to be compared to the Glory which ſhall be revealed in us.

In the Third Place, To make a further Demonſtration of this to you: There is a Joy which God's People are capable of in this Life; the Joy of the Holy Ghoſt, which is unſpeakable and glorious, one drop of which tranſcends infinitely all the Joy the Creatures can afford us: My Brethren, have you ever heard of this Joy? Have you ever taſted of it? Hath God ever raiſed your Hearts to ſee it and his Glory? If you have but taſted, as the Apoſtle ſaith, How good the Lord is, you ſhall ſay with David, Pſalm 4. Lord lift thou up the Light of thy Countenance upon me. Thou haſt put gladneſs into my Heart more then in the Time when Corn and Wine and Oyl increaſed. This is the Joy which comes freſh from the Fountain: If the Devil himſelf when he transforms himſelf into an Angel of Light affords more Comfort to the Heart of an Hypocrite then the World can do: Why then, how much more doth the Joy of the Holy Ghoſt which comes from the true Fountains, if it be ſhed abroad in your Hearts: And hence it was, that the Martyrs ſuffered ſo willingly, and ran through ſo many Perſecutions, and yet the Glory which is in Heaven, if it be compared to this, infinitely tranſcends it. The Joy which ſhall be revealed ſwallows up all theſe Joys which we have here, even as the Sea ſwallows up Mole-hills; it is nothing in Compariſon of Heaven, it is but as a drop to the Ocean, and yet one drop of this Joy of the Holy Ghoſt is more excellent than Oceans of worldly Comforts. All the Joys of this World is but as a drop to the Ocean, nay the infinite Drops will make a Sea, yet infinite Worlds will not make Heaven; but indeed infinite Drops of this Joy will make Heaven, becauſe it is of the ſame Nature; yet this Joy of the Holy Ghoſt is not comparable to the Joys in Heaven, why? Its but the earneſt of our Inheritance, 2 Cor. 5. 5. Now he that hath wrought us for the ſelf ſame Thing is God, who hath given unto us the earneſt of the Spirit. God doth faſhion and prepare his People here, by ſome ſmall Revenues of their Joys, which ſhall come in hereafter; and all that the Holy Ghoſt makes us Partakers of in this Life, is but as a Six Pence in Reſpect of the whole Payment of Glory, we ſhall have in Heaven, Phil. 1. 14. The Scriptures calls it no more but the ſealing of the Holy Ghoſt, the Earneſt of our Inheritance. Indeed, it is of the ſame Nature with the great ſum of which it is an Earneſt; for you know an Earneſt differs from a Pledge in this, a Pledge is of another Kind, but the Earneſt of the ſame Kind with the Payment. And ſo the Joy of the Holy Ghoſt is of the ſame Kind with that which is laid up for us, but it is but an Earneſt, and there is Difference in the Manner of producing it. Whatſoever we have here as our Earneſt is but from the Light of Faith; we cannot ſee Chriſt from whom we have it, we only believe on him as he is Abſent; we never ſaw him, and yet this Works a Joy unſpeakable and glorious, 1 Pet. 8. Whilſt we apprehend him by Faith, it is but as abſent from him: Therefore we are always Confident, 2 Cor. 5. 6. Knowing that whilſt we are at home in the Body, we are abſent from the Lord. And if we have ſuch Joy in his Abſence, and ſeeing but a ſmall Glimpſe, or cranny of Light coming to us by Faith; if this I ſay, be ſo glorious, what will it then be, when we ſhall ſee him as he is, in which is fulneſs of Joy? By Faith we ſee him but not all, and this cauſeth Joy unſpeakable and glorious, what then to ſee him in Perfection, and have his Preſence in the fulneſs of it; whoſe Preſence in the leaſt Degree of it goeth far beyond all the Sight of him, we have in the higheſt Degree of Faith, yea in all the Degrees of Faith; and yet the leaſt Degree of Faith excells all the Joy the World can give, and therefore do but think with your ſelves what Heaven is.

Compare it with thoſe Joys, and that Glory the Saints that are now in Heaven enjoy, which infinitely tranſcends both the good Things of this World, and the Joy of the Holy Ghoſt, and yet there is a Glory to be revealed after the Day of Judgment that will tranſcend the preſent Joy of the glorified Saints. The leaſt drop of Joy here that comes from the Holy Ghoſt tranſcends the Joy of the World; the Joy the Saints in Heaven now have, as much tranſcends the Joy of the Holy Ghoſt as it doth that of the World, yet after the Day of Judgment, there is a fuller Treaſure of Joy, to be broken up; and therefore let this raiſe up your Hearts to conceive of the exceeding weight of Glory laid up for the Elect; the Saints who are now in Heaven at the Well-head of Comforts, who bathe themſelves in theſe Rivers of Pleaſures they have, and are capable of more Joy than we can conceive of. One Saint in Heaven hath more Glory and Joy in his Heart, than all the Joy that is on Earth, and yet at the latter Day, their Glory will as far tranſcend that they have now, even as it doth ours upon Earth. I may ſay of their Condition as the Apoſtle doth, Heb. 11. 40. God having provided ſome better Things for us, that they without us ſhould not be made perfect. While the Saints are without their Fellows, they are not come to the higheſt Degree of Perfection, Heb. 12. 23. To the general Aſſembly and Church of the firſt Born which are written in Heaven, and to God the Judge of all, and to the Spirits of Juſt Men made Perfect. There is a Perfection to be given them (which they yet have not) when all their fellow Saints, all their fellow Brethren, when the whole Number of the faithful are together, then ſhall a new Treaſure be broken up, 2 Theſſ. 1. 10. Who ſhall come (ſaith the Text, ſpeaking of Chriſt) to be glorified in his Saints, and to be admired of all thoſe that believe. We do uſually admire a Thing when our Expectation is exceeded, now the Angels and the Souls of the glorified Saints in Heaven, have ſeen and enjoyed many glorious Things already, and they look for far more glorious Things, but yet Chriſt will bring forth a Glory at that Day beyond their Expectations; he will not only be admired by wicked Men, but all that believe ſhall admire this, he will then put them to a new Amazement. Let now the Conſideration of this Glory raiſe up your Hearts to ſeek for it, that ſo ſuch an unvaluable and great Price may not paſs out of your Hands, even the exceeding great Riches of Glory laid up for us: Again, ſtand amaz'd at the Love of God, that hath prepared ſuch Glory for you.

Thus much Comparatively, Now Secondly, Let us conſider this heavenly Glory ſimply as it in it ſelf, and becauſe Things are beſt known by their Cauſes we will begin with them.

And firſt of all, I ſhall conſider the Efficient Cauſe of this great Glory, and that is the great God of Heaven and Earth, whoſe Greatneſs and Glory we cannot comprehend, but only by his Works. He is the Efficient Cauſe of Heaven, and all its Glory; he built this great City, and all his Works ſhall be like himſelf. If King Ahaſhuerus make a Feaſt, he will make it like a King; much more the King of Kings will provide for his Servants whom he Feaſts, he made a World, and how glorious is it, but if he make a Heaven, think with your ſelves what a Heaven it will be: The Scriptures (Heb. 11.) commend this to us, comparing the 10th and 16th Verſes together, For he looked, ſaith he, for a City (ſpeaking of Abraham) which hath Foundations, whoſe Builder and Founder is God; and then Verſe 16. God is not aſhamed to be called their God, for he hath built for them a City, mark the Reaſon. In the firſt Place it is ſaid to be a City, whoſe Builder and Founder is God, God is the Artiſt of it, he ſhewed his Art in it: In this building of Heaven God ſhewed himſelf an Artificer: Indeed God hath made other great Works, as the World; but he hath ſhewed no Art upon this in Compariſon of Heaven. The Heavens which we ſee, are but the feeling of this Heaven which God hath prepared for his Saints, and yet they are very glorious, but yet he hath beſtowed no coſt in Compariſon, he hath ſhewed no Art on it in Reſpect of Heaven; he hath beſtowed all his coſt on this, and in making Heaven he ſhewed himſelf an Artificer. And would you know the Reaſon of it? It is becauſe Heaven is his ſtanding Houſe. Kings you know uſe to enrich their ſtanding Houſes, they beſtow more coſt upon them then others. Now this World my Brethren, is not a Houſe that hath Foundation, but it was builded by God as a Stage upon which when Men have acted their Parts, it is to be thrown down; it is ſet up for a few Thouſand Years which are nothing to him, and then he means to pull it down, and he will then burn it: But Heaven is Gods ſtanding Houſe, his Pallace, and therefore conſider what great coſt God hath beſtowed on it. Again, it is ſaid to be a City prepared, Matth. 25. 24. Come ye bleſſed of my Father, inherit the Kingdom prepared for you from the beginning of the World: He ſpeaks as if God had been a great while in making Heaven (God hath been long in contriving it) nay further, ſaith Chriſt, I go to prepare a Place, as if it were ſtill in finiſhing, or as if it were not yet finiſhed. Not but that all Gods Works are Perfect from the beginning, but it is ſpoken after the manner of Men, that we might expect great Glory, for which there is ſuch great Preparation. And (ſaith Chriſt) If it were not ſo, I would have told you: Think what you will think of it, and it will be anſwerable, God will fulfil it. Heaven is a City prepared; if there be but Preparation for a Coronation of an Earthly King a Month or a Quarter of a Year, there are great Things expected, and yet more is ſhewed; but now God hath been always in preparing Heaven, he hath been making of it from the beginning of the World. David laid up Materials for the Temple, and Solomon builded; ſo God prepares Heaven and Chriſt builds it. And therefore conſider with your ſelves, there are great Things to be found, expect what you can and it ſhall be anſwered. And thus you ſee God hath made a Heaven with a Foundation, he hath been long in preparing of it, he ſet up the World in Six Days, but he hath been ſetting up Heaven, as I may ſo ſay, Six Thouſand Years, and therefore let this raiſe up your Hearts to conſider what a weight of Glory God hath laid up for thoſe that Love him.

Secondly, Conſider the meritorious Cauſe of it, which is Chriſt the Lord of Glory. Chriſt Jeſus himſelf hath purchaſed it for us in his Blood, he hath laid the Foundation of it, his Blood was laid out for it; he ſpun this Thred of Glory out of his own Bowels, and therefore we may well argue the greatneſs of this Glory, ſeeing that his Blood hath obtained it; Eph. 1. 18. It is there called the Riches of the Glory of his Inheritance. All the Inheritance that Chriſt hath, he diſtributes unto the Saints: This is ſaid to be a Purchaſed Poſſeſſion; why, now my Brethren think with your ſelves, what ſhall be the Revenues of Glory purchaſed by his Death? Think what a large Poſſeſſion the Blood of Chriſt will procure? Conſider with your ſelves what this will amount to? And this is Heaven, Heaven is the Revenues of Chriſts Blood: Think,

Chap. XV.

Think, I say, what glorious Heaven it must needs be which Christ's Blood hath purchased for us? This is that he aimed at in laying down his Life for us; for Justification, Adoption, and Sanctification, are but the way to Glorification; and we are justified, adopted and sanctified all to this End, that we might be glorified. Consider therefore what Christs Blood will be worth, what the Revenues of it will come to; and therefore what hath been said of Heaven, let it move you, and work upon you. If I should single out any Man present, any particular Man in this Congregation, as our Saviour did the Young Man in the Gospel, and bid him forsake all, and he shall have Treasure in Heaven: This would be a great Offer. Now I single out every Man here present; consider with your selves, you all stand arrested before God, you deserved to be accursed, and to be Eternally so, yet if you will leave all your Iniquities, Repent, and Believe, you shall have Glory in Heaven. Methinks now you should lay hold on this offer, and think no strictness too much, so you could get Heaven. If you were Merchant-like Men, you would not let Heaven, this precious Heaven pass you, you would lay hold on it, and spend all you had to get it; and to be made Partakers of those unvaluable Treasures. Do but think with thy self, thou canst not bid enough for it: 1 Cor. 1. 14. Strive and run, so run that you may attain, and every one that striveth for the Mastery is Temperate in all Things; Now they do it that they may have a corruptible, but we an incorruptible Crown. And if Men be so careful here on Earth to obtain Temporal Preferments, much more then run to get that Preferment which of all other is the Chief, even Everlasting Happiness in Heaven. It is for Heaven an incorruptible Crown, for Heaven that transcends all other Things, and think with your selves how it will trouble you if you come short of your Prize? What a fearful and sorrowful Voice will it be to you, who can express your Anguish, when you hear Heaven and your Crown is parted from you? It was a pittiful saying to Nebuchadnezzar, Thy Kingdom is departed from thee; much more will it then be to any of us, to hear that we have lost Heaven; how will it astonish thee to hear Christ say, Heaven and thy Crown is departed from thee, thou must be turned to Devils for ever, this will be thy Condition to the End? It is our Duty to speak unto you, we can but Exhort you, we can do no more; Matth. 10. 14. If they will not retain it, saith he, shake off the Dust of your Feet as a Testimony against them. If ye look not to your Selves in this Life, this will be the Event of it. Oh how will it fret you to the Heart; what inutterable Perplexities will you be in, when you see others follow Christ to his Glory, and you your selves have that Curse denounced against you, Go you Cursed, &c. Alas then it will be too late to get Heaven: Oh! What Terrour and Amazement, what bitter Anguish to think Heaven came near unto me; it was offered me, and yet because I would not Part with some darling Sin, some beloved Corruption, some base Lust, I have lost my Interest in it; I must not Partake of those Rivers of Pleasures in Heaven. This certainly will be the Issue, except here, whilst you have space, you make sure this Crown to your selves by Faith and Repentance.

I proceed in the Third Place to the exemplary Cause; and the greatness of this Glory appears from this. This exemplary Cause is the Glory of Jesus Christ himself; consider, the great Glory of the Lord of Glory is the neerest Pattern of it, and therefore in Scripture that Glory the Saints shall have in Heaven is said to be like his, we shall be like the Lord of Glory. He is not only made the efficient and meritorious Cause, but also the exemplary Cause of this Glory, and what can be said more then this, we shall be made like to Christ Jesus, who is the Lord of Glory, the Eye of all Things, the First-born of every living Creature, in whom all Excellencies remain, and all fulness dwells; Oh then, what Infinite Glory to be like what Jesus Christ now is? Why, thou shalt be made like to him, John 17. 24. That they may behold my Glory which thou hast given me: But that is not all, though this was sufficient to make us Happy: A Beggar may behold hold the Glory of a King, and be never the Happier for it; nay, be more ſad in his Thoughts, becauſe none of his Glory reflects upon himſelf; but ſaith our Saviour, John 17. 22. The Glory which thou gaveſt me, I have given them, that they may be one, even as we are one; we ſhall wear the ſame kind of Glory which Chriſt wears, and he wears all the Glory both of Heaven and Earth about him at all Times, what kind of Glory ſhall we then wear? We ſhall be made like unto his glorious Body. As we were all born like Adam, ſo we ſhall be made like Chriſt, for we are ſaid to be predeſtinated, to be made conformable to the Image of his Son, ſo that as we were predeſtinated to be made like him in Grace and Sufferings here, ſo likewiſe in Glory. We ſee here but as in a Glaſs the Glory of Chriſt, and yet are changed into the ſame Image from Glory to Glory; 2 Cor. 5. laſt, But we all with open Face beholding as in a Glaſs the Glory of the Lord, are changed into the ſame Image from Glory to Glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord: If we ſeeing him here upon Earth as an Holy and Righteous Man, conceive him to have ſuch Glory in him: Conſider Brethren what that ſhall be when we ſhall ſee him as he is, what a Comfort will that be, when we ſhall ſee him Face to Face in Heaven, and being made Partakers of his Glory, we ſhall be like him, 1 John 3. 2. Behold now we are the Sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we ſhall be, but we know that when he ſhall appear, we ſhall be like him.

In the Fourth Place, Let us conſider both the Object and Subject of this Glory. And Firſt, The Object of this Happineſs is not any other Creature, but God himſelf; no Creature in Heaven and Earth is the Matter of our Happineſs, but God himſelf will be made Happineſs to us; he will not only be the efficient Cauſe, but the material Cauſe of our Happineſs: Gen. 17. He ſums up all in himſelf, I will (ſays he) be an All-ſufficient God unto thee. He Promiſes himſelf, not Heaven ſeparated from himſelf, but he will give us his own Glory; and he doth not only Promiſe us great and glorious Things to be Created by him, but he himſelf will be our Heaven; Pſalm 73. Whom have I in Heaven but Thee, and there is none that I deſire on Earth, beſides Thee. Mark the Phraſe, indeed there are all other Things here on Earth which we may ſtand in need of; but ſaith David, though I have need of them, yet none of them all I deſire beſides Thee. God alone made David Happy, for indeed God himſelf makes Heaven, though there were neither Saint nor Angel: Indeed they are all there, but we need nothing but God and Chriſt to make us Happy. It is ſaid of the glorious City deſcribed in the Revelation, this glorious City which is indeed the immediate Fore-runner of Heaven, Rev. 21. 23. The City had no need of Sun or Moon to ſhine in it, for (ſaith he) the Glory of God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the Light thereof: Why, my Brethren, though there be many glorious Things in Heaven, though there be the Fruition of the Company of Saints and Angels, yet that is not it which makes us Happy, but God is our Happineſs. Indeed the glorious Societies of the glorified Bodies of Saints is very delectable, and Ten Thouſand Times excells all the Delights of Creatures here below; yet I ſay, we have no need of them to make us Happy: It is but over-plus, God himſelf and Chriſt Jeſus make our Heaven and Happineſs. Think now with your ſelves what Heaven is, are we all able to conſider what it is to have God to be our Happineſs? It is impoſſible for you to conceive it, and for me to expreſs it. I can no more reveal what God will do to you, then this Light can reveal the Light of the Sun, which can be known by no Light but its own. In the firſt Place God contains all Things, all manner of Divine Perfections are bound up in him. The Pleaſures of this Earth are ſcattered here and there, and therefore the Soul goes wandring up and down from one Creature to another, from one Flower to another; becauſe ſome Part of his Happineſs is in one, ſome Part in another; but my Brethren, in God we have all Happineſs ſummed up, and wrapped together, all our Delights are together ther in him; Rev. 21. 7. He that overcomes ſhall inherit all Things, and I will be his God, and he ſhall be my Son: Conſider with your Self that God himſelf can but inherit all Things, and indeed he is all Things; and if we have God for our God, we ſhall inherit all Things; he will be Meat and Drink, Wife, Husband, and whatſoever elſe unto us, he will be all Things to us himſelf; and therefore it is ſaid, 1 Cor. 14. 18. That at the Day of Judgment, when Chriſt ſhall give up the Kingdom, then all Things ſhall be put under him, that God may be all in all; which implies Two Things:

Firſt, That God himſelf will be our Happineſs, he will be Happineſs enough, for he is all in all.

Secondly, That he will be all unto us in a more tranſcendent Manner than the Glory of the Creatures, I may compare theſe Joys of Heaven to thoſe Receipts which contain the very Spirits of Things, the very Life and Quinteſſence of Things extracted out, a little Quantity whereof, as much as will lie on a Knives Point, is of more Vertue and Efficacy to work upon a Mans Body (becauſe they are the Spirits) then a great Quantity of all other Drugs: So now theſe Contentments which God gives are the very Spirits of Comforts which will add more Happineſs, than all the Drugs of worldly Pleaſures can adminiſter unto us. For all the Happineſs that could be had here; nay further, all the Happineſs God could Create to Men as Men here on Earth, are but as one drop to the bottomleſs Ocean of Gods Glory: And yet this falls ſhort, this is too ſcant a Compariſon: For I ſay; Infinite Millions of drops will at length make an Ocean, but Ten Thouſand Millions of the Glories of this World cannot make up one drop of the Glory which is in God. Thus God will be all Things to us, and all Things in a Tranſcendent Manner.

Again, Thirdly, God will pour out himſelf unto us, he will give us Communication with himſelf of this his Infinite Happineſs, he will pour out all his Glory unto us; Epheſ. 3. 19. That ye might be filled with all the fulneſs of God, which will give all Comfort; open thy Mouth wide, he is able to fill it, for one drop of God will fill thee full; he will fill thee with fulneſs, and fulneſs of the beſt Kind: Oh! what ineffable Comfort will this be, when the Veſſels of Mercy ſhall be thrown into this bottomleſs Sea of Glory. Therefore do but think with your ſelves, what a Happineſs this will be, when you ſhall be made Partakers of Gods Glory, of all the Bleſſedneſs that is in God; for although he cannot give us his Glory eſſentially, yet it ſhall as truly ſeem to make us Happy as it doth to make him Glorious.

Fourthly, We ſhall be made one with him, they are Chriſt's own Words, John 17. 21, 22, 23. That they all may be one, as thou O Father, art in me, and I in thee, even that they be alſo one in us, that the World may believe that thou haſt ſent me; and the Glory that thou gaveſt me I have given them, that they may be one as we are one, I in them and thou in me, that they may be made Perfect in one, and that the World may know, that thou haſt ſent me, and haſt loved them as thou haſt loved me. My Brethren, what is it that makes God Happy, but God himſelf, and what is that which makes Chriſt ſo Happy, but that he is equal with God the Father? Now if God make himſelf Happy, how Happy ſhall we be then when we communicate with God in this his Happineſs. To be one with him then muſt needs make us Happy, indeed we cannot be one with him as Chriſt is, for he is the brightneſs of his Glory, the expreſs Image and Character of his Perſon, he is the natural Son of God, and of the ſame Nature with God, but we ſhall be made one with him ſo far as the Creature is capable of, and the next Union to that which God and Chriſt have one with another we ſhall have. And again, being made one with God, we ſhall rejoice in all that God rejoiceth in. That God is ſo glorious a God it ſhall make thee glorious, thou ſhalt have all thoſe Joys by Revenues out of what he now lives in Heaven, thou ſhalt rejoice more in God's Happineſs than in thine own, the more Happineſs riſeth to God, the more riſeth to thee: That which is the Matter of Gods Glory be the Matter of ours; it is the Nature of Love, that it rejoiceth in the Love of the Perſon beloved; John 14. You are my Friends, if you do whatſoever I command you. Our Saviour ſaith alſo to his Diſciples, If ye loved me, you would have rejoiced, becauſe I ſaid, I go to the Father. Now my Brethren, if we ſhall rejoice in the ſame God rejoiceth in, both in that Joy which is intrinſecal within him, and in that Joy which is extrinſecal, whereby he Delights in all his Works and Providence; if both theſe I ſay, ſhall be in us, how glorious ſhall we be? John 15. 11. Chriſt ſaith, Theſe Things have I ſpoken unto you, that my Joy might remain in you, and that your Joy might be full. And this is not to be underſtood of our Saviours Joy, of the Hopes he had of them, but that the Joy which is in Chriſt ſhall be in us, that my Joy, ſaith he, may be in you, Matth. 25. 25. We ſhall enter into our Maſters Joy, Rom. 5. 2. And rejoice in the Hope of the Glory of God, and not only ſo, but we Joy alſo in God, through our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. We ſhall not only rejoice in a created Glory which he ſhall beſtow upon us, but further we ſhall rejoice in Gods own Glory.

USE. Let us therefore take God for our Portion, whatſoever elſe becomes of us, whatſoever befals us; let what will come, what Afflictions, what Throbs, what Miſeries or Croſſes will come, Heaven will make amends for all; God will be better to thee then all: Put them all in one Ballance, and God with that Glory he will beſtow on you in another Ballance, and he will over-weigh them all, for they are not worthy to be compared to this Glory. This was it that made the Martyrs run through ſo many Perſecutions and Tortures and that with chearfulneſs, they took God for their Portions, ſo they had him they cared not what became of their Bodies: For, ſaith Paul, We look not to things which are corruptible, but to Things which are Eternal. And becauſe it is probable; yea, and more then probable, that there are Degrees of Glory in Heaven, that God will Reward every one according to their Works: Do not only Content your ſelves to go to Heaven, but endeavour to ſerve God more, that you may have great Glory in Heaven; be abundant in good Works, hoord up good Works, according to which Glory ſhall be weighed to you in Heaven. Let not Pleaſures hinder thee of the leaſt Degree of Glory, for to have but one Pearl added to thy Crown is more then the whole World: Commit therefore no Sin that might hinder your attaining of Glory, for what though God Pardon thy Sin? Yet thou looſeſt Glory which thou mighteſt have gotten whileſt thou waſt committing the Sin, the leaſt Shred of which Glory tranſcends all the Glory of the World.

5. Now we come to the Subject of this Glory: The Veſſel which ſhall receive this Infinite Maſs of Glory, and that is the Soul, for it is called the Salvation of our Souls; the Soul which will hold ſo much is the Veſſels of this Glory, for the Body ſhall be exceeding glorious, yet the Soul is the receptacle which muſt receive this Glory, Rom. 9. 23. And that he might make known the Riches of his Glory on the Veſſels of Mercy which he had before prepared unto Glory; and St. Peter calleth Chriſt the Salvation of our Souls, the End of your Faith, the Salvation of your Souls: My Brethren your Soul, howſoever you value it, is capable of more Glory than this World can afford, the Pleaſures of which will fill your Soul no more than one drop will fill a Ciſtern, or a little Shower the Place where the Ocean ſtands, Eccleſ. 3. 11. Now it is ſaid, that in this Life God will put a World into the Heart of Man, and yet all that World will not fill it; why, my Brethren your Souls are narrow in this Life, in reſpect of that they ſhall be hereafter, they hold but little in Reſpect of that they ſhall hold in Heaven, they are but little Bladders which there ſhall be blown up, they are but clung Bladders in Reſpect of that they ſhall be in Heaven hereafter, which may appear in this: Solomon had a very large Heart, he had as many Notions in him as the Sands of the Sea-ſhore for Number, and yet the Soul of the leaſt Child in Heaven, happily but new come out of his Mother's Womb exceeds all the Knowledge which Solomon had on Earth: Our Souls are capable of more Joys then the Senſes can give, they are not able to ſatisfie it, it will drink up more Glory even in one Hour, then the Senſes can provide in many Hundred Years, it will drink them all up at one Draught. My Beloved, your Senſes cannot let in the King of Glory, ſuch narrow Gates cannot receive ſuch infinite great Glory, Pſalm 24.

In Heaven the Doors of your Hearts ſhall be opened, and when thoſe Doors are open, even when the Everlaſting Doors of your Hearts are open, they cannot contain this Glory, you muſt be contained in it; Enter, ſaith Chriſt, into thy Maſter's Joy. If the Joy of the Holy Ghoſt in this Life paſs all Underſtanding, and Believing, and we rejoice with Joy unſpeakable, and full of Glory: How much more in the World to come, ſhall our Joys paſs all Underſtanding, when we ſhall have Fruition of God's Preſence, which is Life it ſelf? Your Souls have Two great Gulphs, viz. The Underſtanding and the Will, which muſt and ſhall be ſatisfied.

1. The Underſtanding ſhall be ſatisfied? Now ſaith Solomon, The Eye of the Body is not ſatisfied with ſeeing, it can comprize half the World in it, and if the Eye of the Body be ſo hard to be ſatisfied, much more the Eye of the Soul, and yet in Heaven this ſhall be ſatisfied, this Gulph ſhall be ſatisfied, Pſalm 17. 15. I ſhall be ſatisfied when I awake with thy Likeneſs. He was to lay his Head in the Grave for a while, but he ſhould ariſe when the Heavens ſhall be no more. As Job ſaid, I ſhall ſee him again; ſo David, I ſhall awake, and then I ſhall be ſatisfied with thy Likeneſs. Shew us the Father (ſaith Philip, John 14. 18.) and it ſufficeth us; you will ſay, if you could but ſee God, it would ſuffice, and indeed you may well ſay ſo, for the ſight of God will ſuffice you. Why you ſhall ſee God, John 17. 24. For Chriſt doth deſire this eſpecially, thoſe who are his, to make Happy, to be with him, to behold his Face: Father, I will that they alſo, that thou haſt given me to be with me where I am, that they may behold my Glory which thou haſt given me. So Matth. 5. 8. Bleſſed are the Pure in Heart, for they ſhall ſee God; they ſhall be able to behold him. If the Queen of Sheba, who had ſeen ſo much Glory before, and being a Queen had partaken of ſo much Glory in her ſelf; if ſhe, I ſay, was ſo aſtoniſhed, ſo amazed, that ſhe had no Spirit in Her when ſhe ſaw Solomon's Wiſdom, and his Magnificency in Honour, and Riches: How much more ſhall the Glory of God raviſh us, Part of which we never ſaw, no not the Glimpſe of it. Oh! How wilt thou be amazed with Joy when thou ſhalt ſee his Glory, and ſee him as he is, when we ſhall know as we are known, and God knows us as far as can be; 1 Cor. 13. 12. For now we ſee through a glaſs darkly, but then Face to Face; now we know but in Part, but then we ſhall know even as we are known, all our ſight of him here, it is but as in a Glaſs. Now what a great Difference is it to look upon a Man who is behind us, and to turn our Face and to look truly and ſtedfaſtly upon him? There is infinitely more Difference betwixt that Light we have of God by Faith on Earth, and that Perfect Light of him, and Fruition of his Glory, which we ſhall have in Heaven: Why the Eye of a Mans Body is but a ſmall Thing, and the Apple of it much ſmaller, and yet by the help of this little Sun, the Body is able to take half the World into it at once: How much more ſhall the Eye of our Underſtanding conceive Infinite Joys (paſt our Apprehenſion here) when it hath the Light of God's Glory ſhining about it, Pſalm 36. 8, 9. They ſhall be abundantly ſatisfied with the fulneſs of thy Houſe. And thou ſhalt make them Drink of the Rivers of thy Pleaſures, for with thee is the Fountain of Life, in thy Light ſhall we ſee Light. When as the Son of Glory comes to ſhine about us, we ſhall even draw God into our Souls; and thus you ſee the firſt Gulph ſhall be filled.

Chap. XV.

2. The Second Gulph of Man's Soul is the Will, thou haſt a Will, and amongſt all the Affections of it; Love is moſt comfortable (now that ſhall be fully ſatisfied, we ſhall be ſatisfied with Gods loving Kindneſs, Pſalm 73.) for all other Affections bring Pain with them, but Love is always comfortable (Phil. 2. 1.) If there be any Conſolation of Chriſt, if any Comfort of Love. We Love Things here on Earth that cannot Love us again, as Money, Riches, and the like; how much more ſhall we Love it ſelf? Indeed, as Solomon ſaith, The Love of Friends, is very delectable (Prov. 27. 9.) Ointment and Perfume rejoice the Heart, ſo doth the ſweetneſs of a Mans Friend by hearty Counſel. The ſame teſtifies David in his Lamentation for Jonathan, 2 Sam. 1. 26. I am diſtreſſed for thee my Brother Jonathan, very pleaſant haſt thou been unto me; thy Love to me was wonderful, paſſing the Love of a Woman: But I ſay, though the Love of Friends be great, Jonathan exceeding lovely, yet they are not ſo lovely as God; for it cannot be affirmed of them, that they are Love it ſelf as God is. Oh then! How pleaſant will it be when this vaſt Affection of Love ſhall be ſatisfied? God will come into us and dwell with us, and do but think what a pleaſant Thing it is to have the great God of Heaven and Earth to dwell together with the Creature in Unity, to have him who is Love it ſelf to dwell in us to all Eternity. It is ſaid (1 Pet. 1. 8.) Whom having not ſeen you, in whom though you ſee him not, yet believing you rejoice with Joy unſpeakable and glorious. If that be a Cauſe to make you rejoice ſo unſpeakably, how much more joyful will you be when you enjoy his Preſence, not only to kiſs him through the Lattice, as here we do, enjoy only his Preſence through his Ordinances; but to lie in the Boſom of his Love, to be enfolded in thoſe Everlaſting Arms of his Mercy; to be loved of Love it ſelf, to be made Partaker of all his Goodneſs. And God's Love is free, he loves us without any Cauſe in our ſelves: Why then Brethren, conſider with your ſelves, what is the height, depth, breadth, and length of God's Love, what it is to be filled with all Fulneſs of God (Eph. 3. 8.) Oh what a bottomleſs Sea of God's Love ſhall we be flung into, one drop of which is better then the Gold of Ophir; yea, ſurpaſſeth the whole Earth!

In the Laſt Place, I will endeavour to ſhew the final Cauſe, and demonſtrate the greatneſs of Heaven, by the end why God hath prepared all this Glory, and the Perſons for whom.

1. For whom is it, that God hath been from Everlaſting preparing Glory? Is it not for his Saints? Is it not for his Friend and Spouſe? Is it not for Sion, Heb. 12. But you are come into Mount Sion, and into the City of the Living God, the heavenly Hieruſalem, and to an innumerable Company of Angels, to the general Aſſembly and Church of the Firſt-born, which are written in Heaven, and to God the Judge of all, and to the Spirits of Juſt Men made Perfect, and to Jeſus the Mediator of the New Covenant, and to the Blood of the ſprinkling that ſpeaks better Things then that of Abel. God hath reſerved Heaven for us, Heaven is made for the Feaſting of his Firſt-born, he hath in Heaven all his Children about him, there ſhall be called a general Aſſembly of them, one will not be away. You know Parents beſtow the moſt Coſt when they have their Children all at once together; they reſpect no Coſt, looking at the Joy, which is ſet before them: They have Joy unſpeakable in the Preſence of their Children together, and therefore at Times of rejoicing Men will ſend for their Children home. Now, my Brethren, God will have all his Children home, he will have a general Invitation, the great Congregation of the Elect ſhall be called together. He will have them all home, and therefore he muſt needs make great Proviſion. Conſider what he hath vouchſafed to wicked Men, the Worſt of Men; who run away with the Bleſſings of the World, though they are ſuch as God hath ſet himſelf againſt to hate with an Eternal Hatred? Why then think with your ſelves what he hath prepared for thoſe that Love him, whom with an Everlaſting Love he hath loved in his Son, for his Sons ſake which is as great as himſelf? Certainly to them he will communicate himſelf to the uttermoſt: I ſay, then think with your ſelves what God hath prepared for thoſe that Love him.

Secondly, Conſider the End for which this is, and that is, to manifeſt his own Glory. He truly hath had a great deal of Glory out of this World already; for the Heavens declare the Glory of God, and the Firmament ſheweth his Handy-work. He hath had a great deal of Glory out of this World by juſtifying poor Sinners, and ſanctifying their Hearts, and alſo by Puniſhments inflicted upon wicked Men; but all this is nothing to that Glory he meaneth to have, not comparable to that he will have in Heaven, 2 Theſſ. 3. 10. When he ſhall come to be glorified in his Saints, and be admired of all them that believe. We think wonderful Things of God, and yet all our Thoughts ſhall come far ſhort of the Excellency of his coming, he will come beyond our Expectation, he will come to Purpoſe, to be admired of all them that believe. The Matter of Gods Glory, the Revenues of it muſt come out of you, the chiefeſt of his Glory; as for the Manifeſtation of it, muſt come forth of you, for he will come to be glorified in his Saints, he will then ſhew how glorious a God he is, by Manifeſtation of his Glory. It muſt come forth of that, he will come to be glorified in his Saints; he will then ſhew how glorious a God he is, by manifeſting what glorious Creatures he hath made. It is not a little Glory that will Content God, it is not a little Glory that will Content a King when he meaneth to take State; Rom. 1. He will glorifie himſelf as God, or elſe he would never have begun, he would never have gone about it, unleſs he meant to do it to the utmoſt. And in what doth this his Glory conſiſt? Why, in making us glorious, and the Manifeſtation of his Glory, as he is God, comes from us. It is true indeed, Gods eſſential Glory cannot be added unto us, but the Manifeſtation of his Glory ſhall ariſe to us, we ſhall have it communicatively, as when you ſee the Sun reflect upon the Waters, though you ſee not the Sun it ſelf, yet you ſee as perfect a Manifeſtation of it, as if you ſhould ſee the Sun it ſelf: So likewiſe, though you cannot have Gods Glory eſſentially, yet you ſhall have it perfectly communicated to you, manifeſted in you; 2 Cor. 8. 23. And therefore the Saints are there called, The Glory of Chriſt. Now think with your ſelves, God hath had Infinite vaſt Thoughts of glorifying himſelf; there hath been a Fountain of Thoughts in him for that Cauſe, and that unceaſing Spring which hath run in God from all Eternity muſt needs make a vaſt Sea; and who muſt be the Veſſels that muſt go into this, into whom all this muſt be emptied? Are they not thoſe that Love him, thoſe that he hath loved with an Everlaſting Love? Why then, do but think with your ſelves, how unutterable are the Joys we ſhall have in Heaven.

I would add ſomething more to it, if any Thing more can be added to it; and if I but mention the Properties, they will further add to this Glory and make it abound. I'le Name no more than thoſe we have already laid down to our Hands; 1 Pet. 1. 45. Elect to an Inheritance incorrupted and undefiled, and that fadeth not away, revealed in the laſt Times.

In the firſt Place, It is an Inheritance, the Deed of which runs for ever to Chriſt, and his Heirs. The ſubtileſt Lawyer that is, yea ſuch an one as can almoſt find a Knot in a Bulruſh ſhall not be able to pick the leaſt Hole in your Evidence. It is an Inheritance alſo, to which every one of you ſhall be Heirs, and ſhall have an Everlaſting Poſſeſſion in it. It is not in Heaven, as it is in this World, where the Elder Brother is only Heir, and goes away with the Inheritance, when many times the Younger are Beggars; but in Heaven it is not ſo, for there we ſhall be all Heirs and Coheirs with Chriſt: And the Reaſon of it is, becauſe it is called the Inheritance of the Saints; Col. 2. 12. Giving thanks unto the Father, who hath made us meet to be Partakers of the Inheritance of the Saints in Light. Why my Brethren, now you know Light is ſuch a Thing as is common to all, ſo that if there were Ten Thouſand Times more Men in the World then there is, they might enjoy it; neither doth any Envy at the Light another hath. Now Heaven is an Inheritance of the Sons in Light which we ſhall be Partakers of; and therefore there ſhall be no envying of one anothers Happineſs and Light in Glory. You may be all Heirs; yea, you ſhall be all Heirs, there are no Younger Brethren. Again, alas in this Life the Livings we poſſeſs, and the Inheritance of them paſſeth from one to another, from the Father to the Son; yea, and further, all the Evidence they have will be burnt one Day; they will be made void at the Day of Judgment. The whole World will be burnt and what will become of their Inheritance?

2. But now Secondly, This Inheritance is Eternal, Incorruptible, 1 Cor. 5. 1. For we know, that if this earthly Houſe of our Tabernacle be diſſolved; we have, A building with God not made with Hands, Eternal in the Heavens. An Inheritance, that will be for ever. Why, now think what Eternity is, and think of it again, it will even amaze your Thoughts. Length of Time is that which multiplies our Joys here upon Earth; for to enjoy a Thing many Years is our greateſt Joy, and if we can ſo enjoy it, there lies our Comfort; hence thoſe Words of the rich Man in the Goſpel, Soul take thy reſt, for thou haſt Goods laid up for many Years. What a Happineſs then is it, not only to enjoy an Inheritance many Years, but for ever, to have Goods laid up for ever? What a Mercy is it that they are for ever? The Eternity of them adds to our Joys. It was a rejoicing to David, that God would give him a Kingdom; but more, that he would prepare a Kingdom to his Houſe a great while, 2 Sam. 7. 18, 19. Then went King David and ſate before the Lord and ſaid; Who am I, O Lord God, and what is my Houſe, that thou haſt brought me hitherto? And was this yet a ſmall Thing in thy Sight, Oh Lord God, but thou haſt ſpoken of thy Servants Houſe, for a great while to come. David took it for a great Favour, that God would beſtow a Kingdom upon him, and yet, ſaith he, This was but a ſmall Thing in thy Sight: What was it a ſmall Thing to give a Kingdom? No, but there was another Thing more then a Kingdom, and that was, that his Poſterity ſhould ſit on the Throne for a great while, this made the Mercy the greater. If Heavens Glory ſhould laſt but for a few Days or Years, it were worth more ſeeking after then all the Things of this World. Now we make a great Strife for momentary Trifles in this World, but Heaven ſhall laſt for ever: It hath an Everlaſting Evidence, it ſhall never have an End: The Day thereof is for a long Day, for it is for Eternity, and a Day. Again, David was to Die himſelf and to leave the Glory of his Kingdom to another, yet he took it for a great Favour and Mercy, that it was promiſed to his Houſe for a great while; but now in Heaven we ſhall never Die; we ſhall poſſeſs our Kingdom in our own Perſons to Everlaſting: Whereas the Pleaſures and Riches we enjoy here muſt go to others. The Rich Man in the Goſpel ſings to his Soul: Soul thou haſt Goods in ſtore laid up for many Years; Eat, Drink, and take thy Reſt: But Mark the Anſwer, Thou Fool, this Night ſhall thy Glory be taken from thee. Now in Heaven it is far otherwiſe, we ſhall never be deprived of our Glory; why, let not the leaſt Thought of Jealouſie come into our Minds. For this Place is incorruptible, and not only incorruptible in it ſelf, but alſo in thoſe that enjoy it, we ſhall be ever with the Lord, we ſhall be the Perſons. The Kingdoms of this World were brave Places if they might have no End, the Kings of them exceeding Happy if they might might never Die, but live always: But alas, though they live like Gods, they ſhall Die like Men. Now in Heaven there is no ſuch Thing, there is no Dying nor talk of Dying, but Mortality ſhall be ſwallowed up of Immortality; we ſhall enjoy thoſe inexhauſtible Rivers of Pleaſures to Eternity. Chap. XV.

3. Now we come to the next Property. It is incorruptible and undefiled, 1 Cor. 5. 25. All the Comforts we have in this Life are mixt with Sin, yea with the Impotency of Sin and Miſery; ſo that one ſaith well to this Purpoſe: Though the Joyes of a King be many and greater then others, yet they have as many Sorrows attending upon them as Joys, and if not Croſſes, yet Sin the greateſt Croſs of all, if Men be ſenſible of it: But Heaven is undefiled, there is no Anguiſh, no Grief, no Tears, no Sorrows, but Joys to all Eternity. There ſhall be no vexing Canaanites to trouble you, neither outward nor inward Enemies, Iſa. 35. And the ranſomed of the Lord ſhall return and come to Sion with Songs, and Everlaſting Joy ſhall be upon their Heads: They ſhall obtain Joy and Gladneſs, and Sorrow and Sighing ſhall fly away. Here the of Sin afflicts us, the Puniſhments due unto the ſame affright us, one Man is troubled with a Luſt which he would fain Maſter, another Man cries out with the Apoſtle, O miſerable Man that I am, &c. Qualms come over many Mens Hearts for the guilt of Sin; and how many throes have they before they can get Sin abandoned! Another is vexed with ſome tormenting Malady and grievous Sickneſs in his Body; but in Heaven we ſhall be freed from theſe Sorrows, there ſhall be neither Soul nor Body Sick, Iſa. 33. 24. And they in Heaven ſhall not ſay, I am Sick, the People that dwell therein ſhall be forgiven their Iniquity: There ſhall be no Thought of the Pardon of Sin, for the Inhabitants that dwell therein ſhall be forgiven their Iniquities: That is, thoſe Sins which they have committed in this Life ſhall be forgiven there. There is no Thought of Sin in Heaven, there it ſhall be everlaſtingly Buried in Oblivion.

Object. But you will ſay, this Glory may wither and decay; it may wax Old and Decline.

Anſw. There is no fading in Heaven, for with God there is no variableneſs, no not ſo much as a ſhadow of Changing. The Glory of Kingdoms decay daily, and Monarchies fall; as the Roman Empire, what a glorious Monarchy was it! But now it is come almoſt unto a bare Title. But in Heaven there is no decaying, no failing, there is always a full Spring-Tide without Ebb. That Infinite Maſs of Glory which thou ſhalt receive at the laſt Day, thou ſhalt keep for ever: After as many Millions of Years expired as there are Hairs on thy Head, it ſhall be as bright as it was on the laſt Day, and the Reaſon of it is becauſe of God's Preſence, we ſhall be preſent with him who is the Fountain of Life, whoſe Streams of Glory muſt needs Iſſue to Eternity, For at his Right Hand is fulneſs of Joy, and Rivers of Pleaſure flow from him for evermore: So long as God fades not, Heaven will never fade: When God himſelf fades, when that Fountain can be dried up, then thoſe Rivers of Pleaſures ſhall ceaſe flowing, but that is impoſſible, for he is the Well of Life. What is the Reaſon that precious Stones decay not, but that there is no Droſs or Corruption in them? As the Diamond being pure in it ſelf fades not away, but always keeps a Luſtre and Splendour in it, whereas other baſe Stones that have Droſs in them ſoon Decay and Moulder away. In like Manner, though this World have Droſs in it, and by Reaſon of that periſheth, yet in Heaven there is no Droſs of Sin or Corruption, and therefore it cannot fade.

Why now you will ſay again, grant all this you have ſaid before, yet I doubt I may be bereaved of it: It may be taken away from me by Violence, for Kingdoms in this Life are taken away, and Kings are deprived of their Dignities.

Chap. XV.

Dignities. But there is no fear of this in Heaven, it is kept for you ſure enough, no Moths of Corruption to make you Sin, no Violence of Satans Temptations to make you fall: For though the Devil and Sin crept into Paradiſe, yet neither of them ſhall come into Heaven; (Matth. 6. 20.) Lay up Treaſures for your ſelves in Heaven, where neither Moth nor Ruſt doth corrupt, nor Thieves break in and ſteal.

But you will ſay again, if I could once get thither, I had no cauſe to fear, I ſhould never fall if I were once in Heaven; but I fear the Vileneſs of my own Heart, I fear I ſhall be defiled with my Corruptions and by Satan: And as David ſaid, I ſhall one Day periſh by the Hand of Saul; I am afraid I may periſh hereafter, though I now be in the State of Grace, I may fall, and never come thither.

But look further, it is ſaid, It is reſerved for you who are kept by the Power of God to Salvation; you are kept for it, Chriſt hath reſerved it for you, who ſaith further, Of thoſe which thou haſt given me, I have not loſt one. If all the Power of the Creator lie for it, you ſhall not loſe it: But it doth, therefore you ſhall not loſe it. And Laſtly, Thou ſhalt not ſtay long for it, thou ſhalt not be a Probationer, but till thy Death at the fartheſt; it is laid up ready for thee, a Crown of Glory waites and ſtaies for thee. But now all theſe Things are ſhewed, this is the Miſery, that we will not believe, In my Fathers Houſe, ſaith he, there are many Manſions; If it had not been ſo, I would have told you. He will not deceive us, believe him on his Word; we uſe to believe the Promiſe of a Man we judge faithful, much more let us Credit God who is Truth it ſelf. Therefore as ever we would be Partakers of theſe Joys, and have Part and Portion in theſe Eternal Comforts: Let the belief them be ſtedfaſt, and though there be many uſes to be made of this, yet this is the chief, that we would believe this Truth. Indeed you believe, but I ſay unto you believe, and again believe: Thoſe that entered not into the Promiſed Land, entered not, becauſe they did not believe. This is the Cauſe that Men periſh, and enter not into Gods reſt, I ſay therefore believe God, ſeeing he hath fulfilled all his Promiſes, and hath not failed in one ſince the beginning. The Land of Canaan he gave according to his Promiſe long before (1 Kings 8. 23.) Lord thou keepeſt Covenant and Mercy with thy Servants (verſe 26.) Bleſſed be the Lord that hath given reſt to his People Iſrael, according to all that he promiſed by the Hand of his Servant Moſes. If he hath promiſed that Ten Kings ſhall deſtroy the Whore (as indeed he did) ſhe ſhall be deſtroied, he will not fail in his Promiſe, he hath ſpoken, and he will make it good, he is abundant in Mercy and Truth; yea, he will be better then his Word. Let me ſpeak therefore to you that are yet in the State of Nature, who ſtill delight in your Sins: If you believed theſe Things, ſurely you would not dote on your Sins as you do; it would make you utterly abandon them: And alſo let me ſay ſomething to you, whoſe Eyes God hath opened, who are in the State of Grace; ſurely, if you laboured more and more to perſwade your ſelves of this, you would not be ſo glued to the World as you are; it would make you like Men of another World, you would be transformed, and be even as if you were in Heaven. Let then all your Carriage and Manner of Converſation be here, as if you were in your Inheritance above; let all your Thoughts be in Heaven, let your Hearts take Poſſeſſion of this incorruptible Crown, whileſt your Bodies are on Earth.

DISCOURSE

OF THE Glory of the Goſpel.

CHAP. I.

The Words of the Text (Col. 1. 26, 27.) Explain'd. Though God had before by various Ways diſcover'd the glorious Myſteries of his Grace; yet the Revelation of them by the Goſpel, excels all the other.

COL. I. xxvi, xxvii.

xxvi. Even the Myſtery which hath been hid from Ages, and from Generations, but now is made manifeſt to his Saints.

xxvii. To whom God would make known what is the Riches of the Glory of this Myſtery among the Gentiles; which is Chriſt in you, the hope of Glory.

THE Apoſtle in this Chapter, from the 13th Verſe to the End, draws a lively Character of Chriſt and his Goſpel.

1. He deſcribes Jeſus Chriſt in all that fulneſs of the Riches of his Glory, wherewith he is Arraied and Repreſented in the Goſpel, from the 13th Verſe to the 23d.

2. He falls into a Commendation of the Goſpel, which is that Myſtery wherein is made known the rich Glory of Chriſt, who is the Glory of this Myſtery: And if the Story that makes Chriſt known, be ſo full of Riches and Glory; what then is Chriſt himſelf, the Subject of it?

The Apoſtle doth both theſe on-ſet Purpoſe (as in the Fourth and Eighth Verſes of the Second Chapter, he profeſſeth) to divert and take off theſe Coloſſian's Mind from thoſe vain, deceitful Speculations of Philoſophy, and the Ceremonial Law, and Traditions of Men, gaudily and ſpeciouſly ſet out with enticing Words, Philoſophy and vain Deceit. He expoſeth the beggarly Condition of thoſe Rudiments (as he names the beſt of them, Gal. 4. 9.) and to diſplay the Glory, and Riches of the Myſtery of Chriſt in all its Brightneſs, he makes the enticing Luſter of all other Wiſdom (which had almoſt ſpoil'd that Glory of Chriſt (Col. 2. 8.) to vaniſh.

In the Words of my Text (Col. 1. 26, 27.) the Current of his Praiſe of the Goſpels Glory ſwells higheſt, and runs with the deepeſt and ſtrongeſt

Chap. I.

Stream. Within the Limits of which therefore I will confine my ſelf (tho' much might be added from other Scriptures) as affording Matter abundant to ſet forth the Glory of the Goſpel, by all that doth commend unto us any other Knowledge.

You have here the Riſe and Original of it, as withal of Mans Salvation; how, and for what Ends God contrived it, and revealed it, and to whom. The great God (ſays he) took up a Mind and Purpoſe to reveal unto his Saints Infinite Riches of his Glory in it, and by it: And to that End framed this Wiſdom on Purpoſe for them, and them alone. It is made manifeſt to his Saints, to whom God would make known his Riches and Glory by it.

2. You have the Subject of it, and common Treaſury of all that Riches and Glory diſcovered in it, which is Chriſt, Gods Son. Which Riches is Chriſt, ſays the Apoſtle by way of Explanation. Now Chriſt's Riches are unſearchable (Eph. 3. 8.) and this Doctrine of the Goſpel, is the Field this Treaſure is hid in: And Chriſt being alſo the Lord of Glory (1 Cor. 2. 8.) hath filled it with a Glory anſwerable, with Riches of Glory.

3. You have the Gain and Benefit of it. For as it reveals God and Chriſt, and all his Riches and Glory; ſo being received and entertained by ſpiritual Knowledge and Manifeſtation in the Hearts of men, it makes thoſe Saints Poſſeſſors thereof by giving them a Poſſeſſion of Chriſt. And for your further Security, you have them in you, by having him in you, (who is the Treaſury of all thoſe Riches) at the preſent. But then, the glorious Knowledge of this Chriſt, as he is in you, is yet a future Pledge of a greater and more tranſcendent Glory to come, greater then this Goſpel can reveal, or can be made known to you, Chriſt is in you, the Hope of Glory.

4. You have added hereunto, all ſorts of excelling Properties and Royalties to commend the Glory of the Goſpel, above all that are or can be ſuppoſed to be in any other Knowledge. 1. If depth and profoundneſs ſets a Value, this is a Myſtery in every Line of it. 2. If precioufneſs and abundance makes any Knowledge eſtimable, this is full of Riches and Glory. If 3. Secrecy puts an eſteem on any Science, this hath been hid from Ages and Generations, but now made manifeſt. 4. If it recommend any Knowledge, that when the Secret is revealed, yet ſtill it be not made common to the ordinary ſort of Men; then the Goſpel is moſt excellent, for though God hath revealed it; yet he retaineth and uſeth that Art in revealing of it, that he makes known the Rickes and Glory of it only to his Saints: Others know it but in the outward Letter of it.

1. I ſhall take a View of the Riſe and Original, of the Revelation of this glorious Myſtery. I caſt the brief Story thereof into this Frame.

1. Our All-wiſe, and infinitely Bleſſed God poſſeſſing in himſelf Infinite Riches of Glory, he thinks of Ways to make them known, and that to ſome reaſonable intelligent Creatures, which by knowing of them might be made Partakers thereof, and have their Boſoms fill'd with all his Riches. For both to make them known, and withall to make them Poſſeſſors thereof are in the Text. The one in theſe Words, Make known, the other in thoſe, Chriſt in you the Hope of Glory. The Text ſays, ἠθέλησεν, He would, he had a Mind, and Will, a longing Deſire to do it; and communicate it to us to make us Bleſſed. That is the firſt Thing. He would make known, &c.

2. The Second Thing to be conſider'd is the Perſons, to whom. The Text ſays, to his Saints. His, that is, his Elect, whom he hath choſen to be Holy, his Saints, who are firſt his own by Election, and then made Saints.

1. They are His, ſingled out from all the reſt to be his Peculiar, his Elect. The Lord knows who are his. Thine they were (ſays Chriſt, John 17. 6.) and thou gaveſt them me; and they have kept thy Word. And Father (ſays Chriſt, Math. 11. 25.) I Thank thee, thou haſt hid theſe Things from the wiſe and prudent, and haſt revealed them to Babes; even ſo it pleaſed thee.

Yet 2. He makes them Saints, to whom he communicates himſelf: Yea, he makes them Saints, by making himſelf known to them. Judas (not Iſcariot) ask'd Chriſt (John 14. 22.) this bold Queſtion, How is it that thou wilt wilt manifest thy self unto us, and not unto the World? Christ there mentions not, the first Part of this Account here; namely, that they were his peculiarly, and not the World (which yet being alone with his Father in his Prayer, he then takes Occasion to mention to move him) but he gives them this other Part of the Account here. Because (says he) I manifest my self to Saints which you are, and I will cause you to be. His Words afore (in which Judas interrupted him) were these, at ver. 21. He that hath my Commandments and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me, and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest my self to him. And his Words in Answer to Judas fully import it, ver. 23. Jesus answered and said unto him, if a Man love me, he will keep my Words: And my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him. This Answer was needful for their quickning to Obedience. Chap. I.

The Third Thing I add to this Head is, That God had afore the discovery of this Gospel, taken other Ways to make known something of the Riches of this Glory by them. But yet had all that while kept and retained this Knowledge of the Gospel as the Last, to excel, and exceed, and to put down all the former; which yet is but a Preparation to that other discovery in the Heavens; as all those former were to this.

Both these Assertions are clear: The first is evident from those Words, He now hath made manifest, that which was hidden from all Ages, &c. And yet we know that former Ages had much of the Wisdom of God among them, both Jew and Gentiles.

The other Assertion is evident from this; That the utmost discovery of this Mystery and of Christ now, is but the Hope; and so not the Possession of that Glory, which is to come. We are led therefore to consider a little those other Ways, God had already taken to manifest the Riches of his Glory by; as an Ante-masque to this that followed.

1. One way by which he began to manifest his glorious Back-parts, (Exod. 33. 23.) both to Angels and Men, was by the first Creation and the Works thereof, and in the Law and Covenant of Works. Whereof the first holds forth his Eternal Power and Godhead, Rom. 1. 19, 20. Because that which may be known of God, is manifest in them; for God hath shewed it unto them. For the Invisible Things of him from the Creation of the World are clearly seen, being understood by the Things that are made, even his Eternal Power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse: Psalm 19. 1. The Heavens declare the Glory of God: And the Firmament sheweth his handy Work. And the Angels that were Spectators of every Days Work, were infinitely taken with it; Job 38. 6, 7. Whereupon are the Foundations thereof fastened? Or who laid the Corner Stone thereof, when the Morning Stars sang together, and all the Sons of God shouted for Joy. They shouted for Joy to see him finish every Days Work. Then his Wisdom also is display'd in governing so great an Host, an Army of several Creatures to several Ends by perpetual Laws. I instance but in one, the placing of the Sun in the Heavens and the Motion of it, so disposed and ordered, as it could no where else be placed therein, without an apparent Inconvenience to some Parts of the habitable World. But he hath made a Tabernacle for it, and set out the Course thereof to visit all the Earth. It goes to it's Tropicks, and misseth not an Hairs breadth. There is Infinite Justice also apparent in his righteous Law; and withal Infinite Holiness in so exact a Rule of Righteousness, which was the Jews Wisdom and Glory in the sight of all Nations. For the delivery of which Law God came down, and made an Heaven upon a Dirty Mole-hill, Mount Sinai, and constituted Moses a Mediator, and put a Glory upon his Face, and then dress'd up an High Priest gloriously for his Worship, and erected a Tabernacle, and after that a Temple admirably Magnificent. How did the Jews boast of all these Things? Rom. 2.

But all this contented not our God, who would make known a further Mystery, viz, of the Redemption of fallen Man by Christ; which he kept hid and close in his own Breast, and not a Creature knew it, no not his Angels (not as we now know it, in the Goſpel) which were his neareſt Courtiers and deareſt Favourites. It lay hid in God, Eph. 3. 9. hid even from them, ver. 10. It was a Myſtery, which when revealed ſhould amaze the World, and put the Angels to School again; as if they had known nothing in Compariſon of this, wherein they know over again all thoſe glorious Riches which are in God; and that more perfectly and fully then ever before. Such is the Myſtery of Chriſt revealed in the Goſpel, which is the laſt Edition alſo that ever ſhall come forth in this World, and is now ſet out, enlarged, and perfected: Wherein that large Inventory of God's glorious Perfections is more fully ſet down with Addition.

The Reaſons, why God did by Two Ways intend to manifeſt himſelf thus variouſly are.

1. Becauſe he would ſhew forth his manifold Wiſdom (which is the Reaſon given of revealing the Goſpel, Eph. 3. 10.) That to the Angels might appear the manifold Wiſdom of God. His Wiſdom is ſo vaſt and large, that he could vary, and take more Ways then one to diſplay it. And as he had two Sorts of reaſonable Creatures to ſhew himſelf unto; ſo he had a double Way, a double Sample, and double Method.

2. God did ſo, becauſe indeed that other Way was of it ſelf too obſcure, and too imperfect.

1. It was too obſcure. For in the Goſpel and Works of Redemption, the Angels came to ſee all that they ſaw before, and that more clearly and largely. They ſee more Power in Chriſt, the Power of God (1 Cor. 1. 24.) in raiſing himſelf up from Death to Life, Declared with Power thereby to be the Son of God, Rom. 1. 4. And they ſee alſo the exceeding Greatneſs of his Power, in raiſing us up alſo (Eph. 1. 19.) more then they did in the Creation. They likewiſe ſee a greater and clearer Inſtance and Manifeſto of his Juſtice, in putting to Death his own Son, taking on him to be a Surety for Sinners: Then if a World of Worlds ſhould have been damned for ever. And in Chriſt his Son alſo, they came to ſee a greater and far more Tranſcendent Righteouſneſs then ever appeared either in the Law, or inherent in themſelves.

2. That other Way was but imperfect.

For, 1. Thoſe Attributes which God Accounts his greateſt Riches and greateſt Glory (Rom. 9. 23.) even his Mercy and Free-Grace, which he intends moſt to exalt, never ſaw Light till now.

But 2. Not only more of his Attributes come thus to be diſcovered; but further, the glorious Myſtery of the Trinity come thereby to be more clearly unfolded, if not the firſt diſcovery made of the Three Perſons; there being ſcarce the Footſteps of them diſtinctly to be ſeen in the Works of Creation, or in the Law. But now, when the Goſpel comes to be revealed, and the Work of Salvation in it, then they were diſcovered to be Three Witneſſes in Heaven (1 John 2. 7.) Witneſſes to our Salvation. And their ſeveral witneſſing comes to be known by their ſeveral Seals and Hand-works, ſet ſeverally to our Salvation, bearing the ſtamp and ſimilitude of their Three ſeveral Subſiſtences; ſo as by thoſe Three Seals of the Election of Chriſt and Us, of our Redemption and of our Sanctification, we may know there are Three Perſons, and how they do ſubſiſt: Even as in Mens Seals, their ſeveral Armes being Engraven, their Houſes and Antiquity are known.

4. The Fourth Thing is, what new Model or Means it was which God ſingled forth to Print and Publiſh his whole and utmoſt Council to us by, after all thoſe other; the Edition of which ſhould thus excel all the former, and alone be full and adæquate, and commenſurable to his whole Deſign; even to manifeſt and communicate the whole, the full of all thoſe Riches of Glory in himſelf, but once for all, and no more, that he ſhall not need to ſuperadd any other, until himſelf immediately communicates himſelf Face to Face. The Text tells us, that this excellent Way of diſcovery is Chriſt communicated to us, it is Chriſt in us, the Hope of Glory. Which Notes out, not only Chriſt to be the Revealer, the Prophet (as Moſes ſtiles him) who by Word of Mouth, or Way of Doctrine should discover the Glory of God (Which the Apostle fully renders to the Scope I have driven at, Heb. 1. 1. God who at sundry Times, and in divers Manners, spake by the Prophets, hath in these last Days spoken unto us by his Son) Whereas a fore-times God by Degrees and by Piece-meal πολυμερῶς uttered himself, one Truth at one Time, another at another by Drops, so it was for the Matter; and πολυτρόπως after sundry Fashions and Forms, and Shapes, such as were Dreams, Visions, Types, &c. so for the Manner. This God hath now (as the Opposition imports once for all, in the last Days and by whole-sale uttered his whole Council, and this uniformly after one only plain and clear Manner and Way; by Word of Mouth from his Son, spoken by his Son, as the Revealer. So it follows, Chap. 2. 3. Which at first began to be spoken by the Lord (namely, Christ) but not only so, but that which the Text here holds forth, is that Christ as the Argument, Subject, Matter, is the Thing revealed. That alone takes up and fills the whole of this new Doctrine; which Mystery (says he) is Christ, namely, subjective: It is Christ known and communicated; and in him all God's Riches and Glory. Chap. I.

Word

1. In him all the Riches of God, and the Knowledge of him are laid up as the Treasury and Subject of them; and so discovered and communicated to us objectively in the Knowledge of him. Thus, Chap. 2. ver. 2, 3. The Apostle further explains it. For having termed the Gospel (as here) the Mystery of God and of Christ; he adds, In whom are hid all the Treasures of Wisdom and Knowledge; not only to be revealed by him, or subjectively known in and by himself; but (which is the proper Scope of the Apostle) objectively set forth, and contained in him alone, and in the Knowledge of him made known to us.

2. In Him shines the Glory of God (2 Cor. 4. 6. The Light of the Knowledge of the Glory of God in the Face of Jesus Christ) as the lively Image of all his Features and Perfections, and Evidences of his inward Councils and Affections. That therefore which I here insist upon is. That Jesus Christ in all his Glories, is the great and eminent Subject of the Gospel, Rev. 1. 1.

3. It is the Gospel of God (namely, as the Author of it) but it is concerning his Son Jesus Christ our Lord. God had but one Son, and he made this Gospel on Purpose to Honour him, and set him forth. It is all, and every Word of it some way or other concerning him, or about him. God made it purposely to set his Son Christ forth to us: And in setting forth his Son, himself also: It is therefore termed, (Chap. 2. of this Epistle, ver. 1.) The Mystery of God the Father, and of Christ. Christ in that Series of Truths about him held forth in the whole New Testament, is the Sum of this newly revealed Wisdom of God, 1 Cor. 1. 24.

So then, God's Son, first made our Christ, and that by being made Man, is thereby further made a compleat Body and Systeme of a new Wisdom or Knowledge of the Glory of God. And correspondently is that Speech of the Apostle, Chap. 2. ver. 2. to be understood, that their Hearts might be comforted, being knit together in Love; and unto all Riches of the full Assurance of Understanding to the Acknowledgment of the Mystery of and of the Father, and of Christ. This was that Subject which terminated the Apostles Thoughts, as the Horizon doth the Eye; he regarded not to look beyond it to any Thing else. And surely, if unto God himself, his Christ is an aboundary, a Sum of that Wisdom manifestative, whereby he would make himself known to us, and rests contented therein, as the last and fullest till we come to Glory: Then he may well be so to us, and may we reckon our selves compleat in him; as Col. 2. How compleat and lively a Representation, Christ as revealed in the Gospel, is of the Riches of the Glory of God to be manifested to us in Comparison with all other, I shall shew by and by: When,

4. In the Fourth Place, I have added this, How real and lively a Demonstration or setting forth of Christ this our Gospel, the Mystery here is. The Story of that is this; the Apostles that lived and conversed with Jesus Christ saw saw with their own Eyes. He dwelt amongst us, (says the Apostle) John 1. 14. God wearing Flesh and Blood about him and appearing in it, was God manifest in the Flesh personally, 1 Tim. 3. 16. And so they had the Privilege in his Person to behold his Glory. And we beheld his Glory, (says he) the Glory as of the only begotten of the Father; so lively representing the Glory of the Father, that if they knew him, they must needs know the Father; John 14. 9. Have I been so long Time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? He that hath seen me, hath seen the Father, and how sayst thou then, shew us the Father? They beheld it also in his Doctrine, in his Works and Words, and gracious Converse, full of Grace in his Converse, and Truth in his Doctrine, as it follows there. That which we (says John) have seen with our Eyes, 1 John 1. 1. Which we have lookt upon, and our Hands have handled, of the Word of Life. ver. 2. For Christ our Life was manifested, &c. And when he was gone to Heaven, the Holy Ghost came down and caused them to understand the end and intent, the use to us, the Benefits and the full meaning of all he did and said. He turned and translated to them the dark Mystery of his Sufferings written in Blood, which they understood not, his Resurrection, &c. into a familiar Language to be understood and learned by lost Sinners, of Remissions of Sins; Redemption through his Blood; dying, rising for them, in their stead; and a Thousand such Glories redounding to us, and in us, that are the Fruits and Results, and Reverberations of all he did and acted. The Holy Ghost came and took of his, even all that he had done, and unciphered and unridled it; shewed it to them. (As Christ says, John 16. 14.) and so glorified Christ afresh in that Comment of Gospel Light, he caused to shine in their Hearts. He shall glorifie me, for he shall receive of mine, and shall shew it unto you. And by them were all these Things in their Sermons Reported; (as Peter speaks, 1 Pet. 1. 12. The Things which are now reported by them (said he) that have Preacht the Gospel to you, with the Holy Ghost sent down from Heaven. And whilst they thus Preacht him, God gave forth by their Ministry the Light of the Knowledge of the Glory of God in the Face of Jesus Christ, 2 Cor. 4. 6. Even the Light of the glorious Gospel of Christ, who is the Image of God, ver. 4.

But Alas! As Christ himself was gone to Heaven, and had taken up his Glory with him; and those that were Eye-witnesses of it, and should Report it unto us, are likewise gone off the Stage: The Holy Ghost therefore caused them to leave a Frame and Doctrine of the Gospel in their Writings, both the Story of his Life and Death by the Evangelists, which is but Christ written in Ciphers: And in their Epistles, which give that Story forth in plainer Letters, opening the Use, and End, and Intent of all. And these Writings opened by the Holy Ghost, and the Ministers of the Gospel hold forth all Pieces of it, and being set all together make an expres's Picture and Image of Christ, and all his Glories, who is the expres's Image of the Glory of God; and is therefore called the glorious Gospel of Christ, the Subject of it, who is the Image of God, and whose Glory this holds forth. Thus, (as Paul Preacht to the Galatians, Gal. 3. 1.) Before our Eyes Jesus Christ hath been Pictured προεγράφη Depictus fuit; and that so really and lively, that he is bold to affirm, he was Crucified among them, even as well as at Hierusalem. The Holy Ghost did set them down (as it were) at Jerusalem by the Cross, and brought him forth Crucified before the very Eyes of their Faith, as really and expresly as if they had seen it done with their bodily Eyes. Let any other Tragick Story be told by the quickest and most Poetick Fancy, and it cannot be said, that it was done or perpetrated among them to whom 'twas told. But the Story of Christ and his Truths, and all that is told, is said to be done among them, whilst it is a telling. Yea further, the glorious Gospel accompanied with the Spirit, is not only compared to a picturing or painting by Colours the most lively and artificial that can be supposed; as in that Gal. 3. 1. But further, it is compar'd to the real Image of a Person in a Glass, in which you see his Soul shines out in all the casts of his Eyes, in all the Postures of his Demeanour, and all this in that sparkling Manner, as if all the Angels would would Limb or Draw a Picture, they could not come near it. This you have in 2 Cor. 3. laſt. compared with 2 Cor. 4. 4, 6. In the one he ſays, We ſee the Glory of God in the Face of Jeſus Chriſt, in and by the glorious Goſpel: In the other he compareth the other to a Glaſs, We all behold as in a Glaſs, the Glory of the Lord. That look how far more lovely, the Repreſentation of a Perſon is ſeen in a Glaſs, above what in a Picture; ſo is Chriſt in this Goſpel. Let all the curious Artiſts in the World conſpire to Paint the Sun, and bring all their orient brighteſt Colours, and let a Child but come and bring a Looking Glaſs; and what a Wan, Pale Thing is the one, to the Glory, Splendour, and Reality of the other? The Riches of the Glory of the Sun, no Painting or Colours can ever render; but a Looking Glaſs doth: And ſuch is the Revelation in the Goſpel made to Believers. We therein behold as in a Glaſs the Glory of the Lord; and therefore he calls it the glorious Goſpel of Chriſt, even as in the Text. Chap. I.

If you aſk, how this comes to paſs? I Anſwer, by the Spirit that accompanies it. So in that 2 Cor. 3. laſt. Even as by the Spirit of the Lord, it is added. If the Spirit of Revelation, as 'tis call'd, Eph. 1. accompany not this Miniſtry and Deſcriptions of Chriſt, they are but as Pictures, or as dead Words uſe to ſet forth any other Narration. But the Goſpel being the Miniſtration of the Spirit, he hath a peculiar Act to bring down the real Subſiſtence; (as Heb. 11. 1.) of the Things themſelves uttered about Chriſt, which put together make up this Image of Chriſt, in the Underſtanding and Spirit of the Soul and Mind. Can Satan make a lively Shadow of a Perſon long ſince Dead, by Condenſation of Colours, and his Light Shining therein appear to the Eye? The Spirit can do this much more of Chriſt, ſo as though you ſee him not in that Glory as he is (1 John 3. 2.) in Heaven, yet the ſpiritual Glory of Chriſt you ſee in every Truth the Goſpel utters of him; and have real Communion with him thereby, 1 John 1. 2, 3. Even as by laying your Eye to the leaſt Beam of Light that comes in at a Cranny in a dark Room, you ſee the Glory of the whole Sun: And as you cannot ſee the Sun, but by it's own Light: So, nor Chriſt, but by a Light let down from himſelf; which the Spirit that is in his Heart, and in ours gives.

If you will ask how? I anſwer by Creation. So in that 2 Cor. 4. 6. God that commanded the Light to ſhine out of Darkneſs, hath ſhined in our Hearts to give us the Light of the Knowledge of the Glory of God, in the Face of Jeſus Chriſt. The Words we ſpeak and utter of his Glory are but Words, and would be no more, though we were able to ſet them out with the Tongues of Angels. But if that Spirit that is in Chriſts Heart, and lies hid in this Word (as the Promiſe is, My Spirit and my Word ſhall not depart out of thy Mouth.) If he accompanies it to our Hearts, he preſents the Things, and the real Images thereof to our Souls in and through thoſe Words. He turns verba in res, as that Philoſopher when Converted acknowledged. Which he doth to no other Men but to his Saints, to whom he would make known, &c.

So then to ſhut up this: Suppoſe you had an Abſent Friend alive, whom loving, you deſire at Times to behold in his Converſe and Behaviour, and loving Aſpect to you; and a Picture of him did not Content you; but you had a Glaſs, into which at Times the lively Image came; and in which he appear'd to you really in ſuch and ſuch Deportments: Such is the Goſpel when the Spirit accompanies it, and conveighs Chriſt ſpiritually, and with the ſight of Faith to the Soul. And this will help us to underſtand, why he is call'd Chriſt in us: Of which hereafter.

How ſhould we Prize and Value ſuch a Glaſs as this; Preſerve it from ſoyling Spots, or breaking, and ſuffer it not to be perverted. You reject ſuch as are falſe and miſrepreſent: You affect pure and clear ones: Oh then, keep to and preſerve the Goſpel in its Purity: You ſee your Husband in it, and his Beauty every Day.

Fifth

Chap. I.

5. How compleatly doth this Gospel hold forth the Riches of the Glory of God in the Person of Jesus Christ, as a Redeemer and Crucified; 1 Cor. 4. 4, and 6. compared with 1 Cor. 1. 1, 23, 24. The Word is ἐν προσώπῳ, 1 Cor. 4. 6. John 1. 18. No Man hath seen God at any Time (John 1. 18.) The only begotten Son, which is in the Bosom of the Father, he hath declared him, ἐξηγήσατο which Word (as your late Criticks observe) Enarrationem notat, non tam Sermone aut Prædictione, quàm Expressione & Repræsentatione factam. It expressed him to the Life, and brought God forth out of his Invisibility; Christ being (Col. 1. 15.) The Image of the Invisible God. There is indeed a full and compleat Image of the Glory of God, which shineth in his Person, as he appears in Heaven, whereof John, James and Peter had a Glympse (which transcends infinitely all that which the Gospel can, or the Spirit of the Gospel doth reveal of him.) And by this Glory (John 17. That they may be where I am, and see my Glory) we shall see and understand by Converse with him in Heaven more, infinitely more of the Glory of God in and by him. But this Glory, the Gospel treats not of, but only hints; we discern it but by collecting what Glory must needs be due to that Man, in whom the fulness of the Godhead personally dwells. But that Image of God, which in Christ this Gospel holds forth, is but the Hopes of that other Glory, and is a lower Thing then that which his Person wears in Heaven.

Ludovicus de Dieu.

And yet this discovery of God in Christ transcends, what ever any way was or could otherwise have been made. The Back-parts of God, which we call his Attributes, his Power, Wisdom, Truth, Justice, which God calls his Glory to Moses, Exod. 36. and which we can not see and live: These are infinitely more really and substantially, and to the Life set forth to us, by what we know of Christ as a Redeemer in the Gospel; and do infinitely transcend, whatever of them either was, or could have been expressed in Millions of several Worlds fill'd all of them with several Sorts of intelligent Creatures, such as Angels and Men to never so great a variety, as the πολυποίκιλος σοφία of God could have diversified the Natures of them into.

There is a Threefold Image of God in Christ.

1. As he is his Son, without the Consideration of his dwelling in an Humane Nature; and so he is unto God the Father, that Image of himself by whom he understands himself. And were he not equal with himself, he should not understand or behold himself by him fully and perfectly. And Christ thus is in that Respect as Invisible, as Incomprehensible as God himself. For so considered, he is God, and dwells in Light inaccessible.

2. There is an Image of the Glory of God shining in his Person in Heaven, such as all that shall see it shall say (as they did, Mat. 17. upon a Glympse of it) that it is proper only to the only begotten Son of God.

But, 3. There is a glorious Image of all God's Attributes, which shines in the Person of Christ, (as he conversed here) and in the Works which Christ hath done for us, and in the Fruits and Benefits that redound thereby to us: Or in the Works of Christ, (which are the Beams whereof this Sun is the Body,) in us, now he is in Heaven leading us into Communion with himself. And they all make a compleat Image, and that more perfect of the Riches of Gods Glory: And this the Gospel treats of. The First of these is the Foundation of the Second, the Second of this Third: And do each exceed the other. There is a new and compleat Edition of all the Attributes of God, which results out of the Story of what he is, hath done, and is made to us.

In the 1 Cor. 1. 24. Christ is termed the Power of God, and the Wisdom of God. He calls him by Terms of the Attributes of God in abstracto. And if the Question be, How we are to understand it? Not of what Christ is essentially meerly as God, or simply as the Son of God, which was the first, nor yet yet as in his Person as God-Man, he hath an infinite Wisdom and Power inherent in him, which was the Second; but as he is made to us by his Works of Mediation for us, and the like; and in respect of what his Person is made to us. Which is clear by the Context: For he speaks of Christ as he is Crucified, and of the Power of God shewn, and put forth in Calling and Converting our Souls by the foolishness of Preaching. It pleased God, through the foolishness of Preaching, to save them that believe, ver. 21. And so it follows, ver. 23. We preach Christ crucified, unto them which are call'd, the Power of God. The like is as clear to be understood of Christs being the Wisdom of God, which is attributed to him in Respect of what he is made to us; so ver. 30. Who is made unto us Wisdom, &c. And both these, the Power and Wisdom of God appeared in Christ, in what he did and suffered. And therefore Paul subjoins Chap. 2. 2. As to know nothing but Christ (of which I spake afore) so he adds, as Crucified. So then Christ as Crucified; and by the like Reason made Flesh, and walking holily, dying, overcoming Sin, Wrath, Satan, Hell, Rising, Ascending, and then Converting, Justifying, Glorifying us: In all and each of these Works performed by him, he is the Power of God, the Wisdom of God: And so even in these a perfect Edition of all those Attributes. And for the same, and by the like Reason, he may be Entitled, the Truth, the Life, the Love of God, as he is in other Scriptures. The Truth of God, because he ratified all the Promises, and confirm'd them true. The faithful Witness, God's Amen. So he is to the Love of God, 1 John 4. 26. Where God is said to be Love, not in respect of what he is in himself, but in what he is to us in giving his Son; God so loved the World, that he gave his only begotten Son. And not only so, but he, who himself was God laid down his Life for us; Chap. 3. 16. Sinners, Enemies, which all commend that Love, Rom. 5. And thus is the Love of God made manifest to the utmost; Chap. 4. 9. That whereas none could see the Infinite Love of God, as it is in himself. Thus John in that very Place, No Man hath seen God at any Time, ver. 12. Nor can, nor could ever have come to have fathomed the Infinite Sweetnesses of Love and Kindnesses, that lie at the Bottom of that Heart: Therefore God to express the utmost of it gave Christ, that in the Love of Christ, we might comprehend the heighth, the breadth, the depth of that Love that yet passeth Knowledge; as Eph. 3. 19. Then to instance again in Power, Adam and the Angels saw Gods Power in the Creation of the World, Rom. 1. 20. But in Christ's, and his Work of Redemption, he came to see infinitely far greater Works then these, as Christ speaks. Look upon him in the Womb, and see God and Man's Nature united into one Person. The Power of the most High over-shadowing his Mother, Luke 1. 35. Which Word was sought out to shew, how great and incomprehensible a Power, mysteriously and secretly wrought within that Vail, in the framing, and then uniting that Humane Nature to the Son of God. As great Artists, as curious Limners, &c. work within Doors, conceal their Work whilst a doing; so the Spirit doth his Power: And if the framing the Body of Man, and the Union of the Body and Soul is wondered at by David, as so curious a Piece of Workmanship, and therefore wrought as it were under-ground: I am wonderfully made, says he, in the lower Parts of the Earth. How much more wonderful was the framing an Habitation for the fulness of the God-head to dwell in, and uniting God personally thereunto? Look again upon him on the Cross, a weak and sorry Man: For as 2 Cor. 13. He was Crucified in weakness; and yet left and found in that weakness, but on purpose to make an Infinite Power of God appear; his Power was perfected in that weakness; look on him as a poor Man made up of Flesh and Blood, bearing the Wrath of God, and all the Sins of the World: He bore that Wrath that brake the back of Men and Angels, and crush'd the strongest Creatures to Hell, and brake their Bones without recovery. But this weak drop of Flesh and Blood is back'd and steel'd with so great and Infinite a Power, as he eluctates and over-comes it. Yea, and it is impossible that he should be held under it, Acts 2. 20. Then see him rising, and flinging open the Gates of Death, the Grave, and Hell, declared to be the Son of God with Power by the Resurrection from the Dead, Rom. 1. 4. Like another Sampson taking these Gates of Brass off their Hinges, and carrying them on his Back to the Top of the Hill he ascended from Heaven. Measure but the distance between the low Estate of his Body in the Grave, and of his Soul on the Cross; and that super-exalted Estate of Glory in the highest Heavens (and what Compasses our Mathematick Instruments, can the most enlarged Understandings frame within their own Thoughts to take this Elevation?) So transcendent a Power appears in raising up this Christ from Death to Glory. Which the Apostle doth greaten accordingly, Eph. 1. 19. and makes it the highest Pattern of Power that God ever put forth. According to the working of his mighty Power which he wrought in Christ, whom he raised from the Dead (so low) and set him at his own right Hand in the heavenly Places (so high) far above all Principalities and Powers, &c. View the like in Holiness. The Glory of God's Holiness is so great, and his Eyes so pure; that when he beheld the Holiness of his best Creatures, the Angels (and in any other that had been meer Creatures, if supposed greater then they, it had been all one) his critical curious Eyes reckon it but Folly (the Angels, the Inhabitants of Heaven) are not clean in his sight. But here is an Holiness of a Man in whom God dwells, satisfies his Curiosity, and though indeed it cannot profit him; as Psalm 16. 2. Christ confesseth; yet he can find no fault with it. It cannot but fully please him, for it is the Righteousness of God. See the Difference of the Strength, the Efficacy of these two Holinesses, and by that guess at the transcendent Excellency and Vertue of the one above the other. Sin, the least Sin is stronger then all the Holiness in Men or Angels: For the guilt of one Sin no sooner arrested an Angel, but it instantly expelled all Holiness out of his Heart, and wip'd out the Memory of all his righteous Works. And no sooner seized it on Adam, but it drave out of his Heart, as his Person out of Paradise, all that stock of Holiness was laid up in him for all Mankind; forc'd it forth of his and all our Hearts, being but imputed to us. And yet loe the Holiness of Christ is such, that when the guilt of Sin of all the Elect were thrown upon him, and reckoned by God and himself as his own; yet his Holiness is of such a Soveraignty, that it preserves him from the Infection thereof: Overcometh Sin, Death, Hell, the Law; and Triumphing, Cries out, Oh Death, Where is thy Sting? The Sting of Death is Sin: The Strength of Sin is the Law: But thanks be unto God, who hath not only given Christ, but this Christ the Victory. For the Strength of his Holiness is such, that tho' it preserved not him from being hurt by the Imputation of our Sins; but laid hold on by us, and imputed by God unto us, it expels all the virulent Poyson and Venom of the deadliest Sins out of our Hearts. Yet oh what a Demonstration of an Infinite Holiness is here?

4. There is the greatest of Justice and Wrath against Sin. That God should put to Death his own Son for Sin, when he became but a Surety for it; was a clearer Manifestation of his Anger, and an higher Piece of Justice against Sin; then if he had made, and there sacrificed Millions of Worlds.

5. There is the cleerest brightness of his Righteousness, such as is not found shining in the Law, or in their Hearts; I mean of Adam, or the Angels: For this at the utmost, serves but to justifie themselves, and there is little enough of it too; the Weight of the least Dust in their Ballance, would cause a Rejection of them as too Light. And if the Righteousness of them all by a general Contribution were contracted into any one of them, it could not serve to free one Sinner from one Sin. Yea, only one sinful Act in themselves would make a Forfeiture of all the Good in them, or that had come from them: But here is a Righteousness of that Efficacy, as serves for Millions of Sinners: Of that breadth, as is able to cover Worlds of Sins, and Millions of Worlds: Of that length, that it reacheth to Eternity, an Everlasting Righteousness; and no Sin in God's People can wear it out, or evacuate and lessen the Vertue of it. All the Divine Perfections mention'd before.

6. Not only all before, are more gloriously and perspicuously set forth in a new Edition of them, but with Addition also of the discovery of ſome Perfections in God; which no way elſe had come forth unto our Comprehenſions. Yea, thoſe Attributes which God Accounts his greateſt Riches and higheſt Glory; as Rom. 9. 23. his Mercy and Free-Grace, which he deſired moſt of all to exalt in the Manifeſtation of himſelf, never ſaw Light till now. That great Love wherewith he loved us, hidden in his Heart, now brake forth as Joſeph's to his Brethren. His Love to Adam and Mankind in him, was but providential founded on the Law of Creation, whereby he loveth the Works of his Hands as ſuch; and whilſt they ſhould Love God, God would Love them. But here is a Love iſſuing from what is in his own Heart as the Fountain of it, and a Spring, yea a Sea to feed it: A Love in Chriſt founded on him, and in nothing in the Creature: The ſame wherewith he loves him to Everlaſting, Peremptory, Unchangeable. Mercy and Free-Grace, which are the richeſt Jewel in his Crown had never elſe appeared. The Doctrine of Salvation through Chriſt, being the Stage ſet up on purpoſe whereon only it is repreſented, and off from which it is no where elſe ſeen. Upon which it Acts it ſelf the greateſt Part, and gives all the other their Parts, and manageth, ordereth the whole Scenes; all Paſſages begin and end with it, and tend to this, That by Grace we are ſaved. The Saints Title is, Veſſels of Mercy, Rom. 9. The whole Plot and Frame is made up of Mercy, and is ſo call'd, 1 Pet. 2. 10. The Doctrine it ſelf that brings this Salvation, is termed Grace; Titus 2. 10, 11. It begins, ſets all a Work, and ends all in Glory. Chap. I.

USE. Let us then, both Miniſters and People be exhorted, to ſtudy and ſearch into this Goſpel. My Brethren, what ever other Knowledge we may Pride our ſelves in, and wear out our Brains about the ſearching into; yet this is that which is the Riches of the Gentiles and Saints, (as this Text hath it.) The Pearls of the World, Matth. 13. 45. The Glory of the Miniſtry, 1 Cor. 2. 7. Which God ordained for our Glory; namely, Apoſtles and Miniſters, the Preachers of it. The clear revealing of which was the deſire and longing of the Patriarchs and Prophets, who though they knew the legal Covenant as well as we, yet this Doctrine of Salvation, Chriſts Sufferings, God's Grace was it they enquired into, 1 Pet. 1. 10, 11, 12. That is, ſought to God by Prayer, and ſearched diligently: Searched, uſing all the means of reading, meditating to attain to the Knowledge of it, and all this diligently. Spent, and Thought it worthy of the chiefeſt of their Pains. And all the Anſwer they could get, was this, That they delivered theſe Things for us; it being ordained for our Glory. Which Paul therefore, that had profited ſo much in the Knowledge of the Jews Religion, Gal. 1. 14. profeſſeth, Phil. 3. 8. That he accounted all Droſs and Dung, for this excellent Knowledge of Chriſt. For he makes his Knowledg therein his chiefeſt Excellency; Eph. 3. 4. There is a Parentheſis, wherein you would think he boaſted, ſpeaking of his own Writings, whereby, when ye read (ſaith he) ye may underſtand my Knowledge in the Myſtery of Chriſt. The firſt obſcure Dawning, made John the Baptiſt (who did but Point at Chriſt,) greater then all the Prophets that were afore him.

What do I ſpeak of the Study and Glory of Prophets and Apoſtles? It is the Study of the Angels, and which they think worth their greateſt Intention. Look into thoſe Two Places, 1 Pet. 1. 10: Eph. 3. 10. Which Things the Angels deſire to prey into. Thoſe glorious Creatures that knew God in his Legal Covenant and Work of Creation, (and thoſe in Heaven ſaw it more glorious, then this Viſible World) more fully then ever Adam did; that have the immediate Participation of God himſelf, have his Face to read Lectures in Day and Night: Are yet glad, if they can get but a peep and glimpſe of the way of ſaving Men by Jeſus Chriſt, as being a Knowledge of a greater Excellency then otherwiſe they have any. Yea, and ſo deſirous are they to learn it, that they are Content to go to School to the Church, Eph. 3. 9, 10. That to Principalities and Powers, might be made known by the Church:

Chap. I.

But what need I ſpeak of Angels, Prophets or Apoſtles? It is the great Study (I may ſo ſpeak with Reverence) the Wiſdom and great Learning of God himſelf, who was the firſt Profeſſor of it, call'd ſo κατ' ἐξοχήν, 1 Cor. 2. 7. ſpeaking of the Goſpel (ſays he) We ſpeak the Wiſdom of God in a Myſtery; and that a hidden Wiſdom before the World was. Hid in God, Eph. 3. 9. It is God's Art and peculiar to himſelf. Whereas of other Knowledge Men and Angels have common Notions infuſed at firſt Creation, to attain to and pick out of themſelves. But this is his Wiſdom, which he alone had ſtudied; and which none knows, but thoſe to whom he reveals it.

CHAP. II.

The Excellency of the Goſpel, proved from the Profoundneſs of the Knowledge revealed in it.

I Shall now go on to Diſcourſe the Excellency of the Knowledge of the Goſpel by thoſe Properties, that do lie in order in the 26th Verſe.

In this 26th Verſe (as I have told you) there are Three Properties aſcribed to this Knowledge of the Goſpel, which God hath made known himſelf by.

1. Here is the Depth and Profoundneſs of it, in that it is call'd a Myſtery.

2. Here is the Secrecy and Hiddenneſs of it, it was hidden from all Ages and from Generations, till the Apoſtles Time, and till Chriſt came.

3. Here is the rareneſs of the Revealing of it, now when it is revealed: It is revealed only to his Saints. Even that Myſtery which hath been hid from Ages and from Generations, but now is made manifeſt to his Saints.

I ſhall open theſe Three Heads to you in their Order.

Firſt, It is call'd a Myſtery, that Word importeth more eminently theſe Two Things.

1. A Profoundneſs and a Depth of Knowledge.

2. A Secret and a hidden Knowledge.

Now becauſe this Second is contained in the Words afterward [hidden from Ages and Generations] therefore I ſhall only ſpeak to the Firſt.

The Knowledge, I ſay, of the Goſpel, and the Things that are known therein, they are all Deep, they are Profound, they are Myſteries. Myſteries for their Depth. In 1 Cor. 2. The Apoſtle ſpeaking of this Wiſdom of the Goſpel, he calleth it a Myſtery, as he doth here, and he calleth it a Myſtery for it's hiddenneſs too. So ver. 7. We ſpeak the Wiſdom of God in a Myſtery, even the hidden Wiſdom which God ordained before the World, &c. But if you read, ver. 10. You ſhall find that he calleth the Things revealed in the Goſpel, the Deep Things of God. The Spirit (ſaith he) ſearcheth all Things, yea, the Deep Things of God; meaning the Things contained in this Myſtery. And hence therefore it is called a great Myſtery, 1 Tim. 3. 16. Great is the Myſtery of Godlineſs, God manifeſteth in the Fleſh, &c. Now when it is call'd a great Myſtery: it is not in Reſpect of it's being hidden, but in Reſpect of the Depth and Profoundneſs of it. Things may be carried hiddenly and ſecretly, that have no great Depth in them: Therefore now Myſtery imports more then meerly a being hidden.

And (my Brethren) in the General, How can it be otherwiſe, but that all the Things the Goſpel revealeth, every one ſhould be Depths and Myſteries? For it is the Wiſdom of God, call'd ſo in a ſpecial Manner. So in that 1 Cor. 2. 7. We ſpeak the Wiſdom of God in a Myſtery. It is therefore a Myſtery, becauſe it is a Wiſdom of his inventing: And therefore containeth nothing, but Depth in it. What ſaith the Apoſtle, in Rom. 11. 33. (It is a Place full to this Purpoſe) Oh the Depth of the Riches both of the Wiſdom and Knowledge of God! And of what Wiſdom and Knowledge doth he ſpeak? You muſt know that of all Epiſtles, that of the Romans, is a Syſteme of Divinity methodically laid down, and the Apoſtle having in the latter Chapters uttered thoſe great and glorious Things of the Goſpel, and fetched them all out from the very Bottom of God's Breaſt, he having handled Election and Reprobation juſt before; and the Calling of the Jews, and how that God had ſhut up all under Sin, that at laſt he might have Mercy upon all, when he had waded now ſo far into all theſe Depths, that he felt himſelf as it were over Head and Ears; he breaks off abruptly that whole Diſcourſe, and cries out, Oh the Depth of the Riches, both of the Wiſdom and Knowledge of God! Like one that is wading into the Sea; when he is gone ſo far, that he begins to be up to the Neck, to the Chin, he then cries out, Oh the Depth! And comes back again: So doth Paul here, it is as if he had ſaid, O ye Romans, I have gone as far as I can, and now I am even ſwallowed up, I can go no farther, Oh the Depth! The Things of the Goſpel are Depths (for that is the Thing, I quote this Place for.) It is a deep Knowledge, becauſe it is that Knowledge which God appropriates unto himſelf as his Invention. Chap. II.

Which may eaſily be made out by a ſmall degree of Compariſon. Solomon in Prov. 18. 4. ſaith, That the Words of a Wiſe Man are as Deep Waters; but yet, though the Words of a Wiſe are as deep Waters, another Wiſe Man may fetch it out. So he tells us in Prov. 20. 5. Counſel in the Heart of Man is like deep Water, but a Man of Underſtanding will draw it out. But now take Kings amongſt Men, and of all others, if they be wiſe (for that is Solomon's Suppoſition) their Hearts are unſearchable; ſo he ſaith in Prov. 25. 3. Where he compares the Heart of a wiſe King (ſuch as he himſelf was) to the Heavens for heighth, and to the Earth for deepneſs; The Heaven for heighth (ſaith he) and the Earth for depth, and the Heart of a King is unſearchable. And the Reaſon is, becauſe that they deal with metaphyſical Things (as I may ſo call them) that is, they deal with Generals, as with all States and Nations about them, and what their Intereſts are with them, and their Animoſities againſt them; and they deal with all the Factions of their own People, and they know all the Provocations of them, there are a Thouſand ſuch Secret Things by which their Actions are guided that the People know not, they having therefore ſuch a mighty Compaſs in all their Tranſactions, their Subjects cannot ſearch into their Hearts. Now then, if the Heart of a King be thus unſearchable, what think you is the Heart of God, who had in his Eye all Souls in all Ages, who hath had Millions of Worlds in his Thoughts, which he could have made, afore this World was? In that 1 Cor. 2. When the Apoſtle would commend the Goſpel, becauſe it is the Wiſdom of God, what doth he do? He ſets by it the Wiſdom (which is the greateſt Wiſdom in this World) of Princes, and of the great Ones of the World; We ſpeak Wiſdom (ſaith he, ver. 6.) yet not the Wiſdom of this World, nor of the Princes of this World, that come to nought; but we ſpeak the Wiſdom of God, &c. He inſtanceth you ſee in the Wiſdom of Princes, as the greateſt Wiſdom of all the reſt; and he makes that to vaniſh, and to come to nought before the deep Things that are in the Heart of God (as he expreſſeth it, ver. 10.) before the Depth of this Wiſdom, which God himſelf hath revealed. In Pſalm 36. 6. David makes the Judgments of God to be a great deep; by the Judgments of God there he means the Works of his common Providence, his Ways of governing this World, whether in ways of Mercy or of Judgment, for he doth not mean meerly ways of Judgment ſtrictly taken for Juſtice; for in the Scripture Phraſe, the Judgments of God, are as well his Works of Mercy, as of Juſtice; and the Works of his common Providence are meant, which appeareth likewiſe by what followeth in the next Words, He preſerveth Man and Beaſt; that is, his ways whereby he preſerveth Man and Beaſt, and governs all the World, they are a great Deep. But if you come to the Salvation of Men, He is the Saviour of all Men, by common Providence,

Chap. II.

Providence, but eſpecially of thoſe that believe; if you come to thoſe Judgments, O how unſearchable are his Judgments and his Ways paſt finding out! Saith the Apoſtle in that Rom. 11. When he had ſpoken of his Ways of ſaving Men.

The greateſt Wiſdom that was ever ſet up in this World by the Princes of it, is the Kingdom of Popery, it is a Compoſition of all ſorts of Policies, called therefore a Myſtery of Iniquity by the Apoſtle in 2 Theſ. 2. and you ſhall find in Rev. 17. 5. That the Whore that rideth upon the Beaſt, hath this Name written in her Forehead, Myſtery Babylon the great, &c. It is a very ſtrange Thing, that God in his Providence ſhould ſo order it, that in the Old Mitres that the Popes uſed to Wear, there was Ingraven in the Inſide Myſterium, but ſince they were challenged out of the Revelation to be that great Antichriſt and Whore, they have left it out. It is a wonderful Thing to read their Schoolmen and Caſuiſts in their Proſecution of what concern'd the Frame of Religion they have invented, what great Depths (but Depths of Satan, which he hath helped Men to invent) what Harmony one Head hath in it anſwering to another, what a great deal of Profoundneſs of Learning there is in that Syſteme and Fabrick. Now this great Myſtery, I may call the Goſpel of Antichriſt, it is another Goſpel made on Purpoſe, and ſet up by Satan to advance his Eldeſt Son Antichriſt. And as Satan did make a Goſpel for his Eldeſt Son, a Wiſdom which the World never knew before, and which for the Depths of it is called a Myſtery of Iniquity; ſurely my Brethren, when God himſelf ſhall go and make a Goſpel for his Son Jeſus Chriſt, to reveal by it the Riches of his Glory unto the Saints, what Depths think you muſt needs be in this glorious Goſpel. It is called the Myſtery of Chriſt, in Eph. 3. 3. And when Paul boaſteth of the profoundneſs of his Knowledge, he doth it of his Knowledge in the Myſtery of Chriſt, Coloſ. 4. 3. And as was ſaid before, Without Controverſie, great is the Myſtery of Godlineſs, God manifeſted in the Fleſh, 1 Tim. 3. 16.

The Myſtery of Chriſt's Incarnation for the reconciling of the World (to Inſtance but in that) was ſuch a Myſtery, as all created Underſtandings could never have brought forth. For conſider but this, how Things did ſtand between God and Man (let me but State the Difference and the Controverſie, as I may ſay between God and Man) Firſt, God laid this for a Concluſion, that he would not put up the leaſt wrong from his Creature, but he would have full Satisfaction from the Sinner. In the Second Place, it was as clear and as apparent, that no Creature could ſatisfie him, neither the Sinner nor any for him. And yet Thirdly, God ſtood upon this too, He would have Satisfaction from a Creature, and that Nature that had ſinned ſhould ſatisfie. Do but lay all theſe Three Things together. If God now ſhould have gone and referred the untying of this Knot, to a Conſultation of all intelligible Natures, Angels and Men that ever were or ſhall be; it would have wilder'd, plunged their Thoughts unto Eternity: And after Millions of Years of Conſultation they would have returned this Anſwer, they could think and find out no way. Therefore ſaith he, Great is the Myſtery of Godlineſs, God manifeſted in the Fleſh; and it is without Controverſie ſo too, that is, it is ſuch a Myſtery, as whoever underſtandeth the State of the Controverſie before between God and Man, and this to be the Anſwer; he muſt needs acknowledge, that there are Depths of God in it, and that no other could have invented it, it carries its own Teſtimony of Divinity with it; without Controverſie ſaith he, or univerſally muſt this be received to be a great Myſtery, God manifeſted in the Fleſh.

That is a deep Knowledge and containeth Depths in it, which contains nothing but the Reconciliation of Contradictions, to make Things, which in appearance are ſeeming Contradictions meet. But ſo the Goſpel doth all along, I ſhall give you Inſtances, and ſome Scriptures for them too.

Take the Doctrine of God's Election and Free-Grace; That at once a Creature ſhould be loved with the greateſt Love of God, and yet be a Child of Wrath at the same time; (as before Conversion he is) can you Solve me this? That he should be a Son, and an Enemy. The Apostle hath it, Rom. 11. where he tells you (speaking of the Jews in the Root) That they are beloved for the Fathers sake, and yet Enemies for the Gospels sake. And in Eph. 2. 1. he it hath plainly, We (that is, I Paul and the rest) were by Nature the Children of Wrath, and yet Paul was a chosen Vessel beloved of God, even from Everlasting with the highest and greatest Love. So were the Ephesians he speaks this off, and it was therefore a Love born to them afore, which was the Cause of this their quickning and bringing out of that Estate. That one and the same Man should at the same Time be Blessed with all spiritual Blessings in heavenly Places; that you have in the very next Words, But God who is rich in Mercy, for the great Love wherewith he loved us; Namely then, when we were thus Children of Wrath: As is evident by that which follows after that, even when we were yet Dead in Sins (out of that love) hath he quickned us, as it is Eph. 1. 3. and yet be cursed with all the Curses written in this Book, and stand under them. What an amazing Wonder is this? It is plain that every Man is so, For cursed is every one that continueth not in every Thing that is written in this Book to do it. It is applicable unto all. The Reconciliation is easie, the Gospel makes these seeming Contradictions meet, for if you take Man Person as considered in Christ, he is thus Loved and Blessed; but if you take his Person as considered in himself, without any to stand between God and his Sin and Guilt, he standeth under the Curse of it. So that both these are true of him, one in the one Sense, and the other in the other.

So likewise, when the Prophet considered in Isa. 53. That God had a Son as old as himself (as I may so speak) and equal to himself, he breaks out, Who can declare his Generation? Here is a Depth.

Our Saviour Christ himself puts some of these Riddles to the Pharisees. Saith he to them, in Mat. 22. 43. Solve me this, If David call Christ Lord, how is he his Son? The Gospel salveth this.

That a Virgin should conceive a Son; this was a Riddle to Mary her self, How shall this be, saith she to the Angel in Luke 1. 34? The Gospel revealeth this.

That this Man Jesus Christ, should be in Heaven when he was on Earth, and should be said to descend from Heaven as Man, and yet never was there then when he said it: This was a Riddle that Christ posed Nicodemus with, he stood wondering at the Doctrine of Regeneration, that a Man must be Born again; what saith Christ, do you wonder at that? I'll tell you a higher Riddle than that, No Man hath ascended up to Heaven, but He that came down from Heaven, even the Son of Man which is in Heaven, John 3. 13. And if you Mark the Coherence of this with the Verse before, you shall see he utters this as an heavenly Mystery beyond that which he had express'd of Regeneration, which he saith was but an earthly Thing in Comparison of this; If, saith he, I have told you earthly Things and ye believe not, how will ye believe, if I tell you of heavenly Things? So you have it likewise in John 6. When Christ had told them, that they must eat his Flesh, and drink his Blood; they strove amongst themselves saying, How can this Man give us his Flesh to eat? And many of his Disciples when they heard it said, This is a hard saying, who can bear it? When Jesus (saith the Text) knew in himself that his Disciples murmured at it (they were those that were not Believers, though Disciples) He said unto them, Doth this offend you? Can you not understand this? I'll give you an harder Thing, What, and if you shall see the Son of Man ascend up where He was before? And yet he was but the Son of a Virgin, and was (as Man) never but in her Womb.

These Riddles the Gospel you see unfoldeth. Now as the Person of Christ affords all these Mysteries and Depths, so his Obedience affords more; That that God that made the Law, should be subject to the Law, and fulfil it himself: This you have in Gal. 4. 4. He was made of a Woman, and made under the Law. That God who is nothing but Spirit, should have Blood to redeem Men by; this you have in Acts 20. 28. Feed the Church of God, which He hath purchased chaſed with his own Blood. That He, that is God bleſſed for ever ſhould be made a Curſe; this you have in Gal. 3. 1. That He, that is the Holy One of Iſrael ſhould be made Sin; ay, and what's more, he that cannot endure Sin, for nothing is more contrary to the Holineſs of God than Sin, and yet he that knew no Sin, was made Sin, this you have in 2 Cor. 5. 21. That God ſhould never be more angry with his Son than when he was moſt pleas'd with him, for ſo it was when Chriſt hung upon the Croſs, God did find a ſweet ſmelling Savour of Reſt and Satisfaction, even then when he cried out; My God, my God, Why haſt thou forſaken me? Again, that God ſhould be free in pardoning, and yet notwithſtanding receive the fulleſt Satisfaction, even to the Rigour of Juſtice: Here is a Riddle to all the World, yet you have it in Rom. 3. 23, 24. Being juſtified freely by his Grace; but how? Through the Redemption that is in Jeſus Chriſt. Why, if there were a Price by way of Redemption paid, how was it freely by Grace? Yet it is both. And that it ſhould ever be ſaid, That God is Juſt, and the juſtifier of him that believeth on Jeſus; ſo it follows, ver. 26. That though he doth juſtifie out of the freeſt Grace, yet he is in the moſt abſolute manner Juſt in doing of it; thus to bring Mercy and the Extremity of Juſtice to meet, what a Reconciliation is this? I'll give you another, for indeed the Doctrine of the Goſpel is nothing elſe, it is made up of theſe. God requires Satisfaction of his Son Jeſus Chriſt in his Humane Nature, and God muſt be ſatisfied with ſomething that is not his own, for you can never ſatisfie any one with what is his own already. How can this be reconciled? Why my Brethren, the Humane Nature being join'd to the Second Perſon, he hath that Right in it that the Father and the Holy Ghoſt hath not, it is his own in a meer peculiar Manner; for it is one Perſon with him, which it is not with the other Two Perſons. No Creature could have made Satisfaction unto God, for whatſoever the Creature had, was Gods own already; but this Second Perſon, Jeſus Chriſt, he could ſay to the Father, I will give you that which is mine own, I have ſuch a Propriety in it as you have not; and yet all Things is Gods: This you ſee is reconciled in Chriſt, and therefore it is put upon redeeming us with [HIS OWN] Blood.

So come to Juſtification: What an amazing Wonder is it, that a Man ſhould be Ungodly at the ſame Time that he is juſtified, and at the ſame Time that he is ſanctified too. The Scripture is clear for this; Rom. 4. 5. Abraham, not only at his firſt Converſion, but a long Time afterward; yea, in his whole Life, looked upon himſelf as a Perſon Ungodly, and to be juſtified by God as Ungodly, conſidered in himſelf.

So if you come to Converſion, there is no Man that truly turns to God, but he turns freely to him, it is the freeſt Act that ever Man did, or elſe he he will never be ſaved; yet notwithſtanding, though it hath the higheſt Freedom in it, it is wrought in him by an Almighty Power, even the ſame Power that raiſed up Chriſt from Death to Life. Here is the higheſt Freedom of Will, and God's Everlaſting Purpoſe and Power mix'd together.

Come to the Life of a Chriſtian after Converſion, take it as the Goſpel hath revealed it, and it conſiſteth of nothing but ſeeming Contradictions. The Apoſtle in Gal. 2. 20. reckons up together Two Contradictions in appearance; ſaith he, I am crucified with Chriſt, nevertheleſs I live; well, yet not I; this is ſtrange, but Chriſt liveth in me, and the Life which I live in the Fleſh, I live by the Faith of the Son of God. My Brethren, for one Soul to live in another, and by another ones living in him, and that ſhould be his Life, it is only the Doctrine of the Goſpel that makes theſe Things true. Adam knew no ſuch Thing, there was no ſuch Art and Skill in his Life. That likewiſe in Phil. 2. God ſhould work in a Man all, both the Will and the Deed, and yet the Man work freely with God; this is a ſeeming Contradiction, and yet made good by the Goſpel.

I have mentioned theſe, and have given you Scriptures which holds them forth to you in very Terms. I might Mention a Thouſand others: And I'll give you the Reaſon why I Mention them; it is not only to confirm the Point in Hand, but let me tell you this, and know it for a Truth, the Cauſe of all the Errours that have been in the World hath been the want of reconciling theſe Things together. Chap. III.

The Arrians found great Things ſpoken of the Manhood of Chriſt, as of a Divine Man, and therefore they denied that he was God. They could not reconcile theſe Two, how God ſhould be Man, and Man ſhould be God, that both ſhould be joined together; therefore taking Part with one, they Exclude the other.

Our Lord and Saviour Chriſt is God bleſſed for ever; therefore ſay the Papiſts, he did not ſuffer the Diſpleaſure of God in his Soul; why? Say they, can God Love his Son, and be angry with him at the ſame Time? And he that is God bleſſed for ever, can he be made a Curſe in his Soul? Yes, take him as a Surety. They take Part with one Truth of the Goſpel to exclude the other; whereas the Goſpel is a Reconciliation of both theſe, and therein lies the Depth of it.

So in Point of Juſtification, Say the Papiſts, Can a Man be juſtified by the Righteouſneſs of another? Are not the Saints Holy in themſelves? And doth not that make them Holy? Is not the Wall White with the whiteneſs, that is in the Wall? It is the want of reconciling theſe ſeeming Contradictions, that is the Ground of that Errour. I'll give you a greater Contradiction in Appearance to Humane Reaſon, a Man is Ungodly and Godly, a Sinner and juſtified at the ſame Time. This is true, the Scripture holds it forth to be ſo.

As for the Socinians, They ſay, there is no Satisfaction for Sin, for if God Pardon freely, how can he Pardon for a Satisfaction? Whereas the Scripture is clear, that there may be the freeſt Grace in it and yet Satisfaction too, and the Truth of the Goſpel lies in reconciling theſe Two, and that's the Depth of it; but they take Part with one Truth to exclude another.

Take Antinomianiſm as you call it. All thoſe glorious Truths of the Goſpel, that a Man is juſtified from all Eternity, yea, and glorified from all Eternity too; &c. Men cleave to all theſe Truths, whereas other Truths are to be joined with them. A Man before he believeth is unjuſtified, therefore he is ſaid to be juſtified by Faith; and he is a Child of Wrath until he believe. All Believers are now glorified, and ſit now in heavenly Places with Chriſt, conſidered in their Head Chriſt; yet notwithſtanding, what poor miſerable Creatures are they here below? Take Believers in their own Perſon they are not ſo, but conſidered in Chriſt they are thus. I am perfectly Sanctified, and perfectly Holy conſidered in him, and I was Crucified with him; yea, but the remainders of Corruptions are ſtill. All Men would deſire to be more glorified than they are here, yet they are perfectly glorified in Chriſt, conſidered in him. Here is ſtill taking Part with one Truth to exclude another, whereas both muſt be taken in. So others Object, they cannot conceive that God ſhould be angry with his Elect, and chaſtiſe for Sin; for if he nothing but Love me how can that be? 'Tis eaſily anſwered, there is Anger that proceeds from Love. Though Mens Sins are forgiven without Interruption, yet there is a binding of Sins in Heaven; ſo ſaith Mat. 18. expreſly.

Take Arminianiſme. What is the Foundation of their Errour? It is meerly a want of reconciling ſeeming, though not real Contradictions in the Goſpel. As for Example, they know not how to reconcile Man's Free-will with God's peremptory Decree. Say they, if God out of his unchangeable peremptory Love to a Man, work irreſiſtibly upon his Will, how can his Will be Free? Why, the Freeſt that can be for all this; for conſider this, who hath more Freedom of Will, than the Humane Nature of Jeſus Chriſt? For if he had not had the heighth of Freedom of Will, we could never have been ſaved by him: Yet infallibly and irreſiſtibly and with the greateſt Neceſſity that ever could be, was his Will carried on always unto Good: I ſay, the taking Part with one Truth without reconciling it to another, hath been the Foundation of many Errours; and therein lies the Depth of the Goſpel in reconciling all ſeeming Contradictions whatſoever.

All theſe Myſteries, I ſay, hath God knit up in the Goſpel, to ſhew his own Wiſdom, and to befool the wiſe Men of the World. So that now conſidering all thoſe poor and petty Plots of reconciling Nations and Kingdoms, all the ways of Accommodation, whereby the greateſt Difficulties are reſolved between Men and Men, and Kingdom and Kingdom, wherein the wiſe Men, and the Princes of the World ſo Glory (for their Wiſdom lies in ways of Accommodation, and reconciling Things, and in them they ſpend their Thoughts, and in them they Pride and Magnify themſelves) I ſay, take all thoſe Depths of State, and the leaſt of theſe Depths that are in the Goſpel makes all the Wiſdom and Policy of the World to vaniſh before it as meer Folly. It confoundeth the Wiſdom of the Wiſe, and brings to nothing the Underſtanding of the Prudent, ſo the Apoſtle ſaith, 1 Cor. 1. 19.

I might likewiſe ſhew you, that the Goſpel in the Knowledge of it is excellent in Reſpect of the Depths that are in it, ſo in Reſpect of all that Harmony and Correſpondency that there is in the Goſpel of one Truth with another. The Excellency of Knowledge lies as well in the ſuiting of one thing with another, as in the profoundneſs of the Things themſelves. Now there was never ſuch an Invention as this, that as it is ſaid in Eccleſiaſtes, God hath ſet one thing againſt another; ſo the Harmony, the ſuiting of all Truths one with another here, in that glorious manner, is no where to be found in any Wiſdom or Art whatſoever. The Philoſophers found a great deal of Harmony in the things of this World; for the Skill and Art that God hath ſtamped upon the Creatures conſiſteth in the Harmony that is between one thing and another.

Now the Obſervations would be infinite that might be made of this kind. How our Sinfulneſs and Chriſt's Satisfaction and Obedience anſwers one another: There is nothing in thy Soul that thou canſt Object, but there is that in the Goſpel which will Anſwer it particularly. And ſo of all other Truths, it may be ſaid they kiſs each other. My Brethren, it is the Thread that runs through all Divinity, therefore a Man muſt make a whole Body a Syſtem of Divinity that will do this; and when it is done, there is nothing more Glorious.

Now the Goſpel is not only a Myſtery and a Depth, in Reſpect of Wiſdom, but let me give you another Depth; and that is a Depth of Love, which is laid up and revealed in this Doctrine and Knowledge of the Goſpel, Epheſ. 3. 16. That you may comprehend with all Saints the Heighth, and Depth, and Length, and Breadth of the Love of God which paſſeth Knowledge. Sin is a great Depth, which the Law lays open; therefore ſaith Jeremy, Chap. 17. The Heart of Man is deſperately Wicked, who can know it? And Solomon ſaith in Eccleſ. 7. 22. I thought my ſelf Wiſe enough, I ſet my ſelf to find out, and to know the wickedneſs of Folly: But he could not find out that Depth of Wickedneſs that is in Man's Heart, or make an Anatomy of the Heart: And poor Souls, when they are humbled find it ſo, and the damned Spirits in Hell find it ſo; for what is it they Study, and ſhall do to everlaſting? Their own Sinfulneſs and God's Wrath, their Parts being extended and ſet upon the utmoſt Tenter-hooks, and their Sins being ſet in order before them, they Study nothing but their Sins, and Meditate nothing but Terror; and this is Hell. But now there is a Myſtery of Love as well as of Wiſdom revealed in the Goſpel, a Depth that ſwalloweth up all the Depths of Sinfulneſs that is in the Elect, yea and if they were a thouſand times vaſter than they are. The Apoſtle in that place I quoted even now, Eph. 3. 16. ſpeaks of Heights and Depths, and Lengths and Breadths in the Love of God; he compares it to a mighty Sea, which ſwalloweth up Hills like Mole-hills; a Sea which is of that Depth, that the Thoughts of Men, though they ſhall be Diving to all Eternity to the bottom of it, ſhall never come thither; a Sea of that Length and Breadth, that tho' they are Sailing over it to everlaſting, yet they ſhall never come to Shore: It paſſeth Knowledge, ſaith he. God's Heart, my Brethren, is as deep in Love as it is in Wiſdom, yea and his Love was it that ſet his Wiſdom to work, to find out all thoſe Depths whereby to ſhew his Love. And therefore it is an obſervable place in Rom. 11. 23. (which I quoted at the firſt) O the Depths (ſaith he) of the Riches of the Knowledge and Wiſdom of God! You would think that the Apoſtle there ſpeaks only of the Knowledge and Wiſdom of God; no, he means Mercy and Love, as well as Wiſdom, or rather Wiſdom ſet a Work by Love; and it is clear by the Context, for he had ſpoken in the words before, of God's ſhewing Mercy to the Elect, That through your Mercy (ſaith he) they might obtain Mercy: For God hath concluded all under Unbelief, that he might have Mercy upon all; O the Depth, &c. Having ſpoken of Love and Mercy which God intends to his Elect, and the Ways and Contrivements that Wiſdom hath to ſhew Mercy, he cries out, O the Depth of the Riches both of the Wiſdom and Knowledge of God! And there in Rom. 12. 1. where he comes to make Application of all, what ſaith he? I beſeech you therefore Brethren, by the Mercies of God, that you do ſo and ſo. We have two Gulphes in us, two Veſſels, Underſtanding and Will, and both theſe muſt be fill'd: Why the Goſpel contains two Depths in it, the one to fill your Underſtanding, the other to fill your Will and Affections for ever. It contains a Depth of Wiſdom, and it contains a Depth of Love; it is a Myſtery of Wiſdom and it is Myſtery of Love. And ſo now I have diſpatched the firſt Property of the Excellency of the Goſpel, that it is a Myſtery. Chap. II.

I ſhall but make a ſhort Uſe of it, and that is only this. Theſe are great Invitements unto Men to become Saints, and being ſo, to ſearch in a more eſpecial manner into the things of the Goſpel; you know great Underſtandings ſeek after Depths, as good Swimmers do after great Rivers, and will not go to Shallowes. It is ſaid of the Leviathan, that he playes in the Sea, there is room enough to do ſo. If any thing invites the Underſtanding of Man to be ſearching and prying, the Depths of the Goſpel will do it.

And let me add this to it (which as it inhanceth the Worth of the Goſpel, ſo it ſhould ſet on our Spirits after the Knowledge of it, and the Knowledge of it as Saints, the Depths of it are ſo great that it will always produce new Knowledge; though you know but the ſame Things again, yet your Knowledge ſhall be always new, why? Becauſe it paſſeth Knowledge. Go take all other things that are the greateſt Riddles and Secrets in the World, and when you once know them, you know them, and they become Trivial when you once know them. There was a Secret in Nature, which the World almoſt for Three Thouſand Years did not know: I am ſure the Heathens did not, and that was the Cauſe of the Eclipſe of the Sun and the Moon, and they ſtood all wondering (as of late the Weſt Indians did) when ſuch a thing happened: Now we know that the Moons coming between the Sun eclipſeth it, and the Shadow of Earth coming between the Moon and the Sun eclipſeth it; and this great Riddle that amazed the World, we count it now we know it but a trivial Thing; and who almoſt when the Sun or Moon are eclipſed, thinks of it with any Admiration? But when the Depths of the Goſpel are unfolded to you, you may ſtill ſearch into them, and ſearch further with new Pleaſure, and to a renewed Underſtanding they are always New and Freſh. There is no New thing under the Sun, ſaith Solomon in Eccleſ. 1. And he ſpeaks of natural moral Knowledge: But there is nothing but New things which are above the Sun, which Believers know: Therefore as the Mercies of God are New every Morning, ſo the Thoughts of theſe Mercies they are to an Holy Heart precious, ſweet, New every Morning. And you ſhall find this, that as you grow up more in Holineſs, ſtill the Things you knew before will be New to you; the very ſame

Chap. III. Things, beſides your Enlargement in other things that you did not know before: So the Apoſtle clearly ſaith, in 1 Cor. 13. 10. When that which is Perfect is come, that which is in Part ſhall be done away: When I was a Child, I underſtood as a Child, but when I became a Man I put away Childiſh things. Every new Degree of ſpiritual Light ſwallowed up what he knew before, that he thinketh that he did not know it before, the Knowledge of it, or that New Light, being ſo pleaſant to him.

Now, my Brethren, to have the Mind of Man not only to have Depths made the Object of it, but the Holier he grows to be carried on to further Depths, to be led along thus with continual New Knowledge, there is nothing more Pleaſant; and yet this the Goſpel is, and all the Depths of it. And then when you ſhall have Depths of Love added, a Sea of Love breaking in upon your Hearts, at every Thought, (if the Apprehenſion be wound up high) to fill a Mans Will and Affection, as the other fill'd his Underſtanding; this muſt needs fill the Heart with unſpeakable Pleaſure and Joy, and Contentment, in the View and Contemplation of this great and high Myſtery. Now if we had Holineſs enough, and Love enough, and Faith enough, and grew in theſe, this would certainly be our Caſe. And ſo much now for this firſt Property of the Goſpel that is here mentioned, that it is called a Myſtery.

CHAP. III.

Another Demonſtration of the Excellency of the Goſpel, that it is a ſecret Myſtery, an hidden, and concealed Wiſdom.

COLOS. I. 26.

—Which hath been hidden from Ages, and from Generations, &c.

I Come now to the Second of thoſe Properties or Adjuncts that are Attributed or Aſcribed unto the Goſpel, mention'd in this 26*th* Verſe, to ſet forth the Glory of it, and that is the ſecrecy and hiddenneſs of it. Hidden (ſaith he) from Ages and from Generations.

That which is here Tranſlated [hid] is in Rom. 16. 25. Silence, not ſpoken of, it was kept Secret, at leaſt the Myſtery of it. Now to him (ſaith he) that is of Power to ſtabliſh you, according to my Goſpel, and the Preaching of Jeſus Chriſt, according to the Revelation of the Myſtery, which was [kept Secret] ſince the World began. The Apoſtle Paul in all the foregoing Part of the Epiſtle, had laid open the great Things of this Goſpel, and now at the latter end of all in the Concluſion of it (becauſe that it is the Revelation of the Goſpel for which we are moſt of all to bleſs God) he makes that Doxology, or cloſeth it with this Praiſe and Thankſgiving unto God: Now to Him that is of Power to ſtabliſh you, according to my Goſpel, and the Preaching of Jeſus Chriſt, according to the Revelation of the Myſtery, which was kept Secret ſince the World began, but now is made manifeſt; To God only wiſe be Glory, through Jeſus Chriſt, Amen. He doth involve and interweave the Mention of the Glory and Excellency of this Goſpel, as that for which there is Glory to be given given to God in all Ages and by all Nations (for ſo the Doxology runs) and this for ever. Chap. III.

It is ſaid here to be hid from Ages, and from Generations. Interpreters, ſome of them, do make a Difference between theſe Two; namely, Ages and Generations, that the one doth import all thoſe Times of Eternity (if they may be called Times) before the World was; and the other, all the Times that have been ſince God made this World, ſince indeed Time was. I ſhall give you the Senſe, in which the Goſpel may be ſaid to be hid in both Reſpects.

If, in the firſt Place, we take [from Ages] to be all the Time before the World was (as in Acts 15. it is, known unto God (ſaith he) are his Works, even from Everlaſting) then this Goſpel was hid with God, even from Everlaſting. In 1 Cor. 2. 7. he ſaith, It is the Myſtery, and hidden Wiſdom which God hath ordained before the World: And in Rev. 14. 6. it is called, the Everlaſting Goſpel. And therefore you ſhall obſerve likewiſe in the Place quoted even now, Rom. 16. 25, 26. he ſaith, It is a Myſtery, which was kept Secret ſince the World began (ſo our Tranſlators read it, it is the ſame Word which is uſed here for Ages) and is now made manifeſt according to the Commandment of the Everlaſting God. Why comes in the Epithete of that God which hath been from Everlaſting? But becauſe the Goſpel hath been ſo too, and hath been kept Secret not only from the Time ſince the World began, but from Everlaſting alſo.

You will ſay unto me, in what Reſpect ſhould the Goſpel be ſaid to be hid even from Everlaſting, when there was no Creature to know it?

I Anſwer, becauſe it was that Knowledge which in God's eſteem even from Everlaſting he reſolved he would be ſparing of, and ordained to reſerve to himſelf. The Things of the Goſpel they were (as the Apoſtle tells us, 1 Cor. 2. 10.) The Deep Things of God, that lay (as I may ſo ſpeak) at the bottom of his Heart, the great Secrets, which he eſteemed ſuch even from Everlaſting. And whereas for other kind of Knowledge he had but a common Regard, not much caring or ſtanding upon it, when he ſhould reveal it, and ſo thought with himſelf; as for the Knowledge of other Things, I can ſet no Time for the Revelation of them (that is, in Reſpect of any peculiar Account or Value I have of them, though all Things fall within my Decree) but I will give means to Mankind to know any Thing elſe preſently; but this of the Goſpel ſaith he I will reſerve. Other Things in God that he meant to reveal, they lay uppermoſt in his Thoughts, &c. they were common, he cared not how ſoon they were known. But theſe were the Deep Things of God; God hath not been ſparing or nice (as I may expreſs it) of any other Knowledge whatſoever, that in this World he meant to reveal to the Sons of Men, either the Knowledge of the Creature or of his Law; but this of the Goſpel he locked up in his own Breaſt, he had a peculiar Cabinet for it, and it lay under a Lock of his own Decree not to manifeſt it, till the fulneſs of Time ſhould come. And therefore, it is ſaid to be hid in God even from Everlaſting. There is a Phraſe in 1 Cor. 2. 10. ſpeaking of this Goſpel (as in that Chapter he doth) he ſaith, The Spirit ſearcheth all Things, yea, the deep Things of God. It is expreſs'd after the manner of Men, and that Phraſe with that Emphaſis: Yea, the deep Things of God, implies, that God as other Artiſts, and thoſe that are wiſe, when he hath any Thing that is rare, and which he Cares not to let every one ſee, keeps it cloſe. In the like manner you have a Phraſe at the 9th Verſe of that Chapter, Eye hath not ſeen, nor the Ear heard, neither have entred into the Heart of Man, the Things (the Things of the Goſpel, namely, for he ſpeaks of the Goſpel in that Chapter) which God hath prepared for them that love him. Prepared, when? Why prepared even from Everlaſting, for as Auſtin well expreſſeth preſſeth it, the Decrees of God (ſaith he) they are but the Preparations, the Contrivements of all thoſe Benefits and Mercies which God intended to beſtow upon us.

Secondly, It is ſaid to be hidden alſo from Generations, that is, from Ages ſince the World began: So the Apoſtle ſpeaks, looking backward to former Times. I ſhall give you the Particulars, in Reſpect of which it was ſaid to be hidden from all Generations paſt.

The Goſpel as it is now revealed, was hid from all Nations.

1. It was hid from the Gentiles, ſo as it was New to them: And that is plainly one of the Apoſtles Scopes here. He writes to Gentiles, and he would magnifie the Mercy of the Revelation of the Goſpel unto them; and therefore if you Mark it, he ſaith, Ver. 27. To whom (namely, the Saints) God would make known the Riches of the Glory of this Myſtery [among the Gentiles] And ſo likewiſe you have it in Eph. 3. 8. Unto me, who am leſs than the leaſt of all Saints, is this Grace given, that I ſhould Preach [among the Gentiles] the unſearchable Riches of Chriſt: And to make all Men ſee what is the Fellowſhip of the Myſtery (namely to the Gentiles, that they ſhould partake of it) which from the beginning of the World hath been hid in God. In ſo much, as ſome Interpreters would make in all theſe Places, both that in Rom. 16. 25. and this Place in the Epheſians, and likewiſe this Text in the Coloſſians, the Myſtery intended, to be the revealing of the Goſpel unto the Gentiles. But it is clear that is not the meaning: The Myſtery that was kept hid, is not only that the Goſpel ſhould be Preached to the Gentiles, but it is the Things of the Goſpel it ſelf, it is the Myſtery of the Glory of it, it is Chriſt the Hope of Glory; and it is (in the Epheſians) the unſearchable Riches of Chriſt: And more plain, in 1 Pet. 1. the Things conceal'd to former Times there, are not only ſaid to be the Revelation of theſe Things to the Gentiles, but the Things themſelves, the Salvation it ſelf, as you ſhall find if you read the 10, 11, and 12. Verſes of that Chapter.

2. It was kept hid even from the Jews alſo, it is therefore indeed called a Myſtery; for what is properly a Myſtery? It is not the Thing meerly hid, wholly kept ſo cloſe as that there is nothing ſaid about it, but when there is that ſaid about it, which doth obſcurely and darkly reveal it, and yet hath a further meaning which afterwards cometh to be opened. Even thus as to the Words that Adam ſpoke concerning his Wife, That they Two ſhould be one Fleſh, what ſaith the Apoſtle of it, in Eph. 5. 32. This is a great Myſtery, ſaith he? Why? Becauſe darkly under the Union of Man and Wife, was intended the Union of Chriſt and his Church. I ſpeak, ſaith he, concerning Chriſt and his Church.

Now it is therefore called a Myſtery even to the Jews, becauſe although they had the Goſpel, the Subſtance of it, yet it was vail'd, and the Carnal Jew he underſtood all in the Letter, and looked to nothing in the Goſpel; and as you have it in 2 Cor. 3. 13. There was a Vail put over Moſes his Face, ſo that the Children of Iſrael could not ſtedfaſtly look to the End of that which is aboliſhed; namely, to what was revealed unto them under the Law. But now the Goſpel is come, all is open, (as if you ſhould ſpeak of a Riddle, and when you have done, give the meaning of it) and then they ſaw that all that the Prophets and Moſes had written, was written concerning Chriſt. But I ſay, the Jews in the Time of the Law, ſaw not this Myſtery intended in it. You ſhall find this in that Place of the Romans I quoted even now, Chap. 16. ver. 25, 26. According to the Revelation of the Myſtery, which was kept Secret ſince the World began, but now is made manifeſt, and by the Scriptures of the Prophets (mark that Expreſſion) according to the Commandment of the Everlaſting God, made known to all Nations. Would you know, ſaith he, why the Goſpel is called a Myſtery? God had hid a great deal of it obſcurely up and down among the Prophets, and Chriſt hath ſent out his Apoſtles to make known and reveal what all thoſe Prophets intended, which they themſelves did not know, not in the clearneſs of it as we do, they had as it were the Letter, we have the Myſtery unfolded. Therefore ſays the Apoſtle Peter 1 Pet. 1. 10.

Chap. III.

1. 10. Of which Salvation, the Prophets enquired and ſearched diligently, who propheſied of the Grace that ſhould come unto you: Unto whom it was revealed, that not unto themſelves, but unto us they did miniſter the Things that are now reported unto you, &c. So that indeed the Myſtery, and the Meaning, and the End, at which all thoſe Things aimed that the Prophets delivered, they themſelves fully knew not; they were to write the Scriptures, and they enquired after, and ſearched diligently what thoſe Things which they wrote did ſignifie; but it was anſwered them, That not unto themſelves, but unto us they did miniſter the Things that are now reported. But now in the Times of the Goſpel (ſaith he in Rom. 16.) By the Scriptures of the Prophets, it is made known unto all Nations: Men had only hints before, but now by opening the Prophets, and laying Things together, the whole Buſineſs is unfolded, and this Myſtery is come out. And this is properly a Myſtery, and in this reſpect the Goſpel was a Myſtery, hidden even from the Jews themſelves. Therefore, to give you another Place, there is a little Particle in Eph. 3. 5. very obſervable, By Revelation he made known unto me the Myſtery, which in other Ages was not made known unto the Sons of Men. What, did they know nothing of the Goſpel? Yes ſaith the Apoſtle, they might, but it was in a Myſtery, it was not made known to them, ſaith he, as it is now revealed (Mark that Particle, made known as it is now) to his Holy Apoſtles and Prophets; that is, the Prophets of the New Teſtament upon whom the Holy Ghoſt fell, who opened unto them all thoſe Prophecies of the Old Teſtament, and they ſaw clearly nothing but Jeſus Chriſt in them. Hid it was you ſee from the Gentiles; hid it was alſo from the Jews, in reſpect of the Revelation of it. Hid it was alſo.

3. From the Angels, and from Adam in Innocency. The Angels might know that they were to have a Head in whom God did unite them unto himſelf; and they might know it, as the Fathers of the Old Teſtament knew there ſhould be a Meſſiah, by whom they ſhould be Redeemed; but how, and who, and what he was, they knew not; and in that Reſpect they are ſaid, in 1 Pet. 1. 10, 11. to Pry into theſe Things; which Place I ſhall not mention much; but I ſhall give you another Place, which will comprehend both; namely, that the great Things of the Goſpel were kept hidden from Angels and from Man alſo. And it is in 1 Cor. 2. 9. compared with Iſai. 64. 4. (out of which, the Words in the Corinthians are taken) As it is written, Eye hath not ſeen, nor Ear heard, neither have entred into the Heart of Man, the Things that God hath prepared for them that Love him. Now in Iſaiah it is thus, Since the beginning of the World, Men have not heard, nor perceived by the Ear, nor hath the Eye ſeen, O God, beſides thee, what he hath prepared for him that waiteth for him. To open theſe Words a little. When he ſaith there in the Corinthians, Eye hath not ſeen, nor Ear heard, &c. it hath Reference to what was ſaid, Ver. 7. We ſpeak the Wiſdom of God in a Myſtery, even the hidden Wiſdom, which God ordained afore the World: And it hath Reference alſo to ver. 8. where it is ſaid, Which Wiſdom none of the Princes of this World knew; and he brings a Proof why none of the Princes, none of the corrupt Men of the World ever knew it, a majori, from a far greater Argument; for ſaith he, theſe great Things which the Goſpel reveals for the Salvation of the Elect, have not only not entred into the Heart of corrupt Men, but they have not entred into the Heart of Innocent Man, not into the Heart of Adam himſelf. How do I prove that? From that in Iſai. 64. 4. Since the beginning of the World, ſaith he, Men have not heard, &c. which Phraſe the Apoſtles often uſe, when they ſpeak of the Goſpel being hidden, as in Eph. 3. 9. he ſaith, It hath been hid from the beginning of the World. But you will ſay, he excludes not Angels? Why truely, if you Conſult the Place in Iſaiah, he ſaith, That none hath ſeen, O God, beſides Thee; who doth he ſpeak to? To Jeſus Chriſt, as a diſtinct Perſon from his Father; why? It is clear by this, becauſe he changeth the Phraſe; None hath ſeen, O God, beſides thee; what He hath prepared, not what thou haſt prepared, but what he hath prepared; as if he had ſaid, beſides Thee O God the

Son

Chap. III.

Son, kneweſt what God the Father hath prepared for thoſe that Love him, none elſe but only Jeſus Chriſt which was in God's Boſom knew it. Neither Eye hath ſeen, nor Ear heard, nor hath it entred into the Heart of Man: There is but thoſe Three Ways of knowing, either from the inward natural Principles, which are in the Heart of Man; and ſo a Thing enters into a Man's Heart from the Principles of Reaſon, which are in a Man's ſelf; why ſaith he, all the Principles that were ſown in Adam's Heart, or in any Man's Heart elſe, would not have afforded this Knowledge, it would not have entred into a Man's Heart. And then all the Way of Knowledge by the Eye, or Obſervation of the Creatures, could never have afforded this Knowledge, or the leaſt Jot of it. No all the hearing by the Ear, all the Communication that God ſhould have made to Adam, would not have laid open theſe Things to him. And it is plain, that Iſaiah ſpeaks of the Things of the Goſpel, not only by the Quotation of his Words by the Apoſtle Paul, but from the Deſire of the Church there, that God would bow the Heavens and come down, and reveal theſe Things to them; bow the Heavens (ſaith he) and come down, touch the Mountains, &c. Even as the Mountains when God gave the Law bowed down before him, ſo he expreſſeth the revealing of the Goſpel under the ſame Terms.

Having gone over all theſe Places, there is one Place more, in which all that I have ſaid out of the Romans, and out of the Corinthians, and out of the Coloſſians, and out of the Epheſians, concerning the hiddenneſs of this Wiſdom, is in a manner contained, and it is in the Old Teſtament, and for ought I know in the oldeſt Book of the Old Teſtament, even in Job, Chap. 28. which I ſhall open to you as clearly as I can; the Truth is, I had not thought it had lain in that Place, till I found the Learned Ainſworth refer to it, though but in a Word.

Moſt Interpreters I find refer all the Matter in that 28th Chapter, to the 12th verſe of the 27th Chapter, and that there Job begins his Preface to all the Diſcourſe that follows. I will teach you (ſaith he) (it is Tranſlated) by the Hand of God; but Piſcator reads it, Of the Hand of God, that is, that ſhall be the Subject I ſpeak of, and that which is with the Almighty, will I not conceal, that which is Secret and laid up with him: Where he profeſſeth to hint to them a Secret Counſel and Wiſdom, which was in God beyond what they had ſpoken, a Wiſdom which they knew little of, and which God kept Secret from all Living. All the Diſcourſes of Job's Friends, what had they been about? They had been about God's outward Diſpenſations, how God puniſheth Wicked Men for their Sins, and they confine themſelves to that Diſcourſe, to the Works of God's Providence, and an Enumeration of his legal Proceedings in a way of Juſtice to Sinners, which was a common ordinary Notion then in the World, and which ſuited thoſe Times under the Law of Nature, under which it is Thought Job lived. Now in this they prided themſelves in their Diſcourſe, therefore Job to confound them, and not only to Confute them, but Shame them too; he profeſſeth to hint to them another Wiſdom, which they did not Exerciſe their Thoughts about. Why ſaith he, Ver. 12. You ſpeak nothing but what is ordinary, Behold, all ye your ſelves have ſeen it, why then are ye thus altogether Vain? Or Boaſt your ſelves of ſuch a Knowledge as you have uttered, by which you condemn me, as if I were a wicked Man? (for by it they had condemned him, becauſe God puniſhed wicked Men according to their Works) and ſo Job goes on to repeat what they had ſaid, as you will ſee, if you compare the 13th Verſe to the end, with the 20th Chapter. But ſaith he, whereas you think that this Knowledge you have uttered, hath ſuch a great deal of Depth in it; I'll tell you, or teach you of the Hand of God; that is, of God's Eternal Purpoſe for ſo you ſhall find it (as Piſcator well obſerveth) in Acts 4. interpreted; They were gathered together, ſaith he, to do whatſoever thy Hand and Counſel determined before to be don. I will not conceal (ſaith Job) that which is with the Almighty; there is an higher Wiſdom, which He in his Eternal Purpoſe hath order'd beyond that which you ſee in the Works of his ordinary Providence, which you neither mind nor ſearch into. Having thus Prefaced his following Diſcourſe, courſe, he doth in 28th Chapter, as both Beza and Janſonius obſerveth, begin to ſpeak of this Wiſdom, and to Commend it to them. And ſee how he ſets it out, you ſhall ſee it will fall in and open all the Scriptures I have already mentioned. Chap. III.

Firſt, He compares that Wiſdom, which he would ſet their Thoughts a work upon, which they neglected, and out of the Rigour of their legal Spirits condemned him; he compares it, I ſay, Firſt, With all Humane Wiſdom, and he tells them plainly this, that there is a great deal of Wiſdom in the Hearts of Men; and inſtanceth in the Art that Men have to find out all the precious Things that are hid in the Bowels of the Earth; ſo ver. 1. He findeth out, where there is a vein for Silver, and a place for Gold; he taketh Iron out of the Earth, and he hath ſuch Skill as he can make Braſs out of a Stone; and if a Flood break out while he is digging under the Earth, he can overcome that Difficulty and remove it; and he digs up Stones out of the Earth where Bread grows, one would have thought Man ſhould have been contented with Bread; no, but he digs up the Earth, where he finds Stones that are the Place of Saphires, and which hath Duſt of Gold: And ver. 10. (ſays he) He is able to cut out Rivers among the Rocks (for he ſpeaks of Man and his Wiſdom, which God hath given him in all this) and his Eye ſeeth every precious Thing. Well, but when he had thus deſcribed the Art of Man from the firſt Verſe to the 12th. ſaith he, though Men have all this Skill and this Art: Yet where ſhall Wiſdom be found, and where is the Place of Underſtanding? And by Wiſdom here he means the ſame that Solomon doth in the Proverbs, viz. that Wiſdom that ſhall ſave Men, as appears in the Laſt Verſe: For Job interlaceth many Diſcourſes of Chriſt, ſpeaks of him as the Redeemer, I ſhall ſee him with theſe Eyes, ſaith he, and he whom he calleth the Redeemer elſewhere, in this Chapter he calls Wiſdom, which was to be the ordinary Phraſe of the Old Teſtament, and ſo of thoſe Times by which they did call the Meſſiah. He complains in the 13th Verſe, that Man who had all this Art and Skill to find out all Things elſe, yet he ſought not after this: Man knoweth not the Price thereof, neither is it found in the Land of the Living; you may go almoſt all the World over and hear no Man ſpeak of it, no Man values it. He ſpeaks not of that Wiſdom which is in God infinitely, for that is not a Thing for Man to obtain, and ſo under that Conſideration to value it as Paul did, when he eſteemed all as Dung in Compariſon of it; Man knows it not, ſaith he, he would never have inhanced the Price of it (as afterward, ver. 16. It cannot be valued with the Gold of Ophir, with the precious Onix, or the Saphire) but to raiſe up the Hearts to ſeek it: He ſpeaks juſt as Solomon doth in Prov. 8. when he ſpeaks of Chriſt.

Secondly, As he compares it with all the Knowledge that Man hath, ſo with all the Knowledge that the Creatures materially can afford. Go over all the Creatures, they all do not contain one Jot of that Wiſdom; ſo ſaith the 14th Verſe, The Depth ſaith, it is not in me, and the Sea ſaith, it is not in me; for they do afford to Man's Underſtanding no hint at all of any ſuch Thing, not a whit to be known of the Knowledge of God in Chriſt is in the whole Frame of Nature. Whence cometh Wiſdom then? (ver. 20.) And where is the Place of Underſtanding? Seeing it is hid from the Eyes of all Living, and kept cloſe from the Fowls of Heaven. Whence comes it? That is, Who is the Author of it? And where is it to be found? That is, What is the Subject Matter of it? The Depth affordeth it not, it is not to be found there, the Creatures though they hold forth the Foot-ſteps of God, yet they do not hold forth this Wiſdom. He tells us afterward, in Ver. 23. That God underſtandeth the way thereof, and he knoweth the Place thereof; (for as the Apoſtle ſaith, in Eph. 5.) It lies hid in God, and Job ſaith, that God had kept it cloſe, and doth keep it cloſe from all; and ſo he reckons up all Things that are to be reckoned up, he reckons up the Sons of Men; It is hid, ſaith he, from the Eyes of all Living, that is, of Mankind; and kept cloſe from the Fowls of Heaven (as you have it in your Margents) as metaphorically he calleth Angels; for otherwiſe, why would he aſcend from the Eyes of all Living, ſpeaking of Man, to the Fowls of Heaven, unleſs he ſpake of ſuch Creatures, as have more Underſtanding than Man, namely, Angels, for ſo in Scripture they are called. And ſaith he, Ver. 22. Go down to Deſtruction and Death, and they will ſay, we have heard the Fame thereof with our Ears; all our Fore-fathers that are Dead, they knew not the way of it neither; tho' they have heard the Fame of it: The Devil heard it when he was Curſed, he heard it with a Witneſs, that both his Ears tingled when he heard it; and all our Fathers that are Dead, heard the Fame of it, knew there was ſuch a Thing, as Job alſo did, but they had not that clear Revelation of it. It being hidden therefore from all theſe, It is God, ſaith he, that underſtandeth the Way thereof, and he knoweth the Place thereof; That God that looks to the Ends of the Earth, and ſeeth under the whole Heaven; That God that makes a weight for the Winds, and that weigheth the Waters by meaſure; That God when He made a Decree for the Rain, and away for the Lightning of the Thunder; Then did He ſee it, and (as your Margent hath it) did number it, or revolved it in his Mind, he recounted it, he prepared it, yea, and ſearched it out. He ſaw it, that is, he had it in his View, as the chiefeſt Wiſdom of all elſe, greater than whatever elſe he was a doing in making the World: And He Numbred it, that is, He Accounted it as the choiceſt of all Knowledge elſe: And He prepared it as a further Thing than the Wiſdom He ſtamped upon the Creature, and He did as it were by Study ſearch it out. You find theſe Phraſes fall in with what the Apoſtles themſelves uſe of it.

If you ask me what Wiſdom this is that Job ſpeaks thus of? It is (as I hinted afore) that Wiſdom whereby Men are ſaved, which was the Title that then in thoſe Old Times they gave to the Meſſiah, and the Fear of Him, and the Knowledge of Him, and of God. If you look in Prov. 8. (and this Book of Job was written long afore that of the Proverbs) you ſhall find that Solomon uſeth the ſame Expreſſions that Job here doth, and he makes a Deſcription of Jeſus Chriſt under the Title of Wiſdom, and of that way of Salvation that was then but obſcurely revealed, and afterward more fully manifeſted in the Times of the Goſpel, even the hidden Wiſdom of God, as the Apoſtle calls it. Solomon in that 8th of the Proverbs, ver. 11. ſaith, That the Knowledge of it is better than Rubies, and that all the Things that may be deſired, are not to be compared to it. Job uſeth the ſame Expreſſion, ver. 18. No mention ſhall be made of Coral or of Pearls, for the Price of Wiſdom is above Rubies: Had it been the Wiſdom of God himſelf, which God everlaſtingly keepeth to himſelf, and is not to be pryed into; Job would not have put that Price upon it to incite Men to the ſearch of it. So likewiſe you ſhall find, that Solomon makes the ſame Complaints that Job doth, that the Sons of Men receive it not, value it not. And as Job ſaith, That God when he made a Decree for the Rain; then did He ſee that Wiſdom and prepared it, and ſearched it out; ſo Solomon uſeth the ſame Expreſſions alſo, Prov. 8. 28. When He eſtabliſhed the Clouds above (its the ſame Expreſſion) when He ſtrengthened the Fountains of the Deep, when He gave to the Sea his Decree, &c. Then ſaith Wiſdom, I was there, and was daily his Delight, &c. And that you may ſee how one Scripture openeth another; you ſhall find in Eph. 3. where it is called a hidden Wiſdom, he ſaith, To make all Men ſee what is the fellowſhip of the Myſtery, which from the beginning of the World was hid in God, who created all Things by Jeſus Chriſt. Now what ſaith Job, and what ſaith Prov. 8. Saith Job, When God did give a Decree for the Rain; When he eſtabliſhed the Clouds above, ſaith Solomon, then did He ſee this, He had this in his Eye, but he kept it cloſe as a further Wiſdom, than what he was a making and ſtamping upon the Creatures: It was hid in God, ſaith the Apoſtle, who created all Things by Jeſus Chriſt: In the Strength of Chriſt God-man did he Create all Things, and had then in his Eye the Lord Jeſus, whom he meant to propound to the Creature as the Head of the Creation. It is a Wiſdom alſo which is not in Nature but diſtinct from it; for Job ſaith, When he made the World he ſaw this. And then he uſeth the very ſame Phraſes that are uſed of the Goſpel. There are Four Things ſaid of it. 1. He ſaw it. 2. Recenſuit (ſo Piſcator tranſlates it) He numbered it with himſelf, recounted it. 3. He did prepare it. 4. He ſearched it out. Now do but look in 1 Cor. 2. 9, 10. where the Apoſtle ſpeaks of this hidden Wiſdom, and you have the very ſame Phraſes. We ſpeak the Wiſdom of God in a Myſtery, which God ordained before the World. The Things which God hath prepared (the Septuagint uſeth the very ſame Words in the Greek, which the Apoſtle doth here) and then he ſearcheth it out, The Spirit, ſaith he, ſearcheth the deep Things of God. And my Brethren, to add this as the Concluſion, it is that Wiſdom by which Men were then ſaved, that Job had here in his Eye: Now what Wiſdom was it that Men were ſaved by then? It was by that obſcure Knowledge they had of God in Chriſt held forth in the Promiſe, which did Cauſe them to cleave to him, and to fear him, and to worſhip him, and to depart from Evil: Now look in Prov. 8. and compare it with the laſt Verſe of this 28th of Job. Saith he there, ver. 12. ſpeaking of Wiſdom, I Wiſdom dwell with Prudence, and find out Knowledge: The Fear of the Lord is to hate Evil, &c. and ver. 20. I lead in the way of Righteouſneſs, &c. And ſo he goes on, and in the Concluſion ſhews, how that the Knowledge of Chriſt, and of the Goſpel as it was then revealed did work Men to cleave unto God, to fear God, and to depart from Evil; that was the Way whereby Men were ſaved then. So Job tells his Friends here, you tell me ſaith he, of Gods dealings with me in an outward way of Providence, but you mind not the Wiſdom of God, what is that? The Fear of the Lord, that is Wiſdom, and to depart from Evil, is Underſtanding. Now in the Jewiſh Language, the Piety of thoſe Times, by which they are ſaid to believe in God and to be Religious, is ſtill expreſs'd, by the fear of the Lord: And he in the New Teſtament, that is called a Believer, in the Old is called a Man that feareth God, for that was the Wiſdom Chriſt was made unto Men in the Old Teſtament. I ſay, as Faith is the great Thing in which the Language of the New Teſtament runs, ſo the fear of the Lord is the Language of the Old: There are a World of Places for it. Pſalm 34. Come ye Children, and I will teach you the fear of the Lord: Therefore it is called the beginning of Wiſdom, when they came thus to know God, for it is called the fear of the Lord, becauſe it was that by which they were to fear God and come to the Meſſiah, a fear which made them wiſe unto Salvation. The ſame Chriſt by teaching them his fear then, made them wiſe to Salvation, which teacheth us now; only our Religion is expreſſed by Faith, theirs by Fear, becauſe there was little Goſpel mixt with it; it wrought in a legal Way, in a way of Bondage then, ours in a way of Adoption. So that it is clear, that Job ſpeaks of that Wiſdom whereby Men are ſaved according to the Notion of thoſe Times, having ſome hint of ſome further Wiſdom which was hid in God, which was not in Angels, nor in Men, and which God himſelf in the End would reveal. And ſo you have as I conceive truly the meaning of that Place in Job. Chap. III.

USE, Is the Goſpel thus a hidden Wiſdom, hidden from Ages and from Generations? This ſhould cauſe us to value, and put the higheſt worth and eſteem upon it. Amongſt all other Conſiderations that ſhould move us to it, this is not the leaſt. We ſee the greateſt Wits of the World, and the greateſt Underſtandings, have ſtill been taken with Antiquity, with any Learning and Knowledge that is Ancient, eſpecially when it is hidden too. How do Men prize an Old Copy of a Father (as they are called) which hath lain hidden in ſome hole in a Manuſcript, and is now revealed! How doth a great Scholar value ſuch a Thing! They think it a Glory to be the Publiſher of ſuch a Thing. To have an Old Copy of the New Teſtament, though it doth not differ Three Words throughout the whole from what we commonly have, yet if it be an Old Copy (as lately one of the Septuagint written 1300 Years ago was ſent over) what a value is there ſet upon it! If the Prophecy of Enoch which Jude quoteth (and ſuch a Thing they ſay is extant in Africa) were now found out, how would it be valued! If it were common here, how would it be eſteemed! Solomon you know wrote of Herbs and Plants, from the Cedar in Lebanon to the Hyſſop that Springs out of the Wall, if theſe Books that are loſt were now found, what a Price would we ſet upon them! O my Brethren, a far greater than the Wiſdom of Solomon is here, and far more Ancient, for here is the Wiſdom that was hid in God from Ages and Generations, even before the World was, which lay at the bottom of his Heart, which are the deep Things of God. Here is a whole Edition (for ſo the Goſpel is) of a New Teſtament, of a new Knowledge of God, in Compariſon of what the Fathers had. Here is the Wiſdom of God himſelf, which was kept cloſe from the Gentiles, from all Nations Four Thouſand Years, kept hid from Adam in Innocency, kept hid from Angels, kept hid from all, that his own Spirit even ſearcheth into theſe deep Things of God. How ſhould this whet on our Souls to be skilful in, and to ſtudy this Goſpel, and to know all the Secrets of it; to ſeek unto God, for that Holy and Bleſſed Spirit who writ this Word, and hath hid herein all the Treaſures of Knowledge which are to be revealed to us. This did commend it to the Primitive Times; Paul ſtill in all his Epiſtles, as you have ſeen in that of the Romans, in this of the Coloſſians, in that of the Epheſians, in that of the Corinthians, makes it a mighty Matter, that unto them this Goſpel was revealed that was hid before, that God had broke up a new Treaſury, not of Notional Divinity; but of the Knowledge of himſelf, even the Myſtery of the Father and of Chriſt, as it is called in Coloſ. 2. 1.

But you will ſay unto me, this indeed did mightily commend it to our Fore-fathers, that lived in the Primitive Times to whom it was firſt made known. In regard to them it was admirable, that it ſhould be 4000 Years before it was revealed, and then made known unto them, and that they ſhould be the firſt: But for us we are born under it, and it hath now been 1600 Years ſince it was made manifeſt. Therefore what is this to commend it to us?

I Anſwer Firſt, It did lie hid however 4000 Years afore the World knew it; and that thou ſhouldſt have thy Lot to be born in the Days of the revealing of this Goſpel, and ſhouldſt come to know theſe Things which were hid to the Ages before, as a Favour: for thou mighteſt have been born in the midſt of thoſe 4000 Years.

But Secondly, So did God order it in his great Wiſdom, that though the Law was given (I Paralel it ſo) in Moſes his Time, yet there was a Time (as that of Manaſſehs, and of other of thoſe Kings) in which the Law was in a manner loſt, and the Prieſt ſearching in the Temple doth by Chance find it. This hath been the Caſe of the Goſpel ſince God delivered it to theſe Times, for this Doctrine of the Goſpel in the greateſt Glory, and the Riches of the Secrets of it, was obſcured for more than a Thouſand Years, yea, from the very Apoſtles Time a Myſtery of Iniquity began to work, and another Goſpel to be raiſed up that darkned the true one by Degrees, till Antichriſtianiſm over-ſpread the World, when as all the World, and the Learned Men of the World ran after the Rudiments of the World and not after Jeſus Chriſt, and the World was ſpoiled thorough School-Divinity, and thorough Philoſophy, as the Apoſtle ſpeaks, Coloſ. 2. 8. And it is not many Years ſince, that great and glorious breaking forth of the Goſpel began in the Time of Luther; when God did break up another Indies. He gave the Pope a World, the Spaniſh World, the Weſt-Indies; He ſet them a Work about the firſt Part of the Wiſdom ſpoken of, in that 28th of Job, to find out a Vein for the Silver, and a Place for the Gold: And he gave another Indies of the Goſpel unto us of the Proteſtant Churches, and it had been Happy for us to have kept ours, and to improve it as they have done theirs. But my Brethren, though God begun and renewed the Knowledge of this Goſpel, yet the Saints will find digging Work enough in it, even to the End of the World. You ſhall find in the very midſt of the Book of the Revelation, when Fourteen Chapters ters of it were ſpent, that it is there ſaid, Ver. 6. I ſaw another Angel flie in the midſt of Heaven, having the Everlaſting Goſpel to Preach unto them that dwell on the Earth. He ſpeaks of the Time of Antichriſt, for in the 13th Chapter, he deſcribeth the Beaſt, how he aſcendeth out of the Sea; and in the 14th, he deſcribes the Saints under Antichriſt, and how he tyrannized over them, eſpecially at the latter End, when the Light of the glorious Goſpel of Chriſt breaks forth. And whereas they accuſe the Goſpel of Novelty, no, it is an Everlaſting Goſpel, ſaith he. And God did ſet a Work many before us to Preach this Goſpel, and how did they begin to Preach it? (for it went on by Degrees) They fell upon Images firſt, they bad People take heed Fear God, and give Glory to Him, and Worſhip Him, that made Heaven and Earth; that was the firſt great Thing which the Proteſtants laid open, when they firſt began to Preach the Goſpel. Afterwards they began to challenge Rome with being the Antichriſt, that was the ſecond Angel. And then a Third comes, and ſaith, That whoſoever drinks of her Waters, and of her Cup ſhall Everlaſtingly be tormented; ſo that Men that are learned and knowing Men living in that Religion cannot be ſaved. And then in the 15th and 16th Chapters there come ſeven Angels out of the Temple, and they ſtill reveal more and more. Thus doth God by Degrees go on, ſo that within theſe 100 Years, we in our Age, ever ſince that great Light firſt brake out (eſpecially here in this Kingdom) have had the Light of the Goſpel riſing ſtill clearer and clearer, and ſo it will do till Antichriſt be deſtroied, for he is to be deſtroied, to be melted (ſo the Word is) by the dawning of the Sun of Righteouſneſs, who is coming upon the World. Therefore in Iſa. 11. 8. he ſaith, The Earth ſhall be full of the Knowledge of the Lord, as the Waters cover the Sea; he hath the like Expreſſion in Hab. 2. And he ſpeaks of the latter Times, for he ſpeaks of thoſe Times before, and upon the Calling of the Jews; and that is clear by ver. 11. of that Iſa. 11. It ſhall come to paſs in that Day, that the Lord ſhall ſet his Hand again the Second Time, to recover the Remnant of his People; he had deliver'd them out of Captivity once, and he ſhall do it again the Second Time, ſaith he. Now go take Ezekiel, he propheſieth likewiſe of thoſe latter Times, and he uſeth the ſame Expreſſion of the over-flowing of Waters by Degrees, in Ezek. 47. ſpeaking of a glorious Temple, that was to be ſet up in the latter Days (that's clear by all the Paſſages of that Prophecy) he ſaith, He ſaw Waters iſſue from under the Threſhold of the Houſe (that is, of the Church) and ſaith he, firſt I was led thorough Waters, and the Waters came up to the Ancles; afterwards the Waters were to the Knees, and then to the Loins, and at length a River that could not be paſſed over, for the Waters were riſen, Waters to Swim in, and when he was returned to the Brink of the River (that you may know what Times he ſpeaks of) he ſaith, There were very many Trees on the one ſide, and on the other. Now compare this with Rev. 22. There you have the ſame Trees and the ſame Waters (ſpeaking of the latter Times of the Goſpel too, as Ezekiel doth) whoſe Leaves did heal the Nations every Month. So that he ſpeaks of the growing of the Knowledge of the Goſpel by Degrees, which ſhould be as Waters that cover the Sea. The like you have in Zachary where he propheſieth, that in the latter Times there ſhould come a Day, which ſhould be clearer towards Evening: In the Times before this, ſaith he, it ſhall be neither Light nor Dark (which I believe are our Times) and it ſhall begin to clear up towards Evening (it is in Zech. 14. 6, 7.) and he uſeth the ſame Expreſſion concerning Waters, Ver. 8. Living Waters, ſaith he, ſhall go out from Jeruſalem, &c. And Dan. 12. 4. Many ſhall run too and fro, and Knowledge ſhall be increaſed.

Chap. III.

I ſpeak it for this, that although the Goſpel was revealed to the Apoſtles ſo long ago, yet God hath ſo ordered it, that to us now it is new again. My Brethren, Let me ſay this to you, It is a Faith once given, ſo Jude tells us. When the Apoſtles had given it out of their Hands, what, will God ſend Apoſtles to recover this Goſpel again? No, it is a greater Glory for God by Degrees, and by ordinary Light in the Hearts of his Miniſters and his

People

Chap. IV.

People to recover this Gospel, (which was thus blasted by Antichrist, in the latter Days) that it shall have the same Purity in Doctrine and Government that was in the Primitive Times, I say, for God to do this by Degrees and by ordinary Means, it is a greater Glory then to send Apostles; it were an easie Matter for him to pour out his Spirit upon Men immediately as He did then, but he chuseth rather to do it by ordinary Means as he hath done; yea, and will go on to do it, and will never leave to do it, till he hath brought it to that heighth, when Jesus Christ shall come to possess his Kingdom, the Brightness of whose coming, the Dawnings of it, shall consume Antichristian Doctrine and Worship. It is a greater Matter for him to work a Miracle by ordinary Means in a way of ordinary Providence, than to shew these great Miracles that he did among the Jews, and the like; as indeed he hath in an ordinary Way done as great Matters for this Kingdom, as ever he did in Egypt for the bringing of his People out of that Bondage. It is I say an easie Matter for God to go and create a new World, and the like; but therein lies his Glory, that he will restore Things, and reduce them to the Primitive Purity by ordinary Means, and not send extraordinary Persons to do it.

Antichrist brought in all his Darkness by Degrees, and it shall go out by Degrees. The Mystery of Iniquity began to work in the Hearts of Men in the Apostles Times, and Darkness grew more and more till Midnight: So the Mystery of the Gospel works likewise, and these Dawnings shall increase more and more till the perfect Day; and the Issue of all these Confusions that are now, when Jesus Christ hath done his work, will be some glorious Thing. God hath given Pastors and Teachers (as the Apostle saith) to all Ages, and one Age doth teach another, and they all tend to the edifying of the Body of Christ, till we come unto a perfect Man, unto a measure of the Stature of the fulness of Christ. All the Light of the former Ages is drawn down to this Age, and in this Age Men suck in their very Education the Light of the former Ages, and so are prepared for a further growth, and so in the End the latter Age of the World will have a fulness of Stature again. And the Scope of all this is, though it is a Mystery, yet God hath so ordered it in his Providence, to endear it to us, to make it a new Mystery to us, even as if he had had Apostles afresh; for it was obscured, and it hath broke out afresh after it lay hid a Thousand Years.

CHAP. IV.

That the Knowledge of the Gospel is a most excellent Wisdom, because as a peculiar Favour, it is communicated by God onely to some Persons.

COLOS. I. xxvi.

But now is made manifest to his Saints.

HERE is the Rarity and Scarceness of it, when it cometh to be revealed [But now is made manifest to his Saints.] And this is the Subject which I shall insist upon.

In

In the handling of this, I ſhall do Two Things.

1. Give you an Explication of the Words.

2. Enlarge upon that Theam, to ſhew from thence, the Excellency of the Goſpel.

1. For Explication. If you mark it, the Apoſtle doth not ſay, which is now made manifeſt to me: Although Paul makes the Manifeſtation of it unto him, to be the means to manifeſt it to all the Saints; for as elſewhere he ſaith, it was a Treaſure in an earthen Veſſel committed unto him; and therefore in the 23d Verſe, and the laſt Words he ſaith, Whereof I Paul am made a Miniſter; and in the 25th Verſe, the firſt Words, Whereof I am made a Miniſter. But how is he made a Miniſter? For to reveal it to the Saints, therefore he doth not only ſay, is revealed unto me; but, now is made manifeſt to his Saints.

The Goſpel, although it was at firſt revealed unto Apoſtles and Prophets, yet the End and Intent of it was, that it ſhould be revealed to all the Saints. You have this expreſly in Eph. 3. 5. comparing it with this. In the 4th Verſe, he had called it (as here) The Myſtery of Chriſt; in the 5th Verſe, he ſaith, Which in other Ages was not made known unto the Sons of Men, as it is now revealed to His Holy Apoſtles and Prophets by the Spirit. One would think now, that the Apoſtle here ſhould only intend, that this Goſpel is revealed to the Doctors and Teachers of the Church, to the Holy Apoſtles and Prophets. No, read the 9th Verſe. It is (ſaith he) to make all Men ſee (that is, as theſe Words reſtrain it, all the Saints ſee) what is the Fellowſhip of the Myſtery, which hath been from the beginning of the World hid in God. It was not revealed only to Apoſtles and Prophets; But now (ſaith he) is made manifeſt to the Saints. And therefore in the 23d Verſe of this Chapter, ſaith he, If you continue in the Faith, grounded and ſettled, and be not moved away from the Hope of the Goſpel, which you have heard, and which was Preached to every Creature under Heaven. So that not only the Holy Apoſtles and Prophets of the New Teſtament received it, and it was manifeſted unto them, but to the Saints alſo. Therefore in the 25th Verſe of this Chapter, I am made a Miniſter of it (ſaith he) according to the Diſpenſation of God, which is given to me for you. So that indeed it was given to the Apoſtles, but only that they might make it manifeſt to the Saints; and hence therefore he ſaith, But now is made manifeſt to His Saints. I ſhall not need to enlarge more upon this, in the way of opening it.

II. I ſhall come therefore to the Thing it ſelf, viz. The Rarity of this Goſpel, and of the Myſteries of it, and ſhew you the Excellency of it in this Reſpect.

But is now (ſaith he) made manifeſt to His Saints.

He ſpeaks as if God were dainty of this Knowledge. He reveals it to Saints, and to Saints only; and to His Saints. There is a Revelation of it, which the Saints only have (as I ſhall ſhew you anon, and Anſwer Objections to the contrary) in 1 Cor. 1. 24. he ſaith, That to them that are called, both Jew and Greek, Chriſt is the Power of God, and the Wiſdom of God. We all ſay, that He is the Power of God only to them that are called, for He only works effectually in them: But that Scripture alſo tells us, That He is the Wiſdom of God only to them that are called, they ſo underſtand the Myſtery of it, as none elſe.

And then, if you Mark it, he commends the Knowledge of the Goſpel to us by this, that it is revealed to [His] Saints, His whom He had choſen, whom He had ſingled out. Certainly, if there had been any Knowledge better than other, he would have reſerved it for [His] Saints. There is an Emphaſis in that. You know, God choſe a Man beloved of him (for ſo Solomon was called) and as a Teſtimony of his Love to him, He gave him above all Things elſe, Knowledge; ſo that he abounded therein above all that were before him, or ſhall be after him. And Daniel that had great Myſteries opened to him, is call'd, A Man greatly beloved. I quote theſe Examples for this, to ſhew that that which is a more ſpecial excellent Knowledge ledge of all others, God would reſerve it for them. To you, ſaith Chriſt, it is given to know the Myſteries of the Kingdom of God, ſpeaking to his Diſciples; To you it is given, it was a Gift, and a ſpecial Gift. And therefore in Mat. 11. 25. We read of that great Thankſgiving which Chriſt makes to his Father, I thank thee O Father, Lord of Heaven and Earth, becauſe thou haſt hid theſe Things from the Wiſe and Prudent, and haſt revealed them unto Babes. He revealed them to his Saints, and thoſe whom He had choſen.

My Brethren, God reſerved the Goſpel to reveal it firſt unto his Son, (you ſhall ſee the Order of it) ſo you read, in John 1. 17, 18. The Law came by Moſes, but Grace and Truth (that is, the Goſpel) came by Jeſus Chriſt. No Man hath ſeen God at any Time: The only begotten Son, that is in the Boſom of the Father, He hath revealed Him. The Lord reſerved this Knowledge which was hid from Ages and Generations for his Son to declare it firſt; it came by Him, He brought out the Goſpel firſt. And you have the like, in Heb. 2. 3. Which at the firſt began to be ſpoken by the Lord, and was confirmed unto us by them that heard Him. You ſee that God prized this Goſpel ſo much, as He revealeth it firſt to His Son.

And then next to His Son, He choſe out Holy Apoſtles. Had not they been Holy Men, He would not have revealed it to them, to be the Broachers of it, as they were. Holy Apoſtles and Prophets, ſaith he, Eph. 3.

And then Laſtly, The End of the revealing of it to all theſe, is that His Saints may know it. It is [to His Saints] in Diſtinction now under the Goſpel from the Saints in the Old Teſtament. The Saints then, were Infants in Knowledge, and they took up their Faith much upon Truſt. But God under the Goſpel, doth ſo reveal the Goſpel by His Spirit, that His Saints themſelves ſee into the Myſtery of it, underſtand it, take in the Comfort of it. And I take that to be the meaning of the Promiſe of that Covenant, in Heb. 8. 11. where he ſaith, They ſhall not need every Man to teach his Neighbour, but they ſhall all know me ſaith the Lord, from the leaſt to the greateſt.

Now then to Anſwer ſome Objections, that will be made about this, by which this Truth will be the more Clear.

Firſt, You will ſay unto me, is this Knowledge ſo much commended to us, that it is reſerved thus, and made manifeſt to His Saints, why doth not all the World know it? Is not the Goſpel preached to every Creature under Heaven? There is an Objection lies not far off the Text, for ver. 23. he ſaith, It hath been preached to every Creature under Heaven.

I Anſwer, When our Saviour Chriſt, in that Mat. 11. 25. Gave thanks to his Father, that He had hid theſe Things from the Wiſe and Prudent of the World, and revealed them unto Babes. Yet in the Verſes before, you ſhall read that theſe Things had been revealed to the wiſe Men of the World, and yet hid. Read ver. 23. And thou Capernaum, which art exalted up to Heaven, ſhalt be brought down to Hell. Chriſt, had preached to Capernaum more than to all the Cities that were in Judea, or belonging to it. It was Capernaum in Galilee, of which the Propheſie went, that Galilee ſhould ſee a great Light. It is Recorded by the Evangeliſt Matthew upon Chriſt's going to Capernaum, becauſe He made that the principal Seat of all his Preaching. But yet, though Capernaum were lifted up to Heaven, in reſpect of all thoſe glorious Truths of the Goſpel that were preached by Jeſus Chriſt thereunto; there were but a few Babes that were therein, that did receive it; and He thanks his Father, that he had conceal'd it from all the wiſe and prudent, and revealed it only unto thoſe Babes. It's true indeed, that the Goſpel is preached unto every Creature, and God is free of it; inſomuch as the Apoſtle ſaith, Rom. 10. Have not they all heard? But then he asketh withal another Queſtion, Have they all believed? And therefore ſaith Chriſt, in Mat. 13. 11. To you it is given, to know the Myſteries of the Kingdom of God, but to them it is not given, though they heard it. And therefore I may ſay of the Goſpel, as the great Philoſopher Ariſtotle ſpake of his Writings, when he had Publiſhed the Lectures which he had read to his Schollars, unto the World; Alexander found fault with him, for now ſaith he, you have debaſed all your Knowledge by making it common; no ſaith Ariſtotle, for they are Edita non Edita, though they are Publiſhed yet they are not Publiſhed, for none will underſtand them now they are Publiſhed but only my Schollars, whom I have read them unto, and are Privy to my Scope in them. So it is true of the Goſpel, that though the Myſtery of it is made known unto every Creature, yet it is Editum non Editum, though it be Publiſhed, yet it is ſo Publiſhed as only thoſe that are taught of God underſtand it in the Myſtery of it.

Again, to Anſwer this, that you may ſee the Priviledge of the Saints herein. Although the Goſpel is Publiſhed unto every Creature under Heaven, yet it was the Manifeſtation of it to His Saints, that was the Motive and Ground of Publiſhing it. The World ſhould never have known one Tittle of it, had it not been for His Saints in the World, unto whom He meant to convey his Mind and Meaning. And therefore you read in Jude, ver. 2. that it is called, The Faith once delivered unto the Saints. It was delivered unto them, and delivered for their ſakes, the World had never known it elſe. And therefore the Apoſtles themſelves ſo far as they knew it, are called Holy Apoſtles, they had not thus known it elſe. And when they did know it more than other Men, they were but Stewards; for ſo you know they are called in 1 Cor. 4. 1. Let every Man account of us as Stewards of the Myſteries of God; now though the Steward receive Money for his own Expences, yet the chief of the Money he receiveth, is for the Expence of the Houſhold. Go take St. Paul with all his Knowledge, and the moſt of that Knowledge he did receive, it was not for own ſake chiefly, it was for the Saints; and therefore he ſaith, To me it is given, who am leſs than the leaſt of all the Saints, that I ſhould Preach among the Gentiles the unſearchable Riches of Chriſt; To what End? To make all Men ſee, what is the Fellowſhip of the Myſtery, &c. Hence therefore you ſhall find in Scripture, that where God had abundance of People, there the Apoſtles were guided and inſtructed by the Holy Ghoſt to ſtay long. I have much People in this City, ſaith God, unto Paul, when he came to Corinth, and therefore he continueth there a Year and Six Months teaching the Word of God amongſt them; and when he would have gone unto one Place, he was hindered, and carried unto another, why? Becauſe ſtill the Preaching of the Goſpel went where God had his Elect Saints. Therefore in the Words before my Text he ſaith, According to the Diſpenſation of God, which is given to me for you. The Apoſtle had a great deal of Knowledge, but ſaith he, I am a Debtor (ſo he calls himſelf in Rom. 1. 14.) I am but a Steward, I have received it for you. It is the Saints that God principally aimeth at. Therefore, if He did give it to the Apoſtles but for the Saints, then the World, carnal Men, come only to hear of it by the Saints, becauſe the Saints are amongſt them, unto whom God would make it known.

But again you will ſay unto me. Do not carnal Men know it as well as the Saints, why then, is it made their Priviledge?

I Anſwer, Firſt, That carnal Men do know the Goſpel, and know much of it, and they know it to their coſt. Say the Phariſees unto Chriſt, Are we blind alſo? Ay ſaith Chriſt, If ye were Blind you had no Sin.

But Secondly, The Knowledge that carnal Men have of the Goſpel, is by Hear-ſay. There is no Truth of much Moment (if you take the Matter of Truth) that is revealed firſt to them. You ſhall find in Eph. 3. 5. That the Men that God revealed it firſt unto, were the Holy Apoſtles and Prophets, and in Peter it is ſaid, the Scripture was written by Holy Men. Had they not been Saints, Holy Men, God had not revealed it unto them. Others may receive it as by Tradition from Hand to Hand, but the Men to whom God doth reveal any further Light of the Goſpel are Holy Men.

But you will ſay unto me, Now it is given by thoſe Holy Apoſtles and Prophets, and laid up in the Scriptures, may not all Men, or any Man underſtand it? No, For as you have it, in 2 Pet. 1. ult. The Scripture is not of private Interpretation (and he ſpeaks eſpecially of the Goſpel) that is, it is not in the Power of any Man's Understanding to apprehend or know the meaning of the Word; But (saith he) Holy Men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost; and therefore as the Scripture was written by the Holy Ghost, so it must be the Holy Ghost that must interpret it. Take all the wise Men in the World, they are not able to understand one Scripture, it is but private Interpretation, the Holy Ghost therefore, the same Spirit that guided the Holy Apostles and Prophets to write it, must guide the People of God to know the meaning of it, and as he first delivered it, so he must help Men to understand it.

But you will say yet further, do not carnal Men understand the Mysteries of the Gospel, and that by the Spirit of God?

I Answer, yet still there is a Mystery, that all the carnal Men in the World do not understand. In 1 Cor. 2. 7. We speak the Wisdom of God in a Mystery. He doth not only say, it is a Mystery in it self; but he saith, it is still spoken in a Mystery. And what is the Reason? Because that carnal Men even when it is spoken, yea, when it is apprehended by themselves in a notional Way, yet they do not know and apprehend that Mystery, that still is in it. You shall find, that the Scripture speaketh of all the Knowledge, that carnal Men have of the Truths of the Gospel, as of no Knowledge. In 1 Cor. 8. 1, 2. speaking to those among the Corinths that were puffed up, carnal Spirits, that Thought they knew all Things; saith he, We know that we all have Knowledge, so ver. 1. but what saith ver. 2? If any Man think that he knoweth any Thing, he knoweth nothing yet as he ought to know; so that now a Man may have all Knowledge, and yet notwithstanding he may know nothing as he ought to know. In Prov. 9. 10. he had spoken before of Wisdom (and by Wisdom still is meant Jesus Christ revealed, for that was the Title they gave the Messiah in those Times) now saith he, The Knowledge of the Holy is Understanding; there is no Knowledge or true Understanding in the Matters of the Gospel, but only the Knowledge of the Holy. You know there is a Form of Godliness in the World (so you have it in 2 Tim. 3. 5. Men shall come having a Form of Godliness, and deny the Power of it.) As there is a form of Godliness that is not true Godliness, so it is as certain there is a form of Knowledge that is not true Knowledge. I'le give you a Scripture that is fully answerable to it, it is in Rom. 2. saith he, Thou knowest His Will, and approvest the Things that are more excellent, being instructed in the Law; and Ver. 20. Hast a form of Knowledge, and of the Truth. Mark the Expression; as there is a form of Godliness which is not true Godliness, so there is a form of Knowledge that is not true Knowledge, that is but the Picture of it.

And therefore my Brethren know this, that there is no Man, that is become a Saint, but as for the Truths he doth know out of the Gospel, knows that of them which no carnal Man in the World knows. I will give you but this Instance for it; Go take any Man that hath never so much Knowledge both in Law and Gospel, and if God turn this Man to him, you shall have him say, that all Things he knew before are known anew by him; he that had all Knowledge before, he now professeth he had none as he ought to have had. And therefore (by the way) will you know what it is to be Converted? It is to know over all anew, that you knew by Education. It is plain by that of the Apostle, in 2 Cor. 5. ult. If any Man be in Christ Jesus, he is a new Creature, old Things are past away, behold all Things are become new. What doth he speak this of? He speaks it especially of Knowledge; and that's clear by the Verses before, for saith he, Though we have known Christ after the Flesh, yet henceforth we know him no more so, all our Knowledge of him is new: Therefore if any Man be in Christ, he is a new Creature; what is the Effect of that? Old Things are past away, all Things are become New: Old Things become new in this Knowledge.

But you will say unto me, How can this be, for carnal Men speak the same Things of the Gospel that others do?

But yet let me say this unto you, although a Godly Man can express no more in Words than the other doth, yet he knows that of the Gospel which the other doth not; yea, he hath ſuch a Knowledge of it, as in Compariſon of his the others is no Knowledge. I ſhall firſt ſay this, that the Notions and Apprehenſions that are in the Heart of a Saint of ſpiritual Things, never entred into the Heart of any carnal Man in the World. It is the Apoſtles Expreſſion in 1 Cor. 2. and I'll give you the Reaſon of it. It is a received Truth and acknowledged by all, that we have no Knowledge in our Minds; but that which we receive, and which we have by the Images of Things which our Mind conceiveth. All Knowledge which the Mind hath, it is by forming of ſome Image of a Thing within it ſelf. Now if the Image which is formed up in the Mind, differ in one Man and in another, than the Knowledge differeth. As for Example, if I have ſeen the Picture of a Man, I have an Image in my Mind of that Man according to his Picture, but if I have ſeen the Man himſelf, why, here is another manner of Image formed up in my Mind that have ſeen him, which is not formed up in the Mind of any Man elſe, which hath but ſeen his Picture. Now all the Knowledge that carnal Men have of the Goſpel, is but by Images received from the hearſay of it only; but the Knowledge which Holy Men have, is by the impreſs and Image received from the Thing it ſelf made known unto them by the Holy Ghoſt. I remember one once ſaid of the late Queen Elizabeth, I have ſeen her Picture ſaith he, but I have one Picture of her that I will not Sell for all the Pictures of her in the World: And what was that? I ſaw her but once ſaith he, and the Image of her remains ſtill in me: Which Image he could Convey to no Man living. Even ſo the Image and Impreſs, that which entreth into the Heart of a ſpiritual Man of the Things of the Goſpel, is a different Image to what is in the Heart of a carnal Man: And yet now, if the one ſhould go and deſcribe, and ſpeak of the Things of the Goſpel, he would expreſs it no otherwiſe than the other, for there is ſomething ſtill that cannot be expreſſed. As for Example, take the Sun, there is ſomething in the Sun that can never be pictured; and what is that? The Life and Glory and Heat of it, and yet therein lies the Excellency of the Sun. So there are thoſe Things in Chriſt, and in the Goſpel which can never be pictur'd out by Words; that unleſs Jeſus Chriſt hath by his Spirit manifeſted himſelf to a Mans Heart, he is never able to take it in. And therefore, now when a carnal Man, and a godly Man ſpeak both of the ſame Thing, he that is a godly Man can ſpeak no more than what the other can take in notionally; yet he underſtandeth further, he hath ſeen that which no Words can Paint out or Picture forth. Therefore, now if you ask me what it is the Saints know, which another Man knows not? I Anſwer you fully, he himſelf cannot tell you: For it is certain, as to that Impreſſion which the Holy Ghoſt leaves upon the Heart of a Man, that Man can never make the like Impreſſion on another; he may deſcribe it to you, but he cannot convey the ſame Image and Impreſſion upon the Heart of any Man elſe: Therefore Two Men ſhall talk of the ſame Things, and yet mean different Things in Matters Spiritual; why? Becauſe the Goſpel runs in a Myſtery, revealed to His Saints, and to none elſe.

But further, in Anſwer to this Objection. Though carnal Men do know the Goſpel, yet you ſhall ſtill find that they will divert to other Things, and not make this the main of their Knowledge. You ſhall find (and it is a Thing to be wondred at) that in the Times of the Goſpel, when it ſhone moſt gloriouſly, ſtill Men that were of corrupt Minds they diverted to Queſtions about the Law, and to Chronologies and Genealogies, and to a Thouſand other ſuch Things. So you find it in Tit. 3. 9. and 1 Tim. 6. 4. and 1 Tim. 1. 7. And this I ſay, they did when the Goſpel did ſhine moſt gloriouſly about them. Men will run out into Critticiſmes and the Duties of the Law and Knowledge of Sin, and a Thouſand ſuch Things; they will Tythe Mint and Cummin, but the great Things of the Goſpel they neglect. Our Saviour Chriſt therefore, doth tell it as a wonder in his Anſwer to John the Baptiſt, The Lame are healed, the Blind reſtored to ſight, and the Poor re- ceive the Gospel: For Mens Spirits to be taken by the Gospel, he makes it a mighty Thing. You shall find, if you compare, Mat. 11. 12. with Luke 16. 16. That when the Gospel began to be Preached, all those good Souls that were Holy and Godly were infinitely fired with it. Saith he in Luke 16. 16. The Law and the Prophets were until John, but since that Time the Kingdom of God is preached, and every Man presseth unto it, that is, the Saints did. Now compare it with Mat. 11. and he tells us there, That from the Days of John, the Kingdom of Heaven suffereth Violence, and the violent take it by force. That is, the Gospel did so mightily Fire the Spirits of Men, of those that were Holy and Godly, that they did climbe up, for so the Word signifies; it is the same Word that is used in Exodus, forbidding the People to climb up to the Mount, when the Law was given: Now saith he since the Gospel is preached, they climb up to it with all Violence, so he expresseth it, both in respect of Multitudes that press to it, and in respect of the Fire in their Spirits.

Again, though carnal Men do take in the Gospel and many of the Truths of it, yet they are apt to mingle it, and imbase it, and practically in their own Hearts; to turn it to another Gospel. as the Expression of the Apostle Paul is Gal. 1. when their Notions and speculative Judgments are Orthodox about it; they will build their Faith, and their Hope as well upon what is in themselves, as upon what is in Christ: You shall therefore find in Men that profess the Gospel, (as the Jews and the Gentiles did) those of the Circumcision and Uncircumcision, that as those, that are after the Flesh savour the Things of the Flesh, and those that are after the Spirit the Things of the Spirit (as the Apostle elsewhere speaks) so those that have legal Spirits and are still Carnal, they savour the Things of the Law. Therefore in Gal. 3. 7, 9, 10. verses compared, you shall find, that the Apostle gives a different Title in respect of their cleaving to the Gospel. Saith he, ver. 7. They which are of Faith (that is his Phrase.) and so ver. 9. They which are of Faith: He Names them as if they were a Sect; a different Kind and strain of Men. He means those which followed the Gospel, and their Hearts closed with it; for saith he, ver. 2. Received ye the Spirit by the Works of the Law, or by the hearing of Faith? That is, by the hearing of the Gospel. And hence he denominateth a Company of Men, They which are of Faith; saith he, ver. 7. and oppositely he describeth another gang of Men, ver. 10. As many as are of the Law; that is, that are of that strain; let them know never so much of the Gospel, yet still (as the Apostle saith, Rom. 10. ult.) They will seek Righteousness, as it were by the Works of the Law. They will turn the Gospel into Law, and turn Faith and all Duties else into a Form, and make it as a Law; that as the Jews of Old, that had the Gospel given them in Types and Sacrifices, turned all that Gospel into meer Law, as meerly commanded as Duties of Works: Not viewing Christ in them, so will carnal Men do with the Things of the Gospel, and will do it to the End of the World, they desire (as he saith Gal. 4. 21.) to be under the Law, they will run that way still, and nothing but the Grace of God can draw them off.

It is a great Matter my Brethren, what Truths they are that a Mans Heart closeth with and pitcheth upon, and maketh the eminent and top of his Religion. Mark what I say, it is the greatest Thing in the World, and doth as much distinguish carnal Men, and spiritual Men as any Thing whatsoever. I shall give you but an Instance or Two. In Mark 12. 31. There comes a Scribe unto Christ, and he doth express the heighth of his Religion, and Christ acknowledgeth that he went very far, and he expresseth it with a great deal of Difference from the common gang of Men in the World. Master saith he, Thou hast said the Truth, (for he asked Christ, which was the first Commandment of all?) For saith he, There is but one God, and there is no other but He, and to love Him with all the Heart, and with all the Understanding, and with all the Soul, and with all the Strength, and to Love a Mans Neighbour as himself, is more than all whole Burnt-offerings and Sacrifices. Here is a Man a Man now, that being under the Law doth pitch upon the most inward spiritualness of it. Whereas the common ordinary Pharisees put all their Religion in Fasting twice a Week, in paying Tithes, in offering Sacrifices when they sinned, and all this they did in a formal Way: Why saith this Scribe, they are all deceived in this, the main of Religion lies not in this; but Master I say as thou doest, the main of Religion lies in loving God with all a Man's Soul, and although 'tis true a Man must offer Sacrifices, yet here lies that which I pursue after. What saith Christ upon it? He doth not give such a Testimony of all the Pharisees or of that sort of Men, the Scribes, as he doth of this Man. When Jesus saw that he answered discreetly, he saith unto him, thou art not far from the Kingdom of Heaven. It is pity now; he pitch't upon the most spiritual Part of the Law, to the heighth of it, but wanted the Gospel; yet Christ told him, that he was not far from the Kingdom of Heaven. I quote it for this, that this Man he was so far inlightned, that he knew where to put the heighth of the legal Religion, and he put it right, to Love God, saith he, is more than all Sacrifices. Now as this Man doth pitch upon that, which is the most spiritual Part of the Law to put Religion in it; so the Saints are taught to do in Matters of the Gospel. There is an outward Form as it were of the Gospel, you may easily turn it into a Form: But see what Paul saith, and what the heighth of his Gospel Religion was, Phil. 3. 3. We are the Circumcision saith he; who? which Worship God in the Spirit, and rejoice in Christ Jesus, and have no Confidence in the Flesh. We are taken off of any Thing in our selves. This is my Religion, and this is the true Circumcision; let them pursue after the other Circumcision that will, I pitch upon this. Therefore it is a great Thing to see, what it is that Men contend for in their own Spirits; as the Main, and Spirit, and Life of Religion. When the Apostle Paul did come to Corinth, he tells us, That he determined not to know any Thing among them, save Jesus Christ, and him Crucified; (so you have it in 1 Cor. 2. 2.) and he would have spent the main of his Epistle (and so likewise when he wrote this to the Colossians) in holding forth the Gospel to them, but he was put by his Scope, for he saith, they were carnal, and they put him upon deciding of I know not how many Things, about covering and uncovering, and about all the Orders of the Church, which they had either violated or neglected; but saith he, I determined to know nothing, save Christ and him Crucified, for here lies the heighth of my Religion; and he complains, that he was forced to spend an whole Epistle (as he doth the main of that) in nothing, but in resolving such Cases. And therefore my Brethren the Saints still close most with Christ, and the pure Gospel make that the heighth, the top of their Religion, and tho' they may be put upon other Things in the several Times they live in, various Duties that are to be done; yet there is something else in their Eye, which is more than Burnt-offerings and Sacrifices; namely, the Knowledge of Christ and him Crucified, and to Worship the Lord in the Spirit, is more than all these, though Religious Duties are Evangelical too.

Again, 4. To add an Answer or Two more which are in the Text, Col. 1. 27.) and in the Context, the Saints only know the Gospel in the Riches, and in the Glory of it. They only know it, so as to value it; 1 Pet. 2. 7. To you therefore, which believe he is precious. They only know the Riches, and the Preciousness of it. Go bring a Jewel to a Child and to a Jeweller, they both know it, but the Jeweller only is able to value it; and so are the Saints only capable of Prizing the Gospel. And therefore in Mat. 13. 25. He only is said to be the wise Merchant-man, that when he hath seen the Pearl, knoweth the Worth and Value of it, so as that he Sells all for it.

In the 5th Place, The Saints only know it, so as to have their Hearts comforted by it, and by all the Riches in it. You have thus much expressed in the next Chapter, Col. 2. 2. He desired, he saith, to see them, and those of Laodicea, that that their Hearts might be comforted, being knit together in Love, and unto all Riches of the full Aſſurance of Underſtanding to the Acknowledgment of the Myſtery of God, and of the Father, and of Chriſt. Though others are brought to ſee the Myſtery in the Letter of it, yet none elſe but the Saints come ſo to ſee the Riches of the Glory of it, as to have their Hearts comforted thereby. And what is the Reaſon? Becauſe the Saints, when they know the Myſtery of the Goſpel and the Riches of it, do but know what themſelves are Worth. All the Riches which they ſee to be in it, they ſee to be their own, and if they attain to the Riches of Aſſurance of the Underſtanding of this Myſtery, they attain to the Aſſurance of the knowing of their own Comforts and of their own Riches, and ſo (as the Apoſtle ſaith) their Hearts are comforted. Go take other Men, though they are able to count and caſt up theſe Riches, yet they are but as learned Lawiers that ſtudy other Mens Eſtates; or as Surveyors of Lands that ſet out what other Men poſſeſs, and what their Titles are to them, or Caſh-keepers for Merchants that tell over other Mens Moneys; but for the Heir, the Poſſeſſor himſelf, for him to tell over all this, is all the while to ſtudy his own Riches, and ſo his Heart is comforted according to the Value that is in them. And therefore ſaith the Apoſtle here, which riches is Chriſt in you, it is your Chriſt. Therefore now a Believer, the more Knowledge he hath of the Goſpel, the more his Heart is comforted. To another Man all the Truths of the Goſpel, are as but Flowers pluck'd off the Stalks, they do not grow upon his Heart, therefore they Die and Wither; but a Saint hath a Root within, upon which all theſe are ingrafted, and therefore he continually feels the freſh Savour of them, there is ſtill a freſh Sent and Verdure, and ſweet ariſing from them whereby his Heart is comforted.

And then again, 6. Though other Men may know the Myſteries of the Goſpel, yet the Saints only know them with the Riches of Aſſurance. That your Hearts (ſaith the Apoſtle) may be comforted being knit together in Love, unto all Riches of the full Aſſurance of Underſtanding, to the acknowledgment of the Myſtery of God and of Chriſt. If other Men do know and underſtand the Myſteries of the Goſpel, and the Harmony and Correſpondency of one Thing with another therein, it is but as the Knowledge of Mathematicians as I may ſo expreſs it. You ſhall have in the Mathematicks a Suppoſition given, that if this, and this be true, then all the following Concluſions, do harmoniouſly and naturally follow thereupon, and Anſwer thereunto. As to give you an Inſtance: There are Two Sort of Opinions, the one holds that the Earth ſtandeth ſtill, and the Heavens move; and another Opinion, that the Earth moves about continually, but the Heavens, the Sun and Moon, and all theſe ſtand ſtill. Now ſuppoſe which you will of them, the one makes out their Opinion in a way of Harmony and Correſpondency, as rationally as the other. So now carnal Men, that want Faith in the Principles and Foundations of Chriſtianity, can yet ſay with themſelves, if theſe Principles be true, why there is a glorious Correſpondency of one Truth with another, all Truths do harmoniouſly Kiſs each other. But now a Saint, he hath Riches of Aſſurance of Underſtanding of the Principles themſelves, he apprehends them by Faith, and doing ſo, he vieweth all the Concluſions that are built thereupon, with an Aſſurance of Faith, and this no carnal Heart in the World doth.

Laſtly, The Saints do ſo know the Myſteries of the Goſpel, that the Things they know of it, are to them the Hope of Glory. This alſo the Text ſuggeſteth, which is Chriſt, ſaith he, in you, the Hope of Glory. They do begin to know, and to conceive what Heaven will be by that Prelibation, by that taſte, which they have of what Truths and Things the Goſpel reveals to their Faith. The ſavour and reliſh they have of Communion with God and with Jeſus Chriſt, and the Things revealed in and by the Goſpel, doth give them a hope of that great Glory which ſhall be revealed. And ſo much now for thoſe Differences, that are between the Knowledge of the Saints, and the Knowledge of carnal Men of the Things of the Goſpel.

USE

USE, My Exhortation shall be unto all, to procure and heap up to themselves what of spiritual Knowledge possibly they can, in these Mysteries of the Gospel, for you encrease your Riches: The Truth which by it, I speak unto all, but especially unto you that are Schollars, who come * hither to furnish your selves, as Scribes fitted for the Kingdom of Heaven, to bring forth out of your Treasures and Store acquired here both New and Old, as Christ speaks, to buy the Truth as Solomon, so as to be able to teach it to others; you come as Whole-sale Men to buy by the Great. Therefore Treasure up as much, and as many precious Truths as you can, and Grace withal to vent by Retail in the Country, when you are sent Abroad.

* This was Preach'd in his Younger Time, when he was Fellow of Katherine Hall in Cambridge.

First, Enquire and Learn where these Treasures are to be had, even in the Scriptures. The Merchant who knew the Pearl, was fain to buy the Field, there the Pearl lay: Timothy from a Child had read the Scriptures, and so should you do; they are able to make a Man wise unto Salvation, and make the Man of God perfect; as the Book of Nature when throughly known, make a perfect Physician for the Body; so doth this Book of the Scriptures make a perfect Divine: Search the Scripture, says Christ, for they speak of me; as Christ is the Treasury of all Knowledge, so the Scriptures of Christ. These Scriptures lie scattered in all the vains of the Prophets and Apostles, dig for them as for Silver, take pains and travel to understand them: As Daniel's Phrase is (Dan. 12.) Many shall run too and fro, and Knowledge shall be encreased. Do as Merchants, who travel from Place to Place, so do you from Scripture to Scripture, comparing one with another, and Knowledge will be encreased.

Secondly, Go to the Markets and Ware-houses, of those that have laid in, or discovered much of this Treasure (that is) use the Helps of Godly Mens Writings and Conferences: The Help of Saints both Dead and Alive, why? Because it is made manifest to the Saints. The Angels do learn of the Church, and why not we; even Paul desires to see them at Rome, that they and he might be mutually comforted by their mutual Faith, therefore Exchange, and Truck one with another. The Knowledge of any one Man is imperfect, some have more skill in one Point, some in another, and so in several Ages several Truths have been delivered and revealed πολυμερῶς by Fragments and Pieces, therefore use the help of all; why? Because it is made manifest to his Saints; and it is not made manifest in all Points unto all Saints, but they have it amongst them. We know but in Part, saith the Apostle, much more thou: Therefore Saints should Truck and Exchange one with another. There is no Man in the World that is as Paul was, whom the Apostles themselves could add nothing unto, who yet professeth that he knew but in Part. The Angels themselves they learn of the Saints, they learn of the Church, therefore do thou so too. In Eph. 4. 11, 12, 13. and so ver. 16. a Place that falls fully in with this he saith, that Christ hath given to the Body, and He speaks of the universal Church, Apostles and Prophets, and Teachers, and Pastors from his Time to the End of the World. For it is until all be come to keep to the Unity of the Faith, and to cause them to grow up to a fulness of Stature in Christ; the meaning of which to me is this, that the whole Body is fitly joined together, and compacted by that which every Part supplieth the whole Universal Church, from the Times of the Apostles down-wards to this very Day; The Ministers and the Saints that have been in former Ages, being tied unto us by Bands and Ligaments, have propagated the Truth unto us. So as indeed it is every Part of the Church that helpeth forward the other, it is the Church in one Age, that helpeth forward the Church in another, and one soweth, and another reapeth: And the Body (take the whole Compass of it in all Ages) is fitly joined together, that it may cause every Age, and every Saint to increase according to his Proportion. Therefore, if God have revealed this Mystery unto his Saints, we must acquaint our selves with Saints, not only with Saints living but dead, and we may have a great deal of Knowledge from their Writings, for it is the Ordinance of God, that the Body in all Ages fitly joined together, should increase by that which every Part supplieth. We have had a great

a great deal of Knowledge from the Age before, and that which is coming ſhall have much Knowledge from us, and ſo one Age being fitly joined to another, doth cauſe the Body to grow to the fulneſs of the Stature of Chriſt; and this is that which Chriſt alſo ſays, John 4. 29. one Age ſows and another Reaps, that all may be one together.

3. Go to him above all, who hath the Key of Knowledge, Jeſus Chriſt, Rev. 3. 7 Pray to him, as you have it; 1 Pet. 1. 10. They ſearch'd, and enquir'd, i. e. they ſtudied, and prayed, uſe both, as the Apoſtles were to ſpend the Time in both, Acts 6. It is a Myſtery which God only makes known, and you know how to deal with him; James 1. 4, 5. If any lack Wiſdom; let him ask it of God, whoſe ſpecial Promiſe in the New Teſtament, is to teach all that are his to know him; as you cannot ſee the Sun without the Light of it ſelf, ſo nor the Riches of the Glory of Chriſt without his Spirit, who is called the Spirit of Wiſdom and Revelation, who only knows theſe deep Things of God, 1 Cor. 2. 11. As the Myſteries of the Goſpel are, that lie at the bottom of his Breaſt. The Well is deep, we have nothing to draw with.

But you will ſay, God hath revealed himſelf in the Scriptures, and it is but reading them, and I have Wit enough to underſtand them.

I Anſwer, it was the Spirit that wrote that Word, which is not therefore (ſays Peter) of any private Interpretation, that is, no Mans or Mens private Underſtandings without the Aſſiſtance of that Publick Secretary of Heaven can underſtand them: Optimus mentis ſuæ quiſque eſt interpres, he only hid the Treaſures of Knowledge in that Field, and he only knows where they lie, what an Advantage is it then, by Prayer to unlock God's Breaſt, to obtain the Key of Knowledge, that unlocks God's Study, and can direct to all his Notes and his Papers?

Fourthly, Look to it that thou art a Saint, To whom God will make known the Riches, &c. otherwiſe you cannot receive them; you will count them fooliſhneſs as have been ſhewed; you will take them but as upon Truſt, you will not be able to ſee the Particular Secrets that are revealed in the Goſpel. The Saints are they that firſt find out, and do preſerve the Truths of the Goſpel in the World: It is certain, if there were none but carnal Profeſſors in the World, this Goſpel would ſoon be loſt, 1 Tim. 3. 9. The Myſtery of the Faith is preſerv'd in a good Conſcience, and without a good Conſcience it leaks out. And 2 Tim. 2. 13, 14. If we believe not, yet he abideth faithful; he cannot deny himſelf. Of theſe Things put them in remembrance, charging them before the Lord, that they ſtrive not about Words to no Profit, but to the ſubverting of the Hearers. It was once delivered unto the Saints, and it is the Saints that preſerve it, and ſhall do to the End of the World. In Iſa. 35. you have a Prophecy of the Kingdom of Chriſt, and of the Times of the Goſpel (as you ſhall find it to be by reading that Chapter) and he ſays, that there ſhall be an High-way, and it ſhall be called the way of Holineſs, and the unclean ſhall not paſs over it; but it ſhall be a way for wayfaring Men, and though Fools, yet they ſhall not erre therein; that is, if they be Men that have a Mind to go to Heaven, whoſe Hearts God doth ſanctifie, though otherwiſe they are Men of low Parts, and mean Underſtandings, they ſhall not erre; why? Becauſe they are Holy, they are Saints, and he hath made manifeſt this Goſpel of his unto his Saints, whereas the Unclean ſhall not ſo much as croſs the Way, nor paſs over it.

The Apoſtles and Prophets themſelves were Men of Holineſs, or God had not revealed the Goſpel Myſteries to them, as the firſt Publication of it by them. It is therefore emphatically ſaid, Eph. 3. 5. As now it is revealed unto his Holy Apoſtles and Prophets: It will however to be ſure help you to get the ſtart of any other, and Grace will do this; 1 Cor. 2. 12. Now we have received not the Spirit of the World, but the Spirit which is of God; that we might know the Things that are freely given us of God. A Godly Man hath a renewed Principle, is made a ſpiritual Man; a natural Man brings only natural Parts, a regenerate Man ſuppoſed to have as good; hath a further Power of diſcerning given him; 1 Cor. 2. 15. The Spiritual Man diſcerneth all Things. 'Tis his own Art, and as wicked Men are ofter wiſer in their Art and Generation, then a Child of Light; the Reaſon will ſtronglier hold, that a Child of Light may eaſilier be wiſer in his; and therefore Solomon ſays, The Underſtanding of the Holy, is Underſtanding. Truſt not the Judgments of Unclean Men, though Miniſters in the Matters of Grace, this is a Godly Mans Art not a wicked Mans; though never ſo Learned, and a Man will Truſt an Artiſt in his own Trade rather then another. The Underſtanding of the Holy is Underſtanding (ſays Solomon, Prov. 9. 10.) eſpecially in the Ways of Holineſs. Chap. V.

CHAP. V.

The Excellency of the Goſpel, conſiſts in the Riches of Spiritual Knowledge manifeſted in it.

COLOS. I. 27.

To whom (viz. His Saints) God would make known what is the Riches of the Glory of this Myſtery, &c.

THough others know the Things of the Goſpel, yet thoſe to whom God intends the intimate Knowledge of it, are the Saints. All Gods Care and Contrivance is, that His Saints may know it, and that He may ſo reveal it, that all His Saints ſhall know it, He hath taken a ſure Courſe for that; and as for others He leaves them to the Darkneſs and Blindneſs of their own Minds. To whom God would make known, &c.

The greateſt Controverſie now on Foot is this, who they are, that are the Supream Judge now upon Earth, of all the Myſteries of the Goſpel.

1. The Socinians, they would have Humane Reaſon to be the Judge; that God ſhould have ſo Writ the Scripture, that it ſhould be made known to all Mens Underſtandings, that have but Humane Reaſon in them, and that God would make known to Humane Reaſon, inſtead of making known to His Saints, what is His meaning in all the Things delivered in the Goſpel. Now I Confeſs, that what they ſay hath the greateſt Reaſon in the World in it, if God had intended, that the Goſpel ſhould be made known in the Spiritualneſs of it unto all Mankind. But they do not conſider both, that it is a Myſtery; and that God would have it ſo made known only to His Saints. Indeed, if God had meant to ſatisfie all Mankind, then the Scripture and all theſe Myſteries would have been ſo delivered, as Reaſon ſhould have ſubdued them, and been able to have been Maſter of them, and tooken them in. But the Care God took in writing the Scripture, was to have His Saints ſatisfied, and they to take in the Myſteries of it. Theſe I ſay, would bring all the Scripture to the Bar of Humane Reaſon, and would have the Holy Ghoſts meaning, in all the Places of Scripture concluded within the Circle of a Syllogiſm, and believe no more than the Power of Reaſon can convince them of. Reaſon indeed ſubſerveth, for this is a certain Truth, that there is nothing that a Saint by Faith apprehendeth, but when he apprehends it, he ſees the greateſt Reaſon, from the Harmony of one Truth with another fall in with it that may be: One Scripture doth ſuit ſo with another, and one Theological Truth ſo with another, that there is nothing more agreeable to ſpiritual Reaſon, than what in the Myſteries of the Goſpel are held forth. But my Brethren, Reaſon will never alone work out theſe Myſteries. There are Two Principles in the Heart of Man, (and you would wonder they ſhould be the greateſt Enemies either of them, that can be) The one is natural Conſcience, and the other is Humane Reaſon. They were the Two Principles that were ſet up in Adam, and therefore they would be the predominant Principles ſtill. Now God hath ſet Faith over them both. He will have Faith ſubdue Conſcience; my meaning is this, Conſcience ſhall ſubſerve Faith, it ſhall ſerve to give Directions to a Believer how he ſhall walk; ſo the Law doth, and ſo Conſcience doth; but if you will make that the eminent Principle, a Man will fall into a legal Temper, and all his Comfort will come from his Conſcience, and not from his Faith. So on the otherſide, if you will make Reaſon the predominant Principle, when you come to judge of the Matters of Religion; it is a good Servant indeed, but if you will make that the Supream Judge, you will underſtand nothing, or little of the Myſteries of Salvation, for God hath appointed Faith, and Faith in the Saints to receive them all.

2. The Papiſts, make a Pope that ſhall determine all Controverſies, as our infallible and ſtanding Judge led into all Truth. And I Confeſs, had God meant in delivering the Myſteries of the Goſpel to have ſatisfied all Mankind, and to have reſolved all their Conſciences, and all their Scrüples in interpreting Scriptures, He would have had ſome ſuch Judge: He would have had either an internal Judge common to all Mankind, which Humane Reaſon is, or an external Judge which all Mankind ſhould ſubmit unto as to an Oracle. But my Brethren, whatſoever Power on Earth ſhall be ſet up, the great End and Scope of God in Writing the Scriptures, is to make Things known to His Saints, and He hath taken a Courſe, and made Proviſion for them beyond all theſe. And what is that?

1. He hath given to His Saints His Spirit, who writ the Scripture, who knows the meaning of all the Myſteries therein, and He is the Supream Judge; and to be ſure He gives this Spirit unto His Saints: We have not received the Spirit of the World (1 Cor. 2. 12.) but the Spirit, which is of God, that we may know the Things that are freely given to us of God. Here is my Word, here is my Spirit ſaith He. Where ever God hath a Saint, He doth by the Miniſtry of the Word convey His Spirit into that Saints Heart, and teacheth him this Myſtery; and let the World quarrel, that they have not an infallible Rule to judge by; God never meant to ſatisfie the World, He meant to make this Myſtery known to His Saints. We have not received the Spirit of the World, ſaith he, that is, we have not only received that Principle, or that Ability to judge of Things which the World hath, which carnal Men in the World have, and whereby worldly Things are judged, which is that of Humane Reaſon, &c. to beat out Truths that way only, but we have received the Spirit which is of God. Here then lies the great Wiſdom, and Love, and Favour of God to his Children, that He hath taken a Courſe and made Proviſion for them, He hath given them His Spirit (for He can give His Spirit to whom He will) and He will certainly lead all thoſe He means to ſave, into ſo much Truth as ſhall ſave them.

2. As God hath given to His Saints His Spirit, ſo He doth give to them alone an Underſtanding on Purpoſe to know the Things of the Goſpel; 1 John 5. 20. We know that the Son of God is come, and He hath given us an Underſtanding that we may know Him that is true. As they have the Holy Ghoſt as a Guide, ſo they have an Underſtanding Created on purpoſe for to know Him that is true; and therefore you may obſerve, that ſtill the Apoſtles in their Writings, Pray, That the Eyes of their Mind may be Enlightned, &c.

3. As He hath given them a renewed Underſtanding, ſo He hath put a new Creature, His own Image, into the whole Man; and what is the Image of God, that He thus puts in the whole Man? It is a Thing ſuited to all Truths more or leſs: And becauſe this Image is imperfect, hence therefore it is, that there being Corruption and Darkneſs in the holieſt Men, they cannot reliſh all Truths: Darkneſs prevailing in reſpect of ſome Truths, more than the Light of God's Image in them; even as it doth in reſpect of Ignorance of ſome Sins: But yet I ſay, as He hath given them His Spirit, as He hath given them a renewed Underſtanding on purpoſe, a new Eye, ſo He hath given them a new Creature, His own Image ſtamped upon their Wills and Affections, which favoureth and reliſheth what is true, as what is agreeable unto it. God hath put into every Creature a Taſte, and a diſcerning of what ſhall nouriſh it. A Man by his Taſte diſcerneth what is Good and what is Ill for him in a great Meaſure, what agreeth with his Stomach and with his Nature, finds what inflames him, what poiſoneth him, what comforts him, the whole Man feels it: So is it here, God hath ſuited all the Truths of the Goſpel to the regenerate Part, that as ſome Philoſophers; ſaid all Truth is interwoven in the Soul of Man, ſo to be ſure, all Truth is interwoven in the Image of God in a Man. And as the Senſes in a Man are ſuited to Objects in the World, a Mans Eye to colours, his Ear to ſounds, his Stomach to Meats; ſo hath God made the Things of the Goſpel to ſuit the regenerate Part, and the regenerate Part to ſuit them. And therefore in that 1 Cor. 2. 9. The Things of the Goſpel are called Things prepared for them that Love him; they are ſuited, ſuited on purpoſe as it were to them: And in Phil. 1. 9. The Knowledge of the Saints it is called Senſe, This I Pray, that your Love may abound more and more in Knowledge, and in all Senſe; ſo the Word is in the Original, and in your Margents, we Tranſlate it in all Judgment, but it is a Judgment which ariſeth from, or at leaſt is joined with Senſe, a Taſte, a ſuitableneſs that the Soul hath to the Things revealed. And ſo much now for the clearing of that alſo; To whom God would make known, &c.

I come now to thoſe Two other Properties, that in this 27th Verſe, are attributed to the Goſpel of Jeſus Chriſt. The one, that it is a rich Myſtery; and the ſecond, that it is a glorious Myſtery. To whom (ſaith he) God would make known, what is the riches of the Glory of this Myſtery, &c.

Riches and Glory here, doth not only refer to Chriſt himſelf, (though mainly to Him as the Subject of the Goſpel; as thoſe next Words [which is Chriſt in you, &c.] imply,) as if that Jeſus Chriſt only were the Riches, and the Glory that the Apoſtle here intended; but it refers to the Myſtery, to the Doctrine that reveals this Chriſt alſo, which by Reaſon of the Riches that are in Him, which it revealeth, is a rich Myſtery and glorious. It refers therefore both objectively unto Chriſt, and likewiſe to the Goſpel that reveals Him: Becauſe that Chriſt himſelf is ſo rich and glorious, therefore is the Goſpel which reveals this Chriſt rich and glorious alſo. And indeed according to the Hebraiſme, that is, that Phraſe that the Jews uſe to ſpeak in, which the Apoſtles do likewiſe often uſe in Writing the New Teſtament, theſe Two [Riches of Glory] are Terms convertible, and his meaning is this, that the Goſpel it is either rich in reſpect of the Glory of it, or glorious in reſpect of the Riches of it; ſo as none knows whether the Riches or the Glory of it be greater. I ſhall firſt of all, therefore open to you the Riches of this Myſtery.

Obſerv. The Goſpel it ſelf which revealeth the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and the Free Grace of God in Him, is a moſt rich Goſpel.

In 2 Cor. 4. The Apoſtle having ſpoken of the Goſpel (as you ſhall find, he doth all along in that Chapter from the 1ſt verſe to the 7th) and laid open the Excellency of it in the Glory thereof, what ſaith he when he hath done; We have this Treaſure in Earthen Veſſels, that the Power might be of God, and not of us. I am (ſaith Paul) but a poor Man, I am but an earthen Veſſel, made of the ſame Clay mingled with Sin, that other Men are made of, yet God hath been pleaſed to betruſt me with a World of Treaſure. What a World of Treaſure was loſt, though it was not loſt, for he had Preached it out, and Writ it; but what a World of Treaſure was broken, when that earthen Veſſel was broken: And what was that Treaſure? It was (as the Coherence evidently carries it) the Goſpel. Hence is it that every Believer, that believeth this Goſpel and the Truths of it, is ſaid to be rich in Faith; James 2. 5. and in 1 Cor. 1. 5. to be rich in all Knowledge. The Knowledge of the Goſpel is a rich Knowledge, and the Faith of the Goſpel is a rich Faith, and the Goſpel it ſelf is a Treaſure ſaith Paul, which poor earthen Veſſels carries about with them. Now Riches imply theſe Three Things.

1. A Precioufneſs.
2. Abundance.
3. Profitableneſs and Gain.

And the Things the Goſpel revealeth, and the Truths contained therein, and the Knowledge thereof unto thoſe that are the true Owners and Poſſeſſors of them, and do make them theirs, are Rich in all theſe Reſpects.

Firſt, There is a Precioufneſs in all the Truths the Goſpel doth reveal. Not only Jeſus Chriſt is ſaid to be Precious, as the Foundation and Corner-ſtone; (that you have in 1 Pet. 2. 6. I will lay in Sion a chief Corner-ſtone, Elect and Precious;) but the Truths that are built upon Chriſt, are all Precious too, ſo you have it in 1 Cor. 3. 11. I ſaith he, As a wiſe Maſter-builder have laid the Foundation which is Jeſus Chriſt, the great Precious Stone of all the reſt; Now if any Man ſhall build upon this Foundation, Gold, Silver, Precious Stones; ſo he calls all the Truths that are built upon this Foundation, there is not a Truth of the Goſpel, but it is more worth than Gold, more rich than precious Stones; and then he expreſſeth all the Falſhoods that Men build thereupon by Wood, and Hay, and Stubble that will be burnt up, but by Gold and precious Stones, he means thoſe Truths that will abide the Fire. So that every Truth of the Goſpel that is built upon Jeſus Chriſt, that is the Superſtructure of it, are all Pearls and Precious Stones, and Gold, and Silver; they have Degrees of Excellencies indeed, but they all have a Precioufneſs in them. I ſhall not need to inlarge more about it, I will only quote one Place, and ſo open the Particulars in which the Goſpel is Precious, Prov. 3. 15, 16. ſpeaking there of Wiſdom, he ſaith, The Merchandiſe of it is better than the Merchandiſes of Silver, and the Gain thereof than fine Gold; and if there be any Thing better than theſe, (and yet the World hath turned theſe up as the great Things that ſhould Maſter all the reſt) he prefers it before them. Precious Stones you know are more precious than Silver and Gold, why ſaith he, Wiſdom is more precious than Rubies, and yet becauſe the Hearts of Men imagine there is ſomething more precious than theſe, he addeth, All the Things thou canſt deſire are not to be compared unto her. This he ſpeaks of Wiſdom, which is the Knowledge of Jeſus Chriſt, and he ſpeaks of it as he knew it even under the Time of the Law, he valued every Truth, and every Part of it above Gold and Silver, and Rubies, and whatever the Heart of Man could think Precious.

Every Truth of the Goſpel, is Precious in theſe Five Reſpects.

1. Antiquity makes Things precious. Small Pieces of Coin that contain not much in value, if they be old are priz'd, any old Meddal, or old Pieces of Braſs, or of Gold, and Silver coined in the Time of the Roman Emperors, or in the Time of the Grecian, any Piece, that hath Alexanders Image and Stamp upon it, and the like; How do your Antiquaries eſteem it? How more Precious do they think it than a great deal of Gold! Now if Antiquity commend any Thing to you, why there is never a Truth of the Goſpel but was coined in Heaven, and coined from Everlaſting: It is the Everlaſting Goſpel, and it bears the Image of God upon it.

2. Things

2. Things far fetched are Precious. She fetcheth her Merchandiſe from afar, ſaith Solomon, Prov. 31. There is not a Word of this Goſpel, but it came from far, it came from Heaven. Jeſus Chriſt came himſelf from Heaven on purpoſe to reveal it, Heb. 12. 25. comparing Law and Goſpel together; ſays the Apoſtle, If they eſcape not that refuſed him that ſpake from Earth, much more ſhall not we eſcape, if we turn away from Him, that ſpeaks from Heaven. Who doth he mean by him that ſpeaks from Earth, and who by him that ſpake from Heaven? Why Moſes and Chriſt? Moſes gave the Law, the Law came by Moſes, and the Law came but from Earth; but the Goſpel, every Tittle of it, came from Heaven: The Law comes out of a Mans own Heart, it was Written in Mans Heart on Earth, namely in Adams Innocency, and there is a great deal of it Written even in the Hearts of Wicked Men, They do the Things of the Law, which are written in their Hearts, ſaith the Apoſtle; Rom. 2. But not a Word of this Truth of the Goſpel was written in Adams Heart, no, it was Written in God's Heart, it was hid in God, it came from Heaven.

3. Things that are dearly bought you Account Precious. There is not one Truth of the Goſpel, but it coſt the Blood of Jeſus Chriſt. You will eaſily grant, there is no Grace you have, but it coſt Chriſts Blood; why my Brethren, there is no Truth you have that is a Goſpel Truth, but it coſt the Blood of Chriſt: The Law did not coſt Chriſts Blood, for the Law was written in Adams Heart, and without the Suppoſition of his Death, it was given to Adam in Paradiſe; but not a Tittle of the Goſpel, not a Promiſe of it, but depends upon the Blood of Chriſt; In Him all the Promiſes are Yea, and Amen, 2 Cor. 1. and they are therefore exceeding precious Promiſes; ſo Peter calls them, 2 Pet. 1. for they all coſt the Blood of Chriſt, we could have had no Promiſe, if Chriſt had not paid for the Thing promiſed, not a Promiſe had been written, if Jeſus Chriſt had not Died to make it ſo, they had all been Blanks but for His Death.

4. Things chirily and warily laid up are Precious. The Goſpel and all the Truths of it have had the richeſt Cabinet that ever was. Firſt, It had God's Heart, it was hid in God (as I ſaid afore) Eph. 3. 9. Then there was a Copy of it tranſcribed into Chriſts Heart, and He came into this World full of Grace and Truth, as full of the Truths of the Goſpel as He could hold. Then doth God tranſcribe it out of Chriſts Heart, into the Hearts of His Elect; 2 Cor. 3. 3. Ye are manifeſtly declared to be the Epiſtle of Chriſt miniſtred by us, written not with Ink, but with the Spirit of the Living God, not in Tables of Stone, but in Fleſhly Tables of the Heart.

5. Things that periſh not, but ſtill do vindicate themſelves from Corruption, they alſo are Precious; why is Gold and Silver precious? Becauſe that Gold if put into the Fire, though 'twill melt, yet 'twill not be loſt, 'twill not be conſumed. But 1 Pet. 1. 7. Faith is more precious than Gold; why? Becauſe it periſheth not, though it be tried in the Fire; Gold in Time will periſh, if you try it too often 'twill come to nothing, but Faith the more you trie it the more precious it is, there is not a Dram of it loſt at any Time. And the Doctrine of Faith, and of the Goſpel is of the ſame Nature, 'twill never periſh, and it will ſtill vindicate it ſelf from Corruption; tho' Men mingle it, as always in the bringing forth of Truths, certainly Men mingle a great deal of Droſs, and of their own Wiſdom and Artifice, but that Spirit, that is in the Truth it ſelf, will Work out all that Droſs in Time. Never take Care to have the Truth of God clear, we may be doubtful of it in many Things in our Age, its certain the next Age, or an Age after will clear it, the Truth hath a Spirit in it that will ſtill purifie it. In 1 Cor. 3. 13. Saith the Apoſtle there, where he calls Truth Gold, and Silver, and precious Stones, Every Mans Work (ſaith he) namely, every Miniſters Work, whether he preach Truth, or whether he preach Falſehood, whether he preacheth Gold, Silver, precious Stones (ſo he calls the Truths of the Goſpel) or whether he Preach Wood, Hay, Stubble; it ſhall be made manifeſt, for the Day ſhall declare it, whether it be precious Stones or no, becauſe (ſaith he) it ſhall be revealed by Fire, and the Fire ſhall trie every Mans Work of what ſort it is. He ſpeaks evidently of the Doctrines Men preach or hold forth forth in the World, ſtill there will come a more clear Day-light that ſhall reveal them, and there will come a Fire, and if it be Hay or Stubble, or what ever it is that is Droſs, or Falſhood; or Errour mingled with the Truth, it ſhall be burnt up; as when you go and burn Cloth of Silver or of Gold, all the Cloth is burnt up; but the Silver and Gold remains, ſo it is here; and the Holy Ghoſt will never leave, till He hath purified His Truth thoroughly. Therefore the Pſalmiſt ſaith, The Words of the Lord are pure Words (Pſalm 12.6.) as Silver tried in a Furnace, purified ſeven Times. You know, they that purifie Silver to the purpoſe uſe to put it in the Fire again and again, that it may be throughly tried: So is the Truth of God, there is ſcarce any Truth, but hath been tried over and over again, and ſtill if any Droſs happen to mingle with it, then God calls it in Queſtion again; if in former Times there have been Scriptures alledged, that have not been pertinent to prove it, that Truth ſhall into the Fire again, that what is Droſs may be burnt up; the Holy Ghoſt is ſo curious, ſo delicate, ſo exact, He cannot bear that falſhood ſhould be mingled with the Truths of the Goſpel. Thats the Reaſon therefore, why that God doth ſtill Age after Age call former Things in Queſtion, becauſe that there is ſtill ſome Droſs one way or other mingled with it; either in the ſtating of the Opinions themſelves, or elſe in the Scriptures that are brought and alledged for them that have paſt for Currant, for He will never leave till He hath purified it. The Doctrine of Gods Free Grace, hath been tried over, and over, and over again. Pelagius he begins and he mingles his Droſs with it, he ſaith, Grace is nothing but Nature in Man; well, his Doctrine was purified, and a great deal of Droſs purged out; then comes the Semi-Pelagians, and they part Stakes, they ſay Nature can do nothing without Grace, but they make Nature to concur with Grace, and to have an Influence as well as Grace; and the Droſs of that was burnt up. The Papiſts they take up the ſame Quarrel, but will neither be Pelagians nor Semi-Pelagians, yet ſtill mingle Droſs; the Arminians they come and they refine Popery in that Point anew; ſtill they mingle Droſs. God will have this Truth tried Seven Times in the Fire, till He hath brought it forth as pure as pure may be. And I ſay it is, becauſe that Truth is thus Precious. And ſo much now for that firſt Head, that it is a rich Goſpel in regard of the Preciouſneſs of the Truths that are therein.

The Second Thing that is proper to Riches, is Abundance. Now the Doctrine of the Goſpel hath abundance of Truth and Knowledge in it. Take all Philoſophy, all the Books of Humane Wiſdom and Learning, if they were all diſtill'd, if you could Extract the Quinteſſence of them all, there is not ſo much Knowledge as one Book of the New Teſtament contains. In this Coloſ. 2.3. ſaith this Apoſtle there, do you ſtick to the Knowledge of Jeſus Chriſt, and do not leave that, For in Him are hid all the Treaſures of Wiſdom and Knowledge. There is all ſorts, both Wiſdom and Knowledge, and there is all Wiſdom and Knowledge, and there are all Treaſures of Wiſdom and Knowledge hid in this Chriſt, who is revealed to you in this Goſpel. It is all Knowledge by way of Eminency, as they uſe to ſay Metaphyſicks are, it contains all Knowledge, becauſe it ſwallows up all the Axioms of all other Sciences; I may ſay of all other Learning and Knowledge whatſoever, they are all by way of Eminency ſwallowed up in the Truths of the Goſpel. As the Perſon of Jeſus Chriſt contains by way of Eminency all the Excellencies in the Creature, ſo the Knowledge of Jeſus Chriſt contains all the Excellency of whatſoever Knowledge can be had, the Knowledge of governing Kingdoms, the Knowledge of Nature, or the Things of Nature, or the Knowledge of the Law, or of whatever elſe. Our Saviour Chriſt as He was full of Grace, ſo He was full of Truth; John 1.14. We ſaw His Glory, as the Glory of the only begotten Son of God, full of Grace and Truth; He came ſo rich into this World, He had ſuch abundance of Treaſures, that He brought forth continually ſome Truths or other. He was full of Grace to fill the Will and Affection, and full of Truth to fill the Underſtanding and Judgment; and thoſe Truths did comprehenſively take in all ſorts of Truths that ever were uttered in a tranſcendent Manner. Solomon he had a Heart as large for Knowledge in natural Things, as the Sea is full of Sands, he had as many Notions in his Head, as there be Sands upon the Sea Shore. This Solomon, Jeſus Chriſt that came from Heaven he had his Heart larger than the Sea, as large as Heaven it ſelf. He was full of Truth. Saith David who knew but the Law (I mean the Law in Diſtinction from the Goſpel, as we know it, and as it is now revealed) yet ſaith he in Pſalm 119. I have ſeen an End of all Perfection, but Thy Law is exceeding Broad; he ſaw ſuch a vaſtneſs in the Knowledge of the Law as he ſtood agaſt at it; as if a Man ſhould ſtand in the midſt of the Sea, it is ſo broad, ſo vaſt, he cannot ſee where it ends; I can ſee to the End (ſaith he) of all Perfection elſe, but I cannot ſee to the End of Thy Law, it is ſo full, ſo broad. And therefore in 2 Cor. 3. The Apoſtle tells us, they did not ſee to the End of his Miniſtry; ay, but my Brethren, the Goſpel is much more endleſs, for what doth John ſay in that Place quoted even now, when he ſaid, Chriſt was full of Grace and Truth, he ſpeaks in Oppoſition to the Law, The Law came by Moſes, ſaith he, but Grace and Truth by Jeſus Chriſt, and we ſaw his Glory, and we ſaw Him full of Grace and Truth; Moſes his Law was but a ſcanty Buſineſs, though it was exceeding broad, and David ſaw an End of it; but the Knowledge of Chriſt, and of what is contained in the Goſpel they do ſo abound, as they are unſearchable; ſo the Apoſtle ſaith, Eph. 3. That I may Preach among the Gentiles, the unſearchable riches of Chriſt; and Paul himſelf, though he had abundance of Revelations (as he ſaith in 2 Cor. 12.) yet he profeſſeth, that he knew but in Part, ſuch Abundance is there in the Truths of the Goſpel. The Times of the Goſpel therefore, they are like the Times of Solomon, in which the Scripture ſaith, Silver was as the Stones in the Street; ſo Jeſus Chriſt hath fill'd the World with the riches of the Goſpel, for ſo the Goſpel is called, The Riches of the Gentiles, and the riches of the World, wherein the precious Truths revealed concerning Him, they are as common as the Stones in the Streets, and as many for number; if Men had Eyes to ſee them, and Hearts, and Heads, and Hands to dig for them, and ſearch them out of the Mines in which they lie. And ſo much now for the Second Head, viz. That the Goſpel is a rich Goſpel, in regard of the Abundance of Truth and Knowledge contained in it.

Thirdly, All the Truths of the Goſpel are likewiſe rich in regard of the Gain and Profitableneſs of them; they do make thoſe rich, that are the Poſſeſſors of them. There are in the World a great many Curioſities of Knowledge, which Men do Pride and Boaſt themſelves in; the Trial of the Secrets of Nature, and the Experiments thereof, but uſually all ſuch Knowledge doth impoveriſh all thoſe that are retainers to it; But the Knowledge of the Goſpel is clean otherwiſe, it poſſeſſeth them that know it by Faith of all the Treaſure it revealeth. It is not like Stories that do ſet forth glorious and rich Things to you, yet when Stories do ſo they do mightily take you, but you may read ſuch Stories and be poor Men ſtill: But the Goſpel as it reveals to you infinite Riches, ſo it poſſeſſeth you of them; therefore what doth the Holy Ghoſt ſay here? Which Riches is Chriſt in you, ſaith he, for the Particle [which] refers to Riches as well as to Myſtery, and indeed to both. And therefore in Prov. 3. a Place I quoted afore for the Preciouſneſs of Wiſdom and all the Wares thereof, it is not only compared to Rubies for the Worth and Preciouſneſs of it, but for the Gain and Profitableneſs of it alſo; Happy is the Man that findeth Underſtanding, for the Merchandiſe of it is better than the Merchandiſe of Silver, and the gain thereof than of fine Gold: And if the Heart of Man in its vaſt Deſires, could think of any more precious Things unknown, ſtretch the Compaſs of your Deſires to the utmoſt, yet ſaith he, All the Things thou canſt deſire cannot be compared to her: So verſe 15.

If you ask me, wherein lies this Riches? It lies in Wiſdom, ſays Solomon, and that Wiſdom is Chriſt, ſays the Text. Which Riches (ſaith he) is Chriſt in you. We all acknowledge that God is infinitely Rich and Bleſſed in himſelf:

himself, Phil. 4. 19. My God shall supply all your need, according to His Riches in Glory by Jesus Christ; Riches in Glory, for God's Riches lies in Glory most, and He communicateth them all to Believers in and by Jesus Christ, and Jesus Christs becoming yours (Which is Christ in you, saith the Text) hence you come to have a Title and Interest in all those Riches of God, that God himself possesseth. This is certain, that Jesus Christ is worth all that God is worth; He is Gods only Son, and He is His Heir (He is said to be the Heir of all Things, Heb. 1. 7.) and God will not give one Penny from Him, as I may so express it to you. Now this glorious Gospel which we Preach, if received and entertained, makes Jesus Christ yours, and all His Riches. And therefore in 1 Cor. 3. ult. The Apostle thus pleads the Title of a Christian, Whether Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, or the World, or Life, or Death, or Things present, or Things to come, all are yours, and ye are Christs, and Christ is Gods. Here I say you have as the Inventory of a Christian, so the Title by which all Things are derived to him. All Things are yours, saith he, why God himself is worth but all Things, and Jesus Christ (as I said) is worth all that God is worth; All Things are yours, for ye are Christs, and Christ is Gods. And therefore in Rom. 8. 17. We are said to be Heirs of God, and joint Heirs with Christ; not only Heirs of God, as a Son is said to be the Heir of his Father; that is, that he is the Bequeather, but we are said to be Heirs of God materially, Heirs of God himself, for He is our Inheritance; and we are Joint-heirs with Christ; we are so put into God's will, that as Men are said to be Joint Purchasers with another, so we are said to be Joint-heirs with Christ: Joint Purchasers we are not, that is Christs Prerogative alone, but when it comes to Matter of Inheritance, then we are Joint-heirs with Christ.

And that which we are to possess, is a free Estate; Rom. 8. 32. He that spared not His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall He not with Him also freely give us all Things? There is not only all Things that you possess, and the Title, as Joint-heirs with Christ, but you have it freely; there is no Debts to pay out of it, no Portions, no Legacies, but you are Heirs of all Things, and of all Things freely.

And then do but consider what the Revenues of Christs Blood are. Look what both Christs Personal Interest in all Things would convey to you, so much is a Christian worth; and look what the Purchase of Christs Blood is, so rich is a Christian also, that entertains the Gospel. I say Two Things. First, Our Saviour Christ is personally the Heir of all Things, and you have the same Title He hath, being Joint-heirs with Him. Then this Heir laid all that He was Heir of down again to make a further Purchase; and do but think now what a Purchase this must needs be, what Riches it must needs arise to; In 2 Cor. 8. 9. Ye know the Grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though He was rich (for He was rich, as He was the Heir of all Things) yet for your sakes He became Poor; why? That ye thorough His Poverty might be Rich. Jesus Christ is first Rich as the Heir, and ye are ordained Joint-heirs with Him, by that Title; but He that is the Heir of all Things becomes Poor, and Poor on purpose to Purchase, if it be possible more Riches, or the same over and over again: As it is in Phil. 1. 8. He thought it no robbery to be equal with God, as in Glory so in Riches, He had as great and as good an Estate as God himself hath, and it was no Robbery, it was no stealth. He came not by it by any such course or way, it is no unjust Claim, that He laid to it; yet He emptied himself, He left himself not worth one Farthing; He emptied himself, so saith the Text, as in respect of Glory, so in respect of Riches; He became Poor, and as we may express it, not worth the Ground He went on, for He had not a Hole to hide his Head in, Women ministred unto Him. Now I say, this Heir of all Things made over all His Riches, and did it all for you; it is said in that Prov. 3. The Merchandise of Wisdom, is better than that of Fine Gold; when Wisdom, Christ himself (I do not say, that is the meaning of the Place, only I allude to it, and speak in the Expression of it) shall put forth all the Riches He hath in a way of Merchandize

Merchandiſe to have it returned again, and become Poor to make us Rich, do but think now what Riches this muſt needs amount unto. Chap. V.

Now the Goſpel therefore is a rich Goſpel, not only becauſe it doth reveal, and is the Story of all theſe Riches, but becauſe it poſſeſſeth you of them, and is your Bond for it. The Goſpel I ſay, and all the Promiſes of it, are the Bond that you have to ſhew for all theſe Riches, and in that reſpect it is Rich. When our Lord and Saviour Chriſt laid down all His Riches, and laid down His Blood to purchaſe Riches for us, what is it that He hath to ſhew for it? He hath but the Promiſes of the Goſpel, which God hath made to him, and made to us in and thorough Him; therefore as a Man is ſaid to be Rich, though he be Rich but in Bonds, if they be ſure Bonds, ſo is a Chriſtian, he is Rich in Promiſes. Compare for this, Eph. 3. ver. 6. with ver. 8. At the 6th verſe, ſaith he, That the Gentiles ſhould be Fellow-heirs, and partakers of His Promiſe in Chriſt, by the Goſpel. Now what is it the Goſpel containeth? Read verſe 8. That I ſhould preach among the Gentiles, the unſearchable Riches of Chriſt: Where lie all theſe Riches? They lie in the Promiſes; we are now Partakers but of the Promiſes of the Goſpel: They are unſearchable Riches, which cannot be told over to Eternity, and the Promiſes are the Conveyers of them, and in theſe Promiſes do our Eſtates lie for the preſent, but it is a ſure Eſtate; and in this reſpect Peter calleth them, Exceeding great and precious Promiſes, 2 Pet. 1. 4. And therefore, although you will ſay, a Chriſtian hath nothing; it's true, but he is Rich in Promiſes; and our Apoſtle Anſwers it in that 2 Cor. 6. 10. As having nothing, yet poſſeſſing all Things; why? Becauſe a Chriſtian poſſeſſeth Chriſt; Which Riches is Chriſt in you, ſaith the Text here. It is all one to be rich in Bonds, and rich in Money told by you, and that's all the Difference between your Eſtate here, and in Heaven; in Heaven you have the Money, the Thing it ſelf; and here you have the Poſſeſſion of the Bonds themſelves.

It were Infinite to go over all the Inventory of a Chriſtian, I have therefore done it in a ſhort brief Sum. Here are riches in Chriſt to pay all thy Debts the the firſt Day thou comeſt in; and to pay all thy Debts thou ſhalt run in to God, (and it would have begger'd all the Angels in Heaven to pay for one Sin) and when that is done, thou haſt a Righteouſneſs ſo rich as the Angels never poſſeſt, a Robe ſtuck ſo full of Jewels (for ſuch is every Action of Chriſt, and all His ſufficiency) as never came upon the Angels back. Every Grace thou haſt, is a rich Thing; Rich in Faith, James 2. Rich in Aſſurance, Col. 2. 1. In a Word, hath God any more Riches? His Spirit, is as rich as Chriſt too, and thou haſt Him, it is a Phraſe uſed in Tit. 3. 6. He hath poured His Spirit richly on us; ſo it is in the Original and in your Margents. And then thou haſt all the riches of Glory in the World to come, when thou art to be the Poſſeſſor of all this. And this the Goſpel reveals to thee, and makes thee Poſſeſſor of it that art a Believer; and although the meaneſt Chriſtian, if he have but the leaſt Knowledge of the Goſpel is poſſeſt of this, yet the more he comes to know the Goſpel, the more he comes to know his own Riches.

Firſt, Therefore my Brethren (that I may make a Uſe or Two of this, and ſo paſs on to the next) it is a very great Invitement to us to be acquainted with all the Things of the Goſpel of Chriſt; for ſtill what doſt thou do? Thou doſt but Study over thine own Riches, and increaſe thine own Inventory, comeſt to the Knowledge of Things thou never dreameſt of ſhould be thine. The Angels do Study the Goſpel, and Pry into it, but it is not their Riches; it is not which Riches is Chriſt in Angels, but it is, Which Riches is Chriſt in you. It is a Thing worth your Obſervation, that in Eph. 3. ſpeaking of the Excellency of the Goſpel, and the Riches of it; he ſaith, that it is made manifeſt to all Men, and likewiſe to Angels, but with this Difference, unto Men it is called the unſearchable Riches of Chriſt; ſo ver. 8. That I ſhould preach among the Gentiles the unſearchable Riches of Chriſt; but when he ſpeaks of the Angels knowing of it, he calls it Wiſdom: So ver. 10. To the intent (ſaith he) that now unto the Principalities and Powers in heavenly Places, might be known by the Church the manifold Wiſdom of God. The Angels are taken with the Wiſdom of it, but thou maiſt be taken with the Riches that are in it; not only with the Wiſdom of it, though that takes the Angels and may take thee, but it is Riches to thee, but Wiſdom only unto them.

Secondly, Is the Goſpel thus rich in its Precioufneſs and Abundance; then let us take heed, that we do not Sell any Part of the Truths of the Goſpel, which have been revealed to us. Buy the Truth (ſaith Solomon, Prov. 23. 23.) but Sell it not; for if you do, you Sell your Riches, you Part with your Eſtates. This Kingdom, and this City (for ought I know) hath been the greateſt Mart of Truth, for this laſt Age, of any Part of the World, and Wiſdom hath cried her Wares here more than in any other Place. There is nothing more the Riches of a Kingdom or a City than the Goſpel, it is the Expreſſion the Holy Ghoſt hath in Rom. 11. 12. Where ſpeaking of the Goſpel, when it was revealed to the Gentiles, he calls it, The Riches of the Gentiles, and the Riches of the World, in the ſame Place. Take heed therefore of parting with any of the Truths of the Goſpel, thoſe Truths that have been cried, that have run thorough the Fire ſo much in all Ages, for let me tell you this, that when God did firſt deliver to the Saints in the Primitive Times, all that the Apoſtles ſaid went then for Currant in a manner; but when they were gone, God preſently went and begun to put every Truth to a Trial, firſt one and then another.

That there is one God, and one Chriſt His Son, and that he is God as well as Man, and hath a true Humane Nature; all theſe Fundamental Truths, were the Exerciſe and Conflicts againſt Hereticks and Heathens, that the Holy Chriſtians in the Primitive Times ſuffered for. Then God put this Truth into the Fire, whether Chriſt was God or no, and all the World turned Arian; but He tryed it, and it hath ſtood, and doth ſtand, and is continued to this Day. He hath likewiſe put the Doctrine of Free-Grace into the Fire, He began to do it preſently after Arianiſm was down, He hath tried it over, and over, and over, and it is ſtill propagated purer and purer. Now I ſay, all thoſe Truths that God hath thus ſuffered to run thorough the Fire, which we now poſſeſs by the Blood of Jeſus Chriſt, and by the Blood of Martyrs, and the Conflicts of the Saints in all Ages ſhould be preſerv'd by us. I beſeech you give not up thoſe Truths, for they are your Riches: Shall we now in this Age Queſtion the Foundation of Religion? (For ſo ſome do) will you Sell away thoſe Things that have been derived to us Age after Age at ſuch Coſt? O let us poſſeſs them as our deareſt Treaſures. Let us value the Truths of the Goſpel as Paul did; I profited (ſaith he) in Knowledge more than any of my Brethren, Equals, or as much as any. Oh Thought he once, when he had got a Form of the Knowledge of the Law in his Head, what a Treaſure have I? But ſaith he, Phil. 3. 7, 8. The Things I counted gain to me, thought my ſelf rich by them, I eſteemed all to be, but loſs and dung for the excellency of the Knowledge of Jeſus Chriſt my Lord. My Brethren, let us not Sell the Truth, God never takes it away from a Nation or a People, till they Sell it as Eſau did his Birth-right. The Lord had made the Jews His Market for Truth, to them were committed the Oracles of God, Rom. 2. and therefore becauſe He had committed to them the Truth, and they had been the Pillar of it, when the Goſpel came to be Preached, they muſt have the firſt offer of it, they muſt have the refuſal of it before God would carry it to another Market; It was neceſſary (ſaith Paul and Barnabas Preaching to the Jews, Acts 13. 46.) that the Word of God ſhould firſt have been ſpoken unto you, but ſeeing you put it from you, ſeeing you refuſe it, carry your ſelves unworthy of it, we will go to the Gentiles.

And

And Laſt of all, Let the Doctrine of the Goſpel dwell plenteouſly in you, Let it dwell richly in you, for ſo the Expreſſion is, Coloſ. 3. 16. And let us labour to be inriched with all the Knowledge of; as it is in 2 Cor. 1. 5. Let us grow rich in Faith, for the more you know, the richer you are. Chap. VI.

But you will ſay, I am eſtated into all the Riches of the Goſpel, if I have but the leaſt Spark of Faith, and all the Riches of Chriſt are mine.

I Confeſs that all the Riches of Chriſt are thine. But let me tell thee this, the more thou groweſt after thou believeſt in the Knowledge of the Goſpel, the more thou groweſt in the Knowledge of thine own Riches, and what a Happineſs is that! And though thou haſt all the Riches of Chriſt, and all the Promiſes, and all the Truths of the Goſpel tend for to Comfort thee, and to make thee Happy and Rich, and will one Day make thee ſo; yet in the mean Time, till thou increaſeſt in the Knowledge of it, till thou haſt Aſſurance of the Things thou knoweſt, thou art in thine own Apprehenſion but a poor Man. There is that maketh himſelf Poor, but is Rich, ſaith Solomon, which is the Caſe of many poor Souls, who either want Aſſurance, or elſe do content themſelves with a little Knowledge, only ſo much as may ſave them. So that now here is the Advantage of a Man growing in Knowledge, that the more he knows of the Goſpel of Chriſt, the more he knoweth his own Riches; and if a Man had no other Work, but to tell over Money newly given him every Day, he would ſurely count it the pleaſanteſt Work in the World. If thou couldeſt grow every Day in a new Degree of Knowledge, whileſt thou doſt thereby grow the more in the Knowledge of thine own Riches, how Happy muſt thou needs be! And ſo much now for that Attribute, that is here given to the Goſpel, it is a Myſtery, and it is a rich Myſtery.

CHAP. VI.

That the Goſpel is moſt Excellent, becauſe it is a moſt glorious Revelation of God, and Chriſt to us.

THE next Thing that is (in Col. 1. 27.) attributed to the Goſpel is, that it is a glorious Goſpel. The Apoſtle when he ſpeaks of the Glory of Things ſpiritual, uſually gives the Title of Riches to them; thus in Rom. 9. 23. When he ſpeaks of the Glory that is in God, he calleth it Riches of Glory; ſo in Eph. 1. 18. when he ſpeaks of Heaven, he calleth it Riches of Glory; and here when he ſpeaks of the Goſpel of Chriſt, he calleth it likewiſe Riches of Glory.

I need not ſtand to give you many Scriptures, in which the Goſpel is called glorious. I ſhall quote you but one or two. Firſt, That in 1 Tim. 1. 11. According to the glorious Goſpel of the bleſſed God, and he ſpeaks it in Oppoſition to the Law clearly; he ſaith, that the Law is good, ver. 8. but when he comes to ſpeak of the Goſpel, he calls that glorious; for Glory is the ſuperexcellency and ſuperlative of Goodneſs. You have one whole Chapter (viz. 2 Cor. 3.) that ſhews the Glory of this Goſpel, and indeed more than that one Chapter, for the Apoſtle doth inlarge his Diſcourſe of it to the 6th Verſe of the 4th Chapter, and there alſo he calls it Treaſure (as in ver. 7.) as he had called it Glory in all the Diſcourſe before; and as he had done in Timothy, ſo here in this Chapter of the Corinths, he compares it with the Law. He doth acknowledge, that the Law had a kind of Glory in it, ſo ver. 7. If the Ministration of Death written, and ingraven in Stones, was glorious, so that the Children of Israel could not stedfastly behold the Face of Moses, for the Glory of his Countenance, which Glory was to be done away; how shall not the Ministration of the Spirit be rather glorious? For if the Ministration of Condemnation be Glory, much more doth the Ministration of Righteousness exceed in Glory. I shall take all these Arguments afore I have done, to shew how glorious the Gospel is, both because it is the Ministration of the Spirit, and because it is the Ministration of a glorious Righteousness but now I only quote it for this in the General, that the Apostle though he attributeth a Glory to the Law, yet in Comparison of the Gospel he makes it no Glory, for so it follows, ver. 10. Even that which was made glorious, had no Glory in this respect, by Reason of the Glory that excelleth.

The Law was glorious (and yet that Glory which it had, he saith, was but a made Glory.) First, In the Promulgation of it, which indeed was a very resemblance of the Day of Judgment, for God when he came to give the Law to Sinners, came down from Heaven and placed his Tabernacle upon Mount Sinai, like unto a Judge, attended with glorious Angels (for the Law was given by Angels) and with many glorious Miracles, Thunder, and Earthquake, and Fire, and Smoak, and the Sound of a Trumpet. Even as the Glory of a Kingdom is most seen, when they go to Enact Laws, for then the King and all the Nobles go in their Parliament Robes; and so your Judges, when they go to Execute the Laws, to Condemn Men, go attended with the sound of a Trumpet, and Halberds, &c. So God when He came to give the Law, came attended with all this Glory.

And then Secondly, As the Law was glorious in Respect of the Promulgation of it, so in Respect of the Matter of it: For the Moral Law, of which the Apostle specially speaks, for he speaks of that Law which was written and engraven in Stones, had a Glory in it; why? This is a certain Rule, whatsoever holds forth the Image of God hath a Glory in it, for the least Ray or Beam of God hath Glory in it, and if the Law be the Image of God, if God be glorious that must be glorious too; now the Law holds forth the Image of God's Mind. Therefore it is, that Man in his First Creation is called the Glory of God, because he was the Image of God, and hence therefore the Grace in Adam was called Glory, and so I think it is the best Interpretation, or at least-wise one great Part of the meaning of that in Rom. 3. 23. All have sinned, and come short of the Glory of God; (it is meant of the Image of God plainly, for in 1 Cor. 11. 7. The Glory of God, and his Image are made all one,) they are fallen from that Grace and Righteousness which at first God did implant in them, by which they were justified, and so are come short of the Favour of God, which did shine upon them. And hence likewise in 2 Cor. 4. The Gospel is said to be glorious, because it holds forth Jesus Christ the Image of God; now the Law therefore containing the Image of God, had a Glory in it materially. In these Two Respects, I say the Law was glorious: 1. In the Promulgation of it, God put a State upon it when He deliver'd it: And, 2. In Respect of the Matter of it, because it contains the Image of God.

But now my Brethren, the Gospel infinitely excelleth in Glory in both these Respects. I will not stand so much upon the first, because it is not so proper to the Text, yet somewhat I will say of it. The Gospel in the Promulgation of it, had all the Glory that could be put upon it. What greater Glory than for a King before he comes himself in State, to have a Train of Men of Four Thousand Years? So had Jesus Christ, before He came into the World to give the Gospel, what a long Train had He? For all the Patriarchs and Prophets were but His Fore-runners, his Train, Men that went before Him, and at last came John the Baptist, who was greater than all those Patriarchs and Prophets, because he came next to Jesus Christ, and because he spake more Gospel than all of them had done. You have an express Place for it, in Isa. 40. 3, 4, and 5. Verses compared, where the Glory of the Gospel is held forth by this, that it had this Fore-runner,

The Voice of him that crieth in the Wilderneſs, Prepare ye the Way of the Lord, make ſtraight in the Deſart a High-way for our God, &c. and ſaith he, ver. 5. The Glory of the Lord ſhall be revealed. Becauſe it was ſo great a Glory, He uſhereth it in thus by John Baptiſt: It's true indeed, there was no Sound of a Trumpet, nor no Earthquakes; but you ſhall ſee there was as much, for after all this Train was paſt, and all theſe Fore-runners gone by, comes Jeſus Chriſt himſelf, the Brightneſs of his Fathers Glory, and the expreſs Image of His Perſon; Whoſe Shooe Latchet, ſaith John Baptiſt (who was yet more than a Prophet) I am not worthy to unlooſe. Compare for this but the firſt Chapter of the Hebrews, and the Third Verſe of the Second Chapter together. In the Firſt Chapter, he ſaith, That in theſe laſt Days God hath ſpoken unto us by his Son, and then he ſheweth what a Son this was, that He was Heir of all Things, and that by Him alſo God made the Worlds, that He was the expreſs Image of His Fathers Perſon, and all this to the End, that he might ſhew forth the Glory of the Goſpel; as appears, Chap. 2. ver. 2. For ſaith he, If the Word ſpoken by Angels was ſo ſtedfaſt and excellent, how much more ſhall that Word be which was ſpoken by ſo great a Lord; ſo ver. 3. And when Jeſus Chriſt did firſt come to be inaugurated, before He Preached one Sermon (for His Inauguration is recorded by the Evangeliſts before He Preached one Sermon) it was by a Voice coming immediately from Heaven; ſaying, This is my well beloved Son, in whom I am well pleaſed. You have the ſame afterwards in Luke 17. when He was transfigured, when He appeared all in His Glory: Moſes his Face did but ſhine, but Jeſus Chriſt's Face, Clothes, and all ſhone all over, and then cometh a Voice from Heaven too: This is my Beloved Son, in whom I am well pleaſed, hear Him: It is a Preface to the Goſpel, here is a Lord of Glory ſaith He, when He had ſhewn Him in all His Glory; here He is, hear Him, take that Goſpel that he delivereth from His Mouth, for here is the reality of Moſes his Shadow. There was a Voice came from the excellent Glory, ſo Peter hath it; which is more then the ſound of a Trumpet which Angels made upon the Mount at the Promulgation of the Law. Here when this Goſpel came to be delivered, when it was firſt begun to be ſpoken by the Lord, all the Three Perſons give Witneſs and Teſtimony, and inſtead of Angels the Holy Ghoſt cometh down, and inſtead of the Voice of Angels, here is a Voice from Heaven, even the Voice of God himſelf; and inſtead of Moſes ſhining with his Face, here is Moſes and Elias both appearing in Glory with Jeſus Chriſt, who put them down clean; for ſaith John, ſpeaking of His Transfiguration; We ſaw His Glory, as the Glory of the only begotten Son of God; which Glory of His was as evidently to be diſtinguiſhed from the Glory of Moſes and Elias, as the Glory of the Sun is from that of the Stars. And my Brethren, what was the Purpoſe of preſenting Chriſt in that Glory upon the Mount? It is evident, it was in Anſwer to the Glory of Moſes his Face, who was the Deliverer of the Law, and that upon this Ground; becauſe there is a Voice come from Heaven, from the excellent Glory; ſaying, This is my beloved Son, hear him. Chap. VI.

And then when Jeſus Chriſt, the Lord of Glory, that firſt gave this Goſpel, went to Heaven; what follows? Why a World of Glories, Beams of Glories were ſtill ſcattered to confirm it; 1 Pet. 1. 10. Of which Salvation the Prophets did Propheſie, and of the Sufferings of Chriſt, and of the Glories that ſhould follow (ſo it is in the Original.) For when Jeſus Chriſt himſelf aſcended and entred into Glory, He poured down glorious Gifts; He poured down a glorious Spirit, He poured down this Goſpel, whereof He had but the Subſtance of it in brief Sayings, which the Apoſtles delivered to us; ſo you have it in Heb. 2. 3. As it was firſt Preached by the Lord, ſo he ſaith it was confirmed by Signs and Wonders, and divers Miracles, and by giving of the Holy Ghoſt. And this was the Glory of the Goſpel in reſpect of the Promulgation of it, which indeed is not ſo much the Scope of the Text; yet becauſe the Apoſtle in that 2 Cor. 3. ſpeaks of the Promulgation of the Law, and of the Glory of it in that Reſpect, when he compares it with the Goſpel and the Glory of it, I thought good a little to handle it. But,

Glory

Chap. VI.

Secondly, As the Goſpel exceeded the Law in Glory, in reſpect of the Promulgation of it; ſo let us compare the Matter of the Goſpel with that of the Law, and we ſhall find it likewiſe to be tranſcendently glorious in that reſpect alſo. The Law I told you was a glorious Law, becauſe it contained the Image of God, ſo far as dead Letters could hold forth that Image. The Law written in Adams Heart was the Image of God, and that being blotted out, God took a Copy of what was in Adams Heart, ſo that indeed the Law is rather an Image of the Image of God, than the Image of God properly; it is but the Image of the Image that was in Adams Heart, and but a literal Picture of it. But now the Goſpel muſt needs be much more glorious: Becauſe, Firſt, It is the Goſpel of Jeſus Chriſt who is the expreſs Image of the Perſon of His Father; ſo you have it, Heb. 1. 2, 3. Who is the Heir of all Things (ſpeaking of Chriſt) the brightneſs of His Glory, and the expreſs Image of His Perſon. Now do but look how more glorious the Image of a Man in his Son like himſelf, who hath the ſame Reaſon in him, and Properties of all Kinds that himſelf hath, excelleth the Image of his Mind, or of his Thoughts delivered in Writing; ſo doth Jeſus Chriſt excel that Image of God expreſſed in the Law. And it is this which makes the Goſpel ſo glorious, becauſe it is the Goſpel of Chriſt, who is the Image of God; ſo the Apoſtle ſaith in 2 Cor. 4. 4. Leſt the Light of the glorious Goſpel of Chriſt, who is the Image of God, ſhould ſhine unto them; hence therefore in Iſa. 40. 4. Chriſt is called, The Glory of the Lord. Therefore look how far the Image of God ſtamped upon Jeſus Chriſt, exceeds the Image of God in Adams Heart; and therefore muſt needs excel the Image of God in the Law, which is indeed but the Copy of the Image; ſo much doth the Goſpel exceed the Law in Glory, and all the Knowledge of it. The Law I ſay is the Copy of the Image of God in Mans Heart, but the Goſpel is the Glaſs in which the Image of God in Chriſt, and the Glory of Chriſt appeareth.

I will not ſtand to inlarge much upon that Subject, to ſhew you how tranſcendent an Image there is ſtamped upon Chriſt; I have done it elſewhere, in opening the 18 and 19 Verſes of this Chapter. And that Jeſus Chriſt is the great Subject of the Goſpel, I intend by the Bleſſing of God to ſpeak of that, taking Chap. 2. ver. 2. where the Goſpel is called, The Myſtery of God, and of the Father, and of Chriſt; theſe being the Subject of the Goſpel. I will now only ſhew you, how glorious the Goſpel muſt needs be that doth hold forth the Glory of Chriſt, and how lively it holds it forth.

My Brethren, let me tell you the Story of it a little. The Apoſtles that lived with Jeſus Chriſt, They ſaw His Glory, as the Glory of the only begotten Son of God; ſo you have it, in John 1. 14. And as Johns Expreſſion is (and he ſpeaks feelingly) in 1 John 1. 1. That which we have heard, which we have ſeen with our Eyes, which we have looked upon, and our Hands have handled; they handled Him, that is, they had a ſenſible Knowledge of Him, their Ears took in His gracious Words, their Eyes beheld Him, beheld His glorious Miracles, beheld the Glory that God ſtamped upon Him, when He was in the Mount, and had that Voice from the excellent Glory. Well, but Jeſus Chriſt is gone to Heaven, and all His Glory is taken up with Him, and theſe Apoſtles that ſaw His Glory, were all to leave the Earth; and therefore though it is true, that we ſhall one Day be where He is, according to His Prayer, John 17. 24. That we may behold His Glory; yet how in the mean Time ſhould we come to ſee this Image of God, and the Glory of Jeſus Chriſt, who in that Place of Iſaiah is called the Glory of the Lord? Jeſus Chriſt therefore did by His Apoſtles frame up a Doctrine of the Goſpel, which is left Written by them; for He having delivered it unto them, they have declared it unto us; ſo you have it in the forementioned

Place,

Place, 1 John 1. 3. That which we have ſeen and heard, declare we unto you. He declared it firſt to them, and they while they lived Preached the ſame Goſpel by Word of Mouth, and then left it unto us in Writing, that ſo in the opening of it by Paſtors and Teachers to the end of the World, we may come to ſee Chriſt, as the Apoſtles did in reſpect of His glorious Excellencies. Now this glorious Goſpel which the Apoſtles have thus left in Writing, and which we poor Miniſters in all Ages do Expound as well as we can unto you, what is it? It is the lively Image or Picture of Jeſus Chriſt, who is the expreſs Image of the great God, and of all His Glory; and hence is it a glorious Goſpel. When the Apoſtle Paul preached to the Galatians, what ſaith he of the Goſpel he Preached? Gal. 3. 1. Before whoſe Eyes (ſaith he) Jeſus Chriſt was pictured; ſo the Word ſignifies, or painted, written out. The Goſpel my Brethren, is the livelieſt Picture of Chriſt that could be. But you will ſay, Pictures do not repreſent the Glory of a Thing? No more they do not, if you would Picture the Sun with the livelieſt Colours that could be, you could not Picture the Glory of it; what hath God done therefore? He hath made His Goſpel not only a Picture of Chriſt, but He hath made it a Glaſs. So the Apoſtle ſaith in that 2 Cor. 3. 18. compared with Cap. 4. ver. 4. We all with open Face beholding as in a Glaſs, the Glory of the Lord; namely, of Jeſus Chriſt, who is the Image of the Inviſible God. What is the Reaſon he calls the Goſpel glorious? Becauſe it is the Image of Jeſus Chriſt; and how doth the Goſpel hold that forth? Not only as a Picture, but as a Glaſs, and a Glaſs if the Thing be glorious that ſhines upon it, will repreſent not the Thing only, but the Glory of it too: As if you hold a Looking-glaſs to the Sun, you ſhall not only ſee the Picture of the Sun in it, but the Glory of the Sun, and the Sun in his Glory. Now the Glory of God, that ſhineth upon the Face of Jeſus Chriſt (and therefore ver. 6. We are ſaid to have the Light of Knowledge of the Glory of God in the Face of Jeſus Chriſt) and the Face of Chriſt ſhineth in the Goſpel as in a Glaſs; hence we come by looking into the Goſpel to ſee His Glory, and therefore the Goſpel it is a glorious Goſpel. To open this a little to you: A Glaſs it is the moſt lively way of repreſenting Things abſent that can be invented, for it doth not repreſent Things in dead, liveleſs, and wan Colours, as Pictures do, but really. It is a middle way of repreſenting a Man, between ſeeing a Mans Picture, and ſeeing the Man himſelf. It doth repreſent him ſo lively and clearly, that though indeed it is not ſo comfortable as ſeeing the Man himſelf, yet it is much more comfortable then ſeeing the Picture of the Man drawn by all the Art in the World. Therefore it is ſaid here, We behold as in a Glaſs the Glory of the Lord; now it is a rule in Opticks, and a true one, Quod videtur in ſpeculo, non eſt Image, that which is ſeen in a Glaſs is not a meer Picture, but it is the Thing it ſelf; if you ſee a Man in a Glaſs, though you do not look directly upon the Man, yet you ſee the Man himſelf: Only with this Difference, that when you look upon the Man himſelf you ſee him by a direct Act, and you ſee him by an Image taken off from the Man himſelf, coming into your Eye, but when you look upon him in a Glaſs, you ſee him by a Reverberation as I may ſo expreſs it, the Image of the Man is beaten back again. That I may expreſs this Thing to you: The Eye of a Man ſees nothing, but by the Image of the Thing ſome-way or other coming into it, and therefore now when you behold any Man, if your Eye be looked upon, there is the Image of that Man in your Eye. Now if a Glaſs doth take that Image (and a Glaſs it is an artificial Eye as I may call it, and the Eye is a natural Glaſs) I ſay, if a Glaſs doth take in that Image, it beats it back again; and that is ſeeing a Man in a Glaſs; whereas, if you ſee the Man Face to Face, his Image is convey'd immediately into your Eye; but go now and hold a Glaſs before that Man, and the ſame Image which you received directly into your Eye by ſeeing him immediately, is in the Glaſs, which if you behold, that Image is reverberated or beaten back again to you. As an Eccho is your own Voice beaten back again, ſo is a Mans Image which you behold

in a Glass. And therefore it is the most lively way of seeing and beholding a Thing that can be, why? Because you do not see a meer Picture, but you see the Man himself by a reverberated Species, that is, by the likeness of him beaten back again to your Eye. And thus my Brethren, doth the Knowledge of Christ in the Gospel, and in Heaven differ. In Heaven, there you see Him by sight, why? Because as the Apostle saith, We see Him there Face to Face, but in the Gospel, We see Him as in a Glass, but still the same Christ, really represented in the Glass of the Gospel, above all Pictures whatsoever, whom one Day we shall see Face to Face in Heaven. For the sight we have of Christ in the Gospel, is not meerly Notional or Literal, but it hath a reality in it; and therefore we are said to see the Glory of the Lord in this Glass, this Glory could never have been painted, for the Glory of Christ it must be Beams shed immediately from himself, and to see Jesus Christ with His own Beams, though shining in the Glass of the Gospel, is to see Christ himself. And therefore you see how the Apostles speaks, as they compare the Thing we see Christ in, to a Glass; so they compare the Faith we see Him by, to sight plainly, Heb. 2. 8. We see Jesus crowned with Glory and Honour. Alas, they had not Eyes of their Bodies to look up into Heaven, but their sight of Christ was so lively, as He was represented in the Glass of the Gospel, that the Apostle saith, We see Jesus crowned with Glory and Honour. So that my Brethren, suppose that you had a Glass that did perpetually retain the Image of an absent Friend, suppose you had not only a Picture of him but a Glass, that look what Image he had when he looked upon it, when he was present that Image sticks in it still; what would you give for such a Glass? Some Nations do use to keep their Dead in a Glass, which being artificially closed up, preserves them from stinch; but alas, it is but a dead Friend in a Case of Glass. But here is another Artifice that Jesus Christ useth, He hath framed by His Spirit a Doctrine of the Gospel, which is delivered to us in the Writings of the Apostles; which doth retain a lively Image of Jesus Christ, and if Men when they come to hear it Preached, or when they look into it, bring the Spirit with them, they see the Glory of the Lord there.

But now you will say unto me, How can this be? How comes this to pass? Is not the Word preached, or read, or thought upon, not meerly Words, and so the Picture of Things, and of Christ, as all other Stories of Men are? They are better indeed than Emblems are, the Ceremonial Law was nothing but Emblems of Christ, but the Gospel is a plain describing of Him in Words, but yet as he said, Poetry and Oratory is but the Picture of Things; how should this Word written and preached come to be a Glass to represent Christ thus lively?

I will give you the Reason of it, for the Apostle doth it in that 2 Cor. 3. 4. he saith, That it is the Ministration not of the Letter, but of the Spirit. The Gospel my Brethren, hath a Spirit lying hid in it, and which goes along with it, and if the Holy Ghost did not accompany it to the Heart of a Believer, it would but speak meer Words of Christ, even as the Law spake but meer Words, it would be but a meer Letter, for indeed the Gospel of it self, is but the Ministration of the Letter to worldly and carnal Men, whose Eyes God doth not open (so saith the 4th Verse of the 4th Chapter of that 2d Corinthians) It is hid, saith he, to them that are lost, in whom the God of this World hath blinded the Minds of them, which believe not. But it is called Spirit, and there is a Spirit that doth accompany it, and as he saith in Isa. 59. 21. The Word and the Spirit shall not depart out of thy Mouth: And the Holy Ghost thus accompanying all that is said of Christ and His Glory in the Gospel, He createth (let me say it, for it is true) such Apprehensions of Christ, and of all the Things spoken of Him, which never entred into the Heart of any carnal Man in the World; He createth a new Light by which you do really view Jesus Christ, although by Faith, and though as in a Glass, yet a real sight you have of Him beyond all the Story of Words and Hear-say whatsoever. It were indeed but the Ministration of the Letter, if there were only but a verbal and hear-ſay Knowledge of Him, no, but whileſt you read Words in the Scripture, or hear but Words in the Preaching of the Goſpel, there is a Spirit goes along with it, whoſe peculiar Artifice it is to make it to be as a Glaſs, to ſee Jeſus Chriſt in the Doctrine of it as you ſee a Man in a Glaſs, and that ſight is a lively and real ſight of His Image. Whilſt we do Limb out Jeſus Chriſt by Words, as well as we can (for what we expreſs is ſtill but literal, in Compariſon of what a Man if he be a Believer apprehendeth while it is expreſt, and we are to uſe all the Art we can to expreſs Things to you, whilſt I ſay we are doing this) the Holy Ghoſt that dwelleth in the Word, and dwelleth in the Heart of Believers, begetteth ſuch a real Image of Chriſt by that which is ſpoken, that they behold the Glory of the Lord as in a Glaſs, and are changed into the ſame Image from Glory to Glory as by the Spirit of the Lord. It is compared to the ſeeing in a Glaſs, becauſe there is a Subſiſtence given by the Holy Ghoſt to the Things ſpoken of, beyond all Pictures, or Words, or Notions. And hence do but obſerve what follows in the Text (which I ſhall afterwards more diſtinctly open) Which ſaith he, is Chriſt in you, which importeth thus much, that while that Jeſus Chriſt is known by a Believer in the Doctrine of the Goſpel, He becometh Chriſt in him; He is not only known by him as a Man knows the King, but He is known as when a Man knows the Sun, the Beams of it cometh into his Eye. So that the Apprehenſional Knowledge that a Saint hath of Jeſus Chriſt by Faith, the taking in of Chriſt by Faith, is ſo real a Thing that it is called Chriſt in a Man. And I take that to be the meaning of that in Gal. 3. (which I ſhall further open anon) where he ſaith, Till Chriſt be formed in you, and ſo Piſcator takes it. Chap. VI.

Letter,

I ſhall endeavour to make this further plain to you thus. You may ſee an Imitation of this work of the Holy Ghoſt in this; ſuppoſe there were a Man ſtanding Two or Three Houſes off from your Houſe; it is poſſible by the Reflection of Looking-glaſſes ſet one againſt another, to ſee the Image of this Man in a Glaſs in your own Room. Is the Art of Man able to do this? The Art of the Holy Ghoſt is able to do it much more. You ſee Satan, what doth he do that is a Spirit? Whereas Men can make but the Picture of a Man, what can Satan do? Abſolutely he will make a Man appear before one as a Man, in lively Colours, not a bare Picture. This Artifice Satan hath: My Brethren, the Holy Ghoſt accompanying the Doctrine of the Goſpel hath a further Artifice, though you ſee not Chriſt Face to Face (that is reſerved for Heaven) yet you ſhall ſee Him in a ſpiritual Glaſs, you ſhall not only ſee Him as deſcribed by Words, but you ſhall have thoſe lively real Apprehenſions of Him created in your Mind (and you have ſo, if Chriſt be in you) as puts down all the literal and hear-ſay Knowledge in the World, it is like the ſeeing of a Man's Image in a Glaſs. And therefore, now obſerve it, in that 2 Cor. 4. (for I have ſtill recourſe to that) the Apoſtle hints how it cometh to paſs, that you come to ſee thus by the Spirit. He gives the Reaſon there, why that the Goſpel that is thus glorious is hid from the Eyes of the World; ſaith he of ſome, Ver. 4. Whom the God of this World hath blinded, leſt the Light of the glorious Goſpel of Chriſt, who is the Image of God, ſhould ſhine unto them. But how is that Light wrought? Read on, Ver. 6. God who commanded the Light to ſhine out of Darkneſs, hath ſhined in our Hearts, to give the Light of the Knowledge of the Glory of God in the Face of Jeſus Chriſt. It is done you ſee plainly by a Creation; He createth a Light in the Soul of a Man, out of that Darkneſs that is in him. And without this, let a Man ſtand under the Goſpel a Thouſand Years together, he would only know Chriſt by hear-ſay: But if the Spirit cometh and createth a Light, this Light ſhall carry the Image of Chriſt to the Soul, ſuch an Image of Him as never entred into the Heart of any carnal Man, though he knows never ſo much of the Goſpel. I ſhall make it plain by opening the Apoſtles Compariſon. Every Beam of Light always carries with it the Image of that Thing which it is the Beam of: If you do behold a little

Beam of the Sun coming thorough a Pin-hole in a dark Room, run to the Beam, lay your Eye to it, that Beam conveys to you the Image of the whole Sun: So when as there cometh a created Light into a Mans Soul by the Holy Ghoſt, joining with the Goſpel which ſpeaks of Chriſt, he who is a Believer, by his Eye of Faith taking in that Beam of Light, beholdeth Jeſus Chriſt that Image of God, beholdeth the Glory of Chriſt in the Goſpel thus deſcribed, in ſuch a Manner as no Creature elſe is able to apprehend. It is I ſay, becauſe the Light of the glorious Goſpel is commanded to ſhine out of Darkneſs: It is a Light that is given, ſo ſaith the Apoſtle, He hath given us the Light of the Knowledge of the Glory of God, in the Face of Jeſus Chriſt. And therefore now in Iſa. 60. 1, 2, 3. Where he ſpeaks of the Glory of the Goſpel, which ſhall one Day break forth to the Jews, he expreſſeth it in theſe very Terms; Ariſe, ſaith he, for thy Light is come, and the Glory of the Lord is riſen upon Thee. When as the Light of the Goſpel cometh and ſhineth into a Mans Soul by the Creation of the Holy Ghoſt, the Glory of the Lord cometh into him too, he beholdeth the Glory of the Lord as in a Glaſs. And hence my Brethren it comes to paſs, that a Man doth ſee the Lord Jeſus Chriſt really in the Glaſs of the Goſpel. The Underſtanding underſtandeth every Thing per phantaſma as we ſay, the Fancy of a Man: Still when the Underſtanding works to underſtand any Thing, the Fancy of a Man begets the Image of the Thing in his Mind: When ever you hear Story told of a Thing done in ſuch a Place, by ſuch or ſuch a Perſon, ſtill your Fancy will be working the Image of that Thing or Perſon in your Mind, though it be a Story told, you never heard before; for God hath appointed the Fancy to give the Mind a Subſiſtance of what it underſtandeth. Now when God cometh to reveal ſpiritual Things, the Fancy could never take them in, it could never give any Subſiſtance to them, it hath no Images to make of them: What therefore doth God do? He createth Faith. And what is Faith? It is not Phantaſia, but Hypoſtaſia, it gives a Subſiſtance (ſo the Apoſtle ſaith, Heb. 11.) a Reality to the Things we underſtand, even as the Image of a Man in a Glaſs is a real Thing, it is a Subſiſtance, ſo God and Chriſt they have a Subſiſtance, a reality in a Mans Spirit. And hence my Brethren it comes to paſs, that the Soul doth Form up out of the Goſpel glorious Apprehenſions of Chriſt, for as the Goſpel holds forth Jeſus Chriſt in His Glory really, ſo by the help of the Spirit, the ſame Image that is in the Goſpel, is begot in my Heart of this Jeſus Chriſt; that is, real and glorious Apprehenſions I have of Him, which are wrought in me in and by the Goſpel, and according to what the Goſpel deſcribeth of Him. And as I ſaid afore, it is Part of the Apoſtles meaning in that Place of the Galatians, when he tells them, I am in Travel, till Chriſt be formed in you; he doth not ſpeak in reſpect of Sanctification, that he laboured to have the Image of Chriſt formed in them in that Reſpect, for they were ſanctified and had not fallen from that; but ſaith he, I endeavour till ſuch Time as thoſe Apprehenſions you have had of Chriſt, which you have loſt, be formed in your Hearts again, and that your Underſtanding take Him in aright.

So then to cloſe up this firſt Thing of the Glory of the Goſpel in reſpect of the Matter of it, here is the Sum of all that I have ſaid. Firſt, Here is Jeſus Chriſt; He is the Image of God, the moſt glorious Image of God that ever was: Here is the Goſpel appointed to be a Glaſs to repreſent this Glory of Chriſt, deſcribing Him not by Words only and in a literal Way, or by a Picture, but in a Glaſs, lively and really, and ſo the Goſpel becometh a glorious Image of Chriſt, even as if you hold a Glaſs to the Sun, there is a glorious Image of the Sun in the Glaſs, and hold your Eye to that glorious Image of the Sun in the Glaſs, and that Image is begotten in your Eye; ſo is it here, the Goſpel being the Image of the Glory of Chriſt, having the Holy Ghoſt in it, the Heart of a Believer coming to it by Faith, takes in all that Glory, ſo far as it is revealed to him, and ſo having further and larger Apprehenſions of Chriſt, He is formed in him, and as the Goſpel hath Chriſts Image in it, ſo he hath Chriſts Image in his Heart, ſo the Apoſtle indeed tells us, in that 2 Cor. 3. ult. We are changed into that Image from Glory to Glory. To ſee a Thing my Brethren, that is glorious by its own Light, it always makes a glorious Sight, a real Sight: The leaſt Beam of Chriſt it helps you to the ſight of him, if it be a Beam of himſelf. You may hear of Him by hear-ſay as of other Things, but if (as the Apoſtles Expreſſion is) there ſhine into your Hearts but a Beam from himſelf by His Spirit, it doth convey the reality of Chriſt to you, it makes Chriſt to be in you, as the Text ſaith, although you do not ſee Him Face to Face. If the Sun were down at this Inſtant, if there were a Glaſs that took in the Beams of it above the Earth, I might always ſee the Sun in that Glaſs; ſo though Jeſus Chriſt be in Heaven now, yet the Goſpel being that Glaſs in which the Image of Chriſt is, I may have a real and lively Repreſentation of Him, ſo far as the Goſpel reveals Him. And ſo much now for that firſt Thing in reſpect of the Matter.

I will but add a Compariſon, to ſhew you how much the Glory of the Goſpel exceedeth that of the Law in this Reſpect. Compare it either with the Moral Law, or with the Ceremonial Law. 1. Go take the Moral Law; why? the Moral Law it is a Glaſs too, and a Glaſs that revealeth God, or rather what the Image of the Mind of God is: Yet it is meerly a Glaſs of the Image of God in Adams Heart, it is but a Copy of the Image of God in Man, and ſo it is rather a Glaſs to ſhew Man to himſelf than God to him; you have it in James 1. (for it is good to compare the Similitudes, the Scripture uſeth one with another) If any Man be a hearer of the Word (ſaith he) and not a doer, he is like to a Man beholding his natural Face in a Glaſs, but he beholds himſelf, and goes his way, and ſtraightway forgets what manner of Man he was. Whilſt you look into the Law, you ſee what an Image of God was once in you, and by comparing your ſelves with it, you ſee your own Deformity now, and ſo I know not how far, by a remote Conſequence, you ſee what a Holy God, he is that gave ſuch a Law: But it is not a Glaſs that repreſenteth God, but a Glaſs that repreſenteth your ſelves, and repreſenteth that Image that was in Man by Nature. And therefore the Apoſtle calleth it only a dead Letter written upon Stones, rather than a Glaſs, when he makes a Compariſon of it with the glorious Goſpel. 2. Go take the Ceremonial Law, that was join'd to it, and that reveals more of the Goſpel, for indeed that was nothing elſe but Goſpel in Shadows, and you ſhall find that, becauſe it had Goſpel in it, 'tis called glorious too; there is Glory attributed to it more than to the Moral Law ſimply or alone conſidered. Hence the Ark, which was Jeſus Chriſt in a Shadow, is called the Glory of Iſrael; in 1 Sam. 4. 22. and ſo in Rom. 9. 4. To them belonged the Adoption, and the Glory, namely, the Ark. And ſo the Temple, is called a glorious high Throne, in Jer. 17. 12. And in 1 Kings 8. 11. The Glory of the Lord filled it at the Dedication. Yet what is all this now in Compariſon of the Goſpel, this Goſpel that is now revealed, the Glaſs that we ſee Chriſt in? The Law is called glorious only, becauſe as if the Sun ſhould ſhine upon a Cloud in a Rain-bow, it took in the Sun that was a riſing before we ſaw it. All this in Compariſon of the Goſpel is but a Shadow, it is but as the Glory of the Sun in a Cloud, but the Goſpel is a Glaſs, that look as you would think, what a great deal of Difference there is between the ſeeing of a Man a Glaſs, and ſeeing his meer Shadow, ſuch a Difference is there between that Knowledge of Chriſt which the Ceremonial Law afforded, and this which the Goſpel now affordeth. You have it expreſly in Heb. 10. 1. (Let us go up and down ſtill, and examine the Scriptures which ſpeak to this Compariſon.) The Law ſaith he, having a Shadow of good Things to come; (he ſpeaks expreſly of the Ceremonial Law, for the Moral Law had it not) and not, ſaith he, the very Image of the Things. It was ſo far off from having the Image of it, ſaith he, that it had but the Shadow of it. But now what ſaith he of the Goſpel? We behold as in a Glaſs, ſaith he, the Glory of the Lord. It is more than a Shadow, nay, more than an Image or Picture, you ſee the Thing in a reality. The Glory of the Lord, that fill'd that ſame firſt Temple, what was it? A

Chap. VI.

Cloud, a meer Miſt, it was no more, yet it is called The Glory of the Lord. But what is it that appeareth in this Glaſs? Read Mal. 4. 2. The Sun of Righteouſneſs ſhall ariſe with healing in His Wings: He ſpeaks of the coming of Chriſt, for he was the laſt that Propheſied, he had ſaid at the 3d Chap. ver. 1. The Lord ſhall ſuddenly come to His Temple; and preſently in Chap. 4. he ſaith, That He is the Sun of Righteouſneſs, that ſhall ariſe with healing under His Wings. Nay further, that you may ſee how the Scripture ſtill ſpeaks in this Language; the Apoſtle in Col. 2. 17. ſpeaking of the Ceremonial Law, ſaith, They are the Shadow, which ſaith he, vaniſheth when the Body is come. You will ſay, the Shadow doth never uſe to ariſe till the Body comes? Yea, but if the Body be the Sun it ſelf, if that come, all the other vaniſh, ſo they did when the Sun of Righteouſneſs did ariſe. Hence therefore in Hag. 2. 7, 9. it is ſaid, That the Glory of the Second Temple ſhould be more than the firſt, why? Becauſe Chriſt the Sun of Righteouſneſs is the Glory of it, He is called the Glory of Iſrael in the Song of Simeon, Luke 2. 32.

And the Goſpel is the Glaſs in which we ſee this Sun. And ſo now I have done with this firſt Thing, in Reſpect of the Matter of it that the Goſpel is thus glorious, becauſe that Jeſus Chriſt, who is the Lord of Glory ſhineth in it thus really, and clearly, and fully, as in a Glaſs, and that compared with the Knowledge that the Old Teſtament afforded. I might alſo compare it with that Knowledge which may be had by the Creatures, which is a Glaſs too; for you may behold God in the Creatures, but the Truth is, they hold forth meerly the Handy-work of God, you do not ſee God there as in a Glaſs. But I will not ſtand upon that.

Secondly, The Goſpel is glorious in Reſpect of the Matter of it, becauſe the Riches of the Glory of God ſhineth in Chriſt revealed in this Goſpel. This is intimated too in that 2 Cor. 4. 6. where he endeth the Diſcourſe of the Glory of the Goſpel; He hath ſhined in our Hearts, ſaith he, to give the Light of the Glory of God in the Face of Jeſus Chriſt. But to give you a Scripture or Two more for it in a Word, 1 Tim. 1. 11. I quoted it before, to prove that the Goſpel is a glorious Goſpel, for ſo it is called there; but Mark what follows; it is called, The glorious Goſpel of the bleſſed God; obſerve that Expreſſion, there is a Connection between thoſe Two, why he ſhould give that Attribute to God, when he calleth it His Goſpel, and a glorious Goſpel: Why it is not only a glorious Goſpel, becauſe it holds forth all the Glory of God but becauſe it doth communicate; and Gods End in revealing it is to communicate His Glory, and to make Men bleſſed: And the plain meaning of it is this, as if he had ſaid, the Lord, that great God, being ſo Bleſſed in himſelf, having ſuch Riches of Happineſs and Glory in himſelf, He did ſo overflow, He did ſo over-bound in himſelf, that He meant to make others Happy with this Happineſs in himſelf; for He is God All-ſufficient, and being ſo full of Bleſſedneſs, and His Bleſſedneſs conſiſting in His own Glory, He inventeth the Goſpel, contriveth in His own glorious Wiſdom the great Deſign of His Son Chriſt, in whom He would reveal himſelf, who is the Subject of the Goſpel, that by revealing of it, He might communicate that bleſſedneſs unto others. He did it not only to hold forth His own Glory, and to manifeſt how great a God He is, but He did it as a bleſſed God that delighteth to communicate that Glory unto others, and He doth it by the Goſpel, that ſo as He was bleſſed in himſelf, He might by the Goſpel communicate His Glory, and bleſs others. For my Brethren, look as Envy ariſeth in a ſinful Creature that is miſerable, when he ſees another Happy, and he doth it naturally; ſo doth the deſire of communicating what Happineſs one hath ariſe in the Heart of him that is truly Noble and perfectly Happy and Bleſſed. And ſo it did in God. Am I thus bleſſed in my ſelf ſaith he? I will have others bleſſed by Me, to whom I will communicate this Happineſs and Glory; and He therefore inventeth this Goſpel, which is therefore called the glorious Goſpel of the bleſſed God.

Of all Things, Gods Mercy is His Glory, and while you look upon the Face of Jeſus Chriſt, you there behold nothing but Grace and Mercy ſhine in the Goſpel. We behold (ſaith he) the Glory of God in the Face of Jeſus Chriſt; that as in the Face of a Man you behold his Diſpoſition toward you, ſo you ſee the Diſpoſition of God in the Face of Chriſt, you ſee His Mercy, you ſee His Glory. Not a whit of this did ſhine in the Law, not a whit of Mercy or Free-grace, and yet that is the Glory of God. In Exod. 33. 18, 19, 20. Moſes there deſired to ſee the Glory of God. I beſeech Thee, ſaith he, ſhew me Thy Glory. Saith God, Ver. 19. I will make all my goodneſs paſs before thee. But how ſhould all His goodneſs appear? Cloathed all in Mercy, for it follows, I will proclaim the Name of the Lord before thee, and I will be gracious to whom I will be gracious, and will ſhew Mercy on whom I will ſhew Mercy. The Law ſpeaks not ſuch a word; No my Brethren, this is the very bottom of the Goſpel, the bottom of Gods Heart, here is His Glory, I will be Gracious to whom I will be Gracious, and ſhew Mercy on whom I will ſhew Mercy; it is the glorious Goſpel of the bleſſed God, that being Bleſſed in himſelf, thus reſolveth to be gracious and good to poor Creatures, to ſuch Sinners as we are. Moſes had ſeen the Glory of God upon the Mount; he had ſeen the Glory of God in delivering the Law in a great deal of State; after all this, Lord, ſaith he, Let me ſee thy Glory: What is Gods Anſwer? I will be Gracious to whom I will be Gracious; &c. Here is my Glory. And this Glory ſhineth in the Goſpel, and if you will ſee it, look upon the Face of Jeſus Chriſt: You may ſee Jeſus Chriſts Face in the Glaſs of the Goſpel, and in that Face you may ſee all this Grace and Mercy ſhine. And ſo I have done with the Second Thing, namely, the chief and principal Matter of the Goſpel. It revealeth, 1. Jeſus Chriſt in His Glory. And, 2. It reveals the Glory of God in the Face of Jeſus Chriſt, and all this as in a Glaſs. I come now to the Third.

3. The Things that the Goſpel communicateth and conveyeth are all glorious. The Apoſtle compares it with the Law too in this Reſpect, in that 2 Cor. 3. 6, 7, &c. God hath made us able Miniſters of the New Teſtament, not of the Letter, but of the Spirit, for the Letter killeth, but the Spirit giveth Life. If the Miniſtration of the Letter written and engraven in Stones, was glorious, How ſhall not the Miniſtration of the Spirit be rather glorious? For if the Miniſtration of Condemnation be Glory, much more doth the Miniſtration of Righteouſneſs exceed in Glory: For, even that which was made glorious had no Glory in this reſpect, by reaſon of the Glory that excelleth, that is, the Goſpel.

In the Firſt Place he tells you, that the Goſpel is the Miniſtration of the Spirit of God: It is not the Miniſtration of the Letter only, ſaith he, but the Spirit; and he meaneth the Holy Ghoſt plainly, for in the laſt Verſe of that Chapter, he ſaith, That by beholding as in a Glaſs the Glory of the Lord, we are changed into the ſame Image, even by the Spirit of the Lord, that is, by the Holy Ghoſt.

Now do but lay theſe Two Things together. Firſt, That the Goſpel only communicateth the Holy Ghoſt to you. And Secondly, That the Spirit is a Spirit of Glory upon whomſoever He reſteth; and then the Goſpel muſt needs be, in reſpect of its Communication, a glorious Goſpel. To make out both theſe to you.

Look as when Jeſus Chriſt was Baptized, that excellent Glory opened, and the Holy Ghoſt deſcended upon Him; ſo when the Goſpel is Preached doth the Holy Ghoſt deſcend upon the Elect, and look upon whom the Holy Ghoſt reſteth, he is the Son of God. As He ſaid to John, John 1. 33. Upon whom thou ſhalt ſee the Spirit deſcending and remaining on him, the ſame is he; ſo it is here. In the Primitive Times when they heard the Goſpel preached, the Holy Ghoſt did viſibly, and apparently, and inſtantly fall down upon them. And now He falls upon them, ſo as to turn their Hearts, and to inable them to ſee the Glory of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, which is more than falling down upon Men in extraordinary Gifts, ſimply conſidered, if there were nothing elſe: For to have the Holy Ghoſt to fall upon a Man

so as to dwell in him for ever, to take Possession of his Heart, and to bring him to Glory, is more than to have extraordinary Gifts, which many had who never were saved. Now it is the Gospel only which helps you to the Holy Ghost, and not the Law. What saith the Apostle in Gal. 3. 2. This only I would learn of you, received ye the Spirit by the Work of the Law, or by the hearing of Faith? No, it was only by the hearing of Faith, only by the hearing of the Doctrine of the Gospel, that is, the Doctrine of Faith, for that is meant by Faith there, as in many other Places of Scripture. The Law indeed, as the Apostle saith, Rom. 7. is Holy and Spiritual, but it is not the Conveyer of the Spirit; though it be a spiritual Thing it is but a spiritual Letter, saith he, it is not the Ministration of the Spirit it self, but so is the Gospel.

Now as the Gospel only conveyeth the Holy Ghost to Men and the Knowledge of it; so the receiving of the Holy Ghost, is to receive all Glory: For the Holy Ghost will never rest, till He hath glorified you fully and perfectly. As Jesus Christs work was to redeem you, so the Holy Ghosts work is to work all Grace and Glory into you; therefore when you receive the Holy Ghost, you receive all Glory, in the Seed and Foundation of it. It is the Foundation of our Union with Christ; they that are joined to the Lord are one Spirit: it is by the Holy Ghost. To give you an express Scripture for it; 1 Pet. 1. 14. The Spirit of Glory shall rest upon you. And the giving of this Spirit of the Holy Ghost unto you, is more than all Grace and Glory that ever you shall have. If you would ask now what is the substantial Glory of a Man, that is the Foundation of all his Parts and Wit, and makes him capable of the Glory the World puts upon him, without which he would loose all in an Instant, what is it? It is his Soul that dwelleth in his Body; take that away and he is a Beast; nay, take that away and he is a dead Carkass, he is sown in dishonour instantly as soon as that is gone: Therefore in Gen. 49. The Soul of Man is called his Glory, Into his Secret, saith he, let not my Glory enter. Now look what the Soul is to a Man, that is, the Holy Ghost to a Holy Man. He is the Foundation of all Glory, of all Grace: When He hath given you the Spirit, He hath given you all the Grace and Glory in the Foundation, that ever you shall have, for He will never leave you till He hath wrought you up to Glory: And the Gift of Him is the Earnest of Glory, so He is called expressly in 2 Cor. 5. 5. Jesus Christ is the Glory of the Lord to you objectively, but the Holy Ghost is all Grace and Glory efficiently, yea in Heaven; and when you receive Him, you receive Glory, because you receive a Spirit that never rest till He hath made you glorious; and this Spirit you receive by the Gospel, and by nothing else, by no Knowledge else, either of the Law or what-ever else. Hence therefore the Gospel that communicateth this is called a glorious Gospel, in respect of what it ministreth, for saith he, if the Ministration of the Letter was glorious, which did give nothing else but the literal Knowledge of the Law in Mens Heads, then the Ministration of the Spirit is much more glorious. That's the first Thing the Apostle saith.

The Second Thing the Apostle saith here in this 2 Cor. 3. is, in respect of a Righteousness which the Gospel doth convey. You shall find it at the 9th Verse of that Chapter: If the Ministration of Condemnation be glorious, much more doth the Ministration of Righteousness exceed in Glory. By Righteousness here he means the Righteousness of Justification clearly, why? Because he doth oppose it to Condemnation. He doth not mean the Righteousness of Sanctification, no, he means the Righteousness, whereby we are justified, the Righteousness of the Lord Jesus Christ. Why saith he, what doth the Law do? Alas saith he, the Law, although it be a glorious Thing, for it reveals the Image and Mind of God, yet it doth but shew you your own Unrighteousness, and leaveth you where it found you. A Man sees his own Face as in a Glass, and soon forgets what Image he had, sees his Spots and Deformity, and sees the Sentence of Death written in his own Countenance, and in the Threatnings of the Law, he sees himself look like a Dead Man, guilty of Death, and that is all the Law holds forth: But saith he, the Gospel is the Ministration of Righteousness, and that Righteousness is glorious, and therefore the Gospel is such which ministreth it; for that is the Thing he aims at. Chap. VI.

Will you know what Righteousness it is? Why it is the Righteousness of Christ; and in the last Verse of that 3d of the Corinthians, that Righteousness of Christ, is called His Glory clearly; We behold, saith he, as in a Glass the Glory of the Lord. As he means the personal Glory of Christ, so he also means His Holiness and Righteousness for Justification. How prove you that? Because it is that into which we are Changed, into the same Image by beholding it: For whilst a Man Eyes Christ, to be justified by Him, look what Righteousness he laies hold upon by Faith, the Image of that Righteousness is wrought in his Heart. And therefore the Apostle here speaks in a more special Manner of the Righteousness of Christ, which the Gospel is the Ministration of, It is a Ministration of Righteousness, and of the Glory of the Lord, saith he.

Now then do but think, what a glorious Righteousness the Gospel reveals and offers to Men. It is the Righteousness of Christ, and the Righteousness of Christ must needs be glorious; why? He is the Lord of Glory. The Righteousness of the Angels, is not glorious in this Respect. They are glorious Creatures, but they are not Lords of Glory. When you speak of the Will of a King, what do you call it? His Royal Pleasure. If you speak of a Message he sendeth, what is it? A gracious Message, be it what it will be; why? Because you put these Titles upon his Person, therefore you put the same upon whatsoever he doth or thinketh. This is the Manner of Men. My Brethren, Jesus Christ is the Lord of Glory, did He work upon a Trade as a Carpenter? It was a glorious Action, it was a glorious Part of that Righteousness which He performed in Obedience to His Father; for He was the Lord of Glory; and therefore I say His Righteousness, is called, The Glory of the Lord.

But besides this, it is glorious also in another Respect; viz. Because He to perform this Righteousness, and in performing of it, laid all His Glory down, and therefore it is as much worth as the Glory He left. His Death is valued at the rate that the Life which He might have led in Heaven is worth. They Crucified the Lord of Life, saith he. And the Obedience He performed, hath the value and the stamp upon it of that Glory, He might have had. He was equal with the Father, in Glory and in all Things else; and He emptied himself of it all, laid it all aside, and took upon Him the Form of a Servant, and became obedient even to the Death; His Righteousness is therefore a glorious Righteousness, because it is to be valued by that Glory He laid aside, and might have had to perform it; so much as He fore-went to do it, so much it is to be valued at. God the Father was sensible of it; Father (saith he) glorifie me, as I have glorified thee on Earth. I'll give you one Scripture more for it, it is in John 1. 14. We saw His Glory, as the Glory of the only begotten Son of God: What was that Glory? In a special Manner His Grace and Holiness. How do you prove that? It follows in the Text, Full of Grace and Truth. Now my Brethren, it is the Gospel that doth communicate to Sinners, to Men condemned to Die Everlastingly of themselves in Hell, all this Righteousness of the Lord of Glory, makes it theirs. If they get but this Righteousness upon their backs, what glorious Creatures think you must they be? Yet it is the Gospel that communicateth it to them, and puts it on, thorough the Holy Ghost by Faith, as the Apostle in Gal. 5. 5. We thorough the Spirit wait for the Hope of Righteousness by Faith. In Rev. 12. 1. you have a Woman cloathed with the Sun. Is not here a glorious cloathing? What is that Sun? It is the Sun of Righteousness, it is the Lord made our Righteousness, it is the Lord Jesus Christ and His Glory, it is His Righteousness which a Man is cloathed withal. Is not this a glorious Gospel then, that doth not only shew you the Glory of this Sun, but wrappeth you about with the Beams of it, cloatheth you with it? The Angels, are poor, beggarly Creatures, that's that's the Truth of it, as we may ſo ſpeak, to a poor Sinner cloathed with this Righteouſneſs. The Text ſaith, Solomon in all his Glory was not arrayed like to the Lillies of the Field; ſo the Angels in Heaven, in all their Glory, are not cloathed like one Sinner here upon Earth, that is cloathed with the Righteouſneſs of Jeſus Chriſt. This Sun of Righteouſneſs was never put upon their Backs, not to be Righteouſneſs to them. He is a Means of conveying Grace and Good to them, but to be the Lord our Righteouſneſs, ſo He is only to Sinners; and thus He is only revealed and communicated in the Goſpel. What is it that makes you glorious in Gods Eyes? It is not your own inherent Grace, in any Compariſon, it vaniſheth, it is nothing; no, it is your being cloathed with Chriſt, with this Sun, this is it which makes the fouleſt Creature, an ugly Toad, (for ſo a Sinner is of himſelf) thus glorious in the Eyes of God. A Wife ſhineth with her Husbands Beams, and ſo doth every Believer with the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt. As the Moon ſhineth with a borrowed Light that the Sun cloatheth her with; and her own intire Light, without that of the Suns (as you ſee it in an Eclipſe) it looks like the bottom of Red Braſs, ſuch is your own inherent Righteouſneſs if Jeſus Chriſt take His away from you. But take the Moon out of an Eclipſe, when ſhe is cloathed with the Light of the Sun, what a glorious Creature is ſhe? So is every Believer, when he is cloathed with this Sun of Righteouſneſs.

Thirdly, When a Soul is thus by means of the Goſpel, cloathed with this glorious Righteouſneſs which the Goſpel revealeth, He is able with open Face to behold the Glory of God in the Face of Jeſus Chriſt. When as Moſes his Face did ſhine, which was a Type of the Law, they could not behold the Glory of it, there was a Terrour in it, it was the Glory of a Judge condemning which did ſhine in Moſes, for he had the Law in his Hands; but when the Holy Ghoſt hath once communicated to you, and you come by Faith to put on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt and appear before God, then you dare (as the Text ſaith) with open Face, behold and look God in the Face; why? Becauſe you behold the glorious Mercy and Favour of God in the Face of Jeſus Chriſt; which is called the Light of His Countenance, that is li t up upon you too; that as the Favour of a Man is ſeen in his looks, ſhines more there than in all other Parts of his Body, ſo is the Glory and the Mercy of God, it is ſeen in His Face, even in the Face of Chriſt. Therefore in Pſalm 90. 15, 16. The Favour of God is called His Glory, Let thy Glory (ſaith he) be upon thy Servants. This the Goſpel revealeth to you, you behold the Glory of God, that is, His Favour, in the Face of Jeſus Chriſt.

Fourthly, The Goſpel, doth not only thus convey the Holy Ghoſt to you, to dwell in you for ever; cloatheth you with this Righteouſneſs; enableth you with open Face to behold God (and the more glorious God is, when you ſee Him nothing but Love and Favour, you will never be dazled with that Sight; that is the Reaſon you are not terrified, becauſe all His Attributes appear in Love, God is Love, ſaith the Apoſtle) I ſay the Goſpel doth not only do all this, but it changeth you into the ſame Image from Glory to Glory, ſo ſaith the laſt Verſe of that Third Chapter. You might look in the Law long enough, even look your Eyes out, and never be changed. In the Law you may ſee your Spots, but you go away as full of Corruption as you were before: You may there ſee and read your own Deſtiny, and read your own Duty, but it will not change you one whit. A Man beholdeth his natural Face in a Glaſs, ſaith James, and goes his way, and ſtraight-way forgetteth what manner of Man he was; if it have an Impreſſion in his Memory, that is all; but ſaith the Apoſtle, we in this Glaſs of the Goſpel, behold the Glory of the Lord, and are thereby changed into the ſame Image. If that an ugly and deformed Woman or Man, could have a Glaſs that if they ſee but a beautiful Perſon in it, they ſhould be changed into the ſame Image, what would they give for it? My Brethren, this doth the Goſpel do.

But you will ſay, If it doth change me into the ſame Image, is that Image Glory too? Yes, ſo it followeth, We are changed into the ſame Image from Glory to Glory; that is, from one Degree of Grace to another. All the Grace the Goſpel works in you, is glorious, for it is the Image of Chriſt in whom ſhineth the Glory of God. And therefore in Eph. 5. 20. The Apoſtle there ſpeaking of Sanctification (for to me it is clear he ſpeaks of it, both by the Words before and after) he ſaith, that He hath cleanſed us and waſhed us with Water by the Word, that He might preſent us to himſelf a glorious Church, not having Spot or Wrinkle; for when He hath done (he ſpeaks of what He will do at latter Day) when He hath fully ſanctified us, He will preſent us to himſelf a glorious Church, not having Spot or Wrinkle, or any ſuch Thing, but that we ſhould be Holy and without Blemiſh. I quote it for this, that every Degree of Grace is Glory, and when that is fill'd up, there is a Glory in it which Jeſus Chriſt reckoneth ſuch, is pleaſed to look upon as ſuch, for it is His Image. He ſhall greatly delight in thy Beauty, ſaith he, Pſalm 45. What is that Beauty? She is all glorious within; ſo it follows there in that Pſalm. And my Brethren, let me tell you this, ſo far you are changed into his Image, that you never look upon him in the Glaſs of the Goſpel, but you go away with ſome further Degree of Holineſs wrought in you, if you ſee Him really as in a Glaſs: You may come to a Sermon and hear Notions indeed, but if you get a real ſight of Chriſt you will be changed; and I ſay ſo far as we ſee Him, ſo far we are changed; here we ſeeing of Him but as in a Glaſs, in His Holineſs, and in His Righteouſneſs, as He is deſcribed in the Goſpel, how He walked while He was here below (for ſo the Goſpel repreſents him) we are changed into the ſame Image, into the ſame Image of Holineſs and Righteouſneſs from one Degree to another. But now at latter Day, when He ſhall appear, we ſhall then be changed into His Image too, for we ſhall ſee Him as He is, and when we ſee Him as He is, we ſhall be as He is, in His Glory in Heaven.

I will add but one more, It doth not only change us into a glorious Image, which is called Glory, but it doth work in the Hearts alſo of Believers a Joy that is glorious: And this, although it be but the Hope of Glory, yet that Hope of Glory works a glorious Joy in the Hearts of the People of God. It is a known Place, that in 1 Pet. 1. 8, 9. Whom having not ſeen, ye Love; in whom, though now ye ſee Him not, yet believing, ye rejoice with Joy unſpeakable and full of Glory. Whom having not ſeen, that is, Face to Face, but having ſeen Him in that Glaſs of the Goſpel for to the ſight of Things in a Glaſs is the ſight of Chriſt in the Goſpel compared, even the ſight of Faith; yet becauſe it is not ſeeing Him Face to Face, the Apoſtle ſaith, Whom having not ſeen, &c.

It is not every Act of Faith that works this Joy, but Faith may be ſo elevated, as it will work and bring in Joy unſpeakable and full of Glory: That Phraſe is it I quote it for; it is called unſpeakable, becauſe it exceeds the Senſe and the Underſtanding, that is, the Underſtanding cannot naturally take in ſuch Joy, or apprehend what it ſhould be; as in Phil. 4. 7. The Peace of God is ſaid to paſs all Underſtanding. The Pleaſures of the Senſes are great, but the Pleaſures of the Underſtanding are far greater, but ſaith he, this is a Peace, and this is a Joy that paſſeth all Underſtanding. We read in John 20. 20. That when they ſaw the Lord they rejoiced; ſo when a Believer, though but by Faith ſeeth the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, though but in this Glaſs, and that but darkly, hath but Glimpſe of Him, yet it begets a Joy which is unſpeakable. And it is not only ſaid to be unſpeakable, but to be glorious. All the Joies in this World are mean Things, Things that Men ſhall be aſhamed of, but this ſaith he, is a magnifick Joy. True Joy is a ſolid Thing, but you ſee the Apoſtle riſeth higher, it is ſaith he, full of Glory, or as the Word implies, it is dipt, it is ſteept in Glory. Now I ſay, it is not always thus, that whenſoever any one ſeeth Chriſt by Faith, that this Joy is wrought; but it is by Faith though, that is, Faith elevated, yet ſo as it is but a ſight of Chriſt in the Goſpel, and that by Faith when ever it is wrought. It doth not I ſay always accompany an Act of Faith, that is plain and clear from the next Words, Receiving the End of your Faith, even the Salvation of your Souls. You ſee here that Joy unſpeakable and glorious, which God ſometimes Works in the Hearts of His People, is called the End, the Reward of their Faith (for ſo in Prov. 23. 28. the Word End, there ſignifies Reward) and the meaning is this, that when a Man hath a long while believed and glorified God by a way of ſheer Faith of Recumbency, then God doth Reward him, gives him a Reward of his Faith, by giving him Joy unſpeakable and glorious, which is called the Salvation of the Soul. And that, that is the meaning of it, is plain by this, becauſe he ſpeaks in the Preſent Tenſe, Receiving, he ſaith not, ye ſhall receive, but, receiving the Reward of your Faith the Salvation of your Souls. And if you mark it, it is called likewiſe the Salvation of your Souls, now the Reward which we ſhall receive at latter Day, will be the Salvation both of Soul and Body; and of that the Apoſtle ſpeaks in Rom. 8. 23. which he ſaith, there we wait for; but there is a Salvation of the Soul, which a Man receiveth now, and therefore in the 24th verſe of that Romans 8. he ſaith, We are ſaved by Hope, by Hope of that Glory at preſent: And ſo in Eph. 2. 8. By Grace ye are ſaved. Now then our Eyes beholding this Salvation of the Lord, having the Evidence of it, the Soul is fill'd with it, it is ſaved, it receiveth the Reward of its Faith, the Salvation of the Soul. And thus my Brethren, it is full of Glory, the leaſt Dram of it, is like Elixir, it expelleth all trouble: We rejoice (ſaith the Apoſtle in Rom. 8.) in the Hope of the Glory of God. It exceeds, and weigheth down all the good Things here. And this the Goſpel communicateth to us.

I will mention no more Particulars, whereby the Glory of this Goſpel is held forth to us, but proceed to the next Particle, paſſing by ſuch uſes as I might make of what I have ſaid of this Glory.

That which is next to be conſider'd is, that the Glory of this Myſtery ſhines among the Gentiles. There is never a Word, but it doth hold forth ſomething of the Excellency of this Goſpel. You know, I have made a Compariſon of this Goſpel with the Law; and ſhewed you how the Law had a Glory in it, which yet was no Glory in Compariſon of that which the Goſpel hath, which I have opened in divers Particulars. Let us now compare the Law and the Goſpel together, in another Reſpect alſo. When God did give the Law, He gave it but to one Nation, the Jews, whoſe Land was no bigger than the Dominion of Wales; Pſalm 147. 19. He ſheweth His Word unto Jacob, His Statutes and His Judgments unto Iſrael, but He hath not dealt ſo with any Nation, and as for his Judgments they have not known them. But now, what ſaith the Apoſtle? He did keep from Ages and from Generations, a further glorious Myſtery to be made known among the Gentiles, that is, to all Nations. You have a Place in Numb. 24. 21. (that I may ſpeak coherently to the Point of Glory, the Goſpel is a glorious Goſpel, and it is glorious in this Reſpect) when the People of Iſrael had ſinned againſt the Lord, againſt the Law that was newly given, God doth at Moſes his intreaty Pardon them for the preſent, I will pardon them according to thy Word, but as truly as I live (ſaith he) all the Earth ſhall be filled with the Glory of the Lord. I know that many Interpreters do interpret this to be meant thus, that God would take a Courſe, that His Juſtice in puniſhing of this People ſhould be known to all the World, and ſo He would fill the whole Earth with His Glory. But I take it (and I ſhall give you Scripture for it) that He here makes known, and manifeſt His own Counſels of His one Day rejecting of the Jews, to the End He might provoke them to Jealouſie, as the Apoſtle ſaith, He having given them a Law, and they ſinning thus againſt it; well ſaith he, I will not contain my ſelf within this Nation, but I have a Glory which I will fill all the Earth withal; and that indeed is the Knowledge of the Glory of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt. I ſhall give you a Scripture for this Interpretation, it is in Isa. 6. 3. For there the Phrase of filling the Earth with His Glory, is again used, and no where else that I know of in the whole Scripture, answering to that Phrase that God had used in that Place of Numbers afore-mentioned. Now when as it is said here in Isaiah, The whole Earth is full of his Glory, what do you think is spoken of? Why, it is Jesus Christ revealed sitting upon His Throne with His Train filling the Temple, hardning the Hearts of the Jews, and giving Commission to His Apostles to go and preach to all Nations. How is that manifest? Look in John 12. 40. where Christ himself quoteth this very Chapter in Isaiah, ver. 10, and 11. Go and tell this People, Hear ye indeed, but understand not; and see ye indeed, but perceive not; make the Heart of this People fat, and make their Ears heavy, and shut their Eyes; lest they see with their Eyes, and hear with their Ears, and understand with their Heart, and convert, and be healed: And upon that follows their casting off, Then said I, Lord, how long? And He answered, until the Cities be wasted without inhabitant, and the Houses without Man, and the Land be utterly desolate. But is this spoken of Christ? Yes, read John 12. 40. He hath blinded their Eyes, and hardned their Hearts, that they should not see with their Eyes, nor understand with their Heart, and be converted, and I should heal them; these Things (saith he) said Isaias, when he saw His Glory, and spake of Him. Here is plainly in this Propheſie of Isaiah, the Oath fulfilled, that God sware in that Place of Numbers. And God swears it in that Sense (as I said even now) that Paul speaks in Rom. 11. when he laies open the Riches of the Gospel, he says he did it, that he might provoke to Emulation them which were of his own Nation; so doth God here: Have they indeed sinned thus against my Law, which also Typically holds forth Christ; well, though I pardon them for the present, yet I have a Glory beyond all this, which I will fill the Earth with, when I send my Son into the World, and which I have reserved for the Gentiles, and for all Nations. And therefore this Gospel must needs be infinitely more glorious than the Law, God now breaking up His Treasures, and fulfilling His Oath, to provoke the Jews if possible unto Jealousie. He reserved some better Things for us, as the Phrase is Heb. 11. ult.

And as He reserved a greater Glory for us than that of the Law, so, to speak to the other Property (for the Gospel is called both rich and glorious) he reserved a greater Treasury of Riches, when as He would break open His Mind to the Gentiles. You have it under these very Terms expressed in Ephes. 3. 8, 9. To me is this Grace given, that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ, and to make all Men see, what is the Fellowship of the Mystery, &c. When all Men, all sorts of Men were to see it, and God meant to communicate it to the World, then He brings forth His Riches, the unsearchable Riches of Christ, Which had been hid (as it is here) from all Ages and Generations.

So that now this Particle in this Text [among the Gentiles] it is not Idle, it hath an Emphasis in it, it hath this Emphasis in it, that God did reserve the fulness of His Glory, and the Riches of Christ, till such Time as all the World was to come in, He would have all the World to be Spectators, and He would have all Men know, what is the Riches of the Glory of this Mystery among the Gentiles, and therefore I say, He reserved the Revelation of it till then. And so much now for that Particle.

I shall only here as the Coronis of all spread afore you: This great Truth which concerns us: That though God's primary Aim in giving the Gospel, is to make it known to his Saints: Yet because the Elect in Nations, in the Succession of Ages are infinitely Numerous; and none knows where this Inheritance will fall, or upon whose Posterity. Therefore the Gift of the Gospel unto the several Nations of the Gentiles, was, and is indefinitely bequeathed to the Gentiles by God, as a National Endowment, as a National Inheritance to every Nation it takes Place in: It is not to be judged given to the Saints of a preſent Age that enjoy it; but indefinitely to the whole Lmup of a Nation, even as you call, The proper Native Commodity of a Nation, A Staple Commodity to the Nation: Although every Man in that Nation Trades not in it, yet it is National as proper to that Nation, as benefitting the Nation, and no Man is excluded from traffick in it. Becauſe in proceſs of Time none knows upon whom in that Nation it may fall; therefore every Nation is to look upon it, as a National Intereſt and Concernment.

Chap. VII.

CHAP. VII.

How it is the Glory of the Goſpel, that Chriſt is not only reveal'd in it, but Chriſt ſo known by the Believer is in Him.

COLOS. I. xxvii.

Which is Chriſt in you the Hope of Glory.

THE Apoſtle in the former Words, having laid open the Glory and Excellency of the Goſpel; the Riches of the Glory (ſaith he) of this Myſtery among the Gentiles, he cloſeth up all that he had ſaid of it with this ſhort Application, Which is Chriſt in you the Hope of Glory. He doth not only hold forth Jeſus Chriſt, as the Subject of the Goſpel (and yet the higheſt Glory the Goſpel hath, is that Chriſt is the Subject of it.) He doth not Content himſelf to ſay the Riches of which Myſtery is Chriſt, as he ſaith afterwards, Chap. 2. 3. where he calls the Goſpel, The Myſtery of God, and of the Father, and of Chriſt, in whom are hid all the Treaſures of Wiſdom and Knowledge; but he addeth, Which is Chriſt in you. How excellent the Goſpel is, becauſe Chriſt is the ſubject of it, I have partly ſhewn you all along; I ſhall therefore now ſhew you, why this cometh in here, [Which is Chriſt in you] and what is the Apoſtles meaning thereby.

In the firſt Place, I take it, the Apoſtle brings this in here by way of Application, for their Comfort. When he had ſhewn them all theſe Glories which the Goſpel holds forth, by holding forth of Chriſt, he tells them, this Chriſt is in you, if you be Saints, He is your Chriſt, by whom you have Poſſeſſion of all theſe Riches; and that in ſo intimate a manner that they are not only without you, but you have them all within you by having Chriſt, Which is Chriſt in you, ſaith he, and with this Addition, the Hope of Glory, of a greater Glory then yet you have received.

And when he ſaith, Which is Chriſt in you, the leaſt of his meaning, if at all, is that the Image of Chriſt is in them, as ſome would have it. Though we are changed into the ſame Image from Glory to Glory; yet I know no Place, where the Image of Chriſt is called Chriſt, or Chriſt in us. There are many Places where the Image of God is ſaid to be in Chriſt, but no where the Image of Chriſt is called Chriſt. He that is in Chriſt is a new Creature;

Creature; and in Jeſus Chriſt there is neither Bond nor Free, but the new Creature; and we are created in Chriſt Jeſus unto goods Works; ſo the Apoſtle ſtill expreſſeth himſelf. There is one Place indeed, which hath a ſeeming ſhew of it, that Chriſt in us, ſhould be put for the Image of Chriſt in us, and that is that in Gal. 4. 19. That Chriſt may be again formed in you; but that is not the meaning of that Place, as I ſhall ſhew anon. However it cannot be the meaning here, at leaſt-wiſe not the only meaning, for it is too narrow, too poor a Thing, that after he had ſpoken ſuch great and glorious Things of the Goſpel of Chriſt, he ſhould go and contract all the Riches and Glory of it to the new Creature which is in us, to the Image of Chriſt in us; no, it is Chriſt perſonally, Chriſt himſelf certainly that is here meant. Chap. VII.

I ſhall as briefly as I can, give you all the Interpretations of this Clauſe, that have fallen into my Thoughts. My Scope is not to go and handle how many Ways Chriſt is in you, but in relation to the Context, to the Coherence, to the Goſpel which he had commended before.

Firſt, Therefore, Chriſt in you, implies, that that Knowledge which they had of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, take the Object of that Knowledge, it is Chriſt. I appeal, ſaith he, to your own Conſciences, you Coloſſians that have taken in the Goſpel as you have done, taken in Chriſt, in the Knowledge of Him, whether yea or no, there is not abundance both of Riches and Glory hath been manifeſted to you concerning Jeſus Chriſt; and this Knowledge which you have of Chriſt here in this Life begotten by the Goſpel, I appeal to you, whether it be not the greateſt Evidence of a future Glory; it is impoſſible it ſhould reſt here, but as this Chriſt in whom you know ſo much Riches of Glory is now in you the Hope of Glory: So when you come to be with Him for ever, do but think what a Glory you will be fill'd withal then. I take this I ſay to be the firſt Part of the meaning, that it is Chriſt in you, Objectivè. And this is to me clearly one Part of his Scope, for he ſpeaks in reſpect of the Goſpel revealing Chriſt to them, whereby they behold the Glory of Chriſt, which gives them hope of that Glory afterwards with Him.

That which muſt make good this Interpretation is this, that the Knowledge which the Saints have of Jeſus Chriſt is called Chriſt, and Chriſt in you. I told you before, that the Goſpel is compared to a Glaſs, and it is called the Goſpel of Chriſt, becauſe it repreſenteth Him; and the Doctrine of the Goſpel is ordinarily and familiarly called Chriſt in the Scripture. Now that Knowledge, that Repreſentation which is taken from Chriſt himſelf in the Goſpel, by the Eye and Faith of a Believer, is called Chriſt in him. And as the Goſpel it ſelf being the Glaſs of Chriſt, is called Chriſt, ſo the Sight of Chriſt, that Image of Chriſt (I call it now Image, as being an objective Image, as I may ſo expreſs it, not ſubjective, the Grace that is in you, but) that Knowledge that is in you of Him, taken from himſelf in the Goſpel, which a Believer hath, is called Chriſt in him. In Gal. 1. 16. Paul ſpeaking there of the Revelation of the Goſpel to Him, at the 12th Verſe, ſaith, I neither received it of Man, neither was I taught it, but by the Revelation of Jeſus Chriſt; Chriſt himſelf revealed it; now at the 16th verſe, he ſaith, It pleaſed God to reveal His Son in me, that I might preach Him among the Heathen. The Knowledge that he had of Jeſus Chriſt by Revelation in the 12th Verſe, is called in the 16th Verſe the revealing of Chriſt in him, mark the Expreſſion; and it is the revealing of Chriſt in him, that he might preach him to others. God gave him an intimate Knowledge of Chriſt in his own Heart, the Light of the Knowledge of God in the Face of Chriſt did ſhine in his Heart, that ſo he might preach it unto others; and therefore when he ſaith, He revealed His Son in me; it is all one as if he had ſaid, He revealed the Goſpel, for it was that he might preach the Goſpel. And he ſpeaks not only of an experimental Knowledge, I mean, that is not all the Purport of it, that he had Experience of it, and what it wrought, for that he might have had without Revelation. Neither doth he mean only that the Image of Chriſt was in him, and that God revealed

His

Chap. VII.

His Son in him by enabling him to walk as Chriſt walked, for it was not the Image of Chriſt only which he preached, but it was Chriſt himſelf. Therefore now it is the Goſpel, and the Knowledge of Chriſt in the Goſpel, that is called the revealing of His Son in him; and it is ſaid to be revealed in him, becauſe he had it immediately, that is the Reaſon, why it is ſaid ſo here of Paul, in Oppoſition to other Apoſtles.

There is another Place that I ſhall give you for this, and that is Gal. 4. 19. My little Children, of whom I travel in Birth again, until Chriſt be formed in you. They had not loſt the Image of Chriſt in reſpect of Sanctification in their Hearts, for certainly they were Men that were Holy, but the Truth was this, they had been diverted from the Knowledge of Chriſt which at firſt they had received, they were diverted to another Goſpel as he ſaith, Chap. 1. and ſo to another Chriſt, Moſes had been formed in them. He doth not ſay, until you are formed in Chriſt, but until Chriſt be formed in you. He cannot mean the Perſon of Chriſt dwelling in them, Why? Becauſe that is not formed, that was formed in the Womb of the Virgin, and now is glorious in Heaven, therefore it muſt be the right Notion and Apprehenſion of Chriſt in the Goſpel that he meaneth; it is as if he had ſaid, till you be fully Evangelized; and as both Piſcator and Pareus interprets it, till you be fully reſtor'd to your former true Knowledge of Chriſt; now you are full of Moſes, he is formed in you; that appears by the 21ſt Verſe, for there were ſome amongſt them that were ſo full of the Law, that there was nothing but Law almoſt in them; now in Oppoſition to this, ſaith he, I long till ſuch Time as Chriſt be formed in you, till there be a compleat Knowledge of Chriſt, according to the Nature and Genius of the Goſpel begotten in you. And this is called Chriſt.

Now, why ſhould the Knowledge of Chriſt in the Goſpel be called Chriſt in us, ſpeaking of ſpiritual Knowledge?

1. The Reaſon is clearly this, there is no Knowledge elſe in the World can be called the Thing that is known.

2. I ſhall ſhew you, that Chriſt as thus revealed in the Soul, may truly be call'd Chriſt. There is no Knowledge elſe in the World, can be term'd the Thing that is known. When a Man hath the Species, or Image of an Horſe, or Man in his Mind, or the Thought thereof, you cannot call that Image, a Man or an Horſe, becauſe all natural Knowledge is but a meer Phantaſm, but the Knowledge of Jeſus Chriſt in the Heart of a Chriſtian is Chriſt in him; why? Becauſe that Faith which we know Chriſt by doth give a Being, a Reality, and a Subſiſtence to the Thing that is known. I mentioned it upon another Occaſion, in opening that Place, Beholding as in a Glaſs the Glory of the Lord; and I ſhall enlarge upon it now, that you may ſee ſtill how one Thing follows another. In Heb. 11. 1. Faith is there called Hypoſtaſis, that which doth give a Subſiſtance to the Things hoped for; ſo as indeed in the beholding of Chriſt, and by beholding of Chriſt, He is in me, there is a Reality, a Subſiſtance to me of Him. To open and explain this to you a little. The Difference of the Spiritual Knowledge of Chriſt, and of all natural Knowledge whatſoever; I ſhall give it you as briefly, and as plainly as I can. You muſt know this, and you do know it, for you feel it within your ſelves, that God hath annexed to the Underſtanding of a Man a Fancy, which we call Phantaſia, I ſpeak it in Oppoſition to that other Phraſe in the Hebrews, where Faith is called Hypoſteſis; Now the other Word, Phantaſia, cometh from Phanos, and Staſia, it ſheweth its Office, for it makes Things abſent from the Mind to appear, and yet but to appear, it doth not give a Subſiſtance to them, it is but Phanos Staſia. Think where you will of any Thing; if you hear a Story told you of a Thing done at Rome in a Church, of ſuch a Perſon, or the like, your Mind will be thinking of a Church, or framing the Image of ſome Perſon of whom the Story is told, though you were never there. This is natural to the Mind of Man to do it. This is the Work of the Fancy, which is annexed and joined to the Underſtanding Underſtanding of Man in his natural Knowledge. And the Reaſon, why God did annex to the Underſtanding of Man that Faculty of the Fancy, which makes Things which the Underſtanding would underſtand, appear to it, (for ſo the Word implies) is becauſe the Mind of Man would ſtill behold ſomething; and becauſe the Thing is not preſent it ſelf, hence therefore God hath made the Fancy to give an Appearance, ſtill to feed the Mind with a view of the Thing it would underſtand, and ſo the Mind is ſupported in the Underſtanding of what it doth underſtand by the Aſſiſtance of the Fancy. Now the Lord having prepared for His People and Children ſpiritual Objects of another World, himſelf and Chriſt: Alas, the Fancy is not able to take in the Image of himſelf and of Chriſt; it will not ſerve the Underſtanding to any other Knowledge of Him than meerly Notional or Litteral, hence therefore He hath put in that Grace of Faith, which is not Phantaſia to the Underſtanding, but it is Hypoſteſis, ſo the Word is Heb. 11. 1. it doth not give an Appearance, but a real Subſiſtance to the Things the Mind would know, and as the Fancy helpeth natural Knowledge in the Underſtanding of natural Things; ſo doth Faith ſpiritual Knowledge, and indeed is all one with it. And hence therefore the beholding of Chriſt, and of the Glory of God by a Believer, is not by way of Fancy meerly, but it is by way of Subſiſtance, the Heart findeth a reality in what it believeth, and it hath ſo great an Impreſſion, as it changeth the Heart into the ſame Image, which all the Fancies of natural Knowledge in the World will never do. And my Brethren, this is plainly Jeſus Chriſt in you, in one Senſe; and therefore now we find in Eph. 3. 12. That Chriſt is ſaid, To dwell in our Hearts by Faith, for Faith hath by the help of the Holy Ghoſt that ſight of Him, that makes Him real to a Mans Soul. As now how doth the Sun dwell in the Eye, or in a Houſe, the Sun is in the Heavens, ſo is Jeſus Chriſt, as Acts 3. hath it, the Heavens muſt receive him, until the Times of Reſtitution of all Things, and yet He is in the Heart of a Chriſtian, Chriſt in you, ſaith the Apoſtle; How comes this to paſs? Why, look as though the Sun is in Heaven, if it ſhine into the Eye it dwells there, for there is the real Image of the Sun begotten in the Eye, and as it is ſaid to be in the Houſe, when it comes in with its Beams and its Light, which if a Man put his Eye to he may ſee the Sun; ſo is it here, there is the Light of the Glory of God, in the Face of Jeſus Chriſt, that ſhines into the Heart; and I ſay, this is the firſt Thing that is here intended, when he ſaith, Which is Chriſt in you; he doth appeal to thoſe that had known Chriſt in the Goſpel; if there were not an inſearchable Riches of Glory, a vaſt Glory in Him, even ſo far as they had known Him, which did give them a Hope of Infinite Glory yet to come, though this Knowledge was yet imperfect, and therefore was ordained to be built up in the World to come; for (as I hope to make plain and clear to you) there is nothing is a greater Evidence of a Hope of Glory to come in Heaven, than that Knowledge we have now of ſo great a Glory in Jeſus Chriſt. Jeſus Chriſt in us now is an imperfect Thing, and yet hath ſo much Riches and Glory in the ſight of him, as gives us a certain Hope that there is a Perfection of it to be one Day: So you have it in 1 Cor. 13. 12. Now we ſee thorow a Glaſs darkly, but then Face to Face; now we know but in part, it is an Imperfection which muſt be built up, but ſaith he, then ſhall we know, even as we are known. So now that is the firſt meaning of this Phraſe, why it is that he having ſpoken of the Riches of the Glory of the Goſpel in it ſelf afore, addeth, Which is Chriſt in you; that is, that Knowledge which the Goſpel hath begotten of Jeſus Chriſt in you, I appeal to you how rich and glorious it is, though you do not ſee all of it, and it doth give you a Hope of a Future Glory to come.

Chap. VII.

Now to caſt in other Additional Imports, which will come in and ſtand with this, and help to fill up the meaning of it.

Secondly, It is Chriſt in you, that is (he ſpeaks ſtill by way of Application to them for their Comfort) this is for your Comfort, that whatſo-ever

ever Glory, and whatſoever Riches of Jeſus Chriſt the Goſpel laies open, it is all yours, it is all in you, and for you. Which Riches of Glory, and which Myſtery, and all, is Chriſt in you, and in you the Hope of a further Glory. When Marcion the Heretick, had wrote a Goſpel, as the reſt of the Evangeliſts had done; ſaid an Orthodox Chriſtian of him, it is my Chriſt that is in your Goſpel; implying, that he had no Part in him, though he had written ſo of Him. But all that this Goſpel ſaith of Chriſt, is your Chriſt, it is Chriſt in you, as the Apoſtle ſaith, 1 Cor. 3. ult. All is yours, for ye are Chriſts, and Chriſt is Gods. The Goſpel (ſaith he) which I commend to you, it doth not only tell you of Riches and Glory, it doth not only talk of it as other Stories do, but it makes all this yours; The Riches of the Glory of this Myſtery among the Gentiles, which Riches is Chriſt in you, Chriſt made yours. It is a deep Phraſe this, and it imports the Poſſeſſion that a Chriſtian hath of Chriſt, and of all Riches of Glory in Him.

I ſhall open as parallel to my Text, another Scripture Col. 3. 11. Where there is neither Greek nor Jew, Circumciſion nor Uncircumciſion; Barbarian, Scythian, bond nor free, but Chriſt is all and all. His Scope is this, as Rollock hath well obſerved upon the Place, that all outward external Priviledges, belonging to the new Creature, were nothing at all valued by him; it is not the Priviledge of any Nation, that is ſo much to be conſider'd, therefore ſaith he, It is neither Greek nor Jew: It is not the Priviledge of any Profeſſion of Religion, that a Man is of this Opinion, or of that Opinion, that he is circumciſed or uncircumciſed: It is not the Priviledge of Tongues, or Learning, or Wit, neither Greek, nor Barbarian; the Greeks were a wiſe and learned People, the Barbarians rude, but Men of Spirit, as the Turkiſh Nation now. It is not Riches or Honour, or any external Condition that is valued by the new Creature, there is neither bond nor free, ſaith he. But then what hath the new Creature that undervalueth all theſe Priviledges in lieu of them? He hath Chriſt, who is All in himſelf, and is in all. He doth not only ſay, that Jeſus Chriſt alone is All, the meaning whereof is this, go take the Old Man, though it hath a Thouſand Things to make it Happy, yet it hath not one Thing alone that is inſtead of all to make it Happy, but it hath ſeveral Thouſand Things that muſt always go to make a Creature Happy, but ſaith he, one Jeſus Chriſt doth it, Jeſus Chriſt is All. But that I note it for is this, to Remark the Phraſe in All, He is not only ſaid to be All unto All, but He is All in them All, He is all, and in all, ſaith the Apoſtle: He puts an Emphaſis upon it by way of Difference, from all outward Things whatſoever; He is not only inſtead of all to Chriſtians, but He is All in all Chriſtians, and in every Chriſtian, He is All in them, that is, they may find Jeſus Chriſt in themſelves to to be that to them which all Things elſe are. As for Example, go take a King, or any great Perſon in the World, though he hath all Things that this World can afford him, yet all theſe Things are but all to him, they are not all in him, for all that goes to make them comfortable are out of himſelf, Honour is out of himſelf, Riches out of himſelf, dainty Fare and Beauty all out of himſelf, the Wiſdom he hath indeed that is in himſelf. But now take a Chriſtian, as Jeſus Chriſt is all Things to him, ſo Jeſus Chriſt is in him. All other Things, and a Man may be ſevered, becauſe they are but all to a Man, but if all Things were all in a Man, a Man could never be but compleatly Happy: But ſo it is here, Which is Chriſt in you, He is not only all to you, but all in you; go, whither you will go, you carry Him about with you, that is all to you. And ſo now, that is a ſecond Thing which this Phraſe importeth, why the Apoſtle addeth it here; ſaith he, if you have Chriſt in you, you carry about with you where-ever you go Him that is all to you, come what will to you, you can never be parted from this Chriſt, for He is in you; He is Chriſt in you, all theſe Riches, and the Hope of Glory likewiſe.

Again,

Chap. VII.

Again, this Phrase [Which is Christ in you] is thus added upon the Commendation of the Gospel; because, when a Man comes fully to know the Gospel, the more still he knows of the Gospel and of Jesus Christ savingly, the more he comes to be nothing else in himself, and to himself, but Christ. My meaning is this, Take a Man that hath his Spirit Evangelized (as the Scripture Phrase is) that is, that is Gospelized, the more his Spirit takes the Gospel in, the more all he is, and all he hath, and all he doth, becomes to him nothing but Christ. Let the Gospel have its full and perfect Work, and Jesus Christ full Admission into your Hearts by Faith, if He be fully formed in you, you shall see neither Law, nor nothing else in Comparison of Christ, He will swallow up all; that though other Things be in you, the Law is written in your Hearts, and the Image of Christ is in you, yea, but Christ is all; Christ in you, saith the Apostle; all Things are turned into Christ, and he gives the Glory of all to Christ, all is Christ in you. I live, saith the Apostle, and yet not I, but Christ liveth in me, Gal. 2. 20. He doth not only say, he lived a Life to Christ, as you have it in 2 Cor. 5. 19. That we should not live to our selves, but to Him that died for us, but he saith, that Christ liveth in him; what Life is it, that is in the Branch, or in the Buds? It is the Life of the Root; so saith he, It is not I that live, I am but a Branch, It is Christ that liveth in me. Jesus Christ converteth the Life of Nature, the Civil Life, assimulateth all the Actions of a Christian to himself; He liveth in him. When a Man cometh to be perfectly Evangelized, it is Christ in him. Even as the Members of the Body, do live a reasonable Life, but the reasonable Life they live, is meerly from the Head, it is the Life of the Head in the Members: The Tongue talketh Reason, where hath the Tongue that Reason? It is the Life of the Head in the Tongue: That these dull Members of ours live rationally, it is, because they live the Life of the reasonable Soul. So now thus doth Jesus Christ to me, He liveth in me, it is not I that live that spiritual Life, that I have in all that I do in Matters of Religion, it is Christ that liveth in me. He doth not only say, that he liveth with Christ, as if Christ was the Author of his Life (and so it is, for I having had a Life from Him, I live with Him) No, but He is so the Author of my Life, as He is the root of my Life, and He liveth in me, rather than I live, as having had Life from Him. And his Scope was to shew, that he was Dead to the Law; saith he, I can never be a Jew again, while I live, why? Because I have received Christ into me, and there is a Life of Christ in me, so that I can never return to my Works, return to the Law again: That is his Scope in that Coherence: And therefore, you know, he defineth one, that is of the true Circumcision, that he rejoiceth in the Lord Jesus Christ, Phil. 3. 3. And God forbid, that I should rejoice in any Thing, saving in the Cross of Christ; so Gal. 6. 14. Why? If I live, it is Christ that liveth in me; and if I Die, to me to Die is Jesus Christ, is Gain: If I act any Thing, it is not I, but the Grace of Jesus Christ in me: If I have any Strength it is the Strength of Christ; Be strong in the Grace that is in Christ Jesus, 2 Tim. 2. 1. If I be sanctified, it is not Grace, so much as Christ, is made Sanctification. The Truth is, that as a Man still grows up more and more Gospelized in his Spirit, so Jesus Christ is in him, and works out all Things else, till there be nothing but Christ in him; melteth the Soul into Christ, as Sugar is melted into Wine: All a Mans Graces, whatsoever he doth, he turns it all into Christ, as it is all from Christ: As a Beam is nothing, if it be cut off from the Sun, so there is nothing in what the Soul is, or desireth to be, but so far forth as it is knit to Christ, and cometh from him, and is received from him. My Brethren, I use to say, that Grace is nothing but a company of Nothings, and a company of Alls, as I may so express it to you. It makes the Heart to be nothing in its own Righteousness, but Jesus Christ to be all: It makes the Heart to be nothing in its own Abilities to do any Thing, but Jeſus Chriſt to be all: It makes the Heart to be nothing in its own Ends, but to ſet up Jeſus Chriſt in all: It makes the Heart to be nothing, in reſpect of being accepted for any Thing in it ſelf, but to be graciouſly accepted in the beloved, to be all in that Reſpect: It brings the Heart to be nothing in Comfort, to ſeek for nothing of Comfort, but what is to be had in Chriſt, in the Face of Chriſt: It makes the Heart to be nothing in Valuation of it ſelf, but Jeſus Chriſt to be all. Theſe Things indeed we all fall ſhort of, but this will be your pitch, that there ſhall be nothing but Chriſt in you, not you in Chriſt, but Chriſt in you, if your Spirits be truly and fully turned to the Goſpel, if they be Evangelized. That you may know, ſaith he, the Riches of the Glory of this Myſtery, which is Chriſt in you.

Laſtly, It may alſo come in here by way of ſpecial Inſtance, To ſhew, that, that Union, which Jeſus Chriſt hath with the Saints, and in the Saints, whereby He and they are all one, and by which all the Glory He hath, and Riches in Him, are made theirs; that, that Union, I ſay, of Jeſus Chriſt and His Saints, Chriſt in them, is one great and eminent Myſtery of the Goſpel, and the greateſt Hope of Glory. There are ſaith he, a World of glorious Riches and Myſteries in the Goſpel, but I will give you one Inſtance, which of all other is the greateſt, or at leaſt the comfortableſt to you, and that is this, that Chriſt and you are one, that Jeſus Chriſt is in you, and ſo the Hope of Glory. So that he ſpeaks, I ſay of the Union, that is between Jeſus Chriſt and Believers, as of all other the greateſt and the richeſt Myſtery, at leaſt the moſt comfortable unto us, which the Goſpel holds forth, and is the Foundation of all Glory, and of all Grace, it is the Hope of Glory.

He inſtanceth, I ſay, in that, both becauſe it ſo much concerned them, and their Comfort by way of Application; and alſo, becauſe in it ſelf it is one of the greateſt Myſteries, and a Thing of the greateſt Moment for Believers to know.

I obſerve this, that all Divines, when they come to ſpeak of the Union that we have with Jeſus Chriſt, and Jeſus Chriſt with us, they do generally make this Apology, if they handle it any Thing largely, that of all others it is one of the greateſt Myſteries. Still I ſay, they make that Apology, that great is the Myſtery of our Union with Chriſt, and Chriſt with us. Therefore the Apoſtle might well in the cloſe of all ſay, by way of one Inſtance of the greatneſs of this Myſtery, Which is Chriſt in you.

There are Two Things in the New Teſtament, which the Holy Ghoſt doth put an Emphaſis upon, and calleth them great Myſteries, and they are Two Unions. The Firſt is, The Union of the Humane Nature with the Godhead, in the Perſon of Chriſt, 1 Tim. 3. 16. Without Controverſie, great is the Myſtery of Godlineſs; what is that Myſtery? God manifeſt in the Fleſh; that is, the Godhead was manifeſted in the Humane Nature of Chriſt uniting it to it ſelf, and in that Humane Nature ſhining glorioufly as God. This Thing, that God was made Fleſh, that the Son of God was made Man, he ſaith, is a great Myſtery. The Second great Myſtery, is, that this Son of God made Man, ſhould be united to a Body of Men, His Church; His Saints: That Chriſt ſhould be in them, as God is in Chriſt; and for that you have, Eph. 5. 32. This is a great Myſtery; ſaith he, having diſcourſed before of the Union of Chriſt and His Church, under the Repreſentation of the firſt Marriage of Adam and his Wife in Paradiſe, and ſo he interpreteth himſelf, and ſaith he, I ſpeak of Chriſt, and His Church; for the [but] there is not Adverſative, but Explicative, that is, when I ſpeak of a great Myſtery, I mean the Union of Chriſt, and His Church. It was a Myſtery, that, that Union ſhould be infolded in Adams Marriage, and it is a great Myſtery in reſpect of the Thing it ſelf. To give you a Scripture or Two for this.

Chap. VII.

The Myſtery of the Union of Chriſt with his Church is ſo great, that Chriſt himſelf paralels it, and ſetteth it out by the Union which the Godhead had with him, and His Union with the Father. So you have it in John 6. 57. He that eateth my Fleſh, and drinketh my Blood, he dwelleth in me, and I in him. Here is now the Union between us and Chriſt, here is Chriſt in us. How doth he paralel this Union? Read Verſe 57. As the living Father hath ſent me, and I live by the Father, ſo he that eateth me, even he ſhall live by me. The Scope is plainly this, All Life, ſaith He, is by Union with the Fountain of Life, I being united to my Father, who is the living Father, do live by my Father. He ſpeaks of himſelf as He is ſent, as He is Man, as He took up a Humane Nature. The living Father, ſaith He, hath ſent me, and ſo knit and united me to himſelf, and to the Godhead, and as thus ſent, I live by him, and you ſaith he, do live by me; and (as he ſaith elſewhere) Becauſe I live, you ſhall live alſo; why? Becauſe as it is John 14. 20. I am in the Father, and you in me, and I in you. That which I quote it for at this Time is this, that He paralels our Union, and the Life we have by Virtue of our Union with Him, with that Union of His Humane Nature, with the Godhead, and with the Father.

And becauſe I am fallen upon this Place of John 6. I ſhall a little open it to you. You ſhall find, that this is the great Myſtery that ſtumbled the World, yea, that ſtumbled His very Diſciples, many of them, ſo that they went and left Him. In that Chapter you have a Sermon of his, in which He told them, that they muſt by eating His Fleſh, and drinking His Blood come to be united to Him, and whoſoever did ſo was united to Him: Now ſaith, Verſe 60. Many of His Diſciples, when they had heard this, ſaid, This is a hard ſaying, who can bear it? It is a hard ſaying, for how can one believe it? Nay, ſay they, It is an intollerable, an inſufferable ſaying, whoſe Ears can bear it? And they were Diſciples too, Many of His Diſciples ſaid. And the ſaying, is not only the eating His Fleſh, but it is all His whole Sermon about it, that He would dwell in them, and they ſhould dwell in Him, by eating of His Fleſh. Saith Chriſt, Doth this offend you? I will make the wonder yet greater; Verſe 62. What, and if you ſhall ſee the Son of Man aſcend up, where He was before? He poſeth them with a greater Myſtery, and that is the near Union of the Humane Nature with the Divine, ſo near that He that is now on Earth, is alſo in Heaven by Communion of Properties, tho' all thoſe that were Reprobates did not ſee Him aſcend with bodily Eyes, nor all the Saints neither; but I am gone ſaith He, and when you hear that I am gone to Heaven, verily, you will think then, that there can be no Union between me, and thoſe that believe in me, for there can be no eating of my Fleſh, or drinking of my Blood. If therefore you wonder at it now, how will you conceive of it, when I am gone up to Heaven? But ſaith He, I will ſolve the Myſtery to you, if you will underſtand it, It is the Spirit that quickeneth, the Fleſh profiteth nothing. I have a Godhead in me, a Divine Nature (for that is meant by Spirit often, when Chriſt is ſpoken of, as, He was put to Death in the Fleſh, that is, in His Humane Nature, but quickened by the Spirit, that is, by His Godhead) I have, ſaith he, a Godhead dwelling in this Humane Nature, though this Fleſh you cannot eat, and though, if I have nothing elſe but Fleſh I could not dwell in you, nor quicken you, nor give Life to you, yet having a Spirit, a Godhead in me, it is that which quickeneth. And how doth He quicken? And how doth He cauſe you to dwell in him, and himſelf in you? Why ſaith He, by the Words which I ſpeak unto you; while you by Faith chew upon the Word that deſcribeth me, as I am the Saviour of the World, as I give my Fleſh for the Salvation of the World, the Godhead that is in me, and the Holy Ghoſt that dwelleth in me, cauſeth me by Faith to dwell in you, and ſo to give you Life: for ſo it follows, in that 63d Verſe, The Words, which I ſpeak unto you, they are Spirit, and ſpiritually to be underſtood; and ſaith he, they are Life.

Chap. VII.

There is a great Queſtion amongſt Divines, whether we are firſt united to the Humane Nature of Chriſt, and by it to the Godhead, or immediately to the Godhead? For my Part, this Place mightily helpeth me to reſolve the Queſtion, It is the Spirit, ſaith he, that quickeneth, that is, the Godhead (now He had ſpoke of Union before) and ſo by Virtue of uniting to the Godhead of Chriſt, there is a quickening of us: And though we are united to whole Chriſt, yet to the Godhead firſt.

I ſhall give you another Scripture, that this is the great Myſtery of the Goſpel, it is in John 14.20. (a Place I named afore, and did but name it) The greateſt Myſtery that is in the Goſpel, was reſerved for the Apoſtles to know it, when Jeſus Chriſt ſhould be aſcended, for then the Holy Ghoſt fell upon them, for to reveal to them the great and glorious Things of the Goſpel. Now what ſaith Chriſt there? At that Day, ſaith he (namely, when the Holy Ghoſt is come, for He had promiſed to ſend the Comforter in the Words before) ye ſhall know that I am in my Father, and you in me, and I in you. Theſe Two are made Paralels. The Apoſtles had had their Union with the Father, and with Chriſt before now, they had it at this Time, when He ſpake unto them, but ſaith He, then you ſhall know it, you ſhall underſtand it, both experimentally in your own Hearts, and you ſhall know the Myſtery of it, ſo as to teach it unto others, for ſo the Apoſtles did, they received this Knowledge by the Holy Ghoſt to communicate it to others. And this great Myſtery (which the Apoſtles then did not ſo clearly underſtand, but ſhould fully know it when they received the Holy Ghoſt) He reduceth you ſee to Three Heads, and all are Matters of Union, and indeed the one dependeth upon the other. Firſt, Saith He, you ſhall underſtand this great Myſtery, that there is an Union between me and my Father, and the Humane Nature and the Son of God, and ſo that I am one with Him, and that is the Foundation of all your Comfort. This they underſtood not at firſt; Ye believe in God, believe alſo in me, ſaith He. Secondly, You ſhall know that as I am in my Father, ſo you are in me, that is, that God the Father did from Everlaſting make me a publick Perſon for you, and I ſtood in your ſtead, and you all were in me, when I did whatſoever I did here upon the Earth, and you are in me when I go to Heaven; it is an Union repreſentative between you and me. And Thirdly, You ſhall know that I am in you, and you ſhall feel it, and that is a communicative Union as I may ſo expreſs it. And every one of theſe is the Foundation of the other; you ſhall find, ſaith He, that as the Union of my ſelf with the Father, and the Union of the Humane Nature with the Son of God, is the Foundation of my being a publick Perſon for you, why I was able to Die, and my Death to be Effectual; ſo you ſhall find the Power and Virtue of all theſe communicated to you by my being in you; you ſhall be ſenſible of this Union. This I ſay is the great Myſtery, which was reſerved for the Holy Ghoſt to reveal unto the Apoſtles themſelves. And becauſe, that the Comfort of all lies in this latter, to feel Chriſt is in me, for by that I climb up to the other; hence the Apoſtle ingleth it out, when he would hold forth, and bring home to their Hearts the Riches of the Glory of the Goſpel as theirs, and that Chriſt is theirs, and that they are one with the Father, and that Chriſt did repreſent them from Everlaſting, &c. He inſtanceth only in the latter, Which is Chriſt in you.

My Brethren, This is ſo great a Myſtery, as that the Angels do not know it as we do, for they are not united with ſo near an Union to Jeſus Chriſt as we are. As He took up our Nature into a greater nearneſs with God, and did not take up the Nature of Angels, ſo He takes us up into a nearer Union with himſelf and ſo with God. It is a Myſtery indeed, that the Angels ſtand and admire at; ſeen of Angels, ſaith the Apoſtle, and ſo it is admired by them, that Chriſt ſhould be in us, but they do not feel it as we do, and therefore of all Myſteries it is the greateſt.

CHAP.

CHAP. VIII.

The Glory of the Gospel farther manifested, for as much as Christ the great Subject of it, is in the Work of God upon us, reveal'd in the Soul.

GAL. I. xv, xvi.

xv. But when it pleased God, who separated me from my Mothers Womb, and called me by His Grace.
xvi. To Reveal His Son in me, &c.

MY designed Subject is, The Application of Christ to us; or, The appearing of Christ in us. There is Christ in Redemption; which Work was wholly transacted out of us, between Him and His Father: And the Work thereof I have handled. But this is Christ in Application; or as brought home to our Hearts, which is as necessary for our Salvation, as that other of Redemption.

You hear a great deal of talk of Christ within us: But as that talk runs, truly another Christ is meant thereby, than that Christ God-Man, that Jesus who was Crucified at Jerusalem. But indeed, Christ within us, is no other than that very same Jesus, who was and is out of us; and both one and the same, even Christ dwelling in the Heart by Faith, and manifested in us, and to us.

Brethren, There is the Work of Election which is the Fathers: There is the Work of Redemption; and both these wholly are performed without us: God was in Christ reconciling the World: That is, the Father and Christ giving Himself for us a Ransom: 'Twas he that Died, and offered a Sacrifice, and now is risen and ascended, long afore we were, and 'tis He that now intercedes in Heaven, and transacts all with His Father for us; and thus indeed considered, He is a Christ without us: But the same Christ is in you, when you are turned to God (or rather, that turns you to God; Acts 3. last) and are called by His Grace, as the Apostle saith here; when it pleased God to call me by His Grace, and reveal His Son in me; then you have the same Christ that is without you, revealed in you, and brought home to you; you have the whole of Him First and Last within you, according to what measure God hath appointed you in Christ: As you had the whole of Himself given as a Price for you, Eph. 5. 2. It is the same Christ without us, and the same Christ within us; only what He is, or did for us without us, the same is applied to us: And it is this Christ in Application (which is the very Word, the School-men use, of this Matter) I would make my Subject: And as concerning that, the Doctrine with which I shall Centre in, is, That Christ revealed in us, comprehends the whole of that Work of Application, First and Last: Or thus, That the whole Bulk and Summ of our Practical Religion (as you use to call it) is resolved into God's revealing Christ, and Christ's revealing Himself within us, from First to Last, throughout our whole Lives: Which Comprehensiveness, Paul surely intends here: For, in saying, when God revealed his Son in me, though his first Calling was the first beginning thereof; yet he withal took in what from thence he had gone on to do throughout the rest of his Life, for the same End that at First; For that Revelation at first, was, That he might Preach what was revealed unto the Gentiles. God as He had begun, begun, went on still to reveal Him more in me, that I knowing more and more of him, might be enabled to reveal more of Him to others, to whom I was sent; only then He began with Me.

This Phrase [Revealing Christ within me] hath made a great deal of do among Interpreters, as well as amongst us of late Days. It is a strange Thing, that Hierome so long ago, should unluckily stumble upon the very Notion of the Quakers; or that which in those Days the Pelagians held: Namely, That what Light of God was in Nature, or Light of Moral Good in the Conscience, was the Grace of Christ; which is all one with what our Quakers Foundation is. And he fell upon this in opening this Text: When it pleased God to reveal Christ in me, saith he, doth imply and suppose, that Christ was in him before his Calling; and his Calling was but a Revealing, a Discovery, of what was by Nature in him: Revelatur quod prius fuit in eo: And plainly and boldly he saith, Perspicuum est, It is plain from hence, that by Nature there is the Knowledge of God; and that no Man is born without Christ: This is the Language that this Man stumbled then upon.

And truly, this Interpretation of Hieroms so scared many Interpreters, as it diverted them from the true Sense (though it be plain enough) though not to his Sense, to say, That Christ was revealed in him, this Phrase, they knew not what to make of it, taken in the plain Expression: Therefore

Some Interpreted it thus, When it pleased God to Reveal His Son by me. In Me, they turned to Per Me. Voluit per me filium cognitum facere, so Grotius took it. Brethren, there is an apparent Contradiction to this in the Text; for he makes the end of God's revealing Him in him, to be, That he might Preach Him to others, which Denotes that to have been the final Cause of God's revealing Him first in himself: Therefore there can be no other Meaning than this, That God was pleased first to reveal His Son in him, when He called him; that is in the Person of Paul himself; That he having the experimental Knowledge of this Christ within himself, in his own Heart, and his own Soul, for his own Salvation, he might be able to reveal him to others the more effectually, suitable to that in 2 Cor. 1. 4. Who comforteth us in all our Tribulation, that we may be able to Comfort them which are in any Trouble, by the Comfort wherewith we our selves are comforted of God. When it pleased God to reveal His Son in me; to make Him known sensibly unto me, and to apply Him experimentally in and to my Soul: He did this, that I might (having the Knowledge of Him for my self, as the Truth is in Jesus) make Him known to others. And the Words afore, He called me by His Grace, shew that he speaks of his first Conversion, which was the Fruit of his Election: When it pleased God, &c. And it was then, that God began to reveal Christ savingly unto him, or any Man, as the main Intention of Gods calling a Man, and as the chief Thing above all others revealed, or to be revealed at a Mans Conversion; though God reveales Sin (you will say) He convinceth the World of Sin, and of Judgment, and Holiness: Yea, but He revealeth Christ ordinarily above All, and in All. But of all Saints that ever were or shall be, God pitcht Pauls Heart upon Christ at first, though he saw his Sin too, Rom. 7. and the Sin of unbelief especially, as he saith in Timothy. And the Knowledge of Christ was the eminent Work in Paul's Conversion, and gave him a compleat Knowledge of Him at first, because of the eminent present Service God had for him to do: For immediately (he says) he consulted not, but fell to Preach Christ instantly, whom he thus knew.

Calvin, Interperets it Mihi, revealed Christ to me, which he would carry unto the Revelation of the Doctrine of Christ in the Gospel, whereof he had said, Verse 11, and 12. The Gospel which was Preached of me, is not after Man: For I neither received it of Man, neither was I taught it, but by the Revelation of Jesus Christ. And he and the former have their Criticisms, and Hebraisms for this.

Beza

Beza * indeed admits of that reading; to reveal it to me, Mihi (for so Calvin had afore Expounded it: But says, That it signified some further and larger Matter; and that from the like Hebrew Propriety, being all one with [על מי] and so signifies the Grace of God to have come down from Heaven into his very Soul in the Revelation of Christ.

And Cornelius a Lapide †, among the Papists, says, some indeed read it He revealed it to me; but the Word is, He revealed it in me; That he might signifie, That his Spirit drank in this Revelation of Christ into himself, within the very intimacy of his Heart; so that Christ should be in him, and speak in him, when he preach't to others. And he hath his Hebraism for this too.

The main Sum and Substance of Christianity then is, That Christ be revealed in us, and not only to us: That you come to have Christ by Application, in and to your Souls. Christ brought down into your Heart; yea, and this is the Design of Election: When it pleased God (saith he) who separated me from my Mothers Womb, and called me by His Grace, to reveal his Son in Me: It was the Design of Gods good Pleasure towards him from Eternity, as the Word imports.

But you will say, why do you bring in Paul an Instance, to make this generally the Sum of our Christianity, first and last? You will say, This Instance shews it to have been Pauls Condition in and after his Conversion: But what is this to us Inferiour Christians, To propound his Example to us? Truly, because, take but the Substance of Religion and of true Conversion, and it is common to Paul and us. Indeed Paul differed from us, in some particular Priviledges about this Matter: He differed from us herein, 1. In the manner of having this revealed; for he had it by immediate Revelation, as the 12th Verse tells you, I neither received it of Man, neither was I taught it (i. e. by the Ministry of Men,) but by the Revelation of Jesus Christ: Where [of Christ] notes not out Christ as the Object of the Revelation, but as the Worker: Christ Himself converted him, and Christ Himself revealed Himself to him; and the Father likewise, as the Text here hath it: But as for us, we have it by Man: Ours is by Means of Instruction. And yet, that Knowledge of Faith, which we have of Christ, is called a Revelation, Eph. 1. 17. speaking of ordinary Christians, he prays, That they may have the Spirit of Revelation in the Knowledge of Him: That is, of Christ. Thus as Adam, was made a Man, Flesh and Bone, as we have, but he was made immediately by God: Take other Men, they have the same Members of Body, and Faculties of Soul like, and answerable unto what Adam had, but we have them immediately by Generation from Man: So it was with Paul. Again, 2. Paul and we differ in the Measure, Paul had it by Whole-sale; as Adam was made a perfect Man the first Moment; and Paul had the whole Systeme of the Revelation of Christ in himself to his Soul: He knew whole Christ at first, more or less: He might know more of Him by Degrees afterwards; but at that present he had a whole Knowledge of Him; and the Reason is apparent from the End of it; which was, That he might preach Christ immediately: He had that in Three Days, which others grow unto in many Years; He was so fully instructed, and made the Man of God so perfect, as in the 2*d* Chapter of this Epistle; he says, That the other Apostles, that were Pillars, and had lived long with Christ, and had the Spirit come down upon them, to inlighten them in what Christ had taught them; added nothing to him.

All then, that God works upon you savingly, from First to Last, is a discovery of Christ, some way or other, in you. It is either the Knowledge of His Person, or it is a Conformity to Him; or it is Dispositions suited to what you know of Him: Workings upon us, and Operations of God upon us suitable to what is in Him; and this I call, The Sum or Substance of our Religion.

Brethren,

Chap. VIII.

* Mihi sed tamen illud videtur quoddam etiam amplius significari; quod apparet ex Hebræorum Idiotismo: Et videtur eo dicendi genere significari, Dei gratiam Cælitus in animum ipsum illabi ut Græca etiam Scholia notarunt.

† Dicit potius [in me] quam [mihi] ut significet spiritum suum intimo Corde imbibisse, ut Christus in eo esset, & per eum loqueretur.

Chap. VIII.

Even as to the firſt Work upon a Man, when he is humbled for Sin: My Opinion thereof is, That, in a Man that ſhall be ſaved, it is a different Work what is in wicked Men, that have Terrours of Conſcience, and ſhall not be ſaved; and that accordingly there is in it a part of Conformity to Chriſt crucified; and I ſhall give you Scriptures for it; Gal. 2. 19. He ſpeaks of being Dead to the Law through the Law; which is to be convinced of Sin, and it is effected by the Power of Chriſt crucified, ſo as if you ask, How came Paul to be thus dead to the Law? He tells you, Rom. 6. that it was by the Body of Chriſt.

The very Work of Humiliation is a Conformity to Chriſt; and it is a beginning of revealing Chriſt in us: And if a Man will look back upon all hath been wrought in him, he ſhall ſee, That it is all Chriſt.

But however, that, which is the Eminency of Chriſtianity, the Bulk and Subſtance of it; That, to be ſure, is all of it Chriſt in us: It was Paul's Eminency, That Chriſt was the Sum of all he had and did; to the end, that he might know and preach Chriſt; and it is the whole of Chriſt that God reveals ſooner or later, more or leſs, in and to all Chriſtians; whether they know it or no.

If any ask, Why, when he ſpeaks of revealing Chriſt in us, he ſhould rather ſay revealing His Son in us? My Anſwer is, The Word [Son] comprehends the whole of Chriſt.

I ſhall give you but an Obſervation or Two more.

1. Happy is that Soul, that in Converſion or Calling was pitcht firſt on Chriſt; or ſoon upon his Converſion. If you that are now Converted had lived in our younger Days, you would have ſeen, that we were held under John Baptiſt's Water; of being humbled for Sin, and the Work of Sanctification. But now, Happy it is with ſome, whoſe Lot it is, that their Converſion-work begins with Chriſt: Next after their Humiliation for Sin, they are pitcht upon Chriſt: The Work upon Paul was in this Manner, who had the Advantage of us this way, for Chriſt Himſelf appeared to him, and yet he was humbled, and ſaw Sin to be above meaſure ſinful, Rom. 7. and therefore the Work of Humiliation is neceſſary unto Faith in Chriſt.

2. Another Obſervation is, That whoever of you will be Preachers of the Word, get Chriſt revealed in you, that you may preach Him unto others, out of the Experience of that Revelation: John eat the Book, and then wrote it; as you have it in Rev. 10.

3. Bleſſed is he, that from his firſt Converſion was pitcht upon reaching out the Experiences he had to others. Some Men have, as Paul had, their inward Motion to be Miniſters upon their being called; as Paul had it conjoined therewith. And as God ſeparated Paul from the Womb for both: So He hath ſeperated ſuch.

8. The Silver is mine, and the Gold is mine, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

9. The glory of this latter houſe ſhall be greater then of the former, ſaith the Lord of hoſts: and in this place will I give peace, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

THE Apoſtle is upon a Compariſon (or rather, that there is no Compariſon) between Chriſt, as giving forth the Word on Mount Sion, and Moſes upon Mount Sinai. This Moſes in delivering his Law, he reckoneth of but as a Man on Earth; and ſo infers from thence (to greaten Chriſt) if they eſcaped not who refuſed him, that ſpake on Earth, much more ſhall not we eſcape, if we turn away from him that ſpeaks from Heaven. The vaſt diſproportion between theſe two Teachers, he argues from that infinite diſtance that is between the ſituation of their Seats, and Places they ſpake from: Moſes's Chair (as Chriſt terms it) was placed on Earth, so low, at the Footstool: But Christ (Christus Cathedram in Cœlis habet) hath his Chair in Heaven (as was said of old of him) so high above the others as are the highest Heavens. Neither let this so great lowering Moses and his Law, unto Christ and his Gospel offend you, oh ye Jews, as too bold or contemptuous. For Paul had your own John Baptist to bear him out, who when in like manner he would compare himself with Christ and his Doctrine with his own, (to the end to exalt both it and him) he casts himself, and the highest Point he could reach to, as low as Earth, John 3. 31, 32. He that is of the earth is earthy, and he speaks of the earth: And such a Teacher I acknowledge my self to be (says he) when set with him that cometh from Heaven; and such also my Doctrine is in comparison of his, who speaketh what he hath heard and seen, namely in Heaven, from whence he comes. What John thus speaks of himself, Paul applies to Moses. And John in his Ministry was greater than Moses and all the Prophets, put all into the same Scale together with him, Matth. 11. 11, & 13.

The Apostle Paul doth urge us farther to consider those infinitely surpassing and more glorious Effects of Power and Majesty, which do issue from the Voice of him that speaks from Heaven in the Gospel, and accompanies the delivery of it as a Testimony of the Glory of the Matter uttered in it; which, the more lively to represent, he compareth them with those former effects which accompanied the delivery of the Law when it was given by Moses; Whose Voice then shook the earth, (says he) but his Voice now shall shake both earth and heavens.

From which advance he 3dly raiseth another Mount yet higher, namely, a Consideration of that superexcelling Glory of his Kingdom, which his Gospel uttered, by him brought to light, and gave Believers the right and assurance of: All these Effects accompanying both Law and Gospel, being but slighter Works and Effects of an inferior sort, and lower make and production: Things but made in comparison of the Things of his Kingdom, which Christ should bring in.

Now by these shakings, &c. the Apostle meaneth and intendeth those new, strange, and (in comparison to those under the Times of the Law) unparallel'd Changes, Alterations, and abolitions of Things which were already begun in his time and view, to be made in this World, and are to go on till they are to be consummated at the latter Day. And these are the Effects and Concomitants of this word the Gospel, and of his Voice that dictates it. All which Removals should be but the Preludiums and fore-running Preparations unto that Kingdom of his, which cannot be shaken; which all those shall issue and determine in, as infinitely more glorious than all things else we now see or know, by how much all these are but made to be pulled down, and then removed, as the Rubbish that lies in the way to that his Kingdom to be erected: But we have a Kingdom, the Gospel speaks of, which cannot be shaken: Which therefore let us firmly expect, and adhere unto, and serve God acceptably, in the expectation of it in the midst of all these shakings. This for the coherence, and as an outside shew of the meaning of the words hung forth at the entrance, inviting you to the Sight within. Let us now enter and view each Particular more throughly and exactly.

The words of my Text, in ver. 26, & 27. (though I have read the rest afore and after) do fix upon this latter Point, namely, the vast different Effects and Demonstration of Power, by all sorts of alterations in Heaven and Earth, that shall accompany the Coming and Kingdom of Christ all along the Times of the Gospel, in comparison of those that attended upon the giving of the Law of Moses. And this I have also fix'd on to be my present Subject.

The Particulars to explain that Difference are two.

1. The Difference of those Effects themselves when compared.
2. The Allegation of the Prophecy in Haggai, for the Proof of that Comparison, and likewise the Pertinency of that Allegation.

Which two being by way of general Premise dispatch'd, I shall more closely grasp those which are the greatest Difficulties in the Text in their own Place.

1. The difference of those Effects themselves compared.

The First Part of the Comparison are the Prodigies that fell out at the Birth and bringing forth the Law, the shaking of the Earth, &c. Whose Voice then shook the Earth, says the Text out of the 19. Exod. 18. The Mountain quaked greatly, and the Sights in the Air upon the Mount were so terrible, and the Voice then heard so dreadful, that they could not endure it (ver. 19. 21.) But yet, so as the Force and Efficacy of all these reach'd no higher or further than the Earth and Air, which signified the Lowness and Earthlines of the Frame and Form of Worship given, and also to be of that sort, which one Day as the Earth was then, should be in the like manner it self, shaken, as the Apostle here unfolds the Mystery of it.

And withal (to that end to greaten Christ and heighten the Comparison of his Gospel effects with those the more) he hints us to consider, that it was even our Christ, which then gave the Law, and that it was his Voice, though hiddenly and concealedly; the Power whereof shook the Earth, whose Voice (saith my Text) then shook the Earth, for though Angels are said to have given the Law, it being termed, Heb. 2. 1. The word spoken by Angels, yet the Lord God (which was Christ) stood hid under those Angels; so expresly, Exod. 20. 21. You have seen that I have talk'd with you from Heaven. And though Moses as a Mediator, is said to have given it visibly forth, Gal 3. 19. compared with Deut. 5. 5. yet you may see what a poor slight Mediator he was by his Carriage in it, and to have been but a Cypher or Shadow of our Christ, whose Voice then and now speaks, and made him to tremble. You may read how Moses stood by quaking and trembling, whilst the Law was uttering, like a frail sorry Man of Earth (as he was) for no sooner did he begin to feel all things shaking under him, but he cries out, as Verse 21. I exceedingly fear and quake. He shewed what a Man he was, and how constituted, but of the same Matter the Mountain it self (that was the first shaker) was of, Earth and Dust; which our Apostle alledgeth to shew his Law in comparison of this Gospel to be like unto him Earthy, and ordained to be shaken.

Corollary. And this as it is the cleerest Scripture in the New Testament, that it was Christ that gave the Law, so it is as evident a proof that he is God, whose Voice it was that spake those Words, and said, I am the Lord thy God, thou shalt have no other Gods but me; which Voice then shook the Earth, in testimony thereof at the uttering of them. This is the first Part of this Comparison.

2. The second Part is a comparative Inference, how far greater and more surpassing outward Effects, and Signs and Tokens of Power and Glory must needs be ordained to accompany the Coming of Christ himself, and the Dispensation of the Gospel from him, inferred from this, that his Voice then shook the Earth, &c. wherein two Things are to be considered,

1. The surpassing Excellency of the Effects themselves.
2. The Ground and Rationality of the Apostle's Inference, when from a Comparison made with the other, he argues and infers the Excellency of those Effects themselves under the Gospel.

1. For the Superexceeding of the Effects themselves under the Gospel.

1. If he shook the Earth then, he will shake Heaven now; that is, as Christ in his own Case speaks, if you wonder at this, you shall see greater Wonders than these. The Father loveth the Son, and to shew us that he is the Son himself, He will shew him greater Works, that you may yet marvel. Thus here, if he then shook Earth, he will now shake both Earth and Heavens too.

Which Phrase, to open it first in general, is a Proverbial Speech, to express how far higher and greater things he will do; even by so much higher as the Heavens are above the Earth: That look, as it would in all Mens Apprehensions be a Demonstration of greater Power, for one to shake the Pillars of Heaven, and make the Stars quiver, the Sun to tremble, in comparison of shaking Houses and Glass-windows on Earth, which we see great Noises as of Thunder-Claps, and great Ordinances are won't to do. So in this,

2. As in the Object ſhaken this riſeth higher, even to the ſhaking Heavens, ſo in the iſſue of the ſhaking either the one or the other. For whereas then he did but ſhake, he will now not only ſhake but remove; and then he did but ſhake the Earth, and in the Earth that Mountain the Law was given upon, which yet ſtands where it did; under the Goſpel he will not only ſhake but remove, not the Earth only, which he ſhook but in part afore, but even the Heavens, which he then left untouch'd. But now he ſhakes, yea, and he means to remove, v. 27. Thus this word once more ſignifieth the removing of thoſe things that are ſhaken as things made, on purpoſe to give Demonſtration of his Power in their removal, and withal of that ſuperexcelling Glory of that Kingdom, to which theſe Things are but made to give way unto; and obſerve it (for it muſt be our Guide, and ſerve to bring us to the full of Paul and Haggai's meaning, that the Apoſtle puts the Emphaſis upon) even this, That he ſhakes ſo as to remove. And this he alledgeth as Haggai's Scope.

2. For the ground or rational Part of this Inference, namely, why, upon giving the Goſpel, theſe Effects ſhould riſe ſo much higher, the Account ſtands thus,

1. If God (whom here the Apoſtle affirms Chriſt to be) will anew come come down into the World a ſecond time, he will ſurely make his Diſcovery therein exceed the former; 'tis his manner ſo to do, eſpecially if the firſt be but a ſhadow or Type of the ſame Perſon in leſſer Diſcoveries (as Moſes was in this of Chriſt's) and in that reſpect but as the Earth; then the ſecond or next ſucceeding, whatever it be, will riſe as high as Heaven in compariſon of the former. Now Moſes as a Man on Earth, gave forth his Diſpenſation, but Chriſt as the Lord from Heaven, therefore his muſt accordingly in its proportion exceed. And his Argument runs thus, It was Chriſt's own Voice, which then did ſhake the Earth, when he gave the Law. Now if he being then hid (himſelf concealed under the Adminiſtration of Angels, therefore, Acts 7. 30, 31, 32. in his ſpeaking to Moſes, he is ſome times termed an Angel, ſometimes the Lord) and alſo ſtood diſguiled under Moſes receiving the Law as his Type, did yet own and ſecond that Diſpenſation, ſo far as to ſhake the Earth, &c. in teſtimony of that underhand, and remote preſence of his, what effects will his Voice have, when he comes perſonally to appear, and profeſſedly as Son of God to dwell in Man's Nature perſonally united to himſelf, and therein to deliver a new Doctrine (namely, the Goſpel) eſpecially (now) that is after his having been on Earth, and there firſt had himſelf converſed with Men, but now is aſcended again to Heaven. And from thence ſpeaks and rules, who, in his Perſon, was the Lord from Heaven, 1 Cor. 15. and in Heaven whilſt on Earth, and ſo Lord of both Earth and Heaven, and hath received all Power both in Earth and Heaven: To give full proof of all theſe things, he will therefore ſurely ſhake, both Earth and Heaven, and ſhew he is able to ſhake and remove both. So much for the Inference, and ground of the Apoſtle's arguing, as elſewhere he doth the like from Adam to Chriſt, 1 Cor. 15. 45, 46. by way of a ſuperexcelling Compariſon, which is his way of arguing here.

For the Allegation out of Haggai, and the Pertinency of it, to this his Scope, which is the next and great Thing to be inſiſted on, I obſerve that the Apoſtle's Cuſtom in this Epiſtle (he writing to Jews) is to aſſert nothing but what he brings proof for out of the Old Teſtament (as all along appears) he writing to ſuch, who (as Peter ſpeaks) gave heed to that ſure word of Propheſie of old, and thus here he quotes Haggai 2. 6, 7. For thus ſaith the Lord of Hoſts, yet once, it is a little while, and I will ſhake the Heavens, and the Earth, and the Sea, and the dry Land. And I will ſhake all Nations, and the deſire of all Nations ſhall come, and I will fill this Houſe with Glory, ſaith the Lord of Hoſts.

The Propheſie is evidently of Chriſt, his Perſon and Coming, whom he intileth the Deſire of all Nations, according to other Scriptures, as alſo what in himſelf he is, and ſhould be unto all Believers. Jacob had before by the like Circumlocution deſcribed him to be that Perſon, to whom the gathering of the People ſhould be. The Septuagint tranſlates it the Expectation of the People, he being the Center of all their Deſires, and deareſt Affection, whom Kings and Prophets phets deſired to ſee. Luke 10. 24. or as Iſaiah 11. 10. To him ſhall the Gentiles ſeek, or as Chriſt out of Eſai of himſelf, In his Name ſhall the Gentiles truſt, it is the Periphraſis of the Meſſiah. Thus multitude of Places, the Land of Deſire, ſpeaking of Canaan, Zech. 7. 14. is put for a Land moſt pleaſant, and every one the Object of Deſire. Thus Things, or Perſons lovely, are termed deſirable, or Things of Deſire every where in the Prophets, and a Perſon moſt dear as a Wife, is called by Cicero, deſiderium meum, my Deſire, even as we now ſay, my Love, and as Chriſt is thus by Haggai enſtiled, the Deſire of all Nations, and to come as ſuch; in like manner Malachi (in a Correſpondency to this Prophecy) terms him the Lord, and Meſſenger of the Covenant, whom ye (ſpeaking to the Jews) ſeek and delight in, Mal. 3. 1. That which is our Happineſs or chiefeſt Good is the Object of Deſire when waited for, of Delight when enjoyed; and ſuch is Chriſt both to Jew and Gentile coming to be Lord of both. And the Harmony between the Propheſie of Malachi and Haggai is the more full, becauſe both propheſie, whilſt they ſpeak theſe things of his coming, and both Prophecy of his filling that Temple, then built, with Glory.

Now, 2. The Pertinency of the Apoſtle's ſingling out this Scripture thus, evidently meant of Chriſt is very obſervable; for it not only ſerves to prove in terminis the thing it ſelf, he would aſſert, namely, the ſhaking of both Earth and Heaven, when this Meſſiah ſhould come; but further, it ratifies alſo the Foundation of his very Compariſon here made, namely, that if God did ſo great Wonders at the giving the Law by Moſes, that he will do greater when the Meſſiah promiſed ſhould come. To this purpoſe obſerve how in the Words juſt before, the Prophet pointeth them to what Paul here, even to God, had done in Moſes his time for the People, as a Ground and Foundation of Inference, that he would now again, upon the approaching times of the Meſſiah do greater, Read v. 5. 6. 7. According to the word that I covenanted with you when ye came out of Egypt, ſo my Spirit remaineth among you: fear ye not. For thus ſaith the Lord of Hoſts, yet once, it is a little while, and I will ſhake the Heavens, and the Earth, and the Sea, and the dry Land. And I will ſhake all Nations, and the Deſire of all Nations ſhall come, and I will fill this Houſe with Glory, ſaith the Lord of Hoſts. As if he ſhould have ſaid, you know how greatly then for you, I ſhook the Earth. I ſhook Egypt afore I gave the Law, I ſhook the Earth at the giving the Law, and I ſhook all, and all the Nations round about you in caſting them forth for you, after I had given it. Now once more, I will a ſecond time begin, and go on to do greater things, and ſhake Heavens alſo, and the Sea, and dry Land, and all Nations, and ſhaking remove all in them that is made.

Now the Difficulties that are met with in this Text by them that have travelled through it, are eminently two.

1. Concerning the time which this Propheſie and Promiſe ſhould concern, [now he hath promiſed] or when it is this Promiſe, either was, or is to be performed, and in what Center of time, we may find Haggai his Intention, and Paul's Application hereof in this Epiſtle to this time, [Now] to meet and agree.
2. The ſecond is the Explication of theſe Heavens and Earth, and the ſhaking and removing of them, what theſe import.

Now for the firſt. There is no Controverſie as to the deſignment of this Time in the general, viz. that it being oppoſed to the time of giving the Law, therefore it ſhould note out ſome time under the Goſpel, for then is clearly oppoſed to now, whoſe Voice then ſhook the Earth; But now he hath promiſed, &c. So that ſome Part or Piece of Goſpel-time, in oppoſition to the time of the Law, ſhould be deſigned, is acknowledged by all hands. But the difficulty is, whether this (Now) of the Performance of this Promiſe, was only the time of the firſt giving forth the Goſpel (as the Then he ſhook the Earth, was) or upon, the firſt giving the Law; and ſo to deſign that time only, when Chriſt was on Earth, and his Apoſtles had begun to preach the Goſpel: And this ſo as with that time, all this ſhould end and determine, and with it the Commiſſion of Haggai's Propheſie, as extending to no further time. This

This some assert, observing, 1st. Haggai to speak evidently of Christ's first Coming, and of the Signs and Prodigies which were found to accompany his being on Earth, in shaking Heaven and Earth &c. of which hereafter. And, 2dly. they observe the great Change and shaking that fell out thereupon in the World, in giving forth the Gospel first by Christ, then succeeded by the Apostles, whereby the Gentile Nations were then converted, and Christ, the desire of all Nations, even the utmost blessing their Hearts to the utmost enlarged could desire, revealed to them, and so come amongst them. And, 3dly, they observe that among the Jews, to whom Haggai directed his Prophecy, there was a shaking and removal of that former Frame of Worship, &c. (or, as Paul to the Colossians expresseth it, a blotting out the Handwriting and nailing it to his Cross, and so taking it out of the way) set up by the Law of Moses; and instead thereof, that eternal Kingdom, the Kingdom of Heaven (as the Gospel, and the Doctrine, Worship, promises of it, are called) set up once for all. After which God will bring in no new nor further Doctrine or Worship. Hence therefore, it is judged by many, that the time of Haggai's Prophecy doth end and determine with this in a full and complete accomplishment: As also Paul's Scope here, his intent being (as they judge) in his Application hereof (he writing to the Jews about the change of the Jewish Worship, &c. which he had inculcated all along in this Epistle) to put a conclusion to this his Argument, which had been the subject of his Epistle: And to that end alledgeth last of all this Prophecy of Haggai's, as fore-telling this Change which they had seen upon Christ's coming, as no other than what was foretold by him should come to pass upon Christ's coming (who now spake to them from Heaven, as this alteration clearly evidenced) viz. a new Doctrine: Unto whom therefore, and his Doctrine, he most vehemently now at last exhorts them to attend.

Others observing (as they judge) Paul to step over the mention of Christ's coming, and to carry the Minds of those he wrote to, unto other shakings and removals of Heaven and Earth yet to come; they on the opposite side have restrained Paul's Scope and Intention, to the Change which is yet to be made upon the second coming of Christ; the Reasons for which I shall give anon: But then how to reconcile Paul and Haggai together is still the Difficulty: For if Paul carries it to the second coming, and yet Haggai's Prophecy, doth expresly intend the first coming: Or, if Haggai intends the first, how can Paul (who cited Scriptures pertinently, and so as might convince the Jews he wrote to) apply it to the second? especially as a Promise made in Haggai yet to be fulfilled.

I shall endeavour, as I am able, to search and give forth the full Intent and Scope both of Paul and Haggai in their utmost Latitude, and try if all these may not justly be reconciled by an amplitude of Interpretation of either. I shall begin with Paul's Scope first, and then with Haggai's, and so proceed to a Reconliation of them.

1. For Paul's Mind herein, I shall proceed by degrees;

As, 1. That his Now here, takes not in the Time of Christ's being in the Flesh only, but the Age of the Apostles, the present Time he spake this in, which is clear. For his Now refers to that Now of Christ's speaking from Heaven, ὁ λαλῶν, ver. 25. and therefore speaks of him, as being ascended to Heaven; and from thence now speaking to us on Earth; and it was now some Years from his Ascension, when he wrote this Epistle; he was not only come (as Haggai speaks) but gone again into Heaven; and he says not, refuse not him that hath spoken from Heaven; in respect that he being a Man from Heaven when on Earth, first gave the Gospel, but as one that now continues to speak from thence.

Then, 2d. the just Reason of this will carry Paul's Scope, not only to be fixed to that present Now or Age, but all along to the end of the World. For, 1st. by and for the same Reason alledged, that he did shake the Earth and the Heavens then in Paul's time, by and for the same Reason, he must be acknowledged to continue to do it in all Ages after: Now the Reason he attributes it unto then, was that he was then speaking from Heaven: And so his Voice then had this effect of shaking Heaven and Earth. Therefore by the same Reason, whilst from Heaven

Heaven he ſhall thus ſpeak to Men, he will continue to ſhake both Earth and Heaven during all that time: His Voice, whilſt he ſpeaks from Heaven, will ſhake Earth and Heaven. As even that Parallel of his ſhaking the Earth, when he gave the Law, ſerves alſo to perſuade. For look as whilſt the Law was a ſpeaking by the miniſtry of Angels, he is ſaid to ſpeak from Heaven, Exod. 20.22. and all that while his Voice continued to ſhake the Earth: So here, whilſt the Goſpel is diſpenſed by the Miniſtry of Apoſtles and Miniſters to ſucceed them, he is all that while ſaid to ſpeak from Heaven as well as at firſt; and during that time, he for a Sign and Token of the Power of it, continues more or leſs to ſhake Earth and Heaven: And therefore as he hath not ceaſed to ſpeak, nor doth to this Day, ſo, nor hath he ceaſed this ſhaking. And therefore 2dly. The Apoſtle ſpeaks in the Language of the preſent Time, σείω, I ſhake: That whereas of his ſhaking the Earth at his giving the Law he ſpeaks in the time paſt, whoſe Voice then ſhook the Earth; and whereas alſo the Prophet Haggai, as Prophecying of it had ſaid, I will ſhake, σείσω, (ſo the Septuagint) which Interpreters have obſerved, but not conſidered enough the Purport of it; yet of this he ſpeaks in the time being, σείω, I ſhake, I am a doing it now, when this was writing, and in that Age, and I ſtill ſhake whilſt I ſpeak. As therefore he then was and ſtill is a ſpeaking from Heaven and it is the Meſſiah's Voice we hear; ſo as he did then, he alſo doth ſtill ſhake, and will do to the end of the World, when he will come himſelf again, and by his own immediate Voice, elevated louder than ever; as a Man tranſact that great Affair of Judging and Convincing, all Men Face to Face, and together therewith ſhake and remove Heaven and Earth, once for all, even for everlaſting. As therefore the Exhortation the Apoſtle uſeth, refuſe not him that ſpeaks from Heaven, (which is founded upon this Motive: [For now he hath promiſed, ſaying, I ſhake Heaven and Earth]) muſt needs be acknowledged to take hold of us: So likewiſe this Motive or Foundation it ſelf, which that Exhortation is made upon, muſt be granted in like manner, to hold and continue in force together therewith; and therefore the performance of it, (which keeps it in force) continues ſo to this Day as well as then; yea, and as ſome obſerve from thoſe words, He hath promiſed, SAYING I ſhake, that word ſaying had reference to that of the 25th Verſe, him that ſpeaks, or to him ſpeaking, as particulariſing what among other things he is a ſaying and ſpeaking now from Heaven to us, to move us to attend to him: Even this of the Prophet [I ſhake, &c.] tho' ſaid by way of Prophecy afore, yet is now ſaid by himſelf from Heaven over again by way of renewed Promiſe and Performance. From Heaven he ſtill ſays, I am he that ſhake Heavens, &c. therefore hear him; or, as Paul, and therefore refuſe him not.

3. From thoſe words of St Paul, Now he hath promiſed; that is, from that Particular of it; that he calleth it a Promiſe, as yet to be performed, this Aſſertion is yet more and more argued; for he ſays not, which according to his Promiſe he hath performed, as he would have ſpoken, and was meet to have been ſaid if it had been fully accompliſh'd; but, as being a Matter ſtill under a Promiſe, which is always of things yet to come, as Faith and Hope are, and ſo yet to be performed. Paul ſays, he now hath promiſed, the Conſtellation of that Promiſe of Haggai (tho' in part performed) yet ſtill reigning, and in its Influences, not having the whole of thoſe Events (it portended) as yet come to paſs: And for this Paul giveth an inanſwerable Argument, That ſtill much of it muſt remain under Promiſe; for the main import of that word [yet once more] which Paul puts upon it, is to note out that the thing to be effected, was the removal of the things ſhaken, as well as ſhaking them: And this to the end to ſettle and eſtabliſh, things which cannot be ſhaken. Thus Paul expounded it, v. 27. And this word in the Prophet [yet once more] (ſays he) ſignifieth the removing of thoſe things that are ſhaken, as of things that are made; that thoſe things which cannot be ſhaken may remain. And therefore it is an undeniable Argument, that Paul's meaning was to hold forth (and that argued by him, out of the words of the Prophet himſelf) that that Promiſe, was not yet fully performed, but the main thing intended, namely, the removing work, remained yet to be done, and ſo under Promiſe.

For

For it is undeniable, that upon Christ's first coming, and being upon Earth, the Heavens or Earth then shaken by him, whether you would understand the Jewish Worship, expound it of what you will, what was shaken by him was not actually removed but continued still, though loose and made weak; and those that confine it to the first coming, and Christ's being on Earth, interpret the shaking the Heaven, &c. of those Signs in the Heavens, as eclipsing the Sun and Moon at his Passion, in the Sea, when the Winds were calmed by him, &c. But still I urge as Paul doth here, these were not removed then. The Sun is where, and as it was, &c. yea, though the Vail of the Temple was rent then, to shew that in his Death the Jewish Worship had its fatal Blow given it virtually by his Death; yet actually it was not removed till afterwards, nay, not till after Paul's Time and Death, and this Epistle written. And I further urge, that for the same reason, that according to Haggai's Prophesie, the Jewish Worship was to be removed, namely, because shaken by Christ at his Death; by the same reason, the Sun, and Moon, and Earth, &c. are to be removed, e're this Prophesie shall end; for these also were shaken then; and the Apostle tells us, that the Prophet intended the removing of those things, that are or were shaken; yea, and the shaking, or putting out of Course the Heavens and Sea, then, did signifie, that one day they were to be removed; yea, the word signifies the removing of things shakable (or as the Margent varies it, which may be shaken) that are capable of it; and the Apostle adds as of things that are made; so then whatever things are made and shakable, whether it be Jewish Worship, or these visible Heavens or Earth, made for a time, and begun to be shaken by Christ then to shew they were shakable, and but as it were artificial Stuff made by God for a time, or whatever else was or is to come in the World that is humane, or set up by Men made with Hands, is according to that Prophesie to be shaken and removed, and therefore it must still needs remain, as a Promise unperformed, in the main part of its Accomplishment.

Yea, and 4thly, it may, according to this, perhaps not be found wholly contrary to the Apostle's Scope, but congeniate thereunto to say, That in those words, But now he hath promised, saying, (they referring to him that speaks from Heaven, v. 25. as was said) Paul doth bring in our Lord Christ, as now since his being in Heaven, a new ratifying and saying over again, the same Promise which had been delivered by Haggai, as that which was to receive a more full and perfect Accomplishment. It is Christ whom Haggai brought in at the first speaking these words. For in Haggai the Prophesie runs thus, Thus saith the Lord of Hosts, I will shake, &c. It was this Son of God, the Lord of Hosts, who gave the Law (for his Voice then shook the Earth) and who also spake this there, and promised to come in Mans Nature, and become the Desire of all Nations, and who, as Paul, since his going to Heaven says, [Now hath promised] namely, again, himself now saying, and using those his own Words, which, in Haggai, he had afore uttered by a Prophesie foretelling it afore his first coming, only because he speaks them now when he had begun to perform it, he alters the Tense, and says, I shake; and then the Result is but this, that the Desire of all Nations coming according to Haggai's Prophesie, and shaking all Nations as he was a coming, and shaking Heaven and Earth, upon his being come on Earth; and he having whilst on Earth, and upon his first coming, but performed part of what was intended, and incompleatly: It became him now when gone to Heaven, having Apostles to utter his Mind by from Heaven, as infallibly as ever by Haggai he had done; it was but futable, I say, to declare and utter by Paul, as also by Peter in their Doctrine, that he from Heaven had ratified and confirmed that Promise afresh, and that in the same Words before delivered, especially there being so much of it yet behind; and so main and essential a Part thereof, yet left unpay'd, so that he renews his Bond for performance of what is behind, his former Bond in Haggai remaining uncancell'd till the whole should be fully paid in, and he only renews it for more Clearness and further Security.

And

And ſo there are according to theſe Two laſt, the Third and Fourth Poſitions: Two Senſes to be given that well ſtand together of theſe words, But now he hath promiſed, ſaying,

1. That now under the Goſpel, the time is come of which and concerning which he hath or had thus promiſed in Haggai, and this is correſpondent to the Third Poſition.

Or elſe, 2. The ſenſe of the words refers to the time of renewing again this Promiſe, that is, Now again he hath promiſed ſince he went to Heaven. The like Senſe we find, Heb. 1. 6. And again, when he bringeth in the Firſt Begotten into the World, he ſaith, &c. where the Word [again] may either be taken as referring to he ſaith, that is, again he ſaith, as a new Quotation added to Two that went afore, to prove Chriſt the Son of God, and very God; or it may be taken as referring to his bringing him into the World again.

And as congruous to this laſt Meaning given Ambroſe and Chryſoſtom's Gloſs upon this word [yet once more] may fitly be taken in; they ſuppoſing (as in this Explanation I do,) that Chriſt by his Apoſtles from Heaven now uttered this Promiſe after his Firſt Coming in the Fleſh: And if Chriſt be indeed thus brought in here by Paul after his being gone to Heaven, as renewing the Promiſe afreſh, and ſaying yet once more; then it neceſſarily points out a ſecond Performance yet under promiſe that ſhould end all, and once for all: As not having ſo throughly performed what Haggai had propheſied of at his being on Earth, and ſo withal it gives an account of the reaſon and neceſſity of renewing this Promiſe. For Paul in his recourſe to the words of Haggai, having proved the Promiſe to be as yet unfulfilled in a great part, (when in the 27th Verſe he urgeth, that [once more] in the Prophet's intention, to ſignifie the removing of thoſe things that were ſhaken;) therefore hence it was, that Chriſt had renewed or now again promiſed the ſame ſince his going to Heaven. That yet once more he would come and ſhake, ſo as to remove what he ſhook. Which was meet for him both now to promiſe, and hereafter to effect. And according to this intent, the words of the 26th Verſe are to be underſtood as a new Promiſe now given forth: Yet renewed and made in Haggai's words, both for the Analogy and Likeneſs of the things promiſed by the one and other to be done, as alſo becauſe he was now to do in effect but what Haggai alſo had promiſed ſhould be done by him. And, as conſpiring with this ſenſe, you may take in the word once more uſed in the 27th Verſe, to refer partly to the very words of Haggai, as a Proof that Haggai intended the ſame; and yet withal, that word is to be taken as an explanation of what this renewed Promiſe principally aimed at; as hath been explained.

Now in the Fifth place, That Paul here had in his Eye the Second Coming of Chriſt, or at leaſt that effect that ſhall accompany it, namely, that ſhaking Heaven and Earth then, is evident.

1. There is not until then a full removal of all that is made, and that is to be removed; and then, to be ſure, it will be done, finally and once for all: And whatever Removal elſe of any other Heavens or Earth can put in a Plea to have been intended, this which I alledge can and may plead the ſame Reaſon to have been intended: This hath a viſible Earth and Heaven reſerved for Chriſt, to ſhew his Power upon in the removal and change of them, 2 Pet. 3. 7. The Heavens and the Earth which are now, are kept in ſtore, reſerved unto Fire againſt the Day of Judgment, and Perdition of ungodly Men. And if any other Heavens and Earth come within the Verge of Paul's Reaſon here, why they were at any time removed, [as of things that are made,] (which is the Apoſtle's Reaſon; and he ſpeaks in the Language of Univerſality.) then all things whatever, one as well as another, that were alike, made to be removed at any time by God, do come within the compaſs of the ſame Premunire and Sentence, that any other Particular doth for a qua tenus ad omne valet conſequentia: And as it is an Univerſal Law againſt all Men: It is appointed for all Men once to die. So is this an Univerſal Judgment paſs'd upon all things, which the Word of God tells us, were made but to ſerve for a time one as well as another; and therefore takes hold of those Heavens and Earth, which the Word of God doth declare to us to be kept in store for the Fire, and to be in respect of the Condition they now are in, or Use they now serve for; but as a Stage or Masque-house, which when the Story of this World is ended, is to be removed.

And, 2. More particularly the Apostle's scope is clearly to work a Dread and Awe in the Hearts of those he wrote to, of this great Person that speaks from Heaven; as one that threatens, and will execute Vengeance on them that will refuse to hear him: Ver. 25. If they escaped not who refused him that spake on Earth, much more shall not we escape, if we turn away from him that speaketh from Heaven. And to edge and pursue this Exhortation thus mingled with Threatning, he alledgeth this Promise of shaking the Heavens and the Earth one Day parallel to that at the giving the Law: And concludeth it with this, For our God is a consuming Fire: Therein more eminently pointing at that Change and Removal of the Earth and Heavens, and the destruction of wicked Men at the latter Day. Even as Peter had also spoken; and comparing the Words, we have an Eviction in them; 2 Pet. 3. 7. But the Heavens and the Earth which are now, by the same Word are kept in store, reserved unto fire against the Day of Judgment and Perdition of Ungodly Men.

Neither, 3. Is there any other shaking the Heavens and the Earth which holds so fair and clear a Correspondency with that shaking the Earth by Christ, (which Paul here mentions as the Parallel of his shaking the Heavens intended by him,) which was at the giving the Law, as this of the latter doth; and may therefore be supposed more intended than any other: For then as at the 18th Verse of this Chapter, he came down with Fire and Smoke; The Mountain burned with Fire, and there was Blackness, Darkness, and Tempest; The Sound of a Trumpet, and the Voice of Words uttered by Angels, Chap. 2. 2. which they could not endure, Ver. 18, 19. So now there is parallel with it, his coming at latter Day, as to the Thessalonians in each Epistle Paul hath set it forth; 1 Thess. 4 6. The Lord himself from Heaven with a Shout, with the Voice of the Archangel and the Trumpet of God. And, 2 Thess. 1. 8 With his mighty Angels in flaming Fire, taking Vengeance on them that obey not the Gospel of God. And Paul speaks suitably, Heb. 12. 25. see you refuse not him that speaks from Heaven (obey his Gospel;) for if his Voice then shook the Earth thus, it will one day shake the Heavens, and he manifest himself a consuming Fire, rendring Vengeance unto such.

4. Add to this, that Peter having treated of this great Day, and burning Heaven and Earth by Fire, (as hath been cited, Chap 3. of his Epistle, from the 5th to the 15th:) He confirmeth the Doctrine of it, and his Exhortation thereon founded from the Testimony of Paul, who as he says, had in all his Epistles; but especially now in an Epistle written to the Jews, (which is this to the Hebrews, to whom also Peter the Apostle of the Circumcision, directed these of his, 1 Pet. 1 1. as is generally acknowledged;) inculcated the same. Now, where in all this Epistle to the Hebrews, can any Passages be singled forth, that hold so direct a Correspondency with those in Peter, as these words do? Both speaking so alike of the removing and burning Heaven and the Earth by the Power of Christ, who is a consuming Fire. So then, we have Peter's Testimony concurring with us in this Interpretation.

And thus much for Paul's more eminent Intention. I come to Haggai's.

It is in the Second Place as clear, That Haggai his Scope was, to fix the eyes of the Jews he wrote unto upon the first coming of Christ in the Flesh, and the signs and effects of that coming of his; both those which went afore, or accompanied his Presence on Earth, or followed presently after.

1. He must needs intend the First Coming of Christ in the Flesh, when he uttered that Promise Ver. 7. And I will shake all Nations, and the desire of all Nations shall come, and I will fill this House with Glory saith the Lord of Hosts: Not only because that was yet to come, in the Days of his Prophesie, and it was the first Coming that was to come between his Times and this Second Coming of Christ Christ; but because it was next and most in the eyes and expectations of himself and these Jews he spake to. And it was that Coming concerning which the promise of yet a little while was made, and must needs be supposed to have its first and immediate reference unto, put in for the relieving the impatiency of that Peoples Spirits who had waited so long. Whereas, had it only and immediately respected the Second Coming of Christ, it had not been yet a little while to them, but far larger, (as now in our days it is since Haggai's time,) than from their coming out of Egypt until then.

2. His scope argues it; which was to encourage them to finish the Second Temple, and to comfort themselves against the outward meanness of it, in comparison of the former built by Solomon. And he comforts them with this, That the Messiah himself should come into this second Temple; Ver 8, 9. The Silver is mine, and the Gold is mine, saith the Lord of Hosts. The glory of this latter House shall be greater than of the former, saith the Lord of Hosts: and in this place will I give Peace, saith the Lord of Hosts. He points to that material Temple then a building, as those words shew, ver. 8. and so his meaning is, Whereas the Temple of Solomon destroyed by the Babylonians, was in all outward respects far more glorious in Proportion, and was filled with a Glory from God at the Dedication of it: Know (says the Prophet) that a greater Glory shall in the end fill this: And Malachi utters the very same, He whom you delight in (their Messiah,) shall come into his Temple, Mal. 3. 1. (Where he so often preach'd and utter'd his Glory, John 18.20. Jesus answered him, I spake openly to the World, I ever taught in the Synagogue, and in the Temple, whither the Jews always resort, and in secret have I said nothing) And thus the Jews generally afore the Destruction of the Temple, understood the mind of this Prophesie to be, That that Temple should stand to the Coming of Messiah; but since, the Jews have sought Evasions, because, if granted, it is an undeniable Argument of our Christ being come in the Flesh.

3. The shaking of the Heavens and the Earth, Haggai himself interprets, Ver. 21, 22. of throwing down Kingdoms and Monarchies during that space or small remnant of Time left, as forerunning Signs that the King and Lord of all the World was a coming into it; Speak to Zerubbabel, Governour of Judah, saying, I will shake the Heavens and the Earth; And I will overthrow the Throne of Kingdoms, and I will destroy the Strength of the Kingdoms of the Heathen, and I will overthrow the Chariots, and those that ride in them, and the Horses and their Riders shall come down, every one by the Sword of his Brother. These Stirs began a little after Haggai's time throughout the Earth; and that the Prophet had those Confusions in all other Nations which were antecedaneous to Christ's First Coming in his Eye, is eminent by this, That for the comfort of the Jews, he tells them both, (Ver. 9.) That they in the mean time should have Peace, as in comparison of all other Nations they eminently had; as the Story of the Macchabees and of Josephus shew. And he says, That Zerubbabel and his Successors should be as a Signet, whom God would have a dear and special care to preserve (ver. 23.) in the midst of those general Commotions. Thus far Haggai's next and more immediate meaning doth reach.

4. The next thing is, To make the Reconciliation of these Two, Paul and Haggai. We must hold this fast as a most certain truth, That Paul here quotes that place of Haggai according to the true aim that the Holy Ghost intended; for he seting himself in this Epistle all along to prove what he asserts out of the Old Testament, his scope therein being to confirm the Jews he wrote to in the great Points of Christian Religion; They would expect (being many of them unsetled,) that the Proofs which he should alledge, should be punctual and convictive; and in that he so expresly termeth that shaking a Promise in his time, and yet to be fulfilled; it necessarily argues it so intended by the Holy Ghost, as a thing then promised and propheſied of by Haggai. For the reconciliation and demonstration thereof, I shall lay down these Four general Assertions.

1*ſt*. General Poſition is, That the ſcope of Haggai as well as Paul, is to comprehend and ſum up all the Proceedings and Tranſactions of Chriſt under the Goſpel throughout his whole Reign, in ſhaking and removing what is heterogeneal or oppoſite to his Kingdom, and advancing thereof to its perfect Glory. And this Poſition alone, if cleared, will ſufficiently reconcile both, and juſtifie Paul's Quotation as pertinent. I ſhall clear this Aſſertion in ſuch a manner as at once to prevent Objections, as well as eſtabliſh the truth of it by degrees.

1. I obſerve in Haggai Two Things diſtinctly propheſied of; the one, The Coming of Chriſt the Meſſiah; the other, I will ſhake the Heavens and the Earth, &c. and all Nations. And then take this along with you, to prevent a great miſtake, That the Holy Ghoſt's intention in his mention of the latter, is not only or barely of them as Signs and Tokens that ſhould fore-run or accompany that his coming. (The reſtraining it unto which alone, hath cauſed a narrowing of the Prophet's ſcope;) but it is withal to be underſtood as the great deſign and conſequent, or buſineſs of the coming of the Meſſiah as Lord of the World into the World. He ſpeaks of the Work which he ſhould effect, and came for, and is therefore one diſtinct part of this Prophecy, and as eminent as is the other of his coming. And to put ſuch an eminent Obſervancy of it, he mentions it firſt in order, I will ſhake, &c. and the deſire of all Nations ſhall come. Which order of the Words hath occaſioned ſome to confine this ſhaking to what paſſed afore Chriſt's coming, and ſo only to the fore running Signs thereof, which muſt be acknowledged, is to be taken into the Prophet's ſcope. But to the full comprehenſion of his meaning, or the Holy Ghoſt's rather, This ſhaking is to be underſtood of a great deſign God had, farther than Chriſt's firſt coming; and ſo to hold forth one great part of the Counſel of God towards this World, in the Changes and Alterations thereof, as the main Errand of the Meſſiah's coming. And indeed, even thoſe that moſt reſtrain it to the firſt coming of Chriſt, as Prodigies and Signs, &c. of it, do yet contradict themſelves in this that they interpret.

1. This ſhaking the Heavens not only of what went afore his coming, but of what alſo after his coming whilſt upon Earth. And,

2. That the ſhaking of all Nations, they interpret the Converſion of the Gentiles to the Chriſtian Faith, which was after to be Chriſt's being gone to Heaven. And ſo according even to their Interpretation, it is not to be underſtood in this ſenſe only of fore running Signs as to this ſenſe, I will do all theſe things afore, and then the deſire of all Nations ſhall come. And you may obſerve, that Paul here mentions not at all that part of the Prophecy of the Meſſiah's coming; nor did he cite it as a Proof or Evidence of the Meſſiah's being come, (though it ſerved moſt fitly thereto,) but takes that for granted, and chiefly ſingleth out that part of it which was the deſigned Work of his coming when come, as that which is to be the demonſtration of his Power and Glory, thereby to work a dread in the Hearts of thoſe he wrote unto, and all Men to whom the ſound thereof ſhould come: How great a Perſon he was that now ſpake from Heaven, evidenced from the greatneſs of the Work which was the deſign of his coming, even to ſhake and remove the Heavens, and Earth it ſelf, as was here propheſied of him; and who therefore would be to the refuſers of him, a conſuming Fire.

2. The word once more, or yet once, is, in the Prophet, not to be joined, or put in conſtruction with this part of the Prophecy, The deſire of all Nations ſhall come, as to this ſenſe, that yet once, and he ſhall come, and come but once. That were an evident Falſhood to have been ſpoken in Haggai's days; for Meſſiah had in the days of his Prophecy, both a firſt and ſecond coming; as in diſtinction from the firſt, it is call'd Chap. 9. 28. You may therefore obſerve the Apoſtle applying and conjoining the word once more only unto this other part; Yet once more, and I will ſhake Heaven and Earth, leaving that other Particle [it is a little while,] to be applyed to that other of his coming by the Prophet ſpoken of, taking and urging this yet once as properly belonging to his work of ſhaking. And,

3. As this word yet once, is to be underſtood as relating to this Work or Buſineſs to be done; ſo it was put in to ſignifie and import the through and effectual performance of that Work, as the greateſt and laſt that God hath a purpoſe pose to do; that it shall not cease when begun, till he hath throughly shaken, and removed, and setled once for ever that which shall never be shaken, and so, that it is the utmost and last that shall be done. God hath but this one Work to do, to remove all that is made, and to set up a Kingdom which cannot be moved: So that the Expression once, imports, he will make but one work of it. And in this sense, Paul urgeth the import and signification of the word [yet once more.] And this also discovers another mistake that diverts the interpretation; for the word once sounds (at the first hearing of it) as if it noted out only some point of one Time, wherein all that is to be done, shall be at once done, or mainly some one special instant of Time allotted for what is to be done, and that done in a trice (as we say) once, so as not to be done again a second time. But if it be so understood, it cannot be applied to that part of the Prophecy concerning the coming of Christ; for so it were a manifest Falshood; and to say in that sense, he shall once come, were a contradiction to that which Haggai asserts, That he should come not only a first but a second time. But to apply it to this work of shaking and removing all things; as noting forth the through and effectual doing of it, a doing it to purpose: This sense will admit a continuation of that Work for a long while; yea, and therein a reiteration of doing the same thing towards it again and again, (when but imperfectly at first,) until it be done throughly and to purpose, and hath attained its full intended Perfection at last. A Man may be said to intend to write but one Book or Treatise once for all, and after it no other (as the utmost Sum of his Thoughts,) and yet be a writing it by Pieces for many Years, yea, over and over, till he hath compleated and perfected it. So here to say, yet once more I will shake so as to remove, and then no more, will bear and admit a shaking, and shaking again over and over; first, one piece or part of an old Building suppose, and then another, till he hath perfectly renewed it, and set up another once for all in the room thereof. For all is but one and the same work, though necessarily reiterated until perfected; and that Perfection at last is the once that was intended: Or look as that may be said, to be but one Earthquake, which continuing for many days, hath yet many throbs and shakes down first one House, then another: Or, that travel but one Birth that yet hath many Throws: So here the word yet once more, will without any such contradiction, admit and take into its comprehension the whole Work of Christ's shaking and removing, from first to last; and every part and parcel thereof, as belonging and appertaining to all and every Piece thereof, unto one perfect compleat Work, which when done is done once for ever. Now then, to restrain it unto those first Times of the Gospel, and the shakings that then accompanied Christ's first Coming, is to restrain it from the attainment of its full End, and limit it unto what is imperfect, and but the least Piece of this Work. So then, though this word yet once being applied unto Christ's Coming, or to those words, The desire of all Nations shall come, would exclude a second Coming; yet being thus understood and applied (as it ought,) to the work and business it self, as the intent of his Coming, then it will also admit a first and second Coming, or a third, (if a third were to come,) and all of them prophecied of, when as all of them are in order to effect and complete the business that is at length to be fully done.

4. I observe, the Apostle doth indeed draw and interpret Haggai's shaking Heavens and Earth, &c. to this, That God's great design and τὸ ἔργον, or that one work (as we say,) is to remove what is made, divers from, or not belonging to a Kingdom, which he means to set up as his utmost Master-piece, once for all; and then he hath done for ever, and will do no more. This is express'd, Ver. 27, 28. And this word, Yet once more, signifieth the removing of those things that are shaken, as of things that are made, that those things which cannot be shaken may remain. Wherefore we receiving a Kingdom which cannot be moved, let us have Grace whereby we may serve God acceptably. It is evident by the contexture of Paul's Speech, That he doth collect or infer from this Prophetick Speech of Haggai this Kingdom of Christ, which cannot be moved as intended and propheſied of by Haggai, as well as the removal of things that were made to be Preludiums or Anti-masques to it. That same Wherefore, Ver. 28. sounds forth this a Reference to, with an Inference from the Prophet's Speech; he ſtrongly inforcing both from that one word of the Prophet, yet once more: For as Beza gloſſeth on it from the word yet, עוד, he infers the movable condition of all other things that are not ingredients, into Chriſt's Kingdom: And from the word once more, (as we uſe to ſpeak,) he argues ſomething that ſhall ſucceed it, and be in the room of it when the other is removed that ſhall remain, and ſo ſhall become a work of God's once for ever: And both theſe (I ſay) equally and alike are inferr'd from the Prophet's words.

Now there is nothing more conſonant to Reaſon, than that the Prophet's ſcope ſhould be to propheſie of Chriſt's Kingdom, under thoſe Expreſſions of ſhaking Heaven and Earth, &c. as ſignifying thereby the removal and throwing down all high and potent Oppoſitions thereunto, or poſſeſſing the room thereof. Yea, and it became him as well to inſert the Prophecy of this, then when he ſpake of his coming in the Fleſh, as conjoined therewith, and the deſigned work thereof. For,

1. The ſetting up this immovable Kingdom of Chriſt, was the iſſue and mark of all the Prophets that have been ſince the World began, as old Zachary in his Song tells us. Of which David ſpeaks, (upon whoſe Throne he knew Meſſiah was to ſit, Acts 2. 30.) and others alſo in many Pſalms, Pſal. 82. and 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, &c. And Daniel alſo ſpeaks to the ſame purpoſe, Dan. 8, 2, 44. and Chap. 7. 9, 27. In all which (when you read) you will find the throwing down of all other Kingdoms and worldly Excellencies that have or ſhould have never ſo firm a rooting in the World, are ſtill propheſied of in order to the erecting this Kingdom of Chriſt: And ſo whilſt many of the Prophets propheſied of the one, they neceſſarily intended the other. To expreſs this out of Daniel once for all, Chap. 2. 44, 45. The God of Heaven ſhall ſet up a Kingdom which ſhall never be deſtroyed, but it ſhall break in pieces the Iron, the Braſs, the Clay, and the Gold, and conſume all theſe Kingdoms, and it ſhall ſtand for ever. Or, if you will have it in the Pſalmiſt's words (reiterated again and again,) ſounding nearer to the Apoſtles here, The Lord reigneth, the World alſo (that new World he brings in) ſhall be eſtabliſhed, that it ſhall not be moved. Now then Haggai propheſying, though under another Metaphor, namely the ſhaking of the Heavens and Earth, the Sea and the dry Land; (which Phraſes, how they ſerve to expreſs the removing all theſe, or whatever elſe can be ſuppoſed made, or heterogeneal to it, I ſhall hereafter ſhew.) The Prophet doing this together and with the ſame Breath when he propheſies of Meſſiah's coming; this muſt needs be acknowledged with the reſt of its fellow Prophecies, to point at and intend the bringing in the Kingdom of Chriſt, where, in order to the erection of it, he foretels the removing of all elſe, even from the heights above to the depths below; all elſe that poſſeſſed the room of it; eſpecially, conſidering that the erecting this Kingdom is made by all the holy Prophets and Apoſtles, the End, or Errand, or Buſineſs of Chriſt's coming into the World, whereof together with it, this our Prophet here ſpeaketh. And further,

2. He that ſhall duly weigh the Prophet's inſerting this Royal Title of his, The deſire of all Nations, whilſt he propheſies this of him, that he ſhould ſhake all Nations, may perhaps eaſily be perſuaded to judge this to be the moſt genuine and natural import thereof; even propheſically to ſhew what he ſhould be unto all Nations when ſhaken and converted to him, even their Lord and King: Then, when he hath by ſhaking all Nations, converted them, and brought them under his ſubjection, and ſo taken, the words are found expreſly to propheſie of this his Kingdom to be ſet over all Nations, and not over the Jews only: For we all know, that deſire to another (which is all one, as to call that other ones deſire,) is put to expreſs ſubjection to him as a Lord or Superior; that of the Wife to the Husband: Thy deſire ſhall be to thy Husband, which is explained, And he ſhall rule over thee, Gen. 3. 16. And again, Chap. 4. 7. the ſubjection of Abel as the younger Brother (by the Law of Nature then,) is likewiſe thus expreſſed, Unto thee (ſpeaking to Cain,) ſhall be his deſire, and thou ſhalt rule over him. And more pertinently in the ſame Language did Samuel propheſie to Saul, That he ſhould be choſen, and ſet up as King by all the Tribes of Iſrael; he thus thus expresseth it, On whom is all the desire of Israel? is it not on thee? 1 Sam. 9. 20. It is as much as to say, that their desire is to make thee their King and Ruler. And thus Haggai here says of all the Nations of the World receiving Christ for their King, The desire of all Nations shall come, and shake all Nations; so expresly prophesying of his Kingdom, and converting all Nations to him, and removing what is opposite to that his Kingdom among them.

Now from hence in the Fifth place, it will easily follow, That this Work and Design is such as the Proceedings of it do take up and run along through the whole time of the New Testament, the space of Christ's Reign, and is not to be limited to any one Particular, as the removal of Moses's Law, or the like. Yea and indeed, that was the Prophet's intendment, to include all as well as any one: Both which are evident, if we consider,

1. That the whole time of the New Testament is allotted to this Work, that is, the removal of what is opposite, and the advancement of his Kingdom: Christ hath both set that whole time to effect it in, and is continually a doing of it one way or other; He must reign (that is, continue to reign, having then begun to reign,) until he hath put all things under his Feet, and subdued all things under him; which therefore, while he reigns, he goes on to do Age after Age. And though some one Age may bring forth a full Birth of some eminent shaking of what had been long and fixedly rooted in the World before, yet the occurrence of those many Ages afore, had wrought together to the ripening of it; and when some one such Piece is compleated, then a new design is set on foot to shake some other thing that riseth up, or which was left in opposition to his Kingdom one way or other, so as this Work is perpetrated throughout that whole time. And this agrees with Daniel's Prophecy, which, as you heard in the Matter propheſied of, agrees with Haggai;) who sets out the whole time of the New Testament, as the space allotted for this Work; whilst he foretelleth, that in the days of the Fourth Monarchy a Kingdom should be set up, which, after the setting it up, should by degrees break in pieces all those Kingdoms, to advance its own Throne and Dominion for ever. Dan. 2. 44. And in the days of these Kings shall the God of Heaven set up a Kingdom, which shall never be destroyed: and the Kingdom shall not be left to other People, but it shall break in pieces, and consume all these Kingdoms, and it shall stand for ever: So that all the time, from the days when it first began (which was upon Christ's first coming and ascending to Heaven in the Days of the Roman Empire,) to its attainment of the full sole Dominion, is allotted for the breaking in pieces, or in Haggai's Phrase shaking, in Paul's, removing and subduing all things else that stand in the way of it. And because this Kingdom was, when Paul wrote this, in existence, and actually begun; therefore Paul said, de præsenti, we receiving a Kingdom which must shake and remove all things else. And thus Paul's [now,] Haggai's [yet once more,] Daniel's [days of the Kingdoms of this World,] are one and the same space of time set out, though a long one for this great work of shaking, that was to continue during that time. And,

2. It will hence follow, That Haggai thus propheſying of the Work of Christ's Reign and Kingdom, must be understood to have intended all such shakings, one as well as another that are in order thereunto; for the same reason, why any one shaking of one sort or kind, in order to advance Christ's Kingdom, should, and doth hold as well, and carry us on to any and to all other that tend alike to the same End. For though the things shaken may be divers, yet the work of shaking them is all of one and the same sort. But especially, because Haggai by his shaking, manifestly intended a removal, and a through removal of all as of one work, once for all, therefore no other than the total removal of all things, and so of one as well as another, though one after another, must be alike, intended by him. His once more extends it self to all that Christ himself (in whose Name he spake,) intended to do of this kind of work. I will do it once, that is, throughly, and so rest and cease from all such kind of work for ever. Now therefore, whoever should confine the Prophet's Aim and Speech to any one kind of shaking, in some one Age, (as suppose, that of the Jewish Fabrick in the Primitive Times,) when yet Christ had designed divers as great Works of removal moval of other Things afterwards; would thereby, though unwarily, make the Prophet to ſpeak an untruth: For after he had in Chriſt's Name ſaid, once more I ſhake, and but once more I will ſhake, and then no more, but end and ceaſe that kind of work, as that Word once imports; and Chriſt ſhould yet afterwards ſhake other things as great, yea greater than the firſt that were ſhaken, even the Goſpel Worſhip, and Adminiſtrations themſelves, that came in the room of the Jewiſh by Chriſt's Inſtitution, and laſt of all theſe Heavens and Earth; this would be untrue. Therefore this word once more, being thus put in, ſignifies both a total removal and a through ſhaking, as one entire complete work of all but Chriſt's Kingdom, and what in it was for ever to remain. Hence therefore neceſſarily it muſt take into the compaſs of it, all and every ſhaking of Chriſt's in their Succeſſions in After-Ages from firſt to laſt, and bind and graſp them all into one Bundle. For if any were left out, and were after to be done, Haggai's once more having put a period to that kind of work, had precluded and fore-ſpoken their being never to be done: For why, God had by the Prophet ſet his Finis to that ſort of work, and engaged himſelf hereby to do no more the like. On the other ſide, Whilſt any one piece of this work were yet left to be done, it might not only be ſaid, The whole work was imperfect, but that Haggai's Prophecy was not yet fulfilled and accompliſh'd; for he prophecied of a full, final, and total Removal, in ſaying, but once more I will ſhake, and yet ſtill ſomething was left, and remain'd behind; it muſt neceſſarily therefore take in all.

4. This will more clearly appear, if we bring all or any ſuch particular inſtances of ſhakings, which any have gone about to determine the date of this Prophecy withal, and to circumſcribe its meaning in the Circle of it, to a due Tryal and Examination. The iſſue of which Tryal will be found this, That no Man will know where rationally to fix the non ultra of it in any particular Accompliſhments, and to ſtay the Waves of it, but ſo as the like Reaſon will break in upon him, and carry him on to take in ſtill more and more to the end of the World; or elſe ſome defect, or abſurdity, or other, will appear in ſuch a Confinement: Which will appear by bringing each in their order to their Tryal, and let them each put in their Plea.

1. Will any pitch upon theſe great Alterations in States and Kingdoms (which did fore-run his Coming, and took up the ſpace between Haggai's and Chriſt's time,) and thoſe Prodigies in the Heavens, which are uſually cited by Interpreters, that fell out before Chriſt? If he will therewith ſhut up the extent of the Prophecy, he will not only, 1. Much eclipſe the ſpreading glorious Beams of this Prophecy, but, 2. Exclude thereby theſe Prodigies and Miracles in the Heavens and the Earth, that were wrought when Chriſt was in the Fleſh, and afore he went to Heaven. And,

2. Thoſe that will further extend it to that date of Chriſt's Aſcenſion, and ſo take in the Signs that accompany his being come, as well as thoſe that fore-went it, ſtill will find they leave out that glorious ſhaking of all in the Converſion of the Gentiles and Nations, which Haggai here, and all the Prophets ſpake of; and which is the greateſt Evidence that Chriſt is not come only, but is aſcended, and hath erected that Kingdom in all Nations which ſhall never be removed. For Chriſt was but new gone to Heaven, the Apoſtles found the Houſe at Hieruſalem only ſhaking under them, and Three thouſand converted; when as afterwards the whole World was. He, upon his Aſcenſion, receiving all Power in Heaven and Earth to ſhake both; thereupon the gathering of the People was to him, and all Nations began to deſire him, and ſtand aſtoniſh'd at him. And ſo therewith we muſt admit the Alterations of the Primitive Times, wherein Paul and other Apoſtles ſaw this effected, and ſo Paul's now, to be that preſent Age. And,

3. Having gone ſo far, we ſhall be tolled on to comprehend in the aim of the Prophecy, that great and eminent Change above all other of Moſes his Ceremonial Law, which the Apoſtle ſo much inculcates in this Epiſtle; That with the Change of the High Prieſt, there muſt needs be a Change of the Law; and and herewith moſt Interpreters do bound it, as having received a fair and full accompliſhment; This Change being, as they alledge, but once for all. For the Goſpel or Kingdom of Heaven that comes in the room of it, is an everlaſting Goſpel: And the Word we preach to you, ſaith Peter, abides for ever. This Change indeed, becauſe it fell out firſt, Interpreters have reſted on, and thought it enough, yet to ſet up the Reſt here, and ſtretch it no further, is evidently ſhort and defective, and hath its Abſurdities. For,

1. In this very Compariſon which the Apoſtle here uſeth, Moſes his Law-Worſhip, &c. doth bear but the proportion of the Earth; and therefore Moſes is ſaid to ſpeak on Earth, (ver. 25.) in compariſon of what Chriſt brought in; the Ordinances, Inſtitutions, and Adminiſtrations of which, are call'd heavenly in oppoſition to them, (Heb. 9. 23.) as being given by him that was from Heaven. Now the Change that Paul brings the Prophet to foretel, is expreſly ſaid to be not only the removal of the Earth, but of the Heavens alſo. And ſo the Prophet's ſcope, is not accompliſh'd in the Abolition of the Jewiſh, but even the heavenly Ordinances which had been brought in in their ſtead, muſt one day be removed by virtue of it; and to fulfil it, the Sun, and the Moon, and the Stars, the Ordinances that rule and govern the Times of the Goſpel, muſt alſo be ſhaken and diſſolved; ſo as that Change of the Jewiſh State is but a mean and a low one, in compariſon of what Haggai meant and intended. Yea, and the Goſpel Ordinances being removed as well as the Jewiſh was, Prophecy is to ceaſe; the Lord's Supper, &c. to continue but till Chriſt comes. Nor Paul nor Haggai could have ſaid, that God would ſhake but once, and mean the Jewiſh Earth only; when after that theſe Heavens were to be removed alſo, he thereby endeavouring to reach the higheſt and utmoſt Change whatever that could or ever ſhould be. And,

2. Though the Jewiſh Fabrick was in Paul's time ſhaken, when he wrote this, yet it was not removed till after: For the Temple Worſhip ſtood ſome Years after this Epiſtle. And the Apoſtle ſpeaks of a removal of what is ſhaken, not a ſhaking only; and ſo the Prophet alſo: And ſo it muſt yet be ſtretched to the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem after the Apoſtle's Death. And if intended thus of the Moſaical Rites, then as yet it is not fully accompliſh'd. For the Jews to this day, ſtick to and uphold thoſe Obſervations of the Ceremonial Law, even all which their Exile out of their Country will permit them. And our Apoſtle tells us, that Moſes's Vail is ſtill upon their Hearts; but when converted, it ſhall be taken away, (2 Cor. 3.) ſo as it may truly be ſaid, That it is removed, (as here:) And therefore till then, there is not (no not in that reſpect,) a full accompliſhment of Haggai's Prochecy ſo underſtood. So then, ſtill we are under this Promiſe unto the Jews Converſion; and the Prophet's Intention having gone theſe many miles with us, we may eaſily perſuade our ſelves it will go throughout to the World's end, and reach the Day of Judgment, as by this invincible reaſon it doth. For till then the Ordinances of Heaven, the Goſpel Inſtitutions, will not be removed.

3. And it having ſtretch'd its Line over all Time to ſuch Changes yet to come, we may as well encloſe within the compaſs of it all other Alterations of Religions, falſe and ſuppoſititious, that are and have been found in the World during all this ſpace of Time, or ſhall fall out; and bring them in to pay Contribution unto Haggai's Prophecy; as that change of the whole Roman World from Heatheniſh Religion to embrace Chriſtianty, and from Popiſh Idolatry to the Purity of Worſhip, and the Alterations of States and Kingdoms together herewith; and all theſe may be inferr'd by as good Warrant out of the Prophet as that Change made of the Jewiſh Religion and Kingdom; not only becauſe theſe are all in Scripture Language denominated Heavens and Earth as well as any of the former: But further, becauſe,

1. The ſhaking which Haggai propheſied of, was a ſhaking in all Nations; and ſo is not only, much leſs principally meant of the Jews or Jews Religion only, whoſe Law was given only unto that Nation and not the Gentiles, though converted unto Chriſt: It imports therefore, that Chriſt would make ſome work in all Nations as he did in the Jewiſh: That look what was done to the Green Tree of the Jewiſh Religion, &c. ſhould be done to the drie; the ſame elſe where. And,

2. It is not a ſhaking of Perſons only in Converſion, but of things that are to be removed, they are the Subjects of this Abolition, which is evident from the interpreting it of that judicial Remove, which was not only effected by the Converſion of many of that Nation to Chriſt, which was but common to them with all other Nations; but chiefly it is to be underſtood of the Abolition of the Temple Sacrifices, &c. And by the like proportion of Reaſon, (this being a ſhaking of all Nations, not the Jewiſh only, as that which is more expreſly and literally ſpoken than that of the Jews,) the ſhaking and removal of all things in all Nations, and not of the Converſion only of Perſons in all Nations that are oppoſite to, or poſſeſs the Room of Chriſt's Kingdom, will come in to have been intended, and as eminently. And therefore,

3. The Apoſtle interprets it of the ſhaking all things made, not Perſons only, as the principal Subjects of this Vengeance. And there are and have been in all Nations, things made, and ſo made to be deſtroyed: All things that are human in Religion, whether falſe Religions themſelves, or what is Superſtition in the true, comes under the ſame præmunire of Haggai's Prophecy, that the Jewiſh Religion did, and by juſter Sentence, for that had a better Plea for it ſelf, having been made by God; and to be ſure, they are much rather to be removed than the Ordinances of the Goſpel which were made by Chriſt himſelf, which yet muſt ſubmit to this general Law, and ſuffer this Fall in the end, by virtue of this Writ of Prophecy that comes to us by Haggai's Commiſſion. And,

4. If it be thus extended to Changes in Religion in all Nations, divers from the Goſpel, and removing all ſuch things that ſtand in a nearer competition with the things belonging to Chriſt s Kingdoms, then truly we may without much difficulty, be perſuaded to take in all the Alterations, Shakings, and Removals, Civil, that have been in States for Religion ſake, and in the quarrel of Chriſt and his Truth, which have at any time ſince fallen out in the World. For,

1. If thoſe Alterations in Kingdoms which fore-ran the coming of Chriſt, as Signs of it, are taken in by Haggai, and ſo interpreted by Haggai himſelf, ver. 20. of this Chapter, (of which more anon;) then much more theſe Commotions in all Nations that have followed upon his going to Heaven, (ſeeing thoſe in Religion ſince Chriſt's Aſcenſion are entertained into it,) not only becauſe they are of the ſame rank and ſort, and ſo may as aptly come into this Catalogue and Account, as their Fellows afore Chriſt did; but further, becauſe theſe are proper and immediate effects of his being come; yea, demonſtrations and puttings forth of his Power and Rule that was given when he went to Heaven: Whereas thoſe other were but Signs of his coming to come, and ſo Warnings to the World, that when he ſhould come, he would do the ſame, and far greater. And,

2. The Powers and Dominions in all, are and have been the great upholders of thoſe things in Religion that were made to be deſtroyed; and ſo having ſtill caſt their Lott with them, will alike periſh together: Yea, the Powers of this World have been the great oppoſers of the intereſt of Chriſt in all Ages; and are therefore more particularly ſet out as Chriſt's Mark to remove and ſubdue; He muſt rule till he hath put down all Rule and Dominion. And,

3. The Jewiſh State: The Scepter or Government of it, was broken, as well as their Religion abrogated; and ſo ſhall all other, ſo far as they ſtick to what is falſe. And,

4. States and Kingdoms, and the Governments, and Powers, and Ranks in them, are as ordinarily ſet forth by this Metaphor of Heaven and Earth, and the Changes therein, by the ſhaking of Heaven or Earth, as any other: And the ſhaking of all Conditions of Perſons in them, when oppoſite to the Goſpel, is more properly a ſhaking the Nations themſelves (which is the Letter of the Prophecy,) than any other Accompliſhment.

5. By

5. By the Conduct of these Threads that have carried us to this length of Time, the end of the World, to this extent of things, to all that is made in Religion, to all Powers that oppose and stand in the way of Christ's Kingdom, we may now be brought to think, that nothing is to be left out of the reach of Haggai's Net, but that it is cast over all that is any way or ever to to be removed, and so throw this Line of Desolation over the visible Heaven and Earth we see, which we know one Day will be removed.

6. and Lastly, We may also think the last Days of the Gospel the special Times intended for the perfecting these Works of Christ. For,

1*st*, Though it be true that Haggai doth explicitly in his words and intendment, fix his Eye upon that first Coming of Christ in the Flesh, as that which he eminently points, A little while and the desire of all Nations shall come; yet this hinders not, but that his intendment was to propheſie of that Kingdom, he should come to set up in shaking all Nations, and removing in all Nations what was opposite thereto, during his whole Reign.

For all and every of such Changes he should make from his first coming to the end, were alike the end of that his Coming and taking Man's Nature, and their Original, their Motion and Influence were from thence: This was the Spring did from that time set all the Wheels a going which have never since ceased; Wheel moving within Wheel, (as Ezekiel) until this Engine brought then into the World, hath forced down all the old Frame of things whatever, and set up a new, which Work hath in every Age gone on more secretly or openly to this day. And therefore it were derogatory to the Honour of Christ, to limit the Prophet's intent unto the Occurrences that fell out at his first Coming, or in that Age: And if there had been no other dependence between this great Design and his First Coming, than simply, that the putting it in execution beareth Date from thence, and it had its rise and beginning therefrom, it were sufficient reason that First Coming alone should be so eminently mentioned above any other, though the whole of what followed thereon were intended: But further, it was causal, and set it all a-foot. Nor was it needful in that respect explicitly to mention his Second Coming, though that should be for the compleat Accomplishment of the Work. Besides,

2. No wonder if the Prophet in his Times, Primarily and in the First Place, and explicitly did foretel his First Coming, because the time he lived in was that in which the Jews had their eminent, and in some respect, their only Expectation of the promised Messiah; The next great thing to be done, which their Eyes and Hearts were intent upon. And it is as little a wonder, if the Apostle in his time (after that coming was past,) carries on the Eyes and Hearts of these Jews he wrote to, to all that yet remained, to be accomplish'd of this Work, and was yet behind, (whereof the greatest part by far was to come,) and more especially to a Second Coming, which should accomplish it; which brings me to the Second Part of this Assoilment or Reconciliation of Haggai and Paul to be added to the former, to make the answer full: Namely, that one and the same Prophecy hath often such a comprehensiveness in it, as it may involve and take into it self many Accomplishments, and so be fulfilled over and over. Instances of this in Scriptures, we find many: That Voice in Ramah of Rachel weeping for her Children, which were Ephraim and Benjamin, Jer. 31. 15. foretold the Destruction of some, and leading others into the Captivity of Babylon; from whence the Promise is, They should be brought again into their own Border, and was then fulfilled: And yet this was verified in the Slaughter of those Infants in and about Bethlehem, by Herod in our Saviour's time, where Rachel was buried. Yea, and there shall be a like ground for this Lamentation a third time at the calling of the Jews, which is yet to come; for even unto that doth the Promise made then, reach. If Rachel were now alive, she could not but lament for her Son Ephraim and all his Posterity as utterly lost; for they themselves know not themselves, nor none other in the World where the Ten Tribes are, or what Nation they are. She would cry out, Ephraim is not, he is a lost Child; yet they shall be converted, and own'd by God for his pleasant Child: There is hope, ſays God, in thine end, ſpeaking of the latter Day; Thy Sons ſhall come into their former border, ver. 17, 18, 19, 20. Thus the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem propheſied of by Iſaiah, Chap. 29. from ver. 1. to the 13th, for the Cauſe there ſpecified, ver. 13, 14. Foraſmuch as this People draw near me with their Mouth, and with their Lips do honour me, but have removed their Heart far from me, and their Fear towards me is taught by the Precept of Men: Therefore, behold, I will proceed to do a marvellous Work among this People, even a marvellous Work and a Wonder; for the Wiſdom of their Wiſe Men ſhall periſh, and the Underſtanding of their Prudent Men ſhall be hid; is applied by Chriſt, as a Propheſie of the like Superſtitions, and Temper of the Jews Spirit in his time: So as the Cauſe of that Second Deſtruction of Jeruſalem that followed by Titus, Matth. 15. 7, 8. Ye Hypocrites, well did Eſaias propheſie of you, ſaying, This People draweth nigh unto me with their Mouth and honoureth me with their Lips; but their Heart is far from me. Both which Deſtructions of that City, did (God's Providence thereby ſhewing the Parallel that held between them,) as Joſephus records, fall out on the ſame day of the Month. Thus alſo that Prophecy of Jeremy, Chap. 16. v. 14, 15. and Chap. 23. v. 8. Behold, the Days come that it ſhall be no more ſaid, The Lord liveth that brought up the Children of Iſrael out of the Land of Egypt, but the Lord liveth that brought up the Children of Iſrael from the Land of the North, and from all the Lands whither he had driven them, and I will bring them again into their Land that I gave unto their Fathers. This was manifeſtly intended of, and fulfilled in their Deliverance out of Babylon; and as manifeſtly the ſame is intended of their Converſion and Deliverance yet to come in the Days of the Goſpel out of all Lands, as Chap. 23. v. 6, 7, 8. where the ſame Prophecy is in the ſame words repeated, and there undeniably applyed to the Times of Chriſt, and remains yet to be fulfilled: In his Days Judah ſhall be ſaved, and Iſrael ſhall dwell ſafely: And this is his Name whereby he ſhall be called, The Lord our RIGHTEOUSNESS. Therefore, behold, the days come, ſaith the Lord, that they ſhall no more ſay, The Lord liveth, which brought up the Children of Iſrael out of Egypt: But the Lord liveth which brought up, and which led the Seed of the Houſe of Iſrael out of the North Country, and from all Countries whither I had driven them, and they ſhall dwell in their own Land. I ſay it to be fulfilled (to uſe Iſaiah's words,) a ſecond time, Iſ. 11. 11. To inſtance in no more Examples foreign to the thing in hand, but in ſuch as are more parallel unto that which in Haggai we have in hand, (it being a Prophecy of Chriſt's Coming as a Redeemer,) as this alſo is: There is none that reads thoſe words, Iſa. 59. 20. And the Redeemer ſhall come to Zion, and unto them that turn from Tranſgreſſion in Jacob, ſaith the Lord, but will preſently have his Eyes upon Chriſt's Firſt Coming in the Fleſh to preach unto the Jews, which he did; eſpecially, if he ſhall withal read Peter's Sermon to the Jews of that Age, ſpeaking in the very words of that Prophecy, Acts 3. 26. God hath ſent Jeſus to bleſs you, by turning every one of you from his Iniquities. Yea, and Jeremy certainly, and the Jews in his days, had this Firſt Coming of the Meſſiah in their Eye, and perhaps it only; and yet the Holy Ghoſt in penning this, had a further Eye upon his coming to them, as a Redeemer to convert them in the laſt Days. Therefore Paul guided by that Spirit, is bold to apply this as a Proof of Chriſt's coming in his Spirit, (or perhaps viſible Appearance, ſuch as made to himſelf when converted to Chriſt,) to convert the Nation of the Jews, after their rejection under theſe Times of the Goſpel which is yet to come; Rom. 11. v. 26. All Iſrael ſhall be ſaved, as it is written, There ſhall come out of Sion the Deliverer, and ſhall turn away Ungodlineſs from Jacob.

And why ſhould not the like hold here in the Prophecy of Haggai, That although the Prophet himſelf, and the Jews he ſpake it unto, had their Eyes only fixed upon the Firſt Coming of Chriſt, and the Alterations and Shakings then made; yet the Holy Ghoſt had a further Eye upon a Second Coming, accompanied with greater Shakings both afore and after. And,

2. This Rule muſt needs be acknowledged in a ſpecial manner to hold true, when there are many and ſeveral gradual Accompliſhments of one and the ſame kind of Work done by degrees and parts, which are all of one ſort or kind, and all at laſt to be caſt up in one total Sum, and which may be reduced to one general

ral Head that comprehends them all. In this caſe a Prophecy may be applyed to each of thoſe Performances, and may be ſaid to be fulfilled in the firſt, and yet to remain to be fulfilled, and ſtill under promiſe in reſpect of a future Accompliſhment. And ſuch indeed is that inſtance laſt given, which upon Chriſt's firſt Coming in the Fleſh, had an imperfect Hanſel, and firſt Fruits of Performance in converting Multitudes of Jews in that Age, but ſo as to have a more full Harveſt in the Converſion of all Iſrael at the laſt. This is undeniable in other inſtances; for that promiſe, Old things are paſt away, behold all things are become new; given forth by Iſaiah at twice, Ch. 8. 43. and Ch. 65. hath a juſt accompliſhment in the Converſion of every Sinner, as the Apoſtle affirms, 2 Cor. 5. 17. Therefore if any Man be in Chriſt, he is a new Creature; old things are paſſed away, behold all things are become new; and ſo is every day fulfilled in the World. And when whole Nations renounce their falſe Worſhip, and entertain the Worſhip and Profeſſion of Chriſt, it hath a more ample degree, but yet ſtill it remains at the end, to be fulfill'd in his creating the New Jeruſalem, Rev. 21. 2. When the Tabernacle of God is with Men, and he will dwell with them, and they ſhall be his People, and God himſelf ſhall be with them, and be their God. And God ſhall wipe away all Tears from their Eyes; and there ſhall be no more Death, neither Sorrow nor Crying, neither ſhall there be any more Pain: for the former things are paſs'd away. And he that ſat upon the Throne, ſaid, Behold, I make all things new. And he ſaid unto me, Write: for theſe words are true and faithful. And Iſaiah manifeſtly aimed at it, Iſa. 65. 17, 18, 19. For behold, I create new Heavens and a new Earth: and the former ſhall not be remembred, nor come into mind. But be you glad, and rejoice for ever in that which I create: for behold, I create Jeruſalem a Rejoicing, and her People a Joy. And I will rejoice in Jeruſalem, and joy in my People; and the voice of Weeping ſhall be no more heard in her, nor the voice of Crying. And this, though it had an imperfect Accompliſhment in Paul's time, in every true Iſraelite that was converted to God, who had a new Heaven in the renewal of his Mind, and a new Earth created in his Affections and Outward-man; yet Peter tells us, that ſtill, in reſpect of the ultimate Accompliſhment of it, it ſtill continues under a Promiſe to be fulfilled, 2 Pet. 3. 13. Nevertheleſs we, according to his Promiſe, look for new Heavens, and a new Earth, wherein dwelleth Righteouſneſs. And thus here, as to the point in hand, the ſhaking of the old Heavens and Earth to bring in this new, being a work that hath many Parts, and Pieces, and Degrees, that go to make up the total of it; it comprehending the whole Work of Chriſt's Kingdom during his whole Reign from his firſt coming to the end; it had an accompliſhment in what was done in the World in thoſe Primitive Times, upon Chriſt's firſt coming. But he that ſhould determine and end it there in his removal of the Jewiſh Worſhip, converting the Nations, or the like great Alterations thereupon made, ſhould narrow that Prophecy of Haggai as much as he, that ſhould confine Iſaiah's intent to be meant only of each particular Believer's Converſion, when it is ſo evidently to be enlarged to the creating of a new World in which Righteouſneſs ſhall dwell, that is, rule and reign, which we look for, even that World to come as in this Epiſtle to the Hebrews the Apoſtle termeth it.

A DISCOURSE OF THE RECONCILIATION OF ALL THE People of God,

Epheſ. II. 14, 15, 16.

14. For he is our Peace, who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle Wall of Partition between us:

15. Having aboliſhed in his Fleſh the Enmity, even the Law of Commandments, contained in Ordinances, for to make in himſelf, of twain, one new Man, ſo making Peace.

16. And that he might reconcile both unto God in one Body by the Croſs, having ſlain the Enmity thereby.

* Printed in the Firſt Volume of his Works. Part III.

YOU have heard the Story of the Enmity between the * Jew and the Gentile, how great and laſting it had been. You have alſo ſeen what Chriſt in his own Perſon did work for the ſtaying of it both meritoriouſly and repreſentatively on the Croſs, in the Sacrifice of himſelf, and what force and efficacy that muſt needs have in the iſſue to bring about their actual Reconciliation, and to ſmother all Enmity.

I come now to the actual Accord, That the Vertue of Chriſt's Death did effect between theſe Jews and Gentiles in thoſe Primitive Times, in the view of the Apoſtles and Chriſtians of that Age, and which the Apoſtle Paul himſelf ſaw brought to a great Perfection when he writ this Epiſtle.

And it is requiſite we have our Hearts and Eyes intent upon it, as a Token, and Sign, great and marvellous; theſe Two Works, The Converſion of the Gentiles; and, The mutual coalition of Jew and Gentile into one new Man, being of all other the greateſt Miracle wrought under the New Teſtament; the moſt glorious Fruit of Chriſt's Death, and among the ſtrongeſt Evidences of the Truth of Chriſtian Religion.

And

And that the Greatneſs, together with the Reality and Truth thereof may appear, it is neceſſary, That I firſt ſhew out of the Records of The Acts of the Apoſtles, the Enmity or Diſtance that continued and remained in the New Chriſtian Jews towards the poor Gentiles; for in the Jew, principally and originally, was the Root of Bitterneſs, and moſt deeply ſeated together with the ſore Miſchiefs which might have further ariſen from them, even to the danger of a perpetual hindrance of the Gentiles Converſion.

It may ſeem ſtrange to hear, that the godly Jews, after they had received Chriſt, the promiſed deſire of all Nations as well as of themſelves; yea, and the Holy Ghoſt likewiſe ſent down from Heaven by Chriſt, ſhould yet retain ſo great a degree of diſtance & ſimultas, towards the Gentiles, as we read and find was in them. It is a wonder, that their being filled with the Holy Ghoſt as with New Wine, ſhould not have ſweetened their Spirits, but that yet ſo great a Muſt of the Old Veſſel ſhould yet remain unwrought out in them. But God himſelf takes time to work out long retained Principles; and Men may thence well learn, ſo to do towards their Brethren.

And the dangerous Effects and Conſequents of the Jews grudge againſt the Gentiles, do make it yet more ſtrange, and aggravate the evil of it. For,

1. It would have been (if it had not been removed,) an eternal Bar and Obſtacle unto the very Calling and Converſion of the Gentiles to the Chriſtian Faith, and the propagation of the Goſpel to them who were fellow Heirs of it, together with themſelves; (than which, what can be ſuppoſed of more miſchief!) But,

2. After that Bar was taken out of the way, and the Gentiles were called and converted, there yet ſtill continued ſuch Degrees and Relicks of this old Tincture as occaſioned ſuch actual violent and high Diviſion in the Church between the then become Gentile Chriſtian and the Believing Jew, that all the Apoſtles then living, with all their skill and powerful Applications, could hardly cure and remove, which yet in the end was allayed, and both made one in the iſſue.

It is requiſite for me, before I enter upon theſe Heads, eſpecially the Firſt, to ſet forth as in a brief Map thoſe ſeveral degrees of ſpiritual Latitudes and Diſtance which theſe Gentiles lay in, as to the Apprehenſions and Calculations of the Jews. The Scriptures in general, had termed them afar of, both in the Old and New Teſtament, which is ſpoken of them in reſpect of their incapacity and remoteneſs from Chriſt and the Covenant of Grace; whereas of the Jews it is oppoſitely ſaid, They that were nigh; (of both which more afterwards.) Now though all the Gentiles are ſaid to be afar off, yet ſome were in further Degrees of Latitude than other; and the Jews accordingly in their Spirits, were leſs or more remote in converſe with them.

I diſtinguiſh them into theſe Four Ranks or Climates.

1. The firſt were Samaritans, who were indeed in place Neighbours, but by their original Extraction Gentiles, as you read in the Book of Kings, who became Inhabitants of the Land of Canaan, and ſucceeded the Ten Tribes therein, after that the moſt of the Ten Tribes were carried Captive. Theſe alſo were circumciſed, owned Moſes's Law, profeſs'd of themſelves to ſeek the true God, and to Sacrifice to him, as did the Jews, Ezra 4. 3. But were ſo corrupt in their obſervation thereof, and with ſuch a mixture, that Chriſt ſays, there was no Salvation to be expected in their Profeſſion. Though they were nearer in place to the Jews living in part of the Holy Land, yet from theſe the Jews were moſt alienated in their Affections, and abhorred them of all other Gentiles; as being nearer in the Profeſſion of the ſame Religion, and yet ſo diſſenting in the obſervation of it.

2. There were Gentiles who were become Proſelytes to the Jewiſh Religion, that had join'd themſelves to the Lord, Iſa. 56. 6. had ſubmitted to the whole Ceremonial Law, and to that end had received the Seal of Circumciſion, having been firſt wath'd, or baptiz'd; and theſe, though Gentiles, were yet to the native Jews as any other of their own Nation; now as to ſuch, there was no ſcruple in any Jew to converſe with them: For they were accounted clean, and came as freely into the Temple as themſelves, and were called Proſelyti fœderis, Proſelites of the Covenant, Acts 56. 6. where they are termed the Strangers that join themſelves to the Lord and take hold of the Covenant.

3. A third Set were ſuch Gentiles, who though truly converted to the Acknowledgment, Fear, and Worſhip of the true God, wrought Righteouſneſs according to the Moral Law, yet entertained not their Circumciſion, nor the obſervation of the Rites of the Law Ceremonial, ſuch as Cornelius, Acts 10. and others, who under the term of devout Men and Women, as thoſe Greeks, Acts 17. 4. are diſtinguiſh'd from the Jews, Acts 13. 16, 43. The like was Naaman the Aſſyrian of old; and even theſe not circumciſed, nor obliging themſelves to Moſes's Law, the Jews did reckon unclean.

4. A fourth Set were ſuch as remained in their Gentiliſm, the Idolaters of this World as Paul calls them, which were the generality of all Nations, which therefore the Jews did much more reckon unclean than the Third ſort.

This Map or Diviſion of the Gentiles, it is neceſſary to have in our Eye; for the following Diſcourſe hath often reference to each of theſe ſorts, (as occaſion ſhall be given to make mention of them:) and by underſtanding this difference, we the better ſhall diſcern the approaches God made by degrees into this great Work of the Gentiles Converſion: Which Difference of the Gentiles, is by this commended to our regard and obſervation, that the Holy Ghoſt thought it a Subject worthy to ſpend much of the Book of the Acts upon.

Theſe things premiſed, I am to preſent you with the Hiſtory of the Converſion of theſe Gentiles, even thoſe whom the Jews eſteemed more unclean; and that by theſe Jews themſelves, and of the Difficulties and Bars that lay in the way thereof in the Jewiſh Spirits, even after their own Converſion to the Faith of Chriſt; and how this Wall of Diviſion mouldred, and by degrees was diſſolved, and levelled to the ground. The Narrative of which is of great uſe to us in our Diſſention and Diſtances, (far leſs than theſe.) to aſſure us, That they may and will be, though by degrees aboliſh'd.

The Caſe between the converted Jews and the reſt of the Elect Gentiles to be converted, ſtood thus: The time was now come, which had been foretold that the Gentiles ſhould become the Spouſe of Chriſt; yea, and the Ordination of God, was, that the Word or Means to convert them, was to go forth out of Sion to all the Earth, and thoſe of the Jewiſh Nation (being ſuch themſelves converted,) were to be Inſtruments of their greater Call, or the Prophecies had not been fulfilled; and yet the nine firſt Chapters of the Acts, give us ſuch a Character of the Patent Conſtitution of the new converted Jews, yea of the Apoſtles themſelves, as renders them not only far and backward, but wholly averted; yea, in Conſcience, kept off from the leaſt endeavour after ſuch a Work. They ſtand bound up in their Spirits not ſo much as to preach the Goſpel to the Gentiles, though the Gentiles themſelves ſhould have ſent to them, and have earneſtly deſired it of them; and like Men confined to a Circle, they dare not ſtir one foot that way. Peter, and the reſt of the Apoſtles, that with Zeal and Boldneſs dared the utmoſt of Perſecution to convert their own Countrymen the Jews, or circumciſed ὄμματα of the Gentiles were yet under ſuch an awe and bondage of Jewiſh Scruple, that in Conſcience they durſt not converſe with an uncircumciſed Gentile, though it were to ſave his Soul eternally.

And that which increaſeth the Wonder, is, that tho' our Saviour at his Aſcenſion had given in Commiſſion, and in Charge, and in expreſs Terms, to preach the Goſpel to all Nations, and every Creature under Heaven, yet they were averſe to any Converſer with the Gentiles: So deeply had the Tradition and Enmity received from their Fore-fathers prepoſſeſſed their Spirits.

And I dare not affirm the reaſon of this to be, That the Calling of the Gentiles was wholly an Arcanum hidden to them. For beſides that, even the Jews at this day, underſtand and acknowledge this to have been propheſied of, (as Beza, Acts 2. 39.) to fall out in the days of the Meſſiah; and what the envious and hardned Jews acknowledge now, cannot be ſuppoſed hid from them then, eſpecially from the Apoſtles; our Lord alſo expreſly foretold it, Matth. 9. 11, 12. Jer. 11. 32. and giveth it clearly in his laſt Commiſſion; yea, it ſeems clear, that

Peter

Peter understood it (at least in the confused Notion,) by his interpretation of that Promise, Joel 2. 17, 20, 21. I will pour out my Spirit upon all Flesh, and it shall come to pass, whoever calls upon the Name of the Lord shall be saved. Which Promise, ver. 39. he declares, to belong to them afar off, who in their known Language were the Gentiles, (to encourage the Jews the more to embrace it;) and that by them afar off, to be called the Gentiles, are to be understood, the Old and New Testament give in Evidence both when they speak of their Calling, as Peter there; so Isaiah in the Old; and not to go far from my Text, the immediate foregoing 13 and following 17 Verses of this Chapter, Ton Gentiles who were far off, are made nigh: And, ver. 15. He came and preached the Word to them that were afar off (you Gentiles,) and you that are nigh; but how that this should be effected in the end, as yet neither he nor any of his fellow Apostles, knew the time when; nor yet had their Consciences received any particular Discharge or Quietus est, from those fore-mentioned Jewish Principles, but lay still bound up thereby from so much as conversing familiarly with the Gentiles; and therefore were much more restrained from any industrious setting themselves to convert them, by preaching the Gospel to them; much less baptizing them, or giving them the Holy Ghost, so as if they did understand so much, or that themselves were the Men designed to this Work: Yet how these Commands and Laws of not converting the Gentiles that lay upon them, (as they yet thought from God,) should be annull'd, they were ignorant of. For this is certain, That the Story of the Acts puts this averseness of theirs upon the remainder of that old Enmity and Principles of their Jewish Religion, taken in by Tradition from their Fathers; which appears evidently in the instance of Peter, and other Jews, as also the Practice of the rest of the Disciples that were the most zealous of winning others to the knowledge of Christ. First for Peter; The Story in Acts 10. informs us, what Chains they were he stood fetter'd with, which held him fast from giving consent to Cornelius, a Roman Gentile, (who yet was, in his Religion, come half way to him, being a Proselyte, a Worshipper of the true God, only was not circumcised, nor had submitted himself to Moses's Rites,) until God himself released Peter, and knock'd off those Fetters, with saying from Heaven, ver. 20. Arise, go, nothing doubting; and if you will know what the Scruple that made him doubtful was, himself expresseth it, ver. 28. You know (speaking afore his Jews,) how that it is an unlawful thing for a Man that is a Jew, to keep company, or to come unto one of another Nation that was uncircumcised, as Cornelius was; for we read the Quarrel was, Acts 11. 3. against Peter for this fault of his, That he went into Men uncircumcised; for else, those Proselytes of other Nations that were circumcised, and submitted to the Law, were accounted as native Jews, and called Proselyti fœderis. But God immediately shew'd me, (saith Peter thereupon,) that I should not account any Man common or unclean. Those words, nothing doubting, evidently import inward Scruples and Argumentations in their Mind contrary, by reason of these fore-mentioned Principles, and he took more notice on this as the eminent, if not sole cause of that Obstruction; inasmuch as he again repeats these very words in his Apology, made Acts 11. 12. The Spirit bad me go, nothing doubting: And in the 29th Verse of that Chapter, he saith, I thereupon (God having struck off all contrary Apprehensions,) came without gainsaying. So then he had hitherto stuck in the Mud of this Princip'e, and could not stir a step forth of it, to the saving of any Gentiles by converse with them. And,

2. As Peter, so all the rest of the Christian Jews that continued at Jerusalem, were of the same Mind and Spirit: For upon his return to Jerusalem, after this so happy Hansel of the first Gentile uncircumcised who believ'd on Christ Jesus: They all there quarrelled with him for this which he had done, Acts 11. 2. When Peter was come to Jerusalem, they that were of the Circumcision contended with him, saying, Thou wentest in unto Men circumcised, and didst eat with them; and so they quarrelled him much more, for having preach'd to him, and having baptized him. Peter's Apology argues, their Speech to have been most bent against that; for in the Conclusion there, v. 15. he thus speaks, As I began to preach, the Holy Ghoſt fell on them; and I remembred the Words of the Lord about Baptiſm, &c. But foraſmuch as God gave them the like Gift, What was I that I could withſtand God? namely in this baptizing them; thereby alſo ſhewing his former averſeneſs and unſatisfaction to ſuch an Act, to have been ſuch as theirs now was. Yea,

3. This was commonly received, and taken for granted Principles amongſt all Profeſſors of Chriſt, that were Jews in thoſe Firſt Times. You know, ſaith Peter to thoſe Jews, ver. 10. how it is unlawful, appealing to the common Maxim that had obtained amongſt them to that very hour. And,

4. Hereupon you read of a Shineſs in the firſt Chriſtian Jew, to preach the Goſpel to any but ſuch as were of their own Nation, or Proſelytes circumciſed and ſubmitted to Moſes's Law, who were all one in their eſteem, as Jews, as appears by the Practice of thoſe of the firſt at Jeruſalem, who had been ſcattered from Jeruſalem, ver. 8. who though they carried ſuch a Fire of Zeal in their Boſoms, to ſeek to convert others to the Faith of Chriſt, yet carrying withal along with them theſe common Principles of their Nation and Religion, they were damped and reſtrained in their Spirits thereunto; for as they travelled through Heathen Countries, it is with a certainty recorded, that they preach'd the Word to none but to Jews only: So Acts 11. 29. that is, either Jews by Birth or Race, who were then and long afore diſperſed over all Nations, as Acts 2. 5. ſhews, or ſuch Proſelytes which were to them as Jews, (as was ſaid;) they perhaps (as ſome conjecture,) underſtanding Chriſt's Commiſſion to preach the Goſpel to all Nations, to have been ſtill intended of the Jewiſh Nation, or Proſelytes, as were in thoſe Times diſperſed throughout all Nations, as in Acts 2. apppears; and ſo ſtill compliant and conſiſtent with thoſe Jewiſh Principles, not converſing with any other Nations whom they accounted unclean.

Now this being the condition wherein things ſtood in that firſt Church of Chriſtians, and theſe their Apprehenſions, either their Judgments muſt be cleared of theſe Obſtructions, or the Goſpel would not have run and flowed forth through theſe Channels unto any of the Gentiles; and yet the Prophecies in the Old Teſtament, and God's Ordinations, were fix'd and peremptory, that the Goſpel was to go forth from Zion; and theſe very Chriſtian Jews were to be the very inſtruments of propagating of it. What, ſhall theſe all be fruſtrate, and Chriſt loſe his Spouſe through theſe Mens Scruples? No verily. This other Part therefore of this Story, namely, How this firſt Wall of Partition the Text ſpeaks of, moultred by degrees, and in the end was laid flat, and an High-way paved through the Hearts of theſe Jews from Jeruſalem to Aſſyria: This was a great Work, and it is to be marvellous in our Eyes. And the obſervation of it may ſupport our Faith, (which is the end of my relating it,) under the like ſlow-paced gradual, yet ſure Proceedings of our God, towards the effecting of that Union among the Saints in our Times.

The firſt ſtep (though but a ſmall one to what after followed,) was the Converſion of the Samaritans, (the firſt ſort of thoſe Gentiles I in that ſhort Scheme made mention of,) a Mungrel between Jews and Gentiles, yet Inhabitants of the Holy Land, circumciſed, and owning the Law of Moſes, ſo as they were Jews in Profeſſion. Concerning thoſe, it was a while a matter of difficulty unto me, (as it hath been to other Writers,) how it came to paſs, that theſe Samaritans being hated above all Nations by the Jews, (as the Speech of that Woman to Chriſt ſhews, How is it that thou being a Jew, askeſt Drink of me that am a Samaritan? for the Jews have no dealing with the Samaritans.) How, I ſay, it ſhould come to paſs, that theſe Chriſtian Jews, Peter, and the reſt, ſhould without any heſitation, or ſcruple, or new extraordinary Revelation about them ſo freely converſe with, preach to, and baptize theſe Samaritans, as in Acts 8. we read. Philip broke in firſt, then Peter alſo (who yet himſelf did ſtill ſcruple,) doing the like. And John laid on Hands, and they received the Holy Ghoſt. The difference upon ſearch, I found to lye partly in a more ſpecial Warrant and Command, given them by our Lord himſelf concerning theſe Samaritans; which the Apoſtle had had more easily understood him in, than in that concerning other Gentiles, having also his own Practice to confirm them in it.

1. This Command he had at his Ascension said, Acts 1. 8. You shall be Witnesses to me both in Jerusalem and all Judea, and in Samaria, and the utmost Parts of the Earth: Which latter part of their Commission was perhaps more ambiguous to them; for they might still have understood it of Jews only that were then spread in all Nations, but Samaria was expresly named. And further, This was the recalling of a Prohibition given by Christ, Matth. 10. 5.

2. They might also perhaps consider and understand from his own Practice and peculiar Prediction in his Life, a special Design to Samaria, to be an Harvest ripe for them to thrust their Sickles into, after that Judea should be converted. 1. For his Practice. Himself had converted a Samaritan Woman, yea, and her fellow Citizens also, and abode two days with them, John 4. where, whilst he was upon the place, he measured out and quartered forth that Country, and the Inhabitants thereof for his own Harvest. And by having had in those first Fruits, he thereby had consecrated the rest of the same standing, to be reaped into his Garner with the Fruits of other upon his Ascension; concerning which, he therefore then renewed his Commission a Second Time.

3. But that which did further facilitate the Apostle's Preaching to the Samaritans, and gave them liberty to have compassion on these, with Difference from other Gentiles, was indeed the different condition of their Persons from other pure Gentiles: For the Samaritans were, tho' the most of them in their Original Gentiles, yet circumcised all, receiving and acknowledging the Five Books of Moses, expecting the Messias, John 4. Yea, many of the Seed of Abraham remained mingled among them, (without known distinction by Genealogies,) that is, of the Ten Tribes, it being their Country, and were all now alike Inhabitants of the same promised Land, and in all these respects, as immediately capable of the Preaching of the Apostles, as were the Inhabitants of Galilee, where Christ himself spent the most of his Ministry. For the Inhabitants of Galilee and Capernaum were the Posterity of those Gentiles brought in by Salmanassar, mingled with some Remainders of the Old Inhabiters of the Seed of Abraham, even as well as those of Samaria were; and in these respects, they are distinguished from other common Gentiles at large by Christ himself, in that caution (as I may call it, rather than a prohibition,) given in his Life-time, and but pro tempore for that time, namely Matth. 10. 5. Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into any City of the Samaritans, enter not, but go rather to the lost Sheep of Israel; where he distinguisheth Samaritans from Gentiles, and prohibits them only with the Rather. The reason of that Prohibition or Caution having been, that the Gospel was first in order to be throughly preached unto the pure Jews: And seeing that for that small Space, until his Ascension, they had enough to do to go over and preach it in the Region of Judea, so as if they then should have step'd into the Cities of Samaria, they should not have accomplished that Work designed; therefore rather, says he, confine your selves for the present to Judea. In that new enlarged Commission, Acts 1. 8. (wherein he more particularly sets forth the course of the Gospels Progress,) he mentions Samaria still next after Judea, but with a manifest distinction from all other Gentiles afar of, when he calls the rest the Ends of the Earth: Yea, and this Difference was manifestly acknowledged by the rigidest Jew, then turned Christian. For though they contended with Peter, for going in to Cornelius, yet they murmur not, no not so much as mention his going in to the Samaritans; or doth he give any Account of it to them. Nay, it was warranted by his fellow Apostle before he went, Acts 8. 14. So then this of preaching the Gospel, and conversing with Samaritans, was an Exception grounded upon a special Reason from the difference between them and Gentiles, universally acknowledged by the Christian Jews.

And as for that Enmity and Estrangement of the common Jew from the Samaritan before-mentioned, it lay rather in Malice in their Wills, not in any expres Prohibition that their Law gave them; which distance from these Samaritans maritans, a Zeal for the Converſion of Souls, ſoon ſtruck off in theſe new converted Chriſtian Jews. Well but for all this, that ſo open a door was let open into Samaria, and the Regions thereof; yet ſtill they durſt not go a ſtep further, to baptize, or familiarly converſe with any ſuppoſed pure Gentile, though Proſelytes to the true God, if they were not circumciſed, and ſubſcribed not themſelves to the Ceremonial Law; for notwithſtanding this ſucceſsful inrode into Samaria, which is recorded Chap. 8. of the Acts, We find Peter and all his Fellows with him, ſtill at a ſtand, Chap. 10. to go in unto Cornelius, (though he was ſuch a Proſelyte as was juſt, holy, and feared God,) meerly becauſe uncircumciſed; and that is the true Account why, notwithſtanding the Converſion of Samaria, which was in order before that of Cornelius, that that is made the firſt inſtance of the Gentiles Converſion to the Faith of Chriſt, by two Apoſtles, Peter and James, Acts 15. ſays James, v. 14, 15. Simon hath declared, καθὼς πρώτος, how firſt (ſo the words are,) God did viſit the Gentiles to take out of them a People for his Name. Now how or what manner of Declaration had Peter made, (which James refers us to,) you had in the Verſes foregoing. Brethren, you know how ἀφ' ἀρχαίων ἡμερῶν· From the firſt days, or early days, namely of the Preaching of the Goſpel, God made choice among us, that the Gentiles by my Mouth ſhould hear the Word of the Goſpel, and believe God, bearing them witneſs, by giving them the Holy Ghoſt. Theſe Gentiles he inſiſts on as the firſt converted were manifeſtly Cornelius, and thoſe with him, and not the Samaritans, who had firſt believed through Philip's Preaching, and firſt by Peter's; and Peter appealing to the cognizance of many now preſent at that Meeting, ſays, Brethren, you know how; and refers both to thoſe that were eye and ear witneſſes, and preſent at Cornelius's Houſe; and Peter's Sermon there made, as likewiſe to whom he had faithfully given the Narration, and who had reſted thereon ſatisfied, Chap. 1. at both of which ſome were preſent.

I come therefore (where this hath brought me,) to a ſecond Branch of this Story, and that is, to ſhew how this Wall of Diſtance and Separation from all the Nations was removed out of the way: By what means this great Sluce of Enmity was pull'd up that ſtop'd the Current and Overflow of the Goſpel to the reſt of the World. And of this, that laſt inſtance of Cornelius's Converſion, gives a full and particular Account, and you ſhall now behold all and every of the ſame Perſons that you have ſeen ſcrupled and bound up to this, brought now in and unbound, and abundantly ſatisfied therein, (which was a marvellous Work of God.) 1ſt, Peter; 2dly, Then his Fellows; 3dly, Thoſe Jews that had been ſcattered, (Chap. 8. and preached the Goſpel only to the Jews;) And, 4thly, The generality of the converted Jews.

I ſhall begin firſt with Peter, the great Wheel and Engine that brought all the others.

After Peter had finiſhed his Journy through Samaria, and the Villages thereof, and ſo return'd, Acts 8. 15. unto Jeruſalem, we find him to take indeed another Progreſs into Paleſtina, to Lydda and Joppa, but ſo as to converſe with Jews only, and viſit in thoſe Cities, thoſe Brethren of the Jewiſh Nation that had believed. Thus, Acts 9. 3. And we find him, (or Chriſt's Spirit,) rather takes him at one Simon's Houſe, a Jew, as his Name gives Evidence; for at none others durſt he as yet lye or abide; and thereupon a Viſion befalls him: And the Interpretation of it, with a Command to go unto Cornelius, which gave him ſuch ample ſatisfaction, as everlaſtingly ſilenc'd all Scruple in him. And to this end, that now at once this door of Faith might be ſet open wide enough, without any more diſtinction or qualification of Perſons, and difference of Gentile from Gentile, Proſelytes of this ſort, or the other, and make the way alike for the bringing in of all alike, whether they were legally pure or impure, clean or unclean; the groſſeſt Idolaters as well as any other. God therefore made the Rule and Commiſſion large enough, and ſeals the Warrant of it with a Viſion from Heaven, the Myſtery of which held forth this great Latitude. A Sheet from Heaven is let down, having four Corners faſtned to the ſeveral Quarters of Heaven, wherein were all manner of four-footed Beaſts, Wild

Beaſts,

Beasts, Creeping Things, Serpents and Fowls of the Air, whereof many were pronounced unclean: Yea, by the Law of Commandments given the Jews, many of them were abhorrent even to Nature, as Toads, and were now declared Purified, ver. 4. What God hath cleansed, calling that common. And these Beasts of all sorts, signified Men of all sorts, even Gentiles of all Nations, Professions whatever, though never so venemous. Thus Peter applies it, ver. 28. God hath shewed me, (twas God's own Interpretation of it,) that I should not call any Man common or unclean; that is, in respect of that outward ceremonial Impurity, such as by that Law had been in fine both in Meats and in Beasts, and parallelly in Men. For now God had taken that away, and by that Sheet in which all, both clean and unclean, were met, was signified the Universal Catholick Church of the New Testament, which was let down from Heaven, Gal. 4. 26. and to be taken into Heaven as that Sheet in the Vision was, in which are all sorts gathered, all things in Earth, Eph. 1. 10. Jews and Gentiles; and yet from all the four Corners of Heaven to which this Sheet was knit; imparting their gathering to be from East, West, North, and South, to sit down with Abraham, and his Children: Upon this Vision and the Circumstances that accompanied it, (which often confirm the Mind of God unto us,) as that Messengers should be knocking at the Door, the while to bring in News of another Vision made to Cornelius to send for him: Peter hereupon professeth the greatest Conviction; Chap. 10 34. Of a truth, I perceive, that God is no respecter of Persons, but in every Nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him. He speaks as a Man, either whose Judgment was now altered, or but now fully convinced and determined of that which he had but an inkling of before, καταλαμβάνομαι, I have it, I apprehend it, and take it in: Although he had taken in the inkling of it afore, yet as it falls out in a new degree of spiritual Knowledge, especially in a matter wherein the Mind was any thing wavering, but is now confirmed therein; so Peter here professeth, as but now to take in the apprehension of it, as the word καταλαμβάνομαι, I apprehend it, or, I take it in: And that Phrase, ἀπὸ ἀληθείας, of a truth, notes not out only the infallibility and certainty of Light now came in, causing him to apprehend it as a certain truth, but that now he had experimentally seen the truth of it. Indeed, that Speech argues, that the Jews, yea Peter himself, had formerly been so rigid in their Judgments about such kind of Proselytes as submitted not to Moses's Law, that they questioned whether they were such as God did save. The like argues that Speech of those Disciples, Acts 11. 18. Then hath God also to the Gentiles granted Repentance unto Life: And though they had repented, yet it would seem, they doubted whether unto Life or no. And so he goes on to enlarge upon this, and to give a further account of his Satisfaction in it. I perceive now, says he, that this was indeed the Word (or Message,) and so parts the Gospel it self, which God sent to the Children of Israel, preaching Peace by Jesus Christ, Lord of all. The Spirit of God was promised to bring all things seasonably to the Memories and Understandings of the Apostles by Christ, but not understood, which had been by him spoken afore; which Promise was eminently fulfilled in this Passage of Peter's: For now he understood that Embassy of Peace on Earth, Good-will to Men spoken of, as the consequent of Christ's coming into the World, to concern all Nations; He remembred also the many Speeches which Christ himself had uttered when preaching this: He spake of the Calling of the Gentiles, Matth. 8. 11, 12. and John 11. 32. and how all were to be gathered into one and the same Fold, John 10. and so the Enmity to be removed. And Peter annexeth this Reason of confirmation of it, He is Lord of all, that is, of Gentile as well as the Jew indifferently; and now I fully remember (thought he,) how when Christ went to Heaven, he saith, All Power is committed to me both in Heaven and in Earth; and how, as an Inference from it, he added, Go ye therefore, and teach all Nations; the intent and evidence whereof he had now seen: And Peter further tells us, how a cloud of Testimonies came into his mind from all the Prophets, which afore he understood not so clearly, confirming to him this truth; it being God's manner to second extraordinary Visions with Testimonies of his Word coincident therewith; thus, thus, ver. 43. To him give all the Prophets witneſs, as to be the Meſſias promiſed to the Jews; ſo to the Great Proclamation concerning him, That whoſoever believeth on him ſhall receive remiſſion of Sins, by thoſe words πᾶς ὁ πιστεύων, whoever believes: He underſtood and intends the General Pardon now proclaimed under the Goſpel to Gentiles as well as Jews. As it is the brief Sum and Subſtance of the Prophet's Predictions in this Point, ſo it fell out to be that very Promiſe which Peter out of Joel 2 32. had been harping at in his firſt Sermon to the Jews, Acts 2. which he had interpreted to concern as well the Gentiles that were afar off as the Jews and their Children: But yet he then was himſelf far off from the clear and diſtinct apprehenſion of it, yet groped at it as in the dark; but now he hath a full clear diſtinct over-coming Light brought into his Soul about it, as often on the ſudden, there uſeth to be unto us about things wherein we had but confuſed Notions we minded or heeded not. A general Notion he had of this thing then; but now all the Prophets, that is, ſuch that were of the Old Teſtament, come in diſtinctly to his mind, with their ſeveral Verdicts and Teſtimonies hereunto. He had a ſudden View, and thorough Light, which ran through them all as to this great Point; and ſuch a View the Spirit often gives us in things we conſidered not afore.

And unto this general Sum and Subſtance of the Goſpel, concerning the Gentiles Calling, drawn out of the Prophets by Peter, did the like Speeches and Quotations of Paul, fall in, and give their expreſs Suffrage and Conſent, Rom. 10. 11. where being upon the ſame Argument Peter is upon here, he ſpeaks in the very ſame Language that Peter here doth: I need but read the words; for the Scripture ſays, Whoſoever ſhall believe in him ſhall not be aſhamed: For there is no difference between the Jew and the Gentile: For the ſame Lord over all, is rich unto all that call upon him: And then quotes the words of Joel, which to this purpoſe Peter alſo had done: Whoſoever ſhall call upon the Name of the Lord, ſhall be ſaved. And that I may bring all this ſame to my Text, the very next words there do hold a correſpondence with, and explain thoſe other Paſſages of Peter's Sermons as directed to this ſcope, and each give Light to the other. Peter he ſays, This is the Word which God ſent unto the Children of Iſrael, preaching Peace by Jeſus Chriſt, who is Lord of all. In anſwer thereto, here Paul ſays of Chriſt, He came and preached Peace to you. What, did Chriſt ever preach to the Epheſians? No: Thoſe words can have no better Comment than the words of Peter, namely, that Chriſt in many of his Sermons, though delivered only to the Children of Iſrael, yet proclaimed himſelf the univerſal Peace between Jew and Gentile; and there what follows, but an Anſwer to, and confirmation of that other Preſage rementioned in Peter's firſt Sermon to one and the ſame effect? He came and preached Peace to them that were afar off, the Gentiles, and to them that were nigh, the Jews: Peter's words are, The Promiſe to you (Jews,) and to them afar off So then, you ſee Peter now fully gained and won to a reconciliation with the Gentiles. Then, 2. For the reſt of the Jews with him, they came over to the ſame mind; for when in the 44th Verſe, they ſaw the Holy Ghoſt fall on theſe uncircumciſed Gentiles, as formerly he had done on the Jews: 'Tis ſaid, ver. 45. That they of the Circumciſion which believed, were alſo nigh: Even as many of them as came with Peter, and were ſo far convinced themſelves, that at Peter's Command they baptized them, ver. 48. which they would never elſe have done. Therefore thoſe other Jews, who as you heard out of Chap 11 contended with Peter about this Fact: They alſo, when they had heard a Narrative of all theſe things from Peter's Mouth, confirmed by the Teſtimony of them that were with him; even at the firſt, they were ſo far won upon as they held their Peace. Their Mouths were ſtop'd; but not only ſo, but there they glorified God; which argues not their Judgments only, but their Hearts, rejoicing that God had added the Gentiles to make one Body to himſelf with them; and they ſet down this as a final concluſion and determination (as to their Judgments) of this Controverſie for ever. Then hath God alſo granted unto the Gentiles unto Life; which afore they doubted, as was obſerved. 3. For thoſe other Jews that had been diſperſed into ſeveral Countries afore this fell out, and had as they went along scrupulously preached unto Jews only; they also were in the end fetch'd about to preach unto the Gentiles; yea, and the set scope of the ensuing part of that 11th Chapter, is to give a Narration thereof, on purpose subjoining that Story of theirs next this of Peter's, concerning Cornelius and the Gentiles, as being both one continued Woof of the same Thread, namely, a continuation of the account how the Gospel was propagated unto the Gentiles by other Disciples as well as by Peter, the Holy Ghost industriously setting these things together in one view, because this Work was the greatest thing done in the World since Christ's Ascension, and of the highest concernment; And that these other Jews did preach freely to the Gentiles, the next words shew, ver. 19, 20, 21. Now they that were scattered abroad upon the Persecution that arose about Stephen, travelled as far as Phœnice, and Cyprus, and Antioch, preaching the Word to Jews only; and some of them were Men of Cyprus and Cyrene, which, when they were come to Antioch, spake unto the Græcians, preaching the Lord Jesus, and the Hand of the Lord was with them, and a great number believed, and turned to the Lord. There hath been a Question among some Interpreters, whether these Græcians to whom these Jews preached, were of Grecian Birth and Race, or Jews by Race, but living among the Gentiles, which making use of the Greek Translation in their Synagogues, were called ἑλληνισταὶ, or greciſing Jews, (the word there used,) and which was commonly given to such Jews as live among the Greeks. But it is evident, as Beza long ago, and Capel, and others since, have observed from the contexture of the 29th and 30th Verses, that they were Gentiles, Græcians, by Race, and not Jews, (though perhaps Proselytes, such as Cornelius was; as those Græcians, Acts 17. 4. also were;) for Luke here having immediately afore related, how those of the Dispersion had preach'd the Word to none but Jews only, (ver. 19.) He doth then by the way of Exception, hereunto add, ver. 20. ἦσαν δέ τινες, but there were some of them, &c. namely of that Company of the Dispersion that preach'd it to Græcians that were Gentiles. The opposition clearly carries it; so accordingly in the Manuscript Copy sent by Cyril, that worthy Patriarch of Constantinople to King Charles I. they are expresly called (as 'tis here translated,) ἕλληνες, Græcians, by Birth and Extraction: And to set out this Work the more, which the Holy Ghost's Eye was so intent upon, he adds, And the Hand of the Lord was with them, and a great number believed and turned unto the Lord, ver. 21. a great number, namely of that sort of Grecians whom they set themselves to preach unto.

And so that First Part of the Relation, how for a long time all of them generally had preach'd but to Jews only, comes in to make way, and give illustration to the latter part, namely, That yet at last some of them (that had been then narrow,) were set at liberty, and alter'd their Practice herein, and after Peter's Example, did preach to the Gentiles also, as he had done; and therefore it is, that this Relation of what became of those dispersed, (whose Dispersion is recorded, Ch. 8. at the beginning,) was deferred until now and then subjoined presently after that of Peter and the Jews fully ended, because it was a Story of the same sort and to the same purpose with the other, a continuation of the Conversion of the Gentiles; and how this Jewish narrow Spirit though it had for a while every where hindred, yet was still as fast removed in those Places, as well as at Jerusalem; and he sows both together as Pieces of the same Cloth; yea, and doth it perhaps to insinuate, how that the Noise of this Faith of Peter's, together with the Jews Satisfaction about it, arriving at the Ears of these Jews that were travelling abroad, was the occasion of this sudden and strange alteration of Judgment and Practice in them; which News overtook them not till they came to Antioch. For we read, Acts 15. 2. that in Phœnice, which was one of the Regions these had travelled through afore they came to Antioch, the Conversion of the Gentiles was but News to them a good while after this, the reason whereof may be, that there was a quicker intercourse betwixt Jerusalem and Antioch, being two greater Cities than Phœnice and Jerusalem, which appears from what follows in the next words, That the News of what was now done at Antioch, went back again as faſt to Jeruſalem before it came to theſe other Places. Then tidings of theſe Things coming to the Ears of the Church which was at Jeruſalem, they ſent for Barnabas as far as Antioch, to ſhew their approbation of, and zeal to proſecute this happy beginning among the Gentiles, whoſe Succeſs alſo in this new Work made among theſe Gentiles, the Holy Ghoſt records; for when he was come, ver. 23, 24. he both encouraged thoſe already converted, and added now a full and open Trade of gaining Gentiles Souls, that had been as contra-banded Merchandize afore, and Factors were ſent on purpoſe from the Jews themſelves about it, and this Holy Commerce was ſet open in the World, and ſo an Union of Jew and Gentile into one new Man hereby effected and procured.

I have inſiſted the longer hereon, becauſe the only work of Wonder ſet forth in theſe Paſſages, is and hath been uſually underſtood to have been another, than ſimply the Story of the inlargement of the Church in Converſion of new Souls to Chriſt, and ſpreading the Goſpel in thoſe firſt Times; whereas the Holy Ghoſt's principal Deſign was to ſhew, how the Gentiles Converſion was laid and carried on, and ſo Jew and Gentile made one new Man, which was the greateſt (as it was the firſt) Work Chriſt hath done ſince he went to Heaven; which Paul having ſeen effected, had a ſpecial Eye to it here in the Text, when he ſays, He hath broken down the Partition-Wall, and created both into one Man in himſelf.

I have now mentioned one Man, (the great Apoſtle Paul,) whoſe part in this great Scene hath hitherto wholly been omitted. But if you inquire, how his Spirit ſtood pointed upon his Converſion to this converſing with, and converting Gentiles, and how and when wrought thereunto, the Return thereto is wonderful; Chriſt's Dealing with him in this particular, was not as with the other Apoſtles, whom he inſtructed by degrees, but he was together with his own Converſion at the ſame inſtant converted hereunto. He took it in together with that Milk or Seed of the Word that begat him unto Life; yea, ſo earneſt was Chriſt himſelf, who immediately converted him, and zealous in this Point, that he ſeals his Commiſſion to teach the Gentiles, with the firſt News of his own Salvation; and Truths that are impreſſed upon our Souls, at, or upon our firſt Converſion, are of the greateſt moment to us, and have the deepeſt ſtamp, and are never worn out; and Duties which are then ſet on, we ever after do or ought moſt to mind, as being Conditions which God deſigned us to, and converted us.

Hear Paul himſelf tell the Story, Acts 9. 15. The Lord ſaid to Ananias, (whom he imployed firſt to bring the glad Tidings of Salvation unto Paul,) Go thy way (and tell him,) he is a choſen Veſſel to me, to bear my Name before the Gentiles, and Kings, and the Children of Iſrael. The Children of Iſrael (you ſee,) do in Paul's Commiſſion come in in the Rear, but the Gentiles are the firſt in his Commiſſion; and the very ſame did God ſpeak as expreſly to him by Revelation, as Paul relates it, Gal. 1. yea, and if you obſerve the ſet and full ſcope of that relation of his Converſion in that place, it is evident to be on purpoſe to clear this very thing, (which he makes the Argument in the firſt part of that Epiſtle,) namely, how the Gentiles were admitted into the Fellowſhip of the Goſpel without any ſubjection of theirs to the Jewiſh Ceremonies; and that he accordingly had had a Revelation from the firſt of his Converſion, to go and preach the Goſpel upon ſuch terms firſt to the Gentiles; and a great part of that Chapter is taken up with the Narration of the ſtrange Workings about of his Spirit to this Point of the Compaſs to which it had ſtood clean contrary afore, as much as any other Jew whatever, as that ſingular Paſſage in the Narrative of his firſt Converſion ſhews. You have heard of my Converſation in times paſt, (ſays he,) in the Jewiſh Religion, being more exceedingly zealous of the Traditions of my Fathers, whereof this was one, and the moſt deeply rooted; but when it pleaſed God to reveal his Son in me; for what work? that I might preach him among the Heathen: And immediately, (for thus ſoon was he inſtructed in the main Article of his Commiſſion,) I conferred not with Fleſh and Blood; I went with ſo full a Conviction of this new Truth revealed to me, as that I would not ſo much as ask Counſel of any Man elſe; and then, whither did the Spirit carry him? Streight into Arabia, who were the World of Heathens, Iſmael's Seed and Poſterity, whoſe

Hands,

Hands, as in Genesis, were against every Man, and every Man against them, (like the Wild Irish,) of all the most barbarous; and he fell first a preaching unto them, without scruple or regard at all had to any Jewish Tradition, or to any Jew; and as his first Conversion had thus taught him this, so he accordingly bears this written in his Stile, and Title, and Glories in it, The Apostle, Doctor and Teacher of the Gentiles.

I have but one thing more to add: The universal Joy and Acclamations that was in the whole Church of God, at the addition and first rearing of this new and greatest part of God's House, the Gentiles; and this both in Jews, and others, which in all places they were generally filled withal, which the Holy Ghost in the end of every of these Stories takes notice of, and is as the Epiphonema. There was never such Joy on Earth as then upon all occasions; never such Joy in Heaven, as upon Christ's Nativity when the Angels sang Glory to, &c. For First, Those Jews which had withstood Peter, Chap. 11. They sing a Glory to God on high upon it, as the Angels did upon Christ's Nativity, Chap. 11. 18. They glorified God, saying, Then hath God also to the Gentiles granted Repentance unto Life. Then again, when the Gentiles at Antioch were converted, the News came instantly to Jerusalem; and they out of an earnest desire to know the truth of it, and to forward the work, sent Barnabas, who, when he came, and saw the Grace of God, Oh! how glad was he? The Holy Ghost could not but relate it; He was glad, and exhorted them all, says the Text. Then Barnabas searches out Paul, and in the end meets him, and they were well met, being alike spirited to this Work; and they are sent out, chap 13. to the Conversion of New Regions of the Gentiles: And this is the joyful account of that whole Journy, Chap. 14. 27. They rehearsed all that God had done with them, and how God had opened the Doors of Faith unto the Gentiles. Then again, Chap. 15. v. 3, 4. Going from thence to Jerusalem, and passing through Phœnicia and Samaria, what News was it they carried which their Hearts were big with? Even this, declaring the Conversion of the Gentiles, and they caused great Joy to all the Brethren, even those that were Jews.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE Kingdom of Chriſt;

Extracted out of the BOOK of the REVELATION.

THE Book of the Revelation is a Tragicomical Viſion of the Occurrences of the World through all Times and Ages; whereof this may truly be the Title, [The Story of Chriſt's Kingdom.]

CHAP. 4. The Stage for this is ſet up in the 4th Chapter; there being a repreſentation of the univerſal Church in all Ages ſet forth, according to the exact Pattern of a Church viſible, and inſtituted, into which all Saints on Earth ſhould be caſt.

CHAP. 5. Then the Prologue follows in the 5th Chapter, where is Chriſt's taking on him the Government and Kingdom, by taking the ſealed Book, and thereby undertaking to be God's Commiſſioner, to execute the Decrees contained in this Book, and to give the Viſion of it unto John; at which Inſtalment of him into the Kingdom, there is a Song of Praiſe ſung to the Lamb, by the 24 Elders, and four Beaſts, who are the Chorus in this ſhew, with a triumphing aſſurance and expectation of what will be the happy concluſion of all, that we ſhall reign on Earth with him.

The Scene or Place where all that was acted here in theſe Viſions, is the Roman Empire, and the ſeveral Dominions of it Eaſt and Weſt, called οἰκουμένη, or the whole World.

Then begins the Story it ſelf to be acted at the 6th Chapter. The general Argument of which is, That whereas Chriſt's Government was to be executed and ſeen, 1*ſt*, In putting down all oppoſite Rule and Power that ſtands in his way, as Paul ſpeaks, 1 Cor. 15. And then, 2*dly*, In a viſible taking the Kingdom to himſelf and his Saints, which makes the Fifth Monarchy: Accordingly here the Story of this Book firſt ſhews, how Chriſt puts down all the oppoſite Rule, and Power, and Dominion whatſoever, in the fourth and laſt foregoing Roman Monarchy, in the ſeveral Succeſſions and Revolutions of it, one after another, till that he hath worn them all out that were ordained to ſtand up in it. And theſe many Difficulties of his coming to, and obtaining his Kingdom, do exceedingly ſerve to make the Story of it appear glorious.

Then 2*dly*, It cloſeth and endeth in a glorious viſible Kingdom which Chriſt on Earth ſets up, and poſſeſſeth peaceably with his Saints, as the Cataſtrophe of all.

More particularly the Story is this, according to the ſeveral Contents of each Chapter.

Chriſt, when he aſcends up to Heaven, finds the Roman Monarchy (whoſe room he was to poſſeſs,) ſtretched over Eaſt and Weſt, even over all thoſe Parts of the World where he was to ſeat his Church and Kingdom, and this wholly in the Hands, and under the Government and Power of one intire Monarch or Emperour, and under him altogether heatheniſh and idolatrous, and ſubjected wholly to Satan, ſet up as the God of this World: Chriſt firſt, he ſets upon the Conqueſt of Satan's Miniſtry, and Worſhip in it; and by the preaching the Goſpel, over-turneth that vaſt Empire as it was heatheniſh, throws down Satan from his Throne, and height of Glory in it, and brings it into ſubjection and acknowledgment of him as King, and turns both it and Emperours of it Chriſtian in 300 Years. This is the Sum of the ſixth Chapter of the Seal-Prophecy, and the twelfth Chapter of the Book-Prophecy. CHAP. 6. CHAP. 12.

But this Empire (though turned Chriſtian in outward Profeſſion,) yet having perſecuted his Church whilſt idolatrous, and after it was Chriſtian (when Arrian,) therefore at the Prayers of the Martyrs ſlain, (mentioned, Ch. 6. 11.) and in vengeance of their Blood, Chap. 8. 4. he further proceeds to ruin the Civil Imperial Power of it, the Empire it ſelf, by the Trumpets in the eighth and ninth Chapters. And the Empire then becoming divided into two, the Eaſtern and Weſtern Empire, (as they were commonly called.) CHAP. 8.

1*ſt*. He ruins the Imperial Weſtern State and Power in Europe, by the four firſt Trumpets, the Wars of the Goths, by four ſeveral ſteps in the eighth Chapter.

Then, 2*dly*, He deſtroys the Imperial Eaſtern State, which ſtood after the other by two degrees: Firſt, By the Saracens; then by the Turks; who are the fifth and ſixth Trumpet, who poſſeſſed all the Eaſtern Part of this Day; and that is the Contents of the ninth Chapter. Only, e'er ever theſe Trumpets bring theſe Evils on the Empire, he ſeals up a company of an Hundred forty four thouſand Chriſtians in the Eaſtern Part, as Chap. 7. v. 2. to be preſerved and continued in the true Profeſſion of his Name, under thoſe two, the ſoareſt and longeſt, (and there called the Woe, Woe, Trumpets,) which were to fall upon the Eaſtern Part of the Empire, in which Parts theſe Servants of his there ſealed, were to lye; as appears Chap. 9. ver. 4. And this their ſealing is the Sum of the ſeventh Chapter. CHAP. 9. CHAP. 7.

Now then that Old Roman Empire being thus removed in both Parts of it, yet ſtill look as that Eaſtern Part of it, is left poſſeſſed by the Turks, in the ninth Chapter: So the Weſtern Part of it in Europe, being broken into ten Kingdoms by the Goths, they conſent to give their Power to the Beaſt, the Pope, who ſo becomes a Succeſſor to the Weſtern Emperor, and poſſeſſeth his Seat and Power, tho' under another Title; and ſo heals that Wound given: And this Beaſt the thirteenth Chapter deſcribes, and gives the Viſion of his Riſe, Power, time of his Reign. And the ſeventeenth Chapter doth expound and interpret, under whoſe Anti-chriſtian Tyranny (as great as that of Rome heatheniſh, or of the Turks themſelves to Chriſtians,) Chriſt yet preſerves another-like Company of an Hundred forty four thouſand, even the like number of Virgins who are ſealed Chriſtians in the Weſt, (as under the tyranny of the Turks and Saracens, he had done the like in the Eaſt;) ſo himſelf keeping poſſeſſion ſtill by his Church, preſerved under both, of both theſe Parts of the Empire, as his Inheritance: And this oppoſite Company of 144000 Chriſtians, oppoſite to the Whore there called Virgins, and their ſeparation from her, and oppoſition to her, are recorded Chap. 14. CHAP. 13. CHAP. 17. CHAP. 14.

But now theſe two, the Pope and Turk, (both Enemies to Chriſt,) thus ſucceeding in the Empire, and ſharing the two Parts of it between them, Jeſus Chriſt we ſee, is ſtill as far off from his deſigned Kingdom as he was afore: For Mahumetaniſm tyrannizeth in the one, Idolatry overſpreads the other, as Heatheniſm had done the Empire; and ſo he hath a new buſineſs of it to come unto his Kingdom, as difficult as ever.

CHAP. 15, 16. Therefore Chriſt hath ſeven Vials, which contain the laſt Plagues, (for he means to make this the laſt Act of this long Tragi-Comedy,) to diſpatch the Pope and Turk, and root them out, even as the Seals had done Heatheniſm, and the Trumpets had done the Empire it ſelf: And the Plague of theſe Vials are the Contents of the fifteenth and ſixteenth Chapters.

The firſt five Vials do diſſolve and ruin the Pope's Power by degrees in the Weſt; then the ſixth Vial breaks the Power of the Turk in the Eaſt; ſo making way for the Jews, whom he means to bring into fellowſhip of his Kingdom in their own Land.

But by theſe ſix Vials, their Power and Kingdom not being wholly ruined and removed; Both Turk and Popiſh Party join, and putting too their utmoſt Forces; and together with them, all oppoſite Kings of the whole World, againſt the Chriſtians, both Eaſt and Weſt, (who, when as the Jews are come in, and converted, make up a mighty Party in the World;) unto the help of whom, againſt theſe and all oppoſite Power whatſoever, Chriſt himſelf comes, and makes but one work of it, and with his own Hand from Heaven deſtroys them: And ſo it is done, as the Voice of the laſt Vial is in the ſixteenth Chapter.

CHAP. 17. The ſeventeenth Chapter is an interpretation, (who is the Beaſt and Whore.)

CHAP. 18. The eighteenth Chapter ſings a Funeral Song of Triumph for this Whore's ruin; after which comes in Chriſt's Kingdom, the New Jeruſalem.

CHAP. 7. to the 9th. Which new Kingdom of his, ſhall be made up of, 1*ſt*, Eaſtern Chriſtians that endured the Bondage of the two Woe Trumpets, the Saracen and Turks, yet continuing to profeſs his Name; and therefore unto thoſe 144000 in the ſeventh Chapter, do ſucceed an innumerable Company with Palms in their Hands, who have the ſame Promiſes of the New Jeruſalem made to them; the very ſame that are found mentioned in the twenty firſt Chapter, which ſhews their intereſt therein.

And, 2*dly*, This Kingdom of Chriſt ſhall be made up of Weſtern Chriſtians alſo, whoſe 144000 in the fourteenth Chapter, do ariſe in like manner to an innumerable Company:

CHAP. 19. Who, after the rejection of the Whore, Chap. 19. from the 1ſt to the 9th, are brought in ſinging in like triumph, decking themſelves for the Marriage in fine Linen.

But, 3*dly*, This Kingdom of Chriſt ſhall be made up eſpecially of Jews, diſperſed both Eaſt and Weſt, and over all the World; and therefore hath the Name from them, The New Jeruſalem.

With whom, 4*thly*, come in as Attendants of their Joy, other Gentiles with them, that never had received Chriſt afore: The Glory of the Gentiles is ſaid to be brought into it.

CHAP. 20, 21, 22. And ſo both Eaſt and Weſt, Jew and Gentile, and the Fulneſs of both comes in, and becomes one Fold for a thouſand Years, under one Shepherd, one Kingdom under this Root of David their King, [King Jeſus the Conqueror,] even as it firſt was under one heathen Idolatrous Emperour, when firſt Chriſt ſet himſelf to conquer it. And ſo is fulfilled that Prophecy of this his Kingdom, Iſa. 59. 19. (where, after the final Deſtruction of all Chriſt's Enemies, foretold ver. 18.) Then (he ſays) they ſhall fear his Name [from the Eaſt unto the Weſt,] and the Redeemer ſhall come unto Sion. Which words, Rom. 11. 26. Paul interprets of the Jews final Call, and this Reſtauration of the World with them; Even ſo Lord Jeſus, come quickly.

CHAP. 5. In the fifth Chapter, we have an Account of a Book with ſeven Seals, which none could open. In this ſtreight comes Chriſt, and takes upon him the opening and fulfilling of the Book, and the Decrees therein: At this the Chorus fall down and worſhip.

Ver. 1.

Ver. 1. First, What is this Book? Many make it the Scriptures: But it is plain, it is a Book containing the Affairs of the World, and the Church, and God's Decrees about it. For upon the opening of every Seal, he sees a Vision, containing the matter of the ensuing Chapters, the 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th; and when the Seals were all taken off, Chap. 10. John is bidden to eat the Book, that he might prophesie again the other part of this Prophecy. So as it is this Book of the Revelation and the Government of the Church and World set forth therein, which Christ takes; and by taking the Book, undertakes to manage and exercise that Government; which agrees with what is said at the beginning of this Book, Rev. 1. 1.

Ver. 2. A strong Angel proclaimeth, Who is worthy to loose the Seals thereof, &c. The use of the Seals is not simply to shew it cannot be known, as Daniel's sealed Book is, to shew it could not be known till the end, Dan. 12. 4. but for the further setting out the Glory of Christ, who was only able to take the Book, and to loose the Seals. To take the Book, 1st, God causeth a general Proclamation to be made to all Creatures, as some Kings have done for a noble Service, promising great Reward, as Saul did, 1 Sam. 17. 26, 27. 2dly, An Angel makes it, to shew that none among Angels could, and a strong Angel, that his Voice may reach all Creatures. The end of this was, First, To stir up strong Desires in John, and all else, to search into the meaning of this Prophecy; what he did in the first Chapter of Rev. v. 3 here he provokes unto the same by this Proclamation. Secondly, Another end of it was, to set out the Weakness of the Creature, that the Honour of Christ might appear that he only can do this, it is the manner of God thus to endear Mercies to us as he endeared a Wife to Adam. He first brought all Creatures to him, that he might first see that there was not a meet help for him among them: So in the Work of Salvation, he lets the Soul try all means first, to run to Duties, and to all Helps, and then brings it to Christ: So 1 Cor. 1. that the Power of God might appear, he first lets the World try their Wisdom, and then sends the Foolishness of Preaching to save them that believe, ver. 21, 25. It is a Question among the School-men, (Whether any meer Creature could satisfie for Sin?) Some say, they could; and some say, it is a needless Question: But it is a necessary thing to know, that a Creature could not; for it glorifies Christ the more, as in the present case it doth, that all Creatures here were first challenged: And this here is an Argument for that also; for if they could not open the Book, they could much less have redeemed us, for that is made a greater thing, ver. 9. where they sing, That Christ was therefore worthy to open the Book, because he had redeemed us, Heb. 10. God was not pleased with the Blood of Bulls and Goats, ver. 5.

Use. Hence learn we to renounce all Kings, Priests, and Prophets, in comparison of Christ; he is a Priest to redeem, and a Prophet to teach and reveal the Mysteries of God; and he is the King to execute all God's Decrees: It is good to go over all the Creatures, and to renounce them, and say, I will be saved by none of you. Suppose the Work of Redemption was yet to work, and God should make this Proclamation as here, Find me out a Party able to redeem, I'll speak to him; call a Council, seek one, (none would be found;) and how should we have howled, and wept? as John did here, and say, We were undone; and then suppose God should have set out Christ at last; but he would not put you to this plunge; 'tis the more love shewn by him, to find out Christ, and to speak to him himself to die for us, and do it to our Hands.

Observe from those words, Who is worthy?] It is not simply an Act of Power to break open the Seals, but to have Authority by worth; so that which puts the value on Christ's Satisfaction, was the worth of his Person, and so in this Act to open the Book: A meer Creature might have had as much habitual Grace, and performed as much Duty, but who is worthy? It is the Personal Worth which did it; Such a High Priest became us, who is higher than the Heavens, that is, than the Angels, Heb. 10. 2dly, None was found worthy; the word is (none,) it is not restrained to Man, no Man, but never a reasonable Creature, in the Heavens Angels, nor in Earth Men.

Neither to look thereon,] that is, to look in it to understand it, for else John could and did look on it, ver. 1. Now to loose the Seals, and open the Book, is not simply ſimply to know God's Mind in his Decrees, but to make the Viſion of them to John, and to execute and fulfill them in times; it is in Alluſion to thoſe which take a Commiſſion, who take it not only to look on it, but to fulfill it; it is a Commiſſion ſealed ſo, as this Proclamation is in effect: Who ſhall be able to be God's Commiſſioner, to take this Book, and make the Viſions to John, and execute and produce them in their time?

And this appears from Chap. 6. ver. 1. ſtill as the Seals are opened by the Lamb, there is a Viſion made to John of what ſhould be done; therefore the Lamb is preſented not ſimply, as one that ſhould take the Book, but that hath Eyes and Horns; Eyes of Providence, and Horns of Power to execute: And this agrees with the Alluſion unto Gen. 49. 9, 10. where Judah is made a Type of Chriſt, and called a Lion's Whelp, and the Scepter given him, and is called God's Lawgiver, to take his Laws from him, and execute them, (for in that reſpect it is, that Judah is called God's Lawgiver, Gen. 49. 11.) not in reſpect of the giving the Laws of God, but in reſpect of the executive Power to ſee them kept: So Chriſt here; and he ſo takes this Book, as to deliver it to us to execute the Decrees of it.

Ver. 4. And I wept much.] John weeps; he was called up to Heaven to ſee Viſions; and now there was a ſtop, it was to ſet off the Mercy, and to try his Heart, and make the Joy greater.

Obſerv. 1. Our Infirmities ſhall not hinder God's revealing himſelf; though Unbelief may ſay, it will never be, yet Chriſt will go on to reveal himſelf, as here to John.

Obſerv. 2. God in greateſt Mercies, may make greateſt Stops enough to bring to Deſpair, you ſhall ſee no hope e'er he grants them ſo to John here; ſo in the firſt Works of Converſion many times; and ſo in great Works he calls Men to, he may make a ſtop; John was called to ſee Viſions, yet a ſtop and pauſe was in his View made.

Obſerv. 3. If by John's Weeping were meant, his praying to God in this ſtop put, then you ſee the way to obtain Revelations of God, is by Tears and Praying; ſo Daniel prayed and wept, Dan. 10. ver. 2. and then God revealed himſelf.

John is comforted by a Stander-by, 1ſt, By ſomething to uphold his Heart; 2dly, By the ſight of the Lamb, ver. 6.

Obſerv. 4. The degrees God uſes to comfort his People; 1ſt, To let fall ſomething that gives hopes of Chriſt, to draw the Soul to wait: Then 2dly, To ſhew them Chriſt himſelf; God might have ſhewed John the Lamb at firſt; but firſt he comforts him by a Stander-by; So Job, firſt heard by the hearing of the Ear, and then his Eye ſaw him.

Ver. 6. Chriſt the only opener of this Book, and giver of this Propheſie, is diverſly expreſſed: 1ſt, He is called the Root of David, out of Iſa. 11. 10. Chriſt put this Riddle to the Phariſees, How David could call him Lord, if he were his Son? So how could he be called the Root, if he were David's Son, and a Branch of him? The truth is, he is the Root of David, and of all the Saints; he was the Root of his Anceſtors, the Father of his Mother; the Root of any Family in Scripture, is put for the eldeſt Son in it, who is as the Root of the reſt: So Iſa. 14. 30. I will kill thy Root with Famine, that is, thy Firſt-born, the Root of thy Houſe; for in oppoſition, he ſays, And the Firſt-born of the Poor ſhall be fed; ſo Mal. 4. 1. that therefore Chriſt is the Root of David, the meaning is, that he is the Firſt-born among all his Brethren, as Rom. 8. he is called, and Pſal 89. 27. ſo God calls David in the Type, but intends Chriſt thereby, when he ſays, I will make him my Firſt born, higher than the Kings of the Earth; and ver. 29. His Seed ſhall endure for ever: This is to be the Root of David, He is the Firſt-born of every Creature, of whom the whole Family in Heaven and Earth is named, Ephe. 3. 15.

2dly, He is called the Lion of the Tribe of Judah: But why a Lion of the Tribe of Judah? It is a manifeſt Alluſion to the Propheſie, Gen. 49. 10. wherein Judah (as this place ſhews,) is made a Type of Chriſt; and it warrants the Application of all there unto Chriſt.

Judah

Judah is called a Lion: 1. Because out of Judah came all the Worthies, and Lion-like Men, Joshuah, Othniel, David, all the Shadows of Christ; therefore, Gen. 49. 11. he is called an Old Lion, (as the Word is,) a couragious hearty Lion: So 2 Sam. 17. 10. Valiant Men are called Lions; such was Christ, who durst engage his Heart to draw near to God, Jer. 30. 21.

2. Judah had that Kingdom (whereof a Lion is the Emblem,) therefore Scepter and Lawgiver, ver. 11. are attributed to him; so that it is as much as to say, Christ the King by inheritance, as Judah was, hath overcome.

3. Judah did take the Prey, (the Land;) it was done by the Worthies of Judah, Joshua, David; and when, as a Lion, they had taken that Prey, they couched and had rest; as in Solomon's Days, 1 Kings 4. 21. which was also prophesied of, Numb. 23. 24. Behold, they rose up as a great Lion, and shall not lye down till he eat the Prey; and Gen. 49. 9. He couched as an Old Lion; who shall raise him up? So Christ, when he had led Captivity Captive, sits down quietly in Heaven couching, as lying in wait till the Day of Judgment, when he will appear like an old Lion that coucheth as if asleep, and then suddenly leaps on the Prey. Especially in the latter Days, when the Gatherings shall be to him, his Kingdom shall be as of a Lion among Beasts; so Micah 5. 8. he Prophesies there of Christ's Kingdom in the calling the Jews, and of his Birth, ver. 2. now that Kingdom is the scope of this Book.

Ver. 6. And in the midst of the Elders, stood a Lamb as it had been slain. John had heard of Christ as a Lion, but he sees him as a Lamb. So many a poor Soul are afraid of him, but when you see him, and come to be acquainted with him, you will find him to be a Lamb, and a Lamb that hath Eyes to run to and fro through the Earth for you, and seven Horns, not to hurt you, but to butt his and your Enemies: We have not all Lion-like Thoughts of Christ; as he hath, the Heart of a Lion, so he hath the Meekness of a Lamb. You may wonder at this mixture; he is a Lamb to you.

1st, Why is he called a Lamb? It is in allusion to the Sacrifices of the Old Law, which were most of Lambs; the ordinary Sacrifices were two Lambs a Day, Numb. 28. 3. Here he was to represent Christ as a Priest; as before, in being call'd a Lion, he was represented as a King; and therefore it follows, as it had been slain.

2*dly*, In the midst of the Throne, &c. stood a Lamb.] The Lamb stood nearer than the four Beasts, between the Throne and the Elders; for he is a Mediator betwixt his Church and God.

3*dly*, As it had been slain;] that is, First, As if he were newly slain; for his Blood is fresh continually, as if he were slain to day; thou seest thy Sins, as if they were committed yesterday; and God views Christ's Blood, as if he were slain yesterday, Heb. 9. 12. Secondly, But as slain, to shew he doth not remain slain, but is alive, Chap. 1. 18. I was dead, and behold, I am alive for ever more.

4*thly*, Stood a Lamb] standing, to shew he is ready to help. When Steven died, he saw Christ standing at God's right Hand as ready to receive him. 'Tis also to shew his readiness to interceed.

5*thly*, Having seven Horns;] Horns are put for Power to push with: So Rev. 17. 12. The ten Horns are the ten Kings: The seven Horns here, all Kingly Power; seven is a number of Perfection, to shew Christ hath power to open the seven Seals; and there are seven Trumpets and seven Vials, and Christ hath seven Horns, that is, power to fulfill all these. Anti-christ rises like Christ, and comes with Power, Rev. 13. 11. but what discovers him he hath but two Horns, the Church needs not fear him; the Lamb hath Horns to vindicate himself of his Enemies; fear not Kings though ten Kings, he is King of Kings; and fear not the Devil, who is a roaring Lion, for Christ the Lion of the Tribe of Judah is stronger than he, and will bind him.

6*thly*, And seven Eyes, which are the seven Spirits of God, sent forth into all the Earth;] the Spirit not in his Personal Subsistence is here meant, but in his instrumental working in Gifts and Providence, and so is called seven Spirits (before, in Chap. 4. 5. The seven Spirits before the Throne are Gifts in the Church which are from Christ;) for he is the Fountain of Spiritual Gifts, and hath the Spirit without measure; but here by the seven Spirits in Christ, is not meant Gifts poured out, but Eyes of Providence sent into the Earth, by which he knows and sees all things in allusion to that, Zach. 4. 10. and it implies the perfect Knowledge and Providence of Christ to order all Affairs on Earth for his Church; so 2 Chron. 16. 9. as before in Zachary, he did the Affairs of the Persian Monarch for the building of his Church.

Spirit

Observ. Christ as Man hath both Horns and Eyes to guide and discern all things here below; his Human Nature is the Instrument of all God's Power; all goes through his Hands, and all the Works of God's Providence go all through his sight; he knows all is done in the World.

The next thing is, why Christ should be presented here in this: Christ under these Notions of a Lion of the Tribe of Judah, and a Lamb, and the Root of David, rather than any other: He speaks, 1*st*, in the Language of the Old Testament, and of John Baptist, who was under the Old Testament, (who all spake of Christ:) So Luke 24. 27. Beginning at Moses and all the Prophets, he expounded unto them the things concerning himself. Now Moses called him a Lion, Gen. 49. 9. Isaiah calls him a Lamb, Chap. 53. 7. and the Root of David, Isa. 11. 10. and John Baptist calls him the Lamb of God which bears the Sins of the World. Now as all other things in this Book are set forth in allusion to the Old Testament, so these Descriptions of Christ also: 2*dly*, He gives him these Titles in relation to the Work of Redemption, of which mention is made ver. 9. Now to that, Two Things are required:

First, A price to God, and so as a Lamb thou hast redeemed us to God by thy Blood, ver. 9. Secondly, Power to deliver us out of the Hands of our Enemies; so he is a Lion that overcomes.

3*dly*, It hath relation especially to the opening this Book, and executing the Affairs in it; and so these Titles are most proper.

For, First, He needed to die for it, and so is presented as a Lamb slain; for that Price that Salvation did cost, each Revelation to us must cost as much also; not simply his being the Son of God, and so knowing the Counsels of God written in his Decrees, was enough for him to make them known to us; but to reveal this Counsel to us, as in a Book to be opened to us, he must die, for our Sins hindered, and therefore he must die; Hence it is said, Thou art worthy to open the Book, for thou wast slain, ver. 9. And so, as a Lamb, he is said to take Sin away that hindered the Revelation to us.

Secondly, As a Lion he needed courage to approach God's Wrath, break through a consuming Fire to his Throne to take the Book; Who hath ingaged his Heart to draw near to me? No Angel durst have presumed to come so near.

Thirdly, As a Lion he needed to overcome Death, and rise to execute the Contents of this Book. A Lion, they say, sleeps at first three days when brought forth, and then with the roaring of the Old Lion is rouzed, and sleeps the least of any Creatures; so Christ rose by the Power of his Father to sleep no more.

Fourthly, Being risen, he is set forth, 1*st*, As a Lion of Judah, for in that Prophecy, Gen. 49. 11. as also Psal. 60. 7. Judah, in respect of his Kingly Office, is called God's Lawgiver, not simply in respect of giving the Laws, that Moses of the Tribe of Levi did, but because Judah executed them; now because Christ did here take the Book of God's Decrees, and undertake to execute and fulfil them as God's Commissioner, therefore he is in this place most properly in that respect the Lion of the Tribe of Judah. 2*dly*, He is here set forth as a Lamb with seven Horns and Eyes, in as fit and proper respect to this as might be, as one not fit only to give this Propheſie, but to effect the things contained in it by his Horns and Eyes, and seven Horns and seven Eyes, to shew his full Power to open the seven Seals and the seven Trumpets, and to pour out the seven Vials, such a Prophet never was, who is not barely to reveal things, but to bring them to pass, and make them good, God gave Christ the Plat-form of the Occurrences to come, and Power and Wisdom to order the Accomplishment of them.

He is set also forth under both as a Lamb and a Lion, to shew his Kingly and Priestly Office; to shew, how by virtue of both, he makes us Kings and Priests, as they sing, ver. 10. and so they having his Kingdom in their Eye, are confirmed in the Promise of it by a remembrance of him; as a Lamb and a Lion thus strong and powerful; as a Lamb he purchaseth the Revelation of what concerns the Church; and as a Lamb with Horns and Eyes, he effects the accomplishment of it. And the Sum of this Book being to shew, how Christ rules the World and his Church, till he hath put down all Rule, and how he takes the Kingdom himself; therefore he is described as a Lamb in respect of his quiet governing the Affairs of the World and the Church until that his Kingdom come, and then as a Lion by open Force, takes the Kingdom and his Church as a Prey, out of the Enemies Jaws, and that by the right of a promised Succession from Judah and David; for which Cases, those Titles of the Root of David and Lion of Judah do here come in.

In a word, First, This Title of his being the Root of David, is to shew his Right and Title to that Kingdom he is to receive, of which David and his Kingdom was but a Type.

Secondly, His being a Lamb slain, is to shew both the Right and Title to that Kingdom, and the Price by which he purchas'd this his Kingdom, even his Blood.

Thirdly, His being a Lion, is to shew the Power by which he conquers and obtains, and then possesses it: Therefore this heavenly Chorus or Company here, when they do but see Christ, by taking this Book to undertake the accomplishment of this Prophesie; the conclusion of which is, his Instalment into his Kingdom; they in the Joy and Faith of it, cry out afore hand, we shall Reign on Earth, as looking on all was to go before it, as good as already done, and over-looking it all, having this Kingdom chiefly in their Eye.

Now, from the 8th Verse to the end, is a Doxology, or a giving Praise for the Lamb's taking the Book, which consists of four Parties or Companies.

First, Of twenty four Elders and the Beasts; the Church of Men on Earth, they begin and raise the Song, ver. 8.

Secondly, Angels they join and sing after, ver. 11.

Thirdly, Then all Creatures come in also, ver. 13.

Fourthly, The Beasts, as the Leaders, say in the end, Amen, and close it, v. 14.

Observat. Observe, 1st, in the general, that the Sons of Men are the eminentest Praisers of God, they are the Precentors in this Heavenly Quire, and they conclude the Song; the reason is, because the highest work God did, is the Work of Redemption which concerns us, not the Angels; for which, yet the Angels praise him in the Second of Luke, as also here; yea, all the Creatures rejoice in our Redemption, ver. 13. but still we are the First Fruits, the top Leaders: The Angels follow; 'tis not said by them, Thou hast redeemed us to God by thy Blood; that concerns us; yet they sing Praise.

Observe, 2dly, Learn to bless God for his Mercy and Goodness to others; so you see, the Angels do for us: They cannot sing, as we, with an interest, yet they praise God for it; and this is their highest Grace. Canst thou do so? Then comfort thy self, thou hast as good Grace as any in the Angels.

Observe, Yet, 3dly, Learn to bless God with a sense of thy interest; that will raise thy Heart a degree higher, as the Church of Men are here rais'd, (ver. 9. 10.) in their Song by their interest. The Praisers of the Sons of Men are described:

First, Having Harps.

Secondly, Golden Vials. 'Tis an allusion to the Levitical Service in the Temple, where they had Musical Instruments and Incense in Bowls or Vials, which Zach. 14. 20. are called the Bowls of the Altar; not that Musical Instruments are to be in the Worship of God now no more than Incense, but as Incense was the Type of Prayer and Praises, Psal. 141. 2. Let my Prayer come up before thee as Incense: So these Harps are of that Spiritual Melody, as the Apostle calls it, which we make to God in our Hearts, even of spiritual Songs in Christ, Eph. 5. 19. Therefore John himself interprets the Odours or Incense here, to be the Prayers of the Saints; their Hearts are the Golden Vials, having Faith purer than Gold, as Peter ter ſpeaks; it being the Spring of all their Prayers; and their Harps alſo are their Hearts, corda & chordæ are near a-kin.

And every one is ſaid to have Harps; for in Publick Worſhip all ſhould join; the little Strings go to make up a Conſort as well as the great. Though thou haſt but little Grace, yet God's Worſhip would not be compleat without thee.

And whereas John calls theſe Odours the Prayers of the Saints, it makes nothing for what the Papiſts would collect hence, That the Saints in Heaven offer up the Prayers of the Saints on Earth: For, Firſt, This Company are (as we ſaid before,) the Church of Men on Earth. Secondly, Theſe here offer not the Prayers of others, but their own; for both themſelves make the Song, and it is a new one of their own making; and alſo the benefit they praiſe God for in it, is their own, Thou haſt redeemed us to God by thy Blood. Thoſe words therefore [the Prayers of the Saints,] are but the interpretation which John adds, and imply but this, That theſe were Saints, and their Odours were their Prayers.

Ver 9. And they ſung a new Song] [new;] you ſhall find in the Pſalms, that when David had a new occaſion in a further degree to praiſe God, he ſays, I will ſing a new Song; and here was a new occaſion given: 2*dly*, New, in oppoſition to the Old Song under the Old Teſtament, as John 13. 14. I give you a new Commandment, that is, of the Goſpel, called new in oppoſition to the Commands of the old Law; in the 4th Chapter of this Book, theſe Elders had ſung a Song for the Work of Creation, ver. ult. but here they ſing for the Work of Redemption, as ver. 9 which is the eminent Work of the New Teſtament, as Creation was of the Old; and therefore it is called a new Song. 3*dly*, Here there is a more ſpecial reaſon why they ſhould ſing a new Song, for the New Jeruſalem was in their Eye, Chriſt's Kingdom and their Kingdom; we ſhall reign on Earth, there all things ſhall be made new, and therefore their Song is new; a new Song for the inſtalment of their new King, thus Pſal. 96. 1. (which is a Pſalm of this Kingdom of Chriſt, as appears ver. 10, 13.) that Pſalm therefore begins, Oh! ſing to the Lord a new Song.

Obſervat. 1*ſt*, Learn to frame new matter of Praiſe and Affections upon every new occaſion.

Obſervat. 2*d*, We are to bleſs God for Creation and Redemption, both to take in the mention of old Bleſſings when we give thanks for new, as a good Scribe is ſaid to bring forth of his Treaſure things new and old; ſo in Thankſgiving, we are to ſing the old Song and the new.

The Matter of the Song is Praiſe to the Lamb.

Firſt, The Perſon praiſed is the Lamb, Thou art worthy. In anſwer to the Proclamation, Who is worthy? Thou, and thou alone; for to him, and by him, and for him, are all things, Coloſ. 1.

Secondly, The things for which they praiſe him, are 1*ſt*, For his Death, that he died to redeem: 2*dly*, For his Reſurrection, intimated in this, Thou waſt ſlain; the one making us Prieſts, the other Kings; as follows, ver. 10. and to this end Chriſt died, and roſe that he might be Lord and King, Rom. 14. 9. The word which is tranſlated here redeemed, is in the Original bought.

Ver. 9. For thou waſt ſlain, and haſt redeemed us to God by thy Blood out of every Kindred, and People, and Tongue, and Nation.

Obſervat. Firſt, That the Blood of Chriſt was paid as a Price to God to purchaſe our Redemption, 1 Cor. 6. 20. bought with a Price; and in 1 Tim. 2. he calls it a Ranſom.

Obſervat. 2. That Chriſt hath not redeemed all Men; for it is not every Nation and Tribe, but out of every Nation the Elect only.

Obſervat. 3. In that they ſay, Chriſt is worthy to receive the Book becauſe he was ſlain; it argues, this Book of the Revelation is a ſpecial Fruit of his Death, and ſo ſhould be the more prized by us; before Chriſt's Death, we hear Chriſt himſelf ſay, He knew not when the Day of Judgment ſhould be, but now he is ſlain, and hath taken this Book, he doth, ver. 10.

Ver. 10. And haſt made us unto our God Kings and Prieſts, and we ſhall reign on the Earth. Chriſt was afore ſet forth as a Lion for a King, ſo as a Lamb for a Prieſt Priest, and both were mentioned, to shew the grounds of our being both Kings and Priests who shall reign on Earth.

Observ. First, That this Comforted the Saints of old, even the consideration of Christ's Kingdom on Earth; and how peremptory are they we shall reign; they mention that, because, that is the end and scope of the Revelation, the conclusion of this Book, when the Seals are off, and the Book finish'd; and so they have it in their Eye; and they seeing Christ undertaking the accomplishment of all in this Book, whereof this is the issue, are confirm'd in the Faith of it.

Observ. Secondly, That this Kingdom of Christ on Earth to come, is a far more glorious Condition for the Saints than what their Souls have now in Heaven; for these here over-look that Condition which yet they were to run through, and their Thoughts fly to comfort themselves with this, we shall reign on Earth.

Ver. 11. In this Verse comes in the other Company of the Angels singing; who, First, for their number are Ten thousand times a thousand, and thousands of thousands in the 7th of Daniel; where the same Throne and Kingdom of Christ is propheſied of, there is the same number of his Guard of Angels mentioned.

Observ. 1. God hath another World of rational Creatures which we see not; and what a Story then will the Latter Day produce?

Obs. 2. What need we fear when there is so many for us? as 2 Kings 6. 17. For their Station, they are behind the Elders, &c. yet round about the Throne, not so near as the Elders, they are the Guard of the Queen of Heaven, the Lamb's Wife the Church, Psal. 34. 7. Angels in compass round about them that fear him, and are sent out for their good, Heb. 1. ult.

Ver. 12. The Song follows, Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive.

Observ. 1*st*, Christ though he were worthy by Inheritance, yet he was also worthy by Purchase, to receive all these; so the words imply, (that was slain.)

2*dly*, As he hath seven Horns and seven Eyes, so he hath a sevenfold Praise.

3*dly*, And because they cannot praise him enough, they heap up words to praise him with.

4*thly*, None is worthy to be the King of all the World but only Jesus Christ; and indeed it were too much for any Creature. The Angels themselves were top-heavy of their Glory, which made them reel out of Heaven; but Christ hath the Godhead to poize him: No Beast is naturally a King of Beasts but the Lion, (says the Philosopher;) nor none worthy to be King of all Creatures, but this Lion of the Tribe of Judah.

The things which they attribute to him are:

First, Power, that is, Authority over all; so Christ says, John 17. 2. To me all Power is given.

Secondly, Riches, that is, Possession of all Creatures, all things are his, and so ours, 2 Cor. 8. 9. Christ who was rich, was made poor; Riches of Glory, Knowledge, all are his.

Thirdly, Strength, joined with Power and Authority, able he is to work any thing, not as other Kings that have great Power and Authority, but no more Personal Strength than other Men; he hath therefore seven Horns.

Fourthly, Wisdom, and this as large as his Power and Dominions; he knows all God means to do, and sees all with his own seven Eyes, not other Mens, as other Kings do.

Fifthly, Honour, that respects what all Creatures bring in to him; they all adore and bow the Knee to him, Phil. 2.

Sixthly, Glory, both in his Personal Excellencies, and also what his Father gives him; he sits at God's right Hand, and with his Father governs, and shall come in his Fathers Glory, and in his Person is the Brightness of his Glory.

Seventhly, Blessing, which respects that Glory, which for his special Goodness to them, his Saints do give him; others give Honour to Christ; the Devils do, but not Blessing; that the Saints only do, for that respects Communication of Goodness, they only bless him whom he blesseth first.

Obſerv. Chriſt hath all deſirable Excellencies in him, Beauty, Glory, Honour, Eſteem, Riches, Strength, Wiſdom.

Ver. 13. And every Creature;] Every Creature in its kind ſhall worſhip Chriſt, Phil. 2. Every Creature comes in here, becauſe when Chriſt's Kingdom is ſet up, they ſhall be renewed, Rom. 8. 19. Pſal. 69. 10, 11. both Creatures under the Earth, Bodies of Saints departed, and precious Stones, &c. for all Creatures ſhall be uſed in a glorious Liberty.

The Church of Men began the Song, and theſe continue it; for it is this Mercy to them that is Matter of the Song, and the Inſtauration of their King; and therefore we are to be ſtirred up the more to do it, in that we ſee even all the Creatures do it whom it doth not ſo much concern.

Ver. 14. And the four Beaſts ſaid, Amen;] and the Elders follow; the Officers begin and end.

Amen,] ſeems to be an Ordinance, a word to be uſed by Officers firſt, and then by the People, as 1 Cor. 14. 16.

A DISCOURSE OF Christ's Reward;

Or, of the GLORY which He receives in HEAVEN;

As due to the Excellency of His Person,

And as the RECOMPENCE of

His Work of Redemption perform'd.

Rev. v. 12.

Worthy is the Lamb that was slain, to receive Power, and Riches, and Wisdom, and Strength, and Honour, and Glory, and Blessing.

I Design to give you a Particular (as we use to call it,) of that Estate of Glory which was Christ's due, and which our Lord of Glory parted with, and was emptied of; and compare with each, the Particulars of His emptied, humbled Estate, contrary thereunto.

And for this, I might refer unto those inherent Glories that were His due, to have broke forth from the first in Him; as also those Privileges, and Royalties of His; and so here, upon that Argument, set by them His standing out of all these, and emptying Himself of them during His humbled Estate.

I shall take that Royal Proclamation of His Glories which the Holy and Blessed Angels His Heralds have made, and take what I find sum'd up in one Cluster, growing on one Stalk, or in one Verse, Rev. 5. 12. Worthy is the Lamb that was slain, to receive Power, and Riches, and Wisdom, and Strength, and Honour, and Glory, and Blessing: That they speak it of Him as God-man, is clear, in that He is called the Lamb.

But before I enter upon the Merits of my Design specified, I must remove an Objection, That my running over those Particulars mention'd, will not be pertinent unto the Ends and Purpose which I even now proposed; for the main Argument is, the Glories which were His due as God-man before His Redemption tion of us; and the laying down of that Glory, was the main Ingredient of that Sacrifice He offered up for His redeeming of us: But the Royalties there aſcribed as worthy to be given Him, are what the Angels ſay, He was worthy of for having redeemed us; for the Account they give them hereupon, is as He is the Lamb ſlain, and not at all as God-man. For the removal of which, and clearing the aptneſs and meetneſs of the Allegation of theſe, as ſuitable in the Scope and Matter of them unto my forementioned purpoſe, I premiſe theſe Anſwers.

Firſt, As to that, That the Angels ſhould proclaim him worthy of all theſe becauſe ſlain, and as the Lamb that was ſlain, as ver. 9. ſeems to carry it: Suppoſe that were the Scope, yet it is but to declare a ſuperadditional Glory of Chriſt's, conſiſting in this, That He ſhould merit by his Death what was otherwiſe naturally due to Him in His Perſon, who was ſlain; and ſo a redoubled Honour accrue to Him upon ſeveral Titles; That He who in Himſelf, and the Dignity of His Perſon, was worthy of all theſe, ſhould moreover by the Merits of His Death, purchaſe thereby to be worthy of them alſo; and ſo that although He merited them by His being ſlain, yet it was but what his own by another right before, due to His Perſon, but now moreover to His Actions and Sufferings, and how that by them He deſerved them alſo; and ſo in that one Deſcription or Character of Him, both Dues are here both involved at once. Firſt, The Lamb, noting His Perſon God-man; (and it is His Title given His Perſon now He is in Glory, throughout this Book.) Secondly, The Lamb that was ſlain; both which, under the ſame terms in effect, Peter indigitates, 1 Pet. 1. 19. Ye were redeemed with the precious Blood of Chriſt, as of a Lamb without blemiſh, and without ſpot, where the preciouſneſs of his Blood is inferr'd from the preciouſneſs of his Perſon. 1*ſt*, He mentions Chriſt, whom in his Perſon he expreſly calls Elect and Precious, in the following Chap. 2. 6. and whom he ſets forth in his Perſon as a Foundation to our Faith, and alſo unto his Merit for us, which is the approximate ground of our Faith: Then, 2*dly*, He ſpeaks of this glorious Perſon's being ſacrificed to Death; for his Blood, there is ſaid to be the price, as of a Lamb without blemiſh, and without ſpot, alluding to the Paſchal Lamb his Type; for inded, even the value of that Price by his Death was founded on the innate Worthineſs of his Perſon, as to whom all theſe were due on the pure account thereof; for his having been ſlain would not have made him worthy of all theſe, if his Perſon that was ſlain had not been worthy of all theſe afore he was ſlain: Yea, and the Angels do mention his Death in this their Doxology of Praiſe, chiefly as a Deſcription of his Perſon in this ſenſe, That he whoſe Perſon was the Lamb of God, (God man;) and further, had been he that was ſlain, was worthy, &c. and of the two it is certain, the Worthineſs of his Perſon far exceeds the Merits of his Suffeirngs and Actions.

Secondly, The like Allegation may be made concerning the manifeſtative Glory of the other Two Perſons; for that very Glory which is perſonally due to each Perſon as God, they are yet proclaimed worthy to receive upon occaſion of ſome ſpecial Work done by them; and thus it is with Chriſt here: Thus God the Father, of whom the Angels ſay, Chap. 7. 12. Bleſſing, and Glory, and Wiſdom, and Thanksgiving, and Honour, and Power, and Might, be unto our God for ever, and ever. Amen. All theſe are his due as he is God; and yet, Chap. 4. 11. he (for of him 'tis ſpoken,) is proclaimed worthy to receive Glory, and Honour, &c. for thou haſt created all things: Thus it is with Chriſt for having performed the Work of Redemption here.

Thirdly, 'Tis true, there is a Glory given to Chriſt, which wholly relates to the Work of Redemption alone, even as to God the Father alſo, for and upon his Work of Creation; who although he was God, and ſo Almighty, able to create, yet he could not have had the glory of creating, or being a Creator, unleſs he had actually created; though in that he is able to create, he might have been intitled to ſuch a Power: And ſo Chriſt hath this Glory given, upon occaſion of his being a Redeemer, and that he is a Redeemer; for he was ſlain, and without it he had not been a Redeemer; yet ſtill look as God receives in and upon the Work of Creation, but the glory of his being God; the inviſible things of God being manifested therein, even his eternal Power, and God-head; so Christ in receiving the Glory of Redemption, receives but the acknowledgments of those Portions due to him as God-man, now further manifested in that Work.

Fourthly, In that he is said [to receive them,] after his being slain, this prejudiceth it not, but that they were due to his Person afore: For not only of God himself the same Phrase is used, Worthy art thou to receive Glory, that is, as given from all thy Creatures, Rev. 4. 11. 'tis spoken of him that sits on the Throne, (ver. 10.) but also here, as it is used of Christ, it refers to that actual Possession he had taken of Glory upon his Ascension, which is called his entring into Glory; after his Sufferings, Luke 24. 26. Ought not Christ to have suffered these things, and to enter into his Glory? All which, the Angels after his Ascension thus applaud, and cry Euge to; and in respect to this Possession then given, and received by him, it is said, he was made both Lord and Christ, Acts 2. 34, 35, 36. The Lord said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right Hand, until I make thy Foes thy Footstool: Therefore let all the House of Israel know assuredly, That God hath made that same Jesus whom ye have crucified, both Lord and Christ; which is clearly spoken of his Ascension: And yet he was Lord and Christ afore.

And in the like manner doth the Revelation speak of his entering into Possession of the Kingdoms of the World, Rev. 11. 17 Thou hast taken to thee thy great Power: It was his afore his Power as his due, and yet as now but the taker of it; and therein takes but what is his right into his own Hands: And the Phrase [takes to him] is usually spoken of one that hath newly taken to him a Right or Due that was detained from him, or out of his own hands, and exercised by others that kept it from him, yet belonging to him; and so here, when he is declared worthy to have received, &c. and to receive after his Suffering, it is to be judged, that he doth but take to him what was his.

And, Lastly, That all these were his by inheritance, as being God's natural eldest Son: You have expresly, Heb. 1. 4, 5. Being made so much better than the Angels, as he hath by Inheritance obtained a more excellent Name than they: For unto which of the Angels said he at any time, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee? And again, I will be to him a Father, and he shall be to me a Son; by inheritance, as being eldest Son, and the only begotten of God; yea in his very Conception, and the Union of God-man, he was the Son of God; and therefore, all this Royalty or Glory was then his due by inheritance, Luke 1. 35. The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the Power of the Highest shall over-shadow thee; therefore also that Holy Thing which shall be born of thee, shall be called the Son of God; [called,] that is, shall have the Name of being God's Son, and therewith all that Dignity, Power, Glory whatsoever, that were due to him that was the only begotten Son of God, John 1. And the Angel shews, that he should have all these in Title as his right and due the first instant of his Conception; all which he yet had not in full and actual possession until he (as now here) was come to Heaven.

And therefore that it is here said, Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive, &c. imports not as if he received it only because he was slain; nor is it any way implied thereby, that it was not his right by Personal Inheritance, no more than that a King that is a while kept from his right, and obtains the possession of it by Conquest, may not yet be said to have it by inheritance also, yea, and so as he holds that to be the surer and better Title also.

In that very Chapter (where his Kingly Dignity is solemnized,) there are these three distinct Titles proclaimed of him; First, By inheritance, in that he is called the Root of Jesse: The eminentest and eldest in a Family, are called the Root, or the Father of that Family. So Isa. 14. 30. Now though David was the youngest Son, yet Psal. 89. 27. God said of him, I will make him my First-born, higher than the Kings of the Earth; who as in that Right received the Kingdom, to shew, That Christ as God's First-born, should by inheritance receive it also; which is the Title I am now a pleading. Secondly, He is called the Lion of Judah, who got the Land by Conquest; so Joshua of that Tribe, Christ's Type. Thirdly, A Lamb slain that bought it with his Blood.

This Objection being thus removed, and the Text thus adapted to my intended purpose, I approach now unto my intended Design, which is to set in one view in two opposite Schemes or Draughts, these Personal Excellencies of Christ God-man, as it were in one Side or Page, (as in such cases we use to place things opposite or parallel;) and the contrary humbled Estate in the Form of a Servant on the opposite Page, as being ἀντιστοιχεία, contrary one to the other.

I. Concerning these his Excellencies and Royalties due to his Person, I premise but Two Things in general e'er I enter upon the aforesaid particular Comparison.

First,

Firſt, That theſe Perfections he is celebrated for, are in number ſeven, which is the number of Perfection; for they contain a fulneſs, and compleatneſs of Perfections, and thoſe perſonally due to him.

The Second is, That they are the good and holy Angels, who behold his Face and the Father's, who do give him the Elogy and Praiſe of them; and the Teſtimony of Angels ought to have a mighty impreſſion upon us: You ſee what a weight is put upon but one Angel's Teſtimony that gave Revelation to John, and it is as the Seal ſet to the whole Book, Rev. 22. 16. I Jeſus have ſent mine Angel to teſtifie theſe things: What then is the Teſtimony of all the Holy Angels, the whole Quire of them? And ſo it is prefaced to theſe words in the foregoing 11th Chapter, And I beheld, and I heard the Voice of many Angels round about the Throne, and the Beaſts, and the Elders, and the number of them was ten thouſand times ten thouſand, and thouſands of thouſands, ſaying with a loud Voice, Worthy, &c. This Witneſs of theirs muſt therefore have an anſwerable reverential Repute with us; for they muſt needs be held the moſt faithful and able witneſs in this Matter: Indeed, above all other Creatures, we Men redeemed do experimentally feel what he is, as he is a Redeemer, and know that (in that reſpect) better than they: And therefore there is that emphatical difference to be obſerved in the Song of the Chorus of Men, giving Glory to him, Rev. 5. 9, 10. Thou waſt ſlain, and haſt redeemed us to God by thy Blood out of every Kindred, and Tongue, and People, and Nation, and haſt made us unto our God, Kings and Prieſts, and we ſhall reign on the Earth. Oh! how feelingly do they enlarge upon it? But yet the Angels when they ſay, Worthy is the Lamb that was ſlain; tho' they go no further in their mention of it, yet they ſpeak all this upon their own knowledge, and that a knowledge of Sight, and not of obſcure Faith, as in a Glaſs darkly; for they ſee his Perſon every day, 1 Tim. 3. 16. taken up into Glory, ſeen of Angels, and ſeen as now he is in Glory, ſince his taking up; and ſo are to be valued for the moſt competent Witneſſes to this Matter of his Perſonal Glory, as alſo for the moſt faithful and impartial, in that he is of another nature from theirs; He took not the Nature of Angels, but yet they are ſo taken with, and overcome with this Glory of his Perſon now it is in their Eye, that not only they envy not at this his Exaltation as Man ſo far above them, as the evil Angels of their own Nature do, and for that Cauſe did, that you ſee on the contrary how they magnifie and extol it: You may well and worthily then receive their Teſtimony as next to that of God himſelf, and ſay (in alluſion to what John ſays of God's Witneſs of Chriſt, 1 John 5. 9.) If ye receive the Witneſs of Men, the Witneſs of Angels is greater.

And ſo I am more immediately arrived at that compariſon I promiſed in each particular of theſe Glories ſet in oppoſition againſt every anſwerable humiliation, not only emptying of them in Chriſt's humbled Condition, but the perfect contrary brought upon him; and this the Holy Angels themſelves give us occaſion, and invite us to do, by ſaying, Worthy is the Lamb that was ſlain; they conſidered, and took in both into the Burthen of their Song.

Let us therefore (as I ſaid afore,) turn that part of the Optick Glaſs that renders the Sun in its brighteſt Strength and Glory, and then turn the other end that renders it as a ſmall Snuff, diſcoloured, and riding in Darkneſs and Blackneſs; and we may among other, make this uſe of it, when you come to the Sacrament to celebrate the Memory of Chriſt crucified, take a view of Chriſt in both: Firſt, See him as Crowned with Glory and Honour, as the Apoſtle ſpeaks they ſaw him, Heb. 2. ſitting on the Throne of Majeſty on High: And then as Crowned with Thorns, naked, deſpiſed, hanging on a Tree. You have them both in ſight in that one Ver. 9. We ſee Jeſus, who was made a little lower than the Angels, by the ſuffering of Death, crowned with Glory and Honour. And that βραχύτι [a little] Lower, underſtand not of his Being, in that he was a Man, therefore a little degree lower; but it is ſpoken of the ſhortneſs of the time in which he was made lower; for otherwiſe, as for the lowneſs it ſelf of Condition which he was brought unto, the compariſon unto the Angels was not ſufficiently expreſſive, it is too high to ſet it forth; for he was in that reſpect made lower than any Man; I am a Worm, and no Man, ſaid he, Pſ. 22. that afore had ſaid, My God, my God, why haſt thou forſaken me? And as you conſider consider any part of his Debasement, mingle this Thought with it; Thus glorious should my Jesus have been at that time, but he gave himself, and all, away for me.

The first Attribute is Power, that is, Authority, δύναμις, which is here put for ἐξουσία, (as sometimes else-where) for here it is distinguished from ἰσχύς, Strength, which is another of the Particulars that follows; and it is a sure rule in interpreting this place, that each of these seven are distinct from the other, else they observed not the number seven, the number of Perfection; and to set out Christ's compleatness thereby is his scope, John. 17. 2. Thou hast given him Power over all Flesh: And, Matth. 28. All Power is given me both in Heaven and Earth; even all that Power executive, (not essential,) which God himself means actually to exercise, or put forth, all this Power is committed to him; as himself at another time saith, John 5.22. All Judgment is committed to the Son: And thus as in respect of actual Exercise of Authority, God's and Christ's Power as God-man, may be said to be of equal extent, one God, one Lord, of both whom are all things that are, so by virtue of this he hath all subject to him, 1 Pet. 3. 22. Angels, and Authorities, and Powers, being made subject to him; so as Christ, by virtue of it, commands whatever is done in this and that other World, you have seen him in his greatness in this respect.

See him now stript of all this, Matth. 20. 25. Ye know that the Princes of the Gentiles exercise Dominion over them, and they that are Great exercise Authority upon them: Then, ver. 28. he propounds his Example, The Son of Man came not to be ministred unto, but to minister, and to give his Life a ransom for many: 'Tis as if he had said, The Son of Man foretold by Daniel, (as in Chap. 7. 13. we find it,) to whom was given Dominion and Glory, and a Kingdom, that all People, Nations, and Languages, should serve him; his Dominion is an everlasting Dominion, which shall not pass away; and his Kingdom that which shall not be destroyed, ver. 14. Though it was his right to exercise Dominion on these petty Constables, who, for such are Kings over the Nations, yet under him instead of being over (says he) all these sorts of Attendants, I minister to all, and my whole Life is a Service devoided of all Authority but over Devils and Diseases, but otherwise it is a subjection to all other; and I am not only a Servant unto God herein, but am subjected to Men; and what was his end in this, but to make a price of Redemption for us thereof, together with his whole Life, and to give his Life a Ransom for many? He is subject not only to the lawful Authority of the Roman Empire as then extant, but so he would have been of any State he might have been supposed to live in, which he considered enough then; the Exactors of Tribute required it of him by Peter, to put him in mind of it, Matth. 17. But he declared in his Answer to their Demand, himself a King's Son; and therefore he says, ver. 26. The Children of Kings are free. And in those words he speaks to this effect, to give thee Peter a demonstration of what Authority and Dominion I have in this World, I will not pay it out of that ready Mony I have, or thou hast by thee, nor will I borrow it of any Man, but I will command a Fish to pay me Tribute, and with that do thou pay Cæsar; so as whilst he subjects himself to this Authority, he shews a greater Authority himself had, which Cæsar had not. This Authority, Power, and Dominion he gave away, and receded from it; yea further, He that had Authority to command all in Heaven and Earth, (a far larger and superiour Dominion than Cæsar's reach'd to,) was often put to hide himself, and fly from that Authority that sought his Life, as if he had not been able to have commanded the preservation of it: Thus when a Babe, he was forced to go into Egypt for fear of Herod; when come back again, to go into Nazareth for fear of Archelaus; and when come to Age, he was so divested, and emptied of all Power, as he was forced to retire into the Borders of Canaan, at one time to hide, and skulk, as we say: And again, John 4. 1, 3. When therefore the Lord knew how the Pharisees had heard, that Jesus made and baptized more Disciples than John, he left Judea, and departed again into Galilee: And another time, John 11. 53, 54. Then from that day forth, they took Counsel together for to put him to death: Jesus therefore walked no more openly among the Jews, but went thence unto a Country near to the Wilderness, into a City called Ephraim, and there continued with his Disciples: Yea then, when he was to be apprehended by a Band of Men, he yet considers enough what Power and Authority he had in Heaven for his Rescue, Matth. 26. 53, 54. Thinkest thou not that I cannot now pray to my Father, and he shall presently give me more than twelve Legions of Angels? But how then shall the Scriptures be fulfilled, that thus it must be? Even then he subjects and empties himself: If I should take this on me, how should the Scriptures be fulfilled? which have said, I must die, and suffer, and thus it must be: So at the Bar, he suffers himself to be arraigned by Authority, and to be smitten by an Under-Officer, as one that reviled the Authority, which the smiter of him judg'd he ought to have been subject to; yea, thought much at it that so poor a wretch as he should presume not to do it, John 18 22. And when he had thus spoken, one of the Officers which stood by, struck Jesus with the Palm of his hand, saying, Answerest thou the High Priest so? As if he should say, Answerest [thou,] so vile, so mean a Wretch as thou art, the High Priest so? And he then also considers what was his due, and declares it afore them openly at the Bar, when they contemned him, as being then thorough his own willing emptying himself, in their Power. Thus, Matth. 26. 64. Jesus saith unto him, Thou hast said; nevertheless I say unto you, Hereafter shall ye see the Son of Man sitting on the right hand of Power, and coming in the Clouds of Heaven: That is, you have me now under, and this is your hour; and you think of me but as of another Man subject to you: Nevertheless I say unto you, Hereafter shall ye see the Son of Man sitting on the right hand of Power, and coming in the Clouds of Heaven. What need I say more as to this Argument but this, That he to whom all Authority in Heaven and Earth is committed, was accus'd and condemn'd, and the cause for which he was condemned, was, That he was a Rebel, and a Traytor unto Authority.

The 2d Particular Glory of which Christ divested himself for us, is Riches, which some refer to those Riches of Wisdom spoken of Colos. 2. but Wisdom we find comes in after; nor are they Riches of Glory; for they are in like manner summed up in Glory, which also follows: But these Riches here are attributed to Christ as a King, (which is the subject of this Chapter;) and a Kingdom consists as in Authority, so in Riches, &c. and so these Riches do import the right of Possession unto all things whatsoever: The Jus or Dominion over all Creatures, as being his proper Goods and Chattels; and to this purpose it is said, All is yours, for you are Christ's; so that all are his first and originally; and our Right is but a derivation from him. We read that Wisdom (that is, Christ) says, Prov. 8. 18. Riches and Honour are with me: The Earth is full, as of his Glory, Isa. 6. (for that is spoken of Christ;) so of his Riches, as Psal. 104. 24. And of Christ it is that it is said, Psal. 24. 1. The Earth is his, and the fulness of it; the World, and they that dwell therein; 'tis spoken of Christ that King of Glory, as ver. 8, 10. of whom that Psalm is made: For 'tis he to whom those everlasting Doors did open when he ascended, as in the close of that Psalm: His Riches lye not in Chattels only, but in Persons also, The fulness of the Earth, and the Inhabitants also, as in that Psalm. The Angels here you see, acknowledge, That all Riches are his, and there withal that themselves possess not a foot of ground in Heaven but what is Christ's: And if they, the supreamest rank of God's Creation, are his Servants, as that Angel acknowledgeth himself to be, Rev. 19. and ministring Spirits, Heb. 1. (and Servants and Ministers about a great King, or great Person, are part of their Riches,) then surely, all things else must be put into this Inventory: Now see the Grace, the Love of Christ, as the Apostle speaks, 2 Cor. 8. 9. That though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor. He emptied himself of the Possession of all, and left not himself so much as an hole to hide his head in; he speaks in relation to his outward possession of any thing: For his scope in that place, was to exhort to giving to others; and this Poverty was from his very Birth. Consider but how his Mother did lye in; (you that are rich, fine Dames, you will soon be sensible of this more than others,) she lyes In in Straw as Beasts at best, not in a Bed, no not in a House, but a Stable; and the Babe himself was laid in a Manger. His Parents that brought him up from an Infant, were poor, (and such must his Accommodations and Breeding be:) Witness the Offering they made at his bringing to the Temple, Luke 2. 24. And after in his Life, the World was not amended with him: He lives upon the Charity of others, and had but meerly wherewith to live: He is made dependent on Women, (who themselves have not to give, but out of that their Husbands allow them;) thus Luke 8. 11. and therein was made a Servant; for so is the Borrower to the Lender, as Solomon speaks. And at his Death, it continued still to be thus with him: He is fain to commend his Mother to another (to John,) to keep her when he is gone, having nothing himself to leave her: His Cloaths, though mean, were not his own to dispose of at that time; but the Guards and Watchmen that waited him till Death, cast Lots for them afore his Face; and himself considered it, and laid it to heart, as in Psal. 41. (made of him, and expressing his Heart, ver. 9.) It is strange, that in the midst of such Tortures he then hung in, he should mind this Circumstance, so small an one; but we are thereby taught, that he considered every thing he suffered, as well as every Sin of ours he suffered for; and was accordingly afflicted, that he that was so great, so rich a Person, if he had had his own in his right and due, should be brought to this, and stript of all; and should have those his mean and worthless Cloaths to be disposed of afore his Eyes, in a way of sport, as well as otherwise: This wounded and pierced his Heart, as well as that they pierced his Hands and his Feet, and gave him Vinegar to drink, and wagged their Heads in scorn; and his Poverty, and emptiness of all Comforts, and want of all Supplies in those respects, he was deeply sensible of: And the Psalm begins with, Blessed is he that considers the Poor; for he was such, and speaks it as glad that any did consider him in that Estate.

The Third Thing instanced in, is Wisdom, which is as large as his Authority: He knows all things that are, or fall out within his Dominion; which are all things. Kings see not with their own Eyes, but the Eyes of the Lord run through the whole Earth. He knew Paul, where he dwelt, Acts 9. as also that Church, Rev. 2. 13. I know where thou dwellest, and so all Particulars also; and else, he were not a merciful High Priest as Man, if he knew not all our particular Straights as Man: He is the Bishop of Souls, and knows all his Flock himself: As Man he shall judge the World, and is ready to do it now, as Peter speaks; and therefore knows all that God hath done, or will do, or all Persons to be judged, All things are naked before him; (and that Him is Christ there,) with whom we have to do: And all these things he knows not by the hearsay of Angels, that are his Messengers sent by him, not to bring him Intelligence, but to execute his Will; them yet he imploys as Ministers for his Business: But he knows them all in himself, as he did that particular Matter then in Mark 5. 30.

See Lapide in Locum out of Molina.

Now let us see him in his Weakness, and emptying himself for a time in this respect: How ignorant was he of many things? As of the Day of Judgment, and of The Fig-tree, &c. Yea, ignorant of Letters and Learning This they spake of him that had cause to know him, his Kindred that lived in the same place, and therefore name his Condition and Calling, and they that knew his Sisters, Mark 6. 2, 3. spake thus of him, From whence hath this Man these things? And what Wisdom is this which is given to him? Is not this the Carpenter, (that hath lived always at his Trade, and wrought for us,) the Son of Mary, the Brother of James and Joses, and of Judas and Simon? And are not his Sisters here with us?

THANKFULNESS,

Which is due to GOD for His

Benefits and Bleſſings.

Pſal. 100. 4.

Be thankful to Him.

WHAT Thankfulneſs is, I will explain to you by theſe few Queſtions:

Firſt, How being thankful differs from glorifying God; for they are made to differ, Rom. 1. 21. They glorified not God, neither were thankful. Thankfulneſs being in the general taken as it is here, for the whole Duty of Man to God, is for ſubſtance all one, as to glorifie him; for in the ſame thing wherein we glorifie him, we alſo give thanks to him: And therefore Luke 17. 18. Chriſt ſpeaking of that Leper's Thankfulneſs, ſaith, None but he returned to give glory to God, that is, to be thankful to him. I know indeed, Thankſgiving is a peculiar Branch of God's Worſhip, when it is taken ſtrictly; but Thankfulneſs is larger, and extends it ſelf to all Duties, which when they are done to God, as an acknowledgment of his Mercies and our Love, they may be termed Thankfulneſs: And ſo, though in the ſame Duties wherein we glorifie God, we are thankful alſo; yet in ſeveral Conſiderations, and as coming from us upon ſeveral grounds, thoſe Duties are ſometimes called glorifying God, and ſometimes being thankful: As if a Friend, a Son, or a Servant, ſhould do all the ſame thing for a Man; in the Servant that Act might be called doing him Service; in the Son doing his Duty, and an Act of Obedience; and in the Friend a Kindneſs: So here we ſtanding towards God in all relations, and in regard of all thoſe Relations, Obedience being due to him as he is a Father; all that we do to him is called Honour, Mal. 1. 6. As he is a Maſter and Lord, it is called Fear in the ſame place; as he is a God, gracious, that loads us with Benefits, it is called Thankfulneſs; as he is a glorious God in himſelf, to whom Glory and Power is due, all is called glorifying him. Thus (Pſalm 50. 14, 15. 23.) Thankſgiving is put for his whole Worſhip, and glorifying him ſo many ways; and ſo in many Relations we are tyed in obedience unto God, as we can never want Motives to draw Obedience from us; and therefore

To come then to the Difference between theſe Two; God being ſo glorious a God, we are to do all to him, and for him, and obey him in all, and make him the end of all, which is called glorifying him. Suppoſe we were no way beholden to him, all this were a due to his Excellency and Glory, which might challenge it from us, might extort it, Pſal. 29. 2. Give unto the Lord the Glory due unto his Name; that alone would challenge all the Service, all the Praiſe that you do or could make to him; but now we all are upon a further ground, to do all to him, and for him, becauſe of all the many Mercies we receive from him: Now to return all in this relation, is called Thankfulneſs. To do all out of a ſenſe of his Excellency and Glory that is in himſelf, this is to glorifie him. But to do all out of a ſenſe of his Mercies to us, and our obligement unto him, this is Thankfulneſs: So that (Rom. 1. 21.) it is brought in as a further aggravation, that though the Gentiles did, as it is in the Verſe before, read many Characters of his glorious Power and Wiſdom in the Creation and Governing the World, (the Heavens declaring his Glory, Pſal. 19.) that though they knew this, yet they glorified him not, gave not the Glory which is due unto his Name; but, Secondly, Not only ſo, but though they knew they themſelves had all from him, and that he loaded them with Mercies; (ſo Acts 14. 17. ſpeaking of the Gentiles, he ſaith, that notwithſtanding their ignorance, yet God left not himſelf without witneſs, in that he did good, and gave us Rain from Heaven, and fruitful Seaſons, filling our Hearts with Food and Gladneſs: All which are Witneſſes and Teſtimonies of God's Love and Bounty) yet they, though they knew all this, and that they lived at his coſt, were diſobedient, and therefore their diſobedience is aggravated here by this, that they were Unthankful.

The Second Queſtion is, What Thankfulneſs is? It is a free rendring to God the Glory of his Goodneſs, principally to the end we may glorifie it, and teſtifie our love to him.

Firſt, It is a rendring, and in that Act doth the Nature of Thankfulneſs conſiſt, and hereby it is expreſs'd, and this Act hath reference and relation to ſomething received; if I give any one any thing never ſo freely, if it be not in relation to ſomething received from him, it hath not the nature of Thankfulneſs; it is giving not Thankſgiving, but when a Man begins firſt to conſider with himſelf, what he hath received from God, and upon that ground he returns an acknowledgment of the Mercy; that which he doth return to him is, Thankfulneſs; and this you may ſee in David, Pſal. 116. 12. What ſhall I render unto the Lord for all his Benefits toward me? Ye ſee how he conſiders the Benefits received, thinks what to return again, and upon what ground,

And therefore for Application, would you know whether you do all you do out of Thankfulneſs; I ask you, whether it is a rendring to God? That is, do you look upon God as the Author of all the good things you do enjoy? And thereupon, do you bring forth all your obedience, and look upon it when you have done, but as a rendring to God again, even as all the Rivers come from the Sea, and return to it again? So do your Hearts but as it were return to God, all you have firſt received from him; otherwiſe, if you ſhould do never ſo much for God, and not look upon it as a rendring to him, it were not Thankfulneſs if it came not from you upon that ground; for if you think in your Hearts, though never ſo ſecretly, that you have added any thing to him, if you think with your ſelves thus: Why have I not prayed? And I have faſted (as Iſa. 58. 2. they began to murmur:) Thus to glory in any thing, as if you had not received it, (1 Cor. 4. 7.) as Men are apt to do, and as they at the laſt day will do, who heap kindneſs upon Chriſt: Have we not propheſied in thy Name, and caſt out Devils? as if he were beholden to them: So Men think that God is beholden to them if they repent, and do think every thing they do for God to be a great matter; ſuch Popery is in Mens Hearts: This is not Thankfulneſs; but your behaviour, is as if you had given to him firſt: Whereas, ſays God, Job 41. 11. Who hath prevented him, that I ſhould repay him; that is, who is aforehand with me in any thing

he hath done: There were other thoughts in David when he gave so largely to the building of the Temple, 1 Chron. 29. 13, 14. We thank thee, saith he, Of thine own have we given thee; we have but rendred what was thine; given indeed it was, because willingly, ver. 14. but yet of thine own; so he looks upon it, and therefore it was Thanksgiving: For, says David, All things are of thee, even this my Thanksgiving, and all.

Secondly, It is a free rendring, and that is an essential property of Thanksgiving. What is restored must be restored willingly; if it be for slavish Fear, though a Man render never so much to God, it is Service not Thankfulness; for Thankfulness hath relation to Bounty, and consists in a likeness to it: Now one among many Conditions, as I observed in Bounty, was, that it should be free and willing; now therefore, therein Thankfulness must answer to it, as rendring must be done in relation to giving, as I said; so look how it is given, so it must be rendred; it is not Bounty unless it be freely given, it is not Thanks unless it be freely rendred, Matth. 10. 8. Freely you have received, freely give, as Christ saith in another case: Yea, Willingness is more required and looked at, than the Thing rendred in matter of Thanks: So it is also in Bounty; and so Paul makes it in the Bounty of the Saints to their Brethren, 1 Cor. 8. 10. That they began not only to do, but to be willing a Year agon; it is brought in as a greater matter than to do, Non tam effectus æstimatur quam affectus; and so in like manner in matter of Thanks, Non tam requiritur æqualitas rerum quam voluntatum, saith the School. The Woman that cast in her Mite, Christ says, had cast in more than they all, 'twas her freeness made it accounted so. Therefore David in the forenamed place, in rendring to God, put the Emphasis, Not in that he had rendred, but in that he had given so willingly; and after this sort. Wouldst thou know whether thou art truly thankful, or no? and desirest to be so, and to have it so taken? Look not only upon what thou hast rendred again to God, or how much, but how willingly; as, What willing Entertainment have all good Motions for God and the Advancement of his Glory in thy Heart? How came they off from thee? Dost thou follow thy Calling not willingly, but by constraint, as Peter speaks of Preachers, 1 Pet. 5. 2. because thou knowest not how else to live? Dost thou pray to God, but yet art haled to it by thy Conscience as a Beast to the Stake, to avoid a Whipping, by Conscience, that night thou omittest it? Then it is not out of Thankfulness. Dost thou keep in upon the Sabbath Day, and write and note the Sermon, and repeat it, but thinkest thy Master's House, or thy Study, a Prison all the while, and wouldst gladly be taking other Liberties, but that thy Tutor or Master commands thee otherwise; and all that while, thou lookest at them as thy Jailours? If so, thou art then unthankful, though thou rendrest and dost never so much for God.

Thirdly, The third thing to be considered concerning Thankfulness to God, is the thing which is to be rendred, and that is Glory; that thing thou rendrest must be such, as thou art sure his Glory doth arise out of it: So 2 Cor. 4. 15. That through Thanksgiving it may redound to the Glory of God: So saith the Apostle there, and that is it God looks for in thy Thanksgiving; and the word Redounding is to be observed, because all that we can do adds no essential Glory to God; it redounds to it only, and manifests it. The reason is, because nothing else will be accepted at thy Hands: It is an excellent Rule Aristotle hath, speaking of the Matter of Thankfulness: What is it to be rendred? It is Retributio superexcellenti, honoris, indigenti, Lucri; that is, if he be one who is far superiour above thee, and stands in need of nothing thou hast, then thy only and best way is to honour him all thou canst for his Bounty; restore Honour to him, and he looks for nothing else; but if he be one that stands in need, then thy best way to shew thy Thankfulness, is to recompence him some other way, give him of thy Substance, and relieve his Want: And now to this purpose, see what God himself says in Psal. 50. 12. If I were hungry I would not tell thee, (says God to the Formalist, who thought to please him with Sacrifice, with killing Oxen and Goats;) I have no need of thee; but instead of these, ver. 14 15. he says, Offer to me Thanksgiving, and glorifie me. So also, ver. 23. they are put together, Whoso offers Praise glorifies me; it is the Praise of his Glory that is to be rendred, if thou wilt shew thy self thankful; he doth not always require of thee again the things themselves which he hath given thee for the substance of them, but the glory of them all; all Comforts thou hast, he is content thou shalt enjoy them, and rejoice in them, so thou give him the glory of them all; Men equal to your selves you are thankful to, by giving them like for like; if they invite you, you invite them, but not so to God: Go thy ways therefore, as Solomon says, and eat thy Meat with a merry Heart, and rejoice with the Wife of thy Youth, only acknowledge thou hast all from him, and that he gave all; and return the Strength of all to do his Will; and thou giveſt Glory and Thanks to him, when thou uſeſt all to him, and for him: So Rom. 14. 6. To eat to the Lord is linked with giving Thanks.

Only I add this, That if the Glory of God need thy Wealth, and any thing thou hast, so as thou must part with them, or dishonour him; if the Lord need thy Ass, as Christ bad the Messenger tell him, (so doth God sometimes condescend to do,) then let him have all; let Goods, and Life, and all go, even the things themselves in such a case; so if the Profession of his Truth call for thy Life, let him have it; if his Honour calls for thy Credit, let him have it; so if his Church need thy Estate, or any Business whereby his Glory, Gospel, may be advanced and enlarged, let him have it freely.

But yet, Fourthly, This is to be limited in the Point of Thankfulness, to the Glory of his Goodness; it must be that which we principally render, when we give him and reflect upon him the glory of his Wisdom, Justice, Power, &c. we praise him in those Relations, but are thankful to him in relation of his Goodness only. There may be a rendring of Glory in the other, but yet it is simply a due in Justice; but when we do this in relation to the Goodness which is in him, it is a further thing, and is due upon a further ground. We honour and reverence many Men whom we are no way beholden to, and we are bound to do it; it is a Duty, and a Duty of Justice, and is called Observance: So Rom. 13. 7. Render to all their Dues, Honour to whom Honour, Tribute to whom Tribute. There you see, it is a Rendring, which is not Thankfulness, it being otherwise a due in Justice; but when being obliged to Men for the kindness and goodness that is received from them, we therefore honour them and serve them, this is Thankfulness: And so when upon that ground we honour God this is thankfulness, and therefore here it is made a distinct thing from glorifying of God; only this is to be added, That if at any time his Goodness be the ground and motive of giving him Glory, then, though we praise any other Attribute in him, or the effect of it, as set a-work by his Goodness, it may be termed Thankfulness: then it is Thanksgiving, when we praise the Lord for his Goodness, (as it is said, Psal. 107.) or when his Goodness is the ground of it in our Hearts, and it spring thence.

Fifthly, The Fifth Thing to be considered, are the Ends of Thankfulness, which must necessarily be added to all this, and they are Two: 1*st*, Principally to acknowledge that his Goodness; and, 2*dly*, To testifie our Love: Though we strive to render to him the Glory of his Goodness never so much, never so long, and never so many ways as ample as can be devised, yet if the end be not principally to glorifie it, and testifie our love, it is not Thankfulness; if it be with an Eye to reward, principally to hook more in, it is not Thankfulness, it is buying and selling rather; for Thankfulness still hath relation unto, and must resemble his Goodness and Bounty, and answer to it; now that is true Bounty which gives, looking for no Recompence, or not principally aiming at it: So Aristotle defines it, 2 Rhet. cap 7. Gratia est per quam gratis aliquid quis facit, non ut sibi quicquam subveniat, sed cui facit, Bounty doing a kindness freely, not to benefit themselves, but the Party it is done unto; and so God doth; for even the Thanks he looks for is for your good, Deut. 10. 13. therefore now, if you have Hearts truly thankful, all you do for the Glory of his Goodness, will principally be to glorifie that Goodness; and this was David's utmost End in that Thanksgiving of his, 1 Chron. 29. 13, 14. Now therefore, our God, we thank thee, and praise thy glorious Name. And what am I, that I should offer so willingly after this sort? praising God that he was able and willing to thank him, and to testifie his love. See the holy Disposition of this thankful Man; when he had earnestly and willingly lingly rendred unto God, his Thanks are his next Thoughts, when he had done; What Reward will God give me again? No: But he falls a praiſing God afreſh, that he was able to do what he did; and therefore, thus to glorifie God and thank him, this was in it ſelf his utmoſt end; therein he rejoiced more than in any thing elſe: So it is ſaid, ver. 17. I have ſeen it with joy, ſays he, and thou that knoweſt the Heart knoweſt I have done it in Uprightneſs, willingly; both are put in, not willingly only: So thoſe that do all for Reward, may be very willing and forward, but we muſt be thankful in Uprightneſs alſo, (that is,) principally arguing to glorifie God's Goodneſs; for therein lyes Uprightneſs of Heart principally; it lyes in our Ends which then are upright, when God is principally aimed at: David thought this the greateſt Mercy, that he was able to be thankful, though he ran moſt into debt when he went about to pay it.

I add and couple with this, this other End alſo, namely, that we ought to do all to teſtifie our Love, becauſe Love being the Spring and Root whence true Thankfulneſs ſprings; therefore his End, that is truly thankful, is to manifeſt that his Love; therefore in Pſ. 116. (which is a Pſalm made on purpoſe, and wherein David's Heart is exceedingly enlarged with Thankfulneſs for hearing his Prayer, that he knows not again what to render to him, v. 12.) he begins it thus: I love the Lord becauſe he hath heard my Prayer. He makes profeſſion of his Love to God for all the Love he had ſhewn him, as the ground of the enſuing Thankfulneſs; that being the thing that in his Thankfulneſs he would have God eſpecially take notice of, becauſe, he that knows what true Love is, knows that it deſires to be paid in its own Coin chiefly, and therefore receiving all from free Love, he endeavours to return all again out of free Love; his Obedience therefore comes not from him ſimply to ſatisfie a Debt of Thankfulneſs he owes, (as many Men do when they requite Kindneſſes, who return all but as a Debt, only to diſcharge themſelves of a Duty and Obligation they owe; and ſo do many Mens Conſciences diſcharge themſelves of Duties to God, and are glad they are ſoon done) but he as a thankful Man hath a further aim than ſimply to diſcharge a Debt of it, and to have it taken notice of that ſuch a thing is done, further to declare the willingneſs that was in his Heart when he did it; that eſpecially he deſires to ſhew, he hath a Deſign. As he takes notice of God's free Love principally to him in all, and thanks him for it more than for all the things he hath given him, ſo he deſires that God would regard his Love in it rather than the Performance, and rather deſires he ſhould take notice of it than reward him again.

Having thus defined what thankfulneſs is, I will add theſe few things, further to illuſtrate the Definition. If further you will ask, (which makes a third Queſtion,) What ways you are to ſhew your Thankfulneſs? I anſwer out of the Definition given: Look how many ways God may come, to have the glory of his Goodneſs from you; ſo many ways are you to ſhew your ſelves thankful: As,

Firſt, In acknowledging his meer Goodneſs in all, as the ground of all; which hath Two Things in it:

1ſt, That all ye are, or have, doth come from him, as David doth acknowledge 1 Chron. 29. 14, 15, 16. All (O Lord, as he confeſſeth there.) is of thine Hand, and is thine, not ours: For we in our ſelves are Strangers here, brought into the World, firſt made by thee, and therefore poſſeſs nothing but thy Gift, and therefore all is thine: And ſo Deut. 8. 17, 18. if thou haſt Wealth, ſay not, my Power or the Might of my Hand hath gotten me this Wealth; but remember the Lord thy God, for it is he giveth thee power to get Wealth, conſider, it is he beſtows all, which, becauſe we are apt to forget, he gives you a Memento to remember to aſcribe nothing to your ſelves, to get humble Hearts, to glory in nothing, as if we had not received, 1 Cor. 4. 7. to look on our ſelves, if we have more Wit, or Wealth, or Grace, but as the Purſe that hath more Money in it than another; but both, and Money and all is Gods'.

2dly, And alſo, we muſt not only thus acknowledge, that all we have is his, and from him, but alſo that all comes in meer goodneſs to us, and for nothing in us: So

David

David doth, 2 Sam. 7. 18. Where acknowlegding the reason why God gave him so much and not another, he says it was not for any difference in him; but for his words sake, which he had promised to David, and according to his own Heart had he done those great things; there were no other Motives but his Goodness, and what is in, and comes from himself out of his own Heart: He hath a great Heart, and therefore doth great things.

But, Secondly, We must not only acknowledge his meer Goodness, but also our own Unworthiness of any: This casts a further Shadow upon his Goodness, and as a Foil, further illustrates it; one that hath deserved to be cast out of Favour, is more bound to be thankful, than one that never offended: And therefore Jacob lays that as the Foundation, whereupon he reareth his Thankfulness, Gen. 32. 10. I am less than the least of thy Mercies; Where, 1*st*, he acknowledgeth, that every thing he now had was Mercy, 'twas not simply Bounty, as to Adam, but Mercy which adds to Bounty: 2*dly*, says he I am less than the least; take the least bit of Bread he did eat, even his Staff he was not only unworthy of it, but unworthier than it; always an humble Heart is a thankful Heart; study your own Baseness if you would be thankful.

Thirdly, This his Goodness and thy Baseness must not only be apprehended by thee and conceived in thy Heart, but it must be acknowledged in words, tho' it is necessary that our Hearts should be sensible of both: And accordingly, we are therein to bless God also, 1 Cor. 14. 16. we are to bless with our Spirits; all within me, says David, Psal. 103. 1, 2. The Heart and Affection within are the Instrument the Musick is made on; Thanks is called Melody, Eph. 5. 19. in the Heart; yet when the Heart is thus filled with a sense of God's Goodness and our Unworthiness, it must be acknowledged with the Tongue also; and Thanks is the Fruit of the Lips, Heb. 13. 15. and Calves of Lips, Hos. 14. 2. God's Praise is too big for the Heart; acknowledge all therefore privately in thy Prayers to God, and not only so, but also to others, Exod. 18. 8. When God had delivered the Israelites, Moses tells Jethro what he had done for them: David bids them come to him, and he would tell them what he had done for his Soul. Christ's reward of the Leper for healing him, was, Go, and tell what is done for thee. Instead of foolish jesting which our Mouths are full of, rather give Thanks, Eph. 5. 4. And if the Heart were full, the Mouth would be filled with Praise.

But yet, Fourthly, If we would shew our selves truly thankful, and give him the true glory of his Goodness, we must not think to render it in words only; but if the Glory of his Goodness may be any other way rendred, we must also endeavour to do it; for all we can do is too little: Therefore, Psal. 50. 23. he speaking of true Thankfulness says He that offereth Praise glorifieth me; and he adds, He that ordereth his Conversation aright, he offereth the truest Praise, and glorifies his Goodness most: The Mercies of God call for another Sacrifice besides the Calves of our Lips, Rom. 12. 1. I beseech you by the Mercies of God, that you present your Bodies, that is, your whole Man, a living, holy, and acceptable Sacrifice. Now because they might mistake him, he shews how they must sacrifice themselves, which is (says he) your reasonable Service. 1*st*, Dedicating themselves to his Service; and, 2*dly*, That Service squared to the Word; (for so the Words in the Original signifie,) This is better than sacrificing thy Thousand Rivers of Oil, yea or thy Life. Thus David in that famous Psalm of Thanksgiving, Psal. 116. resolves to walk before the Lord, ver. 8. that is, to order all his course, so as God might be glorified and advanced; and I will pay my Vows, ver. 14. that is, all the Covenants he had made: 1*st*, He resolved, that the Consideration of God's Mercies should quicken him to the performance of them, as his Vows in Sickness, Vows in Distress, Vows in Sacraments; and, ver. 16. I am thy Servant, that is, I dedicate my self for ever to thee, as one that owed him all he had or could do, every Man should think with himself, as that King concerning Mordecai: These and these Mercies I have received from God; But what have been done for him? As First, What Sins have I left? (for therein Thankfulness is to be shewn;) Sin no more, says Christ to him, that was healed: Shall I be so unthankful, so unkind?

kind? Shall I requite the Lord thus, to be unclean, to be negligent in my Calling, dead to Holy Duties? Do you thus requite the Lord? Who hath made you, establish'd you, deliver'd you? as Moses argues, Deut. 32. 6. So also, when a Man quickneth up his Heart to abound with Holy Duties, and says with himself, I have received more Wealth, Wit, Credit, than others, what therefore shall I do for him more than others? When a Man considers, the Sins God hath pardoned, the Prayers God hath heard, the long time in the World God hath given him, and thinks he owes him his Life for every Mercy, even as long as I live, says David, Psal. 116. 21. A thousand Lives if he had them, tho' he should never receive more Mercy, yet for those he hath had, I am thy Servant, says David, ver. 16. For thou hast loosed my Bonds, and therefore I will enter into new Bonds to serve thee; looking on every Mercy as a new Indenture betwixt God and him. When a Man repeats God's Mercies over, and every one of them makes his Soul to bleed for his Sins, as Nathan did to David, to cause him to mourn: Have I given thee thy Master's House, and Wife, and wilt thou serve me thus? This is to be thankful even in mourning for Sin.

Fifthly, A Fifth way to shew Thanks, is, to honour God with thy Substance, Prov. 3. 9. to do good with thy Gifts, to profit others, 1 Cor. 12. 7. to spend thy Sweetness and thy Fatness for the good of God and Man, and to consecrate all thy Learning, Wit, Wealth, to God, to use, and call for, and command, as if they were his own; this is to be thankful: And for this purpose, consider how much of their Estates the Jews under the Ceremonial Law, bestowed upon God and Holy Uses, besides their Yearly Tyths they payed, First-Fruits, brought Sacrifices and Offerings upon all occasions; these you are freed from; but yet thou art oblig'd to do good to his Saints, either their Souls or Bodies, with that thou hast received; as David did require, if none of Jonathan's Seed were alive, he might shew Kindness unto, 2 Sam. 2. 9. So do thou say, where is a poor Saint I may do good unto, whose Bowels of Soul or of their Bodies I may refresh? And do it as God hath enabled thee: If thou hast not Gold or Silver, yet such as thou hast, give them, as Peter did, and as Christ bad them, Matth. 10. 8. They having received their Gifts freely of Healing and Preaching, freely gave; and do all this, to this end, that others may thank God for thee, more than thank thee, which is Paul's Motive to their Bounty, 2 Cor. 9. 11, 12. You being enriched (says he) to all Bountifulness, which causeth through us Thanksgiving to God, and you to rejoice, that others are set a-work to glorifie God's Goodness in thee, by thine to them; for that should be the main Motive, as appears by his following words: For hereby, says he, not only the want of the Saints is supplied, (which Pity may cause you to do,) but furthermore it is abounding by many Thanksgivings to God.

The fourth Question is, For what you must give Thanks, and be Thankful; I answer, All things: For, look how far his Goodness reaches, so far our Thanks should; now his Goodness runs through all things, so we must give Thanks for all, Eph. 5. 20. 1 Thes. 5. 18. in all, and for all; that is, in all things, so far as God's Goodness is seen in them; and so even for Afflictions, as they come out of love and faithfulness, Psal. 119. and are appointed and ordered for our good, though in themselves they are not to be thanked for: So Job blesseth God in the midst of all; for he found God blessing him in them; for as we love not God but he loves us first, so neither can we bless him till he blesseth us. Praise him for all his Dealings; for though thou seest not how they are all Mercy, and Truth; yet thou shalt see them to be so in the end.

Praise him for Temporal Mercies; every Creature is to be received with Thanksgiving.

Magnifie him for Mercies past, as well as those to come; eaten Bread must not be forgotten, but praise him especially for Spiritual, Eph. 1. 3. for these do sweeten all the other; and his Goodness is more seen in these: Bless him for his giving Christ for thee, and thee to Him, and Him to thee, and all Things with Him.

For publick Mercies also, as well as private; as of all Duties, Thankfulness become you most who are Saints, Psal. 33. 1. So to be thankful for publick Mercies to the State you live in, is especially expected of you: For godly Men have publick Spirits, and also publick Mercies are principally intended by God for you; for all things are yours, the World, all Deliverances and Peace which a People have, 1 Cor. 3 last Verses; and publick Mercies redound more to God's Glory, 2 Cor. 4. 15. and your first Petition is, Hallowed be thy Name: So also be thankful for Mercies to come, as David praiseth God for the great Things laid up in store for those that fear him, Psal. 31. 19. as well as those he had then wrought for them. So also David praiseth God, 1 Sam. 7. 17, 18, 19. for the long time to come, that he had promised to his Seed the Kingdom, as a greater Matter than his present injoying it.

The fifth Question you will ask, When we are to be thankful? I answer, At all times: For, look what time his Goodness is extended, which is at all times, then also must thy Thankfulness be returned; therefore that is added, Eph. 5. 20. Always, and for all things: As he said to the Queen, that when she left giving, he would leave begging: So, I say, when God leaves giving, then leave thou shewing thy self thankful to him; but his Mercies are renewed every moment, as the Rivers are as continually running to the Sea, as they are from it; so let thy Thanks flow to him, as his Mercies always flow to thee; all his Works are for ever; and so his Works of Mercy, and every one, is to be thanked for ever: If thou hadst received no more but thy Creation, if he gives thee Being and Life, resolve to be thankful whilst thou hast a Being, as David, Psal. 104. 33. I will praise him as long as I live, and whilst I have any Being. As Sin is an eternal Guilt, so every Mercy is an eternal Obligation; as they therefore are ever punish'd in Hell, because they can never pay the utmost Farthing, so we in Heaven shall be thankful ever; because we can never be thankful enough, he loads us with Benefits daily, Psal. 68. 19. Therefore we should praise him daily, as David, Psal. 71. 15. resolves to do.

The last Thing to be added, is, That look in whom God shews and extends his Goodness, in and through him give you Thanks, and return the Glory of it, and that is Jesus Christ: So Eph. 5. 20. for Thanks are Sacrifices, called the Fruits of the Lips, and Calves of your Lips, Heb. 13. 15. that is, they are instead of those Sacrifices and Offerings of Fruits under the Law, therefore bring them to the Priest to offer (as Heb. 13. 15.) for you must offer nothing without a Priest: Again, All is from God, through Christ, and therefore return all to God through him also, and give thanks for him above all, for he is all in all.

And so now in the last place, I will shew you the causes of true Thankfulness, which you may take, and consider, as helps to it: And they are,

First, A true consideration of God's Benefits received by us, which must of necessity be done, or else there can be no true Thankfulness, as ignoti Cupido nulla, so Gratiæ nullæ pro ignotis: So then you must labour to know them, and that they are yours, Psal. 139. 14. I will praise thee, saith David, for thy wonderful Works, which my Soul knows right well; that is, makes full consideration of them, which makes me thankful therefore; for want of this, unreasonable Creatures are uncapable of Thankfulness, because of Understanding, and yet wicked Men are worse; for Isa 1. 3. The Ox knoweth his Owner that feeds him, but my People do not consider; that is, regards not, takes no notice of, and into consideration the great things I have done for them. And therefore Deut. 32. 6. their Unthankfulness is ascribed to Folly, A foolish People and unwise, Stultus semper est ingratus: Therefore get a Heart that takes notice of every Mercy; if thou prayest, watch how God doth answer thy Prayers, Col. 4. 2. Watch in Prayer with Thanksgiving; as if he had said, Still see how many Requests God grants; Watch to see how your Prayers come in, and it will afford much and plentiful Matter of Thankfulness; to this end, take notice of small Mercies as well as great; that is a true sign of a thankful Heart, and a means to encrease Mercies. In every Passage of the Day, in every Petition of thy Prayers, thou seest Mercy, and an Answer; God takes this kindly at thy Hands, and he sees that none is lost; it is a Motive to him to give thee more; it is a sign thou art little in thine own Eyes, when every small Mercy is great to thee, as it was to Jacob. Forget not all his Benefits, saith David, Psal. 103. 1. not all, not one if it were possible; as when we would work our Hearts to godly Sorrow, we use to go over particular Sins; so if we would work our Hearts to Thankfulness, go over particular Mercies, and labour to take notice of them, and know them; so also remember them, which is but an iteration of Consideration: And indeed this is so necessary, that Forgetfulness is put for Unthankfulness; and so David, Psal. 103. lays a solemn Charge upon his Soul, My Soul, forget not all his Benefits: He doth give himself a charge to remember them. And we had need have a charge laid on us to do this; for nothing sooner waxeth old than Kindnesses; Injuries are written on our Hearts with a Pen of Iron, but Mercies are written as in Water, Psal 106. 13. They soon forgat his Works; as Pharaoh's Butler forgat Joseph, so we forget God.

Secondly, A second help and cause of Thankfulness, is a true esteem and valuation of God's Mercies, which is to be added to the other: And to this end, we are to consider the greatness, and the number, and all the aggravations of them; for some Circumstances in Mercies make them great. When Paul would express his great thanks, 2 Cor. 9. That thing which he gives thanks for, he calls unspeakable. And in 1 Thess. 3. 9. What Thanks shall I give, saith he, for all the Joy we have for your sakes before God? He thought it so great a Mercy, as no Thanks were great enough, the Gift so unspeakable, that as his Groans in Prayer, so in Thanks also were unutterable. Now if you would have such large Hearts, get a large Esteem of God's Mercies. See how Ezra esteemed the Mercy shewed his People, Chap. 9. 13. Such a Mercy as this: So think thou of the peculiarness of every Mercy to thee, how God hath not dealt so with others of thy Brethren, as he in the Psalm, not so with any Nation; to this purpose also, cast up the number of them. So David did, Psal 40. 5. Thy Thoughts (speaking of thoughts of Mercy,) are more than I can reckon up to thee: So Psal. 71. 15. I will praise thee always, for I know not the number of thy Mercies: And add to that a right esteem of thine own Vileness, that thou deservest nothing, but art less than the least; and then every Mercy will be Mercy indeed; nothing hinders Thankfulness more than Pride. Hezekiah rendred not because his Heart was lifted up, 2 Chron. 32. 25. for a proud Man thinks every thing is due to him; but a Beggar is thankful for a Penny. The People of Israel having proud Hearts, thought scorn of the good Land, Psal. 106. 24. thought it not good enough for them who were too bad for Hell; we have nothing but this Manna, say they, yet it was Angels Food, and came from Heaven without their Labour; and take heed of contemning these Mercies thou enjoyest, which because thou hast not what thou wouldst have, thou art apt to do; there is no Mercy almost here, which in this Life is a pure Mercy, but something is wanting still, because indeed in our Works unto God, there is still something wanting, and we are wayward Creatures; and because things do not come off adequately to our Minds, and so fully as we would have them, we therefore undervalue them. Such pievish things are our Lusts, that unless all be pleased, none are pleased.

Thirdly, There must be added to this a sense of God's Love to your Persons in every Mercy, or at leastwise there must be a Heart in thee that seeks after that Love in and above all other Mercies, and rests not in them without it: And such a Heart only is a thankful Heart. For, if the Heart be jealous of the want of his Love in all he gives, it will not be thankful, as the Children of Israel were not, they thought God brought them out of Egypt to destroy them; and therefore murmured rather than gave thanks: And if the Heart be not sensible of God's Love, great Mercies are little worth to us; for Love is that which makes them Mercies. A Dinner of Herbs in love, is better than a stalled Oxe without love. As when thou sittest down with a great Man, whose Heart thou fearest is not with thee, as Prov. 23. thou wilt have no great Heart to thank him for his Cheer: So also, if thou fearest that God's Heart is not with thee; therefore Psal. 63. 3. David makes this the ground of his Praise, because he tasted his loving Kindness to be better than Life; neither is it requisite only, that the Heart should know that the Mercies come from God, but also that they come out of Love. The Gentiles knew, that all they had was from him, Acts 14.17. He left not himself without Witness, but they tasted not his Love in all as better than Life, and so were unthankful; therefore get Faith and Assurance of his Love in all, and that will make every Mercy a great Mercy, because flowing out of an eternal Love in Christ, so Col. 2. 7. Be you rooted and built up in Christ, and established in the Faith, abounding with Thanksgiving; and then every Dinner of Herbs, yea, every Cross, is interpreted in Love, and made a Love-Token; all his Ways accounted Mercy and Truth.

Fourthly, A fourth Help to Thankfulness, is Love again to God, which is wrought by the sense of his Love: This is necessary, for Love is the Ground-Song of this Melody, as the Apostle calls it: Therefore David makes it the Foundation of all his Thankfulness, Psal. 116. 1. and so Psal. 18. 13. for Love inlargeth the Heart, and it is the very Form and Essence of Thankfulness, and therefore the chiefest Cause of it; and therefore contrarily, Self-Love is the greatest hindrance of it; and also Love to the Creature hinders it too, for Self-Love keeps all to it self, and improveth all to it self, it contracteth the Heart, therefore in 2 Tim. 3. 3. it is said Men shall be Lovers of themselves, and because such, therefore unthankful also, that follows, for that makes them content to take all Kindnesses, but to return none; and therefore that Goodness in Nature, (as we call it in Men) which makes them thankful is but so much Ingenuity, as restraining Grace hath gained from Self-Love, and so likewise Love to the Creatures if Inordinate is an hindrance, Nullum habet malum cupiditas majus quam quod ingrata est, for like Dogs that are greedy, cast one Sop to them they swallow it down, and then look you on the Face for another; so do Men possest with Lusts.

Fifthly, A fifth Help is Joy in God's Goodness, as when Hanah praised God for Samuel, 1 Sam. 2. 1. she begins her Song thus, My Heart rejoyceth in the Lord: When you entertain God's Blessings with fulness, you cannot give Thanks for them; therefore upon Days of Thanksgiving, a liberal use of the Creature is allowed us, in the 8th of Nehemiah; for the Joy of the Lord is your Strength; for Joy dilateth the Heart and opens the Mouth, turns it and winds it up; and so Luke 1. 46, 47. My Soul magnifieth the Lord, and rejoyceth in God my Saviour: And David also, when he gave Thanks, 1 Chron. 29. 17. he rejoyced exceedingly that day; only you must joy in God's Goodness; for if you carnally rejoyce in the Creature, Spiritual Joy is damped, and then Thanksgiving is damped also, Deut. 8. 10, 11. Lest thou being full and forget me: They in the 14th of the Acts, verse 17. had their Hearts fill'd with Gladness, but yet walked in their own Ways, because it was Gladness in the Creature, not in God: Preserve Spiritual Joy therefore, and delight thy self in the Almighty.

Sixthly, We freely render to God the Glory of Goodness, by acknowledging his Goodness and our Baseness, and by yielding our selves, and all we have to his Service, and in all things, at all times principally to this end to glorifie that his Goodness, and to testifie our Love; and all this to the Name of Christ.

Use. The first Use is to exhort you to this Duty of Thankfulness, unto which, as you have the greatest Motive drawn from the Object of it, the Riches of God's Goodness (of all Cords the Cords of Love are the sweetest) so also from the Goodness and Excellency of the Duty it self; which, indeed, hath all kinds of Goodness met in it; for all good things the Philosopher reduceth to three Heads, 1. Things honest. 2. Things profitable. 3. Things pleasant, and all these three met in this Duty, a perfect Trinity of Goodness; so you have 147 Psalm. Praise the Lord, for it is good, that is it is profitable, so Rom. 5. 7. and it is pleasant, and praise is comly; and therefore by the rule of Contraries, all kind of Evil is contained and met in unthankfulness; to which, even the very Heathen bear witness, ingratum si dixeris, omnia dixeris, all Evil is spoken in this one word, viz. Unthankfulness.

First,

First, Thankfulness to God, is most profitable, 1. Because it is the way to get more, and unthankfulness is the way to lose all we have: Therefore Phil. 4. 6, 7. Let your Requests be made known with thanksgiving, otherwise Requests alone will not move God; it is not earnestness only, for what thou wantest, but withal Thanks for what thou hast, must prevail; as you use to put Water into the Pump to fetch more, so return Thanks to fetch more Mercies; whereas the want of Thankfulness, and returning all to God again, forfeits all the Blessings you have, Deut. 28. 47, 48. because you served not the Lord with Gladness of Heart in abundance of all things, you shall serve your Enemies in wrnt, &c. Enemies are opposed to God a bountiful Master; Abundance to Penury, and Gladness to Grief and Sorrow of Heart; great odds you see therein, yet this Unthankfulness brings Hos. 2. 14. I will take my Corn away, says God, when they were unthankful.

Secondly, It is profitable, because even the Creature and Blessings you have, are blest to you by it, and thereby made good, 1 Tim. 4. 4. the Creatures are good if received with Thanksgiving; mark it, he puts in that (if) for otherwise God's Curse goeth with them, which Thankfulness removed.

The second thing is, it is pleasant also both to God and Man, 1. Pleasant to God, Eph. 5. 18, 20. sing Psalms, making Melody to God in your Hearts, giving Thanks, for that is the Ditty: So Ps. 69. 30, 31. I will magnifie the Lord with Thanksgiving this shall please the Lord better th n an Ox or Bullock. As it is pleasant to God, so 2dly to Man, for Joy is always the ground of it; we never thank God truly, but our Hearts are warmed with his Love, and we rejoyce in him; therefore Luke 1. 46, 47. When Mary praised God, she said, My Spirit doth magnifie the Lord, and rejoyce in God my Saviour; and as Joy is the ground of it, so the Consequent and the Issue of it: When you thank God most heartily, then God fills your Hearts with Peace: So Phil. 4. 6, 7. Let your Requests be made known with thanksgiving, and the Peace of God shall rule your Hearts: Christians find it so, and those Blessings are sweetest to them, which they are most thankful for, that are won with Prayers, and worn with Thanks. Lastly, It is also comly, for it is paying a Debt, 2 Thes. 1. 3. We are bound, and it is meet to give Thanks (says Paul there) it is all God requires, and all we can do. So in the 2 Sam. 7. 19, 20. when he had repeated those great Mercies, and now, O Lord (says he) what can thy Servant say more, it was all he could do, he could but thank him, and out of Thankfulness serve him, and this is all God requires, 1 Thes. 5. about the 18 v. This is the Will of God concerning you Therefore as it is comely, as being the giving but a due, and less than his due, and yet all we can; so also honourable, yea, more honourable than praying is, præstantius est dare quam accipere; so to return than begg; therefore the Service of the World to come, and of Angels in Heaven is set forth by this.

Secondly, By way of use then let me shew you your Unthankfulness to God, and let you see what Unthankfulness is; I will briefly set it forth to you in three Degrees of it, which I will apply to you: The first Degree of Unthankfulness is, 1. When you want true Thankfulness, in expressing your Thankfulness, as when you want the true Grounds and Ends of it; among Men there is no greater falshood and dissemblance than in the matter of Thankfulness one to another, and much more to God; there are often the Matter, the Duties, the Tokens, the Expressions of it, both in Word and Deed, when as yet the Life and Soul of Thankfulness is wanting, for as you pray amiss, (as James says) so also you may be Thankful amiss: See you an Example for this, Luke 18. 11. I thank God (says the Pharisee) I am not like other Men: Here is one outwardly thankful, when yet he wanted the Power of true Thankfulness; for he gave not God the Glory of what he was, but in his Heart took it himself; he rendred an Acknowledgment indeed, as unto God, but yet gloried, as if he had not received it from him: Some Men will commend their own Worth and Gifts to others, by way of Thankfulness to God, when they aim more at glorifying themselves than glorifying of him.

So also when Men are thankful for Mercies, which indeed they have not received from God, nor have no Assurance and Evidence of; it is an ordinary thing for Men give to Thanks for Election, and the Work of Grace, Grace, when inwardly their Hearts tell them, they have no Aſſurance of neither; to thank God for Mercies you have not, is to mock him, as the other gloried in what he had received, as if he had not received it; ſo ſome give Thanks for what they have not received, as if they had received it.

So alſo when Men ſeem to be thankful, and ſay, we bleſs God for the Means of Grace, and bleſſed Preaching we live under, and for the Company of God's People, and yet their Hearts are affected more with a value, and eſteem of their Corn, and Wine, and Oil; and of their Quails more than Manna; all this is Unthankfulneſs. So when Men ſeem to be very ſtirring for God, forward of Duties, and fearful of Injuries and Wrongs to him, and yet do not this out of Thankfulneſs; this is Unthankfulneſs when it is not his Goodneſs they fear moſt in abſtaining from Sin, as Hoſ. 3. 5. They forbear not wronging him becauſe he hath been kind to 'em, not becauſe the Love of God and his Goodneſs conſtrains them to Duties, neither is that they do for him in relation to what is paſt, and what he hath done for them; but ſtill they look to things to come only, what Dependances they have on him, conſidering rather how they are in his Danger than in his Debt, not ſo much to requite him, who hath done ſo much for them; but leſt he ſhould reward them for all they have done againſt him, if in this Caſe, and on theſe Grounds only, you ſhould offer Rivers of Oil to him, and give your Bodies to be burnt for him, yet you might be termed Unthankful; Thankfulneſs hath no greater End than it ſelf; as when a Man looks upon God, as one who hath ſaved him from hanging in Hell, and one he owes his Life unto, and ſo would be content to do or ſuffer any thing for him upon this Ground, and is glad if God will but uſe him or call him to either, is greedy of Opportunities of rendring to him, and glad of an occaſion wherein he may ſhow himſelf to love him. Is thankful for nothing more than that; He is able to do any thing that pleaſeth him, and may be accepted; this Man is a thankful Man; ſo much of this as you have in your Hearts, ſo much Thankfulneſs you have; that Man, who endeavours to quicken up his Heart, and ſays, I have received theſe and theſe Mercies more from God than any of my Equals, as Paul did, more Wit and Parts, and Learning, and Credit, and Opportunities, what ſhall I therefore do for him more than other Men? And ſo ſerves him; this is a thankful Man.

The ſecond Degree of Unthankfulneſs I would convince you of, is much more than the former, viz. not rendring at all; not only rendring amiſs, but not rendring at all, or not in any proportionable meaſure to the Mercies received. Herod had received much aſſiſtance in the making an Eloquent Oration, and God had made it take, but he gave not Glory to God; that was his Sin, he rendred not again; and ſo Hezekia's, a good Man, he had received a great Mercy, he had the Leaſe of his Life renewed for 15 Years, and of his Kingdom with it, and a deliverance from Zenacharib; and this, at that time, when the reſt of the Tribes were carried away Captive, and had a Miracle wrought for his ſake which made him famous all the World over; namely, the going back of the Sun; and which made him to be thought dear to the God of Heaven, who, beyond the Courſe of Nature, lengthened the Day to ſhow he meant to lengthen his Life; yet 2 Chron. 22. 25. he is taxed, that he rendred not again according to the Benefit done unto him; his Heart was not wrought upon to be ſo much better after ſo great a Mercy, according to that proportion which might be expected; and ſo Solomon is taxed for this kind of Ungratitude, 1 Kings 11. 9. God had been exceeding merciful unto him, not only in giving him the Kingdom, though a younger Brother, but in appearing unto him, and aſſuring him thereby of his Love, and Acceptation of him, that he was his God. Now, ſays the Text, by way of Aggravation of his Sin, He turned away from the Lord his God, 1 Kings 11. 9. who had appeared unto him twice. Is there any Man here had often Appearings from God? (for when after any extraordinary manner he draws nigh to you, it may be ſo called) And have not your Hearts been turned more to God after? Then theſe Appearings will be ſet upon your Score of Unthankfulneſs; ſo have you had much coſt beſtowed on you, much Means by the Lord of the Harveſt, and Dreſſer of the Ground, and have you not brought forth meet Fruits, not only Fruits but meet

Fruits,

Fruits, Heb. 6. 7. you may be called unthankful Persons, because you render not again according to the Benefits.

So it is Unthankfulness when Christians are always whining and complaining, and discontented, for what they want, but never praising God for what they have, still a begging more, not considering what is past; indeed in Duties, you are to look to what is before, and not to what is behind, but contrary in Mercies, to what is past more than to what is to come, and if so much as you fall short in rendring as you might, so much Unthankfulness, much more are they unthankful that render not according to the Benefit received; but not at all, as many do not, but do take all they can get from God, but he gets nothing of them again; they have Houses to dwell in of his building, but pay him no Rent, pray not to him nor worship him in their Families, and so as to make a Church in their Houses; have Credit in the World, and Interest in Men's Hearts, but are loth to spend never so little of it for God and a good Cause, and to make use of their Interest in Men for his Advantage, but improve all to their own Ends only; that have Power put into their Hands (which the Apostle says is God's, and from him) and yet do not think with themselves how to employ it best for him, in the suppressing of any Sin, or the advancing of his Gospel; have Bodies and Souls that are of his buying and finding, but yet endeavour not to glorifie God with either, as Paul exhorts upon that ground in 1 Cor. 6. 20. do not begin to say in their Hearts as God taxeth them, Jer. 5. 24. Let us fear the Lord who giveth Rain, both the former and the latter in their Season: Nay, pay him not so much as good Words for all his Mercies, much less study not how to render, and to be really thankful; nay, Sacrifice to their own Nets, Hab. 1. 16. and say in their Hearts, their Wit, and Power, and Industry hath got 'em; their Wealth and their Learning (Deu. 8. 14. 17.) they think hath got them their Credit; their Friends have got them their Preferment; all these are unthankful Persons; the Earth rendreth Fruit to him that dresseth it, the Clouds return the Rain they receive from the Earth, the Rivers empty themselves into the Sea, from whence they had their Streams; the Body of Man returns to the Earth whence it was taken, and the Spirit to God that gave it, only in your Hearts, and in your Lives, you return nothing again to the Glory of God's Goodness.

The third and highest Degree of Unthankfulness is not only rendring or not rendring at all, but requiting and rendring Evil and Disobedience for the Good received, which is the highest Degree of Unthankfulness; such was in the Children of Israel, and is in all impenitent Persons, who, Luke 3. 35. are called Evil and Unthankful: So Nehe. 9. 25, 26. They took strong Cities, and a fat Land, and possessed Houses full of all Goods, &c. and did eat, and were filled, and delighted themselves in thy great Goodness; nevertheless they were disobedient, and rebelled against thee, and cast thy Law behind their Back, and kill'd the Prophets, and wrought great Provocations. So Jesurun waxed fat and kicked, Deut. 32. 15. like full fed Heifers, who, when fat and lusty, kick at the Owner when he comes to yoak them for his Service.

Thus David's Sin is aggravated, tho' a good Man, 2 Sam. 12. 7, 8. Did not I anoint thee King, and deliver thee from Saul, and gave thee thy Master's House and Wives, and if this had been too little, would have given thee more? For God makes one Mercy the Foundation of a greater; And why hast thou despised the Commandment of the Lord? Why hast thou used me thus, and set light by me? Is this thy Requital? This is the Case of all impenitent Persons, whom God out of the Riches of his Patience affords time to live here, as space to repent; yet this his Patience puts them from Repentance, and in the end Repentance so far off from them, that they can never meet, Eccles. 8. 11. Because Sentence against an evil Work is not presently executed, therefore their Hearts are set to do Evil: Because God defers punishing and cutting them off, they defer repenting, going on in Hardness of Heart, despising the Riches of his Patience, which leadeth them to Repentance: Delayers of Repentance are unthankful Persons; therefore in the highest degree, they think to spend the best and most precious of their Youth, and to live in Pleasures, and give God the Dregs and the last Sands when the Glass is run, neither would they then repent, but that they needs must; and will it be accepted thinkest thou? no.

All the Blessings God in the mean time vouchsafeth them, they have used them against him, and they increase but the Fire of their Lusts, as God complains, Ezekiel 16. from the 15, and so on, Thou takest my Gold and Silver (so God calls them) and makest Idols of them: So I may say of all your covetous Worldlings, God's Silver and Gold you have made Idols of, & fallen down and worshipped them, and sacrificed all unto them, and v. 19. My Meat I gave thee: Thou art a Glutton, thou hast sacrificed to thy Lusts, made thy Belly thy God, that Strong Drink and Wine God gave thee thou hast sacrificed to Drunkenness, that Strength to Women, consumed all on thy Lusts (as James speaks) the Wealth you have had, which you should serve God with, you have but made use of it to live at a higher rate of Sinning, and procuring the sweetest and daintiest of Pleasures, and the daintiest and comliest Sins; that Wit thou hast had, thou hast used it not in giving Thanks, which the Apostle rather commands, Eph. 5. but in foolish Jests abusing the Scripture, mocking his Saints; that Power & Preferment thou hast is made use of by these perhaps to persecute God's Children & Ministers. So also thy Body that God hath at a dear Rate bought, thou hast dishonoured him with, & made the Members of it, Members of a Harlot; thou hast Eyes full of Adultery, & thy Strength to pour down Drink; nay, thou canst not give him so much as a good word, but hast his Name up in every Company, prophaning it by swearing, &c. art thou not unthankful? God by giving these Blessings, hath made thee more able to offend him, hath strengthened an Enemy, and by sparing thee so long, hath but made thee more bold to do it, and daring in it, and all his Mercies have but fortified thy hard Heart to hold out Siege against him, all the Creatures he set to woo thee to him, have got thy Love away from him themselves. Do you requite the Lord thus, O ye foolish and unkind, as Moses expostulates the Case, Deut. 32. 6. as Christ said, For which of these good Works do you stone me: So I say, for which of all his Mercies do you go on thus to sin against him? What, to fight against him with his own Weapons, his own Strength, to betray all he gives thee into thy Enemies Hands, what can be worse? What Iniquity have you ever found in him? When did he ever do you any Hurt?

God will one Day expostulate his Cause with you, and heap Coals of Fire upon your Heads if you turn not, because you rendred him Evil for Good; all the Mercies abused will be so many more Coals to make Hell Fire the hotter, and therefore all of you consider what good Things you have received, and enjoy from the Lord, and how unthankful you have been, and humble your selves and turn to him, for know, that nothing will condemn you more than sinning against Light and Mercies.
